Don's IGA selling to Heartland Supermarkets

By DD TURNER
Managing Editor

After more than 60 years in Big Spring, Don's IGA is being sold to Heartland Supermarkets Inc. of Oklahoma City.

The store will be closed for inventory on June 14 and Kent Newsom said the new operators will have it open for business as soon as possible. Being sold are the Big Spring IGA stores and the Value King Store in Snyder.

"We are selling to one of the largest food wholesalers and grocery store operators in the world - Heartland Supermarkets Inc.," said Newsom. "These folks are very capable operators and are suppliers to approximately 50 other IGA operators in West Texas."

The Newsoms and Heartland had been in negotiations for nearly three months before the deal was culminated.

"It was a good business opportunity for us," said Newsom. "Although we will be sad not to be selling groceries in Big Spring, after 60 years, it is time to move on."

Newsom added it his understanding the operators will retain most, if not all, of the current employees of the stores.

Jack Newsom started the first store in 1933 and there has been at least one store in Big Spring since that time.

Newsom said Don Newsom will be retiring and that he will be moving onto other business opportunities.

"Don and I want to thank all the folks in this area for supporting us over the past 60 years. We've enjoyed doing business in this community," said Newsom.

City to develop cleanup plan

By CARLTON JOHNSON

The controversy surrounding the cleanup efforts in the canyon behind the First Church of the Nazarene were discussed by Pastor Gary Smith as he addressed the City Council Tuesday night.

Cleanup opinions - 4A

Prior to Smith's address to the council, City Manager Gary Fuqua said the city is in the process of putting together a plan to include horticulturalists, biologists, members of the city, Big Spring's Proud Committee, bird watchers, and the Big Country Resource and Conservation District. The plan is to help avoid removing or destroying habitat or plant life that should be left alone.

"What we're trying to do is develop a plan on what we want to do and how we want to do it," Fuqua said.

He added the plan will be presented to the council when it is completed and a public hearing will be requested so people can address the issue.

Fuqua said, "Hopefully we can clear up some misconceptions about the cleaning program."

The cleanup of the canyon along Pennsylvania and Lancaster streets, north and west of the First Church of the Nazarene, has created a controversy after neighbors complained. Church officials have asked that the work be done. Residents attended the Big Spring City Council meeting to discuss the issue, both pro and con.

Some residents unsatisfied with explanation

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Not all residents living in the Pennsylvania area near the canyon behind the First Church of the Nazarene are completely satisfied with the explanation that most of the property cleaned by the prisoners is church-owned.

Carla Bower lives in the area and said she purchased her property because of the canyon and the view it offered her, including trees, birds, and vines.

"That's the only reason I'm there," Bower told the City Council Tuesday night. "I'm not a part of any petition, but I just want everyone to look at it both ways."

A man representing the First Church of the Nazarene added the problem is that people are worried prisoners are in their midst doing the cleanup.

Pastor Gary Smith said he believes in justice being served, and prisoners should repay society and their victims.

"In communicating with these prisoners, I find they are human beings in need of help,"

Smith said. "We (the church) fed them in the name of the Lord on May 18, and we plan to do it again before they leave."

According to city officials, the inmate work program is providing the city with more than $1 million in free labor, and the inmates are non-violent offenders near the end of their sentences.

First Church of the Nazarene members also said if prisoners aren't allowed to work themselves back into society, the purpose of being locked up is defeated.

Honeymoon robber pleads guilty

By KELLIE JONES

A man accused of robbing a local motel to help finance his honeymoon has pled guilty to the charge in district court.

Allen Ray Martin, 38, of Ventura, Calif., entered the plea Tuesday afternoon and was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice for aggravated robbery.

District Attorney Rick Hamby said charges against Martin's wife, Rhonda Gale Martin, 37, are still pending. She remains held in the Mitchell County jail. She was transferred to that facility because there are no facilities to house women in the Howard County jail.

The couple was arrested Feb. 19 after reportedly robbing a clerk at the Great Western Motel. Allen Martin pointed a .38 revolver at the employee, demanded money and fled the scene with his wife.

Descriptions of the suspects and their vehicle were dispatched to local authorities. The couple was arrested after a sheriff's deputy spotted the vehicle traveling east on Interstate 20.

The Martins are suspected of robbing several other motels including ones in Odessa, Midland and Carlsbad, N.M.

Democrats bitter about Clinton's proposed budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats, not Republicans, are reacting most bitterly to President Clinton's 10-year balanced-budget plan in a stark display of the conflicting priorities that exist between the administration and its erstwhile congressional allies.

Clinton unveiled his budget package Tuesday night, proposing to pull $1.2 trillion in savings out of Medicare, Medicaid and dozens of other programs. Seeking to draw a contrast with Republicans, his cuts would be gentler than those in GOP plans that already have passed the House and Senate. Clinton's plan includes tax cuts for families with children that are smaller than those in the Republican plans, while also protecting education.

Accompanying this was a modest health-care reform package, including provisions allowing people to carry health insurance from job to job, providing coverage to the short-term jobless, and providing

Local authorities have been asked to be on the lookout for a murder suspect from Lubbock. An attempt to locate was issued Tuesday afternoon for Erasmo "Eddie" Valenzuela, 47, who reportedly shot a woman on Sunday.

"The suspect was having an argument with a woman about going to Mexico and taking a particular vehicle. That vehicle is in impound and we are not sure what his mode of transportation is," said Bill Morgan, public information officer with the Lubbock Police Department.

Reports say Margie Davila, 55, stepped in between Valenzuela and her niece during the argument. Valenzuela allegedly fired one shot, striking Davila in the chest. She died at a Lubbock hospital shortly before midnight Sunday.

Valenzuela is described as a Hispanic male, six feet tall, 225 pounds, brown collar-length hair and brown eyes. He also has a beard and mustache. He was last seen wearing a navy blue ball cap, blue jean shirt and blue jeans. He is also armed with a small caliber handgun.

Authorities believe he is hitchhiking his way to Mexico, El Paso or Brownfield where some of his relatives live.

He is considered dangerous and should not be approached by civilians. If you spot a man matching this description, contact a local law enforcement agency.

Following an executive session after Tuesday's meeting of the Big Spring City Council, Big Spring Mayor Tim Blackshear announced the resignation of Municipal Court Judge Bill Tune effective June 15.

Prior to Tuesday's council meeting, the Herald learned the Texas Rangers and the Combined Law Enforcement Agencies of Texas (CLEAT) were investigating the municipal court.

A representative of the Texas Rangers in Midland did not disclose any details, but did say Rangers had completed their investigation.

CLEAT Staff Representative Dwight Tiller said CLEAT is still in the process of its investigation, which is the result of complaints from some of the city's police officers.

He said, "We had some inquiries about how the municipal judge is handling the court there. We have had a couple of attorneys look into whether or not he was exceeding his authority as municipal judge."

Tiller added one of the attorneys working the investigation is a past instructor at the Texas Municipal Court Education Center in Austin and would probably have clearer details when CLEAT's investigation is concluded.

Blackshear said he knew during one municipal court proceeding a police officer had a CLEAT attorney with him, but added he was not aware of an investigation being done by Texas Rangers.

"There has been a lot of conflict within the municipal court for the last year and a half," Blackshear said. "And I don't think there has been any one person responsible. I think Judge Tune felt it was better that he get out of the middle of the problem."

Blackshear added the municipal judge is one of three positions hired by the council, and he thinks it's important the council stay out of the day-to-day business of the municipal court. He added there shouldn't be any pressure or any type of quota systems as far as tickets are concerned.

"The judge has to be free to make some decisions that are in

Two people were slightly injured Tuesday afternoon during a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of FM 818 and Nichols Road. DPS reports say Regina Lynn Newsom, 33, was traveling west on Nichols Road when she failed to come to a complete stop at the intersection. A pickup driven by Jason Michael Kennemur, 19, struck the driver's side of Newsom's Suburban as he was traveling north on FM 818. Both drivers were taken to the emergency room, treated and released.

Approximately a dozen members of the First Church of the Nazarene attended the council meeting to support their cause Smith says is to help everyone. Smith said, "It is not every council meeting that I have need of speaking. However, due to the nature of this subject concerning the clean-up of church property by the prisoners from the Wallace Unit of Colorado City and the coverage it has received, I felt it necessary to let you, the leaders of Big Spring, know the feelings of the church and parishioners."

Smith added he did not want to make the council's job more difficult or engage in a circus atmosphere of debate, but he wanted to clarify and confirm the concerns of the church.

"On March 14, I delivered to Acting City Manager Tom Decell, a letter of request, a proposal letter to the council, a packet of photos and a listing of valid reasons to use the Colorado City prisoners to help clean up the church property (the canyon and lot to the north of the church buildings)," Smith said.

"We knew the manpower was limited for us, but the prison unit would be the ideal answer. We have desired this to be cleaned for several years. We had studied the area, asked for the help of local environmentalists and interested citizens to give input."

Smith told the council on March 31, a petition was circulated to the property owners living around the canyon, which expressed concerns and incited the residents of the area.

"We felt the petition had unduly reflected a negative side that was mostly unwarranted," Smith said. "I sent a letter to those who had signed the petition explaining our good intentions and reasons for cleaning the canyon and that there should not be any major concerns or alarm."

According to Smith the church because concerned because the work stopped and several guards were discouraged because of the negative responses.

Since that time Smith said a letter was received (June 7) from the originator of the petition, Cleo Carlile, expressing concerns Smith said are unfounded and inaccurate.

The letter Smith refers to appears in the Letters to the Editor section of today's Herald. Smith said, "The letter makes accusations and comments that show very little understanding and intelligence."

He added the church wanted to thank the mayor, citizens of Big Spring, and the council for being wise and progressive in bringing the Colorado City prison unit to Big Spring because it has helped the appearance of the city.

He also thanked Capt. Soñny Hassell, who oversees the inmates, for his help and cooperation during unmerited negative reactions, even from a few.

Smith said, "We do regret that any resident lost something they deemed valuable. We were just wanting to make this area safer and usable. I believe I speak for the majority of Big Springers that we desire and we encourage the mayor, city council, and city manager to continue their good work and utilize the Colorado City inmates as much as possible while we have the opportunity."

grants for home-based care. Vice President Al Gore today defended Clinton's budget proposal against the sharp criticism from within his own party.

"When you're getting criticized from both sides of the spectrum, that's often a pretty good sign that you're on the right course in the direction most Americans want to travel," Gore said on ABC's "Good Morning America."

In a nationally televised White House address that lasted just over five minutes, the president gently slapped Republicans, saying the deficit could be wiped out in seven years, as Republicans propose, but insisted "the pain we would inflict on our elderly, our students and our economy just isn't worth it."

Mostly, though, he portrayed himself as transcending partisanship by offering a tough plan that would break through partisan gridlock — something voters have consistently signaled they've wanted since the 1992 elections and that he is eager to demonstrate for his re-election campaign.

But House Majority Leader Dick Armey said today he didn't hear any such effort to break through partisan politics.

He also added the council has Tune to thank for reinstating the Teen Court in Big Spring, but because a number of tickets that were dismissed were questioned, he probably felt some heat that wasn't entirely his doing.

Judge Tune was not available for comment prior to press time, but it is believed he will continue to assist the city in the 118th District Court.

Education bill could result in higher taxes

HOUSTON (AP) — Taxpayers in some school districts may end up paying higher property rates because of the state's new education bill despite lawmakers having voted against any tax increases.

"It really is a perplexing problem," said Greg Hartman, a spokesman for Texas Comptroller John Sharp. "It's one of those deals where the protection is done away with, and if you try to protect yourself, you get hurt even worse."

Lawmakers had sought to give voters more power by preserving automatic rollback elections, which would allow them to reject school tax increases they believe are too high.

They ended up adding a provision that says when a school district loses a rollback election, it can then use a new, enrollment-based formula to compute its tax rate, the Houston Chronicle reported in today's editions.

In fast-growing districts, the new formula could produce a tax rate much higher than the rate rejected at the polls.

"They goofed," Craig Foster, director of the Equity Center, an advocacy group for property-poor school districts in Texas, said Tuesday. "They were writing in a hurry very near the end of the session, and they got things mixed up."

Hartman said, in effect, some districts will wind up with "roll-up" elections, where, if you win, you end up with even higher rates.

An example he gave is the Round Rock school district in fast-growing Williamson County, north of Austin.

It has a tax rate of $1.42 per $100 of property value. If the school board raised taxes above $1.50, there would be an automatic rollback election.

But if voters turned down the tax increase, and if the district was growing at a rate of, say, 16 percent a year, the new formula would allow the school board to raise taxes in this example to $1.92.

Rep. Steve Ogden, R-Bryan, said about 50 districts around the state would be affected because the growth of their property values are not reflected in the state's disbursements of cash to schools. That lag leaves them short of revenue.

But while he acknowledged the problem in the rollback provisions, he defended what he and other lawmakers were trying to do.

"From my standpoint, it's not a fatal error," he said. "It's one that can result in some ridicule at how poorly laws are written."

Ogden blames the goof on timing, saying lawmakers were in a hurry to fix a problem in the school bill, and didn't get it right.

The school bill has been signed by Gov. George W. Bush and a companion bill awaits his approval.

"The governor will look at this," said Karen Hughes, Bush's press secretary. "This is the first we've heard of this. He did say he would support this bill because it let taxpayers weigh in if their taxes are going up, but he needs to look at the language."

Explosiveness of fertilizer unchanged by any additives

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no known additive that can prevent ammonium nitrate fertilizer from being used as an explosive, the nation's second-largest producer of commercial explosives said Tuesday.

ICI Explosives USA has been sued by survivors of the April 19 explosion that blew up the federal office building in Oklahoma City, killing 168 people. They contend that ICI was negligent for not adding chemicals to reduce or eliminate the ammonium nitrate's explosive potential.

Ammonium nitrate fertilizer was mixed with fuel oil to create that bomb, authorities say.

The company said a series of tests conducted last weekend in the Arizona desert proved that additives do not cut the compound's explosive power.

"We conducted these demonstrations to show what scientists and the industry have known for years: There are no known additives that will render ammonium nitrate inert," said Joe Brawner, president of Dallas-based ICI.

In addition to the negligence accusation, the lawsuit brought by 83 survivors of the Oklahoma City blast also contends that ICI supplied fertilizer-grade ammonium nitrate to Mid-Kansas Co-op in McPherson, Kan., and the co-op then sold 2,000 pounds of it to Terry Nichols, one of two people now charged in the bombing.

Law enforcement authorities have not said Nichols bought the fertilizer. The affidavit released with his arrest said a receipt for fertilizer was found in his house, but it did not say Nichols made the purchase.

A patent was awarded in 1968 to a scientist who had conducted small-scale tests suggesting that mixing fertilizer with di- or mono-ammonium phosphate would prevent ammonium nitrate from exploding.

But ICI asserted Tuesday that its experiments proved otherwise. Company representatives traveled to Washington to screen a videotape of their tests for the media and for members of Congress who are working on anti-terrorism legislation that could mandate additives for all ammonium nitrate fertilizers.

In the experiments, conducted for ICI by a company called Failure Analysis Associates, ammonium nitrate was mixed with di-ammonium phosphate, mono-ammonium phosphate and calcium carbonate. The mixtures were placed in 10-gallon plastic pails with a blasting cap and a one-pound explosive booster — all materials that could be obtained easily by terrorists.

In all cases shown in the video, the mixtures were detonated and exploded.

"Right now, the fact is that additives will not work," said Joe Urenovitch, ICI's vice president in charge of research and technology.

Accident Failure Associates' technical analysis of the explosions will be completed in about 10 days, Brawner said.

Urenovitch said the analysis may show some differences in the force of the different explosions. But, he said, "Every one of those explosions was a significant explosion."

Co-defendant status refused in contempt case

CANYON (AP) — State District Judge Pat Pirtle says he couldn't find merit in a request by three people who asked to become co-defendants in a criminal contempt-of-court charge.

Pirtle on Tuesday denied the motion filed in Randall County by two attorneys and a paralegal.

Their unusual request displayed a unified front for Atlanta attorney Millard Farmer, one of the nation's most noted capital defense experts.

Amarillo attorney V.G. "Bill" Kolius, Houston attorney Steven Losch and Atlanta paralegal Kimellen Tunkle say they should be co-defendants because they assisted Farmer in representing accused killer Douglas Palmer.

Farmer received a notice of contempt after Palmer pleaded guilty June 2 to the 1990 bludgeoning death of Hilton Raymond Merriman Sr.

The contempt order took issue with a pleading that Farmer filed three years ago.

"If the symbol of Justice had another hand she most likely would be holding her nose," Farmer wrote in what was titled "Randall Sherrod's Legal and Moral Misconduct Has Broken Judge Patrick A. Pirtle's Sword and Scales of Justice — Help Is Requested." Sherrod is the county's former criminal district attorney.

The judge maintains that the pleading makes unsubstantiated and unprofessional statements.

But the three petitioners say the defense team's expressions were not illegal or unconstitutional. And they say they would not feel justified allowing Farmer to face the contempt charge alone.

"The representation of Douglas Palmer has been a team effort in every respect," the motion filed Monday states. "Each of us bear equal responsibility, or stated differently, each of us share equal pride in

Parents convicted of chaining and killing child, give up youngest

FORT WORTH (AP) — The parents serving 99-year prison sentences related to the starving death of their oldest son have given up their rights to their youngest son, allowing him to be adopted by relatives in Idaho.

Douglas Hill, who watched his brother Stephen go without food while chained to a pole in the family's White Settlement trailer home four years ago, was the star witness at his parents' trial.

His testimony led to Jay and Linda Hill being convicted of injury to a child. They received the maximum sentence.

Since the trial, Douglas has been living with Jay Hill's sister Yvonne Langford and her husband, optometrist James Langford, in Pocatello, Idaho.

"He's doing great," Mrs. Langford said Tuesday. "He eats normally and he's 5-foot-2 now — his doctor's thrilled."

The Hills appeared in court Monday to relinquish parental rights to Douglas, now 15.

Child returned to hospital she shouldn't have left

HOUSTON (AP) — A 22-year-old woman has been charged with endangering a child for taking her critically ill 3-year-old home from a hospital without permission.

Houston homicide investigators found Alma Lopez Recendez and her baby Anacelly Recendez on Tuesday and returned the child to Texas Children's Hospital for treatment.

Doctors said Anacelly's blood sugar was high, but she didn't seem to have suffered any lasting consequences from not having taken her medicine for diabetes and for seizures.

Author of anti-hazing law frustrated by sophomore's death

AUSTIN (AP) — Following the death of a University of Texas sophomore and the banning of a UT spirit group for hazing, the author of the state's anti-hazing law is frustrated.

"I do not know of one case where the law has been used to prosecute," Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, said Tuesday.

"If somebody tells me it's too weak, I'll be happy to make it tougher. But nobody has told me that. I'm frustrated, to tell you the truth," he said.

On Monday, UT banned the Texas Cowboys from campus for five years. The punishment followed a university investigation into an April 29 initiation "picnic" during which sophomore Gabriel B. Higgins, 19, drowned in the Colorado River in Bastrop County.

Clean up or be quiet

It turns out the real problem people have with the cleanup efforts in this town is not so much the cleaning as who is doing it - prisoners from the Wallace Unit at Colorado City.

That's right, prisoners. Big Spring has had this program nearly a year, and there hasn't been one problem related to the prisoners themselves. This is not remarkable. These men are non-violent offenders, near the end of their sentence. Why would they want to foul up their chance of getting out by doing something stupid in Big Spring?

What are we afraid of? A group of men doing jobs most of us would believe are beneath us? If we are so precious we cannot be bothered to tidy the town in which we live, who will bother?

The answer to that is no one. Otherwise, the area wouldn't have begun to resemble a New Jersey landfill.

There have been complaints about the cleanup, however, especially about cutting down trees and destroying bird habitats at Comanche Trail Park.

At Tuesday's City Council meeting, the city has agreed to formulate a group that will include, among others, a biologist and a horticulturist. This group will go through the areas to be cleaned, marking trees and shrubs and other growth to be saved.

This is a good move that should work to eliminate complaints about trees and such being removed.

Recently, voices have been raised in anger over the cleaning of the Pennsylvania and Lancaster area around the First Church of the Nazarene.

Residents who live in the area do not like what the church and the city have done. Which raises the question - whose land is it? The area that has been cleaned does not belong to the people who are the most vociferous with their complaints; it belongs to the city and to the church.

The area in question had become an illegal dumpsite (which we have many of in this town), a hangout for kids to party, a place where people illegally drain the water from their pools. It is also home to a great deal of feral and wild life, and with the rabies epidemic, that's not safe in the middle of a city.

Those same people complaining loud and hard right now would be the same people chewing on the city to clean up the area if someone was to be bitten and have to undergo the painful rabies shots.

Everything always comes down to money. We are tired of watching our taxes rise and services reduced. One area tightened is cleaning and maintenance.

In the first six months of this program, the prisoners' work translated into about $1 million saved. That's what the city would have had to spend. The prisoner work force has only cost us about $50,000 in startup costs.

Those figures don't even include what they have done lately, in only the first six months of the program.

The city is taking steps to work with those lodging complaints about the program. But those complaints have to be tempered with understanding that this city is gaining more by having the prisoners working here.

We will lose a great deal if they are packed up and sent away because of a group of ingrates too good to get out there and clean trashed areas, but not good enough to appreciate those who do.

Members of Cannibal Draw listen as organizer Mack Underwood describes the evening's program at Golden Corral Saturday.

Memories flood gathering of Cannibal Draw alumni

By MARY McATEER
Staff Writer

The room was packed and spirits were high. Even Saturday's storm didn't dampen the 18th Annual Cannibal Draw Reunion.

91 members of "the Draw" and their guests attended Saturday night's party, visiting, telling stories, sharing laughter and warmth while the wind whipped the trees and rain beat on Golden Corral's roof.

70 years ago, in the 1920's, many members of this party, including organizer Mack Underwood, were children growing up on the East side of town. To keep them from playing in rain puddles and possibly drowning, their parents told them cannibals lived in the puddles and ate children.

Today, memories of the cannibals and the old east side brings folks back to the Cannibal Draw reunion.

"I'm still Joe Pickle," declared the former Herald editor, starting a round of introductions. "Y'all think you came to Mack's bash, but you came to my birthday party, because today's my birthday," Pauline King Pearce stated. "I was a child bride here 60 years ago, and I'm here today," one participant declared. "I'm glad for you to see me," and glad to see you all, was the theme of the introductions.

Some regrets were sent. Former Congressman Jake Pickle explained that his grandson had chosen the wrong time to get married, and Dorothy Garrett was taking care of hail damage. Adele Tibbs and Ruth Morton managed the drawing for door prizes, which were donated by the following: Red Mesa Grill, Golden Corral Restaurant, Alberto's Crystal Cafe, Jodie's Beauty Center, Klassic Kleaners, and Irene Butler.

A popular feature of the party is the presentation of awards, to the lady and man "who've been here the longest," and the person who traveled the greatest distance to get to the reunion. "I'll be 90 the 26th," Mamie Padgett Roberts said with a smile, accepting her prize. Willard Neal, 86, claimed the trophy as the oldest man. Ruth Bugg Morton, who travels from Springdale, Ark., to visit relatives and attend Cannibal Draw, received the award for the person who traveled the farthest. Each award was accompanied by a hand-made "hug" created by Irene Butler, who also made a guardian angel pin for the lady's gift.

The program's finale was storytelling, beginning with Dr. Virgil Sanders' description of how to get a friend into a basketball game.

"Thanks to everybody who helped make this year's Cannibal Draw Reunion a success," says Underwood. Dr. Gale Kilgore provided the microphone and sound system, Charlene Smith typed the letters and got them ready for mailing, the Big Spring Herald and radio stations KBST and KBYG provided publicity for the party, and Ralph Johnson and the staff of Golden Corral provided the banquet room and excellent service.

"We'll see you all next year," states Underwood. "I'm working on plans for the 19th Annual Cannibal Draw Reunion already."

POINT, COUNTERPOINT ON CLEANUP

Point

Editor:
Much credit has been given to the Proud Citizens for work done by the prisoners from Colorado City. That credit goes to Chuck Cawthon, Lanny Lambert and David Counts. It was timely in that Proud Citizens was just beginning to organize and start a Keep Texas Beautiful program in Big Spring. Our mission statement is: To Clean, Beautify, Preserve, and Maintain the Natural Beauty of Big Spring by Creating a Permanent Partnership between Citizens, Business and Government and to Foster an Atmosphere of Awareness, Cooperation and Education that will continue to Inspire Future Generations.

We have begged and pleaded for the good citizens of Big Spring to get out of the wagon and help push. Then everyone can have a beautiful clean corner to enjoy. Many are pushing, we need more.

After several complaints about the work of prisoners, we were asked to meet with Tom Decell along with others to talk about this problem. I'm sorry to say that an ice storm hit the day of this meeting and it was canceled and recalled sometime later. Some that could have attended earlier could not meet later. We met with Tom after informing Gary Fuqua and Perry Hall about the meeting. They had not been invited.

We met at the Spring and brought up the subject of securing the park. This was while we stood by the destroyed observation deck. After the meeting, we decided it was just a political move to say such a meeting took place. Nothing was solved or even discussed about tagging trees.

My husband every year ask why I start so early getting ready for Christmas. Each year, I tell him I could start later and do it twice as fast if he would help. This is also true when it comes to cleaning up our city.

Proud Citizens were asked to walk the canyon behind the Nazarene Church and give their opinion and ideas for the area. Our first trip, I'll never forget the awesomeness I felt. I couldn't believe the beauty and possibilities of this area right in the middle of Big Spring. Tom Decell was negative on having the prisoners clean until the church wrote a letter explaining designs, reasons and plans to develop such a park that I named Sanctuary Park. Copies were sent to the city council and mayor. Organizations that would benefit from this project were asked to sign their support. There is no reason for remorse in their signing. Someday, they will be proud that they signed on.

Tell me a year from now just which tree you missed the most. There have been no 100-year trees cut down and not ALL the trees either.

Anyone should know that when you start to clean anything, things look worse for a while. If you start to paint a room in the house, getting ready is probably the hardest part. Curtains must come down, pictures taken off the wall, furniture moved or covered. It becomes a big mess, but after cleaning and painting and things get back in place or replaced you wonder why you didn't do it sooner. The same goes for our city.

We need to stop and count our blessings that we in Big Spring are not cleaning up after a tornado, earthquake or flood. We are not burying our children as our neighbors in Oklahoma. Let's get concerned about child abuse in our city. Let's vote when there is an election. Let's support the efforts being made to make Big Spring a better place for everyone.

On the second trip into the canyon, weeds and grass were shoulder high. I was scared of snakes, but several brave men and Pat and Milli tagged trees. I've taken many before pictures of trash, old cars, tires, lumber found in the canyon ... but someday a beautiful park will be enjoyed by seniors walking, garden clubs enjoying, birders watching and children playing.

After some delay, and a new city manager that not only loves the town he grew up in but sees our vision of a clean, beautiful city to live in and raise children, the prisoners began to clean. As expected, the phone calls also began. One man called to say he had roaches. I wonder what he would have if this clean up effort was stopped. Many callers had to be told that this was church property and cleaning was with their approval. The whole area in the past has been used as an illegal dump site, drug parties, bum hang outs, not to mention snakes, cats, fox and mosquitoes. I have pictures where people around the canyon have dumped trash and are draining swimming pool water onto city property. This is illegal!

Let's take a look at the big picture. Those prisoners are minimum security prisoners. They know who and what is being said to them and about them. But for the Grace of God, you or your children could be one of them. They get up at dawn, do a hard days work with little tools. They eat supper and fall into bed to get up the next day and do it all over again. They choose to do this rather than watch T.V. They are making Big Spring look better in spite of calls, cursing and complaints. May the first person that never made a mistake step up and sign the petition asking for this program to stop.

We are dedicated to clean up this city anywhere it needs cleaning. You can be a part of the problem or part of the solution. Life is so much better when you are a giver instead of a taker.

Polly St. Clair, Chairman
Proud Citizens of Big Spring
Affiliate of Keep Texas Beautiful

to be a nice person who is from East Texas where trees grow like weeds in West Texas. He and his father were loggers before working for the prison system. He hasn't lived in West Texas long enough to realize the value of a tree in July and August. He doesn't realize that grass will not grow here without extra watering.

After talking with him yesterday, I realize our problem. No one is helping him decide what should be removed and what should be left. Let's stop the stripping of vegetation and get some help in determining what should be cut and what should not.

Why not pick up trash and mow Birdwell Park if we are really wanting to clean up Big Spring instead of just providing work and outdoor exercise for prisoners? Surely some farmer wants to clear land of mesquite trees so they can plant more cotton because land clearing is what we are doing in our city. Sincerely,

Cleo Carlile

2. Plants and trees are bad.
3. Transients are bad. Keep them away from the church. (other churches have transients and they don't have a canyon.)
4. Trees cause mosquitoes.
5. Criminals are nice people - let's throw a party for them.
6. Dirt must be beautiful. A lot of it is now exposed at 14th and Pennsylvania and other areas of Big Spring.

7. Let's use our tax dollars to clean up church property.
8. Neighbors aren't important as to their concerns.
9. Devaluation of property isn't important as a result of stripping the land of vegetation.
10. Satanic cults have been in the canyon. The canyon must be cursed so let's cut and burn it down even though no one observed any satanic cult activities.

Almost everyone who bought property along Pennsylvania Street did so because of the beauty of the canyon that runs through the area. People are very saddened by the work done by the prisoners. The leader of the prisoners seems

Counterpoint

Editor:
The destruction of the canyon area behind the Nazarene Church and along Martin Luther King Blvd. to Pennsylvania Street continue even after an associate pastor told me last week that it was over and that that area owned by the Nazarene Church were cleared.

Yesterday a prisoner was by himself behind my house looking through the fence and asked my wife if she wanted the trees cut behind our house. When I asked the person in charge of the prisoners, he first said that no prisoner was around my house but upon questioning he found that actually one of the prisoners was there approximately two blocks away from any guards.

Observations of the points of Pastor Gary Smith's letter to the people who have signed a petition to get prisoners out of our neighborhood and to stop stripping the land are as follows:

1. Little animals are bad.

A police official walks past a white Cadillac behind an abandoned business in Altamonte Springs, Fla., Monday. Police found two children dead in the car today and have now arrested the father.

Father kills sons so they could 'be in heaven with mommy'

GLENCOE, Ill. (AP) — Steven McRae's journey of despair began in the California town where his wife committed suicide and ended in Florida, where police say he killed his boys "so they could be in heaven with mommy."

In between, the family spent a school year in this plush Chicago suburb of minivans and Mercedes, living just a block from a family counseling agency.

McRae, who had worked as a night watchman at a private athletic club in nearby Wilmette, was charged with two counts of murder Monday. After being treated at a hospital for carbon monoxide inhalation, he was transferred to jail Tuesday night and held without bond.

Police said McRae, 36, described his plan to kill his sons and himself with carbon monoxide from automobile exhaust fumes. The bodies of the 8- and 11-year-old boys were found Monday in a white 1977 Cadillac behind a boarded-up restaurant in a suburb of Orlando, Fla.

"When they left Illinois, he knew he was going to take his life and their lives," said Karan Gilroy, a spokeswoman for Altamonte Springs, Fla., police.

"Over this trip he convinced the boys that they needed to die so they could be in heaven with mommy," Gilroy said.

Family members told police that McRae became depressed after his wife, Lisa Maria, shot herself in the head in March 1992 near San Jacinto, Calif., where the family lived.

Police said McRae and the boys arrived last spring in Wheeling, a middle-class Chicago suburb. They later moved in with McRae's brother, Michael, in Glencoe.

They lived in a one-bedroom apartment a block from Glencoe's family counseling agency and steps away from a shopping district. Michael McRae later moved in with other relatives, leaving the apartment to Steven and the boys.

Glencoe is a leafy picture of neighborly charm, but few recalled the McRaes. People in their apartment building struggled to remember them. Mallman Dennis Turkington, walking his downtown route, said he never met the family.

The children began school in September. The eldest son, Kirk, was assigned an older student to help him around.

The mentor, Lee, a dark-haired eighth-grader who would not give his last name, said Kirk was older than other fourth-graders by several years. "He didn't really fit in with the crowd," Lee said.

"At the end of the school year, I told him, 'I'm looking forward to seeing you next year,' and he said, 'Oh, I might move. My dad's very insecure,'" Lee recalled.

Lee didn't know the other McRae boy's name. Police would not release it.

McRae got a job last June as the night watchman at the Michigan Shores Club. He left a note with his employer May 31 saying he was taking his boys camping, according to club manager David Coughlin.

School lunch fare to be leaner

WASHINGTON (AP) — More helpings of fruits, vegetables and grains highlight new regulations calling for a leaner school lunch menu.

And just in case the cooks at Public School USA find themselves at a loss what to do, some of the nation's top chefs are lending a hand, with recipes for chickpea with lentil pilaf, bean salad with vinaigrette, orange and strawberries in tangerine juice.

The government is counting on the 25 million kids who eat school lunches to be sufficiently motivated to drop their pizzas, burgers and fries for these gourmet alternatives. Pumbaa the warthog in "The Lion King" just gorged himself during a free Disney commercial — but the beast followed the government's healthful food guidelines.

Welcome to the latest Agriculture Department campaign to get children to eat more healthful diets, prompted by regulation and a public-private campaign.

Under the new regulations coming out today it would be easier for schools to meet the government's nutritional standards than it would have been under rules the department proposed a year ago. Schools may use a traditional meal plan using set portions of meat, bread, milk and vegetables, instead of a menu based on detailed, computer-backed analyses of each meal's nutritional makeup.

Even so, Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman said rules cannot do the job alone.

"Children don't eat by regulation and they don't make food choices based on federal standards, and kids don't read government handbooks for the most part," said Glickman, a former congressman who once served on the Wichita, Kan., school board.

Glickman, first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, Agriculture Undersecretary Ellen Haas, Sen. Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt., and Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, announced the "Team Nutrition" Monday amid a carnival atmosphere of pennant-waving schoolchildren, display booths and a dancing meerkat "Timon" from the Disney movie.

Under a $200,000 agreement, Disney produced two public service commercials showing Timon and Pumbaa urging children to follow the government's food pyramid. The cartoons will begin airing June 19 on The Disney Channel and will be available to all other TV channels at the same time.

The clips will also appear in the message section of "Squanto, A Warrior's Tale," when Disney releases the video this month.

The messages address only proportions, not quantity: A gluttonous, slobbering Pumbaa devours loads of food, but in proportions suggested by the food pyramid — a wheelbarrow of vegetables, a truckload of grains and breads.

The government's 1990 dietary guidelines tell people to eat a variety of foods; choose a diet low in fat, saturated fat and cholesterol; select plenty of vegetables, fruits and grain products and use salt only in moderation.

The only specific numerical goal in the school guidelines is to cut the fat content of meals to an average of 30 percent of total calories, with saturated fat accounting for no more than 10 percent.

In another prong of the campaign, the educational publisher Scholastic Inc. of New York is providing teaching guides, posters, videos, software and other teaching aids under a $1.4 million contract with the Agriculture Department.

After the ceremony, visitors sampled healthful recipes cooked up by prominent chefs under a program to get professionals to help school cooks improve menus.

To make the switch, schools that stock up on hamburger and cans of watery green beans will have to add sage leaves, rosemary stalks, and fresh basil.

B-2 bomber revived in defense budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House staked out a hawkish stance in its first defense budget votes by reviving the B-2 Stealth bomber and freezing aid to the former Soviet Union.

Both votes Tuesday evening, propelled by Republican majorities, were rejections of President Clinton's policies. Debate continued today on a bulked-up defense spending bill.

As anxious lobbyists for Northrop Grumman Corp. waited in the wings, supporters of the bat-winged bomber evoked images of Saddam Hussein, Capt. Scott O'Grady, and the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in defending what could grow into a $31 billion weapons investment.

The House voted 219-203 against an amendment by Reps. John Kasich, R-Ohio, and Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., that would have stripped $553 million in B-2 money from the Republican version of the defense budget bill.

If enacted, the bill would provide the down payment on the $15 billion tab for increasing the fleet of radar-evading B-2s to 40 planes. It would mean a huge order for Northrop and thousands of jobs in Southern California and at subcontractors across the country.

Opponents said it will cost an additional $19 billion to equip, maintain and operate the planes. And they emphasized that Defense Secretary William Perry, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the military commanders who would lead U.S. troops into battle unanimously oppose building more B-2s.

Man may be 'too smart' to get help

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Thomas Talbot's brain may prevent him from getting a heart.

Though his IQ of 73 indicates borderline mental retardation, the state says Talbot, 22, is too smart to qualify for aftercare. His lawyers say that without that care, Children's Hospital in Boston will not go ahead with a needed heart transplant.

"I've never seen a case where the stakes were so high. The heart transplant hinges on this," attorney Joanne Petito said Tuesday before an emergency hearing.

prison. Prosecutors cannot seek the death penalty because the deaths do not include aggravating circumstances needed for a capital case in Tennessee.

Investigators believe Bain went to the motel about 3:30 a.m. on June 6 and was drinking with four male friends whom she once worked with at a factory. Her lawyer, Michael Galligan, said Bain fell asleep in the motel and never intended to harm her children.

The four men told police that Bain went out to the car periodically, presumably to check on the boys. They said they didn't know the boys were in the car.

Autopsies showed that Dustin, 1, and Devin, almost 2, died of hyperthermia, or overheating.

Mother charged with murder after sons died while left in car

McMINNVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — As police took Jennie Bain to jail on murder charges, they drove past the motel where she had partied with friends while her two toddlers were trapped in a sweltering car parked outside.

The motel's flagpole had a blue bow tied to it, in memory of Dustin and Devin Ducker. They died a week ago, side by side, buckled into their seats in the back of Bain's car.

Bain, 20, cried when she was met with hordes of television cameras as she turned herself in Tuesday, accompanied by her parents and her lawyer. She was released on $75,000 bond.

A grand jury indicted Bain on two charges of first-degree murder, punishable by life in Canada passes divisive gun control bill

OTTAWA (AP) — A gun control bill has cleared Canada's lower house after months of bitter and divisive debate but not without a political price for Prime Minister Jean Chretien. The bill was approved 192-63 Tuesday by the House of Commons. It now moves to the Tory-dominated Senate where it also faces a long haul. Chretien pushed through the bill despite opposition from most of Canada's provinces and from within his own Liberal Party. With a 118-majority in the Commons, there was little doubt he would succeed. But nine Liberal Party lawmakers broke ranks with the government to vote against the bill, a serious rebellion in a parliamentary system where party discipline is the rule.

The legislation imposes a minimum four-year sentence for serious crimes committed with a gun such as murder, manslaughter and robbery.

Justice Minister Allan Rock contends the bill will keep guns out of the wrong hands and reduce crime.

The legislation imposes a minimum four-year sentence for serious crimes committed with a gun such as murder, manslaughter and robbery. Currently the minimum penalty is one year.

Most people had no qualms about that measure. What caused most of the debate was the requirement that every gun in Canada be registered by 2002, including hunting rifles and shotguns. There are an estimated 7 million firearms in Canada.

Critics say the registration will be a waste of money and could turn law-abiding citizens into criminals. Possession of unregistered weapons would be a criminal offense.

The bill also requires people to register themselves as the owners of their weapons and bans the sale of a wide variety of small handguns commonly called Saturday-night specials.

Bosnian soldiers massing

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — More than 15,000 Bosnian army soldiers massed north and northwest of Sarajevo today, signaling government plans to try to break the Serb encirclement of Bosnia's capital, U.N. officials said.

U.N. forces restricted in their movement by both sides are not in a position to say when or where the soldiers could attack the Serbs who surround Sarajevo, said Lt. Paul D'Orsonnens of Canada, based northwest of the city at Visoko.

"We do not see any immediate sign of a beginning of operations," he said, reporting 15,000 men or more massed in the area around Ilijas, some 7 miles north of Sarajevo, and fanning west toward Visoko.

Both politicians and military men with Bosnia's Muslim-led government have repeatedly promised to break the three-year Serb siege before fall, saying they are weary of waiting for the world to do it for them.

Bosnian Serbs are expected to target Sarajevo with heavy artillery in reaction to any government offensive. On Tuesday, city residents piled more sandbags in front of windows and other vulnerable sites.

Little League Royals blank Indians

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports writer

Pitching and defense made the International League Indians the surprise team of the city Little League tournament. The same things eliminated them.

The lowest seed remaining in the tournament ran into a figurative buzz-saw Tuesday night, dropping a 9-0 decision to the IL Royals in elimination-bracket action.

Jason Martinez pitched an outstanding game, shutting out the Indians on three hits while striking out seven and walking only two. Offensively, Martinez helped his own cause with a two-run home run to center in the third inning.

The combination of the Royals, Martinez's pitching and having had to play five games in the past week finally wore down the Indians, who finished with a 9-13 record.

"Usually, they hit the ball pretty good," manager John Franco said. "Today, they were just dead - and there was nothing I could do to get them up."

Very little would have been effective against Martinez in any case. The 12-year-old kept the Indians off-balance all night with off-speed pitches and allowed only one runner past second.

The Royals (16-4), meanwhile, scored all the runs they would need in the bottom of the first. Leadoff batter Clarence Wilkens, who finished the game 3-for-4 with a pair of doubles and two RBIs, singled, reached second on a wild pitch and scored on Adam Solis' single to right field. Solis later scored on a wild pitch to make the score 2-0.

The Indians countered with their only serious threat of the night, putting runners on second and third with no outs. Martinez responded, however, by striking out Joe Valencia and Johnny Franco and forcing Peanut Latimore to ground out to first.

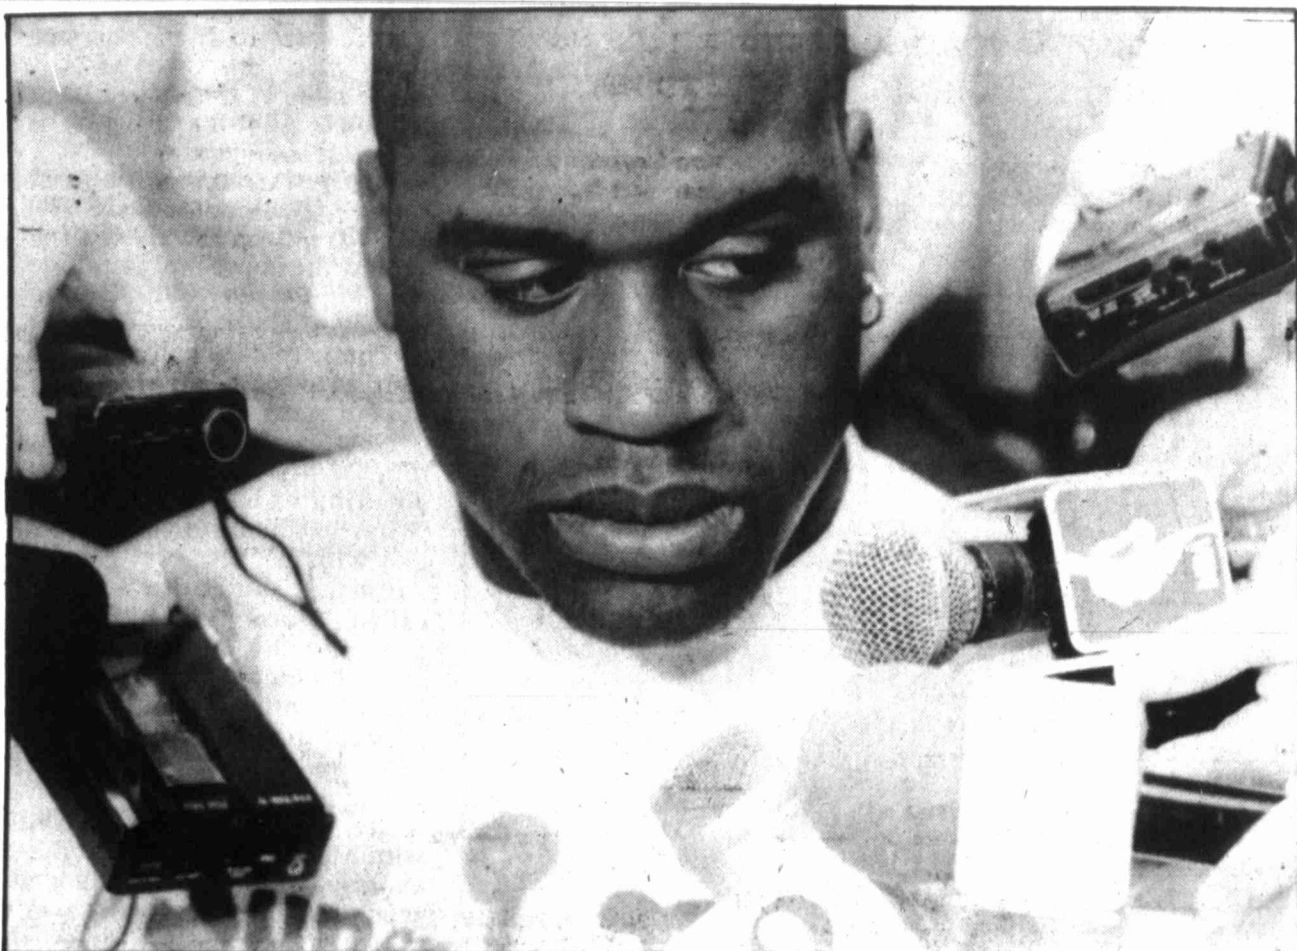

Afterward, Royal manager Jerry Baeza admitted he was concerned heading into a rematch with a league foe.

"Anytime you play a team from your league, you've got to be concerned," Baeza said. "Those are the hardest games, playing teams you've seen before."

Speaking of which, the Royals are in part motivated by the hope of having a rematch with the Coahoma League Astros, who dealt the Royals a 10-9 defeat last week. The Astros will play in Thursday's elimination-bracket final.

To set up the rematch, however, the Royals will first have to get by the AL Stars, an 8-7 winner over the AL Astros. The game is set for 7:30 tonight at the IL park.

Orlando Magic center Shaquille O'Neal listens as reporters ask questions Tuesday at The Summit in Houston. Houston leads the Magic three games to none in the NBA Finals.

FOUR STRAIGHT? Rockets go for the kill tonight

NBA Finals

HOUSTON (AP) — It has taken an unprecedented playoff run and a 32-year-old player with a yearning for a championship for the Houston Rockets to get a little respect.

Beating the New York Knicks last year for the NBA title didn't do it. Trading for Clyde Drexler in February didn't do it. And entering the playoffs as the Western Conference's sixth seed certainly didn't do it.

But with a win tonight in Game 4 of the NBA Finals, the Rockets can sweep Shaquille O'Neal and the Orlando Magic and enjoy the recognition that didn't come their way during a year's reign as champions.

"I think the country loves this team, and what we represent and the way that we do things," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said Tuesday.

The Rockets can set NBA records by becoming the first sixth seed to win a championship and by getting past four teams with 50-plus wins. They've already made history by winning a record seven consecutive road playoff games.

"It's been so much fun kicking all those doubters," forward Robert Horry said. "Now they can't say anything, because we weren't even supposed to be here."

As for the Magic... "We haven't played well and I don't think that we have recovered from the first loss," O'Neal said, referring to a game in which the Magic led by three with 10 seconds left.

"That first game, we were explosive and aggressive," Anfernee Hardaway said. "Ever since the second half of that first game, nothing has seemed to go right for us."

Rockets get respect old-fashioned way - they earn it

If the Houston Rockets win the NBA Finals this week - something that looks exceedingly likely - it will be time for everyone to admit the Rockets are a great team.

Everybody concedes Houston has a good team, but few will go so far as to say the Rockets are "great."

One more win in the Finals, however, and greatness is Houston's.

The reason? Good teams win NBA titles. Great teams repeat.

When the Los Angeles Lakers, Detroit Pistons and Chicago Bulls won back-to-back titles in the last decade, they were recognized - and rightfully so - as great teams.

If and when the Rockets win their series with Orlando, the same thing should happen.

Maybe then, the we-don't-get-respect-paranoia that has swept Houston fans will finally die. Houston backers felt their team didn't get its just desserts after winning the NBA title over New York, and in some respects, that feeling was justified.

The series, which admittedly was not an artistic triumph, was denounced by the experts as "ugly" and one of the least entertaining Finals in history. There was none of the media adulation that followed titles by the Bulls, Lakers, Celtics, etc. There was no speculation whether the Rockets would repeat. Instead, it was merely assumed they wouldn't.

Even Sports Illustrated officials dissed Houston, saying they wouldn't print special commemorative editions of the Rockets' championship, as the magazine does for other pro championship teams. A massive outcry from Houstonites changed SI's mind, but the insult had already been firmly planted in many people's minds.

Brew Crew slaps Rangers in rout

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kevin Gross was the perfect medicine for the Milwaukee Brewers, although the Texas Rangers are finding it hard to keep swallowing their troubled right-hander's miserable starts.

Gross fell to 1-6 by allowing six earned runs on eight hits in just 4 1-3 innings Tuesday night as the Rangers lost to the Brewers 14-2 at County Stadium, ending their six-game winning streak.

Texas is 2-8 when Gross starts and has been outscored 88-46 when he's on the mound. He even gave up seven runs in his lone victory, on May 17 against Toronto. The Rangers are 25-10 in games in which Gross hasn't appeared.

"I'm not going to make excuses for Kevin. His numbers speak for themselves," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "It's no secret he hasn't pitched well, but we haven't played well behind him, either."

Baseball

Gross, who leads the AL in runs allowed (52), saw his ERA jump to 9.89.

The Brewers ripped the Rangers' bullpen for eight more runs, five during Hector Fajardo's 1 2-3 innings.

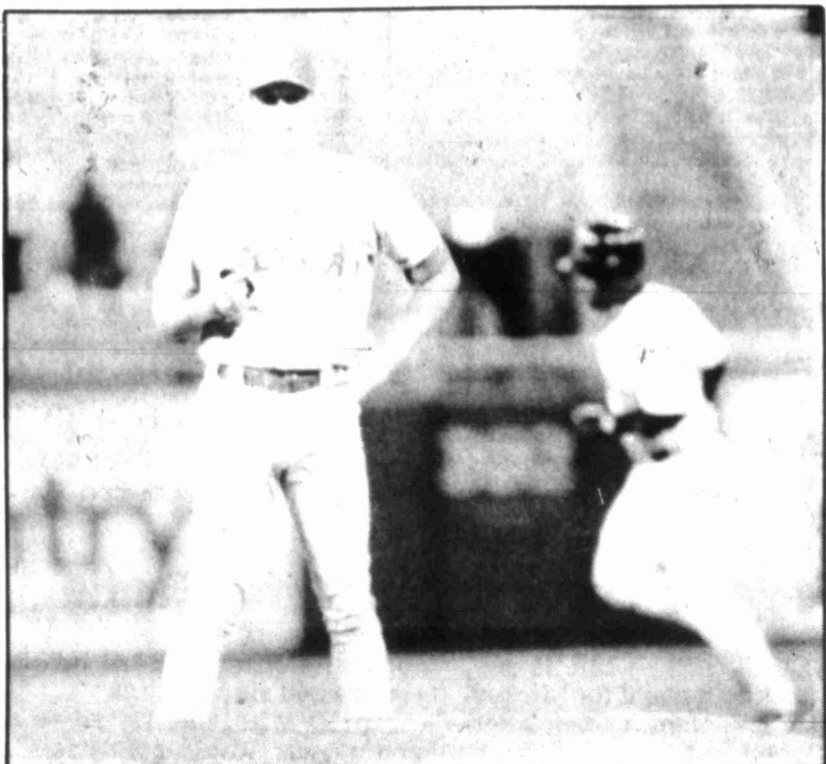

Milwaukee's Ricky Bones (4-3) got the win. Fernando Vina had three singles and two RBIs, and Jose Valentin had three RBIs for the Brewers.

Astros 6, Phillies 5

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The recent struggles of both the Houston Astros and outfielder Luis Gonzalez may finally be coming to an end.

Gonzalez ended a 4-for-27 slump when he hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning Tuesday night which gave Houston a 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The win snapped the Astros' six-game losing streak and ended the Phillies' four-game winning streak.

Gonzalez's homer came off losing pitcher Curt Schilling (4-1), who had struck him out in two of his previous three at-bats. Dave Veres (3-1), the fourth of six Houston pitchers, got the win with 1 1-3 scoreless innings. John Hudek got the save.

Williams may settle charges

McKINNEY (AP) — Dallas Cowboys offensive tackle Erik Williams may soon settle his sexual assault charges before a grand jury finishes looking into the matter.

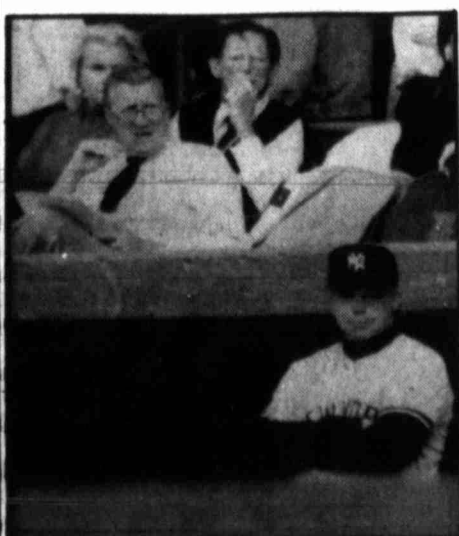

Williams' 17-year-old accuser wants to drop the case and she apparently has reached a civil agreement with the player, according to court documents and Collin County district attorney Tom O'Connell.

Although O'Connell said he received an "affidavit of non-prosecution" a few weeks ago from the teen's attorneys that would signal she doesn't want to pursue charges, the DA says he's still keeping up the fight. The non-prosecution affidavit will be presented to the grand jury along with all the other evidence. The woman appeared Tuesday before a grand jury, but she declined to answer questions about the agreement.

Champ Els' key: Have a good time

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Times change quickly in golf.

"I've seen 'em all, big-eyed kids — (Nick) Price, (Mark) McNulty, (Ernie) Els — sitting behind the ropes watching me play," 54-year-old Simon Hobday said.

"Then, it was 'can we have your autograph, Mr. Hobday?' Get out of my way, kids."

"Now," Hobday said, and the tone of his voice went from pleading to belligerent, "it's 'What do you mean you want to play with us?'"

Hobday, the South African called "Scruffy" by his fellow pros and the current Senior U.S. Open champion, got together with the younger crew from southern Africa for a practice round for the U.S. Open.

"It's the first time I've played with him. It was fun," said Els, an easy-going sort who likes a good time.

U.S. Open

And that was part of his game plan for defense of his American national championship that begins Thursday at Shinnecock Hills Golf Club.

"I want to have a good time," Els said. "It's going to be very difficult to make a success of the defense of the U.S. Open. I just want to go out on Thursday, keep calm, have some fun and try to get in contention," he said.

Els, then 24, leaped to international golfing prominence with his playoff triumph in this event at Oakmont, Pa. He went from a very good young player to the front rank of the game's big stars.

"My life has changed a bit," Els said Tuesday. "A year ago, you guys (in the media) didn't need to see me. More people recognize me."

Strawberry close to deal

DETROIT (AP) — Darryl Strawberry reportedly is headed for the New York Yankees, perhaps as early as today.

Yankees owner George Steinbrenner is expected to finalize a deal with Strawberry, the Record of Hackensack, N.J., reported in today's editions. Strawberry, 33, is serving a 60-day suspension from baseball for violating his aftercare program.

The suspension ends June 24, meaning he could play the next day. However, Steinbrenner reportedly wants Strawberry to play a few games in the minors before playing with the Yankees.

Life getting back to normal for Mantle

DALLAS (AP) — Life is getting back to normal for Mickey Mantle less than a week after his liver transplant. He's been on an exercise bicycle, taken a shower and eaten a solid meal of beef stew and vanilla ice cream.

"It's one of the best days I've had in a long time," Mantle on Tuesday told Gayla Sims, a nurse at Baylor University Medical Center, where he's been treated since May 28.

Mantle, who was listed in serious but stable condition Tuesday night, is entering a seven-week stage in which doctors are watching for organ rejection.

That process began Tuesday with a liver biopsy, a routine procedure that was done at his bedside with a local anesthetic.

D-FY-IT takes to the lake with boat rides

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

What could be more peaceful than paddleboating or canoeing across Comanche Trail Lake under sunny West Texas skies? Perhaps the knowledge that the program is being handled by a group of young people committed to a drug-free life filled with natural fun.

Big Spring High School's D-FY-IT chapter will operate the paddleboat/canoe rides from 1-9 p.m. every pleasant day this summer.

"It depends on the weather," said Det. Javier Becerra of the Big Spring Police Department, the group's adviser. "Every day it's nice weather, the rides will go on."

Some rules to remember: riders under age 18 need to have a parent sign a liability form and must wear a life jacket.

Riders behaving in a manner that could be dangerous to themselves or others will be asked to leave.

Rides will $2, with proceeds going to D-FY-IT. Handling the paddleboat/canoe rides gives the group a good location to handle other events simultaneously. "We can do fund raising like car washes at the same time," said Becerra.

This project also gives families the opportunity to spend a day together having fun at the park while raising money for a good cause, he added. The Big Spring Police Department is checking into making their barbecue pit available for cook-outs.

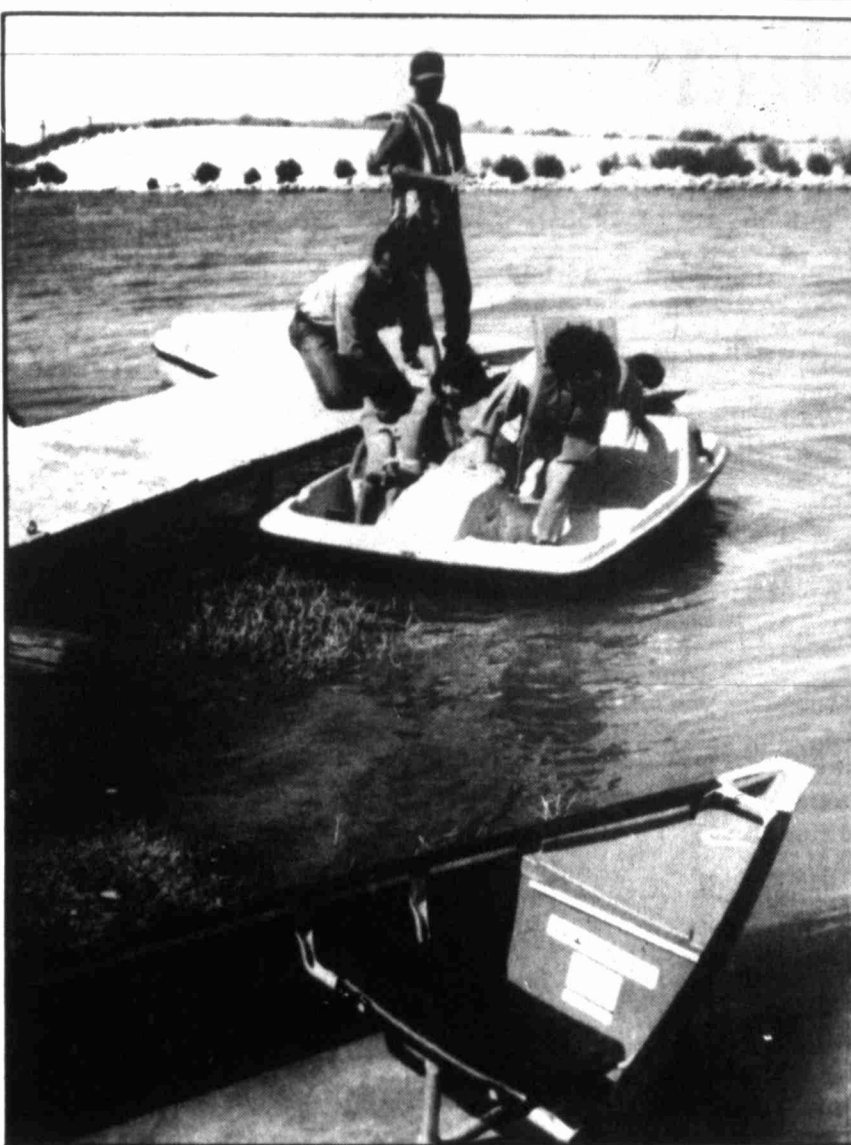

The boats are easily spotted from Highway 87, and the group wants to put up signs advertising the rides.

Becerra hopes the Coahoma and Forsan D-FY-IT branches will join in, perhaps taking turns with Big Spring's chapter to operate the rides.

Parents and other volunteers are invited and welcomed to help run the rides and provide other services as needed.

Right now, however, the days are sunny, warm and made for laziness on a boat at Comanche Trail Lake.

"I know I'll have my family out there," Becerra said.

D-FY-IT sponsor Javier Becerra and new member Junior Flores help people get into a paddleboat at Comanche Trail Lake Tuesday afternoon. The anti-drug group is operating the boats every day from 1-9 p.m., weather permitting.

Warm summer days call for light recipes

By TRACY SAHLER
Thomson News Service

With Memorial Day behind us and three months of the hot season not far ahead, there's no better time than now to enjoy the summer. Before the heat and humidity become unbearable, before the kids are whining that there's nothing to do, before the family vacation has drained your savings, sit down, relax and savor the taste of summer.

Celebrate the unofficial start of the season with two easy grill recipes and a knock-'em-dead giant ice cream sandwich sure to be a hit at your first backyard picnic.

Using a bottled Italian salad dressing as a marinade for chunks of fresh tuna makes this recipe quick yet delicious; it almost seemed like cheating to hear so much praise for so little effort. This recipe was created by cookbook author Melanie Barnard and taste-tested by The Lipton Kitchens using Wish-Bone Italian Dressing.

TUNA NICOISE KABOBS
1 cup Italian dressing

1 tablespoons chopped fresh rosemary or 1 teaspoon dried
1 pound fresh tuna steak, cut into 1-inch chunks

1 pound small red potatoes, scrubbed

8 thick scallions (1 bunch), trimmed to leave 2 inches of green part

8 fresh rosemary branches, optional

1 head romaine lettuce, separated into leaves cup Nicoise or other good-quality black olives
2 plum tomatoes, cut into wedges

In a measuring glass, combine Italian dressing and rosemary. Place tuna in a shallow dish. Pour cup of the dressing over and stir to coat. Reserve remaining dressing. Refrigerate tuna up to 2 hours.

Cook potatoes in a pot of boiling salted water until barely fork tender, about 8 minutes. Drain and add warm potatoes to the shallow dish with the tuna, turning to coat with marinade.

About 15 minutes before cooking, add scallions to tuna and potatoes, turning to coat with marinade.

4-H rounds up Texas counties

More than 2,000 4-H members representing all counties in Texas attended Texas 4-H Roundup, held June 5-9 at the Texas A&M University Campus.

When folks hear the mention of Roundup, they usually think of an event involving cattle and horses, but Roundup Texas 4-H style is an event of another nature.

Texas 4-H Roundup features a variety of opportunities for 4-H members to compete for honors in scholarships, method demonstrations, judging contests, food show and fashion show.

The objectives of Roundup are to provide 4-H members with learning opportunities and educational experiences that support 4-H project work; provide 4-H members the opportunity to compare the skills they have gained with those of other members and with their own previous performances; provide 4-H members the chance to develop and practice citizenship and leadership skills in a different environment; recognize the accomplishments of 4-H members and the support of volunteer adult 4-H leaders.

4-H members attending Texas 4-H Roundup had to earn the right to participate in activities and events held during the week.

They did that by competing at county and district Roundup contests and receiving first and second places at those events to advance to the next level of competition.

Texas 4-H Roundup is not only a time for 4-H members to be recognized for outstanding accomplishments, but for adult leaders to be recognized as well.

Two Howard County 4-H leaders were honored at the Texas 4-H "Salute to Excellence" luncheon Tuesday.

Teresa Gaskins, Knott 4-H Club manager, was honored for outstanding leadership to 4-H club programs and R.C. Thomas of Big Spring was honored for outstanding leadership to the 4-H shooting sports program.

Following two days of personal interviews with a panel of judges, 124 scholarships totaling $720,000 were awarded during an assembly of Roundup participants, county extension agents, leaders and parents Tuesday evening.

Dustin Gaskins, son of Kelly and Teresa Gaskins of Knott, and Justin Wood, son of Ronnie and Diane Wood of Coahoma, were each recipients of a $10,000 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Scholarship. Both young men are planning to attend Texas A&M University in the fall.

Dustin Gaskins also represented Howard County and the Far-West District at the Texas 4-H Food Show on Thursday afternoon.

Twelve 4-H members representing the 12 districts of the Texas Agricultural Extension Services across Texas competed for top honors at the food show, where knowledge as well as culinary skills were tested by qualified judges.

Well, now you know a little about Texas 4-H Roundup, and as you can see it involves a great deal more than what you might first suspect.

For the next year 4-H members from every county across Texas will be planning and hoping for a trip to the 1996 Texas 4-H Roundup.

This annual 4-H event is not only a place for 4-H members to test their knowledge and skills but a place to renew old friendships and make new ones.

4-H is the youth development program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System.

For more information about the Howard County 4-H program, contact the Howard County Extension Office at 264-2236, or stop by the office on the first floor east of the courthouse.

Eddie Matthews, a Bastrop County sheriff's deputy, poses with wild hogs in Bastrop. Matthews traps wild hogs in his off-duty which benefits farmers, whose land the hogs love to tear up, and also helps fill the shelves of local food banks.

Wild hogs bring home bacon for food banks

By MARK SMITH
Houston Chronicle

BASTROP — When Deputy Eddie Matthews found that area farmers were continually mending fences and guarding their crops against wild hogs that tear up ranch and farmland, he saw a way to help them and feed the hungry at the same time.

So now, on his days off from the Bastrop County Sheriff's Department, Matthews is busy setting traps for the marauding packs of feral hogs. He's got a butchery willing to process hundreds of pounds of pork for distribution to four area food banks.

"If you are able to help other people, you should extend your hand," said Matthews, 30. "Every problem has a solution, and I thought this would be a good way to make sure needy people received food while also helping the farmers."

Jewell Hodges, who runs the food pantry in this Central Texas town, says the extra food will come in handy as workers try to feed about 45 needy families each month.

"It certainly will be welcome, as long as it passes inspection," she said. "If it's edible food, especially meat, we can well use it. Right now, we have to squeeze out of our budget money sufficient to buy hamburger at times to support the needs of hungry families."

Bastrop County Sheriff Fred Hoskins said he believes Matthews' program represents a proactive, innovative approach for law enforcement officers.

"It's an extracurricular activity he has taken part in because he has a heart for people," Hoskins said. "It changes the public's perception of a public servant." The program is known as "Hogs for the Hungry."

Matthews said he hopes it will spread throughout Texas and possibly the nation. Recent agricultural studies have found that more than 2 million feral hogs scavenge across 23 states. The hogs can be found in 185 of Texas'

254 counties.

Feral hogs can destroy or damage thousands of acres of crops, authorities said. The agricultural damage is greatest among crops of hay, small grains, corn and peanuts. Damage also is reported in crops of watermelon, soybean and cotton, along with orchards and seedling trees.

The swine also damage fences and water tanks, while transmitting diseases such as swine brucellosis and pseudorabies to livestock, especially sheep and goats.

"They can plow up an area better than a plow," Matthews said. "They can do some real damage."

Matthews said he first began trapping wild swine two years ago after droves of hogs "pigged out" on 800 pounds of his corn in three nights.

He stayed out all night trying to catch the animals but was unsuccessful. But with his landlord's help, Matthews built wire and steel traps and began to place them through

Museum to host murders most fun

Special to the Herald

Host a murder, at your house?

Only if it's all in good fun, and of course, for a worthy cause.

The Heritage Museum is seeking hosts for its semi-annual "Let's Solve a Murder Mystery" benefit July 29.

Area citizens are asked to entertain groups of eight amateur sleuths, serve them dessert and keep a murder mystery game running smoothly.

By evening's end, the "criminals" will be discovered and a dastardly good time had by all. Hosts and their guests are invited to dress as the bizarre characters in several mystery scenarios.

In "Last Train From Paris," the setting is June 1940 aboard a train leaving Paris. Heading for the safety of southern France, a murder is discovered. Passengers must decide who committed the deadly deed.

"The Chicago Capers," is set in 1928 in Chicago's gangster underworld. The group gathered in a speakeasy near Coppone's headquarters, the crime lord's whereabouts become only part of the mystery when murder is discovered.

In "The Class of '54," the local high school class of 1954 has scheduled its fifth reunion to coincide with the return to the town of Rockford. Excitement is running high until the recollection of a high school prank leads to the discovery of murder.

In the mystery "Hoo Hung Woo," it is eighth-century China at the Autumn Moon. Guests gather for an evening of reflection, poetry and feasting, the celebration gives way to deadly dismay about "who dunnit!"

In "Star Trek: The Next Generation," crew members become prime suspects in a mystery that is out of this world.

The fundraiser begins at 6 p.m. with all costumed guests sharing dinner at the museum, after which they will adjourn to the setting of the murder and begin gathering clues.

Past locations have included antique shops, a chiropractic clinic and local homes, as well as the museum and Potton House.

This event has been very successful in the past, said curator Angie Way.

"People frequently leave the murder mystery evening asking when the next one will take place," she said.

"But we couldn't do it without our hosts. They set the tone for a truly memorable evening of murder."

For information about hosting a group of sleuths, call 267-8255.

Dogsleds boost tourism in cold northern climes

By KELLY TAYLOR

CHURCHILL, Manitoba, Canada — It wasn't jet fuel or gasoline that brought Steve Higgins here.

It was Puppy Chow. The Illinois carpenter arrived here from Gillam, York Factory and the shores of Hudson Bay behind a team of hardy huskies, and his weatherbeaten face shows it. But there's nothing dampening his enthusiasm for the trip.

"It was a kind of dream," he said. "You're out in the middle of nowhere four days by dogsled from anywhere."

Higgins says he was drawn by the open spaces and northern lifestyle.

"I guess just the pristine-ness," he said. "Back home, all you have are cars and buses."

On his last full day of sledging, Higgins and his four travelling companions raced alongside a herd of about 40 caribou. "You just don't see stuff like that in the United States."

It's Higgins's kind of adventure that this northern seaport is hoping will help break the annual boom and bust cycle of tourism. Tourists traditionally don't start showing up until late April, and even then it's just a small number of bird-watchers.

Come beluga whale season in August or polar bear season in October, visitors flock here at a rate of 12,000 a year.

But this is a town that refuses to die, and efforts are under way to increase the town's appeal during the off season.

"We're becoming more sophisticated in the products we offer," said Mayor Doug Webber, himself an operator of lodges in northern Manitoba.

"We're seeing a fairly significant increase in the shoulder season," he said, referring to times just outside peak season.

Tours to see the northern lights, trapline tours and dogsled adventures are all starting to pick up business, he said.

out his leased 160 acres. Using berry-flavored Jell-O and corn as bait, Matthews said he has captured some 200 hogs.

"They really like cherry, strawberry and raspberry Jell-O," Matthews said. "It gives them the smell of wild berries. When they can't find roots and grub worms they enter the traps. I think the smell of berries gives them the feeling of being safe."

The wild hogs, Matthews said, are very intelligent and wary of being trapped. In an effort to fool the swine, he allows the critters a few evening feasts of corn and Jell-O before springing the trap. At night, Matthews said the hogs will run in packs of 50 to 100.

"When they are running to their favorite feeding places they race to get there first," Matthews said.

Due to their active jaunts, Matthews said the hogs are devoid of the fat found in domestic swine.

"It's better than the pork you buy at the store," he said. "It's a whole lot leaner meat. I've barbecued the meat and it just fell off the bone."

The feral swine are believed to have been brought to the continental United States by Hernando DeSoto, a Spanish explorer in the early 16th century, according to a recent Texas Agricultural Extension Service report.

DeSoto brought 13 hogs from Cuba to Florida in 1549. The Cuban pigs are thought to be descendants of pigs brought to the New World by Columbus in his second voyage in 1493.

The wild swine are powerful and fierce. With tusks up to three inches long and full-grown boars weighing up to 400 pounds, the animals can be dangerous to trap and transport.

Although he has avoided injury, Matthews said he had a few "close calls" with the beasts known to charge dogs, even humans.

"I've seen them jump from ground level over a five-foot-high fence," Matthews said. "One did a broad jump over the trailer."

This week, Matthews said, the program hopes to distribute 600 to 800 pounds of pork to food banks in Bastrop, Elgin and Smithville.

"I'm trying to do something to help others and the solution is right in front of you," Matthews said. "If I can help one person it will be a success."

IF JUNE 15 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: This is a year when you will communicate better, tackle issues, understand what motivates others and gain new insights. Work will be what you focus on most. You will feel that work, authority figures and people important to you are raining on your parade, so adapt. Fulfill obligations, but be yourself - this is a critical issue for you this year. If you are single, relationships pop up left and right. You might make a very loving connection. However, because of other demands, you must work hard to integrate this relationship in to your life. If attached, value your relationships instead of seeing your partner as another person to answer to. AQUARIUS understands you.

Thread scallions, tuna and potatoes onto 4 long metal skewers, beginning and ending with scallions and alternating chunks of tuna and potatoes in center. If using the fresh rosemary branches, dampen them in cold water, then toss onto medium coals. Grill the kabobs (or broil 6 inches from the heat), turning once or twice, about 10 minutes until tuna is no longer pink, potatoes are tender and scallions are browned.

1 pound small, unpeeled pearl onions (about 20)
1 package (16 ounces) fresh baby-cut carrots, pound green beans, ends trimmed, cut into 2-inch pieces (1 cup) tablespoon margarine cup reduced-sodium chicken broth
4 to 8 fresh thyme sprigs salt (optional) and pepper to taste

In small saucepan, parboil onions in boiling water for 2 minutes. Drain and cool. Trim ends and remove peels.

To make each vegetable bundle, spray the center of an 18-by-12-inch piece of heavy duty aluminum foil with butter-flavored nonstick cooking spray. Place the carrots, onions and green beans in center of foil. Dot with the margarine. Add 2 tablespoons of the chicken broth and 1 or 2 thyme sprigs. Salt and pepper to taste. Bring 2 ends of foil together over vegetables and tightly seal by folding down about 3 times. Fold in sides in similar manner. Repeat for other portions.

Barbecue on grill 6 inches above glowing coals or on medium heat of gas barbecue for about 20 minutes, turning every 5 minutes. To serve, carefully open foil packets. Makes 4 servings.

This ice-cream sandwich, compliments of Quaker Oats, combines smooth ice cream with fudgy, peanut buttery sandwich layers. Cut into thin wedges to serve.

COLOSSAL BROWNIE ICE-CREAM SANDWICH TOPPING

1 cup oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
3 tablespoons all purpose flour
2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar cup peanut butter
1 tablespoon margarine or butter

BROWNIE LAYERS

1 cup (6 ounces) semisweet chocolate pieces (or substitute 2 ounces - 2 squares - unsweetened chocolate and increase sugar to 1 cup)
1 cup (1 stick) margarine or butter cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

2 eggs
1 cup all purpose flour cup oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked) teaspoon baking powder teaspoon salt, optional

FILLING

1 quart vanilla ice cream
Heat oven to 350 degrees. Line two 8- or 9-inch round cake pans with aluminum foil, allowing foil to extend over sides of pans. Spray with non-stick cooking spray or grease lightly.

For topping, combine oats, flour and brown sugar; cut in peanut butter and margarine until mixture is crumbly, and set aside.

For brownie layers, in medium saucepan over low heat, melt chocolate pieces and margarine, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; cool slightly. Stir in sugar and vanilla.

Add eggs; mix well. Add combined flour, oats, baking powder and salt; mix well. Divide evenly between prepared pans; sprinkle each with half of reserved topping, patting gently. Bake 22 to 24 minutes for 8-inch pan (20 to 22 minutes for 9-inch pan) or until center of brownie is set. Do not over-bake. Cool completely in pans on wire rack.

When brownie layers are cool, soften ice cream in refrigerator, about 15 to 20 minutes. To assemble, spread ice cream evenly over 1 brownie layer while still in pan. Lift second layer out of its pan; remove foil. With topping side up, place second brownie layer on top of ice cream, pressing gently. Cover with foil; freeze several hours or overnight. Makes 12 servings.

Octogenarian's birthday wish: Keep sending cards, letters

DEAR ABBY: I just turned 80 and had the most wonderful birthday in my life!

At 80, folks don't need presents - they need attention, and this year, my daughter saw to it that I got plenty. She wrote letters to many of my friends telling them my 80th was coming up, and I did not want gifts, but it would be wonderful if they sent me a card with a personal note or a snapshot, and to pass along the word to others.

Abigail Van Buren

Abby, the response was overwhelming! I heard from friends, relatives, people I had worked with many years ago - even a few friends from grade school! I can't describe the lift it gave me to know that these people are still alive and remembered me. They offered congratulations, compliments, a special memory and expressions of love. Each and every message was a precious gift.

I highly recommend this way of saying "Happy Birthday - I Love You" to anyone near and dear. My sincere thanks to my daughter for having thought of it - and a bigger thank-you to everyone who responded. - STILL SMILING

DEAR STILL SMILING: I have seen many such requests. Some were works of art, and most included a stamped envelope addressed to the honoree. I can't imagine a more rewarding gift! DEAR ABBY: You sometimes warn people about dangerous practices, and this is certainly the time of year to issue this warning.

I am appalled when I see young children mowing the lawn with power rotary lawn mowers. And worse yet, even younger children running alongside the mower!

Parents, wake up! Power mowers are extremely dangerous. They can pick up rocks, small toys and other debris and propel them out with the speed of a bullet!

No one should ever be on the discharge side of a mower; I don't even want to think about what could happen if a child should slip and fall in the path of the sharp whirling blade!

Abby, it happens every year - even to adults who are trying to be careful. - CAL S. HOLM, THIENSVILLE, WIS.

DEAR CAL: Thanks for the wake-up call. Readers, listen to Cal. The accident you may prevent could be your own.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HESITATING IN HELENA, MONT.: Don't wait - start as soon as possible. The late, great President John F. Kennedy wisely said, "The time to repair the roof is when the sun is shining."

Meet Kristie Carruthers

Kristie Carruthers has joined the Big Spring Herald's Staff as Newspapers In Education Literacy Coordinator.

Kristie has a Masters Degree in Elementary Education and has experience using the N. I. E. program in the classroom setting. When asked why newspapers were an integral part of her classroom she responded, "It bridges the gap between classroom and community. It is a flexible teaching tool, it is an up-to-date text, and it is the only text children will use throughout their lives."

Primary Responsibilities of the Herald's N. I. E. Literacy Coordinator are to serve as liaison between the schools and the Herald by providing curriculum guides, conducting teacher in-services, conducting tours of the Herald's facility, updating teachers on how to utilize the newspaper in everyday situations and securing sponsors for the program.

Kristie says, "I like to think of the newspaper as a learning tool for people of all ages -- whether they're learning about local and world events, or learning to read."

We at the Herald welcome Kristie, and invite you to contact her if you have questions about how you can become involved.

Dear Big Spring Herald,
I would like to thank your sponsors for donating all the money to the Herald for all the people. We use the newspaper alot! Our teacher, Mrs. Byrnie, makes us cut out something good from the paper and tell the class about it for Social Studies! Last year, in the second grade our teacher made us do who, what, when, where, how, and why. In the first grade our teacher looked through the paper with us. I like the newspaper alot and the Mini Page which is really fun! Thank you alot!
Your friend, Jessica Alcock

Dear Big Spring Herald,
Thank you for giving us the newspaper all year long. Our teacher, Mrs. Byrnie, makes us cut out an article to share orally with the class. We do the Mini Page and she also makes us cut out adverbs, verbs, pronouns, and nouns.
I found out the newspaper contains interesting facts and opinions. I use the paper to find out what our school is having for the weekly lunch.
We appreciate all the sponsors that made having the newspaper in class possible.
Your friend, Samantha Smith

Dear Big Spring Herald,
I would like to thank all the sponsors that paid for the Big Spring Herald. My teacher has given us a lot of assignments to cut out a lot of good things from the Herald to share to the class. It is a lot of fun reading the Mini Page. I like to read all the jokes on the Mini Page.
Sincerely, Tina Thiessen

Dear Big Spring Herald,
I would like to thank all the Sponsors that helped with the newspapers for all the years. I am in 3rd grade and my teacher makes some of our assignments out of the Big Spring Herald like every week we have to cut out a current event to tell the class. I also love reading and working in the Mini Page! It's alot of fun! THANKS ALOT!
Sincerely, Allison Jansa

Dear Big Spring Herald,
I would like to thank all the sponsors that donated the money for the Herald newspapers. The Herald newspaper is important in our class because Mrs. Byrnie makes us do a good current event from the newspaper. I like the Mini Page. Its Fun! The Most fun part is the Mini Search.
Your Friend, Anna Flores

Dear Big Spring Herald,
I am in the third grade at Garden City, and I would like to thank everyone who made it possible for us to receive the Newspaper. We do a lot with the paper such as, current events, Mini Page, Language Skills, Reading, and various other things.
I have enjoyed reading the paper for myself! We even use the paper after we have read it to build peanuts and other art activities.
Sincerely, Jacob Weiss

1994 - 95 N. I. E. Wrapup

By Mary Holwager, Interim N. I. E. Coordinator

The 1994-95 school year is drawing to a close, and it's time to reflect on our accomplishments a moment. Thanks to Donna Parker's Lockup For Literacy last July and the generous support of our sponsors, we were able to distribute 120,000 copies of the Herald during the school year, to 3,400 students in grades K through 12. The papers were used in class projects ranging from spelling bee preparation and find-a-verb contests to research into the uses of advertising.

In addition to the newspaper, we were able to provide teacher guides in a number of subjects, and to offer assistance with lesson plans and suggestions.

The Herald sponsored the Regional Spelling Bee again this year, with participants from ten area schools vying for prizes that included savings bonds, dictionaries, free dinners and trips to our local skating rink.

Classes at several area schools participated in the annual Design-an-Ad competition, planning and laying out advertisements promoting local merchants. The results of their labors are published in a special section in today's paper.

We've taken several classes from area schools on tours of the Herald plant, giving them firsthand experience of a working newspaper and the people who put it out. If you have a group that would like to tour the paper, we'd be glad to see you - call us at 263-7331 to make an appointment.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the teachers and students who participated in the Newspapers In Education program this year. I've enjoyed my work with the program this semester very much, and on behalf of myself, the Herald, and the students and teachers who used all those papers, thank you to everyone who helped sponsor N. I. E. -- The Big Spring Herald's Literacy Program. Keep up the good work!
