Officer Jerry Penny looks around a corner in the alley behind Poncho's, 312 Runnels, Wednesday afternoon searching for a man with a gun. At least six police officers and two Texas Rangers responded to the call in reference to a man who had approached the back door of the business armed with a handgun.

Gun-wielding man attempts robbery

■ Suspect matches description of Lubbock murder suspect

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Authorities are searching for an attempted aggravated robbery suspect.

A man approached the back door of Poncho's Newsstand, 312 Runnels, around 1:30 p.m. Wednesday brandishing a gun and demanding money.

Six police officers and two Texas Rangers responded to the business and began a foot search for the suspect, but he escaped. Chief Jerry Edwards says the case is still under investigation and officers are continuing to look for the man.

He is described as a Hispanic male, in his late 30s or early 40s, six feet tall, 220 pounds and shoulder-length black hair. He also has a beard and mustache and was last seen wearing a blue denim shirt and blue jeans.

Although he matches the description of a murder suspect from Lubbock, officials cannot confirm whether he is the same person.

Heartland to re-open both stores Saturday

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Employees of Don's IGA were informed in employee meetings Wednesday that new owners, Heartland Foods in Oklahoma City, Okla., will reopen both Big Spring stores Saturday.

Gary Dempsey, a retail consultant with Flemming Co. of which Heartland is a subsidiary, said, "We're going to reopen Saturday and maintain our regular hours."

The College Park location will be open daily from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. and the Gregg St. store will be open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Dempsey said, "We are retaining all of the old employees at their same rate of pay and we may even need some new ones because we fully expect business to come back."

He added there won't be any substantial changes right away as Heartland will concentrate on getting products back in the stores, get the store operating, and take care of the Big Spring customers.

Local residents B-I-N-G-O to tune of $667,453

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

"Bingo," is a word heard quite often in Big Spring and Howard County.

According to Executive Director of the Texas Lottery Commission Nora Linares, "Nothing can make a bingo player's day like shouting 'Bingo!' in a crowded hall, and player in Howard County have done their share of shouting lately."

During the first three months of this year, Linares said Charitable Bingo players who patronize the nine Charitable Bingo organizations in Howard County won $667,453.

The $667,453 won in Howard County is part of the $104 million in prizes paid to winners by bingo halls across the state, which included $82.9 million for

Council honors contributions of Taylor and McMahon Sr.

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The last of a group of pioneers at the Colorado River Municipal Water District were honored at Tuesday's City Council meeting for their service to the district.

On behalf of the City Council, Mayor Tim Blackshear presented long-time members of the Colorado River Municipal Water District Board of Directors John L. Taylor and Clyde McMahon Sr., with plaques for their years of service to the CRMWD and Big Spring.

Several weeks ago Taylor and McMahon notified the council they planned to retire from the 12-member board.

Taylor, selected as board president in July 1983, first joined the CRMWD board in August 1964. He is only the fourth president in the board's 46-year history.

According to Taylor, when he joined the CRMWD the district consisted of Lake J.B. Thomas, the Martin County Well Field, and a little more than 200 miles of pipeline.

Today the CRMWD has three water supply reservoirs, six well fields, five water quality impoundments, 21 pump stations, and approximately 600 miles of pipeline.

Taylor's service to the city of Big Spring includes owning and operating Taylor Implement for a number of years, serving as president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. He has also been a long-time supporter of FFA, 4-H, and was one of the organizers of the Howard County Junior Livestock Association.

McMahon, who joined the CRMWD board in 1973, said the district existed because of the vision of a number of West Texans who understood the importance of water to the survival of the region.

His service to Big Spring includes owning and operating McMahon Concrete for almost 25 years before turning the business over to his son.

McMahon is also a former president of the Chamber of Commerce, school board president, and was the first two-term director of the Big Spring

Revision of undeveloped property code approved

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council approved several items Tuesday night, including an ordinance revising the city code regarding maintenance of undeveloped property.

Article 1 of Chapter 13 deals with insanitary, unsightly conditions on private premises.

Section 13-3 A, reads, "It shall not be deemed unlawful for the owner of any undeveloped property within the corporate limits of the city of Big Spring to allow such flora and fauna to achieve its natural height, on all property zoned on the official zoning map as Agricultural 'A' provided the following clear zones are maintained to a height not to exceed twelve inches."

The first of those zones in the ordinance indicate the clear zone will be maintained for 200 feet from contiguous occupied property lines. The second clear zone specifies 200 feet behind the property line along all public right-of-ways.

Violation of this addition to the city code (for health and safety matters) are punishable by fines not to exceed $1,000.

City Manager Gary Fuqua also addressed the council requesting the development of an ad hoc committee to oversee improvement at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Fuqua asked City Councilman Jimmy Campbell to assist him with the committee since he is a very active golfer and plays at the course.

The council also approved, on first reading, a resolution authorizing Mayor Tim Blackshear to execute an agreement with Howard County for building rental for the Senior Citizen's Center.

According to City Finance

Director Tom Ferguson the contract between the city and Howard County for rental of the building being used as the Howard County Senior Citizen Center expired in December 1994 due to an oversight.

A contract renewal would be for two years and according to Ferguson the Howard County Commissioners' Court will consider the contract renewal at its next meeting.

The council also approved several consent items at its recent meeting, including:

• A resolution for substantial completion of improvements at the Wastewater Treatment Plant.

• A resolution approving an agreement with Moore Development For Big Spring Inc., for the new city/county grant writer.

• A resolution supporting SJR47 - the proposed consolidation of county government and political subdivisions.

New business items approved on first reading by the council included:

• A resolution authorizing the mayor to execute an agreement with Rape Crisis/Victims Services for building rental.

• A resolution authorizing and directing the mayor to execute an agreement with the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 for the sale of water.

• A resolution authorizing expenditures from the Capitol Revolving Fund for ambulance service.

• A resolution requesting the Texas Department of Transportation to prohibit left turns from the inside lane of Gregg St. (U.S. 87) at its intersection with West First.

• An ordinance designating Settles St. and Wood St. as a four-way stop intersection.

regular bingo prizes and $21.9 million in prizes for instant bingo or pull tabs.

The top bingo winners in Texas were in Dallas County, $17.1 million; Tarrant County, $13.8 million; and Harris County, $11.2 million.

Linares said Howard County officials recently received $25,633.45 in Charitable Bingo prize fees to cover the first quarter of 1995.

She added cities and counties that imposed the gross receipts tax on a local-option basis receive quarterly payments equal to 2.5 percent of the prizes won by bingo winners in their jurisdictions.

The prize fees allocated to Howard County and other Texas cities were part of the $2.7 million allocated to Texas cities and counties. In all, 67 county government received $1.4 million in fees and 131 city governments received $1.3 million.

The largest allocation of prize fees, in the first quarter, was Dallas County, $24,509; Tarrant County, $179,572; Harris County, $158,007; city of Dallas, $136,596; and Bexar County, $110,205.

'We Don't Call On Our Brothers'

Nation of Islam security officers arrested on kidnapping, assault charges

DALLAS (AP) — Nation of Islam members who serve as mall security officers should have called police before they forced four children suspected of stealing to strip naked and then beat them, one parent said.

Bobby Lott, the stepfather a 13-year-old boy who was involved in the incident, said Wednesday the guards told him they didn't call the police because "we took it up in our own hands. We don't call on our brothers."

Four members of the black Muslim group who were working as security guards at the Westcliff Mall were arrested on kidnapping charges following the four-hour ordeal Monday. They are accused of beating the boys, then forcing them to run through a gantlet for more abuse.

The unarmed security guards told police the boys confessed to breaking into the mall and stealing $300 and a cash register from an antiques store after the mall closed Sunday, police Sgt. Jim Chandler said. The guards had rounded up the boys Monday.

Derick Hopkins, 27, and fellow security guards Stanley Stephen, 23, Zavier McFerguson, 30, and Tyrone Miller, 31, were arrested Tuesday. Each was charged with four counts of aggravated kidnapping. They were jailed on $100,000 bail.

No assault charges have been filed, Chandler said.

"The boys can't identify anybody in the crowd in the assault. So it's very unlikely any of them will be charged. We're trying to work on that angle," Chandler said.

Lott said he would have preferred the officers called police.

"If I had done (my stepson) like that I would have gone to jail. That's child abuse," he said.

The children involved are brothers, ages 16, 13, 12, and a 13-year-old friend. They were all treated for bruises and welts on their backs, buttocks and legs. They were released to their parents and no charges have been filed against them.

Mall owner Gaoloku Lagbara said the parents and police officers overreacted.

"I'm trying to focus on these little thieving kids," Lagbara said.

"In reality no one gives a darn about these raggedy little underprivileged kids. We've caught them several times stealing from us. The one time they're going to get spanked everyone is in an uproar," he said.

Lagbara said the security force refrains from calling the police because of his personal philosophy.

"We handle problems internally. We try to sit these kids down and tell them, 'This is a black mall. Do you realize what you are doing? Why would you steal from a black man?'"

He said he hopes the parents will not press charges against the guards.

"I hope for a stalemate. If they bring charges against the security force I will press charges against these kids," he said.

Nation of Islam members also work as unarmed security guards elsewhere, including housing projects in Baltimore, New York, Buffalo, N.Y., Washington and Chicago, where the organization has its headquarters.

Jeffery Muhammad, minister of Nation of Islam Mosque No. 48, with headquarters at the mall, did not return calls to his office. A woman who answered the phone at the regional Nation of Islam office in Houston said no one was available for comment.

Severe weather a problem for cotton producers

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Severe weather conditions have caused problems for North Texas cotton producers, according to the state Agricultural Extension Service.

Paul Gross, district Extension director in Amarillo, said stormy weather destroyed cotton crops across many counties in the Panhandle region.

"In the Southeastern region of the Panhandle, most cotton will have to be replanted due to hail, washout and cool weather," Gross said, "and some counties such as Deaf Smith and Collinworth received hail that wiped out complete crops. 'We are trying to hold on to what cotton we can because prices are good,' he said.

Gross said although the storms have been damaging, producers in the Panhandle are thankful for the moisture they have received.

"We have been dry for so long, and at least if we are having to try to save cotton crops, we have moisture to work with," he said.

Twisters have been a problem. Gross said one tornado destroyed homes, buildings, crops, feedlots, cattle and horses.

"This tornado went through Wheeler County and hit a feedyard destroying a feedmill, pens, and animals," he said. "About 100 cattle, valued at about $700 each, were killed or had to be destroyed due to extensive injuries caused by flying metal and debris."

Also, buildings and homes were destroyed, and several horses were killed, he said.

Bob Robinson, district Extension director in Lubbock, said the South Plains also experienced a tornado that caused severe destruction.

"About 10 days ago, a tornado went through Friona practically totalling a feedmill," he said. "The tornado also damaged structures and crops, but thankfully no animals or people have been seriously injured."

Robinson said some cotton in the South Plains also has been hurt due to recent weather conditions.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — They're a powerful bunch who somberly stroll into a town to decide whether to put hundreds or thousands of people out of work.

They've said little, at least in public.

What members of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission have said during recent visits to military bases targeted for closure in Texas and Oklahoma often has sounded like it came from a single script. Their best, commissioners insisted, is what they would do.

"We hope that we will be able to do the best thing to preserve as many dollars as we can for our important military missions," commissioner Rebecca Cox said at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio.

"As we look at all this we just have to do the best we can to do what we think is right in the circumstances," commission chairman Alan J. Dixon said at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma City.

Stronger stalking bill signed by Bush

AUSTIN (AP) — Victims of domestic violence and stalking will have stronger legal recourse against their assailants under a package of seven bills signed into law by Gov. George W. Bush.

"These new laws recognize domestic violence for what it is — violent crime," Bush said Wednesday.

"These laws will punish those who inflict violence where Texans should feel safest, in their homes. They will also help those who are abused by a family member or live with the fear and threat of a stalker," he said.

Two of the laws enhance the penalties for repeat domestic violence offenses.

Repeated domestic assaults and third violations of protective orders both were raised from Class A misdemeanors to state jail felonies.

Another new law gives magistrates the authority to issue a 31-day emergency protective order for victims of domestic violence or stalking.

In addition, a law that required a stalking victim to report more than one stalking incident before authorities could respond was eliminated with a stroke of Bush's pen, and stalking victims also may now sue stalkers in civil courts.

The final two bills require law enforcement agencies to make a reasonable attempt to notify victims of domestic violence and stalking when a person charged with such an offense is released on bond.

The laws garnered the support of the Texas Council on Family Violence, an organization of shelters and battering intervention and prevention programs.

The group took some credit for pushing the bills through the 1995 Legislature.

Baby buyer, broker, sellers arrested in rare opportunity

McALLEN (AP) — Police said they had the rare opportunity to arrest the buyer, seller and brokers allegedly involved in a deal to sell a baby for $1,500.

"It's very unusual to find out about it," McAllen police spokesman Mitch Reinitz said Wednesday. "In this case, we have all the individuals involved in making the exchanges."

McAllen resident Blanca Olivera, 23, allegedly offered to sell her 14-month-old girl during a conversation with Yolanda Saenz and her husband, according to police reports.

Ms. Saenz and her husband, both of Pharr, asked Lopezville resident Juanita Lopez to help find a buyer.

Police say Palmview resident Maria Isabel Casas, 25, attempted to buy the baby on June 3. The next day, for unknown reasons, Ms. Casas returned the infant to the couple from whom she intended to buy it, police said.

Police officials say a witness alerted them to the sale.

No money was exchanged in the deal so the four were charged with the attempted sale of a child.

Ms. Casas, Ms. Lopez and Ms. Saenz all posted $50,000 bond and were released from Hidalgo County Jail.

Promises And Proof

Tomorrow's leaders deal with today's budget woes

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — So far, the balanced-budget debate is about promises, not proof. That's to be delivered later, over seven years or 10, and while today's government leaders can set the course, tomorrow's will be in charge when the final bills come due.

And they will be costly. So when Republican leaders say, as they do, that Congress already has produced a balanced budget by 2002, there's some political poetic license involved. They have drafted two plans to be melded by the House and Senate. They're two months behind schedule.

With President Clinton's rival proposal to balance the budget in 2005, the top echelons in both political parties are committed to shrinking the federal government, although they still collide on how, where and when.

Whether the break-even date is 2002 or three years later or something between, the call from the Democratic White House for cuts, in spending and necessarily in the federal role, is change in the pattern. Indeed, while Clinton pressed his own deficit-reduction program in his first two years — and got no Republican help then — his new-look budget is a sharp turn from the one he sent Congress only four months ago.

That break with Democratic orthodoxy is drawing protests from within the president's own party, and not only from ardent liberals.

"I don't believe it's right for the Democrats to kind of overreact to the last election," Clinton said Wednesday. But to Democratic critics, he's the one overreacting to the Republican takeover of Congress, with a budget plan they deem tilted the GOP way.

The president said he isn't yielding on priorities like education, won't let Medicare beneficiaries suffer, won't accept Republican tax cut plans. "In a sense, he's created bookends with the Republicans," said Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., who wanted him to wait longer.

The budget resolution Congress is trying to complete sets guidelines for action there, and isn't subject to a Clinton veto. "He's got a veto on everything else that follows," said Leon Panetta, the White House chief of staff.

Republicans scoffed at the Clinton proposal as a belated non-starter, a flip-flop that will have little or no impact. That's politics; some of the same Republicans had been demanding for weeks that Clinton weigh in with a new budget, since his original was scrapped by Congress. He'd said that one would continue his course of deficit reduction, but it showed imbalances widening by the year 2000.

For weeks, Clinton refused to move, saying he would wait until the Republicans settled on a plan. He said he'd work with them for balanced budgets, and would say how at the proper time.

He decided that was Tuesday night, although Democratic congressional leaders wanted to wait, and said so, before and after his five-minute TV budget message. He'd been assailing GOP cuts as Draconian and menacing to popular programs, particularly Medicare. Now he's for Medicare cuts, too, although more modest ones. And that cedes back an issue.

It also put both parties on his case, even though House Speaker Newt Gingrich said it may include some good ideas Republicans can accept. Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Budget Committee, said the new Clinton plan showed "that he agrees with Republicans on many things...."

"It is probably the only time in history that Congress has produced a balanced budget while the president sat in the sidelines," Domenici said in a morning-after TV interview. "We've proven we can do it in seven years," House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, said in another.

But designing a balanced budget and delivering it are different matters. Budgets are based on projections, on scoring, in the congressional parlance. They include assumptions on economic performance that are hard to project for one year at a time, let alone seven or 10. The biggest one-year cuts in all the proposals come in the latter years. In Clinton's version, it would be 2003, well past the end of a second term if he gets one.

The federal budget hasn't been balanced since 1969, and that was a break in a deficit pattern. Before that, it was 1960. Clinton boasts that he is the first president since Harry Truman to reduce deficits for three years in a row.

Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan both came to the White House promising to balance budgets within a term. Neither came close. But until George Bush's last budget, the annual message to Congress always had projected balance by the end of the five-year projections presidents are required to issue.

That points to the gap between plan and performance. It's still there to be bridged.

Financial forms provide peek into lawmaker's lives, travel

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Managing Editor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas lawmakers spent less time on foreign and domestic jaunts last year, though a few did get their passports stamped in exotic locales.

Financial disclosure forms released Wednesday for most of Congress' 535 House and Senate members showed that travel — both domestic and overseas — took a nosedive in the Texas congressional delegation last year.

Eight of the delegation's 32 members reported taking trips abroad at the expense of special interests. Among them were Reps. Solomon Ortiz, D-Corpus Christi, who spent 19 days in Taipei and another five in Mexico City; Rep. Bill Archer, R-Houston, who spent two weeks in Burma and China; and Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson, D-Dallas, who spent eight days in China and six in Taiwan.

Other foreign travelers included Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, who spent a week in Jerusalem; Rep. Jack Fields, R-Humble, a week in London and Amsterdam; Reps. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs, and Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land, five or more days in Scotland; and Rep. Charlie Wilson, D-Lufkin, five days in Norway during the Winter Olympics.

Even as the foreign travelers were racking frequent flyer points, much of the delegation was staying closer to home. Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, who was the delegation's most frequent traveler in 1993 — with 24 trips — was down to seven last year.

One of the few increasing his travel pace was Gramm, allowing special interests to pick up the tab for 32 trips or hotel stays last year — up from five the year before. The 1994 form, which doesn't chronicle the travel paid for by Gramm's campaign committees, reflected that the GOP presidential hopeful made numerous trips to speak to Republican groups.

The disclosure forms reflect more than travel. Lawmakers annually also must report their outside income, financial holdings, securities transactions, debts and gifts received.

Members are allowed to provide only broad ranges of assets. They aren't required to detail the value of their homes, automobiles, furniture, art, spouse's salary, Social Security or federal pension benefits.

Texas' five freshman members spanned both gamuts on the financial spectrum. Republican Steve Stockman, R-Friendswood, listed no assets. The form filed by Democrat Lloyd Doggett of Austin shows him to be a multimillionaire.

Sketchy as the forms may be, they nonetheless offer fascinating details about Congress' 535 members.

For example, Rep. John Bryant's extracurricular interest in baseball is growing by leaps and bounds.

The Dallas Democrat, who is a founder of the Independent and growing Texas-Louisiana league, is now trying to mount a third major league. The United League would be the first on-field challenger to the American and National leagues since World War I.

Bryant, who conceived of the United League and has shopped the idea to outside investors, said the new league will begin play next April. Six cities already have been selected as first recipients of UL teams: Los Angeles; New Orleans; New York; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Vancouver, British Columbia; and Washington.

"There are no reasons why cities like the ones I just mentioned shouldn't be able to watch a major league baseball team and so this United Baseball $15,001-$50,000.

Major sources of unearned income: Stock and bond dividends and mutual fund returns, $14,212-$41,300; rent from partnerships, $5,002-$10,000.

Major liabilities: None

Gifts: None

Narrative: Listed among Mrs. Hutchison's assets was the legal defense fund, valued between $250,001-$500,000, that she established in 1993 after being indicted on criminal ethics charges. She was later acquitted and the fund was terminated last year. She made one speech, in Washington, to the American Petroleum Institute, with the $2,000 honoraria going to charity. In addition to her $133,600 congressional salary, Mrs. Hutchison reported $700 in income from an outdoor advertising contract. The assets of her husband, Dallas bond attorney Ray Hutchison, are valued between $485,011-$1,129,000.

HOUSE:

District: 17

Charles Stenholm

Party: Democrat

Earned Income: $133,600

Honoraria, all donated to charity: $16,250

Major assets: All assets owned jointly with wife, including: 880.5 acres of land, buildings and equipment, $265,002-$550,000; Arlington, Va. home, $250,001-$500,000; half interest in Double S Farms, $50,001-$100,000; tractor, $50,000-$100,000; retirement and IRA holdings, $16,002-$65,000; automobile, $15,001-$50,000; co-op holdings, $6,006-$90,000; bank accounts, $4,004-$60,000; oil and gas partnerships, $2,002-$30,000.

Major sources of unearned income: $36,004-$117,500 from farm income, agriculture program payments and crop insurance; tractor exchange, $15,001-$50,000; car exchange, $5,001-$15,000; and retirement fund interest, $2,702-$6,000.

Major liabilities: Six personal and business loans, jointly with wife, for $160,006-$400,000.

Gifts: None

Narrative: A member of the House Agriculture Committee, Stenholm received between $6,002-$17,500 in federal agriculture program and crop insurance payments. He accepted seven paid trips last year, far down from the 24 in 1993. Destinations included San Diego; Dallas; Pebble Beach, Calif.; Park City, Utah; and Kansas City, Mo. Trip providers were the American Feed Industry, National Broiler Council, Biscuit and Cracker Manufacturing Association and United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. For two charity events, including a golf tournament, Stenholm paid for travel and lodging for himself and his spouse. Stenholm made 15 speeches in exchange for $16,250 in donations to charities. His disclosure form goes well beyond what is required, listing assets for his wife and daughter, as well as the family's personal residence and car. He is president of Double S Farms and partner in S&S Feeders and S&S Enterprises.

League is going to provide them one," he said.

Bryant's sport may be baseball, but football holds some appeal, too.

His disclosure form showed he was provided two Super Bowl tickets last year by Hayes Micro-computer Products Inc., which flew him and a family member to Atlanta and provided food and lodging. Bryant reimbursed Hayes $600 for the tickets.

A member of the powerful

Commerce Committee and champion of lobbying reform legislation, Bryant said he saw no conflict in accepting the Super Bowl weekend. "I've never heard of Hayes before or since," he said. "If it lobbies the Commerce Committee it's news to me."

Bryant took issue with questions about the trip, saying the media uses details from the disclosure forms "try to sort of suggest a twist to it that is wrong."

Herndon also faces a felony charge of possession of a controlled substance. Police said they found a plastic bag containing a yellow powder inside Herndon's wallet.

Shadow legislation aimed at crop subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of spending on farm programs have a rallying point in this summer's farm bill debate — shadow legislation that would eliminate crop subsidies after six years.

Reps. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., and Dick Zimmer, R-N.J., announced the counter measure at a news conference Wednesday. They were joined by representatives of a conservative think tank, environmental groups and an organization that targets government waste.

"The fact of the matter is, you will not find a group like this together very often," said Schumer, who has spent 15 years nibbling at the edges of farm programs before the new assault on subsidies for corn, other feed grains, cotton, rice and wheat that cost $6 billion to $10 billion a year.

Schumer said he's tired of urban programs such as mass transit being shorted while wealthy landowners benefit from farm payments. Zimmer said Republicans have to prove they're sincere about cutting all programs, even those benefiting GOP farmers.

The Environmental Working Group said agriculture can't ask for "takings" legislation that compensates farmers for loss of wetlands use or the consequences of clean water or endangered species legislation when the land value already is enhanced by government farm payments.

The Heritage Foundation said simply that a free market without government involvement works best.

Other groups joining in support of the proposed Farm Freedom Act were the U.S. Public Interest Research Group and Citizens Against Government Waste.

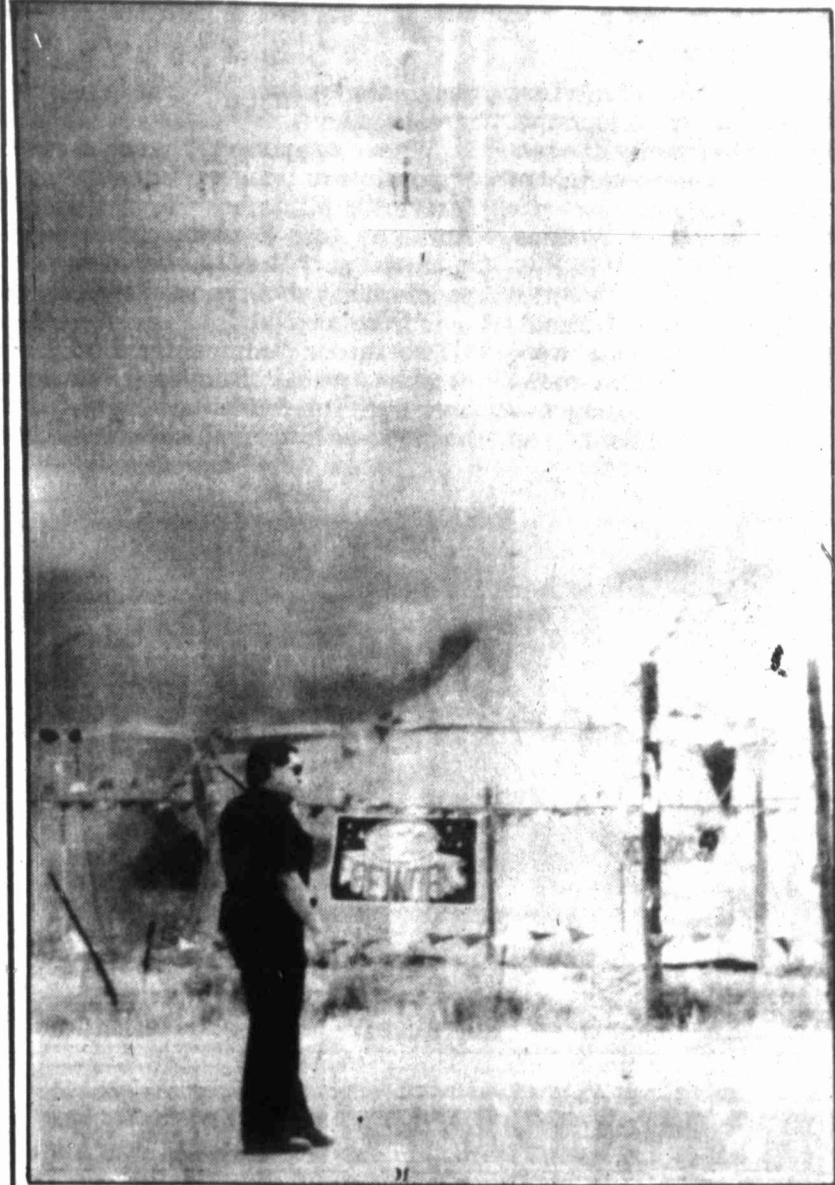

The measure would also end acreage-planting requirements, which require that cropland be made idle as a condition of farm program participation, and loans that support commodity prices.

It takes particular aim at wealthy landowners, forbidding payments to those who earn more than $100,000 in off-farm income. It also cuts the maximum individual payment from $50,000 to $40,000. The $100,000 cutoff has already been proposed by the Clinton administration, and Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has said other payment caps could occur.

To bolster their point, the lawmakers released a list of the top 20 farms to receive government deficiency payments in 1993, 10 of which received more than $1 million. One of the farms is owned by The Prudential Insurance Co. of Newark, N.J., and another by International Paper of Purchase, N.Y.

Mark Friedlander, spokesman for Prudential, said the company rents out the 38,000-acre property, near Greenville, Miss., and does not participate in government farm-support.

A Santa Ana Tribal police officer stands by while directing traffic away from a fireworks tent going up in flames on the Santa Ana Indian Reservation near Rio Rancho, N.M., Wednesday. Nobody was hurt in the fire. Thousands of fireworks could be heard going off along with a small pyrotechnical display as spectators were given an early Fourth of July. Investigators still aren't sure what caused the fire.

Search tougher now that John Doe No. 2 cleared

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents are searching anew for a man who may have helped rent a truck believed used in the Oklahoma City bombing. But they no longer have a sketch to guide them, because the man called John Doe No. 2 was found and cleared.

The Justice Department said Wednesday that the FBI's eight-week nationwide manhunt had located a man who resembles the three sketches issued of John Doe No. 2.

The terse written statement said the FBI determined that the man visited a Ryder truck rental office in Junction City, Kan., on a day other than April 17, when Timothy McVeigh, the chief defendant in the April 19 bombing, rented a truck there.

"The bureau has determined that the individual who has been interviewed was not connected with the bombing," the department said.

"The FBI is continuing to investigate whether there was a second man who participated in the rental of the Ryder truck on April 17," it added. No description was provided.

The FBI needs to check with a handful of people, other than the Ryder rental agent, in Kansas, Oklahoma and elsewhere who have said they thought the Doe No. 2 sketches resembled someone they saw with McVeigh, one investigator said.

The department did not identify the man now thought to be Doe 2, but federal officials who spoke on condition of anonymity said he is Army Pvt. Todd Bunting of Fort Riley, Kan.

The Florence (S.C.) Morning News, which first reported that Bunting, 23, was believed to be the man depicted in the Doe 2 sketches, said he is heavyset with dark hair and a tattoo on his upper left arm — all elements in the FBI's description of Doe No. 2.

Citing Bunting's wife, Denise, and two federal sources, the Florence newspaper reported that Bunting returned a truck to the Ryder rental office the day before McVeigh was there and was mistakenly associated with McVeigh when descriptions of another possible suspect were given to the FBI.

When asked the real identity of Doe No. 2, a law enforcement official pointed out the Florence newspaper story. A second official said the man is an Army private at Fort Riley.

Broader definition of terrorism adopted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee, drafting anti-terrorism legislation inspired by the Oklahoma City bombing, has struck two blows against gun-control opponents.

The committee, in a voice vote on Wednesday, approved a new definition of terrorism that includes the use of firearms and adopted a ban on so-called cop-killer bullets capable of piercing body armor.

Both actions occurred over the objections of Republican gun-control foes, and it wasn't clear whether the bullet ban would stick.

Rep. Bob Barr, R-Ga., who advocates repealing the ban on some assault-style firearms, said that under the new definition of terrorism, a husband shooting his wife "would be a terrorist act." He called it "phenomenally broader" than the previous one, which did not mention firearms.

Judiciary Committee Chairman Henry Hyde, R-Ill., later said a new vote could be taken on the ban because some panel members had indicated they might change their votes and others were absent during the polling. "We are going to consider that overnight," Hyde told reporters after the session.

The committee approved, 16-

14, the amendment that would ban the armor-piercing bullets, offered by Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y. Three Republicans — Reps. Fred Heineman of North Carolina, who is a former police officer, Michael Flanagan of Illinois and Steve Chabot of Ohio — voted with the Democrats to adopt the ban.

Congress enacted a 1986 ban on the bullets. But because Black Rhino armor-piercing bullets are made of plastics rather than metal, they have been able to sidestep the ban. Schumer's amendment would ban the bullets on the basis of their armor-piercing ability rather than their component materials.

Last week, the Senate overwhelmingly passed an anti-terrorism bill in response to the April 19 Oklahoma City bombing that killed 168 people. The $2 billion Senate package includes provisions sought by President Clinton to enlarge federal law enforcement agencies and the government's wiretapping authority, to allow use of the military in emergencies involving chemical or biological weapons and to ban fund raising for foreign terrorist organizations.

Critics have said the Senate and House measures would trample constitutional rights.

Gunmen take hostages in bloody battle to stop Chechen war

MOSCOW (AP) — Security forces ringed a city in southern Russia today after gunmen demanding an end to the war in Chechnya refused to free 300 hostages seized in bloody street battles. Dozens of people were reported killed and wounded.

Moscow claimed the attack in Budyonovsk, a city of 100,000 people some 90 miles north of the Chechen border, was masterminded by Shamil Basayev, a field commander for Chechen separatist leader Dzhokhar Dudayev.

Dudayev denied today that anyone from his forces was involved, but a top aide acknowledged it may have been carried out by an "unorganized group of desperate militants."

"None of the military units subordinated to me has received any order or instruction to stage acts of terrorism in Russia,"

Dudayev told the ITAR-Tass news agency by telephone. "Such actions can only discredit the national liberation fight of the Chechen people."

The terrorist attack Wednesday was one of the worst in Russian history, with authorities confirming 42 deaths. Officials said about 50 gunmen were holed up in a hospital today with as many as 300 hostages — medical staff, 60 patients and residents grabbed from the street.

"What happened there is impossible to imagine," Deputy Interior Minister Yevgeny Abramov told a news conference today. "They drove over people. They shot peaceful civilians in cold blood."

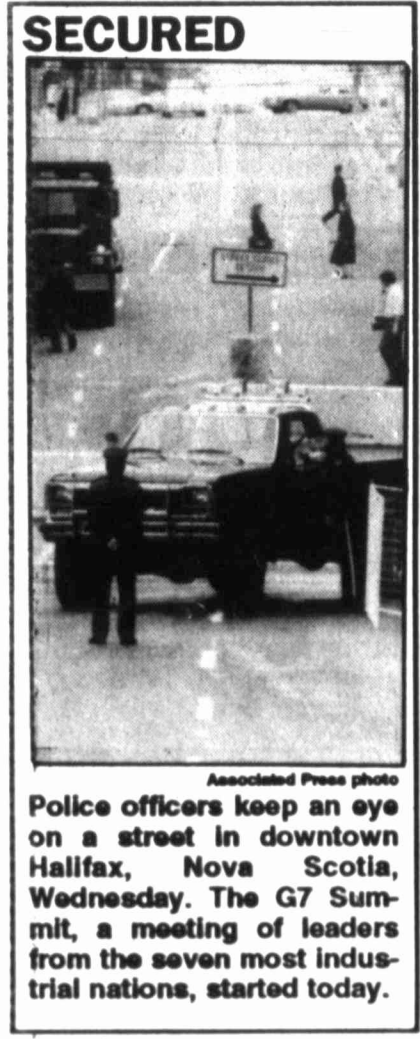

Two dozen gunmen tried to escape from Budyonovsk overnight in four buses with hostages as human shields. The terrorists, trying to reach Chechnya, were blocked and surrounded by troops at four different locations south and east of the city, officials said.

Moscow poured thousands of soldiers and top military commanders into the area. Security forces today negotiated by radio with hospital gunmen, who were demanding a Russian military withdrawal from Chechnya. Muslim religious leaders were also brought into the talks. The terrorists threatened to kill 10 hostages for every militant killed, Abramov said.

The attack appeared to mark a major new development in the struggle of Chechen rebels to break away from Russia. All but defeated in Chechnya by the Russian army, the rebels had warned they would carry the war into Russia and attack civilian targets.

Earthquake kills 10 in Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Ten people were reported killed and dozens injured in an earthquake that brought down an apartment house and part of a hotel in the southwestern town of Egion.

Police said most of the dead were pulled out of the apartment house, but at least two young people died when a wing of the hotel Eliki collapsed on the dozen or so French tourists staying there.

The Athens Geodynamic Institute said the earthquake had a preliminary magnitude of 6.1 and struck at 3:15 a.m. (8:15 p.m. EDT Wednesday), damaging dozens of buildings between Egion and the town of Nafpaktos, across the Gulf of Corinth.

The area was hit again by another tremor of 5.4 preliminary magnitude 15 minutes later, and the quake's epicenter was in the Gulf's seabed, the seismological agency said.

The earthquake was felt as far away as Ioannina near the Albanian border and in the capital, Athens, 90 miles east.

Police and hospital officials in Egion said at least 10 people were killed, and the death toll was expected to rise as rescue teams sifted through the debris of the collapsed apartment building and the hotel wing.

Egion, a small port on the Gulf of Corinth, is in an area of frequent seismic activity.

Within an hour of today's tremor, military units from Athens and in the region rushed medical and rescue teams to Egion. Heavy lifting equipment was also despatched from Patras, 40 miles west.

In Nafpaktos, on the other side of the Gulf, dozens of buildings were damaged. Police said an undetermined number of people were injured when ceilings collapsed on them as they slept.

A quake of magnitude 6 can cause severe damage in populated areas.

Government forces go on the offensive against rebel Serbs

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Government troops attacked rebel Serbs today north of Sarajevo, where 15,000 government soldiers have massed in apparent preparation for a push to break the city's 3-year-old siege.

The government called an unprecedented general alert across the 30 percent of Bosnia it controls, meaning citizens are supposed to stay indoors and stock shelters with food and water. Office workers in the capital were sent home.

Bosnian Serb military sources said troops of the Muslim-led government overnight had attacked Serb-held Iljas, 12 miles north of Sarajevo.

"The whole region is in flames," said a Serb officer who demanded anonymity. He said his troops were holding their lines "for now."

In the Serb stronghold of Pale, just outside Sarajevo, all reservists were ordered to report to their units. Police patrols spread the appeal with megaphones.

The United Nations reported more than 200 explosions around Iljas this morning, with machine-gun and small-arms fire crackling through the air.

The only road in and out of Sarajevo — a perilous route exposed to Serb guns over Mount Igman, southwest of the city — was closed by the government army.

Government troops also took a T-55 tank from a U.N. weapons-collection depot in the center of Sarajevo and moved it to a barracks garage they control, said a U.N. spokeswoman, Maj. Myriam Sochacki.

More than 15,000 government troops have massed north and northwest of Sarajevo in recent days, according to U.N. peacekeepers.

A government attempt to break the siege of Sarajevo would likely engulf the city and other Muslim enclaves in ferocious battles with the Bosnian Serbs laying siege to them, and could lead to a sharp rise in civilian deaths.

Yet Bosnian officials seemed ready to take that step Wednesday.

"We have said very clearly that we cannot live through another winter of siege," Bosnia's foreign minister, Muhamed

Sacirbey, said in Vienna, Austria. "Draw your own conclusions."

Sarajevo's mayor, Tarik Kupusovic, was more blunt.

"It is time to act after three years of siege," he said. "We are ready for the liberation of the city."

Food warehouses have been empty around Sarajevo for the past week — something that had not occurred in more than three years of fighting.

Broiling heat kills 300 in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A broiling heat wave in northern and central India has killed nearly 300 people this month, according to news reports today.

Thirteen people died Wednesday in Uttar Pradesh and three in Punjab when temperatures topped out at 113 degrees, the Press Trust of India and United News of India news agencies said.

At least 115 people have been killed in Uttar Pradesh alone, the agencies said. In the desert state of Rajasthan, where temperatures rose to a searing 122, more than 65 people have died. Other deaths occurred in the Punjab, Haryana, Bihar and Andhra Pradesh regions.

The scalding Indian summer is usually interspersed with a few storms and showers. This year, there has been no respite from the blazing sun and not a wisp of cloud has appeared.

Forced to go about their work despite the heat, many people tied wet towels around their heads and covered their faces with cloth to protect it from the blasts of hot winds.

Tires of parked cars burst because of the heat and the tar on the roads melted.

In the cities, the heat strained water and electrical supplies. Many New Delhi neighborhoods receive water for just two hours a day and residents living on higher floors have had to haul up water in buckets.

Monsoon rains usually arrive in the northern plains by the third week of June. Weather forecasts say that the rain-bearing clouds that travel up from the Bay of Bengal and the Indian Ocean were moving slowly and rains could be delayed.

Cult leader admits to other crimes

TOKYO (AP) — After a month of relentless police interrogation, doomsday cult leader Shoko Asahara has reportedly cracked — confessing not to the deadly Tokyo subway attack, but to standing by as a cult disciple was strangled.

The confession, reported by Japanese media today, would mark a major break for investigators, who had previously gotten little more than small talk and silent meditation out of the guru.

Police believe Asahara, charged with murder for the March 20 subway attack, ordered the murder of cult follower Kotaro Ochida in February 1994 at the cult's Mount Fuji commune.

According to today's reports, all quoting anonymous police sources, Asahara has confessed to witnessing the murder but denies that he ordered it be carried out.

There was no indication that he claimed to have tried to stop it. Cult followers have described unquestioning obedience to his every directive.

Asahara, who has been in custody since May 16 in connection with the subway attack, was formally rearrested Wednesday on suspicion of ordering Ochida's murder.

In Japan, police do not charge suspects, but an arrest paves the way for charges later by prosecutors and gives police the power to detain and interrogate a suspect.

Houston wins second straight NBA crown by completing sweep of Magic HOUSTON (AP) — They are the most unlikely of repeat champions and, boy, did they do it the hard way.

No team traveled a tougher road to the NBA title than the Houston Rockets, and the more they played, the harder they were to beat.

In the end, the Orlando Magic had no chance against them. They couldn't even win one game in the NBA Finals.

"The way we did it was remarkable," Clyde Drexler said. "We beat the four best teams in the league, and we basically did it in their gyms."

The triumphant conclusion came in Houston, though, where Drexler and Hakeem Olajuwon had been college teammates and failed to win the national championship expected of them.

Olajuwon capped the 113-101 victory Wednesday night by floating in a 3-pointer with 11.4 seconds to go. It seemed a fitting way to end it.

The unanimous choice as the finals' MVP for the second year in a row, Olajuwon completed an incomparable playoff performance with 35 points and 15 rebounds.

"I don't know if a player's ever played as great as Hakeem Olajuwon did all through the playoffs," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said.

The Rockets are the sixth team to sweep an opponent in the finals and they earned a place alongside the repeat champions of the recent past — Michael and the Bulls, the showtime Lakers and the bad boys of Detroit.

But those teams were supposed to win again. Houston started the playoffs as No. 6 in the West, the lowest-seeded team ever to win a championship. The Rockets of 1994 won an ugly, defense-dominated finals over New York. This Houston team soared from nowhere on a barrage of clutch 3-pointers, the relentless drive of Drexler and the grace, balance and soft shooting touch of Olajuwon.

"Nobody in the history of the league has done what this team has done," Tomjanovich said. As the game ended, Kenny Smith jumped on the scorers' table to celebrate and Sam Cassell did a victory dance. Olajuwon and Drexler, the two old Phi Slama Jama friends from the University of Houston reunited in a Valentine's Day trade, mostly just smiled.

"We didn't do it together in college and came back and did it in the pros," Olajuwon said. "I think that is a special story. That is something I will give a chapter to in my book."

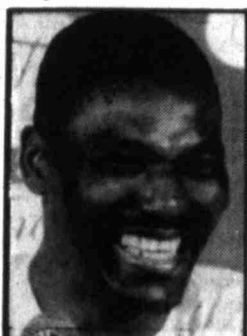

Mario Elie, a Continental Basketball Association refugee who became a starter five games into the Western Conference finals, scored eight of his 22 points in the fourth quarter as the Rockets pulled away. Elie was 9-for-11 from the field, 3-for-3 in the fourth quarter.

As the game neared an end, Elie sought out Drexler, his old Portland teammate, and gave him a hug.

After 12 NBA seasons, Drexler finally earned a championship ring in front of his hometown crowd. He had a tough shooting night, but still had 15 points.

Robert Horry, switched to power forward when Elie joined the starting lineup, completed a strong series with 21 points and 13 rebounds.

Watching the celebration, it was hard to believe this Houston team was on the brink of elimination in the first round against Utah, trailing by seven points after three quarters of the deciding game in Salt Lake City.

LITTLE LEAGUE

AL Stars hold off Royals

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

The Stars are shining again. The American Little League Stars, runners-up in the city tournament last year, guaranteed themselves at least a third-place finish in '95 with an 8-6 win over the International League Royals Wednesday at the IL park.

The Stars have several key players back from last year's team, one being pitcher Clint Bamert. Bamert, a 12-year-old right-hander, didn't have a picture-perfect game - he allowed nine hits and walked five - but he stopped the Royals when he had to while smacking the game-winning single in the sixth inning.

The game was tied at 4-4 heading into the sixth. The Stars' Jacoby Jones led off the top of the sixth with a walk off Royal starter Clarence Wilkins, and one out later Jarrod Simmons reached on the Royals' fourth error of the game.

Bamert was the next hitter, and he hit a single up the middle to bring home Jones. Ryan Guinn doubled to put the Stars up 6-4, and Daren Weatherby's RBI groundout against Royal reliever Michael Ornelas brought home another run. Guinn scored on a wild pitch to make the score 8-4 going into the bottom of the sixth.

The Royals nearly fought back. Leadoff hitter James Simpson reached on the Stars' first error of the game, then Jason Martinez singled. Simpson stole third and scored on a throwing error, then Mike Manzanarez walked to bring the tying run to the plate.

With one out, Bamert faced a showdown with Wilkins, who hit a home run over the center-field fence in the third. Wilkins is just one of several tall, strong players in the Royals lineup, but Bamert bore down and struck out Wilkins looking on a 3-2 pitch.

"I've seen them (the Royals) play during the season, and I wasn't intimidated," Bamert said. "I knew I could do it, with a positive attitude."

Ornelas singled home Martinez and moved Manzanarez to third, bringing the winning run to the plate in Adam Solis, but Solis never got the chance to extend the rally.

Ornelas tried to steal second, but the Stars' catcher, Guinn, threw him out by a country mile to end the game.

Several Stars had impressive nights at the plate - Bamert (2-for-3, RBI), Weatherby (2-for-4, 2 RBIs) and Ricky Smith (3-for-3, RBI). Wilkins' side-arm delivery didn't seem to bother his opponents.

The Stars will play tonight against the Coahoma Astros - game time is 7:30 in Coahoma.

Astros loving the road; Milwaukee downs Texas

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Houston Astros are puzzled by their great road record — and their equally poor home mark.

The Astros scored five runs in the eighth inning Wednesday night to beat the Philadelphia Phillies 9-5. It was their sixth straight win on the road, where they are 14-7. At home, they've lost six straight and have a 7-15 record.

"It's just crazy," Houston manager Terry Collins said. "It's really hard to explain. We haven't pitched well there (the Astrodome) and usually you get good pitching there."

Rookie Brian Hunter, who joined the team Tuesday, got the big hit, a two-run triple that snapped a 4-4 tie.

Hunter led the Pacific Coast League last season in batting (.372) and stolen bases (49), and was hitting .329 for Tucson when he was called up. He is not related to the Brian Hunter who formerly played for Atlanta, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

"I really haven't seen a lot of him, but he's impressive. He's got great foot speed and he got a big hit for us tonight," Collins said.

Craig Biggio, who had four hits and scored four runs, then doubled in another run. Some bad Philadelphia defense accounted for two more runs.

"I can't figure out why we're doing so well on the road, and not at home," said Biggio, who tied a club record with his four runs scored. "Things like this happen some time, but it's a long season, and it should even out by the end of the year. You see some funny things in this game."

Brewers 4 Rangers 2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Matt Mieske isn't the type to make a fuss. He does, however, make the most of his chances.

Mieske, miffed by his lack of playing time, broke a fifth-inning tie with his first homer of the season Wednesday, leading the Brewers past the Texas Rangers 4-2.

Mieske has gone 3-for-6 with three runs and three RBIs since replacing right fielder David Hulse, who fouled a ball off his right leg during the Brewers' 14-2 victory Tuesday night.

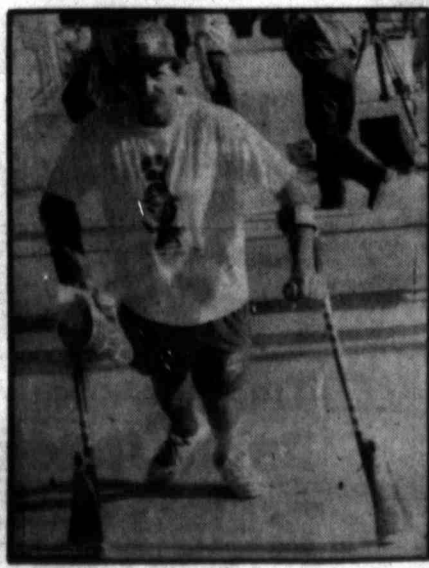

"Even though I haven't gotten a lot of starts, I feel like I've gotten into a rhythm because I've been taking extra cuts in the cage," said Mieske.

May is hitting .248 with one homer and nine RBIs, but he's started to shake out of his season-long slump.

"His biggest thing is he wants to get more playing time. He's frustrated by it, as any young player would be," Brewers manager Phil Garner said. "He'll get his playing time."

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball players and owners agreed to postpone the teams' trial on unfair labor practice charges until July 24.

Owners, under a federal court order, continue to operate under the terms of the collective bargaining agreement that expired Dec. 31, 1993. Some owners say an additional delay may give the sides time to negotiate a new deal.

FISHING REPORT

Most fishing activity was slow on CRMWD lakes this past week.

At Lake O.H. Ivie, the best fishing was for black bass, channel and blue catfish and yellow catfish, while at Lake E.V. Spence, good reports of black bass and striped catches were turned in.

Most of the bigger black bass at Ivie were being caught in 20 to 30 feet of water on plastic worms. Smaller, 14- to 16-inch fish, are beginning to school, which makes for a lot of action in the shallower water.

In addition to plastic worms, fishermen were also reporting success on spinners and crank baits as well as topwater lures. Trotlines and rods and reels were the best ways to land the channel and blue cats in depths up to 20 feet.

The channel cats continue to spawn, so fishing on the flats remains good, especially early, late and at night. Yellow cats were being caught on trotlines up both the Colorado and Concho rivers.

Fishing for smallmouth bass was reported as fair, while crappie and white bass fishing was rated fair-to-poor. There were no reported catches of walleye.

Water temperature on the surface was 75.2 degrees, while the bottom reading was 63.8 degrees. Water in the main body of the lake was clear, although continued inflow from last week's floodwaters left the upper end muddy.

District officials have released approximately 8,000 acre-feet of water through 7 a.m. Tuesday. Lake elevation was 1551.51 feet (1551.5 is full) and there were 554,335 acre-feet impounded.

At Lake Spence, Tracie Brunning of Robert Lee brought in a 17-pound, 6-ounce striper to Paint Creek Marina while Odessans Terry and Debbie Brown landed a 14-pound, 8-ounce striper. The Browns also had a stringer of stripers that weighed in at 3 pounds.

Two bass clubs, the Midland Bassin' Bunch and the Lubbock Bass Masters, each held two-day tournaments on Spence.

Twenty-three participated in the Midland tournament, and Wayne Workman and Sam Bustamante won the daily big fish prizes.

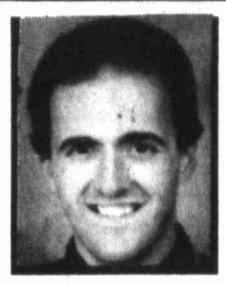

Workman's 3.94-pound catch was good enough to win on the first day while Bustamante's 3.26-pound catch carried the second day.

Seventeen Lubbock anglers fished Spence, with Jason Bailey taking top honors with a 6.08-pound catch.

Absent Rockets, airborne monkeys and Mr. Humble

What are we going to do the next four weeks without basketball?

Ask Vernon Maxwell - he's been without basketball for quite awhile now. The question is, who missed him? ***

Dave Hargrave

Yes, the NBA season is finally over, at least until training camp starts tonight at 7. Do you think Maxwell will be back with the Rockets next season?

Yeah. Sure. Youbetcha. Is there a CBA team called the Rockets?

What about Dennis Rodman? Will he be with the Spurs? No. Or as Rodman would say, schnay. Or as Rodman's ex-lover Madonna would say, when monkeys fly out of my butt. ***

Speaking of the NBA, Seattle SuperSonic coach George Karl was interviewed on ESPN Radio Sunday. The interview itself bored listeners to tears, but the start of the talk was priceless.

The interviewer welcomed Karl to the show and extended a simple "How are you doing?" "I'm fine," Karl said. "I'm playing some golf and enjoying it."

Not exactly the thing to say after losing in the first round of the NBA Playoffs the last two seasons! Seattle probably could arrange for Karl to have a year round golfing expedition. ***

In case you missed it, Cincinnati Red outfielder Ron Gant smacked his fourth extra-inning home run of the season Sunday at the Astrodome.

So? Well, in case you missed it, Gant tied the National League record for extra-inning homers in one season. He shares the mark with Willie Mays.

By the way, this is only June 15 and the season started three weeks late. ***

The Houston Rockets truly outclassed the Orlando Magic in the NBA Finals, but expect the Magic to be back in the Finals next season. The Western Conference is filled with teams capable of winning 60 games in a season - the Spurs, Suns, Jazz and Rockets - but in the Eastern Conference only one team is clearly dominant.

The Magic. If they ever learn how to shoot free throws, the Magic will be the next team to win back-to-back world championships.

Early picks for next season? Take the Magic and the Suns, provided the Suns can get a full season from Danny Manning and Charles Barkley plays another year.

Don't fret, Rocket fans. I pick the Suns every year, kind of like picking the same Lotto numbers each week.

Sooner or later they're going to come through.

Right? ***

How much respect does Bobby Knight merit these days? Knight, the infamous men's basketball coach at Indiana University, was fined $30,000 this week for his verbal undressing of an NCAA official during March Madness.

Knight issued a less-than-apologetic eight-paragraph statement Wednesday.

To sum it up: Bobby's ticked off, the people who fined him are evil, and the use of the worst of all profanity was "appropriate to the situation." Knight even paraphrased the Bible, saying, "Let him who is without sin cast the first reprimand."

Bobby Knight quoting the Bible? If you need me, I'll be in the bathroom.

Summer school can be fun - just ask Kids College students

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

It is summertime and while some kids are taking vacations or sleeping late, others are attending college.

College? Yes, Kids College is underway this week, teaching 6- to 12-year-olds etiquette, self-defense, computer skills and even foreign dances.

The continuing education department at Howard College sponsors the two-week session every summer. Coordinator Charla Lewis says the number one rule for students to follow is to have fun.

"There is no pressure put on the kids to do anything. This also gives them a chance to learn and do things they might not otherwise get in school.

"With the children on campus, it shows them that college isn't scary. Some may not have even thought about attending college but now that they see what a campus is like, they might decide to," said Lewis.

Topics taught to the students include clay art and pottery, rescue and self-defense skills, the first time.

Cody McCann, 10, is also a first-timer. "In the Rescue Rangers, we learned CPR. I also learned rules for playing volleyball. This is a lot of fun."

Both say they are anxious to come back next year.

There will be a graduation ceremony June 22 from noon to 1 p.m. in the coliseum for parents to attend. Each teacher will organize a program for the graduates to participate in and show to volleyball and soccer, etiquette and computer skills.

"In the etiquette class, I learned telephone manners and about relationships with your parents and friends. I know when a person calls, not to give out my address or phone number. I also learned rhythm dances," said Tinsey Grigg, a 10-year-old who is attending for their parents.

Each student is put into a group and attends three classes each morning. They break at 10 a.m., complete with refreshments and a chance to practice volleyball skills.

Some of the groups this year are "The Sharks," "The Things under the Bed" and "Casper and the Ghostly Bunch."

Pepper Sullivan, far right, leads a group of students through a foreign music program at Kids College. Children ages six to 12 are enrolled in the two-week program to learn art, music, first aid and computer skills during the summer.

Survey: Kids have no role models

By JOEL DRESANG
Milwaukee Journal Sentinel

A woeful proportion of pre-teen children have no one to look up to, no one to emulate, no one they deem special enough to learn much from, according to a new national study.

In a survey of 1,023 children ages 10 to 13, 43 percent said they had no role model. Older children were even harder put to identify personal heroes — 49 percent of 12- and 13-year-olds said they had no role model vs. 37 percent of 10- and 11-year-olds.

The findings, by KidsPeace, a non-profit youth crisis prevention center in Bethlehem, Pa., were part of a study that examined the fears of early adolescents and who or what they rely on for support.

Children's lack of heroes reflects a negativism in society and points out the need for more positive role models, says Frank Farley, a national authority on children and their heroes.

"We should all be worried about this because wanting to be like, to learn from, to look up to people is an important thing," says Farley.

Shape up for swimsuit season

By ROBERT KERR
Scripps Howard News Service

If the approach of swimsuit season fills you with panic, you are not alone.

"It's probably the most sensitive time of the year for people who are body-conscious. You realize you'll be baring parts of your body that have been under cover for most of the year," said Pam Green, an aerobics coordinator.

Nancy Harrison, a personal trainer, marks Memorial Day as the start of the season.

For someone who is just starting now to get in swimsuit shape, Harrison cautions against trying to lose a lot of weight in a hurry.

"We learned that lesson with Oprah. She lost so much so fast, and, of course, put it back on (before successfully adopting a long-term strategy). There is no reason somebody can't start making progress now. But to get where most people want to be, it has to be a lifestyle change," Harrison says.

That means reducing the fat in your diet, doing at least 30 minutes of cardiovascular exercise several times a week, and doing some calisthenics or weight-resistance work for strength and toning.

"I try to get people to quit focusing on the body part they don't like and try to become an overall better fat-burning machine," says Green.

Your body will deposit fat wherever it is genetically disposed to. You can't control that.

Nancy Harrison

"I really think people should quit looking for a quick fix. Take a realistic view and accept your body type for what it is. We can't all look like Cindy Crawford."

Green says studies show people who lose more than two pounds a week are likely to regain it before long. Also, spot

PLANO — A massive fireball shoots across the room, the force of the explosion almost deafening in its intensity. The sound vibrates through the walls, ceiling, floors — and even the plush theater seats — before fading away, only to be followed seconds later by another burst of pyrotechnic splendor.

The occupants of the room alternately squeal with delight or shout appreciatively, depending on their respective ages, clutching the seat armrests tightly or pounding on them until the scene ends and the room is quiet once again.

The latest virtual reality ride? Nope. A spectacular IMAX film projected overhead onto a gigantic domed screen? Uh-huh. The grand opening of a new state-of-the-art movie theater? Not exactly.

It's Zipporama, complete with a white-knuckle scene from the Ron Howard film, "Backdraft," and it all takes place in the West Plano home of Jim and Lori Zippo.

If the house ever goes up for sale, the classified ad might read something like this: Attractive two-story home in nice neighborhood. Four bedrooms, four baths, two-car garage and private movie theater with 30-foot screen, 62 plush rocking seats and Dolby digital sound.

Because of space considerations, the ad probably wouldn't mention the theater's custom-made red opera curtains lined with gold bullion — the ones that draw apart on cue as a movie's opening credits flash across the screen. Or the projection booth that contains rare equipment capable of handling almost every film format — from old 16mm home movies to the latest 70mm blockbuster films. And the walls are well-insulated so as not to disturb the neighbors.

It's an unconventional house belonging to an unconventional couple, and it hides its secrets well.

"I wanted it to look like a nice home, with nothing too out of the ordinary going on," explained Lori Zippo, a former Dallas Cowboys cheerleader and mother of two. She now serves as promotional manager for her radio personality husband, Jim, whose popular morning oldies show presently airs on several hundred stations around the world, carried by ABC Radio Network affiliates and the Armed Forces Radio Network.

In fact, it's carried just about everywhere but the Metroplex.

For those who know him, Jim Zippo's somewhat unusual foray into home entertainment comes as no surprise. He is, after all, the same man who, during the early '70s as an airman first class, set up a pirate radio station in his barracks room at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio.

"I built my own radio station with an FM transmitter," Zippo recalled. "I used the flagpole as a tower and ran a cable over to the pay phone across the hall so I could take requests."

Zippo said he developed quite a following, often running a pre-taped show so the program could air on a 24-hour basis.

"Everybody on the base knew about it, but nobody minded. I never interfered with any com

15-Year-Old Fails in Mount Everest Summit Attempt

MIDDLETOWN, R.I. (AP) — A 15-year-old high school freshman failed in his attempt to become the youngest person to reach the top of Mount Everest.

Bad weather forced Mark Pfetzer and the rest of his expedition to stop at 26,000 feet, short of the 29,028-foot summit. The group started the climb on March 14 and turned back on May 17.

Mark's mother, Christine Pfetzer, heard the news during a phone call from a climber on another Everest expedition who was in radio contact with her son.

"He knew the chances for success were slim, but he also knew if he went out and gave it his best he would be happy," Mrs. Pfetzer said.

She said when planning for the trip, her son would often recite a quote by the Roman general Cassius: "In great attempts it is glorious to fail."

Mark hoped to break a 1990 record set by a 17-year-old French boy. Since he took up climbing at summer camp in 1992, Mark has scaled Argentina's 22,834-foot Mount Aconcagua, Ecuador's 19,347-foot Mount Cotopaxi, and Peru's 18,870-foot Mount Pisco and 22,200-foot Mount Huascarán.

About 400 people have reached Everest's peak since Sir Edmund Hillary and Tensing Norkay first scaled it in 1953. Another 109 have died trying.

Use the facts from the story to complete each of the following statements below:

1. Mark Pfetzer enjoys
  - a) discovering bike trails.
  - b) mountain climbing.
  - c) writing sports stories.
2. The teen-ager became interested in mountain climbing
  - a) at summer camp.
  - b) after he was only 3.
  - c) after reading about the Himalayas.
3. Pfetzer was hoping to be the youngest person to
  - a) camp out in the wild.
  - b) travel alone to Argentina.
  - c) reach the top of Mount Everest.
4. During his climb, Pfetzer had kept in radio contact with
  - a) another Everest mountaineer.
  - b) his high school classmates.
  - c) a local radio station.
5. The Rhode Island teen was forced to turn back because
  - a) he had a high fever.
  - b) there was no more food.
  - c) the weather was so bad.
6. According to the article, Pfetzer had
  - a) a broken wrist.
  - b) a bad cough.
  - c) lost contact with other climbers.
7. If the boy had reached the summit (top) of Mount Everest, he would have
  - a) climbed 29,028 feet.
  - b) set a record.
  - c) both a and b are correct.
8. The boy's mother felt badly because she knew her son
  - a) would be late getting back to camp.
  - b) had not done his best.
  - c) wanted very much to succeed.
9. Because Pfetzer believes that "In great attempts it is glorious to fail," he will probably be
  - a) eager to brag about his adventure.
  - b) able to accept his unsuccessful climb.
  - c) glad that he did not reach the mountain top.

- Answer Key:
1)b) 2)a) 3)c) 4)a) 5)c) 6)b) 7)c) 8)c) 9)b)

Celebrate Our Country's Birthday

Let's Visit Independence Hall

Let's celebrate July Fourth with a visit to Independence Hall in Philadelphia. It was here that the Declaration of Independence was adopted in 1776.

The Constitution, a plan for governing our country, was adopted here in 1787.

The Visitors Center near Independence Hall is run by the National Park Service. Here you can get information about free tours, maps, and also see a movie called "Independence."

The committee that drafted the Declaration presents it to John Hancock, the president of the Congress.

The Liberty Bell hung in the steeple for many years until it cracked sometime in the 1800s.

In 1976, the Liberty Bell was moved to a nearby building so more people could get a better look at it.

Independence Hall is more than 240 years old. This is the south side, facing a park, Independence Square.

The north side of the building faces a street.

To do: Study both views of Independence Hall. How are they alike? How are they different?

CAN YOU FIND PHILADELPHIA ON A MAP?

Rookie Cookie's Recipe

Picnic Deviled Eggs

You can make these for your Fourth of July picnic.

You'll need:

- 4 hard-boiled eggs
- 1 tablespoon relish
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise

What to do:

1. Peel shell from eggs and cut eggs in half lengthwise
2. Remove the yolks and put them in a small bowl
3. Using a fork, mash yolks, relish and mayonnaise until smooth
4. Put equal amounts of yolk mixture into the egg halves. Serves 4

The Mini Page Teacher's Guide

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school.

- For use with issue: Let's Visit Independence Hall
- Main idea: To celebrate the Fourth of July, this issue is about Independence Hall. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty. Ask the children to do the following:
1. Create a birthday card for the United States. How old will our country be?
  2. Get another copy of this issue. Cut apart the photographs in one issue. Mix them up, then find their matching photograph in the other issue.
  3. Pretend you have visited Independence Hall. Design a postcard and describe what you saw on your visit.
  4. Discuss the following: Have you ever visited Independence Hall? If so, what did you see and do there? If you have not been there, what do you think it would be like? What would it have been like to be among the men who wrote the Declaration of Independence?
  5. What do the floor plans of your house have that those of Independence Hall do not have? (For example, closets.)
  6. Find Philadelphia, Pa., on a U.S. map. If you were to travel there, what states would you pass through?
  7. Look through your newspaper for Fourth of July activities in your area. What are your plans for the Fourth?
  8. Read a copy of the Declaration of Independence. What does it mean to you?

Mini Spy ...

Mini Spy and her friends are re-enacting the signing of the Declaration at Independence Hall. See if you can find:

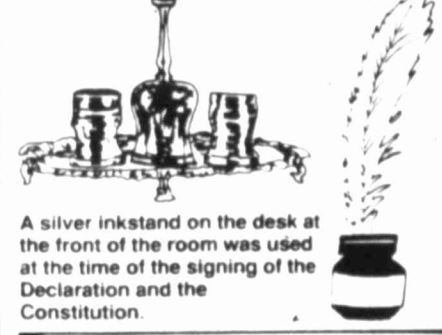

- letter A
- two birds
- fish
- question mark
- number 3
- sailboat
- ruler
- snail
- pencil
- olive
- word MINI

glow-in-the-dark in the MIND movie

You're in school. There's a clock above the blackboard and desks in front of your desk and there are more desks in rows on either side. There are students in the desks, only these students are not people. These students are molecules. And when you look at yourself, you're a molecule, too — and so is the teacher!

Inside Independence Hall

A silver inkstand on the desk at the front of the room was used at the time of the signing of the Declaration and the Constitution.

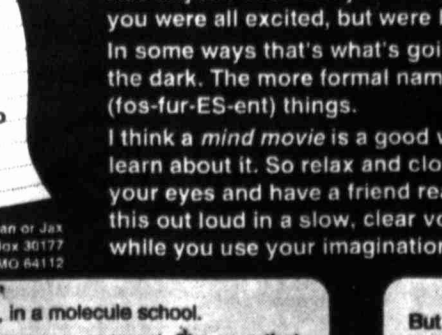

The Assembly Room is where both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution were signed. The British troops burned most of the original furnishings for firewood.

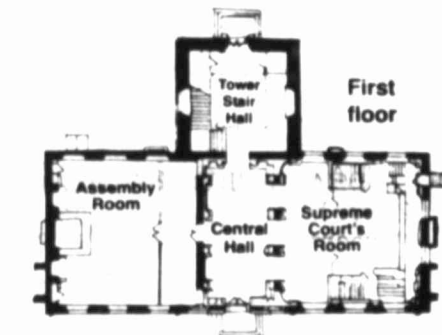

The Committee Room is restored to show it as it was before our Independence from England. The state government met here when the Assembly Room was being used.

The Long Gallery runs the length of the front of the building on the second floor. It has been used as a banquet room, meeting room, prison and museum.

The Governor's Council Chamber is restored to look as it did in 1775. It was here that a governor met with Indian delegations.

Second floor

Independence Hall is a two-story building with an attic and cellar. It has two wings that are joined by arcades. When the British occupied Philadelphia in 1777, they used Independence Hall as a hospital. At one time, its basement served as a dog pound!

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania used to meet in this room across from the Assembly Room. Judges in white wigs and red robes held court here.

Stairway to the second floor.

The Governor's Council Chamber is restored to look as it did in 1775. It was here that a governor met with Indian delegations.

Dear Kyle, Has anyone ever told you that you seemed to glow? Maybe you were all excited, but were holding on to it inside. In some ways that's what's going on in things that glow in the dark. The more formal name for them is phosphorescent (fos-fur-ES-ent) things. I think a mind movie is a good way to learn about it. So relax and close your eyes and have a friend read this out loud in a slow, clear voice while you use your imagination!

At which they're allowed to pump out a bit of light. (We call that bit of light a quantum.) Molecules cannot do it when their electrons are moving at any other speed. Open your eyes and come back to this room. When you put your glow-in-the-dark toy under a light, you're exciting its molecules. But these molecules can't pump out light until their electrons reach the right frequency, until they're allowed. When allowed, they'll keep pumping out quanta of light until they are relaxed. When the molecules are relaxed, they're dark — until the next time you excite them with more light. By the way, the term allowed is not from some control freak. It's a term that physicists use to talk about electrons and the frequencies they move at.

MOLECULE SCHOOL

All molecules, in a molecule school. Teacher has an announcement. She says that summer vacation is almost here! Well, think of the excitement! Summer vacation is always terribly exciting news! The idea of not having to be in school pumps up the molecule students, gets them really excited. Real students would want to laugh and scream. But these are molecules, so they want to pump out light. (It's one of the things excited molecules do.)

But laughing out loud — or pumping out light — is just not allowed in class. So everyone kind of just has to sit on all that excitement until it's allowed. In a regular classroom, the recess bell signals when you're allowed to laugh and scream out loud. With molecules it's different. It's not about time. It's about frequency. The speed of a molecule's electrons have to reach the right frequency (the right speed), the only frequency merical stations," he explained. From the outside, the Zippos' house seems no different from any other home lining the streets of the upscale West Plano neighborhood. Even on the inside, a first-time visitor could not possibly guess what lies behind the unremarkable set of double doors tucked away in one corner of the living room.

Even a small alcove just to the left of the home theater entryway, covered from floor to ceiling with vintage movie posters punctuated by the occasional celebrity picture and autograph, does no more than hint at what waits on the other side of the wall.

"Sometimes we bring people in who have no idea the theater is here, and they are completely blown away by it," Lori Zippo laughed. "We designed this before we even thought about anything else, then wrapped the rest of the house around the theater."

"We had a couple of builders who told us we were insane. They said if we ever wanted to sell the house, the odds were against finding a buyer willing to come in and set up his own theater."

To hedge their bets a little, the Zippos and their architect designed the house so that a second floor could be built into the auditorium. There are even windows behind the sheetrock, just waiting for the curtains or blinds that a new owner might install.

But the Zippos have no immediate plans to vacate the premises and are instead looking forward to continuing their popular weekend movie marathons — such as the one they hosted Saturday night.

Representatives of the USA Film Festival and the Irving Film Commission, along with old friends and new acquaintances of the outgoing Plano couple, turned out for a quadruple creature-feature line-up of '50s flicks.

"There's nothing like cranking up 'Jurassic Park' and then kicking back. With the digital sound, you can really hear those dinosaur tails swishing."

According to the Zippos, there are a number of reasons they decided to put an honest-to-goodness movie theater inside their home. It's a great way to entertain, and their open-door policy constantly brings new people into their lives.

"Both Jim and I love to entertain and have people over," Lori Zippo explained.

They are willing to rent out the theater for everything from critics' screenings to private parties featuring the movie of your choice. The full treatment costs $75 per hour, but the amount varies depending on the event.

"For two people wanting to watch an old silent film, we obviously wouldn't charge that much," Zippo laughed.

The couple will continue welcoming friends to their Zipporama — at least until they decide to put the house on the market. Lori Zippo confided that day might come sooner than she thinks.

"We have so many people they're sitting on the floor now, so we're already thinking about building a bigger theater," she said. "I guess it's like closet space — you never have enough."

Name shared by father and son can be burdensome for both

DEAR ABBY: Our first baby will be born within the next 30 days. My husband and I are very excited. We know it's a boy and have been trying to come up with a name we can agree on.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

My mother-in-law wants the baby to be named after my husband.

You had a letter in your column about naming a child "Junior," which my cousin had pasted in her baby book. Would you please run it again? It may settle the argument. —EXPECTING IN JULY

DEAR EXPECTING: I think I know the letter — and I hope it helps you. Read on: DEAR ABBY: Please print my letter so other mothers won't make the same mistake I did. After 19 years, I realize the error of naming our son after his father.

When he was a baby, it was no problem. We called him Billy and his father was Bill.

When he got older, he decided Billy was too babyish, so he asked us to call him Bill, which wasn't too bad — we called one Big Bill and the other Little Bill. That worked out fine until Little Bill got bigger than Big Bill.

Now it's worse. It's Young Bill and Old Bill, and you can imagine how thrilled Father is to be Old Bill at 44.

Not only that, but their voices are identical, and they are constantly being mistaken for each other on the telephone. Their mail also gets mixed up.

It's a pain in the neck. I should have named him Lawrence, like I wanted to. I've always loved that name. Phoebe on these "Juniors." —TOO LATE NOW

DEAR TOO: Thanks. Expectant parents take note!

DEAR ABBY: "Harold" and I have been happily married for 15 years. It was a first marriage for me and a second marriage for him. Other than his daughters' weddings, we have never socialized with his ex-wife's family.

Recently, his ex-wife's grandmother, "Emma," died, so Harold sent flowers to his former mother-in-law. When I asked him why he did this, he said, "Emma was my daughters' great-grandmother, and I liked her."

Abby, given the circumstances, I think a nice sympathy card from both of us would have been acceptable, don't you? Also, is it necessary to acknowledge such events in the lives of former in-laws? —SEMI-SYMPATHETIC SECOND WIFE

DEAR SEMI-SYMPATHETIC: Your husband did the right thing in sending the flowers to his former mother-in-law for the reasons he stated. However, he should have put both your names on the flowers.

When a woman marries a man with children from a prior marriage, she must accept the fact that there will always be some connection between the families.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding people who are always late: My "late" husband was late for everything.

Many times we would board a plane just as the doors were about to slam shut. One time he literally threw me and our luggage on a moving train, then ran alongside and hopped on! I imagine he arrived at St. Peter's gate at the last minute waving his ticket!

How I wish I could chase a few more trains and planes with that delightful guy. —TRUDE JOHNSON, WIDOW OF KENNETH C. JOHNSON, SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

Communications are excellent, and you help someone reach a different perspective. Make time for a get-together with friends or work associates. Tonight: Consider taking off. *****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are in the limelight; be aware of the many opportunities people offer you. Don't hesitate to ask for the kind of support you feel is necessary. Others appreciate the role you play in their lives. Your responsible attitude benefits you financially. Tonight: Be out and about. *****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Express your feelings, and review new ideas. Discussions help you see you have many creative options. Your spirit soars later in the day; consider taking off early. A legal matter could arise as the day progresses. Don't worry, but seek expert advice. Tonight: Be radical. *****

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You relate successfully on a one-to-one level. You overcome problems creatively; pay attention to what's going on. Talking things over lets you make the most of an opportunity. Trust lady luck. A coworker gives you feedback. Tonight: Make time for your favorite person. *****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Expressing your feelings comes naturally today. A friend provokes strong reactions. A relationship becomes very intense. Let your sense of fun and creativity help you make an important decision. People seek you out, so plan your time accordingly. Tonight: Be playful with friends. *****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your determination and ability to solve problems help you accomplish a lot. Concentrate on one task at a time, and a boss or partner may offer you a great opportunity. Key discussions with your family affect a decision. Tonight: Buy fresh flowers on the way home. *****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Flirtation is natural for you, and you communicate your affection effectively. Know that you are valued and where you are coming from as you deal with others. Understanding someone's opinion helps you loosen up. Discussions open doors. Tonight: Go where the fun is. *****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You know your priorities, and you can make a difference when it counts. Listen carefully, and be aware of solutions. Family and security are important matters with partners. Focus on long-term values. Let your imagination flow. Tonight: One-to-one relating is highlighted. *****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your most playful side comes out. Others cannot do enough to bring you close to hem. Focus on day-to-day communications, exciting news and doing what you want. Recognize your motives with an associate. You might be trying to build a stronger tie. Tonight: Hang out. *****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Expenses soar; you might be overspending. Use your instincts in this area, and rein yourself in when you know you've gone too far. Being aware of your limits will help you deal with a situation. Note that there are alternative ways of handling finances. Tonight: Indulge yourself. *****

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your playful side comes out, and you are popularity-plus. Listen to an offer. Your inner knowing helps you choose which way to go regarding an important situation. Creativity, fun and friendship surge. Follow a joyous path. Tonight: As you like it. *****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep a secret. Don't share what you know with everyone. You are realizing how important you are and where you are coming from. Your willingness to change can help you overcome a problem. Tonight: Vanish! You don't have to tell anyone with whom or where. *****
