Second time around, Northside park granted

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

For City Councilwoman Stephanie Horton and city officials, the second time is a charm.

Earnest S. Morgan Park will be a reality in Big Spring.

The city of Big Spring was notified Thursday by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission that the matching grant project has been approved for a Texas

Parks and Recreation grant in the amount of $71,500.

The commission approved a total $9.93 million in local park grants for 32 projects, including 10 grants for $500,000 each.

More than 63 sponsors had submitted applications requesting $18.2 million in matching funds from the Texas Recreation and Parks Account.

The funding program was approved during the 73rd Texas Legislature and became effective

Sept. 1, 1993, with funds coming from a portion of the state sales tax on sporting goods.

The fund was established to assist states, cities, towns, counties and other local governments in defraying the costs of purchasing park land and developing outdoor recreation facilities.

Horton first presented the idea to turn the old abandoned Northside swimming pool into a community park to the City Council in July 1994.

The city did not own the proposed park site when the application was first submitted, but according to Horton that problem was resolved when Big Spring resident Bootsie Weaver donated the land to the city.

Horton said, "This park is a necessity for Big Spring. I would also like to thank Mayor Blackshear and the council for their support for this project.

The total cost of the project is $143,000, with the city's portion of the project being "in kind," meaning the city will not have to spend a lot of money, but will supply the necessary labor and have city crews build the park.

City Engineer Ralph Truzzkowski designed the park, which calls for the old pool to be filled with sand and turned into a volleyball court. Playground equipment will be added, a basketball court built, a walk-way (trail) will run through the park, and several cabanas will also be included.

Assistant City Manager Emma Bogard said, "We did set aside some money, but we will still use our own labor to match the grant."

Bogard added the city should have contracts by the first part of next week, but a timetable have not been set for construction.

Get your entries ready, the fair is set to start

Category opened for antiques

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Those who collect antiques can enter their pieces in the fair that starts Labor Day.

This is a new division and is open to residents who purchase antiques or have family heirlooms. Anyone who sells or buys antiques as part of their business or part-time business will not qualify for awards.

The antiques must be at least 50 years old and should be table top size to fit on the display shelves.

The judges will consider quality, authenticity, age, condition and interest as part of deciding the winner. There will be awards for grand champion and reserve grand champion as well.

Ribbons for first, second and third place will be awarded in the following divisions:

- Advertising pieces
- Art glass - pieces of glass in Peachblow, Royal Flemish, Amberina, Burmese, Pomona, satin glass, opalescent, opaque, carnival and others.
- Bottles and jars
- China and porcelain - plates, platters, teapots, chocolate pots, pitchers, berry bowls, vases and

Hobby and craft talent wanted

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The Howard County Fair is just around the corner and will offer residents a chance to show off their talent in the hobbies and crafts competitions.

Some of the departments in this area have been rearranged this year to better accommodate both participants and observers.

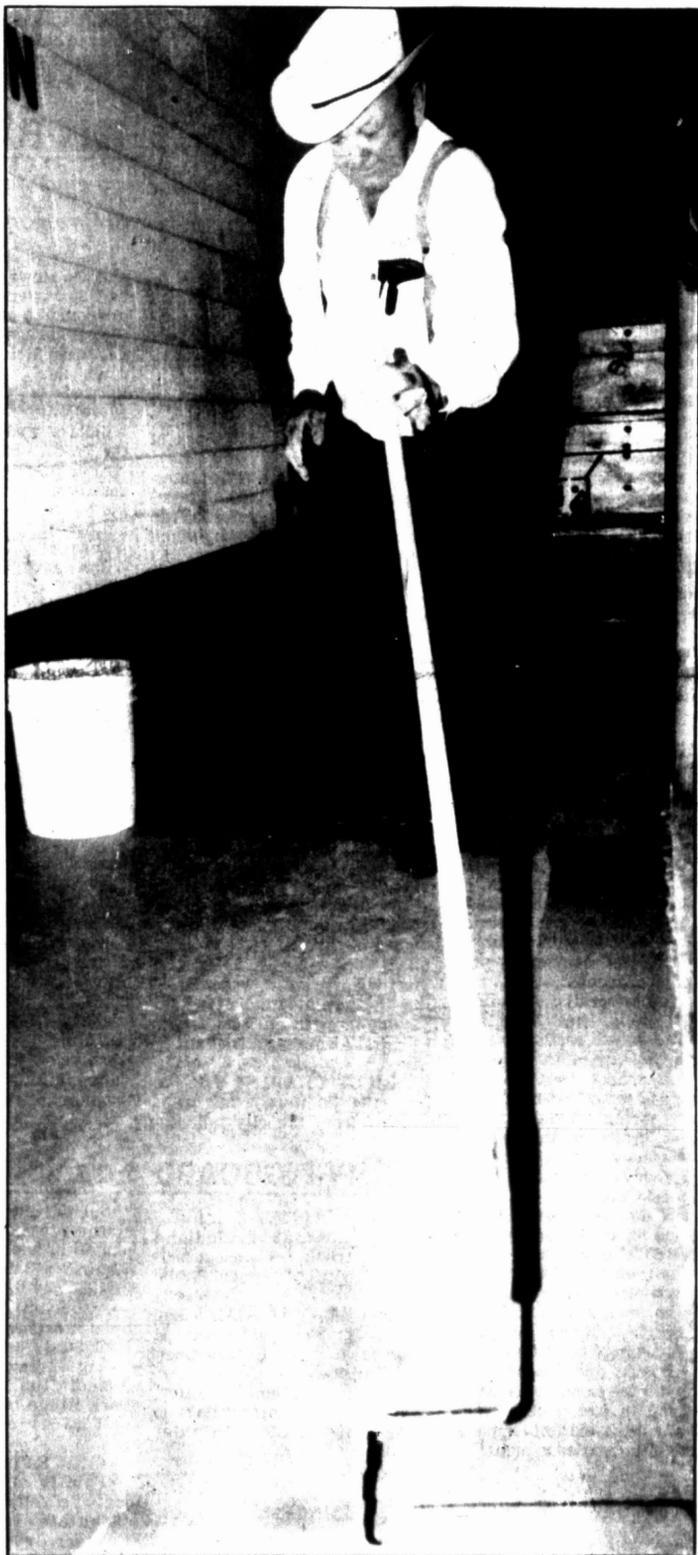

Entries will be accepted Saturday 1-5 p.m. and Sunday 1-4 p.m. All items must have been made within the last three years and never earned a first place in a previous fair. The rules also state an exhibitor may not enter more than one article under any one class number in a division. A pair of items can be entered and they will be judged as a single entry.

The divisions have been broken down into 14 sections including holiday crafts, dolls, pictures/wall hangings, flowers, miscellaneous hand crafts, professional jewelry, nonprofessional jewelry, kiln products, wood crafts, decorative painting, Big Spring State Hospital and juvenile crafts. The juvenile division is broken down into age groups of five through eight, nine through 13 and 14 through 18 years of age.

Each division is then broken down into classes as follows:

- Holiday crafts - Christmas trees, Christmas tree skirts, Christmas stockings, Christmas ornaments (only four), Christmas aprons, Christmas tablecloths, nativity, wreaths, centerpiece, holiday clothing, holiday characters, door decorations, needlework and miscellaneous.

Please see CRAFTS, page 2A

School district votes to push for closing of 10th Street

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Big Spring school board members say they support the closing of 10th Street in order to build an athletic facility.

Athletic Committee Chairman Russ McEwen addressed the school board during a special meeting Thursday afternoon to update trustees on the project.

McEwen asked board members, if they supported it, to make a formal proposal to the city council stating the district supported the closing. Trustee Don Baker made the motion with Al Valdes seconding it and the motion passed unanimously. Board member Irene Bustamante was not present at the meeting.

The proposal will be presented at the next City Council meeting and McEwen says from there, a public hearing will take place to get residents input on the closing.

Committee member Steve Fraser said it was never in their proposal to make any of the surrounding streets one way. When the committee went to the traffic commission, Fraser stated City Engineer Ralph Truzzkowski said Owens Street would have to be made into a one-way street.

Fraser and McEwen say this step is not necessary and should not be part of the proposal given to city officials.

McEwen added many residents who at first did not support the closing have called him back to say their motives were selfish and now feel building the facility on 10th Street is a good idea.

Assistant Business Manager Ron Logback says the water line is located on the south side of the street almost right under the curb. This means the water line would not have to be moved and the location of the facility could be moved over slightly to accommodate this.

McEwen also told trustees the committee mulled over several locations on where to put the facility and they chose 10th Street for a number of reasons. He said, "This location is the safest for the children and that is our main concern. There would have been too many street crossings at any of the other sites plus with the facility

AT-A-GLANCE

The Big Spring Independent School District board of trustee:

- Approved the 1995-96 school budget of $21,134,813.
- Approved the tax rate for the 1995-96 school year of $1.422 per $100 property valuation. The ad valorem tax rate for maintenance and operation will be $1.41927 per $100 valuation and $.00273 per $100 valuation will be used for debt service, bonded indebtedness and sinking fund.
- Approved the final budget amendments for the 1994-95 school year.
- Approved a co-op with Region 18 to manage federal monies received for math and science and drug-free school programs. The district will receive $22,705 for math and science and $22,401 for drug-free schools with $5,000 to be used for the Drug Abuse Resistance Education programs.
- Discussed paying the state $18,466.75 for a textbook audit. The audit was conducted over a seven-year period and is money the district owes for lost or destroyed books.

located on 10th Street it gives continuity to the campus."

One opponent had suggested building bridges or underpasses for the students to walk on to such locations as across from the YMCA or the old Furr's building. McEwen said that would have been cost prohibitive.

McEwen added, "Having a facility like this will help the students to compete better in athletics. People have asked what about academics but you have to consider, if a school has a winning tradition, it affects school pride and community pride. This helps the students to succeed in all areas."

He also said most of the other schools Big Spring competes against have a facility similar to the one they are wanting to see built here.

All of the money for the project will be donated including a $300,000 grant from the Dora Roberts Foundation.

Homage paid to those who served

HONOLULU (AP) — Celebrating the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II, President Clinton is paying homage to "that most remarkable of American generations" — men and women who triumphed over tyranny and spent the next half century building a stronger nation.

The president, previewing three days of tributes, said Thursday that Americans must face today's problems with the same resolve that forced Japan's unconditional surrender 50 years ago Saturday.

"In the days ahead, we will commemorate that victory, honor its heroes and remember their sacrifice," Clinton said, after stepping off Air Force One to a warm, breezy morning.

"But we will also celebrate more than the end of war," he said. "We will pay tribute to the triumph of peace."

It's a theme woven into each of Clinton's weekend speeches, as he joins up to 10,000 World War II veterans for a weekend of commemorations. Dignitaries have been invited from 27 foreign nations, including Japan and China.

"The World War II generation taught us that when the American people find strength in their diversity and unity in a common purpose — when we stop arguing about our differences and start embracing what we have in common — nothing, nothing can stop us," Clinton said.

Commemorations fittingly begin today at Wheeler Army Field, the first flight line hit by Japanese warplanes on Dec. 7, 1941. Thirty-three men were killed and 75 wounded. Almost half of Wheeler's P-40s were destroyed and many P-36s were damaged, but a few planes lifted off and engaged the enemy in furious dogfights after the Pearl Harbor attack.

Clinton will review troops of the 25th Infantry Division at the air field today and play golf with five aging veterans. Also, a parade of warships will sail off Waikiki Beach as formations of planes — from World War II aircraft to B-1 bombers — roar overhead.

Bob Hope, who entertained troops in both the Atlantic and Pacific, will host a program this evening honoring World War II veterans, volunteers and home front workers.

The president's main address will be Saturday at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific. He will also participate in commemorative events that day at Pearl Harbor aboard the aircraft carrier USS Carl Vinson and at the USS Arizona Memorial.

Drawing a lesson for a new generation of Americans, the president said of World War II veterans, "After they won the war, they advanced the peace, the values, the liberties and the opportunities that they fought and died to win."

"We now must draw on the legacy of those who won World War II and built peace and prosperity afterward, to do our job to fulfil the spirit of that most remarkable of American generations," he said.

THE UNINVITED

'You don't need to be sorry, it was country against country'

By CHARLES J. HANLEY
AP Special Correspondent

HONOLULU (AP) — The old Japanese gentleman has been here before.

The first time, as a 20-year-old, Takeshi Maeda dropped from the clouds with a one-ton torpedo, a bomber pilot bearing down on Pearl Harbor and the U.S. battleship West Virginia.

Now he's back — gray and shuffling, and still officially uninvited.

Maeda's presence at a privately sponsored gathering of U.S. and Japanese veterans underscores the near-absence of an official Japanese role in the commemoration of the day, 50 years ago Saturday, when Japan signed the surrender ending World War II.

For Maeda, spending time with old enemies is reward in itself.

"I don't represent all Japan," he said. "I'm just here to maintain old friendships with U.S. veterans. I'm no diplomat or politician."

In fact, while the former Imperial Navy pilot was planning his return to Pearl Harbor, diplomats and politicians in Tokyo and Washington were busy laying their own plans to keep government-to-government encounters to a minimum.

Not until last week did the Japanese announce that their defense minister would lead a tiny official delegation to Honolulu for this weekend's observances. The delegation will meet into a handful of other foreign representatives with no active role in the U.S.-organized events.

"They'll sit in the stands and watch the parades go by," explained one U.S. military organizer, speaking on condition he not be named.

This year of remembrance — of events that included the U.S. atomic bombing of two Japanese cities — has been difficult for both countries.

Japanese Prime Minister Tomiichi Murayama took a significant step Aug. 15, issuing a cautiously worded statement expressing a "heartfelt apology" for Japanese wrongs in the war.

Former Japanese bomber pilot, Takeshi Maeda, right, meets U.S. World War II veterans Chester Graham, left, of Chicago, and Richard Fiske, of Honolulu, during an impromptu meeting inside the lobby of a Honolulu hotel Wednesday. Maeda traveled from Tokyo to participate in a privately sponsored gathering of U.S. and Japanese veterans, an event which underscores the near-absence of an official Japanese role in the commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II.

But the prospect of an active Japanese role in the Honolulu events — where speeches could be misinterpreted, meetings with President Clinton prove awkward, and veterans turn resentful — apparently looked potentially too embarrassing to both sides.

At one point earlier this year, the authoritative Tokyo newspaper Asahi Shimbun said the Japanese government had quietly asked Washington not to be invited to the commemoration. The anniversary might "bring about some emotional reaction ... in Japan or the United States," Japan's Washington ambassador told U.S. reporters.

Speaking privately, Japanese officials make clear they want to quickly get past the final anniversary and look ahead to President Clinton's November visit to Tokyo.

But Takeshi Maeda is not afraid to look back.

The torpedo he dropped from his Nakajima bomber that "day of infamy," Dec. 7, 1941, helped sink the West Virginia at its Pearl Harbor berth. A half-century later, he met one of the battleship's survivors, Marine bugler Richard Fiske.

"I told Mr. Fiske I was sorry I hit the West Virginia," Maeda said. "But he said, 'You don't need to be sorry. Individuals weren't responsible. It was country against country.'"

"That's the human part of what we're doing," said the 74-year-old retired engineer.

Fiske is on hand this weekend, too, and he has some thoughts about the dark feelings that can still cloud relations between two countries.

"I think President Clinton and the Japanese prime minister ought to get together and sit down with a bunch of vets from both sides and talk it over," Fiske said. "I think that'd be great."

But, as it is, the assembled Japanese and Americans will have only themselves to talk to. After Clinton leaves town on Sunday, they will assemble for symbolic handshakes and reminiscences via a platoon of interpreters.

The meeting is sponsored by the East-West Center at the University of Hawaii and other "friendship" organizations.

"Some people may still feel some hostility," said Juri Yoshida, a former Zero fighter pilot and one of 200 Japanese veterans here for the event. "But I believe that friendship cures all hate and misunderstanding."

Many of his old American foes seem to agree. Hundreds of U.S. veterans, many more than organizers expected, are planning to jam the event, men willing to make an open show of forgiveness and reconciliation when their governments cannot.

Then, on Monday, they will trek up to the green slopes above Honolulu, to the national cemetery and the graves of fallen comrades, and dedicate U.S.-Japanese friendship plaques.

The old boy bugler Fiske will play his part, blowing the soldier's dirge "Taps" on his horn, in both American and Japanese versions.

Do you know your Rights?

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON TODAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lots of folks who have found themselves in confrontations with a landlord or the police or a particularly obnoxious neighbor have at some point spluttered, "I know my rights."

But do we? Why can Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y., ban students from forming single-sex fraternities and sororities but the State University of New York at Buffalo cannot? Don't students everywhere have a right to associate with whom they please?

How could Shannon Faulkner get a federal judge to order The Citadel to admit her as a cadet but could have no chance of success getting into most other males-only colleges?

And how can a perfect stranger walk up and punch you in the nose without violating your constitutional rights? "Americans don't understand that many 'rights' are really liberties — freedom from governmental interference," says Richard Seeburger, a University of Pittsburgh law professor. "They only work against the government."

So unless that rude stranger whose fist met your nose is a police officer, a disgruntled postal employee or someone else on official government business — people "acting under color of state law" — no constitutional violation occurred.

Such attackers, however, surely can be arrested and prosecuted — and even sued for civil damages.

Local, state and federal lawmakers are not shy about bestowing additional rights.

The "right" to safety is protected by making an unprovoked punch a violation of at least one law, and probably lots more.

And American "common law" is a source of legal rights even older than the Constitution.

Hamilton College cannot violate students' constitutionally protected associational rights because it's a private school, not run by the state as are SUNY Buffalo and The Citadel.

Ms. Faulkner's demand for equal protection under the 14th Amendment could succeed only against public schools because they are agencies of the government.

They and their employees can be found to violate someone's constitutional rights, while private schools — and private citizens — generally cannot.

But private schools that accept federal money likely will find all kinds of statutory strings attached, such as anti-discrimination laws that mirror the Constitution's insistence on equal treatment.

Rep. Robert Livingston, the Louisiana Republican who chairs the House Appropriations Committee, recently wrote to the presidents of Hamilton and three other private colleges to complain about their bans on single-sex fraternities and sororities.

Livingston, a former prosecutor, knows that only a state-run school can be found to violate a student's constitutional rights. "Your colleagues at the public schools are absolutely banned from the type of discrimination that you are practicing," he said.

"As the beneficiary of significant federal funding, one would think you would be sensitive to the bedrock principles of freedom of association and the liberal arts tradition," Livingston said.

Asked if Livingston planned to press legislation to force the issue, spokesman Quin Hillier said: "I don't know if this will go any further."

The Constitution's first 10 amendments, collectively called the Bill of Rights, were intended as checks on the power of Congress. The 14th Amendment's promise of due process and equal protection later was interpreted to extend many of those limits to state and local governments as well.

"The state-action doctrine is easy for most purposes," says University of Minnesota law professor Susannah Sherry. "But it can get complicated in some circumstances."

For example, the Supreme Court ruled in a 1948 case that the Constitution does not prohibit private citizens from agreeing to keep blacks and other minorities out of their neighborhoods by refusing to sell or rent to them. But it said the 14th Amendment prohibits state courts from enforcing those restrictive covenants.

Such enforcement would amount to "state action" denying equal protection, the justices concluded.

For the record, there's only one circumstance in which a private citizen not acting as a government agent can violate someone's constitutional right — by enslavement.

The 13th Amendment banning involuntary servitude has no state-action requirement written into it.

NATO bombings continue

Peace process showing signs of progress

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — NATO planes bombed Bosnian Serb ammunition dumps around Sarajevo today, keeping up military pressure on the rebels amid signs of progress toward a negotiated peace.

The early morning strikes, starting after 2 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday EDT), appeared to be limited to completing sorties interrupted by Thursday's heavy cloud cover. More flights across Bosnia were devoted to "mostly reconnaissance," said Capt. Jim Mitchell, a NATO spokesman in Naples, Italy.

But, he added, "we are dropping some bombs."

It was the third straight day of airstrikes intended to punish the rebels for shelling civilians and to force them to the bargaining table.

The U.N. rapid reaction force, dug in on Mount Igman southwest of Sarajevo, also resumed shelling Serb positions in the city early today.

The return of good weather today helped pilots zero in on their targets.

U.N. military sources in Sarajevo and Zagreb said these included a T-64 tank and an artillery piece near the southwestern city of Mostar, an anti-aircraft missile site near Sokolac in eastern Bosnia, a radar bunker near the eastern town of Foca, an ammunition dump southwest of the government enclave of Gorazde and a road bridge at Miljeno, 6 miles southeast of Gorazde.

The show of force appeared to be chipping away at the Serbs' defiance.

Serbs appeared to be moving heavy weapons from around Sarajevo, the city they have had in a stranglehold since the Bosnian war began in 1992. Peacekeepers observed three tanks moving out of the 12-mile heavy weapons exclusion zone the United Nations wants around Sarajevo.

In the Yugoslav capital Belgrade, U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke reported a breakthrough in negotiations, saying all sides have now agreed to a division of Bosnia, giving the Serbs less than half of the territory. The Serbs currently hold about 70 percent.

However, rebel Serbs and the Muslim-led Bosnian government remain sharply divided over which parts of the country each side should get, Holbrooke said.

The envoy, speaking late Thursday, also said Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic — who will lead a negotiating team including Bosnian Serbs — had accepted the U.S. initiative "as the basis for these negotiations."

Milosevic whipped up nationalist fervor that exploded into fighting when Croatia and Bosnia broke off from Serb-led Yugoslavia. But as his country deteriorates under a U.N. trade ban, Milosevic has pressured the Bosnian Serbs to negotiate an end to the war.

Holbrooke planned further talks today with Milosevic.

The Bosnian Serb leader, too, signaled a possible softening of his position.

Tackling obstacles to equality

Tibetan women protest anniversary of China's rule

HUAIROU, China (AP) — The largest international gathering of women in history today tackled three key obstacles to equality: few women in government, male control of economic power, and violence against women.

One speaker after another attacked the United Nations and demanded that governments shift their priorities from military might to social development.

Many of the 19,000 participants at the 10-day meeting of non-governmental organizations braved a driving rain and waded through ankle-deep mud to attend workshops. The rain collapsed part of a Tibetan tent set up by China to showcase the Himalayan region's progress under Beijing's rule.

Croatian women's rights activist Vesna Kesic, speaking at one of the main panels, said 30,000 women have been raped amid the forced expulsions in former Yugoslavia, and 4 million people are displaced, the majority of them women and children.

"Women's bodies are once again battlefields for big ideas ... and the ultimate proof of male dominance over his male enemy and his property," she said, 3,000 listeners at a cinema-turned-conference hall.

Kesic, who heads the human rights group Be Active Be Emancipated, said the United Nations spends almost nothing to try to resolve conflicts before wars start, but billions of dollars afterwards.

"Could it be that war is in someone's interest?" she asked.

Francoise Kaudhiss-Offoumou, an Ivory Coast lawyer who is president of A.I.D. Africa, a voluntary organization founded by Africans in Atlanta, noted the annual military spending of developed countries is equal to the total income of the poorest two-fifths of the world's people.

She said 86 percent of arms sales are made by the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council — Britain, China, France, Russia and the United States.

Participants at the NGO Forum are hoping to lobby delegates to the U.N.-sponsored Fourth World Conference on Women, which starts Monday. The conference platform for action calls for greater involvement of women in peacemaking and political decision-making.

Marina Beyer, a peace activist who founded the East-West European Women's Network when Germany was united, complained that governments give top priority to economic growth, not human needs.

Car bomb kills top Indian official

CHANDIGARH, India (AP) — A Sikh separatist group claimed responsibility today for a car bomb that killed the state's top elected official and 15 members of his staff.

In a statement faxed to the United News of India agency in New Delhi, the Babbar Khalsa International said it had assassinated Punjab's chief minister, Beant Singh.

Singh, 73, died Thursday when a bomb planted in his bulletproof car exploded outside his heavily-guarded government building in Chandigarh, the Punjabi capital.

Twelve of Singh's staff and armed guards were killed immediately. Three of the wounded died today.

Punjab's police chief K.P.S. Gill said today that his office was investigating the possibility of a suicide bomber — meaning one of Singh's security guards could have been involved.

The Babbar Khalsa is one of three militant groups that survived after Indian forces in 1992 crushed a 10-year-old insurgency in Punjab state. During the fighting, a dozen militant groups were demanding a Sikh homeland called Khalistan, or "Land of the Pure."

Police said the group's two leaders, Wadhawan Singh and Mahal Singh, are based in Pakistan. Both men signed the claim of responsibility. "Beant Singh had come on top of our hit list after he betrayed our Sikh community. We had to give the death sentence to him because of this," the statement said.

Singh, a moderate politician in the governing Congress Party, came to power in the 1992 state legislative elections that ended eight years of federal rule in Punjab.

He began crushing the Sikh militancy, giving police sweeping powers to arrest suspects. After Singh came to power hundreds of militants died in encounters with the police.

The Sikh militants said the federal government was denying Sikhs their religious rights, a charge New Delhi denied.

Montana flooded with visitors awaiting arrival of cattle drive

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP) — Visitors have flocked to this city on the prairie of eastern Montana, awaiting a wave of longhorn steers to wash into town for today's finale of the Great American Cattle Drive. "A guy told me a few weeks ago that half Texas would be here, and I believe it," said a harried Helen Lockie, presiding at the front desk of the Miles City Area Chamber of Commerce. Texans, particularly from the Fort Worth area, are predominate among the throngs of people, though many states and regions are represented. "Yesterday I had two Fort Worth couples in here," Lockie said. "They figured out they live on the same street within five blocks of each other, though they don't know each other." She said she had gotten many calls asking when the drive down Main Street will be held, as well as seeking other details. The drive began its push north from Fort Worth in March. About 250 head and 30 drovers have made the 1,600-mile trip, following the historic route that first brought cattle to the northern plains. Floyd Holt and Joy Meyer of the Fort Worth area were in the chamber office Thursday seeking rodeo tickets. The two retirees have been following the drive since watching it start five months ago, staying in nearby motels and attending the related events. "We wanted to make sure they made it," Holt joked.

He said he's waiting for the drive down Main Street and all the other attractions, such as the two ranch rodeos and the auctions. "We'll be here until it's over." Meyer was impressed with Miles City and the surrounding area. "It's certainly a unique little town," she said. "People in Texas are friendly, but people here have out-beat them, I think." People will get a chance to own a piece of history when the equipment and animals from the drive are sold during two auctions Sunday. A few older, sore-footed steers are already in the auction yards waiting for the bidding to start. Shairley Eppler of Ranger, Texas, has another reason to be here. Her husband is a member of the champion Texas ranch rodeo team, here to vie with winners of five other states for the top honors. Her main goal is to watch him win, though the other activity has its attractions. "We're just going to watch (the cattle) come in. We're just here for all of it," she said. Although Texas likely is the best-represented single state, there are plenty of other guests. A quick scan of Main Street showed license plates from Florida, California, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Illinois and Arizona. Lockie said she has talked to people from many states, including Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Idaho and California.

Susy Phillips, right, holds a sign outside the Arkansas governor's mansion protesting the execution of Barry Lee Fairchild Thursday in Little Rock. Fairchild was executed by lethal injection at the Cummins Unit in Varner, Ark., and was pronounced dead at 9:11 p.m. for the 1983 rape and murder of nurse Marjorie "Greta" Mason, 22.

Despite claim of not knowing right from wrong, Fairchild executed

VARNER, Ark. (AP) — A convicted killer who executed despite his claim that he did not know right from wrong when he abducted a young Air Force nurse as she shopped for furniture. Barry Lee Fairchild, 41, had no final statement before being put to death by injection Thursday evening. The U.S. Supreme Court rejected his final appeal without comment. "Barry Lee Fairchild was very much at peace with himself and the real tragedy in all of this is all of the uncertainty that surrounded this case," said his lawyer, Steven Hawkins. Fairchild confessed to abducting and raping 22-year-old Marjorie Mason in 1983, but said he did not kill her. Ms. Mason had been at the Little Rock Air Force Base for just 10 days when she was killed. Her mother, Sandra White of Fort Worth, Texas, wrote to Gov. Jim Guy Tucker asking him to refuse clemency. "Since Greta's death, we who loved her have been held hostage by a judicial system which protects the rights of the truly evil, while denying any relief to the bereaved," she wrote. "Each telephone call, each newspaper article, each stay of execution opens the wounds anew, and precipitates in each of us the pain and horror we initially experienced."

A federal judge ruled Aug. 3 that Fairchild was not the triggerman, although Arkansas allows the death penalty for accomplices to murder. A second suspect has never been named. Tests showed that Fairchild's IQ was as low as 60 or as high as 87. Under an Arkansas law passed last year, the state cannot execute anyone with an IQ under 65. The law did not apply to Fairchild because the murder was 12 years ago. Fairchild was the 33rd person executed this year, and the 291st since the 1976 U.S. Supreme Court decision allowing states to resume capital punishment.

Official claims Ruby Ridge hearing could hurt criminal investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Justice Department turns over boxes of documents to a Senate panel looking into the fatal FBI siege at Ruby Ridge, Idaho, the department's No. 2 official continues to voice concern about the hearings. The focus of upcoming hearings on the August 1992 shootout has been narrowed. But Deputy Attorney General Jamie Gorelick said Thursday that the hearings still could undermine a federal criminal probe of an alleged FBI cover-up. "It is quite unusual to have hearings in Congress at the same time that there is a pending criminal investigation, and that raises very difficult issues for us. Those issues are being discussed," Gorelick told reporters. "We are committed to ensuring that any investigation and any prosecution can go forward unencumbered and uninhibited by actions that Congress might take," she added. The Justice Department recently agreed to pay white separatist Randy Weaver and his children $3.1 million for the killing of Weaver's wife and son. And the department is conducting a criminal investigation into whether five top FBI officials, including Larry Potts, recently demoted from his job as deputy FBI director, covered up their approval of controversial "shoot-on-sight" orders given to FBI snipers at Ruby Ridge. Last month, in response to concerns expressed by the Justice Department, Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., chairman of the Senate Judiciary terrorism subcommittee, offered to tailor the hearings to avoid jeopardizing the criminal investigation. The three-week hearings are scheduled to begin Wednesday. Justice spokesman Carl Stern said that in response to the subcommittee's Aug. 17 subpoena, the department has turned over 56 videotapes and audio tapes as well as several cartons of documents. Specter was traveling abroad Thursday and unavailable to comment, spokeswoman Margaret Camp said. Camp said the subcommittee staff was working closely with the Justice Department "to ensure there is no impairment" of the investigation. Specter said last month that initial hearings would concentrate on early contacts between Weaver and federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents and on planning by U.S. marshals to arrest Weaver at his mountain cabin on firearms-related charges. Weaver said recently that he planned to testify. Gorelick, asked about potential problems with the hearings, said, "The worst-case scenario, I suppose, is the North scenario," referring to the case of aide Oliver North, charged during the Iran-Contra scandal.

Farm price index remains same in August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The index of prices received by farmers for their raw products remained unchanged from July to August, even though wheat commanded the highest monthly price in more than 14 years, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday. Compared with August 1994, the index rose 4.1 percent. From July to August, price gains for broilers, hogs, peaches and wheat were offset by lower prices for tomatoes, potatoes, soybeans and cotton. Compared with August 1994, the higher prices for wheat, corn, hogs and lettuce offset lower prices for cattle, tomatoes, calves and milk.

Seasonal changes in the mix of commodities sold this time of year had an impact on the overall index level. Wheat sold for $4.17 a bushel, up 8 cents from July and the highest monthly price since February 1981. However, volume was low relative to other commodities. Last August, wheat sold for $3.25 a bushel. Prices rose in August because of possible harvest delays for spring wheat, lower foreign production and strong export demand. Hogs rose to their strongest monthly average in four years, propped by strong exports. At $48.30 a hundredweight, hogs were $2.10 above July and $6.50 above a year ago.

Peaches sold for 27.4 cents a pound, compared with 18.5 cents a month before and 17.6 cents a year ago. The department expects a 1 percent smaller crop this year. The index for all fruits and nuts rose to the highest level in almost two years, reflecting smaller harvests and good export demand for Washington apples. Cotton, enjoying a boom year, took a hit as the August harvest began and export prospects dimmed. Prices dropped to 76.4 cents a pound, a 10.2 cent decline and the lowest price since December 1994. Still, prices were 9.6 cents higher than in August 1994.

Teacher brings gun to school because 'they're out to get him'

DONNA (AP) — A high school chemistry teacher said he carried a sawed-off semiautomatic rifle because people in high places were out to get him, according to police who seized the weapon.

Police Cpl. Chris Benavides said Karl Wudtke told officers that high-level officials in the U.S. government and the states of Montana and Wisconsin were after him to prevent disclosure of 20 years of research that he has done.

"He never mentioned any names, but he kept saying that these were people who go into the White House at any time and they can call Air Force One and say, 'Take me here and take me there,'" Benavides said.

Air Force One is the specially equipped Boeing 747 assigned to carry the president of the United States.

"It sounds like maybe the gentleman is living in a fantasy world," said Benavides, who's heading the investigation.

Wudtke, who told authorities that he carried the gun for protection, was suspended indefinitely Thursday by Superintendent Frank Gonzales.

Security guards at Donna High School found the modified M-1 Garand in Wudtke's car during a routine search Wednesday by a drug- and firearms-sniffing dog, Gonzales said.

Wudtke did not threaten anyone with the weapon. The gun had been modified with a pistol grip and its barrel was illegally sawed down to only 11 inches, Benavides said.

Police found two clips with .30-caliber ammunition in the car; neither clip was loaded into the gun.

He was charged with possession of a prohibited weapon and carrying of a weapon in a prohibited place, then released on $5,000 bond.

Empty jail 'monument to bad planning'

AUSTIN (AP) — A $12 million jail in Harris County is sitting empty only seven months after state officials touted it as a model in a new statewide system of rehabilitation-oriented lockups for nonviolent criminals.

Officials are struggling over how to use the Top Street State Jail while taxpayers shoulder the debt for the state-of-the-art facility.

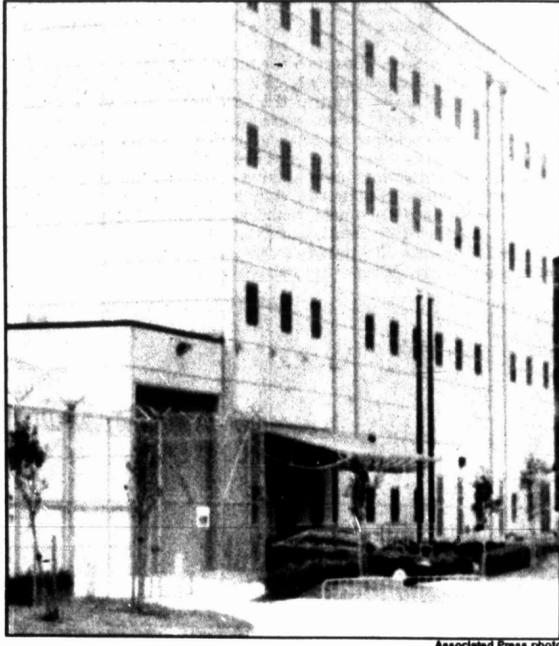

The building, which lacks a kitchen and other necessities, was to have prisoner services provided by an adjacent county jail until Harris County canceled a contract to operate the state facility.

State officials call it a monument to bad planning by the Harris County probation authorities who designed and built it.

Harris officials blame the state, which they say approved the jail design and failed to provide enough convicts for the specialized rehabilitation programs.

Amid the controversy, state authorities have confirmed they plan to audit the construction and operation of each of the six new state jails that, like Top Street, are operated by county officials.

"We're never doing one like this again," Allan Polunsky, head of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice, told the Austin American-Statesman.

The Top Street Jail, touted as a model of the first in a new statewide system of rehabilitation-oriented lockups for nonviolent criminals, sits empty in Houston. Harris County closed the jail, seven months after it opened, because it was too costly to operate.

"This never should have happened." The controversy began in 1993, when the local probation agency — officially known as the Harris County Community Supervision and Corrections Department — contracted with Polunsky's agency to design, build and operate the lockup.

State bonds paid the construction costs. Once it opened, the probation agency was paid $32.17 a day for each state jail offender to cover the costs of room and board, security and the specialized rehabilitation programs.

The first convicts moved in Feb. 15. But by late June, they were moving out.

Chris Ritter, a spokesperson for the probation agency, said the agency was losing $30,000 a month operating Top Street. At the time, probation officials blamed the state for the problem.

Because there were not enough nonviolent offenders to fill all the beds when Top Street opened, the state filled many of them with felons bound for prison, including some convicted of violent crimes and who were not candidates for the rehabilitation programs.

The state paid Harris County less to house the prison-bound felons than it did for housing and rehabilitating the nonviolent state jail offenders. And that led to the operating deficits, officials said.

Protest of judge draws more observers than it does demonstrators

AMARILLO (AP) — Word of a protest outside the courthouse where a judge ordered a Hispanic woman to speak English to her daughter drew a bigger crowd of observers than protesters.

Only about 20 people gathered peacefully Thursday to speak against the order issued by state District Judge Sam Kiser.

The gathering preceded a news conference by state Reps. Roberto Alonzo, D-Dallas, and Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, who called for Kiser's resignation.

At the rally, more speakers — including the defendant in the controversial case — also asked Kiser to leave the bench.

"He's violated my human rights, my civil rights, every right," Marta Laureano said. "He's abusing his authority as a judge."

Kiser on Aug. 16 ordered Ms. Laureano to begin speaking English along with Spanish to her 5-year-old daughter. Ms. Laureano is a Mexican native and fluent in both languages.

The language issue came up during a child-custody hearing in which Kiser said Ms. Laureano was abusing the child and condemning her to ignorance by speaking only Spanish to her.

Police believe woman crawled into trunk to read romance novels

GALVESTON (AP) — Could an Austin woman have crawled into the trunk of her car, closed the lid and remained inside reading romance novels with a flashlight until either heat or a possible overdose killed her?

That's what Galveston police believe may have happened in the case of Diane James, 45, whose body was found in her trunk several days after police had impounded her car.

Police came up with the admittedly unlikely scenario through evidence found in the vehicle and by following a paper trail. Still, Galveston police Capt. Leo Singleton said Thursday, "we haven't ruled out foul play."

Although foul play seemed likely at first, police said they realized that may not be the case when they noticed the woman's body was not visibly wounded.

"There were no injuries to her hands that would indicate she was fighting to get out of the trunk," Singleton said.

Instead, her body was neatly clothed and her head was resting on a stack of romance novels. Other books were nearby, along with a flashlight, as if she had been quietly reading while her car sat in an isolated section of a mall parking lot.

"She had her purse, which contained her wallet, recent receipts, a small amount of money and two sets of keys," Singleton said. "She also had a roll of paper towels and some of the sheets had been torn off."

The Galveston Daily News reported today that three different over-the-counter medications were found in the trunk, including some that could induce sleep.

Dr. W. E. Korndorfer, the county medical examiner, said he would not speculate on the cause of death, adding that the results of toxicology work is not expected to be available until early next week.

Also now in question is why Ms. James wound up in Galveston.

It was first feared that the Internal Revenue Service employee had been abducted in Austin on Aug. 21, forced to drive to Galveston and then murdered or forced into the trunk while she was still alive.

But now police say paperwork and witnesses may have uncovered a voluntary path to the island.

Singleton told the Houston Chronicle that speculation that Ms. James may have been abducted ended when officers found receipts for money machine withdrawals from her bank account in her purse.

Yet news of the gathering had local officials expecting something much bigger. The result was more reporters and law enforcement officers than demonstrators.

"Our purpose in being there was safety, not to intimidate or throw cold water on it," Potter County Sheriff Jimmy Don Boydston said. "I didn't know what to expect because I hadn't been contacted by the group, so what I did was prepare for trouble and hope it didn't happen."

Man thinks about baby before self

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — When a barbecue grill exploded inside a truck camper, Gilbert Haney couldn't stop to extinguish his blazing clothes. There was a child to be saved.

Haney thought quickly enough Thursday afternoon to pull his stepdaughter's 2-year-old child from the flaming vehicle before extinguishing the fire attacking his body, an EMS paramedic said.

Haney, who had filled two propane tanks in preparation for a barbecue, left the baby in the seat to get one tank from the bed of the truck. When he opened the tailgate, the fumes ignited and exploded.

Haney's clothes immediately caught fire. He rolled once in the grass to slow the flames, then got up and quickly pulled out the baby before again trying to smother his burning clothes.

Steers roll past Midland in final scrimmage

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports Editor

MIDLAND - There are still some rough spots to iron out, but the Big Spring Steers appear ready for football season.

A preseason that began with many questions ended on a positive note Friday in Midland's Memorial Stadium, as the Steers outscored Midland High School, 4-2, in the team's final football scrimmage.

The Steers' defense showed that it is still susceptible to the big play - all of Midland's 100 passing yards came on just three completions - but the unit showed it was capable of some big plays of its own.

Defensive back Donny Hill set the tone early when he scooped up a Midland fumble and returned it for a 25-yard touchdown. The Steers also collected another fumble recovery and added a Todd McAdams interception late in the scrimmage.

"It's a deal where we know there's going to be some blown coverages," BSHS coach Dwight Butler said. "But if they can come back with some intense effort after those screw-ups, then they'll be all right."

A week after showcasing the passing game, the Steers' offense switched tacks and let the running game carry the day against Midland. With tailback Toma McVae (71 yards on 7 carries, two touchdowns) leading the way, Big Spring gained 234 yards on the ground.

Quarterback Bucky Crenshaw was only slightly less impressive through the air, completing 8 of 13 passes for 124 yards and two scores.

Still, Butler said there's work to be done on offense as well.

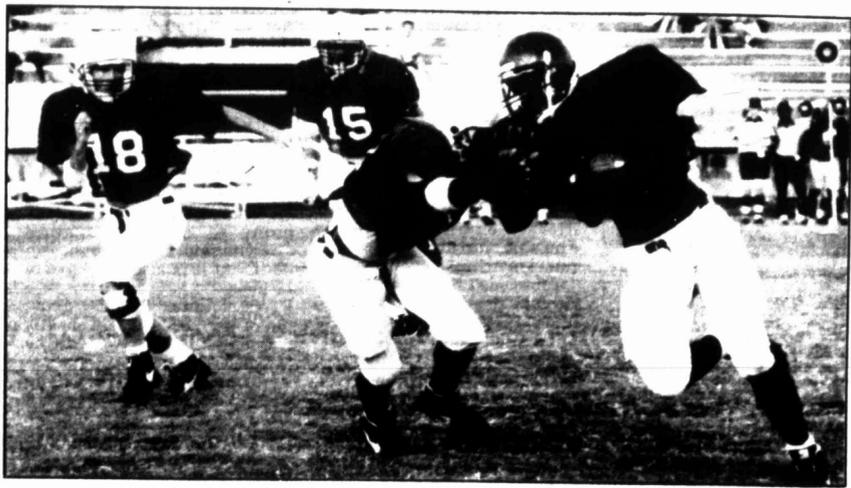

"The offense has got to be more consistent," he said.

"We're about to play Borger, and they're a top-10 team. If we don't figure out how to control the clock, our young defense is going to be out on the field all night long."

McVae opened the scoring for Big Spring on its first offensive series. On the third play from scrimmage, McVae darted around left end, then tightrope 34 yards down the sideline to put the ball on the Midland 6. On the next play, McVae went off-tackle for the scoring honors.

Hill's fumble return was offset by touchdowns runs of 5 and 9 yards by Midland's two quarterbacks, Russell Dunleavy and Ky Edwards. But when the scrimmage entered its final stage - a 15-minute quarter under game conditions - the Steers dominated the proceedings once again.

Netters face tough debut

By DARRELL ERICSON

The Big Spring High School tennis team won't have to wait long to figure out how good they are.

The team will travel to Abilene Friday for the Labor Day Team Tournament, one of the toughest tennis tournaments in the state. Besides both Abilene High schools, the Steers will be facing traditional powerhouses such as San Antonio's Central, Clark, and Churchill high schools, Wichita Falls' Central and Ryder, El Paso's Coronado and Franklin, and Lubbock's Coronado and Monterey.

It is a guaranteed four-match tournament and the Steers began at 8 a.m. today against El Paso Franklin. The second match will begin at 4 p.m. against Wichita Falls Ryder.

BSHS coach Ralph Davis expects the tournament to be beneficial in providing experience for his team.

"We are coming out with a young team this year, especially with the girls. It's going to be an eye-opener," he said.

Davis' philosophy is to have a tough preseason.

"It allows the players to start out strong," he said. "For the past two years we've had a tough preseason and we've swept district."

BSHS girls seeking return to glory days

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports Editor

It's been five years since the Big Spring High School girls' cross-country team has won a district title.

Coach Randy Britton thinks that's been too long.

The BSHS girls, who dominated District 4-4A cross-country in the last half of the 1980s, are emerging from a five-year drought with one its deepest - if somewhat young - teams in recent memory.

Big Spring's runners get their first test of the season Saturday when they compete at Brownfield.

Anchored by 1994 regional qualifier Marisol Carnero, the Lady Steers return six lettermen from last season. That's plenty of depth, but it's partially offset by the youth factor - there are no seniors and only three juniors on the squad.

Britton sound undeterred. "We can be competitive," he said. "We don't have any seniors, but that's good in a sense, because we didn't lose anybody to graduation. They've got a good attitude, and they've been working hard. This week will be a good test to see what kind of shape we're in.

"(The BSHS girls) won five straight district championships back in the '80s," Britton said. "It's about time to get that back again. We had a lock on it, and we let loose of it."

Carnero looks forward to the challenge.

"I think if we all just try our best, we can go to state," she said. "Last year was helpful, because now I know coach Britton. I know the courses we have to run and I know what to expect."

While the BSHS girls are young but deep, the boys' team is simply young. Only one runner - senior Randy Farr - returns from last season.

The Steers were bolstered, however, by the recent addition of junior transfer student from Pennsylvania who may be a purer cross-country runner than Farr.

"Jason's probably the best cross-country runner we've got," Britton said. "He's got a very good attitude, and he just might be the replacement for (two-time district champion) Joe Franklin."

Henderson said there's plenty of adjusting to do from Pennsylvania to Texas. But he believes he'll like it here just fine.

"Back in Pennsylvania, I didn't really have that good a coach," he said. "We didn't do any weight lifting ... But I really want to see what we can do here." Please see RUNNERS, page 8A

Rangers' rocky road to playoffs hitting a low point again

ARLINGTON (AP) - Somehow, the Texas Rangers are still in the wild card race. And, if they get their acts together by this weekend, they can take a big step toward their first-ever postseason appearance.

Texas had recovered from a 10-game losing streak and opened a 3 1/2-game lead for the extra playoff spot as recently as the middle of last week.

Then the Rangers lost three of four in Kansas City and followed that by being swept in Minnesota by the Twins, the worst team in baseball.

The result is a 59-57 record, the same as Kansas City and Seattle. Milwaukee is one game behind and Oakland only two back.

The good news for the Rangers is that they can somewhat control their destiny - beginning with this weekend's series against the Royals. Texas also plays three games against the Brewers next weekend and it ends the season with seven of its final 12 games against the Mariners.

"What's required of us now is to see what we're made of as a ballclub, to see if we can get this turned around," center fielder Oris Nixon said.

To bolster their chances down the stretch, the Rangers played with their roster Thursday.

The most noteworthy addition was outfielder Candy Maldonado, a veteran of 35 postseason games and two World Series who can provide leadership and a solid bat off the bench.

He was acquired from Toronto for a player to be named. Texas also received pitcher Chris Howard from Boston for outfielder Jack Voigt. Howard may be sent to the minors.

The Rangers made a paper-work move involving Maldonado that will make him eligible for the postseason. Third baseman Luis Ortiz was sent down, then recalled as part of the roster expansion.

Also joining the team today under the expanded rosters are Unknown pushes Agassi before bowing out at Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Corretja came close to stealing Late Night with Andre Agassi. Agassi and Corretja traded cannon shots at the U.S. Open on Thursday night. Most of the returns came back even harder. It was great theater, and the tennis got progressively better as the night got older. And when it was over — five sets, 3 hours and 7 minutes and 306 points later — Agassi was the one left standing.

I know I am still in the event. That means I still have a shot at winning it.

Andre Agassi

And he was angry. "I was upset," he said. "I mean, 11 o'clock at night I shouldn't be out there."

He was there because his Spanish opponent wouldn't let him go home earlier. Actually, Corretja came close to sending Agassi home for the remainder of the tournament.

"I knew early on in the match that I was in for a long evening," Agassi said after his 5-7, 6-3, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2 victory. "It was one of those that I had to get through just by sheer determination."

Two other seeded men weren't as lucky. Daniel Vacek of the Czech Republic ousted No. 11 Sergi Bruguera of Spain 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 and Sargis Sargsian of Armenia and Arizona State upset No. 16 Andrei Medvedev of the Ukraine 1-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

In women's singles, No. 10 Lindsay Davenport was bumped from the tournament by veteran Zina Garrison Jackson 6-1, 6-3.

Seeded players who won Thursday included No. 7 Yevgeny Kafelnikov of Russia and No. 13 Marc Rosset of Switzerland in the men's singles, and No. 2 Monica Seles, No. 4 Conchita Martinez, No. 5 Jana Novotna, No. 7 Kimiko Date, No. 11 Anke Huber and No. 16 Brenda Schultz-McCarthy among the women.

Today's schedule had No. 2 Pete Sampras, No. 3 Thomas Muster, No. 5 Michael Chang, No. 8 Michael Stich, No. 9 Thomas Enqvist, No. 12 Richard Krajicek and No. 14 Jim Courier playing second-round matches.

Top-seeded Steffi Graf, No. 3 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, No. 6 Mary Pierce, No. 9 Gabriela Sabatini, No. 12 Natasha Zvereva and No. 14 Mary Joe Fernandez were seeking fourth-round berths.

Corretja used his quickness to get to most of the shots Agassi hit, then unleashed his clay court-honed groundstrokes to find the passing lanes.

"One of the strengths of his game, if not his biggest strength, is the fact that he is going to run down a lot of balls and make you hit a couple of extra every point if your timing is a little off," Agassi said. "Instead of hitting two good shots, you have to hit four or five."

And four or five good shots in a row were a commodity missing in Agassi's game early in the match.

Agassi was wearing a brown-and-white striped shirt along with black shorts, socks and shoes. His game wasn't nearly as coordinated.

He made 21 unforced errors in the first set; Corretja had five. He also had 22 unforced errors in the third set; Corretja again had five.

By the fourth set, Agassi was concentrating on the task at hand. Corretja by then was beginning to cramp up in his legs. Then came the highlight-film shot of the night.

Corretja caught Agassi at the net and lifted a lob over his head. Agassi raced back, caught up with the ball as he closed in on the back wall, then, still facing away from the court, ripped a forehand over his shoulder.

The ball zipped by Corretja, who by then was standing at the net, for a winner.

"I don't think anybody is going to make it again," Corretja said. "This shot he can do it, but it is also you have to be lucky."

Agassi needed the luck, a couple of net cords that went his way and a call or two. But he also had the game.

"I know I am still in the event," he said. "That means I still have a shot at winning it."

When they were juniors, Medvedev and Sargsian trained together and represented the former Soviet Union in international junior competitions. Medvedev has since become ranked 16th in the world, while Sargsian decided on a trip to the United States to stay here and enroll at Arizona State.

He received a wild-card entry into the U.S. Open for winning the NCAA singles title this past spring. When he beat Michael Joyce in the first round, he became the first reigning NCAA champion to win a match at the U.S. Open since Dan Goldie of Stanford in 1986.

Sargsian played a steady all-court game to upset Medvedev, who won the first two sets, then got angry with himself for losing the next two.

"After I was two sets down, I had nothing to lose and I started attacking the ball more, which I should have done from the beginning," Sargsian said.

Tennis

the first day of school and Davis has been concentrating on patching unexpected holes in his roster. Three players quit: throwing Davis "for a loop I have to rework my partners and see who can work with who."

Regardless, both sides of the team are looking good. Davis said. With more lettermen and experience, the boys are stronger, but the girls have more depth. "Altogether we are looking good," Davis said.

Steers

The teams traded possessions before the Steers struck. Crenshaw found McVae in the right flat on a screen pass and the junior tailback scampered 4½ yards for the score. Big Spring scored later on a 9-yard Crenshaw-to-Marc Baker pass, and the defense collected a fumble and McAdams' interception to snuff potential Midland scoring drives.

So, are the Steers ready for the regular season? "I don't think we're ever as ready as I'd like," Butler said. "We're about to play three top 20 teams. Are we ready for that? I don't know. But this scrimmage gave us some confidence."

The Steers open the regular season next Friday at Borger.

Li has already played three national events. Villarreal is also involved in tennis outside the Steers' realm, so both players have the experience to provide leadership for other players.

"Our main goal right now is getting prepared for district play, in order to improve on last year's standings, which means making state," Davis said. In tennis only one representative from each region is allowed to go to state and the Steers took second behind Wichita Falls last season.

pitchers Jose Alberro and Mark Brandenburg, catcher John Marzano and designated hitter Sam Horn.

Texas' weird shot at the post-season has been reminiscent of the way last season ended.

When the strike killed the 1994 season, the Rangers had lost six in a row and were leading the AL West by only one game. Oakland and Seattle were charging, but the season's last day was the Texas' 7th straight in first place.

That team, which finished 62-62, would have been the last-place club in either of the other two divisions. This year's model is better but imperiled just the same.

Identifying the sore spots might be easier than healing them. Texas hitters went 1-for-22 with runners in scoring position against the Twins, who had been allowing 6.3 runs per game until the Rangers came to town.

The starting pitching has improved, but nagging injuries to closer Jeff Russell and slugger Juan Gonzalez and Mickey Tettleton pose serious threats in the season's final month.

"We've got to get (the hitters) to relax and take what the pitcher gives you," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "If they make a mistake, whack it. We're not even whacking their mistakes right now."

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Nebraska coach Tom Osborne would have liked to bring more than 66 players to Oklahoma State to keep a mismatch from getting even further out of control.

On the other hand, a 64-21 victory on national television to start the season doesn't hurt. "We hope we came across well on television," Osborne said Thursday night. "It's a terrible thing, but anymore with the voting system, you've got to look good on TV a few times. So who knows? If they thought we looked good, we'll be all right."

It didn't take much for defending national champion Nebraska to look good against Oklahoma State, a team that hasn't won a Big Eight Conference game in 19 tries.

In other major-college games on the opening night of the season, North Carolina State beat Division I-AA Marshall 33-16, Wake Forest was beaten 24-22 by Division I-AA Appalachian State, Southern Mississippi beat Northern Illinois 45-13, Louisiana Tech beat Bowling Green 28-

Need to know where to donate your old eyeglasses? Look for these boxes at local businesses and the Lions Club booth at the fair.

Lions Club wants your eyeglasses

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Old eyeglasses seem to do nothing but take space. Those aged prescriptions are no longer strong enough; the frames seem ridiculously out of style.

Believe it or not, these same eyeglasses could be the most beautiful sight in the world to many people who have not been able to see much at all.

For years, the local Lions Club has joined in efforts with other Lions Clubs nationwide to collect and recycle old eyeglasses. Those who had eyeglasses to drop off could do so in a box outside the Lions Club building.

Now, local Lions are taking the eyeglass collection a step further with their first eyeglass recycling week Sept. 4-9.

Lions Club President Jan Noyes explained the extra push to collect eyeglasses for those who have none. "We didn't feel we were doing our share, and normally if there's a need, we do what we can," she said.

The decision to start an annual eyeglass recycling drive was boosted by the existence of an eyeglass recycling facility in Midland. The facility, which opened several years ago, is one of five in the country. Its relatively close proximity to Big Spring made it natural to increase collection and recycling efforts in the local area.

There are no eyeglasses that can't be used, Noyes said. Eyeglasses are sent to the recycling center, which is a project of the Midland Downtown Lions Club. The lenses are removed from the frames, the prescriptions are determined, packaged for storage and prepared for distribution to patients after they have been examined by doctors.

Eyeglasses are sent all over the world. Noyes estimated the Lions Club, as a nationwide effort, sent about 60,000 eyeglasses last year to those who otherwise would not have them. This total included 2,000 to an Indian hospital in the United States and an additional amount to an Oklahoma church.

The Lions Club has a very reachable goal for how many pairs of eyeglasses they hope to collect - "as many as we can," Noyes said. The club plans to make the drive an annual effort.

Eyeglass collection boxes will be at all Big Spring pharmacies, the Lions Club bingo building, Coahoma State Bank, the Lions booth at the Howard County Fair and various local businesses.

Those who can't find their old eyeglasses now but come across a pair or two while doing spring cleaning next year needn't wait for the next recycling week. The eyeglass recycling box at the Lions Club building - a mailbox with a face sporting a pair of glasses - is open for donations all year.

For additional information or to have eyeglasses picked up, call the Lions Club at 267-3068. Bob Noyes at 267-6095 or Squeaky Thompson at 267-5931.

Far Eastern religions expanding in Austin, surrounding area

By DEAN STEPHENS
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Nestled among the hills of this Bible Belt state, one of the largest Hindu temples outside India is being built as a place of pilgrimage for worshipers across the country.

The International Society of Divine Love, a nonprofit Hindu organization, chose Central Texas as its U.S. headquarters because of its physical similarities to northern India, said Priya Dasi, an American Hindu nun who provides tours of the new temple.

"We looked all across the country," Priya Dasi said.

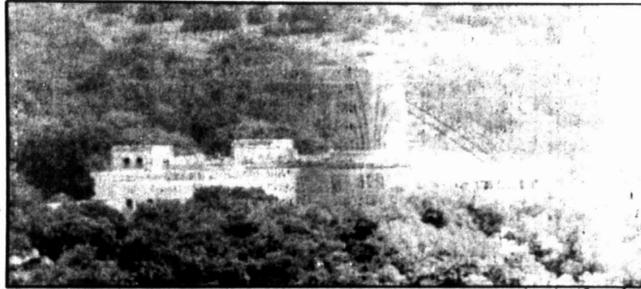

Set on about 200 acres southwest of Austin in north Hays County, the ashram — named Barsana Dham after the Indian city of Barsana — will include guest rooms, preacher's offices and classrooms, as well as the main temple, a $2.5 million, 35,000-square-foot building called Shree Raseshwari Temple.

"Our whole idea of this whole property is that it would be a place for pilgrimage, not just a local church," Priya Dasi said.

The temple will serve Austin's nearly 1,000 Hindu families, who now have to travel 85 miles to San Antonio for religious services. But the group expects Hindus from all over the country to come to the ashram for spiritual renewal.

last more than 1,000 years, by combining ancient and modern construction techniques.

A 90-foot tower swathed in granite from Central Texas and topped by a huge gold-colored spire is designed to withstand tornado-force winds. Concrete walls were built using a slow drying process that increases the concrete's strength and minimizes cracking.

Nine Hindu artisans, called shilpis, have come from India to do intricate cement bas relief detailing in the temple.

On a slightly smaller scale, the International Buddhist-Progress Society is planning to build a 20,000-square-foot temple complex on 11 acres of donated land in the hills northwest of Austin.

The society still is seeking donations to help pay for its $2.5 million project, which is planned as a traditional Chinese palace, with a two-tiered roof, flying corners, marble floors and handcrafted woodwork detailing.

The Venerable Chueh Hu Shih, a Buddhist nun of the society, said the temple will be the first in Austin to accommodate a growing number of Buddhists.

The new temples are something of a testament to Austin's growth and to the growing number of immigrants from the Far East locating here.

Priya Dasi said the majority of the Hindu families in the area are either engineers for Austin's high-tech companies or doctors.

Chueh Hu Shih said the Buddhist temple was meant to serve a growing number of Asian students in the area.

We now return to our spiritual soap opera

By TERRY MATTINGLY
Scripps Howard News Service

And now we return once again to the continuing story of "All Canterbury's Children." (Musical cue: a dramatic swirl of notes on a cathedral organ.)

When we last visited the Episcopalians, their leaders were being rocked by headlines about sex, money and theology.

Presiding Bishop Edmond Browning's right hand, treasurer Ellen Cooke, stood accused of embezzling $2.2 million. Massachusetts Bishop David Johnson committed suicide — followed by reports of affairs in which he exploited women.

New details filtered out about how Browning helped Navajoland Bishop Steven Plummer quickly, and secretly, return to work after abusing a teen-age boy. And so on.

Trial 1: More than 25 percent of the church's 297 bishops had approved a trial of retired Bishop Walter Righter, who has been accused of violating his ordination vows by ordaining a non-celibate gay man.

In Righter's defense, leaders of the church's gay caucus, Integrity, released a statement saying they know of "at least 117 persons who were known to be sexually active gay men or lesbians by their diocesan bishops at the time of their ordination. ... Over 35 bishops have performed such ordinations."

Trial 2: Will there be more trials? Browning has unilaterally shelved a request for proceedings against Philadelphia Bishop Allen Bartlett Jr., made by more than 100 communicants in Bartlett's own diocese.

Trial 3: Integrity leaders also have suggested that the 10 bishops who began the Righter proceedings should be excommunicated.

Trial 4: Key members of the Episcopal Women's Caucus have hinted that they may bring charges against the Episcopal Synod of America bishops who refuse to ordain women or to accept female priests and bishops ordained elsewhere.

Trial 5: The status of legal proceedings against Cooke remains unknown.

Church spokesman James Solheim said federal officials are "being very tight-lipped" about their investigation; church leaders have declined to speculate about whether they will press charges.

There's no shame in needing God's help

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know my life is messed up, but I can't do anything about it. I have prayed for God to change me but nothing happens.

I know I am going to kill myself with drugs and things if I don't do something, but I can't stop. I hate myself for being so weak. — G.L.

DEAR G.L.: The fact that you see yourself as helpless is a sign of hope. The only person God cannot help is the person who thinks he or she can solve their own problems and shuts God out of their lives.

Let me suggest three steps for you to take — although they are only a beginning. First, by faith turn to Jesus Christ and ask Him to come into your life as your Lord and Savior.

God loves you, and the Bible's central message is for you: "For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16).

Confess your sins and your weakness to Christ, and ask Him to take up residence in your life today.

Then get the help you need to fight your problems. You cannot fight them alone — but God wants to help you, and one way He often does this is by giving us other people who will encourage us and help us understand our struggles.

Be honest about your problems with someone you can trust, such as a pastor in your area.

If you need professional help, your pastor will probably know where to find resources that are available in your community. Don't feel that you have to fight this battle alone.

Finally, learn to walk with Christ daily. He has given us His Word, the Bible, and He has given us the privilege of prayer. These are your spiritual "foods," and through them God will feed you and strengthen you from within every day.

Then get the help you need to fight your problems. You cannot fight them alone — but God

Book traces Antichrist obsession

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Facing a dangerous and changing world, Americans have spent centuries watching for the Biblical Antichrist and often finding it — in everything from American Indians to ZIP codes to Ronald Reagan.

Scholar Robert Fuller believes the idea of the Antichrist has haunted American history, dividing people and encouraging suspicion. Its influence can be seen today, he says, in violence against abortion providers or the Branch Davidians stockpiling weapons in Waco, Texas.

"It tends to perpetuate a suspicion of the world," said Fuller, a religious studies professor at Bradley University. "There's a fear created, an antagonism created."

Fuller traces that impact in a new book, "Naming the Antichrist: The History of an American Obsession," in which he describes a continuing fascination with predicting Armageddon's approach and naming someone as the Antichrist who will bring it about.

Indians were linked to the Antichrist for standing in the way of early settlers. Some people saw ZIP codes as part of the Antichrist's mission to control people. Ronald Wilson Reagan attracted attention because his names contain six letters each — 666.

Fuller concludes that when Americans feel threatened, many take solace in blaming the Antichrist, an agent of the devil trying to deceive the faithful.

Such a preoccupation produces two effects, he says.

First, people worried about the Antichrist see their enemies as evil, unworthy of mercy. Violence is justified when your opponent — whether American Indians or abortion providers — is an agent of Satan, Fuller said.

Second, people have less reason to help solve the world's problems, he said. If the end of the world looms, then environmental problems or poverty seem only temporary.

My book is an attempt to look at what I call the vicious and even mean-spirited side of the American religious psyche, Fuller said. I'm definitely trying to champion a more positive style of religious thought — not tribalistic, but global.

Fuller describes himself as spiritual but not Sunday School religious, attending church only occasionally.

I think what we need is a climate where religion is understood to be something that nourishes life," he said. "When we hear religious rhetoric that is not about nourishing life, I think that's time to speak up."

His book is a scholarly work filled with footnotes and measured language.

"The symbol of the Antichrist has played a surprisingly significant role in shaping Americans' self-understanding," reads a typical passage.

Because they tend to view their nation as uniquely blessed by God, they have been especially prone to demonize their enemies. Throughout their nation's history, they have suspected that those who oppose the American way must be in league with the Antichrist's confederacy of evil."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Someone in the family could upset you and force you to contemplate changes. You might need to move on and accept the unacceptable. Touch base with a friend who has plenty of interesting news. Tonight:

Hang out. ****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A misunderstanding could prompt you to sing the blues. Ease up on your expectations, and try to determine the real issue. Resolution is possible by sharing the depth of your feelings. Curb a tendency to spend or indulge. Tonight: Go out on the town. **

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A friend may mislead you. Be careful about mixing friendship with money; you could be very sorry. Consider what you want, and be willing to share your desires with a close friend. Wildness surrounds an intimate relationship. Tonight: You get to call the shots. ****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Deal with a problem that you might have inadvertently caused. A boss or parent could be reacting strongly to a change you have made; being stubborn about this may not serve you in the long run. Tonight: Vanish again. *

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You might upset yourself for no reason; question what is going on. Your resolution of a problem helps you gain a better understanding of things. A friendship is emphasized. Stay focused on the big picture. Tonight: Hang out with friends. ****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are in the limelight. A friend may be jealous; use your diplomatic skills if you care about this person, and be sensitive to this person's needs. Take a stand, and let others know about your priorities. Tonight: You are a force to be reckoned with. **

IF SEPT. 2 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You need to avoid taking financial risks if you are to succeed this year. A conservative approach works best for you. The emphasis is on security and your home life for the remainder of 1995.

Family-free vacation is mother's dream

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dear Abby is on vacation. She left behind some of her favorite letters from 1980.

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman, married 15 years and have two children. I have a dream. I want very much to go on a vacation with no husband, no children - just me alone! I want a week of doing whatever I want to do, with no pressure from anyone, without worrying if everyone else is happy and content. I would dearly love freedom from all home responsibilities - to sleep when I like, and not have to explain why. A place at the beach would be my idea of heaven.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

My husband thinks my "dream" of a one-week vacation all alone is "unnatural." He thinks a happily married woman who has this kind of dream is crazy.

Well, do I see a psychiatrist, or go to the beach? --NEEDS A BREAK

DEAR NEEDS: Assuming your children will be properly looked after, I see nothing unnatural about your dream. And surely, there is nothing "wrong" with anyone (male or female) who wants freedom from all responsibility for a week.

Go to the beach, and if your husband thinks you're crazy, send HIM to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Needs a Break," whose husband couldn't understand why his wife wanted a little vacation away from her family, prompted me to write.

My parents, both retired, live 420 miles from us. When our youngest child was out of diapers, my husband volunteered to look after our three children for a weekend so I could visit my parents and "get away from it all."

What a marvelous time I had sleeping late, visiting old friends, shopping and going out to dinner. My parents spoiled me rotten. Best of all, I didn't have to answer to "Mommy" all weekend.

I returned home completely refreshed with a wonderful new attitude toward my husband and children. My sweet husband has been doing this for seven years now. (We call it "Mom's R&R.")

It gives me a little vacation away from my routine at home, my parents love pampering me, and my husband and kids admit they enjoy getting rid of me for a few days.

After seeing that letter in your column, Abby, I just had to send in my support. --CINDY IN HUNTINGTON BEACH

DEAR CINDY: Three cheers for your sweet husband. What a terrific Mother's Day gift a "Mom's R&R" would be for mothers of small children - scheduled, of course, for any weekend during the year.

DEAR ABBY: "Needs a Break," the wife and mother who wanted a week's vacation alone at the beach, is doing things backward.

Instead of going to the beach by herself, and then having to spend three weeks cleaning up the mess at home made by her husband and children in her absence, she should send them to the beach and have a glorious, restful week at home.

For my birthday present one year, my husband took my children camping for three days. I had a great time, doing exactly what I wanted to do, when I felt like it, and I was as glad to see them come home as they were to see me again.

We were all revitalized, and appreciated each other more after that. --BEEN THERE IN ALEXANDRIA, VA.

Skybox tickets to papal mass a hot item

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some of the choicest seats to Pope John Paul II's open-air Mass at Oriole Park are beyond the reach of the Catholic Church.

About 1,000 of the 48,041 seats for watching the three-hour papal Mass on Oct. 8 are in the stadium's 75 skyboxes.

Unlike most of the other stadium seats, the skybox seats are rented by companies and government agencies.

Raymond "Chip" Mason, president and chairman of the Legg Mason investment banking company, said he has a more pressing problem:

Who is going to get seats for the Sept. 6 game when Cal Ripken is scheduled to break Lou Gehrig's 1925-to-1939 record of 2,130 consecutive games played?

"With 350,000 accounts and 1,000 brokers, you can imagine the demand for those seats," he told The Washington Post.

"I've had several requests" for the papal Mass, he said, but "a zillion requests" for the Ripken date.

RECOGNIZE ANYONE?

College Park Church of God, 603 Tulane, will have a homecoming starting 10 a.m. Sept. 16-17 for bus students of 1978. Meet the pastor, Joe Sizemore. There will be fun, fellowship and a barbecue at noon. For more information call 263-1573.

CHURCH IN BRIEF

Deadline for church news items is noon Wednesday.

First Church of the Nazarene

The pastoral staff of the First Church of the Nazarene will attend a Sept. 8 seminar at Trinity Church, Lubbock. The seminar, designed for pastors, is sponsored by psychologist Dr. James Dobson's organization "Focus on the Family."

First United Methodist Church

The Methodist Men's organization at First United Methodist Church plans to start the fall season with an evening meal at the church 6:30 p.m. Sept. 12. All men are urged to attend. Dr. Bob Webb is president, John Plaia is vice president and Kent Bowerman is secretary.

It's just the first week in September but committees at First United Methodist Church have already started work on the 17th annual presentation of The Living Christmas Tree. This year's production is being scheduled for the first weekend in December.

Noon Bible Study at First United Methodist Church Sept. 13 will feature guest speaker Charles Dennis, conference evangelist. The public is invited to come for lunch and stay to hear this outstanding speaker. Serving begins 11:30 a.m. in Garrett Hall.

Friends Of Unity

Friends of Unity are offering the use of the Box Car to small groups which want to meet for inspirational or educational purposes. Call 267-8743 between 1-4 p.m. weekdays for more information.

This Sunday the 11 a.m. service will feature a teaching inspired by Emmet Fox, "The Seven Main Aspects of God." The Silent Unity Prayer Service is at 8 p.m. Tuesdays. Daily Word Devotionals are given at 7:15 a.m. daily.

East Side Baptist Church

The East Side Baptist Church is changing the starting time of their Sunday morning service from 10:45 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Doug Shelly, pastor of the church, noted that the change was being made in an effort to "meet the needs of the church family."

Brother Shelly went on to point out that the earlier meeting time "will be a family worship time." He went on to say that the church does have age groups classes at 10 a.m. Sunday afternoons, followed by an evening worship service.

The East Side Baptist Church is located at East 11th and Settles.

Hillcrest Baptist Church

Hillcrest Baptist Church, 2000 W. FM 700, will host the Wayne Bristow Crusade Sept. 14-17.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI
A DETECTIVE "WHODUNIT" - IN THE BIBLE?!

YES, IT DEED! THE BIBLE IS BELIEVED TO CONTAIN THE WORLD'S TWO OLDEST DETECTIVE STORIES, WRITTEN SOMETIME DURING THE SECOND CENTURY B.C., THEY ARE NOW FOUND IN THE BOOK OF APOCRYPHA AND ARE SMALL MASTERPIECES OF SUSPENSE, PLOT, AND CHARACTERIZATION... EACH TEACHES A MORAL LESSON OF TRUST IN GOD.

"SUSANNA AND THE ELDER'S" IS THE TALE OF A YOUNG, BEAUTIFUL WIFE WHO IS LUSTED AFTER BY TWO EVIL JUDGES, CALLED ELDER'S. BECAUSE SUSANNA WOULD NOT ACCEPT THEIR ODDIOUS ADVANCES THEY FALSELY ACCUSE HER OF ADULTERY WITH AN UNKNOWN MAN - AN OFFENSE PUNISHABLE BY DEATH! FORTUNATELY, DANIEL, HE OF THE LION'S DEN FAME, SUSPECTS THE TWO ELDER'S AND BY SOME GOOD DEDUCTION AND SOME VERY CLEVER QUESTIONING, TRICKS THE TWO ELDER'S INTO EXPOSING THEIR OWN FALSE ACCUSATIONS OF SUSANNA. THUS, AN INNOCENT VICTIM IS SAVED FROM DEATH IN TRUE DETECTIVE STORY STYLE! HOW DANIEL DID ALL THIS IS IN THE APOCRYPHA AND IF YOUR OWN BIBLE DOESN'T HAVE IT, JUST RUN UP TO THE ATTIC AND JUST OFF GREAT-GRANDMA'S FAMILY BIBLE - ALL THE OLD-TIME BIBLES INCLUDED THE APOCRYPHA - AND IT'S A GREAT FUN TO READ THIS EXCITING TALE RIGHT OUT OF THE BOOK ITSELF - YOU'LL SURELY AGREE DANIEL HANDLED THE CASE JUST AS ABLY AS THE GREAT SHERLOCK HOLMES WOULD HAVE!

NEXT WEEK: THE OTHER OLDEST DETECTIVE STORY!
