Civilians and soldiers ignore call to respect the flag

FREDERICK, Md. (AP) — Some soldiers and civilians at the Army base here duck into buildings to avoid saluting Old Glory.

Others have shouted obscenities at those who stop to observe the flag-lowering ceremony. Some even claim not to know what's required of them.

Sgt. Maj. David Faiello, in charge of enlisted personnel at Fort Detrick, views it all as an affront to those men and women who fought under the red-white-and-blue. And he's cracking down.

Faiello has ordered military police to warn any of the base's 4,700 soldiers and civilian base employees who disregard Army policy during the solemn flag-lowering ceremony, held every day at twilight.

Faiello took the action after his call for respect was largely ignored — his articles on the topic appeared in the base's newspaper.

"He was upset by it," base spokesman Norm Covert said. "He served and others served in uniform fighting for that flag and it deserves our respect. People do it at baseball games."

At 5 p.m. every day, a cannon is fired on the first note of "To the Colors!" and the flag is slowly lowered during a ceremony that lasts about a minute. As the music starts, Covert said, civilians and soldiers are required to stop and turn toward the flag. Soldiers are required to salute, civilians to hold their hand over their heart.

Cars should also stop and their occupants should get out and observe the ceremony, he said.

Faiello has ordered that four officers be posted at intersections around the base to stop cars during the ceremony, and that they should take note of the license plates of those who don't stop.

He also has instructed military police to issue verbal warnings to violators and educate those who claim not to know about the policy.

"We had an incident recently when a military driver stopped his car and got out to salute and several drivers behind him got very angry and shouted obscenities at him," Faiello said in a recent base newspaper article.

"There is just no excuse for this."

Officers have not begun issuing written citations, which would require violators to receive counseling from their supervisors, Covert said, but that could start if infractions continue.

"I don't think some people are ignoring it as much as they don't know what's going on,"

50 Years! College set to celebrate

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

A golden celebration is planned for next month to honor 50 years of Howard College being a part of the community.

The college was established by a county vote on Nov. 17, 1945 and classes began the following year.

The celebration is scheduled for Nov. 16-18 and includes a barbecue, basketball and baseball games, rodeo, pancake breakfast, birthday party and a candlelight dinner.

The event kicks off Nov. 16 at 5:30 p.m. with a barbecue followed by a Lady Hawks basketball game at 6:30 p.m. A special presentation will be at 7 p.m. followed by the Hawks game at 8 p.m. College officials are not saying what the presentation will be in order to keep it a surprise.

On that Friday, a pancake breakfast at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building is scheduled for 8-9 a.m. followed by a rodeo exhibition at 12:15 p.m. Transportation will be provided for anyone on the campus grounds who wants to watch the rodeo at the arena on Midway Road.

A scrimmage baseball game will be at 1:30 p.m. followed by the unveiling of a life-size sculpture of a hawk in front of the student union building at 3 p.m. A birthday bash at the Heritage Museum complete with cake and a display upstairs to honor the college gets underway at 4 p.m.

Jody Nix and the West Texas Cowboys will perform at a dance at the Stampede beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

On Saturday, a golf tournament will begin the day's activities at 9 a.m. and is sponsored by the Chicano Golf Club.

A reception for charter board member Dr. P.W. Malone is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. in the foyer of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. A formal candlelight dinner complete with china and crystal dinnerware is at 6:30

STOP AND GO

A four-way stop sign was recently put up at the intersection of Sixth Street and Runnels. Post office employees made the recommendation several months ago to Traffic Commission Chairman Ernie Morgan. The commission then looked into the traffic count and the number of accidents at the intersection before approaching city council members. The recommendation was approved two months ago and the sign was erected in September.

Prop. 14 increases exemptions

Editor's Note: This is the third article in a series explaining the 14 Constitutional amendments voters will be asked to decide Nov. 7.

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

One of the issues to be decided in the Nov. 7 election is Proposition 14, dealing with raising limits of the ad valorem tax exemption.

If passed, Proposition 14 would raise the ad valorem tax exemption level for disabled veterans and their widows or surviving minor children.

It would also increase exemptions on property values from $1,500 to $5,000 for veterans with 10 percent to 30 percent disability ratings, from $2,000 to $7,500 for a 31 percent to 50 percent disability rating, from $2,500 to $10,000 for a 51 percent to 70 percent disability rating, and from $3,000 to $15,000 for veterans with more than a 70 percent disability rating.

"In addition, the exemption for a surviving spouse and minor children would be increased from $2,500 to $5,000," State Rep. David Counts said.

"Opponents cite concerns over the effects of these exemptions on local tax revenues, while supporters point to surveys showing Texas with the lowest benefits for disabled veterans in comparison to other states," Counts added.

The argument for Proposition 14 is disabled veterans deserve public benefits to recognize and reward them for their service and to compensate them for the loss they have suffered.

Current Texas tax exemptions for veterans are among the lowest in the nation. The number of disabled veterans and their surviving families who qualify is small, and the loss in tax revenue that would result from increasing the exemptions would be small considering the sacrifices made by disabled veterans.

Opponents of Proposition 14 say it would cause the loss of revenues by local governments that would have to be made up by other taxpayers.

Also, part of the argument against the proposition is it's too detailed and restrictive and would be more appropriate in a statute and a more applicable

Program variety enriches students

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Goliad Middle School provides a variety of programs for students to enrich their lives.

Big Spring Independent School District board members were given the opportunity to learn more about the programs during their regular meeting last Thursday.

Principal Jean Broughton showed trustees a 15-minute video highlighting programs such as academic teaming, site-based management teaming, peer counseling and teacher assistants.

Academic teaming puts a student with four core curriculum teachers in math, science, social studies and language arts.

The teachers are then able to give the students more attention, recognize their hidden potentials or talents and discuss problems or achievements.

The site-based management team is composed of the principal, teachers, campus and district faculty as well as community leaders. The team sets the goals and strategy for Goliad. They also make decisions concerning student performance, curriculum, school organization, staff patterns and budgets.

G.E.A.R., or Get Excited About Reading, is another aspect designed to encourage both students and staff to read.

Instructors are also encouraged to attend workshops to learn more about the educational field. The teachers then return to Goliad and pass on what they learned to others.

G.E.A.R., or Get Excited About Reading, is another aspect designed to encourage both students and staff to read. Everyone in the school takes 10 minutes out of their fourth period to read a book. Broughton said after implementing G.E.A.R. the overall Texas Assessment of Academic Skills test scores went up 20 points.

Building Up Math Skills, B.U.M.S., is similar to the reading project with the time devoted during the activity period to solving math problems. Broughton hopes this new program will help increase the TAAS math scores.

Once a week during the activity period students are involved in peer counseling. It was developed to build self-esteem and self-confidence in the students, as well as help students make the transition from elementary to middle school.

Not being a part of the crowd or on the A-B honor roll could mean a chance to belong to the Golden Mavericks. The group is made up of students picked by their teachers. The sixth and seventh graders are nominated based on their citizenship and the good deeds they have performed. Their picture is placed on the bulletin board for one semester.

The male students can sign up for the Cavaliers, a community-service oriented club. It is sponsored by the Optimist Club with members helping to sell Christmas trees, Special Olympics and raising the flags every morning. A student must maintain good grades to be eligible.

The female students can try out for the pep squad known as the Golden Girls. They must also make good grades to become a member. They cheer at pep rallies and if a girl wants to try out for cheerleader, they must have been a Golden Girl first.

R.A.P. is yet another program to award students for good behavior. It stands for Really Awesome Person and students have the chance to win prizes such as movie passes or free pizza.

Developing leadership qualities is the reason for the Principal's Council. Eight students who have leadership abilities but may not show them on campus are chosen to develop communication lines between the student body and staff.

Covert said. "Then, there are always those in a hurry to go pick up their child at day care."

Spc. LaShawn Brown, who is on the flag detail, said a few more people have been showing respect for the flag, and some have gone to extremes to get around it.

"A lot of people try to hide. They duck back in the buildings," Ms. Brown said.

Compliance, however, appeared strong on Monday evening.

A man kept walking past the flag at the start of the ceremony, but turned toward it when he reached his car. A woman heading to her car stopped and faced the flag. Seven soldiers playing football stopped and came to attention.

Army spokesman Capt. Joseph Piek said he wasn't aware that disrespect for the flag was a widespread problem at the nation's bases. He said how strictly regulations are enforced is up to individual commanders.

"In my nine years on troop installations," Piek said, "I knew people who would stay in the building past 5 p.m. so they wouldn't get halfway down the road and have to stop and get out."

AUSTIN (AP) — President Clinton's challenge to Americans to work together to end racism was the right message at the right time, his Texas supporters say.

"It's untraditional Democratic government's not going to solve this problem. He said you Americans are going to solve it," said Land Commissioner Garry Mauro.

"It was balanced and it called on Americans and Texans to solve the race problems that we have in this country. I think they're the only people who are going to solve it," said Mauro, who heads Clinton's re-election campaign in Texas.

In a Monday speech filled with references to President Lyndon B. Johnson, Clinton told a University of Texas audience the time had come for all "to take personal responsibility for reaching out to people of different races."

He praised Johnson's commitment to education for all and his signing into law the Civil Rights Act and Voting Rights Act.

Mauro said the president's speech was one only a Southerner could make.

"I don't think anybody but a Southern politician can address race. We grew up with it. We understand the problem so much better than other parts of the country. So I think Bill Clinton's probably the only high, elected official in the country that's qualified to deal with the issue," Mauro said.

Gov. George W. Bush lauded Clinton's message of personal responsibility.

"I was pleased to see the president emphasize the solution to racial divisions lies not in a new law or a government program, but in the hearts of individual Texans and Americans," Bush said.

"I applaud the president's recognition of the importance of personal responsibility," he said.

Clinton's speech was part of the annual Liz Sutherland Carpenter lecture series at UT, named for the former White House correspondent who later served as press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson.

Ms. Carpenter said she found Clinton's speech moving.

"I thought it was very thoughtfully done, very meaningful, and he put the burden on the people to make us respond, to redefine ourselves to be a part of the cure," she said. "I hope it'll have an effect on everyone to ... search their own souls."

Among those attending, and recognized by Clinton, was former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan, who said she has no doubt Americans can do what the president urged.

Saldivar breaks down as standoff tapes played

HOUSTON (AP) — For the first time since her murder trial began, Yolanda Saldivar broke her stoic demeanor and shed tears as a jury heard her hysterical wailing in the aftermath of the shooting of Tejano singer Selena.

"I've done some things that were wrong, and I'll never be forgiven in my life," she said on tape recordings made of her speaking with Corpus Christi police hostage negotiator Larry Young. "I need to die. I need to die."

For three hours Monday, jurors heard the constant howling of Ms. Saldivar as Young, on the afternoon of March 31, tried to coax her into putting down the .38-caliber revolver she held to her head while seated in her pickup in a motel parking lot.

"Look what I've done to my best friend," moaned Ms. Saldivar, who rose from a zealous fan to manager of Selena's two boutiques.

The 35-year-old San Antonio woman cried quietly as Young took the stand to explain his role in the negotiations, then sobbed and was comforted by defense attorneys as the tapes were played.

Jurors were expected to hear more tapes today of the standoff, which lasted 9 hours and ended with Ms. Saldivar being taken into custody.

On the tapes, Ms. Saldivar repeatedly threatened to end her life but never described the fatal shooting of Selena as an accident.

Yolanda Saldivar cries as she listens to the tape of her standoff with Corpus Christi police during her trial in Houston in the shooting death of Tejano music star Selena.

"She never said that," John Houston, who spoke with Ms. Saldivar during the first three hours of the standoff, said. "She never stated it or implied it."

"She never said accident," Joe Claire, another Corpus Christi police officer at the scene, testified.

Ms. Saldivar's attorneys contend the shooting was not deliberate and she was waving her five-shot revolver at the singer when it discharged inside Room 158 of the Days Inn in Corpus Christi.

Prosecutors contend Ms. Saldivar deliberately killed the singer when Selena went to the motel to sever her ties to Ms. Saldivar, a former Selena fan club president suspected of embezzling $30,000 from the star's boutiques.

If convicted of murder, Ms. Saldivar could get life in prison. Lead defense lawyer Douglas Tinker asked Young if Ms. Saldivar said numerous times before the recording equipment was brought in that she did not mean to do the shooting.

"Yes, she did," Young replied. Earlier witnesses testified they saw Ms. Saldivar, gun pointed straight ahead, chasing the bleeding, screaming Selena across the motel courtyard to the lobby, where the 23-year-old Grammy winner collapsed and died. She had been shot in the back.

Investigation of finances suspends Gregory PD

GREGORY (AP) — The three-member Gregory Police Department has been suspended with pay during an investigation into department financial records.

Monday night, the Gregory City Council affirmed Mayor Luis Galvan's suspension on Friday of Police Chief Daniel Deleon, assistant chief Valerie Ramey and officer Tony Arsuaga IV.

Without discussion or comment, the council took its action by unanimous voice vote.

"It's a mystery to me. It's a mystery to you," Deleon said after the meeting. He said he thought city officials would discuss the reason behind the suspensions. "We have no idea what they are looking into."

Galvan declined to comment after the meeting, which lasted only a few minutes.

But City Attorney Martin Haskett, an Aransas Pass lawyer, said after the meeting that there are discrepancies in the financial records of the police department that need to be examined.

The officers will be suspended until an outside investigation, possibly by the Texas Rangers, can be completed, Haskett said.

"We want to find out whether there is anything wrong," he said. "If there is something, we will prosecute it to the fullest extent. If we're wrong, we'll certainly apologize to these officers."

In the meantime, the San Patricio County Sheriff's Department is handling police calls in this town of about 2,600 people.

Soldier faces court-martial for refusing to join task force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is considering court-martialing or simply discharging from the service a medic in Germany who refused to join his unit as part of a United Nations task force in Macedonia, a U.S. military officer said today.

Spc. Michael New's commanders offered to use an informal hearing process known as an "Article 15" to decide what, if any, disciplinary action to take against him, but New exercised his legal right to refuse that option, the officer said.

The officer, speaking on condition of anonymity, said New's action left his commanders with three options: initiate a court-martial, use an administrative procedure to discharge him from the Army, or simply take no administrative action.

New, 22, of Conroe, Texas, refused earlier this month to wear a uniform with the U.N. insignia and blue headgear when the 1st Battalion of the 15th Infantry Regiment, 3rd Infantry Division, at Schweinfurt, Germany, was ordered to formation in preparation for deployment to the former Yugoslav state of Macedonia.

New and members of his family have said he will not wear the U.N. gear because he believes it would put him in conflict with his sworn allegiance to the U.S. Constitution. He was deemed by the Army to have disobeyed a lawful order.

The soldier's father, Daniel New, also of Conroe, said his son's superior officers said they would wait until later in the week to decide whether to initiate the court-martial process.

"He may go to prison for it, but Mike feels he's done nothing wrong," Daniel New said.

"The effect of putting him in jail would be to make him a political prisoner, and I don't think the Army really wants to do that, considering how much support Michael has been getting from people across the country," Daniel New said. "I think he told (his superiors) what they didn't want to hear."

"One reason he wanted the court-martial is because it will all be a matter of public record, all handled out in the open. If he'd accepted the offer, it would have been handled privately."

New is the only American soldier to have refused to join a mission in support of the U.N.

Under the Article 15 procedure that New chose to decline this week, either his company or his battalion commander would have heard the facts of the case and decided on a form of punishment.

Prisoners to raise veggies for food bank

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Inmates at the Dominguez State Jail will grow onions and cabbage for the San Antonio Food Bank, prison officials say.

The inmates are starting the project this week on five acres of land and eventually expand the project to 30 acres, an official said Monday.

"This is a natural partnership," said Allan Polunsky, chairman of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice. "They have a need and we need to put inmates to work and the fruit of their labor can go to feed the hungry."

The food bank will pay for the seeds and packaging materials for the harvest at a cost of about $100 per acre, according to Raymond Holmes, director of the food bank.

Million Man message is one for everyone

Are we seeing a kinder, gentler Louis Farrakhan?

It's hard to believe the figure behind the Million Man March, this person who so fervently urged members of his race to observe a day of atonement, participate in family and community and join organizations that refused to endorse the march, is the same Louis Farrakhan that has inspired strong dislike in people of all races.

Farrakhan has been known to say disparaging things about whites, women, Jews and others. Little if any of the inflammatory rhetoric was in his speech yesterday, however.

Instead he urged rappers to drop the obsession with violence and sex. He urged men to become part of the NAACP and Urban League, groups that have helped empower black people, even though the two groups would not officially endorse the march he organized.

He is talking about organizing a board of directors to promote and fund African-American leadership. Not a separatist state, mind you, but something more businesslike.

Does this mean the Farrakhan of the past is no more? Probably not. His beliefs have been strong and certainly will continue to be. However, in the midst of all he says that we have not agreed with, he has spoken some truths that we would all be wise to listen to and to follow.

It isn't just black men who need to be involved with their families and communities. All races and genders do. It isn't just black men who should support, with time and money, organizations that help others. We all should.

And it isn't just Farrakhan who should step back from negative comments about bad race relations, and instead talk about how to make things better for ourselves. We all should.

Farrakhan hasn't been considered a voice of reason in the past, but yesterday he sure sounded like one. If he can, so can the rest of us.

Civil Rights mission unfulfilled

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

AP NEWS ANALYSIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson once challenged Americans "to transform the commands of our laws into the customs of our land." Thirty years later, President Clinton is urging that same mission against racism.

Clinton's summons speaks to the unfulfilled promise of the 1960s, when civil rights laws were enacted to ban discrimination in housing and public accommodations, insure equal job opportunities, guarantee voting rights.

"The great divides of the past called for and were addressed by legal and legislative changes," Clinton recalled at the University of Texas on Monday. "But today, we are really dealing — and we know it — with problems that grow in large measure out of the way all of us look at the world with our minds and the way we feel about the world with our hearts."

"And therefore, while leaders and legislation may be important, this is work that has to be done by every single one of you," he said.

His sermon was delivered to a largely white audience of 10,000 people in Austin, while an estimated 400,000 black men rallied at the U.S. Capitol on Monday as a show of both self-reliance and protest. The messages and the march were testament to the complexity and the persistence of racial divisions.

While Clinton and other political leaders embraced the themes of the Million Man vey, they renounced the man who led it as a racial extremist. Colin Powell, who declined to join the demonstration, said he wished the idea had come from someone other than Louis Farrakhan of the Nation of Islam. But he also said in a CBS-TV interview the march would begin to "uplift African Americans to be part of an inclusive America."

Marchers and demonstrators have sought that goal for generations, as when more than 200,000 people, black and white, stood before the Lincoln Memorial in August 1963 and heard the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. speak of the dream of racial equality. Monday's march was the greatest such gathering since; it was almost entirely of black men, and the crowd estimates exceeded those of 1963.

In the controversy over the sponsoring role of Farrakhan, dismissed by some mainstream black leaders as irrelevant to the purpose, there could be another symptom of what Clinton called a simple truth: "White Americans and black Americans often see the same world in drastically different ways, ways that go beyond and beneath the Simpson trial and its aftermath, which brought these perceptions so starkly into the open."

"The rift that we see before us is tearing at the heart of America... in spite of the remarkable progress black Americans have made in the last generation."

The civil rights marches of the South and in action by government. Now some steps the federal government took to redress those grievances are under challenge.

Congressional districts shaped to create black majorities under the 1965 Voting Rights Act are being contested in five Southern states, based on a 1993 Supreme Court ruling that they may violate the rights of white voters. Affirmative action to redress prior discrimination is under political siege.

"I want to mend affirmative action but I do not think America is at a place today where we can end it," Clinton said. "The evidence of the last several weeks shows that."

Federal social programs are in dispute. Clinton said he is fighting against Republican efforts "to roll back family security, aid to distressed communities and support for education."

Beyond those government issues, though, his message and, indeed, the lesson of recent history, suggest that racial divisions won't be ended by laws, but rather by individual choices and attitudes.

Johnson said in 1965 that "despite the court orders and the laws, the victories and the speeches" for blacks, the gulf in real opportunity was widening. "And there is still unacceptable economic disparity between blacks and whites," Clinton said, as if completing the sentence, three decades later.

Walter R. Mears, vice president and columnist for The Associated Press, has reported on the march and national politics for more than 20 years.

Per-child tax cut dividing GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $500-per-child tax cut might seem a natural rallying point for Republicans eager to show voters Congress is in good hands for the first time in four decades. But deciding who gets it, when they get it and for how long has proved divisive.

Part of the wrangling is presidential politics, part of it has to do with choosing among tax cuts that all have strong constituencies and part of it is the philosophical difference between moderate and conservative Republicans.

After two days of debate behind closed doors, GOP members of the Senate Finance Committee closed ranks Friday and decided that when the full panel meets this week it will adopt a permanent — rather than temporary — credit for parents of children younger than 18.

It wasn't an easy decision. Senators must shrink the House's $354 billion "Contract With America" tax bill to fit the $245 billion allotted to it over seven years in Congress' budget blueprint.

Making the per-child credit permanent consumed $140 billion of the $245 billion and meant senators had to give up the idea of delivering the credit to voters before next year's election.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, confronted with the need to broker a compromise between conservative and moderate Republicans, had held out the possibility of ending the credit after five years.

But Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas, Dole's chief rival for the GOP presidential nomination, quickly seized on the issue, insisting on a permanent credit and depicting himself as a principled conservative and Dole as a compromiser.

The chief difference remaining among Republicans is over where to cap eligibility for the credit. The House, shrugging off misgivings from GOP moderates, set the income cutoff for the full credit at $200,000 per family. The cap in the Senate version is $75,000 for single parents and $110,000 for couples.

GOP senators conceded they were seeking to blunt Democrats' claims that Republicans were seeking to rob from spending programs for the poor to finance tax cuts for the rich.

Donald Bronson of Washington D.C. cries during Jesse Jackson's speech in Washington Monday during the Million Man March. Tens of thousands of black men from across America gathered at the base of the Capitol and the Mall in a rally of unity, self-affirmation and protest.

Men pledge unity, rebuilding at rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of black men returned home today from a spirited rally for unity and brotherhood, pledging to clean up their lives and rebuild a country portrayed as poisoned by racism.

"I think what happened yesterday was an explosion of self-confidence," Rep. Charles Rangel, a New York Democrat who represents Harlem, said today.

"This was the biggest revival that I've ever attended and I hope it reverberates around the country in energizing people right where they are," Joseph Lowery, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said as he, Rangel and other black leaders recalled the rally today on the morning television shows.

Many of the estimated 400,000 people drawn here Monday by Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan's Million Man March were optimistic that one of the outcomes of the peaceful day of praying, singing and speechmaking would be more understanding between blacks and whites.

"I hope it acts as a catalyst for better relationships with everybody," said Robert Martin, who grabbed a subway ride to Virginia during Farrakhan's speech on the first leg of his trip back to Ohio.

"Mister Farrakhan has some positive attributes, but he should be working to bring people together instead of pushing them apart," said Jean Foster, a University of Maryland student. "That's what a man of peace would do."

In a sermon lasting nearly 2 1/2 hours, Farrakhan stood at the base of the Capitol building, cajoling, scolding and lecturing to a sea of upturned faces that stretched more than a mile down the National Mall to the Washington Monument.

He stood behind bulletproof glass, surrounded by stern-faced, uniformed followers of his ministry as he denounced "white supremacy" as the "real evil in America."

Runaway teen shot after making call to go home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Wendy Macias ran away from home seeking a better life. A day later, she called her mother to come and get her. Within minutes, she was shot dead by a stray bullet meant for a gang member.

The very streets Wendy had tried to escape had claimed her life.

Maria Macias drove up to the corner just as the ambulance carrying her daughter was pulling away.

"She was really scared about the neighborhood she was in," Wendy's mother said, fighting back tears. "I got there late."

Wendy ran away from her home in Athens, a community 12 miles south of downtown Los Angeles, after arguing with her father on Saturday. The next afternoon, she called police and they temporarily placed her in a children's home.

1,500 interviewed about derailment

PHOENIX (AP) — A week into the investigation of a deadly Amtrak derailment, FBI agents set up rural roadblocks in hopes that someone can shed some light on the saboteur who caused the crash.

"It's too early to tell if the information will lead to anyone," FBI spokesman Jack Callahan said Monday.

She told the officers she wanted to get far away from the drugs and violence that plague many Los Angeles neighborhoods.

"Wendy came to us and the exact words that she told us was that she wanted a better way for herself," police Sgt. Alexander Gomez said. "She wanted a better life, than, you know, the gangs, the violence, the drugs."

"She wanted to get away — as far away as from that as possible... Unfortunately, the very thing that she wanted to get away from was the very thing that took her life," Gomez said.

The youngster had left the children's home and gone to the city's rough South Central neighborhood. She had just finished talking with her mother from a pay phone Sunday and had called a friend when she was shot, sheriff's Deputy Benita Nichol said.

about 3 a.m. Monday. Agents also have interviewed some of the 1,500 residents who live near the crash site, 55 miles southwest of Phoenix in Hyder.

The Sunset Limited toppled into a desert gulch along a sabotaged stretch of track Oct. 9, killing crewman Mitchell Bates and injuring 78 people. Copies of an anti-government letter were found at the site.

GOP may be forced to toughen up against fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — A torrent of criticism from Democrats and federal law enforcement officials may force Republican leaders to toughen their approach to fighting fraud in the Medicare reform bill.

Government auditors have estimated that Medicare loses as much as $18 billion a year — a dime on every $1 it spends — to medical fraud, waste and billing abuses.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated the GOP plan for fighting fraud would save just $2 billion over seven years, while another provision easing a ban on physicians' referring patients to labs they own actually would cost Medicare $1.1 billion.

What has worried the inspector general of Health and Human Services, June Gibbs Brown, and the Justice Department's special counsel for health care fraud, Gerald M. Stern, is a provision they say would make it harder to obtain convictions.

Physicians and other health care providers are now required to use "reasonable diligence" to ensure that their Medicare claims are accurate.

Hopes for finding survivors raised as some wash ashore

CIUDAD DEL CARMEN, Mexico (AP) — Reports of survivors clinging to wreckage or washed ashore have raised hopes for the rescue of about 22 people missing since their barge sank during a hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico.

Roxanne, downgraded from hurricane to tropical storm status with sustained winds of 65 mph today, continued to torment tens of thousands of people by pushing the sea far above its normal level, destroying homes and belongings with the worst flooding here since 1927.

High seas and blustery winds complicated efforts to rescue the survivors of the barge, working on contract for the state oil monopoly Pemex, which sank Sunday night with at least 244 aboard as Roxanne spun through the area.

At least three people were dead, 219 were rescued and 22 remained missing today. Varying reports said 19 to 30 U.S. citizens and one Canadian had been aboard.

All crew members donned life jackets with strobe lights or boarded life rafts before the vessel went down, said James Stewart, a spokesman for barge owner CCC Fabricaciones y Construcciones.

Octavio Best, chief of navigation for this ravaged port, said overflights reported 12 to 15 people might still be on the wreckage and another 10 to 12 on the flooded beaches northeast of here.

Their situation "must be very hard," he said, citing reports of high seas and 50 mph winds on nearby oil platforms.

Three tugboats were trying to rescue remaining survivors at sea early today. Other boats carried the 219 rescued so far to the Sara Maria, a makeshift hospital ship anchored just off Ciudad del Carmen.

Best said the wind and waves made docking at shore impossible.

Army troops and city workers were searching for possible survivors reported on islands of the flooded beaches northeast of the city, he said.

Outside his office, wind-whipped seawater poured down the streets of Ciudad del Carmen like fast-moving rivers Monday night. Hundreds of houses were flooded and more than 7,000 people were housed in emergency shelters set up in schools and other buildings.

People stood in water up to their knees to make calls from a phone system that miraculously still worked. There was also electrical power, though some loose cables sizzled and hissed as they whipped about in the rain.

Across the state of Campeche, tens of thousands were driven from their homes by a sea surge the like of which few could recall. Ernesto Ongay, an amateur local historian, said the floods were the worst since 1927.

A firefighter carries an injured woman passenger on the plaza outside the Orsay Museum after a bomb exploded on a regional subway train near the Museum during the Paris morning rush hour Tuesday injuring at least 24 people. The blast was among at least eight bombings or attempted bombings since July.

Subway bombing injures 28 in Paris

PARIS (AP) — A bomb exploded under a seat on a commuter train during morning rush hour today, blowing off some passengers' feet in the eighth bombing or attempted bombing in France since July. At least 28 people were injured.

The bomb was a gas canister loaded with hex nuts. Police consider that type of device to be the trademark of Algerian militants opposed to France's support of the military-installed government in Algiers.

Shortly after the underground train pulled out of the Musee d'Orsay station, "there was a huge explosion," a passenger told France 2 television. "The train stopped and the engineer told us 'Don't move!' At that point we were engulfed in smoke. After a few seconds we heard the first cries from the injured."

"There was nothing but smoke and the smell of gunpowder," a passenger told France-Info radio after making his way through the tunnel with other commuters.

Police and firefighters went on high alert and sealed off the area, across the Seine River from the Louvre Museum. Prime Minister Alain Juppe, Interior Minister Jean-Louis Debre and Mayor Jean Tiberi rushed to the scene.

Red-and-white police tape ringed the entrance to the Musee d'Orsay station next to the art museum and fire, police and rescue vehicles filled the street under a gray sky. Helicopters flew the most seriously hurt to hospitals.

At least 28 people were hurt, five of them seriously, police said. Flying shrapnel severed the feet of several passengers, said Olivier Lamour, a doctor at the scene.

A man apparently of North African descent was detained after he was seen rushing from the scene, police sources said on condition of anonymity. They said the man was being questioned as a witness.

American given life sentence for drug smuggling in Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — An American journalist who tried to smuggle out heroin sewn into the lining of his suitcase was sentenced today to life in prison without parole.

"I'm totally outraged," said Steven Roye, 49, an Emmy award-winning reporter who once worked for WWOR-TV in New Jersey. "I'm in total disbelief. A life sentence for what? Even if I had done it, I didn't deserve life. You should give a life sentence to killers."

Roye was arrested last Oct. 20 at Bangkok's Don Muang International Airport while trying to board a flight to Amsterdam with 6½ pounds of heroin in his suitcase, police said.

He originally pleaded innocent, saying he had been forced to carry the heroin while researching drug trafficking links between Thailand and the United States for a story. He said criminals threatened to harm his family if he didn't smuggle the heroin.

Croat troops mass and Serbs seek help

BANJA LUKA, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — After weeks of losses in Bosnia and reports that Croat troops were massing near their last holdings in Croatia, Bosnian Serb leaders called on the region's biggest army to come to their rescue.

The Bosnian Serbs have asked Serbia for "protection of the Republika Srpska and its people," said the Bosnian Serb news agency SRNA, using the Serb name for their self-styled state in eastern Slavonia.

Officials said Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic would meet soon with Serbia's president, Slobodan Milosevic.

Milosevic is widely blamed for provoking the war by backing Serbs who rebelled when Bosnia's Muslim-Croat majority seceded from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia in 1992. More than 200,000 have died or disappeared in the war.

He made a show of dumping the Bosnian Serbs last year in a bid to end international sanctions against his country, and has since negotiated for Bosnia's Serbs in U.S.-brokered peace talks.

Milosevic controls the Yugoslav army, whose entry into the war would spread the fighting far beyond its current scale.

The Yugoslav army would almost certainly intervene if Croatia moved to take eastern Slavonia, the last Serb-held territory in Croatia after government blitzes in May and August sent hundreds of thousands of Serbs fleeing.

A mechanized army unit that left Bosnia on Sunday was reported rumbling toward the region, and analysts said Croat forces could attack within weeks.

Croatian President Franjo Tudjman seemed to confirm the fears. Campaigning Monday for parliamentary elections, he urged people to vote for his party "because those who knew how to liberate Croatia from Yugo-Communist hell will know how to liberate the last chunk of Croatian territory."

U.S. Ambassador Peter Galbraith, who traveled to the region on Monday, urged caution, warning that another Croat offensive "would disrupt the peace process and would lead to the exodus of the Serbian civilian population."

International aid agencies, meanwhile, rushed food and supplies to Banja Luka, the Serb stronghold in northwestern Bosnia, where some 50,000 Serb refugees fled.

Lady Steers hold home finale today

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports Editor

When Traci Pierce opened her first season as Big Spring volleyball coach, she knew her young team would struggle.

She knew there would be some bad times.

She knew there might be some heartbreaking losses.

But she never knew it would be like this.

The Lady Steers (4-17, 1-5), make their final home appearance of the 1995 season tonight at Steer Gym when District 4-4A arch-rival Andrews comes calling.

Action begins with the freshman match at 5:30 p.m., with junior varsity and varsity action to follow.

Big Spring's season has been exasperating, not only to Pierce but to six seniors - Molly Smith, Natalie Newsom, Kerri Hall, Stephanie Jones, Marisa Hilario and Charlene Barganier - who are playing their final home game tonight.

"We know we have all the techniques and skills, but sometimes it just doesn't come together," Jones said. "There's no doubt we can come back, but we just get our heads down too easily when something bad happens."

Something bad has happened with great regularity to this team. The Lady Steers have been in almost every match they've played, and taken just about every opponent to a third game. More often than not, though, something happens.

"We know what we're doing. We just don't do it," Barganier said. "We don't talk to each other like we should, we don't play defense like we should ... something goes wrong, and everybody starts getting down on themselves."

This season of heartbreak was perfectly summarized by one game - the Oct. 3 match against Lake View in which Big Spring was leading 14-4 in the third game, but ended up losing 16-14.

"That hurt, and I really didn't know how the girls would respond," Pierce said. "They came into the gym (the next day) and their feelings were hurt, but they realized that we were just as good as (Lake View) was."

Though the team has lost in almost every heartbreaking way imaginable, and the play-offs are out of the question, there's still games to be played. Pierce and her seniors definitely believe there's still some fun to be had this year.

"We just want to win our last games," Hilario said. "Everybody thinks we can't do it, and we want to prove them wrong."

"I think it would be great if we could win our last three games," Smith said. "It would mess some people up, and it might help us ... next year, we'll be better."

Klondike running back Lon Estes (12) heads downfield behind teammates Erik Arismendez (15) and Tanner Etheredge (5) during last week's game at Grady. The Cougars are 6-0 and ranked third in the state six-man poll.

Cougars keeping their eyes on the prize

By DARRELL ERICSON
Sports writer

PATRICIA - The Klondike Cougars are undefeated in District 5 six-man football, ranked in the state's top 10, and have their sight on a gold district championship trophy.

At the beginning of district play last Friday, head coach Jim Kinnear took the last trophy won out of the school's trophy case and placed it on his desk.

Since then the trophy has been touched and rubbed by players and coaches, perhaps in hopes of gaining some of that winning magic.

Kinnear said, "The players have rubbed the trophy before walking in and out of the field house. Since then we have adopted the motto 'Go for the gold,' and that is what they are doing."

The Cougars' success has been credited to a total team effort between coaches and players.

At the start of the season the Cougars faced a new look on field, and a new coach. Kinnear was last season's defensive coordinator and head basketball coach. He said the new position has more responsibility, but it is easy working with the same kids from last year.

The transition to the new look has been positive for the players. There is a different attitude on the field and during practice.

Running back Chris Arismendez said, "We get along better with Coach Kinnear. Last year we had a breakdown in communication, but Coach Kinnear listens to us and works with us."

Quarterback Tanner Etheredge said, "It is a whole new attitude. Now there is a sense of urgency. It is our last year and we have to perform to win."

With 12 seniors, the Cougars are a team filled with experience and leadership.

Kinnear said, "These players have been playing with each other since they entered high school. They know what to expect from one another and they know how to play with each other. It makes a big difference on the field."

Now, it is time to translate that experience into success, the players said.

"We are in the same situation as last year (beginning district undefeated). The success has yet to come, we have to be prepared for each game in order to win and be district champions. That is when you will be able to tell if we are successful," running back Lon Estes said.

"The ability in the players has always been there, we just have to put all together and win," Etheredge added.

Aside from being experienced, the Cougars are also a talented bunch, their coach said.

"We have the talent to run and to throw the ball. With Chris and Lon in the backfield, we are able to rotate them in and out and keep them fresh. It also does not allow the defense to key on any one particular player. Credit has to be given to the offensive line and the defense. When it comes game time they get their job done," Kinnear said.

Senior offensive lineman James Rawlings said, "The line is doing a good job, but it's easy when all you have to do is give the backs room to run. We don't even have to hold our blocks for long because they will hit them and go."

The Cougars agree that keeping together as a team and continuing improvement will be the main key in whether they get a gold football trophy of their own.

"We have to stick together as a team and stay with what is working. The record and the ranking does not count in district. We have started over," Estes said.

"We spent four years waiting for our chance to win district and now the time is here. We can't get distracted at the situation at hand. It's time we take it," Etheredge said.

49ers' quarterback out 3-4 weeks with hurt shoulder

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) - With Steve Young, the San Francisco 49ers were an offensive powerhouse. For the next month, they'll find out if they can win without him.

"It's a huge impact to lose Steve Young," tackle Harris Barton said Monday after learning Young would miss four weeks because of a damaged throwing shoulder.

"We all managed to get a Super Bowl ring out of him last year," Barton added. "Our defense responds to the way he plays. The offense certainly responds to the way he plays, and by losing him and having him standing on the sideline, it could really hurt this team. Everybody has to pick up the pieces. Everybody has to reach down deep and help make up for that missing link."

Young, a four-time passing champion and last season's Super Bowl MVP, used San Francisco's bye week to recover from a bruised left shoulder, but no sooner had he gotten better, he re-injured it.

Under constant pressure in Sunday's 18-17 loss at Indianapolis, Young was roughed up for six sacks and took two more serious hits on his already tender left shoulder, causing a sprain and a deep bone bruise, according to team physician Dr. Michael Dillingham.

Coach George Seifert said Dillingham told him not to expect Young to return for a month, and backup quarterback Elvis Grbac said he expects to start the next four games, including the Nov. 12 game at Dallas pairing the winners of the last three Super Bowls.

Young, who spent time in an oxygen chamber Monday as part of an effort to try to speed the healing process, said he hopes to beat the prognosis and return before Nov. 20.

Cowboys re-working contract

IRVING (AP) - Now that their last remaining unsigned player is under contract, the Dallas Cowboys have offered a multi-year extension to middle linebacker Robert Jones that includes a significant signing bonus.

The Cowboys' attempt to reach terms with Jones has been complicated by the team's dispute with the NFL over the Deion Sanders contract and its charge to the salary cap. The Dallas Morning News reported today.

Jones, who led the Cowboys with eight tackles in their 23-9 victory over San Diego on Sunday, can become an unrestricted free agent after this season.

"This is probably our last opportunity to get something done before next season," Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said Monday.

Ratings show increase

NEW YORK (AP) - Through three games, ratings for the baseball playoffs were up 8 percent over two years ago.

The three-game national average is a 13.6 rating and a 23 share, up from a 12.6 rating and 21 share for the first three prime-time playoff telecasts in 1993.

Surgery slated for Levy

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) - Buffalo Bills coach Marv Levy will undergo surgery today for prostate cancer at Roswell Park Cancer Institute in Buffalo. Levy, who has not missed a game in 45 years as a coach, is expected to miss three while recovering.

Levy has coached Buffalo since 1986 and has a record of 101-55-0.

Graf's woes worsen; advertiser backs out

BERLIN (AP) — Steffi Graf's financial situation took another blow when General Motors subsidiary Opel severed its lucrative advertising contract with the world's top-ranked woman tennis player.

Graf, whose father has been in jail for two months, may have to pay a tax bill of $21 million to $28 million. And reportedly, the whereabouts of the bulk of Graf's fortune, estimated at $70 million, is unknown.

Opel, which had been paying Graf $1.2 million this year to advertise its cars and wear the company logo, said it was confident of her personal integrity and regretted Monday's cancellation of the 10-year arrangement.

However, a top Opel official said Graf's advisers were unresponsive when questioned about Sunpark, a company based in the Netherlands, into which Opel and other sponsors paid.

Hans Wilhelm Gaeb, a member of Opel's supervisory board and a vice president of General Motors in Europe, publicly supported Graf when the scandal became known.

He said Opel advised Graf to get new managers and insisted, "in the interest of Opel's good reputation," on an explanation of the Sunpark company. But instead, Graf's lawyer, Peter Danckert, criticized Opel publicly for posing the question and described Opel as "irresponsible," Gaeb said Monday.

With that, "there is no basis any more under the circumstances for a continuation of our cooperation," Gaeb said.

An Opel source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the GM subsidiary tried to inquire about Sunpark with Phil de Picciotto, Graf's manager in the United States who is an executive of Advantage International.

De Picciotto's name appears in business registers as a director of Sunpark, but he told Opel he didn't know anything about Sunpark's activities and had only loaned Peter Graf the use of his name as a favor, the Opel source said.

HOROSCOPE

FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 18, 1995
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your own ideas can make a big difference in what goes on. Do a better job of putting out your ideas and publicizing who you are. Word gets around easily, and you make an impact with ease. Follow through counts. You are in the best of spirits. Tonight: Take a drive. *****
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): It is important to stay centered and make a more positive impression. You visualize changes with ease involving the home and your security. Pull a partner into a discussion, and you make headway. Togetherness and agreement are the outcomes. Tonight: Homeward bound. *****
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Seek out friends, co-workers and partners. Communications are significant and well-received today. Understand more of what makes a situation tick and add enough vitality to make a difference. Your playfulness is highlighted. Tonight: Hang out with the gang. *****
CANCER (June 21-July 22): You have quite a few chances to change your directions and make what you want happen. Finances flourish if you are willing to put in the necessary energy and work. A business offer needs to be checked out, but it is likely to be positive. Tonight: Shop, shop, shop. *****
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are personality-plus, and you can conjure rabbits out of hats. Your creative energy is high, and you can come up with solutions. You are likely to be chased heavily, because your animal magnetism is so high. Tonight: Let loose. *****
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There is a secretive quality to your day. Be more in touch with your feelings as you deal with a loved one or special friend. A quiet approach brings positive results. You gain information by your steady, easy attitude. Mull a decision with care. Tonight: Take a night off. *****
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Aim high for exactly what you want. Your cheerful side comes out when you see what happens because of your drive and direction. Affection flows between you and others. Success is yours. Ask for that raise or that special favor. Tonight: You can't help it - you're the Cheshire Cat. *****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You take the lead with a work matter. You prosper and can gain financially because of your initiative. You see events in a new perspective. Accept an offer. Good luck follows you, but there is a tendency to go to extremes. Tonight: Be out and about. *****
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Use your imagination dealing with different people and issues. Your creativity is high; maintain your level of high productivity. You need to reach out to others, gain information and make headway. Your intellectual side comes out. Tonight: Be your happy-go-lucky self. *****
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): One-to-one relating makes a big difference as you handle a personal matter. Much is going on behind the scenes. You might not want to reveal your happy side. Look at your long-term needs and make plans to follow through. Tonight: Vanish with a favorite person. *****
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your happy side comes out as you deal with loved one and friends. There is no question about it - you are heading down the winning path. Focus on what you want, yet balance play and work. Your popularity peaks, and you make the most of your magic. Tonight: Go for that fantasy. *****
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You succeed in a big way with personal projects. You are full of energy and can get a lot done in a small amount of time. This may be the time to further a fall project. You need to focus on places where you can expend your high energy. Tonight: Exercise, run and clean house. *****

Struggling to be supportive

DEAR ABBY: I have seven grandchildren. The oldest, "Jennifer," graduated from high school last spring. She is a beautiful young lady, and we had hoped she would choose a career that would make us proud of her.

To our dismay, she is working as a dancer in a strip club. She says the money is fantastic and now she is able to buy herself a car and make a down payment on a condo. We love her dearly, but abhor what she is doing with her life. She wants to come and visit soon, and she will probably bring her boyfriend.

FROM THE OLD SCHOOL IN FLORIDA:
DEAR OLD SCHOOL: Jennifer is an adult now and has the right to make her own decisions and choose her own lifestyle, even though it may not meet with your approval.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 17, the 290th day of 1995. There are 75 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 17, 1777, British forces under Gen. John Burgoyne surrendered to American troops in Saratoga, N.Y., in a turning point of the Revolutionary War.

On this date:

In 1919, the Radio Corporation of America was created.

In 1931, mobster Al Capone was convicted of income tax evasion and sentenced to 11 years in prison. (He was released in 1939.)

In 1933, Albert Einstein arrived in the United States as a refugee from Nazi Germany.

In 1941, the U.S. destroyer Kearney was torpedoed by a German submarine off the coast of Iceland. Eleven people died.

In 1945, Col. Juan Peron staged a coup in Buenos Aires, becoming absolute ruler of Argentina.

In 1957, French author Albert Camus was awarded the Nobel Prize in literature.

In 1965, the musical "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever," with a score by Burton Lane and book and lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner, opened on Broadway.

In 1973, Arab oil-producing nations announced they would begin cutting back on oil exports to Western nations and Japan; the result was a total embargo that lasted until March 1974.

In 1978, President Carter signed a bill restoring U.S. citizenship to Confederate President Jefferson Davis.

In 1989, an earthquake measuring 7.1 on the Richter scale struck northern California, killing 67 people and causing $7 billion worth of damage.

Ten years ago: Italian Premier Bettino Craxi resigned in the wake of a dispute concerning his handling of the Achille Lauro hijacking. French author Claude Simon won the Nobel Prize for literature.

Five years ago: In testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Secretary of State James Baker said that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein "must fail if peace is to succeed." The Cincinnati Reds opened up a 2-0 World Series lead, beating the Oakland A's 5-

4. One year ago: Leaders of Israel and Jordan initiated a draft peace treaty. Negotiators for the Angolan government and rebels agreed to a peace treaty to end their 19-year-old civil war.

Today's Birthdays: Playwright Arthur Miller is 80. Actor Tom Poston is 68. Newspaper columnist Jimmy Breslin is 65. Daredevil Evel Knievel is 57. Actress Margot Kidder is 47. Actor George Wendt is 47. Astronaut Mae Jemison is 39.
