Teachers draw on 110 years' experience

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

They teach because they love nursing and want to give something back to the community. Letha Duke, 75, and Emily Whetsel, 79, are nurse's aide instructors at Howard College. Together, they have 110 years experience as registered nurses. Two years ago they decided to teach others the art of nursing. Once students pass their course and take the state board examination, they can go to work for a nursing home. The full title of their certification is a nurse's aide for the long-term care facility.

Duke teaches courses in the mornings from 8 a.m. to noon, and Whetsel takes over in the afternoons from 1-5 p.m. The courses are 88 hours with eight days spent in the class and three days in a nursing home for the clinical practice.

"We teach them nursing skills, long-term care and how to care for the resident's environment. I love nursing and I felt I had something to offer the students."

Letha Duke and nursing students watch as Emily Whetsel stands at the podium and teaches nursing at Howard College. The pair have 110 years experience as registered nurses and began teaching their craft to others two years ago.

I teach them how to relate to the patient," Whetsel said. Duke added, "We also teach them infection control, safety, personal care, nutrition, death, dying and how to understand and communicate with the elderly."

"I was born to nurse and I like nursing. I felt I had something to contribute to the nursing field by teaching this course."

Both teachers agree they truly care about their students and want to ensure they turn out quality nurse's aides. At least 97 percent of the two instructors' students pass their board certification.

Duke said, "We have lectures, demonstrations and a lot of play acting. The most important thing we do is to teach our students how to show empathy. We want them to care for the residents like they would want to be cared for."

Whetsel agreed, "Most of the residents don't have any family and don't get a lot of attention. We want the students to show tender loving care."

They added if a nurse cannot show empathy and love for the elderly, then he or she is in the wrong business.

Plan shows more effective land use could benefit city

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of reports looking at Big Spring's master plan and what it includes for the city and the residents of Big Spring and Howard County.

MASTER PLAN

Several meetings of the Comprehensive Planning Committee have opened the eyes of many members and local residents. However, all is not bad, said Carter & Burgess Senior Vice President Bart Bradford. Bradford was in town today to attend the community luncheon sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce to present the master plan.

Several good as well as bad areas were highlighted during the meeting luncheon:

•Gross sales have increased, but retail sales have remained flat (resulting in no growth).

•One-third of Big Spring's housing stock is rental property and 16 percent of that is vacant. The median value of a home in Big Spring is $33,300, compared to a state median average of $59,600.

•There are too many streets and alleys; they take up about as much land as housing.

•Approximately three times as much land is zoned than is actually being used. If vacant land was occupied tomorrow, Big Spring could add about 10,000 people to its population.

•Industrial properties are located well enough to be able to expand the industrial base.

•The quality of Big Spring's water supply is a factor and, though improving, limits the ability to attract industry.

•Big Spring's water pipes are old, but in pretty good shape, except for downtown.

•Big Spring's landfill is adequate to the year 2020. The compost facility is an asset to the city and needs to be exploited. Thought should be given to a total community recycling program.

•The city has good fire protection and fire hydrant coverage, but some hydrants don't produce enough water fast enough. Two fire stations need some attention because of obsolescence.

•The one-way designations on Third and Fourth Streets are no longer needed. If they remain they will continue to cause problems in recovering the downtown area.

•The airport is not an airport until Big Spring decides whether it is an airport, an industrial park or a prison site. Carter & Burgess also believes it is imperative that Big Spring get control of the airport property.

•Big Spring has 22 miles of streets in need of repair and three miles of streets in need of complete reconstruction.

•Big Spring needs a long-term parks and recreation plan. The city is deficient in neighborhood park areas. There is also a shortage of picnic areas and playground equipment.

•Special education and continuing education in Big Spring is good and an asset because it is a key to good economic development.

•Topography is an asset in Big Spring.

•Air quality is good and environmental problems are very small.

•Big Spring's zoning laws need to be completely restructured. Too much space is zoned for residential use and too little space is zoned for industrial use.

•Big Spring is in sound shape financially, but tax rolls must be increased.

According to Bradford, one of the toughest areas to tackle in the master plan is quality of life. This area includes crime, shopping, the city's physical appearance and other areas.

School boards approve resignations, new hires

By MARY McATEER
Staff Writer

FORSAN - Gary Wayne "Barney" Hise has been appointed to the Forsan school board. Hise was appointed at the Oct. 16 board meeting to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Lee George.

In other matters, the board: •Nominated Lewis Boeker to the board of directors of the Howard County Appraisal District. Boeker is already a member of the appraisal district board, so in effect the nomination is to continue his directorship.

•Approved specifications and authorized bids for the purchase of new computers. The IBM-compatible, stand-alone, systems will be for student and teacher use, and will be distributed throughout the district, with 20 going into the computer lab. Others will be placed in school libraries, principal's offices, and teacher lounges.

•Renewed the contract with the law firm of Swartz and Eichelbaum, P.C., for legal consulting and advisory services.

•Discussed an employee complaint regarding the district's policy concerning unused sick leave.

Employees of the district who have taken no sick leave during a school year can sell up to three days back to the district at their regular rate of pay. The complaint was concerning whether or not both state days and local days, or only local days should be considered eligible for sell back.

•Considered designs for new band uniforms. Once specifications are received, the board will authorize bids for the uniforms.

•Discussed attendance at the Permian Basin School board workshop Monday night. Five members of the board plan to attend. The next regular board meeting will be Nov. 13.

Coahoma ISD

COAHOMA - The Board of Trustees of Coahoma Independent School District has accepted the resignation of Bennie Fishback.

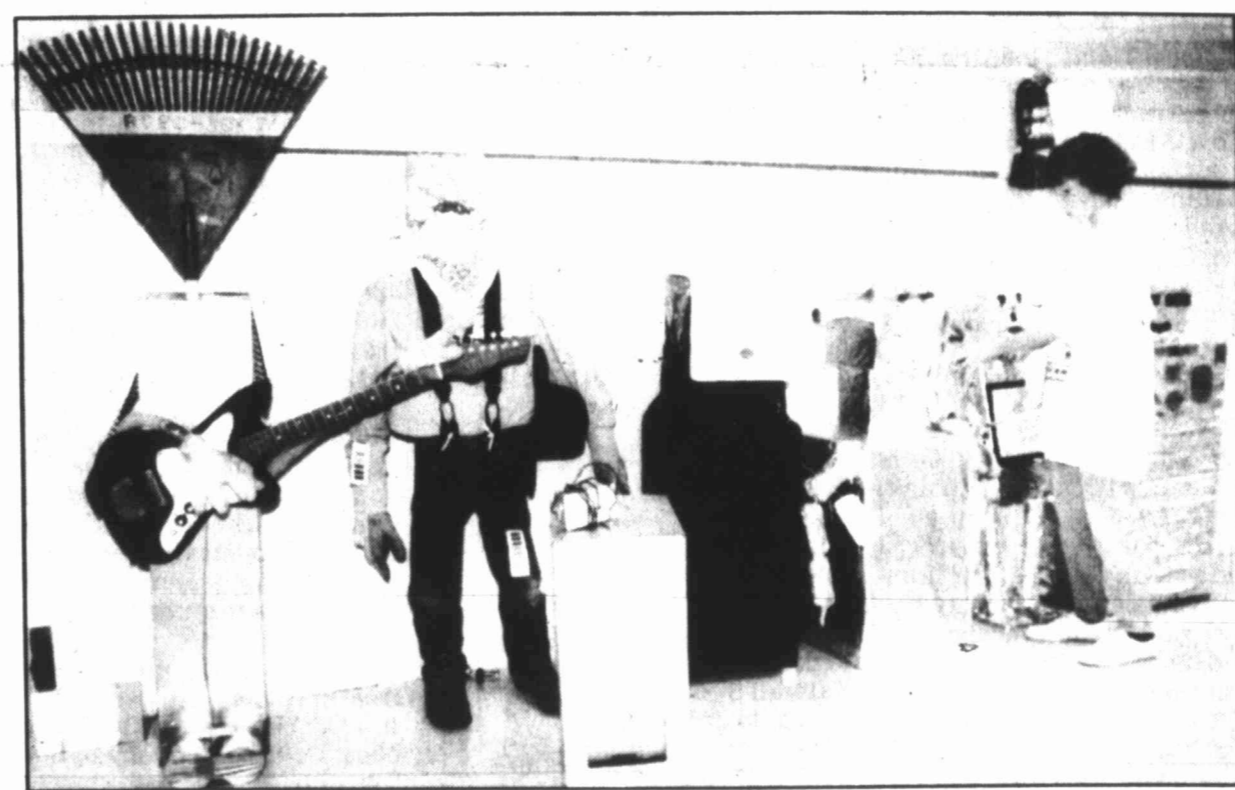

Fishback submitted his resignation, effective Mid-November, at the Oct. 16 board meeting. He is being transferred to Kentucky. "We'll miss his experience," says Superintendent L.D. Monroe. Fishback and Gail Wells are the only members of the Coahoma school board not in their first terms.

The board has not decided whether to appoint someone to fill Fishback's slot or let the position stay vacant until the May election.

In other matters, the board: •Received a presentation by Janie Parrish and members of the staff of the junior high

New prison requested for Colorado City

By MARY McATEER
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY - Mitchell County Commissioners have passed a resolution requesting the Texas Department of Criminal Justice to locate a new prison in Colorado City.

The new facility, one of eight to be built by TDCJ, would have 660 close custody beds and employ 200 people. It would be located adjacent to the existing "80 John" Wallace Unit.

TDCJ officials recently toured the site, meeting with members of Mitchell County's Economic Development Committee. A number of communities, including Snyder, are in competition to be sites for the new facilities. The decision on placement of the new units will be made at the TDCJ board's November 16 and 17 meeting in Dallas.

In other business: •Commissioners approved specifications and authorized advertising for bids for a new car for the sheriff's department. Please see PRISON, page 2

Election sites set for Tuesday

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Final totals show 458 Howard County residents cast early ballots for Tuesday's Texas Constitutional amendment election.

A total of 21 ballots, which have to be returned to the County Clerk's office by 7 p.m. Tuesday, were also mailed out to residents.

Howard County residents who did not participate in early voting will need to get to the polls between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., Tuesday to cast their vote.

Despite state officials' predicted 10 percent voter turnout, State Rep. David Counts would like residents of District 70, including Howard County, to prove that prediction wrong and vote.

Polling places in Howard County for Tuesday's election are:

- Precincts 101, 106, 109, 110, 111 and - Northside Fire Station.
- Precincts 102, 107 and 108 - Anderson Kindergarten Center.
- Precinct 103 - Wesley Yater residence.
- Precinct 104 - Prairie View Baptist Church.
- Precinct 105 - Knott Fire Station.
- Precincts 202 and 204 - Washington Place School.

school's school newspaper. Students described how they put the paper together and gave board members copies of the most recent issue.

- Adopted a policy allowing students participating in activities to be given individual meal allotments to eat on their own. Some activities such as tennis are scheduled such that it isn't possible for the whole team to go out for a meal at the same time. The University Interscholastic League requires local school boards have a policy in place to cover those situations.
- Amended the 1995-96 budget to reflect adjustments in federally-funded programs. Program amounts must be estimated during the budget process and then amended when final figures are received from the state.

Virginia Trchalek, senior consultant of leadership team services for the Texas Association of School Boards, conducted a training session for school board members Oct. 21 from 1 to 8 p.m. The training session addressed aspects of school board function identified in a previous survey as being of concern, including dealing with members of the public and the press. Board members found the seminar informative and useful, said Superintendent Monroe. Future training sessions will be scheduled as the opportunity arises.

The next regular board meeting will be Nov. 20.

In special session Oct. 24, the court accepted a bid for a 1996 Ford Crown Victoria police special from Hutchins Ford of Colorado City in the amount of $19,844.

Authorized sale of property which did not sell during the September Sheriff's auction. Marie Jackson purchased five lots in Colorado City for $500, and Edgar Haltom purchased three lots in Lorraine for $2,000.

Approved a request by Beverly Collier and Sue Lawrence of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce that the county provide additional power outlets for Christmas decorations the chamber traditionally does on the courthouse lawn. This year the chamber wants to add 30 three-foot lighted candles, being made by prisoners at the Wallace Unit. The current system would not be adequate to light the candles. The official courthouse lighting ceremony will be at dusk Dec. 2.

Heard a presentation by Kenneth Rogers and Don Jones of the Pilots' Association on plans for construction of a 40-foot-by-100-foot covered parking area at the airport for loading and unloading planes. The city of Colorado City and the airport authority will do the construction work on the building. Commissioners agreed to surface the floor of the new area.

Nominated Tommy Morris and Christine Hall for the Board of Directors of the Mitchell County Appraisal District. Commissioners will cast their ballot, holding 1,290 of the appraisal district's 5,200 votes, during a called meeting Nov. 6. The number of votes a taxing entity has to cast within the appraisal district depends on its tax roll.

Approved seeking and advertising for bids for a front end loader for Precinct Two. Bids will be opened and awarded during the regular commissioners' court Nov. 13.

Farm bill high on list for Congress' agenda

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

What is the 1995 Farm Bill? Congress periodically modifies and renews a large number of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's programs with an omnibus piece of legislation called a "farm bill."

Several key provisions in the current law, such as food, agriculture, conservation and the Trade Act of 1990, will expire at the end of 1995, making the farm bill a high priority for the 104th Congressional agenda.

At the heart of every farm bill lies the federal programs which support farm commodity prices and farm income.

Also, a farm bill typically includes modifications to programs affecting soil and water conservation, forestry, domestic and foreign food assistance, export market development, agricultural research and education, farm credit and rural development.

In June, Congress completed action on the fiscal year 1996 budget resolution, calling for a $48.4 billion reduction in agriculture and nutrition programs within seven years.

Stephen Haterius, who works in Congressman Charles Stenholm's Washington office, said Congress must work within this budget's constraint as it reauthorizes the major farm commodity price and income support programs.

Congressional emphasis on free markets and deregulation is also likely to influence the consideration of policy options.

In dairy policy, some lawmakers are interested in major reforms, including the elimination of price supports for certain products.

The trade title of the 1990 farm bill authorizes direct export subsidies, market promotion programs, export credit guarantees and foreign food aid; all of these programs are being debated in the 1995 farm bill.

Food and nutrition programs are targeted for significant changes under the congressional budget resolution.

In the conservation area, the primary areas of debate will be reauthorizing the Conservation Reserve Program and the future of programs seeking to reduce the conversion of wetlands to agriculture. The impact of environmental regulation on property values will also plan an important part in the debate.

Haterius added the Senate Agriculture Committee approved a revised agricultural research and education title in mid-July that aims to improve research planning and evaluation and remove unfunded authorities.

The House Ag Committee may wait and consider research legislation in 1996.

Proposals to further reform agricultural credit are also beginning to surface in the farm bill debate. These issues concern the rights of borrowers from the Farmer Home Administration, enhancing commercial banks' lending to agriculture; and stimulating the secondary market for agricultural loans.

Congress plans to present President Bill Clinton with the farm bill budget package by Nov. 13.

Action on the farm bill was slow in October, but the government has until mid-November to make a decision or it will run out of its ability to spend.

A threatened presidential veto of the Republican version of the farm bill would carry a lot of weight and give democrats some balance in Congress they don't have in numbers.

If there's not at least a continuance on the bill by mid-December, the country reverts back to 1949 farm legislation.

The current environment surrounding the farm bill is driven by proposed spending cuts.

Each proposal from the various groups has multiple objectives and contains some type of cut in production agriculture.

Experts say the perception in Washington is that only about 15 percent of all farms produce the output in America.

Rhetoric in Washington is family farm income is comparable to regular family income and there's no need for farm programs, unless you look at the multiple characteristics involved.

Three men face federal trial for hate crimes

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK (AP) — Three men prosecutors say went on a deadly rampage in an attempt to start a West Texas race war are scheduled to go on trial today for federal hate crimes.

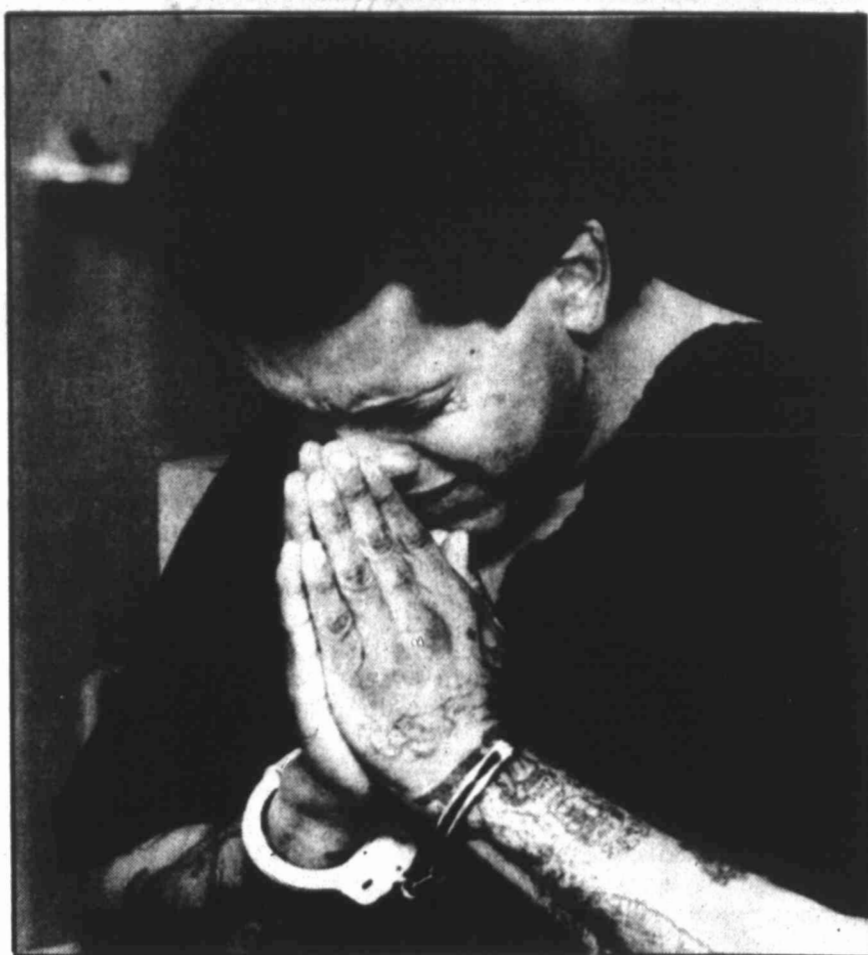

Authorities believe the defendants were bent on causing widespread racial problems on Oct. 16, 1994, by shooting three black men on the streets and sidewalks of Lubbock, court records say.

One of the shootings killed Melvin Johnson, 37, who died on a curb from chest and neck wounds from a close-range gun blast.

A nine-count indictment says the two Hispanics and one white man set out in a 1982 Toyota Corolla "hunting black men, luring them to their car, and shooting them at close range with a short-barreled shotgun."

Facing federal charges of conspiracy, hate crimes and firearms violations are El Trevino Mungia, 21; his cousin, Ricky Rivera Mungia, 25 and Roy Ray Martin, 20. Each is accused of shooting one victim.

They also face state charges of murder and attempted murder. Court records say the three victims were chosen at random and shot during a span of less than a half-hour.

Ricky Rivera Mungia cries while praying before his arraignment in October 1994 in Lubbock. His trial started today, along with those of Roy Martin and El Mungia, on federal hate crime charges stemming from the October 1994 shootings of three black pedestrians in Lubbock.

Autry Morgan Vaughn Jr. survived a wound to the jaw. Trililis Lee Stewart was shot in his right hand and had to have one finger amputated.

The indictment says the defendants "conspired to willfully injure, intimidate and interfere, by force and threat of force, with black individuals in Lubbock because of their race and color and because they were enjoying public facilities."

Court records say officers seized a photograph of Adolf Hitler, a swastika and Nazi flag from Martin's residence.

U.S. District Judge Sam Cummings has issued a gag order in the case.

Rose Wilson, president of the Lubbock chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, praised police for arresting the suspects about an hour after the rampage.

Murder defendant a suspect in Raymondville jail disturbance

RAYMONDVILLE (AP) — A capital murder suspect upset that Willacy County sheriff's deputies snuffed out an escape plot caused an ensuing riot and fire, jail officials said.

Daniel Telles, 23, set fire to his cell after authorities discovered he had been tampering with a vent in an apparent plan to break out of the facility, sheriff's investigator David Martinez said.

Telles is charged with the May slaying of 77-year-old Mildred Moon.

No one was hurt in the Friday fire and disturbance in which about 16 inmates set fires and ripped apart clothes and bedding.

The suspected troublemakers were transported to the Cameron County Detention Center from Raymondville, about 20 miles north of Harlingen.

The trouble started when Telles was put in solitary confinement Friday afternoon. Guards had found a loose ventilation grill dangling from the ceiling of his cell, Martinez said.

Holes had been gouged away from the bolts holding in the grill.

"He was trying to get out and he's pretty mean," said Scooter

McGee, a county commissioner. "There were four or five others that are also mean and don't have respect for anyone."

It's not the first disturbance involving Telles, said Sgt. Homer Vela, a jail supervisor. In his six-month stay, Vela said, Telles has attacked several inmates and head-butted a guard.

"He's a very dangerous guy," Vela said. "We always have to be careful around him."

Telles and four others are in solitary confinement in Cameron County, said Chief Deputy Joe Elizardi.

DA defends harsh punishment for teen

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A San Antonio prosecutor says his decision to press for harsh punishment for a girl found guilty of smothering two young children is part of the duties of his office.

"There's no joy in going after a 12-year-old girl, but there's also no joy in going after a 35-year-old man," District Attorney Steve Hilbig said. "But it's what I have to do. People have to be held accountable."

Jurors in Judge Carmen Kelsey's courtroom were expected to begin deliberating today on a sentence for 13-year-old Victoria Dalton, who has been found guilty of smothering two young children.

Dalton's attorneys are asking jurors to give the girl probation, while prosecutors say such a sentence would not fit the crime she was found guilty of committing.

Dalton was found guilty of murdering 5-month-old Timothy Gutierrez and his sister, Renee Alicia Gutierrez, 2. Because the teen was charged under the Determinate Sentencing Act, she could face punishment ranging from probation to 40 years in prison.

Determinate sentences allow for a judge, upon the juvenile's 18th birthday, to determine whether the teen-ager should serve the rest of his or her sentence in the adult system or stay with the Texas Youth Commission until age 21.

The judge also has the discretion to release the individual if it is determined he or she has been rehabilitated and no longer is a threat to society.

Hilbig said critics of prosecutors' push to punish young offenders should note that determinate sentences merge punishment with rehabilitation.

"You have an opportunity to remove and stabilize them and give them an opportunity to correct the behavior that got them into trouble," Hilbig said.

"There can never be rehabilitation without punishment," he said. "There still has to be an accountability factor."

Galveston city manager says expenditures can be justified

GALVESTON (AP) — Galveston's city manager insists he can justify $16,048 in expenditures deemed illegal by an attorney retained by the City Council.

"I respect the law. I respect the charter," City Manager Doug Matthews said.

William Helfand, a Houston lawyer hired to review the matter, declared some of Matthews' spending practices "clearly illegal," said Mayor Barbara Crews, after a lengthy closed meeting Friday.

Crews released 36 pages of financial records documenting the questioned spending, including cruises aboard a casino ship for some city employees and guests and television sets awarded to employees as prizes.

Matthews denied breaking the law.

The mayor said Saturday the City Council would wait for results of an outside performance review of five city departments before deciding Matthews' future as city manager.

"We have promised the public that we would systematically review the city manager's performance ... and we are in the process of doing that," Crews said.

Matthews said he would not resign from the position he has held for 10 years. "I have never been a quitter," he said. "There is nothing wrong with being fired."

Matthews' contract expires Dec. 9. An August job evaluation indicated a majority of the seven City Council members were concerned with Matthews' performance.

Matthews said all questioned spending was approved at least by city Finance Director Robert Richardson, and some of expenditures also were approved by the city attorney's office.

"I rely on the finance director and the city attorney to advise me on the legality of expenditures," Matthews said.

Richardson could not be reached for comment Sunday. City Attorney Barbara Roberts said her office approved only a few of the expenditures called illegal.

Matthews said the city's outside auditor, Ansell & Ansell of Galveston, had not questioned past expenditures in its annual audits.

No winner in Lotto drawing

AUSTIN (AP) — No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth $10 million.

The numbers drawn from a field of 50 were: 6, 8, 20, 24, 44 and 48. There were 141 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,479.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $16 million.

Eagles winning formula: Stop Emmitt

IRVING (AP) — Teams know how to beat the Dallas Cowboys. But stopping Emmitt Smith is something few teams can accomplish. It's the Philadelphia Eagles' recipe for success in tonight's NFC East divisional game against the Cowboys.

The only problem is Smith, a three-time NFL rushing champion, is off to his best start in his six-year career with the Cowboys.

"You can talk about stopping him but doing it is one of the toughest challenges for any team playing the Cowboys," said Philadelphia coach Ray Rhodes, a former coordinator for the San Francisco 49ers.

First, the statistics: The Cowboys are 56-6 in games where Smith carries the ball 20 times or more. They are 39-3 when he rushes for more than 100 yards.

Smith opened the season with four 100-yard rushing games for the first time in his career. He has six 100-yard rushing games for the season.

Before the game with the Eagles, Smith led the NFL in touchdowns with 14 and had 979 yards rushing.

Asked if this was his best year running the ball, Smith laughed and said, "I've been running like this since I was little. It has been a good start but there are eight more games to go."

Smith's best year was 1,713 yards in 1992. He's got a good chance for 2,000 if he can pick up his pace a little.

"Sure I'd be blessed to get 2,000 yards but it won't mean much if we don't get to the Super Bowl," Smith said.

Smith said the Eagles' defense worries him. Under Rhodes, the Eagles have become the second best defense in the NFL and sixth against the rush.

"It doesn't look like a cake-walk to me," Smith said. "What it looks like is a test of character. We've got to win this kind of game with 50 million people looking on."

The 7-1 Cowboys were 14-point favorites over the 5-3 Eagles in the 8 p.m. CST game at Texas Stadium.

"We've got a tough stretch," Smith said. "First, the Eagles, then the (San Francisco) 49ers in a short week. It makes me sore all over just thinking about it."

The game features the return of the Eagles' Rodney Peete, who was a backup quarterback behind Troy Aikman for the Cowboys last year. Peete started one game when Aikman had an injury and defeated the Eagles 31-9 as Dallas clinched the division title.

The Eagles have lost six consecutive games to the Cowboys.

Defensive back-receiver-kick returner Deion Sanders makes his home debut for the Cowboys, who paid him a $13 million bonus and a $35 million package to defect from the defending Super Bowl champion 49ers.

Oilers turn the Browns blue

CLEVELAND (AP) — Let's see. You had the team from Houston that's headed for Nashville playing the team from Cleveland that's headed for Baltimore.

For the moment, Nashville seems to be getting the better deal.

Chris Chandler passed for two touchdowns and ran for another Sunday as the Oilers beat the Browns 37-10 before a somber Cleveland Stadium crowd that was bracing for worse news today — possible confirmation that the Browns will move to Baltimore.

There were sporadic angry chants directed at Art Modell, who stayed away from a home game for the first time in his 35 years as owner, while the Browns themselves felt like visitors in their own home. There were an uncharacteristic 7,868 no-shows.

The Oilers empathized.

"The same type of thing happened to us with the Nashville rumor," Chandler said. "You look around toward the end of the game and you see signs like 'Keep the Browns here' or 'Art this' or 'Art that.' The fans were probably more hostile toward the situation than toward us."

Houston Oilers cornerback Darryll Lewis returns an interception 25 yards in the third quarter as Cleveland Browns tight end Brian Kichen gives chase Sunday in Cleveland. Houston won 37-10.

Houston (4-5) capitalized on the unusual circumstance, scoring on seven consecutive possessions from the time Al Del Greco kicked a 44-yard field goal late in the first quarter to Blaine Bishop's 62-yard interception return early in the fourth.

The Oilers worked with excellent field position all afternoon, set up by a missed field goal, three interceptions and two fumbles; the Browns never punted.

Chandler finished off a 60-yard drive with a 2-yard scramble midway through the second quarter, then hit Haywood Jeffries with a 23-yard scoring pass a minute before the half.

The Browns (4-5) closed to 17-10 on Matt Stover's 20-yard field goal on the first drive of the second half, but they would not score again. Chandler responded with a 15-yard TD pass to Malcolm Seabron, and Cleveland rookie Eric Zeier was then intercepted on each of the Browns' next three series, putting Houston in position for two more field goals by Del Greco before Bishop's return ended all doubt.

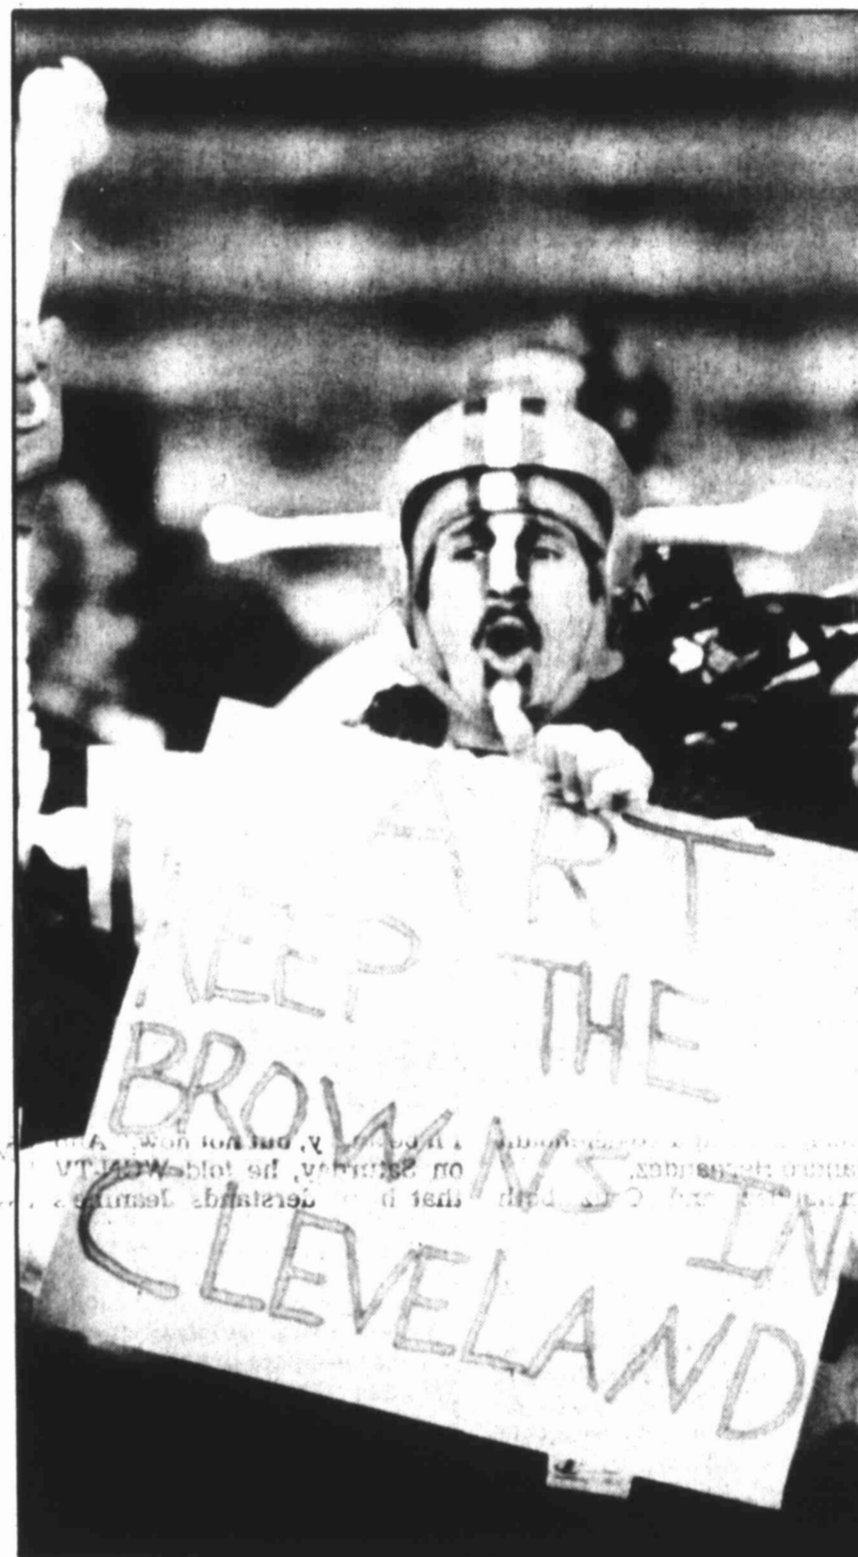

"They had to play catch-up, and that played into our hands," Bishop said. "We put a lot of pressure on them, and then we were fortunate enough to break on the ball and make some big plays."

Zeier was 28 of 54 for 273 yards with one touchdown — a 4-yard pass to Andre Rison on Cleveland's first possession — and three interceptions. He was sacked three times.

Rison's touchdown was the 500th reception of his career.

"I'll take the blame for this loss," said Zeier, who beat Cincinnati a week earlier in his first start in place of demoted Vinny Testaverde. "As an offense, we got put into some situations that we didn't want to be in, and that's when you have to force things a little bit."

NFL owners to block Old line owners don't want to see Browns move

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

GRAPEVINE (AP) — To a lot of NFL owners, having Art Modell and the Browns abandon Cleveland for Baltimore is a lot like having your favorite uncle abandon his family.

To fans and players in Cleveland, it's worse than that.

"It was sort of like a dream out there," Jim Brown, the team's Hall of Fame running back and team adviser said after the Browns lost to Houston in a 37-10 Sunday at Cleveland Stadium in a game that was like a funeral ... both on and off the field.

"The fans cheered the team when they came out. It was almost sad to hear them cheer and say 'We love you.' It's a terrible feeling."

Not so fast.

When Modell arrives here for the NFL meetings that start Tuesday, he's likely to get a frigid reaction from some of his closest friends — Dan Rooney, Wellington Mara, Ralph Wilson and others to whom he had been so close.

For Modell is not Bob Irsay, Bill Bidwill, Georgia Frontiere or Al Davis, all of whom moved their franchises, or Jerry Jones, the NFL's current maverick. Other than Bidwill (a follower who hangs around the outer edges of the inner circle), none is a full-fledged member of the club, the way Modell has been for us. ...

Rockets a tough team to rattle when the going gets close

When it comes to close games on the Phoenix Suns' home court, the Houston Rockets just don't seem to get rattled. And when it comes to winning, the Vancouver Grizzlies just don't seem to know they're an expansion team.

The Rockets paid their first visit to Phoenix since they eliminated the Suns in the second round of the playoffs on May 20 and beat them again, 106-104 Sunday night. The Grizzlies became the first expansion team since the 1966 Chicago Bulls to start their inaugural season 2-0 when they defeated Minnesota 100-98 in overtime.

"I can't sit here and say I thought we'd be 2-0," Vancouver coach Brian Winters said. "But I thought we could be a competitive team. And that's the NBA. You play a lot of close games."

Unfortunately for the Suns, they have yet to win a game after losing a close one to their nemesis.

Mario Elie, who accounted for a seven-point swing late in the game, Elliot Perry and Kevin Johnson missed last-second shots that could have sent it into overtime.

"When the game got tight at the end, nobody panicked," Elie said.

In other games, it was Portland 109, Utah 105, and Sacramento 99, the Los Angeles Clippers 82.

Elie, whose 3-point shot with seven seconds left produced a 115-114 Houston victory in Game 7 of the Western Conference semifinals in the America West Arena, tied this one for the final time at 97 when he threw down Charles Barkley's block of Chuckie Brown with 4:05 left.

Then he sank a 3-pointer 36 seconds later and assisted on Cassell's breakaway basket with 3:09 to go, putting Houston ahead 102-97.

Hakeem Olajuwon had 24 points and 12 rebounds for the defending NBA champions and Clyde Drexler scored 21.

Barkley had 23 points and 17 rebounds, and Wesley Person scored 22.

Barkley said he wasn't worried because the Suns played better against a better team than in a 112-106 loss to the Los Angeles Clippers.

"I don't think about the past," he said. "I know everybody's ready to burn down the arena and commit suicide, but it's a long, 82-game season. Tonight was better."

Grizzlies 100, Timberwolves 98, OT

Playing in its home opener before 19,193 fans at GM Place,

Vancouver beat Minnesota on Chris King's tip-in at the buzzer.

With a win Tuesday at Dallas, the Grizzlies can tie the Bulls' 3-0 for best beginning by an expansion team.

Byron Scott led the Grizzlies, who beat Portland on the road two nights earlier, with 18 points. Anthony added 17 and Blue Edwards 16.

Trail Blazers 109, Jazz 105

Clifford Robinson scored 25 points, hitting 4-for-6 from 3-point range, as Portland rebounded from the embarrassing season-opening loss to Vancouver to beat Utah.

Arvydas Sabonis, the 7-foot-3 Lithuanian playing in his second NBA game, had 16 points and 10 rebounds.

Kings 99, Clippers 82

Mitch Richmond scored 11 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter and hit three 3-pointers in the period as Sacramento pulled away to beat the Los Angeles Clippers.

Olden Polynice had 23 points and 10 rebounds to lead the Kings.

The visiting Clippers, led by Loy Vaught's 20 points, were held to two points for nearly a seven-minute stretch in the fourth quarter.

Angelo State player killed

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Angelo State line-backer Greg Stokes was killed early Sunday when he apparently lost control of his Jeep, a Department of Public Safety report said.

Stokes, 23, was headed southeast on U.S. 87 when his Grand Cherokee veered off of the left side of the road, the DPS report said. Troopers believe he overcorrected to get back on the highway, causing the Jeep to skid sideways and roll four times.

The report said the highway was dry and Stokes was wearing a seat belt.

"The only thing I can say right now is that this is a devastating loss," Angelo State coach Jerry Vandergriff said. "He was the heart of our football team. I know that is sometimes used out of context, but not in this case."

Dale Jarrett wins Miami 300

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — A three-car crash two laps from the end of Sunday's Jiffy Lube Miami 300 Busch Grand National season-finale took out the leaders and gave Dale Jarrett the win in a wreck-filled race at the new Homestead Motorsports Complex.

The Busch Series drivers had plenty of trouble getting a handle on the nearly flat 1.51-mile Homestead oval, with the 200-lap event slowed by 13 caution flags.

The last of those came on lap 198 when Hermie Sadler tried to pass leader Kenny Wallace on the 1,200-foot-long back straightaway. Sadler pulled alongside Wallace, who had been leading since lap 131, and began to nose ahead as the cars approached the third turn.

Quote of the Day

"There has never been a famine in any country that's been a democracy with a relatively free press. I know of no exception."
Amartya Sen, economist, 1993

Is peace still possible despite Rabin's death?

Does the assassination of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin sound the death knell for peace in the Middle East?

The assassination has raised that specter.

Rabin wasn't assassinated by an Arab terrorist. No, the terrorism that killed him was of the home-grown variety.

It is the variety which says "if it isn't my way, there will be no way." It mirrors the same terrorism we have witnessed here in the United States in the bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City.

The process of peace wasn't an easy road for Rabin. He had to put aside his own feelings and work toward what he believed was the best for the people who had chosen him to lead.

That process is dividing a paranoid country which believes, with some justification, the world is out to get it. Especially the Arab world.

Now Israel is even more divided. The suspect, a 27-year-old with links to the Jewish extremist fringe, told interrogators he wanted to stop Rabin's peace policies. It seems it is better to live in a constant state of war than to try to work through ancient differences and begin a new world.

Brokering peace between two factions that hate each other is never easy. Rabin, PLO Leader Yasser Arafat and others have learned to work together. The leaders of Bosnia, now working on a peace plan for their country, can learn from these men.

It is to be hoped the moderates will continue to rule in Israel, that Arab and Jewish extremists can learn there is more to life than hatred and war.

Rabin showed there was. It is too bad one of his own decided they didn't like a new path.

Rape-murder suspect freed after 11 years; doubts remain

By TAMARA STARKS
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — It was an end, but not a resolution.

A judge's acquittal Friday of Rolando Cruz in the abduction, rape and murder of 10-year-old Jeanine Nicarico brought to a close more than 11 years of prosecutors' efforts to send Cruz to the death chamber.

The victim's parents, Thomas and Patricia Nicarico, listened in stunned silence and left without commenting.

"Right now, I just feel Cruz has gotten away with murder," Thomas Nicarico said Saturday from their home in suburban Naperville. "I don't know what else to say right now."

"This verdict is not closure for us. ... We know that the victim, Jeanine, is not No. 1 in the courtroom. The defendant is," he said.

The legal battle has taken a toll on the Nicaricos, who have sat through a total of five trials between Cruz and co-defendant Alejandro Hernandez.

Hernandez and Cruz both were convicted and sentenced to death twice, only to have their convictions overturned by the Illinois Supreme Court.

State's attorney Anthony Pecorelli said the decision by Circuit Judge Ronald Mehling would not stop prosecutors from retrying Hernandez, despite the discovery of perjured testimony Friday. The next court date in that case is Nov. 20.

Phone messages left for Cruz's lawyers were not immediately returned Saturday. On Friday, Cruz told the Chicago Tribune that on his first full day of freedom he planned visit the grave of his father, Robert Cruz, who died while Cruz was in prison.

He also told ABC-TV, "I'm just happy right now. ... Maybe later I'll be angry, but not now." And on Saturday, he told WGN-TV that he understands Jeanine's father's reaction.

"He has a right to be bitter. ... You got to be sad for them. ... They lost a daughter."

Attorney Frank Wesolowski defended Hernandez during the first trial in 1984 and always felt the defendants were innocent. "I feel vindicated. ... It's about time," he said.

Jeanine was home sick on Feb. 25, 1983, when the door to her family's home was kicked in. Her body was found two days later near a nature trail.

Israel buries Rabin

By GWEN ACKERMAN
Associated Press Writer

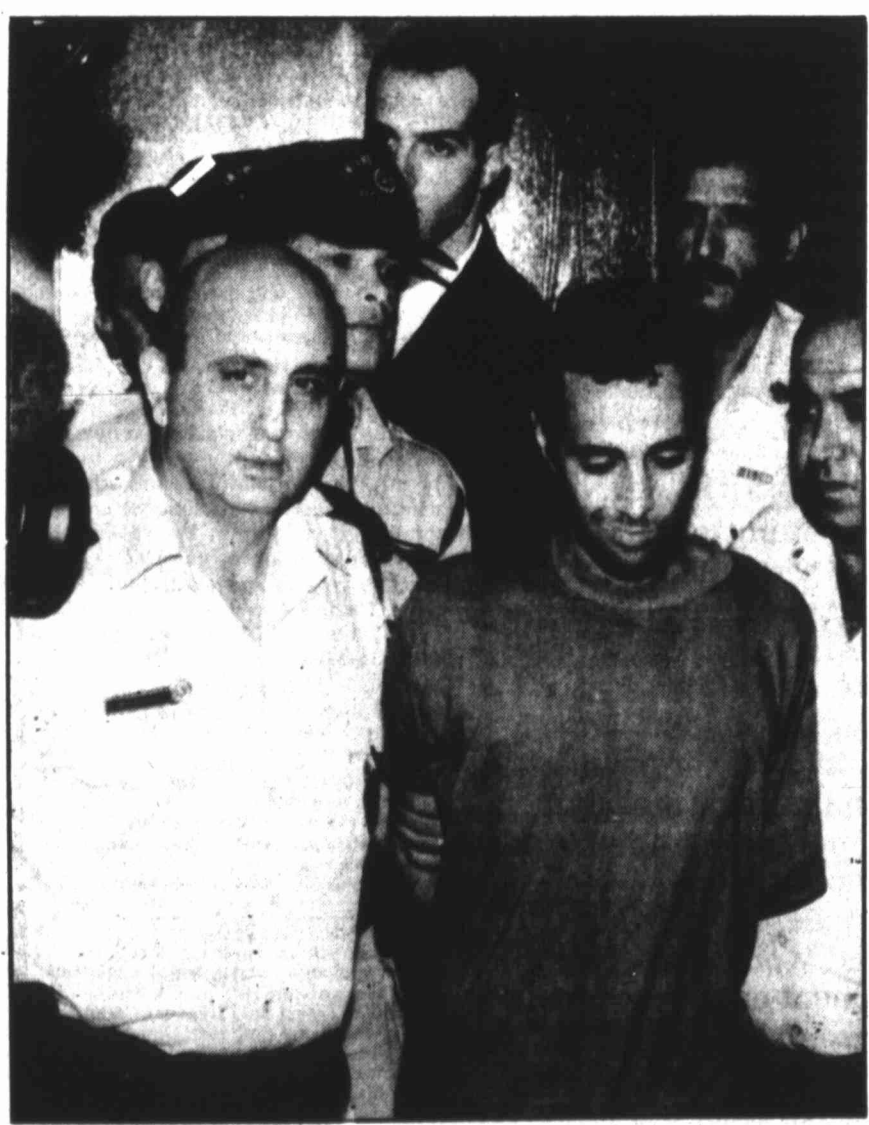

JERUSALEM (AP) — Yitzhak Rabin's casket was lifted from its bier outside parliament today and placed on a black truck to begin the slow procession to his burial place on Mount Herzl, where the journey of the slain peacemaker would reach its tragic finale.

One million people in this nation of 5 million had filed past the late prime minister's coffin, which lay in state outside the Knesset — children on parents' shoulders, soldiers, Israeli Arabs in flowing head-dresses. Many sobbed. Dozens fainted.

More than 40 world leaders came to Israel in an outpouring of sympathy that would have been unimaginable just a few years ago, when the country had been a pariah in much of the world.

Most remarkable was the presence of Arab leaders, including King Hussein of Jordan and President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt, who have not dared to come to Jerusalem before.

Joining the procession of mourners, President Clinton

Yigal Amir, right, the man suspected of assassinating Yitzhak Rabin, is led by Israeli police to his arraignment at a Tel Aviv courtroom. Amir said he killed the prime minister because Rabin "wants to give our country to the Arabs."

stood before Rabin's flag-draped coffin today as it lay in state, bowed his head in a black skullcap and mouthed a silent prayer.

Clinton squeezed the hand of his wife, Hillary, and fought back tears. Behind him at the black bier outside the Knesset, Israel's parliament, stood former presidents Jimmy Carter and George Bush.

Appearing at his arraignment handcuffed and unshaven, 27-year-old Israeli law student Yigal Amir said he killed Rabin at a peace rally Saturday night because he wanted "to give our country to the Arabs."

It's a Deion, Cowboy world now

So Deion Sanders is now a Dallas Cowboy! I didn't get a chance to see his first game as a Cowboy against Atlanta, but from what highlights showed, he didn't look half bad defensively or offensively.

Carlton Johnson
Staff Writer

With all of the hype surrounding Deion and the Cowboys, you tend to forget the San Francisco 49ers are the defending Super Bowl champions, but you also get the feeling that the NFL and football fans across the country look at the Cowboys as the team to beat this year.

To call Dallas a well-oiled machine would be an understatement, but when you consider Troy Aikman, Emmitt Smith, Michael Irvin, Jay Novacek, and a whole host of defensive standouts, including Sanders, you have to say Dallas is its own worst enemy right now.

Barring major injuries, the Cowboys are on a mission and they want back what they think they gave away last year - the Vince Lombardi Trophy.

Now, if only the NFL could leave well enough alone.

Jerry Jones is convinced the league is out to get him and if they can't get him they will try to get the Cowboys, beginning with Sanders' contract.

Think again! It looks like Jones' money-making ways are rubbing off on the Boys, especially Deion.

Did you watch David Letterman Halloween night?

Deion was his guest and guess who the newest Pepsi lover is.

It looks like Bo used to know everything, but it's Deion's world now and everyone else is just a squirrel trying to get a nut.

During Deion's guest appearance on the "Late Show," he revealed he has entered the cola wars and has come out on the Pepsi side.

As part of his multi-year endorsement deal, Sanders will be featured in Pepsi advertising and promotions as well as making appearances on behalf of the company.

Dallas is not the only winner in the NFL. Pepsi seems to be scoring points as well.

Maybe we'll see Dallas and Pepsi in Super Bowl XXX.

Wacky is the NFL's new word of the day

Does anyone need more evidence that it's a wacky season in the NFL?

Final score: Carolina 13, San Francisco 7.

Repeat: Carolina 13, San Francisco 7, a first-year expansion team beating the Super Bowl champions on their home turf Sunday with 5-foot-8 rookie cornerback Tyrone Poole stripping the ball at the goal line from both Jerry Rice and John Taylor.

"We're hurting. I thought it couldn't get any worse," said safety Tim McDonald of San Francisco, whose third loss in four games put them at 5-4 and makes next week's showdown in Dallas more like a survival game.

It was a bizarre day of landmarks and shocks around the NFL.

Warren Moon and John Elway became the sixth and seventh NFL quarterbacks to pass for over 40,000 yards as Moq's Minnesota Vikings beat Green Bay 27-24 and Elway's Denver Broncos trounced Arizona 38-6. The Packers lost six players to injury in the game.

In other games, it was New England 20, the New York Jets 7; Atlanta 34, Detroit 22; New Orleans 19, St. Louis 10; Kansas City 24, Washington 3; Oakland 20, Cincinnati 17; Buffalo 16, Indianapolis 10; Pittsburgh 37, Chicago 34 in overtime; Seattle 30, the New York Giants 28, and Miami beat San Diego 24-14.

But the biggest shock waves came from San Francisco, which got more dirt kicked in its face when Doug Brien kicked four field goals for the New Orleans Saints while Tony Zendejas was shanking a 32-yarder for the 49ers. Brien was cut by the Niners after missing two last-minute kicks that cost them two games.

"It seems like one of the more improbable things to come in as a rookie and beat the world champions on their home turf," said Kerry Collins, the Panthers' rookie quarterback.

"Today, it happened."

Carolina's only touchdown came from an ex-49er, Tim McKyer, who returned an interception of an Elvis Grbac pass 96 yards, one of five turnovers by the Niners, leading to all of the Panthers' point. Carolina also got field goals of 39 and 47 yards from John Kasay, both after fumbles after catches by Rice and Brent Jones, who played despite injuries that were supposed to keep him out 2-4 weeks.

Those more than negated Derek Loville's 1-yard TD run in the fourth quarter for San Francisco's only score. Grbac, once again subbing for the injured Steve Young, threw for 327 yards but left in the fourth quarter with a sprained ankle, leaving Cary Conklin finish.

Dolphins 24, Chargers 14

At San Diego, Dan Marino threw for 291 yards and two touchdowns as Miami (6-3) got revenge for last year's 22-21 playoff loss. Marino now needs just 38 yards to pass Fran Tarkenton (47,003 yards) for first place on the NFL's career list.

After Stan Humphries tied the game at 14 with a 50-yard touchdown pass to Tony Martin and a 2-point conversion pass to Mark Seay late in the third period, Marino led Miami on a drive that set up Pete Stoyanovich's 36-yard field goal.

Vikings 27, Packers 24

Linebacker Ed Brady's interception set up a drive that led to Fuad Revez' winning field goal for the Vikings (4-5) as time expired at the Metrodome.

But the loss wasn't the worst news for Green Bay (5-4). Reggie White sprained his knee, Brett Favre sprained his ankle and Sean Jones sustained a concussion. Ty Detmer, who relieved Favre, broke his thumb, leaving T.J. Rubley at quarterback for the Packers.

Steelers 37, Bears 34 OT

Neil O'Donnell threw a 10-yard fourth-down touchdown pass to Ernie Mills with 1:06 left in regulation. Norm Johnson then kicked a 24-yarder in overtime to give Pittsburgh its first win in 13 trips to Soldier Field. O'Donnell passed for 341 yards and Erric Pegram scored three touchdowns for Pittsburgh (5-4). Erik Kramer had three touchdown passes for the Bears (6-3), whose four-game winning streak ended.

Chicago had taken a 34-27 lead with 6:14 left. Alonzo Spellman deflected O'Donnell's pass and linebacker Barry Minter caught it and stepped into the end zone.

Chiefs 24, Redskins 3

At Arrowhead Stadium, the Chiefs (8-1) held Washington to 201 yards. Steve Bono threw for 201 yards, including a 19-yard touchdown to Willie Davis, and Marcus Allen scored for the 101st time in his career. Kimble Anders added a 40-yard scoring run.

Raiders 20, Bengals 17

At Riverfront Stadium, Harvey Williams rushed for 134 yards and a touchdown for Oakland (7-2). The defense held the Bengals to just one touchdown on a 4-yard pass to Carl Pickens from Jeff Blake with 35 seconds left.

Move

been for three decades.

"I'm not surprised, I'm shocked," Rooney, the Pittsburgh owner, said when he heard of the proposed move.

"This is wrong," said Wilson, the owner of the Bills.

So there are almost sure to be enough votes to block the move, particularly among the so-called "old guard" of which Modell had been a central part. Like the Browns, their teams are rooted deeply in the NFL or AFL — Mara (Giants), Lamar Hunt (Chiefs), Wilson, Rooney, even Bidwill.

Some newer owners, like New England's Robert Kraft, have said they will vote against any move, and it's probably no help to Modell that Mike McCormack, president of the Carolina Panthers, was a Hall of Fame offensive tackle in Cleveland from 1954-62.

There is little question the Browns don't meet NFL guidelines for a move, although fear of court action often leads to settlements.

Their stadium is antiquated, but it's almost always full and its fans are among the NFL's most loyal — in winning and losing seasons.

Moreover, in many ways they are the NFL, dating back to 1950, when they joined the NFL from the old All-American conference and dominated to the early '50s.

Fans in New York remember the Giants-Browns rivalry of the late '50s and early '60s — Frank Gifford vs. Jim Brown — just as those in Pittsburgh relish their rivalry with Cleveland.

In fact, during the realignment following the AFL-NFL merger, it was Modell who broke the deadlock, urging Dan Rooney's father, Art Rooney, to come with him to the AFC so that rivalry could be continued. Ironically, the third NFL team to join them was ...

The Baltimore Colts.

HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 7, 1995
ARIES (March 21-April 19) A change on the financial scene brings confusion. Use extra caution negotiating what you want. Stay firm, and you'll know exactly what is going on. You will gain new insight about how a partner handles his assets. Tonight: Stay conservative.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A misunderstanding blooms out of the blue. Stay anchored about your desires. Remain clear and open, and you will be pleasantly surprised by how someone changes his tune. Your personality helps smooth a situation's rough edges. Tonight: Open up to the positive.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Step back, and refuse to be drawn into events that surround you. Be more in sync with your long-term desires. Maintain a holding pattern. Take no action until you understand what's happening with both sides. Tonight: Race home, and vanish!
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Stay focused on your long-term goals. You gain perspective because of what transpires. Maintain your sense of humor. The more laughter you allow in your day, the easier it will be for those around you. Tonight: Go for some fun.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Responsibilities call. You manage your day well, as long as you don't let confusion with a domestic matter ruin things. Your perspective makes for strong decisions at a later point. Plug your frustrations and energy into your work. The boss is awed. Tonight: Burn the midnight oil.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Plans change with alarming ease, and you are right on top of them. Your creativity is high as you make strong decisions. Use an opening to make your day more effective. Dance to a different tune, and be happy about new things. Tonight: Go to the movies.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Use kid gloves when dealing with money and partnership. You will be much happier if you don't mix the two, but if you must, do so cautiously. The unexpected occurs, and there could be a problem concerning funds. Be clear about your choices. Tonight: Unravel a mess.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Be ready to explain, explain and explain. Others may have a difficult time getting your message. Confusion surrounds the best of decisions, and you need to stay on target. Your delightful, charming side helps ease another to your way of thinking. Tonight: As you like it.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You might feel like throwing your hands in the air and saying, "Enough!" Partners seem to be confused, your feelings are more vulnerable than usual and you need to verify what others say. You might just decide to cancel the day and forget it! Tonight: Soak away stress.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Though others may be feeling down and out about misunderstandings, you can choose how to handle what is going on. Put on your thinking cap, tap into your creative juices and just see what happens. Tonight: Let others demonstrate their appreciation.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You are anchored and right on top of a problem. However bosses are not anchored and need your help. Interests are scattered in several directions. Be more in touch with your feelings about all these demands. Let your sense of humor take over. Tonight: Run home.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) There is a change of pace. Do not question another's direction. Listen to news with an element of skepticism, and you'll discover what is going on. Take some free time to do something special. Laughter helps you work through a problem. Tonight: Try a new night spot.

IF YOUR BIRTHDAY IS NOV. 7: You will need to learn patience, diplomacy and understanding this year. Partners are testy and difficult at times. Bone up on your negotiation skills. Focus on communicating clearly.

THE STARS SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

Taunting in school will pass

DEAR READERS: Recently I ran a letter signed "Worried Mom in Virginia," who sought help for her son, a sixth-grader who was being harassed by his schoolmates.

DEAR ABBY: My heart goes out to "Mike," the son of "Worried Mom in Virginia." I have walked in his shoes.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

Starting in the fourth grade at a private school in Atlanta, I was taunted and teased by many of my peers for reasons I was unable to understand.

I was neither ugly nor pretty, fat nor thin, rich nor poor, but nonetheless, I was called names too mean-spirited to repeat.

Then a miracle happened. Because my grades were poor, my mother no longer wanted to spend all that money for a private school where I was miserable, so she sent me to a public school where I knew no one, and no one knew me.

My grades went up; I had boyfriends and girlfriends. I had not changed, but my environment had.

Get the kid into counseling. Listen to him and help him appreciate his worth.

Love him well and praise him often. And above all, put him in a new school where he can have a fresh start.—PATRICIA PALMER, JUNEAU, ALASKA

THE Daily Crossword by Virginia B. Hopewell

Crossword puzzle grid with clues for Across and Down.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, Nov. 6, the 310th day of 1995. There are 55 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: On Nov. 6, 1860, former Illinois congressman Abraham Lincoln defeated three other candidates for the presidency of the United States.

Adlai E. Stevenson and Estes Kefauver. In 1976, Benjamin L. Hooks was chosen to be the new executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, succeeding Roy Wilkins.

Five years ago: Democrats increased their congressional voting strength in midterm elections. About one-fifth of the Universal Studios backlot in southern California was destroyed in an arson fire.
