Kids' Zone now belongs to the kids of the community

By SARA SOLIS
Staff Writer

A missile-launch type countdown opened the gates to children of all ages to the Kid's Zone Creative Playground Sunday night.

Katy McAteer, Kid's Zone coordinator, said the playground is now open to the public. She said the playground quickly filled with children after it opened at 7 p.m. "It was packed, people kept coming all night long," she said.

The playground project, which began as an idea back in September, is now complete, she said. McAteer estimated they gathered a little over $100,000, mostly from donations and fund raisers, for the construction and maintenance of the playground.

Numerous volunteers and the state inmates from Wilderness Camp Four, were on hand from Monday, May 6 through Sunday, building the playground.

McAteer said volunteers from the community actually decreased over the weekend, while during the week several companies sent groups of employees to help in the construction. She said at least 200 individuals, including children, volunteered their time and services during the construction week. "We had a lot of kids out there helping," she said.

"A lot of people contributed to this, it would be hard to mention everybody," McAteer said. She said two individuals she wanted to personally thank for their extensive time and effort were Ralph Truszkowski, Big Spring city engineer; and John Paul Anderson, District 6 city council member.

McAteer said Friday's hail storm delayed the construction by about three hours and had some effect on the number of volunteers. But, "I was really impressed, in spite of the damage people were willing to come and help."

She said it felt great to have the project finally completed. "My biggest thing was to see the community come together and build something ... It seems like we, as a community, are so splintered, we divide along different lines. I wanted to see people come together and do something really special for their kids, and they did."

McAteer said boards for the "Buy-a-Board" program are still for sale. The boards, engraved with the name of the buyer, are being placed around the playground beginning at the entrance.

Donated tools will be returned at 8 p.m. tonight at the playground site.

Damage estimates now between $20 million and $25 million

By JOHN A. MOSELEY
Assistant News Editor

Damage estimates from the hailstorm which struck Big Spring Friday have risen to between $20 million and $25 million and city officials said they would formally request federal assistance this morning.

Mayor Tim Blackshear said he and other city representatives would meet with Joe Crabtree of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in an effort to "decide where we go from here."

Results from the Red Cross' damage assessment conducted during the weekend showed three homes were totally destroyed during the storm which pelted portions of the city with softball-sized hailstones.

There were 188 homes that suffered "major damage" and 755 that received "minor damage," Blackshear said, adding that the Red Cross has been elevated to "Level 3" status, which will allow its teams to receive more money.

The assessment, Blackshear noted, indicated that the city's hardest hit area was on Fifth and Sixth Streets near Circle.

QUESTIONS?

- 264-2401 — The number at City Hall to determine if a business has met license requirements.
- 263-7641 — To determine if a business is a member of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce or to obtain the number of another chamber to check references.
- 800-592-4433 — Better Business Bureau of the Permian Basin.

"We feel there were probably a number of homes that were not insured or under-insured," the mayor said. "It looks like we're going to need some low-interest federal loans."

City officials are also reminding homeowners to ask out-of-town roofing and auto repair companies for proof of financial responsibility, as well as a permit for the respective job and insurance.

If a homeowner uses an uninsured roofer, they assume liability for injuries that might occur on their property.

In dealing with out-of-town businesses, officials noted, residents should make certain they are reputable firms and that they can be contacted in the event of problems.

TxDOT meet set for Lubbock Tuesday

HERALD Staff Report

Representatives of communities in West Texas will have one last opportunity to make their respective pitches for highway expansion projects Tuesday in Lubbock.

Local persons wishing to attend the meeting will gather and leave from the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, 3rd and Gregg, at 3 p.m. Tuesday. A planned bus has been canceled.

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) will hold a public hearing beginning at 7 p.m. at the Lubbock Civic Center to allow communities to present their arguments for highway expansions and projects. An open house will begin at 4 p.m.

Big Spring City Engineer

Ralph Truszkowski and Big Spring Herald Managing Editor John H. Walker will make the presentation on behalf of the Transportation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Officials from Midland, Odessa, San Angelo, Sweetwater and other area communities are expected to attend the meeting and make presentations.

The Herald has learned that San Angelo Mayor Dick Funk will endorse the Lubbock-Sweetwater-San Angelo route, although it is not known what the official position of the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce will be.

Funk is expected to endorse the easterly route because it was considered to be marginally feasible as an interstate in the recently completed survey by HDR Engineering.

That recommendation was made based on a variety of items, including traffic counts. At Tuesday's meeting, Big Spring's representatives will question where the count was taken on the easterly route, since traffic is relatively light on two-laned Texas Highway 70 south of Sweetwater. They will also provide TxDOT with a list of the community's priorities.

"We believe that when you consider the fact that U.S. 87 is four-laned virtually all the way from the top of Texas to San Angelo and that it is the most direct north-south route from Mexico to Canada makes our highway a prime candidate for further expansion," explained Linda Walker, executive vice president of the chamber.

"Whether traffic counts reflect interstate possibility or not, the hard fact remains that when the 25 miles or so are completed north of Sterling City, and when TxDOT completes a planned project between Del Rio and Sonora, you'll have the best access to Mexico, San Antonio, South Texas and the Texas Gulf Coast.

"Highway 70 is two-laned and would require major expansion. We also want to know where the traffic counts were taken, because we believe that very little of the traffic on U.S. 84 (between Snyder and Sweetwater) winds up turning south on Highway 70.

"That is simply not a feasible route to follow if you are looking for the best, most direct way. Travelers and truckers don't look for out-of-the-way, winding, narrow two-lane roads. They look for direct conduits, like what we have to offer on U.S. 87."

Red Cross officials move assistance center to Trinity Baptist Church

Red Cross officials have moved their assistance center for people seeking disaster relief following Friday's hailstorm to the Trinity Baptist Church.

"We're taking each application on an individual basis," Dave Wiltse, a disaster specialist with the Red Cross of Texas, said. "Most of what we're dealing with will be home repairs, and in some cases interior losses.

"Interior damages can be kind of tricky," he added. "Our assessment of damages has basically been from examination of exterior damages. But when you've got a situation where flying glass from a broken window has fallen on a mattress ... you need to get rid of that mattress."

McQueary nominated for Region 18 award

By SARA SOLIS
Staff Writer

Bill McQueary, superintendent for Big Spring ISD, has been nominated by the Board of Trustees for the Superintendent of the Year Award for the Region 18 Education Service Center.

Dan Wise, president of Big Spring ISD's Board, said the decision to nominate Mr. McQueary for the award had been talked about and thought about a long time. He said Mr. McQueary has provided "exemplary and visionary leadership" while serving as superintendent.

"Bill has over the years been one of the leading superintendents in the state ... We feel like we have one of the best superintendents," Wise said. He said the board has discussed nominating McQueary before, but, "Bill felt like keeping his fame at home. Now we think it's time to let the state know how good he is."

He said the nomination would be attached to an application and sent to the executive director of Region 18 by the May 15 deadline.

McQueary, obviously modest about the nomination, said, "I hope I don't disappoint them by losing in the first round ... They've proposed it to me in the past and I've told them, 'No I'm not ready to do it.' But this time the board president walked-in and said 'We're going to do it.'"

McQueary has been superintendent for Big Spring ISD for the past 10 years. He will compete first at the Region 18 level against a possible 33 nominees from the region's representative member school districts. If selected, he will represent the region at the Fall 1996 TASA/TASB Joint Annual Convention in Houston.

Other action taken by the board at Thursday's meeting included the reorganization of board officers. The new officers are: Glynnna Mouton, president; Larry Hollar, vice president; and Larry McLellan, secretary.

Valujet flight 592 crew based in Texas

BEDFORD — A red-edged yellow rose was taped Sunday to the apartment door of Valujet pilot Candalyne Kubeck, remembered by a neighbor as "a fantastic individual."

Relatives of flight attendant Jennifer Stearns, who wasn't supposed to be aboard Flight 592, said they talked her out of becoming a police officer because of the perceived danger.

Such were the remembrances of victims of Saturday's crash, which nose-dived into the Florida Everglades as it attempted to turn back from a flight to Atlanta on Saturday, killing all 109 people aboard.

Besides Capt. Kubeck and Ms. Stearns, the other three crew members of the DC-9 also were based at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

They were identified as first officer Richard Hazen, 52, of Mineola, and flight attendants Mandy Leigh Summers, 22, of Irving; and Lori Cushing of Austin.

Simultaneous oil, tobacco battle challenged

HOUSTON — Even though some question why the state continues to invest heavily in the tobacco and oil industries when it is suing both, lucrative returns from each industry make healthy contributions to state education and employee pensions.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro has filed a lawsuit alleging that nine oil companies are shortchanging the state millions of dollars in royalties on state leases.

And Attorney General Dan Morales has sued the tobacco industry, claiming that smoking-related illnesses have cost the state $4 billion in major state health care costs.

Even so, managers of state investment funds are reluctant to unload hundreds of millions of dollars in tobacco stocks because of the return on the investments, Texas farmers look to Wisconsin for help

MADISON, Wis. — Francis Goodman thinks farmers need to stick together, especially when Mother Nature pulls a fast one.

That's one of the reasons the Sauk County dairyman put his name on a list of Wisconsin hay producers willing to sell reserves to their drought-stricken, fellow farmers in Texas, who also face sky-high feed prices.

With Wisconsin's growing season off to a late start and prospects for the late June hay harvest uncertain, Goodman knows there's money to be made closer to home. He may even need the hay for his 45 cows.

But after reading about the Texas farmers' plight, the Wonewoc man decided to take his chances.

"Farmers all over the country shouldn't be competing with each other. They should be cooperating — not only when there's a problem like a feed shortage, but to work together to raise farm prices," Goodman said.

Edwards aquifer running low

AUSTIN — A continuing drought along with magnified growth in the San Antonio-Austin corridor and the Guadalupe River basin are threatening the Edwards Aquifer, which supplies water to 1.5 million people in Central Texas.

According to a report from the Edwards Underground Water District in San Antonio, sparse rainfall during the past year provided 20 percent less recharge — water going into the aquifer — than normal. On the other side of the scale, discharge was 15 percent above normal.

"Every community in the river basin is already beginning to conserve as best they can," said Fred Blumberg, deputy general manager of the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority. "And most of those communities have more people than in past years." The Edwards Aquifer is a porous rock formation stretching from just south of Austin to 100 miles west of San Antonio.

In the mid-1950s, record drought years, the five-county area dependent on the Edwards Aquifer was home to about 500,000 people, said Rick Illgner, general manager of the Edwards Underground Water District. Now Bexar, Comal, Uvalde, Medina and Hays counties have three times that many residents. Census projections show 2.4 million people by 2020.

Son graduates after nine-year struggle with brain injury

HOUSTON — Nine years ago, Juan Tuberquia went from Texas A&M pre-med student to coma patient, a victim of a severe head injury caused when he fell from the back of a motorcycle without a helmet.

When he awoke two weeks later, the 19-year-old could not walk or feed himself. Calculus, history, literature and a childhood's worth of memories vanished.

Doctors told his parents not to expect too much from their son. They said his life would likely be defined by low-skill jobs and lingering effects of the brain injury.

Tuberquia strode across a stage Friday to receive a bachelor of science degree in bilingual elementary education from the University of Houston. He has passed his first teacher certification exam and expects to pass the second.

Heart patient looks at experimental pump

HOUSTON — For more than a year, doctors have used an experimental pump implanted in Albert Williams' stomach to keep the 43-year-old heart patient alive until a new heart could be found for transplant.

Although Williams says he's anxious to obtain a heart, he manages to live a fairly normal life with the one he has, helped by a device known as the "HeartMate."

Couple considers the odds for a second time around

DEAR ABBY: This is the first time I've ever written to you, but I have been reading "Dear Abby" since I was a teen-ager and I trust your advice.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

I was married to "Harold" for 15 years. We had three children together and divorced four years ago for several reasons. The main reason was that he was unfaithful to me. I was hurt, bitter and angry because I had always been faithful to him. I never dreamed I would end up divorced, having to raise three children alone.

Now, after four years, he has had a relationship fall apart, and so have I. We have both reached the same conclusion. It is very hard to find a partner who is completely accepting of someone else's children. It makes life extremely complicated to be with someone who does not accept the full "package."

We are presently considering the possibility of dating and possibly reuniting our family. It makes a lot of sense for many reasons. Abby, what are the chances of making a marriage work the second time around? The only one that comes to mind is Elizabeth Taylor, who married Richard Burton twice, and we all know how that ended. — PUZZLED IN PORTLAND

DEAR PUZZLED: If there are reliable statistics on the success or failure rate of remarriages, I am not aware of them. In my opinion, the most important ingredient for a successful marriage — in addition to love — is for the couple to really need each other.

A word to the wise, however: Before committing yourself to another marriage to a partner who has been unfaithful in the past, make sure that whatever caused it is resolved. I recommend "couples counseling."

DEAR ABBY: You were kind to print my cats-and-cars letter. I thank you, and so will the many kittens your kindness will have saved. Moreover, scads of people, including many old friends with whom I had lost contact, have called me.

My purpose in writing to you is to thank you and to let you know that the kitten — little Freckles — survived and is loved. He has now been neutered, of course, as all pets should be. He is a special-needs cat, but his job description is not exactly that of a rocket scientist or even a mouse catcher. He purrs and returns affection with love, and is a treasured little spark of the great flame of life. I'm glad he lived. — JUDGE H. HAYWOOD TURNER III, COLUMBUS, GA.

DEAR JUDGE TURNER: Thank you for the update, and I hope that Freckles has a long and happy life. I'm sure my pet-loving readers will be pleased to know that you had your kitten(s) neutered — but you should be aware that I received quite a few letters that pointed out your kittens also should have been confined to an area where they were completely out of harm's way.

Fraternity fire kills six in North Carolina

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — An early morning fraternity house fire killed five people Sunday, bringing tragedy to the University of North Carolina campus just hours before annual Mother's Day graduation ceremonies.

The cause of the blaze that gutted the interior of the Phi Gamma Delta house was not expected to be known for three or four days, said Fire Department spokeswoman Jan Cousins.

The identities of the dead were not released. Ben Eubanks, 21, a junior and former president of the fraternity, was hospitalized in serious condition. Adam Jones, a 21-year-old junior and a member of the fraternity, was in fair condition; and Anne Glenn, 21, not enrolled in the university, was listed in critical condition.

Hospital officials would not disclose the nature of their injuries.

After the fire was doused, a search of the charred ruins for any additional victims went slowly because of extensive damage and fears part of the three-story brick building might collapse.

By early evening, crews were working to shore up the first and second floors of the 80-year-old building, which had collapsed into the basement.

OUR VIEWS

Be neighborly, but wary at same time

Three days after what, unarguably, is being called the worst disaster in the history of modern-day Big Spring, our community is pulling itself up by its bootstraps.

Neighbors are helping neighbors. Strangers are helping strangers. Those who were fortunate enough to have missed the devastation brought about by baseball and softball-sized hail sought out the less fortunate to see if they could be of assistance.

And then there were those that, as always, swooped down on the community like buzzards seeking out carrion.

And in the wake of the arrival of these roofers and auto glass and hail-damage repair "specialists," we urge caution.

Yes, there are reputable companies who arrived in Big Spring Saturday morning. There are companies from Midland and Odessa, Abilene and Lubbock, who have been here before and who are good, honest firms.

But there also are those who arrived in town after hearing of our plight and deciding then and there they were going to become "roofers" or "auto hail specialists" and get rich in Big Spring.

Please, use caution when you select the firm to handle the repairs on your home or vehicle.

Our city officials, in an effort to offer the greatest level of protection possible to our citizens, have strengthened the requirements imposed on out-of-town businesses.

The bottom line, however, is that it is the property owners' responsibility to ensure that the repair firm they choose is financially responsible, insured and bonded.

City officials have determined that nearly 950 homes were damaged in the storm, which caused an estimated $20 million to $25 million in damage.

And while we understand that it is physically impossible for our locally based businesses to handle each and every home and business claim, we encourage our residents to utilize local businesses whenever possible.

Yes, there is a sense of urgency in getting your property repaired ... but you should also have a sense of urgency in making certain you can locate the repair firm if you need follow-up work.

Remember ... be wary.

Travelgate travels on and on and on

If, as the White House insists, there is nothing to hide in the remaining Travelgate documents, why not just hand them over to the House committee investigating the travel office firings and be done with it?

The committee is near the end of any work it can justify. The question of any criminal wrongdoing in the firing of the seven employees is in the hands of the special prosecutor. The head of the White House travel office, Billy Dale, has been vindicated and will soon be reimbursed for his legal expenses. And the papers the committee is seeking are not primary documents.

True, the GOP-run committee is trying to make a White House already red-faced over the three-year-old incident even more embarrassed. The committee seeks any notes or records of damage control meetings held in the wake of that public relations disaster and hopes to find evidence of a deliberate decision to stonewall Congress.

While the White House understandably hopes to preserve some degree of confidentiality, this seems a poor place to invoke executive privilege. Neither national security nor the president's constitutional duties are at stake.

Balked, the committee voted along party lines to cite for criminal contempt one current and two former White House aides. The full House must still vote on the citation, and President Clinton could make it moot by signing a finding of executive privilege. Congress' only recourse then would be the courts.

The Clinton White House has a pattern of fighting rear-guard actions through denials, delays and evasions that make their subsequent actions look worse than the original offense.

If these papers are as harmless as the White House says, a needless confrontation could easily be avoided by making them public.

The White House may have nothing to hide, but the president's advisors are making it look that way.

OK, make nukes; just leave music alone

By JACK R. PAYTON
St. Petersburg Times

WASHINGTON — Pop quiz: Which is more central to protecting America's national interests — checking the spread of nuclear weapons or keeping the Chinese from getting cheap knockoffs of American rock 'n' roll records?

The Clinton administration, it seems, is voting for rock 'n' roll.

That's the message, at least, that comes out of an administration announcement Friday that it won't even try to penalize China for selling Pakistan nuclear equipment that can refine uranium for use in nuclear weapons.

The background on this is truly amazing.

U.S. intelligence-gatherers have known for years that China was secretly providing Pakistan with enough equipment and expertise to transform its Kahuta research center outside Islamabad into a major nuclear weapons lab.

The reason Washington didn't move against China or Pakistan at the time was simple enough. Pakistan was the main staging area for American aid to the Muslim guerrillas fighting the Soviets next door in Afghanistan. And for then-President Ronald Reagan, embarrassing the Soviets in Afghanistan was a lot more important than nuclear non-proliferation.

No more excuses like that are available today. The Soviets long ago went home, and our trade with Pakistan is severely limited because its weapons labs have produced a nuclear arsenal. As for China, it has been on notice for a long time that continued violation of nuclear non-proliferation agreements would result in stiff U.S. economic sanctions.

So why did the State Department announce Friday that no such sanctions would be forthcoming? The intelligence evidence was, after all, overwhelming.

The reason, said State Department spokesman Nicholas Burns, is that President Clinton and his advisors had decided to accept the Chinese government's claim that it somehow didn't know a Chinese company was doing these awful things. The president had also decided, Burns said, to accept "clarifications and assurances" from the Chinese that such things wouldn't happen again.

Right. But what about the fact that Beijing had made similar promises over and over in the past and failed to follow through? In addition to the nuclear equipment and expertise, what about the M-1 ballistic missiles China had sent Pakistan, again in violation of signed treaties?

This time, the State Department spokesman promised, things would be different.

But if that's so, if the Chinese really are about to enter upon a new era of candor and honesty, why is the Clinton administration getting ready to hit Beijing with the equivalent of more than $2-billion in sanctions for illegally copying rock 'n' roll records?

OK. It's slightly more than rock 'n' roll records. What the administration is worked up about is China's continuing refusal to crack down on the copying of American-produced music and computer programs distributed on compact discs — CDs and CD-ROMs. These come under the general heading known as "intellectual property" — though if you listen to some of the music we're talking about, you have to wonder why.

But even if you don't like the music or don't know a CD-ROM from a Frisbee, the fact is that these things are protected by patents or copyrights and duplicating them for sale is against the law. Just as important, it also violates an agreement the United States and China reached on the issue just last year.

China claims it is doing its best to comply with the agreement, noting that it has closed seven factories that were producing the illegal copies and that it has more than 600,000 inspectors out searching for additional violators. All that may be true, says the U.S. side, but the fact remains that dozens of Chinese factories are still cranking out illegal copies and that almost 90 percent of the CDs coming out of China are pirated. These bogus CDs and CD-ROMs are costing U.S. producers more than $2 billion a year in lost sales.

This is where things get interesting.

One of the arguments trotted out in China's defense in the "intellectual property" dispute is that it's impossible to catch all the illegal copiers, no matter how many inspectors you have in the field. It's similar to China's argument in the Pakistan nuclear case: "This country is so vast we can't keep track of who's selling what to whom, even if it's the government's prized nuclear fuel refining equipment."

For some odd reason, Clinton and his advisors have decided to accept this excuse for China's sale of nuclear equipment but not for its copying of rock 'n' roll music.

The lesson here seems to be that you can sell people atomic bomb equipment and the Clinton administration will look the other way if you've got even the lamest of excuses. Mess with rock 'n' roll, though, and you're in big trouble.

Howard avoids elimination at state tourney

HERALD Staff Report

To Howard College baseball coach Brian Roper, survival wasn't pretty - but it beat the alternative.

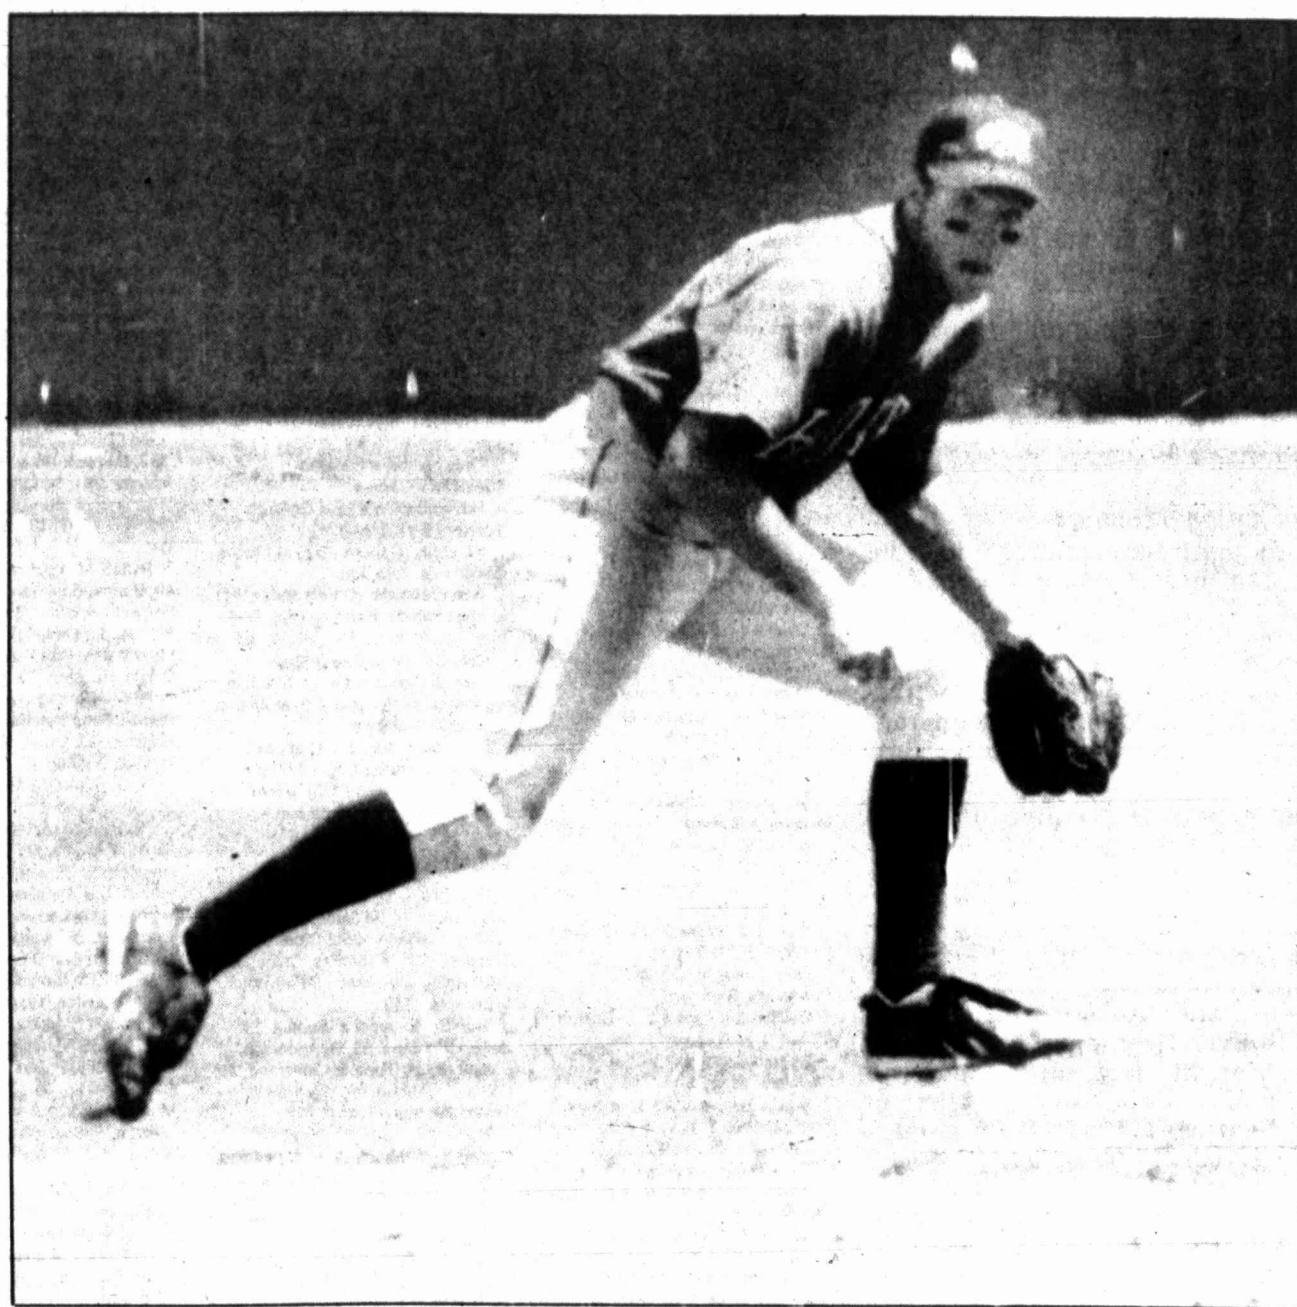

The Hawks overcame several mental mistakes to defeat Wharton College 4-3 in an elimination game at the state junior college baseball tournament in Abilene Sunday.

One day after opening the tournament with a 10-run loss to Northeast Texas Community College, the Hawks regrouped with help from staff ace Ben Phillips. Phillips (13-0) struck out five, walked five and allowed four hits in picking up the complete-game victory.

"Ben was tough as nails," Roper said. "It was just about his normal performance. He had some walks, but then he came back with some big strikeouts as well."

The Chicago Bulls will remain the only team to three-peat as NBA champions over the past decade.

The Bulls won their third straight title in 1993. Three others have had the chance, but the Houston Rockets on Sunday joined the Los Angeles Lakers in 1989 and Detroit Pistons in 1991 as teams that failed in pursuit of a third consecutive championship.

The Seattle SuperSonics beat the Rockets 114-107 in overtime Sunday to sweep the semifinal series in four games. They will return to the Western Conference finals for the first time since 1993.

"I believe our heart was there, but we ran into a team who really got it going," Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "I'm not ashamed. I'm not ashamed of how we played."

Seattle will face the winner of the Utah-San Antonio series in the conference finals. The Jazz lead that series 3-1 after a 101-86 victory Sunday night.

In the Eastern Conference on Sunday, Chicago took a 3-1 lead over New York with a 94-91 victory and Orlando went up 3-0 to Atlanta with a 103-96 victory.

NBA

The Rockets, who swept Orlando just 11 months ago to repeat, rallied from a 20-point fourth-quarter deficit and tied the game 101-101 on a 3-pointer by Sam Cassell with 4.1 seconds to play.

"They haven't won championships by giving up," said Shawn Kemp, who led Seattle with 32 points and 15 rebounds. "They held their composure and fought back."

"It got a little scary at the end. Fortunately we regained our composure in the overtime."

Kemp had five points in the overtime and the Sonics locked it up with a 9-0 run, beating the Rockets for the 13th straight time.

The Rockets were led by Hakeem Olajuwon's 26 points.

"I always wondered how I would feel when we would have to give up the title," Tomjanovich said. "It's not a pleasant feeling."

Orlando won its sixth straight playoff game behind 24 points by Shaquille O'Neal to get within one win of the conference finals.

Brewers beat Orioles in best of three falls match

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jesse Levis made like Jesse "The Body" Ventura to help the Milwaukee Brewers win.

Levis pinned Baltimore's Scott Erickson after falling on top of the pitcher in the sixth inning Sunday, giving the Brewers time to score the go-ahead run in a 6-4 victory over the Orioles.

Although Levis didn't claim to be a pro wrestling fan, he was able to emulate a move by Ventura, a former pro grappler. "I pinned him for three and we got an extra run out of it," Levis joked.

The bizarre play unfolded in the sixth inning with the Brewers trailing 4-3. Milwaukee had the bases loaded with none out when Levis hit a sharp grounder to first baseman Rafael Palmeiro, who threw to second for the forceout as Matt Mieske scored the tying run.

Erickson (2-4) ran to first base to take the return throw from second. The right-hander tripped after making the out at first, and Levis purposefully fell on top of him, allowing Fernando Vina to score from second.

Levis said he had no choice but to fall on Erickson.

"I wasn't going to be able to jump over him and I didn't want to spike him, so I just, kind of like, fell on him," Levis said. "I was telling him, 'I'm sorry.' He was trying to get up but all my momentum was leaning on him. He didn't say a word. He didn't know what the hell I was doing on him."

Erickson had his own view of the incident.

"I didn't think I was going

down, but I kind of fell and I think he laid on me a little bit," he said.

The Orioles had thrown out two Milwaukee runners in the first two innings before Levis executed his takedown.

"Well, we worked on that in spring training. It's called the old pile-on play," Brewers manager Phil Garner joked.

Orioles manager Davey Johnson vainly argued that first base umpire Larry Young should have called interference against Levis.

"The pitcher fell down, but you can't jump on him," Johnson insisted. "He (Young) said he thought it was an accident. I told him he had plenty of time to get out of the way."

Dave Nilsson finished 3-for-4 with three RBIs as the Brewers overcame a pair of two-run homers by Palmeiro, who hadn't had an extra-base hit in 16 games.

Angel Miranda (2-2) got the win.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was: New York 9, Chicago 8; Detroit 5, Texas 3; Toronto 8, Boston 7; Oakland 8, Minnesota 3; Seattle 8, Kansas City 5; and Cleveland 4, California 1.

Yankees 9, White Sox 8

At Chicago, Joe Girardi cleared the bases with a three-run double in the sixth inning as New York rallied from an 8-0 deficit to stun Chicago.

Trailing 8-4, New York scored five in the sixth, starting the spree when White Sox first baseman Frank Thomas failed to touch first on a grounder for his first error of the season.

Chicago cut it to 8-5 on Tim Lincecum's RBI single. Wade Boggs then singled to chase Alex Fernandez and reliever Larry Thomas (1-3) surrendered an RBI double to Paul O'Neill.

Tino Martinez walked to load the bases and, after a strikeout, Girardi doubled to give the Yankees a 9-8 lead. Girardi was 3-for-4 and is now on a 13-for-29 tear.

Reliever Bob Wickman (3-1), the fourth Yankee pitcher, went 1 2-3 innings for the win. John Wetteland got three outs for his seventh save.

Tigers 5, Rangers 3

At Arlington, Texas, Felipe Lira gave Detroit's pitching staff a rare quality start and John Flaherty jump-started the offense with a three-run double.

Lira (3-3) gave up three runs and five hits over 6 1-3 innings for a staff that started the day with a 7.19 ERA.

Mike Myers got four outs for his second save and just the Tigers' fifth this season.

Flaherty's second-inning double off Darren Oliver (2-1) helped the Tigers win just their sixth road game all season.

Blue Jays 8, Red Sox 7

At Toronto, rookie Robert Perez hit a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 10th off Heathcliff Slocumb (1-2) as Toronto rallied from a four-run deficit to win.

Perez's single helped fellow rookie Marty Janzen (1-0) get the victory in his major-league debut.

John Olerud drove in five runs, three with a homer in the eighth inning, and Carlos Delgado had four hits for Toronto.

Grace bests Maddux in showdown; Expos overcome miscues vs. Astros

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mike Grace escaped a predicament. Jerry Goff was one.

With Greg Maddux on the mound after Atlanta had pounded Philadelphia pitching two nights running, Grace was supposed to lose.

But, like many rookies, he didn't get the message.

"I really don't pay much attention to who I'm pitching against," Grace said after raising his record to 6-0 with a four-hitter as the Phillies ended the Braves' seven-game winning streak with a 6-0 victory Sunday at Veterans Stadium.

Still, he didn't put his name in the record book. Goff did, but he'd rather forget it.

"It was ugly," the backup catcher said after allowing six passed balls - tying a major league record - in the Houston Astros' 7-6 loss to the Montreal Expos. "After the first one got by, I got a little tentative. It just snowballed from there."

Goff's gaffes were an aberration, considering his commission of just four passed balls in 69 previous games. But the 31-year-old, recalled from the minors four days ago when Tony Eusebio was disabled, gave the Expos five unearned runs.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Chicago 3, New York 0; San Francisco 7, Pittsburgh 2; Florida 7, Colorado 5; San Diego 5, Cincinnati 0; and St. Louis 6, Los Angeles 5.

Phillies 6, Braves 0

Grace struck out five and walked only one while retiring the final 17 batters in his first career shutout. It was appreciated in the face of 33 Atlanta runs built on 55 hits the last three times the teams met.

"After getting our butts kicked the last two nights, we needed Grace to win and he really shut them down," said Phillies manager Jim Fregosi. "That was an outstanding effort, but he's pitched very well for us all year."

Four-time Cy Young Award winner Maddux (4-3) lost consecutively for the first time in nearly two years. The Phillies scored three runs in the first: on an RBI double by Todd Zeile, a run-scoring grounder and a throwing error by Atlanta shortstop Jeff Blauer.

"I got a couple of pitches up. That hurt me," said Maddux, who lasted just five innings. "I'm not frustrated, I just have to try and bounce back."

Expos 7, Astros 6

Mark Grudzielanek was among the beneficiaries of Goff's play. He tied a career high by going 5-for-5 and scoring three runs as the Expos increased baseball's best home record to 16-4.

"We got to keep winning," Grudzielanek said. "That's the key. I'm starting to feel comfortable, so I'm just going out, hitting the ball hard and having fun."

Henry Rodriguez and F.P. Santangelo added two-run doubles for the Expos. The one by Rodriguez - giving Montreal a 5-1 lead in the second inning - led to the ejection of Expos manager Felipe Alou.

Fans, in what as become a ritual following a Rodriguez highlight, littered the outfield with "Oh Henry!" candy bars.

The umpires instructed the players to leave the field while it was being cleared of debris. Alou, celebrating his 61st birthday, was tossed for arguing with crew chief Harry Wendelstedt that the interruption was too lengthy.

"If you noticed, no umpire came to the Expos' dugout and communicated with us," Alou said. "I had a right to go out and see what was happening. For that I got thrown out."

Cubs 3, Mets 0

Jim Bullinger pitched a two-hitter at Shea Stadium, and Ryne Sandberg and Sammy Sosa had home runs as Chicago broke a five-game losing streak.

The 30-year-old Bullinger (2-3) struck out four and did not allow a walk in his first shutout and complete game since July 30, 1995, against Philadelphia. Jeff Kent had both hits for the Mets.

The game was tranquil, a reversal from Saturday when a brushback-inspired brawl led to the ejections of eight players and a coach.

Sandberg hit his eighth homer, in the first inning off Mark Clark (1-5), who lost his third straight decision. Sosa led off the fourth with his 11th home run - and fifth off the Mets - to make it 2-0.

Giants 7, Pirates 2

Allen Watson allowed six hits in eight innings and drove in four runs as San Francisco swept Pittsburgh.

Watson, who struck out seven and walked one, pitched his first shutout in 64 career starts. At bat, Watson hit a bases-loaded, two-out single and added a two-run bloop double.

Glenallen Hill hit the Giants' league-leading 56th homer as they finished off their first sweep this season.

Mickelson's star on the rise after championship at Byron Nelson Classic

IRVING (AP) - Despite a rousing victory in the Byron Nelson Classic, young southpaw Phil Mickelson doesn't want to compare his accomplishments to those of Jack Nicklaus.

"Comparing me to Jack is a compliment," he said. "There is only one Jack Nicklaus. And there will never be another one."

Maybe so. But at age 25 Mickelson has compiled a record that would turn anyone but Nicklaus green with envy.

He rode a dramatic eagle on the par-5 16th hole to a closing 4-under-par 66 Sunday to nip Australian Craig Parry and earn him a third PGA Tour title this year.

It was his eighth triumph in only his fourth year on the pro circuit, and the $270,000 paycheck propelled him past Fred Couples and Mark O'Meara to the top of the PGA money-winning list with $1,072,145.

Mickelson's 72-hole total of 265 was 15-under par for four trips around the Tournament Players Course at the Four Seasons Club and two strokes better than Parry.

Parry fired a 65 for 267 and $162,000 of the $1.5 million purse.

Another stroke back was David Duval, who overcame a horrendous double bogey on the first hole to shoot a 65. Nick Price and Jeff Sluman had 67s to share fourth place at 269.

Reigning U.S. Open Champion Corey Pavin matched 70 and was tied for sixth at 270 with Mark Brooks (66), Gil Morgan (65) and Mark Wiebe (70).

This one could have been scripted in Hollywood.

Unable to reject a personal invitation from golfing legend Byron Nelson, Mickelson came to town for a "fun week" and found himself late Sunday tied for the lead with three holes to play and desperately needing a birdie at the 554-yard 16th hole.

Instead, he chipped in from 30 feet for the eagle.

"When I made that eagle I felt like I had it," he said. And in fact he did.

"I'm proud to be the '96 champion of Byron Nelson's event," he said. "I would not have been here if it were not for him. He's special."

LPGA

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) - The McDonald's LPGA Championship was fighting a lot. First there was the year-old Ben Wright incident. Then there was rain. And mud. And fog. And finally wind and cold.

Fortunately it had Laura Davies to get the focus back to golf.

Using her bruising power and her delicate putting touch, Davies shot a near-perfect 1-under-par 70 on Sunday - the lowest round of the cold, windswept day - to win the LPGA Championship for the second time in three years.

"This is the best round of golf I've ever played in the last round of a major tournament," Davies said after her 54-hole total of even-par 213 gave her a one-stroke victory over Julie Piers. "Not to make a bogey under these conditions is incredible."

The conditions were absolutely brutal for the final round of a major championship.

Play started at 7:30 a.m. when players bundled in stocking caps, earmuffs, gloves and wind shirts resumed Saturday's rain-delayed second round in wind that gusted to 35 mph and put the wind chill as low as 28 degrees.

"It was survival out there," said Piers. "It's a tough golf course anyway, but with the rain it was twice as tough, and with the wind it was three times as tough."

"That was our 58th game of the year, and we missed a sign, and ground balls were going through our legs ...," Roper said. "At times, we looked like we didn't know how to play baseball. But I expect them to play better today. We've got one of the best teams here, and to play like we did is upsetting."

The Hawks spotted Wharton

an early 1-0 lead before grabbed home Jason Huth.
