Local calf roper takes first place in rodeo's opening performance

By STEVE REAGAN

Sports Editor

Wayne Carper has been competing in front of the home folks for so long, he apparently decided to give them something to cheer about.

Big Spring resident Carper became the first local cowboy in several years to enter the winner's circle in an event when he took top honors in calf roping during the opening night of the 63rd Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Wednesday night.

Carper's time of 10.5 seconds barely edged the 10.6 posting of Iraan cowboy Juan Flores. Dave Brock of Springtown in the steer wrestling was very good, was third with a time of 11.9.

Usually, competing in front of a hometown crowd puts more pressure on a competitor, but Carper insists that wasn't the case Wednesday. In fact, he said he should have done better.

"I've roped here so many times, it really doesn't bother me any more," Carper said. "I should have had a faster time than I did. It was just a good calf."

While Carper was winning by a tenth of a second, Stanton cowboy Clyde Himes found himself on the wrong end of that margin. His time of 5.0 seconds

Clark Dees of Weatherford, Okla. but Delbert Davis of Hereford did him a tenth of a second better, posting a 4.9 vived a crowd at the top of the saddle to win Wednesday's go.

Close competition seemed to be the order of the day, as many events were decided by razor-thin margins.

Stephenville cowboy Beau Mayo turned in the best roughstock performance of the night with a bone-jangling ride atop Old Crow to earn a score of 81 and win Wednesday's bareback bronc riding.

Mayo's score edged Benny Joe McCoy's 76, earned on the aptly-named Wild West and a 75 score posted by

Data indicates Moore Board meeting goals

By JOHN H. WALKER Managing Editor

Moore Development for Big Spring has met its goals of job creation thus far, according to data supplied by the organization at its regular meeting Wednesday.

In a graphic labeled "Project Summary 1990-1996," Moore shows that it has spent $5,286,270 in three categories grants and rent subsidies, direct loans and loan guaranties — in connection with 17 projects.

Those projects, in turn, have promised by Herb Wright in conjunction with Wright Fibers. Wright Fibers is one of only two businesses, the other being Andy's Bullets, that are not operational today.

As a result of its efforts, the jobs created in Big Spring have resulted in an annual payroll in excess of $7.8 million. "We obtained the payroll data

"We used a $20,000 average salary, which is conservative ... it's lower than the actual average we came up with from the businesses." The city of Big Spring has almost completed the process of restructuring its management agreements for the Big Spring Correctional Centers and in so doing will divest itself of 250 employees currently carried on the city's health insurance poli-CY.

Restructuring

As these employees are transferred to Cornell Corrections the city staff has begun the process of reviewing employee benefits and how the change will increase in their dependent insurance coverage.

City employees noticed a deduction increase of $58.40 per month for dependent insurance coverage.

The reason for the increase was due to the considerable amount of claims filed by the approximately 130 city employees currently signed up for dependent coverage.

Bogard told the council approximately $800,000 in claims was paid by the city last year, which is why the premiums increased so much in 1996. The city is currently self insured, but claim payments are administered for the city by Ted Parker and Associates. The council was asked to shift some of the deduction cost from the dependent (employee) side to the city's side in the amount of $7.50 per employee to offset the increase by 50 percent. Bogard asked the council to make the shift permanent, which would cost around $45,000 per year. All city employees were figured into the $45,000 amount, otherwise, it would appear that those employees on dependent coverage would be receiving a benefit and everyone else would not. Another option discussed would be to break the amount down by departments and have each department cover a percentage of the total based on the number of employees in each

Smith named CEO for West Texas Centers

By JOHN A. MOSELEY

Assistant News Editor

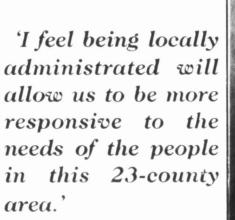

Shelley Smith has been named executive director of the West Texas Centers for Mental Health and Mental Retardation which will contract with the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to provide community services for a 23-county area in rural West Texas.

Smith's appointment was announced by Howard County Commissioner Bill Crooker, who serves as chairman of the West Texas Centers for MHMR Board of Trustees.

"The board and I feel we have made an excellent choice for chief executive officer," Crooker said. "Shelley knows this system and we have full confidence in her ability to manage our community MHMR center."

Smith previously served as the director of community services for the Big Spring State Hospital and, in the transition process of separating community services divisions from state hospitals and state schools, she has been the executive director of West Texas State-Operated Community MHMR Services.

The local transition, Smith explained, will result in the delivery and administration of community services being provided under the direction of a board composed of seven county judges and a county commissioner from the 23-county catchment area.

the administrative level," she That catchment area includes Andrews, Borden, Crane, Dawson, Fisher, Gaines, Garza, Glasscock, Howard, Kent, Loving, Martin, Mitchell, Nolan, Reeves, Runnels, Scurry, Terrell, Terry, Upton, Ward, Winkler and Yoakum counties.

Previously, community services for the mentally retarded

Spring of some administrative personnel currently residing in San Angelo, Lubbock and Abilene

West Texas Centers for MHMR will employ approximately 610 people and have an operating budget of approximately $21 million.

"I'm really excited to see this come to fruition," Smith added, noting that the movement toward creating local administrative boards began about five years ago. "I feel being locally administrated will allow us to be more responsive to the needs of the people in this 23-county area

"What's more, we've got a great team," she continued. The members of our board have taken a tremendous interest, they've studied and familiarized themselves with the current level of service, as well as other services the area could use. In addition, we've also got a terrific, highly-skilled staff." Current members of the board include Crooker; Howard County Judge Ben Lockhart, who serves as secretary-treasurer; Garza County Judge Giles Dalby, the vice-chairman; former Runnels County Judge

City Manager Gary Fugua told the city council Tuesday that as the city prepares to evaluate its health insurance package, he suggests the council consider forming an ad-hoc committee to assist in the process.

"I would envision this committee consisting of approximately five to seven members, with backgrounds in the health insurance field, with Assistant City Manager Emma Bogard as chairperson," Fuqua said.

He said the committee will be a valuable asset and will assist the city in the bidding process for a health insurance provider in the near future.

The city actually began tackling the issue of employee insurance coverage in January when employees noticed an increase in their monthly insurance premiums.

The city agreed to help employees absorb some of the Humane society reducing fees HERALD Staff Report

Faced with a burgeoning population of cats and dogs, the Humane Society of Big Spring is reducing adoption fees in an effort to avoid having to euthanize a number of the strays.

"It must be something about summer," said Humane Society representative Margaret Lloyd, "because the number just explodes."

Lloyd said that effective July 1, the Humane Society would lower the adoption fee to $10 for any animal 3 years old or older. "We're paying for spaying or neutering and all the shots," she said. The normal adoption fee if $45 for dogs and $35 for cats. Lloyd said the organization's shelter is "overrun with pets" and that there were some members of her board that were in favor of starting the euthanization program immediately.

"I hope that we'll be able to get the numbers down. I think we'll be able to tell by the 10th or 12th of the month if this will work or if we'll have to start putting animals to sleep.

For more information on the pet adoption program, call the Humane Society at 267-7832 or go by the shelter on the north frontage road of I-20, west of the Big Spring west interchange.

After much discussion, the council unanimously agreed to take on the $30,000 expense until the end of the budget year when it will consider giving city employees raises to cover the increase.

The original cost to cover all 514 city employees was $46,260 per year, but $30,000 was all that was needed to cover the employees for the remainder of the current fiscal year.

City employees have gotten a pay raise in the last few years and this was a sticking point for at least one council member.

Before he voted in favor of the idea. Councilman Tom Guess was concerned the single person without dependents would not be receiving as much of a benefit as employees with dependents.

In January Fuqua said, "I don't consider this a pay raise. We're trying to keep our employees as long-term employees. Part of our benefit package is to provide insurance to employees and affordable insurance for their dependents."

He added the reason it can't be considered a pay raise is because employees didn't receive any additional money in their paychecks

Fuqua said what the city did in January also can't be considered a pay increase because the city still has some employees who aren't paid enough to be able to afford health insurance. Insurance, as well as pay increases, will be two of the items city administrators and the council look at as the 1996-97 city budget is planned.

That may be because voters in the NBC-Wall Street Journal poll said issues are more important than a candidate's character or values, by 62 percent to 25 percent.

Even a plurality of Dole supporters - 46 percent - said issues are more important than character. Seventy-nine percent of Clinton backers said that.

The poll, conducted June 20-25, also found increasing ill will toward Hillary Rodham Clinton, with 44 percent viewing her negatively and 35 percent positively. And a growing majority -62 percent - say she is lying about Whitewater.

While a strong majority said having Mrs. Clinton as first lady would not make them less percent said that about Dole's wife, Elizabeth.

However, half said Mrs. Clinton is coming under fire because she is a prominent woman. Thirty-seven percent said the criticisms were justified.

Roughly half the poll was conducted before stories broke about Mrs. Clinton's consultations with a New Age guru, so it was unclear if those reports affected opinion toward the first lady.

Bombers' identities, aims remain fuzzy in wake of bombing

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) -Who's behind the recent bombings in Saudi Arabia?

The scale of the attacks suggests the bombers have powerful backers, and some have accused Saudi Arabia's neighbors of fomenting trouble.

So far there's been no evidence pointing to foreign sponsorship, and Saudi Arabia itself has tacitly acknowledged that the problem may be largely homegrown.

The two lethal bombings of U.S. military targets in the kingdom, one on Tuesday and one last November, have been claimed by previously unknown groups.

A caller to the Al-Arab newspaper in London said the 'Legion of the Martyr Abdullah al-Huzaifi" was responsible for Tuesday's bombing in Dhahran that killed 19 American servicemen and injured hundreds.

The "Islamic Movement for Change" claimed responsibility for the Nov. 13 blast that killed five Americans and two Indians in the capital of Riyadh. Authorities have been eign Ministry spokesman Mahunable to say whether these movements even exist, and their only proclaimed goal is to drive the roughly 5,000 U.S. troops out of Saudi Arabia. The ruling Al-Saud family tolerates no dissent, and therefore all opposition groups operate either underground or in exile. The most prominent is the London-based Committee for the Defense of Legitimate Rights. Led by Mohammed al-Misari, the group's favored tactic is to fire off faxes accusing the Saudi royal family of massive corruption. The group, which wants to tion from Muslim militants make the strict Islamic state operating in Egypt, Algeria even more so, claims underground cells in Saudi Arabia, they acquired their weapons but does not advocate violence. from neighboring Yemen.

25% Off

It has so angered the Saudi authorities that earlier this year they tried to have al-Misari kicked out of Britain, but the courts have permitted him to stay.

In the Middle East, Saudi Arabia's main rivals are Iran and Iraq. The Saudis have not accused either of involvement, though others have.

"I bet you that the Iranians are behind it," Israel's President Ezer Weizman said of the latest bombing. "It is high time the world realized that Iran is one of the greatest enemies of European civilization."

The tiny Persian Gulf islandstate of Bahrain, which is connected to Dhahran in Saudi Arabia by an overseas causeway, blames Iran for instigating 18 months of unrest.

Iran denies the charges and says it has become a scapegoat for countries that can't solve their internal political problems.

Oil firms watching Russian vote closely

HOUSTON (AP) — With Russian voters poised to say "nyet" to a Communist as their next president, few observers are more relieved than those in the American oil industry.

Giants such as Exxon, Marathon and Conoco feared that Communist challenger Gennadi A. Zyuganov would spoil plans to invest billions in Russia's faltering oil industry. But the jitters aren't over yet.

If Yeltsin wins by a narrow margin in Wednesday's runoff election, his lack of a clear mandate could further muddle the lack of a clear policy on allowing foreign investment to reinvigorate Russia's exploration and development programs.

'Yeltsin has always had two faces, and the question is which face would he show and how and democracy; the other is more akin to the kind of closed, command economy Russia has had in the past, Sagers explained.

Some enormous deals are at stake. Russia has significant oil reserves but has lacked the technology or investment capital to unlock them.

But uncertainty has put dealmaking on hold for the past six months. About the only activity, experts say, has been in those areas where contractual requirements required pushing ahead, such as Exxon's plans to explore with a group in the Sakhalin Island area.

The holdup isn't entirely politlong would he show it," said ical. The Russian government

Matt Sagers, energy services has been slowly letting its "production sharing agreement" wind through the legislative process, a critical law for deter- op Sakhalin area fields where 1 mining how any oil riches will billion barrels of proven oil be divided up.

> The law was enacted in January 1995, but American oil companies and others around the world have been pressing for changes to address unanswered issues about taxation and other points.

Still, some major projects continue to progress.

The Sakhalin Islands area has attracted the most attention. Exxon, through its Exxon Neftegas subsidiary, has teamed with Russian and Japanese partners on what could become a $15 billion exploration and development project. Three offshore fields alone are believed to hold 2.5 billion barrels of oil.

Marathon, Shell and other partners received permission for a $10 billion project to develreserves reside.

And Mobil and Texaco are exploring the same region on a $150 million project.

Other companies, such as Exxon and Pennzoil, are involved in separate projects to develop oil fields in the Caspian Sea region of Azerbaijan, near Russia.

With so much at stake, political uncertainty is the last thing that investors want. But Zyuganov has come to epitomize it.

The Communist leader has tried to portray himself and his party as enlightened New Age successors to the harsh regimes that ruled Russia.

President calling for unity against terrorism

Lacronym standing for the wisdom of Solomon, the strength of Hercules, the stamina of Atlas, etc. Similarly, Bill Clinton, the composite president, embodies the buoyancy of Kennedy, the resilience of Truman ... and, just possibly, the paranoia of Nixon. Memories of Richard Nixon's "enemies list" certainly sprang to mind when the White House admitted obtaining about 400 FBI files, many on Republicans in past administrations – a collection that appalls the most lukewarm civil libertarian. Nixonian specters are hardly quieted by the discovery of a Clinton underling's computer disc containing FBI reports on up to 300 others. Heading the new roster are Brent Scowcroft and other members of George Bush's National Security Council.

Congressional committees are investigating like mad. The White House attributes the file acquisitions to honest boo-boos, claiming, for instance, that Anthony Marceca, who computerized the newly found files, was working off an outdated personnel list. But if Marceca did not know that the likes of Scowcroft had left government, he must have been a greenhorn indeed. In fact, Marceca is a veteran Democratic politico, active in the campaigns of Edmund Muskie and Jimmy Carter.

Like so much that comes from the Byzantine Clinton White House, "Filegate" is baffling. This is skullduggery without the skulls: If the aim of gathering information on political opponents was to discredit them, where are the victims? Perhaps the scandal really does emanate not from shadiness but shoddiness. Yet there is smoke. FBI agent M. Dennis Sculimbrene, reports The Washington Times, was asked on numerous occasions by top Clinton aides for information to sully the White House Travel Office - career employees who ultimately were smeared as thieves to make way for the Clintons' kith and kin. Sculimbrene didn't play ball. But if he's telling the truth, the will existed to use bureau files to undo "enemies." Vigorous investigations should continue into this shadowy affair. Congress may be short on Solomons, but one power the public should wish it is the illumination of Apollo.

OTHER VIEWS Danger in Saudi Arabia

On top of the horror of at east 19 lost American lives, the second terrorist bombing in Saudi Arabia in less than a year further signals that this nation so vitally important to U.S. interests has become increasingly less stable.

The importance can be summed up by a single conspicuous fact: One-fifth of American oil imports come from there. Should that source suddenly be lost, America would reel from an economy in turmoil.

Furtively at times, Saudi Arabia is also a U.S. ally in seeking Middle East peace, and affords the United States air bases, such as the one bombed near Dharan, for flights over Iraq. If Saudi Arabia should dissolve into mini-states, Iran and Iraq might attack, one expert warns, and global terrorism could be financed by the country's vast oil riches

Saudi Arabia — once aswarm with petrodollars and immune, it seemed, to terrorist violence from within — is unraveling for many reasons. A fast-growing population has contributed to 25 percent unemployment, for instance, and many Islamic fundamentalists hate the regime for the simple reason that it is friendly to the West, which has been employing increased military forces there since the 1991 Persian Gulf War. But a chiel reason is that the royal family is blatantly corrupt and is in the process of crippling the country's economy by reckless, wasteful spending and by taking literally billions of dollars for its own use and pleasure. King Fahd does not help resolve current uncertainties by hanging on to power despite a debilitating stroke.

While the personal behavior of many family members leaves them open to the charge of irreligion in a devout land, they employ police who sometimes make arrests for such religious offenses as improper dress, one author has observed. The regime is fiercely antidemocratic. Elections are not permitted anymore than free speech or freedom of assembly. Torture is not unknown in Saudi Arabia. President Clinton, who has vowed punishment of the terrorists who toppled a multi-story apartment building with perhaps 5,000 pounds of explosives in a truck, is right to dispatch an FBI team to assist in their capture. It is also more imperative than ever that he discreetly urge reforms to make that desert country less fertile for the sprouting of terrorists who commit such acts.

expanding its responsibilities are precisely how families have been weakened over the past decades. Although Republicans have contributed, the nanny state is the Democrats' creation, and nothing is more inimical to families than the nanny state

The nanny state requires a lot of money, and the safest assumption about a second Clinton term is a rising tax burden. It is the only politics President Clinton knows, as a newly published study from the Arkansas Policy Foundation shows.

Sometimes, I say things I don't really mean. Or rather, I mean them for the moment, in the heat of emotion, but not for the long run in the cooler light of truth.

What does that mean? It means I often end up wishing l could take back what I just said, sometimes before I even finish saying it.

Lucky for me, nobody takes me seriously. At least, no one in my family. Or so I've always felt.

When I was little, my mother used to laugh when I threatened to go live with my dad. We both knew I'd never leave. If I did, who'd look out for her and my brothers?

Cub Scouts Day Camp July 16-19

Cubs Day Camp promises to be fun for area boys. "Cubs Naturally" is this year's theme for the camp at Hughes Aquatic Base July 16-19.

The four-day camp will give the youngsters a chance to earn achievements, sing songs, shoot archery and BB guns, run an obstacle course, play games, participate in water activities and much more. The hours are 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and 1-9:30 p.m. on Friday.

According to Eunice Thixton, camp director, transportation from Big Spring, Snyder and Colorado City will be provided to and from the camp that Tuesday through Friday. Staff training is

There isn't a charge for leaders or their non-Cub children except a $7 fee for a T shirt if they want one. A staff volunteer is allowed a discount of $2.50 per day off their son's camp fee.

Pictures will be taken on Wednesday and there will be a family supper and closing campfire that Friday night. Cubs, their adult partners and families are welcome to spend the night at the camp.

The deadline for registration is Monday, July 1 and the fee is $30 if paid on time. There is an additional late charge of $5 per cub after the July 1 deadline. The cub camp is for boys who will be in the second through fifth grade for the 1996-97 school year. If the boy isn't a Cub Scout already, now is a good time to join.

Car reviewers don't like the smooth roads

EAST HADDAM, Conn. (AP) — The folks who test new cars for Consumer Reports magazine have a big problem with roads in central Connecticut they're too darn smooth.

Now Consumers Union is looking to build a teeth-rattling ride, complete with wicked turns, dependably large potholes and other bone-crushing impediments to comfort.

And they plan to spend $600,000 to make sure it stays that way.

Consumers Union already has two smooth tracks on its property, which it uses to test acceleration, braking and the like.

In the past, nearby bumpy roads served for suspension, steering and shocks testing. But not anymore.

"They're making the roads all around us better and better, and that's a problem," manager Alan Hanks said Monday after the organization requested a zoning variance for the 12,000-foot road.

With the change, 121 of Gerber's 190 products won't contain starch or sugar, giving it the widest variety of baby food without the additives. Some foods for older children will retain starch and sugar; Gerber foods for the youngest babies have never contained the additives.

Gerber Products Co., one of the nation's oldest baby-food processors, developed recipes that not only cut out the unwanted ingredients but "met our high taste and nutrition standards," said Tracy Baker, director of product development. The change will take place over the next six months.

Research shows a growing number of parents want foods for their babies that don't contain the additives, Gerber spokesman Van Hindes said.

Flashbacks from Brenda Lee to Paul McCartney

By Associated Press

Entertainment highlights during the week of June 27-July 3:

40 years ago: Singer Brenda Lee signed a record deal with Decca Records. Not yet 12 years old, Decca promoted her as "Little Miss Brenda Lee," highlighting her young age and diminutive size. And the feature film, "The King and I," starring Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr, premiered at the Roxy and at Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood, Calif.

30 years ago: Frank Sinatra's Strangers In The Night" hit the top of the charts. It was the first No. 1 hit for Sinatra since 1955

25 years ago: MGM's "Shaft" a breakthrough commercial crime film with a black hero opened in New York City. The film, directed by Gordon Parks, starred Richard Roundtree. Isaac Hayes' recording of "Theme from Shaft" became a announced the closing of his back in the feature film rock auditorium, The Fillmore East, in New York City.

20 years ago: Queen Elizabeth of Britain made actor Bob Hope an honorary Commander of the British Empire.

10 years ago: A sellout crowd of 75,000 jammed west London's Wembley Stadium for the farewell concert of the rock group Wham! The concert featured a guest appearance by Elton John. Tickets sold for $20. And concert promoter Bill Graham opened a new venture, the Shoreline Amphitheater, in Mountain View, Calif. A welldressed crowd of some 13,000 people turned out to hear international pop star Julio Iglesias.

Five years ago: Paul McCartney's first classical work, a 96-minute, eight-movement "Liverpool Oratorio," premiered at Liverpool Cathedral. Tree ring analysis could rewrite history

NEW YORK (AP) - Scientists the region, she said. say they have found a way to precisely date ancient wood from the eastern Mediterranean, a technique that could rewrite the history of the Greeks, the Egyptians and other civilizations.

Among other things, the technique - a 1,503-year guide to tree-ring patterns - moves back by about a century the start of the Aegean Late Bronze Age, when the Minoans were at their most powerful on the island of Crete.

The work was reported in Thursday's issue of the journal Nature by researchers including Peter Kuniholm of Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., and Sturt Manning of the University of Reading in England.

They said they can provide chopped down between 2220

And the greater precision on historical dates will clarify understanding of social and political changes within civilizations, she said.

The researchers immediately dated some 22 ancient sites, including a huge mound in Turkey that may be the tomb of King Midas. Timbers from a structure inside the mound that Manning called the oldest standing wooden building in the world were from trees cut down in 718 B.C., the researcher said.

Similarly, wood found in a shipwreck that contained a gold scarab inscribed with Egyptian queen Nefertiti's name can now be dated to 1316 climate changes. If a particular B.C., he said. Justin's mission: Get 'em back in the saddle

It is an accepted part of a rodeo cowboy's life that, sooner or later, you're going to injured.

Fortunately for them, however, another accepted part of their lives is that the Justin sports medicine trailer is usually close by.

The program, which has been helping rodeo cowboys get back in the saddle for more than a decade, has once again set up shop at the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

A three-man crew – program manager Dave Lammers, Bill Ziegler and Howard College athletic trainer Everett Blackb' rn - spent a quiet first day at the rodeo, with nothing more serious to attend to than an ankle taping or two.

While none of the men hope things change, they're ready should the situation arise.

Ziegler has a unique perspective on his job. After spending 22 years as a trainer for the Texas Rangers pro baseball team, he joined Justin full-time in 1991. He said the difference in attitudes between rodeo cowboys and other professional athletes is notable

"Unlike some professional athletes, cowboys are not spoiled," Ziegler said. "These men are just very special guys. To do what they do and not make more money than they do is special.'

Ziegler and his comrades must be prepared for a variety of injuries, which is not surprising considering the danger inherent in riding bucking animals.

"You can't say there's one type of injury that's more common than another, because the potential for injury is so great," Ziegler said. "And even if you're not injured, you're still going to be stiff and sore from the event. You're going to be sore and you're going to be hurt."

·* nd

Lammers, who was born in Big Spring, said the group's mission goes beyond just treating injured cowboys and cowgirls.

"We educate them about their injury," Lammers said. "We feel that a lot of knowledge is a good thing.

"We've been told ... that what might have been a 4-5-year career in roughstock events might be 8-9 years now (because of education)," Lammers added.

Red Sox finally down Cleveland

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox waited so long to beat the Cleveland Indians, they didn't mind how long it took to stop them.

In other games, Minnesota defeated New York 2-1, Texas beat Baltimore 6-5, Toronto stopped Seattle 6-5 and Kansas City downed Milwaukee 7-3.

Boston lost 17 in a row to Minnesota in 1965-66. The major league record for consecutive wins by one team over another is 23, set by Baltimore against Kansas City in 1969-70.

Pinch-runner Pat Meares decided not to again challenge the arm of right fielder Paul O'Neill, and New York won at the Metrodome.

Minnesota put runners on first and third with one out in the ninth inning against reliever John Wetteland. Chuck Knoblauch followed with a fly ball to medium right, and pinch-runner Meares held at third, prompting boos from the home crowd. Jeff Reboulet then struck out to end the game.

The first shock was Brett Butler having cancer. Then Tommy Lasorda had a heart attack, and the Los Angeles Dodgers have to find a way to keep themselves in first place.

With their manager recovering in a hospital after undergoing an angioplasty to repair an artery in his heart, the Dodgers lost 6-4 to Chicago on Wednesday night, their second straight defeat under interim manager Bill Russell.

Eric Karros hit his 14th home run and Todd Hollandsworth had two RBI singles for the Dodgers, who learned of Lasorda's condition a few hours before the game during a closed-door meeting with general manager Fred Claire and team doctor Michael Mellman. Also briefing them were two doctors from Centinela Hospital.

that Tommy would have a heart attack. It was the same thing with Brett Butler. We thought it was something minor, and then we find out he had cancer.'

The 68-year-old Lasorda is expected to be hospitalized for several days. It is uncertain how long he will be away from the Dodgers.

Cubs manager Jim Riggleman, who managed against Russell in the Pacific Coast League in 1992, said the Dodgers are in good hands. "Bill Russell's a good manager," Riggleman said. "He's a no-nonsense type guy, and I admire those kind of people. I know he'll have those guys doing everything they're supposed to be doing until Tommy gets back.'

Wall won his fifth straight start since being recalled from Tucson of the Pacific Coast League on May 14. The rookie right-hander matched the best start by an Astros pitcher since Mike Scott went 6-0 in 1988.

After a shaky first three inning Wall allowed only two baserunners in the next five innings. But he faltered in the ninth, allowing Ken Caminiti's two-run homer with no outs. Billy Wagner relieved to get his second save.

The Astros, winners in all nine of Wall's starts this season, remained on top of the NL Central by one-half game over St. Louis. The Padres fell to .500 (39-39) and saw star right fielder Tony Gwynn leave the

Youngsters and foreign-born players dominate NBA draft

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The faces were younger than ever, the names were more difficult to pronounce ing proficiency, became the and the expected flurry of first guard drafted No. 1 since trades turned into a shocker Magic Johnson was picked by here, a yawner there.

Allen Iverson was the first overall pick in the NBA draft Wednesday night, going to the Philadelphia 76ers. After that, a trade of Stephon Marbury for Ray Allen and the procession of youngsters and foreign-born players to the podium dominated the event.

A record six foreign-born players were taken in the first round, triple the previous mark. The Cleveland Cavaliers grabbed two of them, forward Vitaly Potapenko of Wright State and center Zydrunas Ilgauskas of Lithuania, as they looked like one of the night's big winners.

The others were the New York Knicks, who selected John Wallace of Syracuse after he dropped surprisingly to No. 18, and the Charlotte Hornets, who picked 17-year-old Kobe Bryant of Lower Merion High School outside of Philadelphia and Tony Delk of NCAA champion Kentucky.

Of the 36 eligible underclassmen, five teenagers were taken in the top 14; the first seven picks were underclassmen; two of the top 17 were high schoolers; and 17 of the 29 firstrounders were underclassmen - seven more than the old record.

The Sixers got the player they wanted, as did the Toronto Raptors (Marcus Camby) and Vancouver Grizzlies (Shareef Abdur-Rahim) with the second and third picks, respectively.

Milwaukee and Minnesota had the biggest trade of the night, swapping the fourth and fifth picks, Marbury and Allen. The Timberwolves also sent a first-round pick in 1999 or 2000 to the Bucks to get Marbury.

"I'm going to play every game like it's my last, and think the fans will respect that," Iverson said. "I can do a lot for this team, and I hope I'm the missing piece of the puzzle.

There had been speculation that Philadelphia would pick Marbury or trade the pick General manager Brad Greenberg almost swapped picks with Vancouver, but he backed out late in negotiations.

"It a very easy decision," Greenberg said. "Allen Iverson is the most exciting player in college basketball, and after a lot of research and investigations, it was very, very clear to us that the most talented player was Iverson."

Toronto general manager Isiah Thomas flirted with the idea of choosing 19-year-old Abdur-Rahim, but he decided on Camby, the consensus college player of the year at Massachusetts.

"Isiah showed me that he's a man of his word," said Camby who was told two weeks ago before Abdur-Rahim re-entered the draft — that he would be picked second overall.

The Grizzlies, who wanted Abdur-Rahim badly, got him with the third pick. The 6-foot-10 forward from California, who changed his mind twice regarding whether he'd enter the draft, was the first freshman selected player of the year in the Pac-10.

Seles not the same old intimidating player she was WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Whether it's lack of match play, a sore shoulder or simply a slump, Monica Seles is not the intimidating player she used to be.

The shot-making, ruthlessness and killer instinct that once were Seles' trademarks were all missing Wednesday as she suffered her earliest defeat in 18 Grand Slam tournaments. The second-seeded Seles bowed out 7-5, 5-7, 6-4 in the second round to Katarina Studenikova of Slovakia - the same player she swept 6-1, 6-1 at the Australian Open in January.

"I don't know about the other players, but I'm not afraid of her,'' the 59th-ranked Studenikova said.

Seles, normally the player who dictates the points, was almost always on the defensive. Instead of attacking and taking risks, she played safe on key points. And, maybe most surprising of all, she blew a 4-2 lead in the decisive set.

"I just felt I wasn't going for my shots," Seles said. "I was the French Open earlier this month when she lost meekly in straight sets in the quarterfinals to Jana Novotna. "It just comes down to close points," she said. "I have to go for them like I did before, really fiercely, and that's not what I'm doing right now.'

In early play today, No. 8 Lindsay Davenport became the fourth women's seed eliminated when she lost 6-3, 6-2 in the second round to Latvian doubles specialist Larisa Neiland.

It was Davenport's earliest defeat in four appearances at Wimbledon. She was a quarterfinalist in 1994.

Sixth-seeded Jana Novotna advanced to the third round with a 7-6 (7-4), 6-3 win over Laurence Courtois, and No. 16 over British wild card Rachel Viollet.

Top-seeded defending champion Steffi Graf was paired against Nathalie Baudone of Italy, while No. 3 Conchita Martinez played Lisa Raymond.

Top-seeded Pete Sampras faced a demanding Centre Court test against Mark Philippoussis, the 6-foot-4 Australian who beat him in straight sets in the third round of the Australian Open in January

Other men's seeds in action included No. 4 Goran Ivanisevic, No. 10 Michael Stich and No. 12 Stefan Edberg. With six of the top 10 men's seeds already out, the draw has opened up nicely for No. 2 Boris Becker. The former threetime champion won't have to face a seed until the semifinals, where his highest seeded opponent would be No. 11 Wayne Ferreira.

"It's a tournament where you always have big surprises and upsets in the first week because it's just so different from any Martina Hingis won 6-1, 6-1 other tournament," Becker said.

Seles was playing Wimbledon for the first time since 1992. when she lost in the final to Graf. She was absent for three years after being stabbed in 1993

After winning the Australian Open in January, Seles was sidelined for nearly four months with a tear in the socket of her left shoulder. Some rustiness showed Wednesday.

"Obviously I don't think the consistency of my game is there, because I can play great some matches and play terribly some matches," she said. "I'm not too happy with the way I've been playing, but I just have to reassess where I made the mistakes and try to learn from them and just go on. I mean, that's all I can do.

Seles is still entered in the women's doubles with Betsy Nagelsen. After Wimbledon, she plans to play in the Fed Cup against Japan, the Olympics in Atlanta and the U.S. Open.

'Bam' Morris hopes guilty plea shows his remorse

ROCKWALL (AP) back Bam Morris hopes that pleading guilty to a felony marijuana charge will persuade NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue of his client's remorse, Morris' lawyer said.

"I think it's going to weigh favorably for Bam that he hasn't contested his mistake and he's admitted to it all along." Dallas lawyer Jay Ethington told The Associated Press Wednesday after his client agreed to a plea bargain with Rockwall County District Attorney Ray Sumrow.

"He's been very respectful of the system and demonstrated that he's remorseful.' Morris pleaded guilty to the charge on Wednesday in greater offense, so we were exchange for prosecutors' rec-

Eastern U.S. Gets Cicadas HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) After 17 years in hiding, millions of tiny creatures with bulging orange eyes are digging their way out of the ground from Connecticut to North Carolina.

The 17-year cicadas are back. The 1)-inch-long black bugs with iridescent wings have the longest lifespan of any insect but only live above ground as adults for 2) weeks before they die. This Eastern group or brood was last sighted in 1979; other populations appear in different years.

"There is nothing else to approach that in the entire entomological world," Yale University entomologist Charles Remington said Monday while surveying the return of the bugs at Connecticut's aptly named Sleeping Giant State Park. "They'll all be dead by the end of June.

Found only in the United States east of the Great Plains, 17-year periodical cicadas tunnel into the ground after hatching, some digging as deeply as 8 feet. Beneath the surface, the nymphs slowly suck the sap from tree roots for nourishment.

After 17 years, they burrow to the surface and climb trees and shrubs. There, they shed their crunchy skins and harden into maturity. They never eat while above ground; they are too busy reproducing.

The adult males begin the mating ritual by emitting a whining song that attracts the females. The chorus from one colony's male insects is so loud that it can drown out the sound of a lawn mower.

Once the bugs mate, the females cut slits into tree branches, where they deposit 400 to 600 eggs. The adults quickly die, but the eggs hatch in a few weeks and the young drop to the ground. The young cicadas dig below the surface and begin the cycle again. The emergence of the Connecticut cicadas will be a boon for robins and other birds, which often gorge on the creatures that Remington describes as "the tastiest insects in the world.'

So tasty, in fact, that Remington and his colleagues are planning to partake. He has created a stir-fry recipe for the rare insects, which are a delicacv in central Japan. Remington recommends boiling the newly hatched adults while they are still soft.

While being eaten by people is not the biggest threat to the cicada, man is the chief threat to the species, Remington said. Housing developments and shopping malls threaten to destroy the cicada habitat.

Use the information from the story to answer the following questions:

1. Why is there so much interest in the Eastern United States cicadas (sih-KAYduhs) this year?

2. Where is Hamden's cicada colony located?

3. Why do you think that Yale University entomologist Charles Remington is so excited about the surfacing bugs? 4. What do cicadas look like?

5. How does the insect's outer covering change after it emerges (comes out) from the ground?

6. Describe the noise made by the adult male cicadas

7. Once above the ground, the rare creatures live for only 2, weeks. What do the females do during this time?

8. What do the young cicadas do after hatching? What do the nymphs (underground cicadas) feed on?

9. No one knows for sure why the periodical cicadas leave their hiding places after 17 years. What would be your guess? 10. Would you be interested in tasting stir-fried cicadas? Tell why or not.

Answer key: (Wording may vary).

1. This year there is special interest in the cicadas because they are emerging from the ground after hiding for 17 years. 2. Hamden's cicada colony is located in Sleeping Giant State Park.

3. Answers will vary.

4. Cicadas are 1-inch-long black bugs. They have bulging orange eyes and irides-

5. After the bug surfaces, it sheds its crunchy skin and its body hardens. 6. Male cicadas attract the female by making a whining song that can be louder than the sound of a lawn mower.

7. During their short adult lives, the female cicades lay 400 to 600 eggs in the branches of trees. 8. After the young insects hatch, they fall to the ground and tunnel under the surface. The nymphs eat sap from tree roots. 9. Answers will vary.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 28:

Tests and challenges arise during the year in your career and with authority figure's. Look within to find answers and to discover what is going on inside you. Coming to terms with a personal issue could reduce some of this pressure. Finances, especially joint funds, have a roller-coaster effect. Supervise money dealing: yourself. Take nothing for granted this year. If you are single, a special person comes into your life. Be aware of a tendency to glamorize the object of your affections. You might deceive yourself if you are not careful. If attached, give and receive more nurturing in this relationship. SAGIT-TARIUS works well with you. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Muster up your strength to endure a sense of malaise this morning. You have much to do. Important calls bring good news involving a contract and the use of your talents. Emphasize ingenuity, and you'll make headway. Tonight: Escape to higher ground. ****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Close relating opens new doors that prove exciting and valuable for the future. It helps to understand the motivation when another rains on your parade. Clear the air with this person. A new set of possibilities emerge. Tonight: Take off.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) No one but you can provide answers to a fiscal dilemma that can dramatically alter your finances. Face the music, slow down and revise your course. Popularity is peaking and helps you forget a hassle. Let your witty side emerge. Tonight: Go where the action is. ****

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are definitely out of whack, so prioritize. There is no way around what needs to be done. You might as well get going and clear your desk. After all, this is Friday. Give Center yourself, and get to the bottom of nebulous feelings. A disagreement is important; it forces you to outline your boundaries. Stay in touch with your desires. Play things cool, and take mental notes. Check out an investment with care. Tonight: Nestle at home. ****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Redirect your energy. Face up to another and the truth. Tackle what could be a testy situation. If there is going to be any resolution, be understanding and work with the facts. A loved one surprises you with his actions. Tonight: Accept an invitation out. ****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Pressure is intense. You don't feel up to snuff or willing to put in the effort. Acknowledge where you are coming from, and just call in sick. A personal matter may be eating at you far more than you are aware. Replenish your energy source. Tonight: Do something for yourself. **

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You can turn what appears to be a disappointment to your advantage. Creativity may be suppressed as you look for solutions. Relax. A flirtation perks you up. Allow space for spontaneity. Tonight: Let things get out of control. ****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Go within for an answer. Your home life can be a source of depression, and you feel the need for a change. Listen carefully to your intuition. Worry less about an expenditure for now; it may open the door to greater freedom. Tonight: Get a good night's sleep. ***

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your unpredictability is detrimental to your work. Thoroughly evaluate an avenue before responding. Explaining your perspective will help others understand you. You are changing and so are your goals, friends and direction. Tonight: You'll like it if you go out. ****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Money pressure is high. Pull back, and make an important decision. Recognize limitations. and review ways of cutting expenditures and increasing your earning ability.
