Last day to register for election is Oct. 6

By CARLTON JOHNSON

Local voters have 47 days until hea iing to the polls to elect or re-elect local, state and national officials, but the work has already begun for Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray's office. Ray's office will begin mailing out ballots Saturday to voters who request them and will continue through Oct. 29 for voters who plan to cast ballots by mail in the Nov. 5 general election. Early voting begins Oct. 16 and continues through Nov. 1 and anyone wanting to vote in the general election but has yet to register have until Oct. 6 or 30 days before the actual election to get registered.

According to the voter registration office and Ray's office, Howard County voters tend to turn out for general elec-

As of Tuesday afternoon, 17,592 people were registered to vote in Howard County compared to 15,562 just prior to the 1992 general election.

Local officials say national voter registration laws have changed the way counties handle suspense voters (voters who have moved, but have not left forwarding or updated address). Counties no longer delete these voters.

The increase in registered voters is sort of misleading, according to local voter registration officials because of the change in voter registration laws.

In the 1992 general election, 11,149 Howard County voters cast ballots. In the 1990 and 1994 gubernatorial races 388 and 8.280 ballots were cast in Howard County.

Early voting in the general election will be at Ray's office in the Howard County Courthouse from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the early voting period. Ray's office said there will also be branch polling at Canterbury North and Canterbury South on Oct. 22 and

Chamber puts page on Internet

Finding out what Big Spring is all about is as easy as typing in an address an Internet address.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and the Convention and Visitors Bureau is now on the Internet.

Historical information about Big Spring and Howard County, along with listings of motel accommodations, restaurants, attractions and events can be discovered on the chamber's Web page. The address is http://www.xroadstx.com/users/bscc/bigspringtx.html.

The Web page was constructed by Big Spring resident Paul Nabors, as a contribution to the chamber, and was assisted by Shirley Lee.

Mel Prather donated the pictures for the page and Crossroads Communications, Big Spring's Internet access provider, donated the space. The chamber urges anyone interested in linking their business or activities on the Web page to contact Nabors at 267-3014. "I think our technology is going to this type of outlet and Big Spring will lose out if we don't take advantage of the opportunity present by Paul Nabors," chamber Executive Vice President Linda Walker said. "Tourism wise, we must be on the Internet so people will look at Big Spring as a vacation spot," Walker added.

New tax rate just a reading from official

By CARLTON JOHNSON Staff Writer

All that remains is a second reading of the ordinance unanimously passed Tuesday afternoon by the Big Spring City Council and the city will have a new tax rate of 61 cents per $100 valuation.

"We're very proud of the fact that the tax base has grown and is allowing us to drop the tax rate from 65 cents per $100 valuation to 61 cents per $100 valuation," City Manager Gary Fuqua said."This shows that we have a healthy economy."

Two readings of the ordinance are required by law before a new tax rate can be adopted. The next reading will come at the council's Sept. 24 meeting.

Big Spring's tax rate history shows the council's decision to lower the tax rate to 61 cents per $100 valuation is the fourth tax decrease since the tax rate increased from $0.5769 cents per $100 valuation to $0.671 cents per $100 valuation for the 1991-92 fiscal year. The city's certified total taxable value for 1996 increased from last year's $349.7 million and a tax rate of 65 cents to $406.9 million and a tax rate of 61 cents.

In 1993, the city's assessed value was $320.8 million with a tax rate of 65.5 cents per $100 valuation; $308.4 million with a tax rate of $0.6609 per $100 valu-ation in 1992; and $296.3 million with a tax rate of $0.671 per $100 valuation in 1991.

The council also gave unanimous approval to St. Paul Lutheran Church to close a block of Scurry Street between Eighth and Ninth from 12 p.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday to have its church carnival.

Police ponder dumpster's booty

Break-in probed; Woman slightly hurt in accident

It's amazing what you can find these days in trash dump-

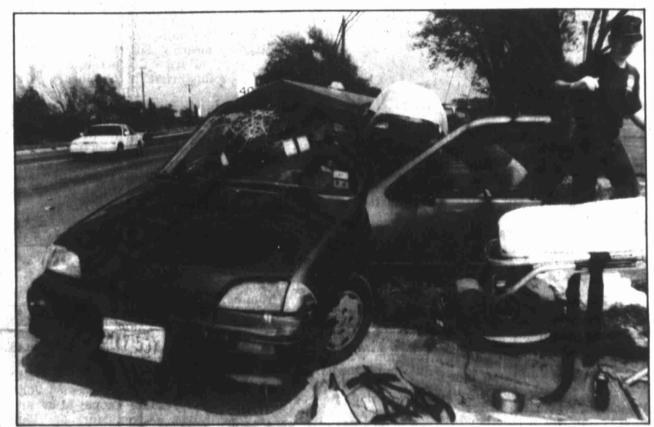

A Big Spring resident rooting through a trash dumpster Scurry Street behind Wednesday found more than just some aluminum cans. The person found enough, material to start his or her own band or go hunting, for that matter.

Big Spring police responding to the dumpster recovered a shotgun and several musical instruments they suspect may have been discarded by a thief.

"Someone was walking in the alley behind the 1800 block of Scurry, looking through the dumpster, when they found the items," Police Sgt. Victor Brake

The shotgun is a 12-guage break-over weapon that Brake described as being in a state of disrepair. In addition, police recovered a guitar, two amplifiers and a snare drum with Police are not sure if the recovered items are connected to any local burglaries. In fact, they're not even sure that the items were stolen. But they are checking through records and with surrounding police agencies to make sure.

Rescue team members work to get 31-year-id Linda Marshall out of her wrecked automobile Wednesday afternoon following a collision with a pickup truck. She was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical center where she was treated and released.

"We're still checking," Brake said today. "We haven't found anything local, so what we'll do is put the information out on the teletype and see if anything comes back."

On a more serious note, police are investigating a burglary that occured sometime Tuesday or Wednesday at Faye's Flowers in the 1000 block of Gregg Street.

Brake said that the break-in was the result of a forced entry and resulted in the loss of an unspecified amount of money. No other property was stolen, although Brake said there was damage to the building as a result of the crime.

Also Wednesday, a two-vehicle accident on Wasson Roadresulted in a local woman being transported to a local hospital.

According to police records, an automobile driven by Linda Marshall collided with a pickup truck driven by John Swinney at about 2:15 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Wasson Road and Parkway Street.

The report states that Marshall, who was westbound on Wasson Road, attempted to turn left onto Parkway Street. but was struck by Swinney's vehicle.

Marshall was transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, where she was treated and released. Brake said Marshall was to be cited for failure to yield right of way.

Competition dancing, which will bring competitors from as far away as Canada, will take place on Saturday, Oct. 26, and Sunday, Oct. 27. This part of the program will allow spectators the opportunity to continue their education of the heritage history of Native Americans.

Another piece of that history includes Comanche Chief Quannah Parker, who was born near Big Spring.

The Inter-Tribal Gathering will continue to recognize the Native American, give tribute and recognize all Native Tribes of the Americas; provide Native Americans the opportunity to participate, practice, teach and exchange tribal traditions among each other; promote the traditions and culture of the Native American in a positive manner; and enlighten the public about the history and culture of America's first inhabi-

Convicted killer Gonzales gets speedy execution HUNTSVILLE — Convicted killer Joe Gonzales has gotten his

Just 10 months after he pleaded with an Amarillo jury to sentence him to death for killing his ex-boss, the 36-year-old roofer Wednesday evening was strapped to the Texas death chamber gurney and received lethal injection.

The execution made Gonzales the speediest condemned killer to die in Texas since the state resumed carrying out the death penalty in 1982. It was the quickest in the nation since Gary Gilmore in 1977 ordered appeals stopped and went before a firing squad in Utah just three months after he was convicted of a pair of shooting deaths in that state.

Gonzales had nothing to say in the death chamber, but released a brief handwritten statement read by Amarillo attorney Kent Birdsong following the execution.

"There are people all over the world who face things worse than death on a daily basis and in that sense I consider myself lucky," he said. "I cannot find the words to express the sadness I feel for bringing this hurt and pain on my loved ones.

Comptroller assures 'Whitehead' checks still good AUSTIN — The state treasurer may be gone, but she's not yet

Texas Comptroller John Sharp is reassuring bankers, grocers and others that the state government checks they are receiving are good — even though they carry the X-ed out signature of former Treasurer Martha Whitehead.

Printed above Mrs. Whitehead's crossed out signature on thousands of state checks being mailed out is this notation: "Office of treasurer abolished by voters eff(ective) 9-1-96."

Mrs. Whitehead became the last Texas treasurer after campaigning to abolish her 150-year-old agency and merge it with the comptroller's office. The merger was completed on Sept. 1.

Despite the row of Xs, Sharp said there's nothing wrong with the checks, which officially are known as state warrants and also bear Sharp's signature.

Heavy rains, storms batter much of state

WACO — Flash flooding and violent storms ripped through Texas, causing flash flooding that left a Waco boy in critical condition and threatened a dam in the Panhandle.

Police said Carlton A. Steele, 13, fell into rain-swollen Waco Creek about 4 p.m. while playing with several other children near a bridge in the northern part of the city. About an hour later, three civilian rescuers found and pulled the boy from the water. The boy was listed in "very critical" condition today at Hillcrest Baptist Medical Center in Waco.

Also in Waco, the roof of the Mid-State Beverage Inc. beer distributorship downtown collapsed. No one was injured in the incident, police said. A possible tornado damaged barns and trees east of Temple but injured no one.

However, the issue of whether Assistant Surgeons of Texas Inc. and 17 employees accused in a Sept. 5 lawsuit of misleading insurers and patients won't be settled until the case comes to trial on Jan. 13. The practice of using surgical assistants is legal. But only one state, New York, offers state certification. In the Texas case, Attorney General Dan Morales accused the company of misleading consumers and insurance companies into believing they were doctors by billing at doctor's rates.

Poll: Clinton, Dole in dead heat in Texas

AUSTIN (AP) - President Clinton and Republican presidential nominee Bob Dole are in a precise dead heat in the race to carry Texas in the Nov. 5 elections, according to the Texas Poll published today.

Clinton and Dole each drew the support of 41 percent of the 820 likely Texas voters questioned Sept. 3-13. Reform Party nominee Ross Perot was supported by 8 percent of those surveyed, and the other 10 percent were undecided.

The Texas Poll was conducted Harte-Hanks Communications and other Texas news outlets by the Office of Survey Research at the University of Texas at Austin.

The poll has a margin of error of 3.5 percentage points.

The results show little change from a Texas Poll conducted in June. That survey showed Clinton and Dole in a statistical tie considering the margin of error, with Dole at 39 percent, Clinton 37 percent and Perot 11

Last week, a survey conducted by Mason-Dixon Political-Media Research Inc. showed Dole leading in Texas with 49 percent to 38 percent for Clinton and 5 percent for Perot. The survey conducted Sept. 6-8 had a margin of error of 3.5 percent. Yet another poll conducted Sept. 2-5 for the Houston Chronicle and Dallas Morning News indicated a statistical tie, with Dole at 44 percent, Clinton 41 percent, Perot 4 percent and the same margin of error.

"The trend is in our direction," Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bill White said. "President Clinton struggled in Texas early in his presidency, and he has been gaining momentum over the last 18 months.'

Tom Pauken, the Texas Republican Party chairman, said the truth about Dole's support probably rests somewhere between the polling results, with the Republican leading by about five percentage points.

"Bob Dole has a lead in Texas and he is going to carry Texas," Pauken said. "There is still a strong anti-Clinton sentiment out there — the recognition that Bill Clinton is a liberal and the concerns that most Texas voters have about his character prob-

If Corpus Christi is successful, it would be the first major city, other than Austin, to take its drinking water from the lower portions of the river.

Some fear it would set a precedent for other water-strapped cities to tap into the Colorado.

and neglect of America's children nearly doubled between 1986 and 1993, suggesting that the nation's child protective services system has reached its capacity, a federal study says.

The study, issued Wednesday by the Department of Health and Human Services, said the estimated number of children abused and neglected rose to 2.81 million in 1993 — up from 1.42 million in 1986 when the last report was published. The number of seriously injured children quadrupled during the period, thereperbaid.a nea The study also found:

Soldiers ship out for Middle East

Politicians and much of the public view the deployment of about 3,000 troops from Fort Hood to the Persian Gulf as a show of force against Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein. Staff Sgt. Kenneth Lang says he and his comrades in uniform see it simply as better training.

"It's a lot more fun. You get to train with other people and dif-ferent equipment," said Lang, of Houston. "You're going over there to do everything you can, and we have been trained for that.'

But even as, group by group, the troops from 3rd Brigade of the 1st Cavalry Division continue to board planes for Kuwait, some of the soldiers' family members worry.

"Everything going on over there scares me real bad," said Rebecca Phillips after she said goodbye to her husband, Pfc. Fred Phillips.

About 300 troops lifted off at 3:50 a.m. today from Fort Hood's Gray Army Air Field, said Sgt. Greg Hickerson, a Fort Hood spokesman. It was the first of three flights scheduled to depart from Fort Hood for Kuwait today. The second flight was scheduled for 7:05 a.m.; the third at 2:45 p.m., according to Army officials.

The troops from the 1st Cavalry's 3rd Brigade are joining 1,200 Fort Hood soldiers who arrived in Kuwait last month. The additional troops were first alerted to prepare for deployment Friday and received their final orders Tuesday.

Phillips said he spent the last few days before his first overseas mission getting family business in order so that his wife has less to deal with.

"I'll still worry about her," he Phillips said he, too, sees the mission as nothing more than training.

"I can't look at it any different," he said. "It's just a longer plane flight.'

'All I know is it's going to be a long ride," said Pvt. Arturo Castellano as he prepared to board a chartered commercial jet, one of the first 219 soldiers aboard the first flight to leave Wednesday for Kuwait.

Castellano, of San Antonio, has gone from basic training to a major overseas mission in his first six months with the Army. He added that he wasn't worried about his inexperience and looked forward to "getting some good training.'

Troops will gather equipment and vehicles in storage in Kuwait and begin their training immediately, said Maj. Gen. Leon LaPort, commanding officer for the 1st Cavalry.

Astronaut greets Atlantis crew with bread, salt

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Ecstatic to be going home after a record six months in orbit, a beaming Shannon Lucid today threw her arms around Atlantis astronauts who docked "her limousine" with the Russian space station Mir.

The first to reach Lucid after the hatches opened was John Blaha, her replacement on the orbiting outpost. They embraced, then floated off into Mir, chatting practically non-

None of the greetings was heard on Earth, however, because of problems with the communications system. Although Russian space officials were able to get through to congratulate the nine space travelers, NASA Administrator Daniel Goldin was left hanging on the phone in Cleveland because of the snags.

Lucid, who's spent more time in space than any American and any woman anywhere, gig-gled and squeezed her col-leagues as they floated into Mir. She also extended a tray with packets of bread and salt, a traditional Russian welcome

The shuttle astronauts tasted some other Russian cuisine — a yellow, mushy food in cans. Flashbulbs went off repeatedly.

After all the fun, the seven astronauts and two cosmonauts got down to business, moving Blaha's gear from Atlantis into Mir, and Lucid's belongings in the opposite direction. Blaha officially joined the Mir crew, while Lucid became an Atlantis astronaut.

"Please tell her welcome back. or welcome to her limousine home," Mission Control told the shuttle crew.

Atlantis docked at 11:13 p.m. EDT Wednesday about 240 miles above the Carpathian Mountains of Eastern Europe. Lucid waited in Mir's docking tunnel before the hatch finally swung open 2) hours later.

Friday's home opener means fill the stands to show Steers support

It's September. It's the end of the week. It's the season home football opener. It's time for you to support our Big Spring Steers.

But before you head out to Memorial Stadium Friday night, mosey on over to the high school cafeteria for the 37th annual Big Spring Evening Lions Club barbecue supper.

The feed starts at 5 p.m. and continues until 7:30 - and because you can get plates to go, you can stop by, grab your meal and head on over to the stadium to cheer the Steers on to victory over Lubbock Estacado.

One thing to remember, though, is that it's not just the football team we're supporting - it is the school that carries the name of our community. Cheer along with the cheerleaders, enjoy the music of the Steer Band and watch as the Pep Squad goes through its routines.

There's the drill team, the flag corps and so much more that we need to remember.

Yes, we go out to the stadium every Friday night to watch the football game, but there are so many who have worked to prepare for Friday night - for there is only one home opener.

Remember their hard work and let them know you appreciate their efforts ... after all, every time this rather large group of young men and women take to the road, they carry our name proudly across their chests. Enjoy the barbecue, enjoy the music and savor the victory Friday night at Memorial Stadium!

OTHER VIEWS

Let's skip the eulogistic stage in considering the life of Spiro Agnew, who died this week at the age of 77. His politics were mean-spirited, he apparently never met a bribe he didn't take and he didn't even have the good grace to apologize after he finally got caught and was forced to resign from the vice presidency in 1973.

Agnew was a successful county executive in Maryland before being elected governor over a segregationist. Considered a "progressive" in the first year of his term, he was merely angry in his second. He went beyond standing firmly for law and order, which would have been perfectly defensible during that period of disruption. Instead, he wiced virulent opposition to all forms of civil disobedience, denigrated the poor and pushed legislation extending his powers to call out the militia.

Agnew had little claim to fame when Richard Nixon picked him as a vice presidential running mate in the 1968 election. However, he had switched allegiance from Nelson Rockefeller to Nixon, and seemed to have fewer electoral drawbacks than other possible candidates. Soon enough he was on the campaign trail with a particular style of invective that was to remain his trademark through the rest of his political career.

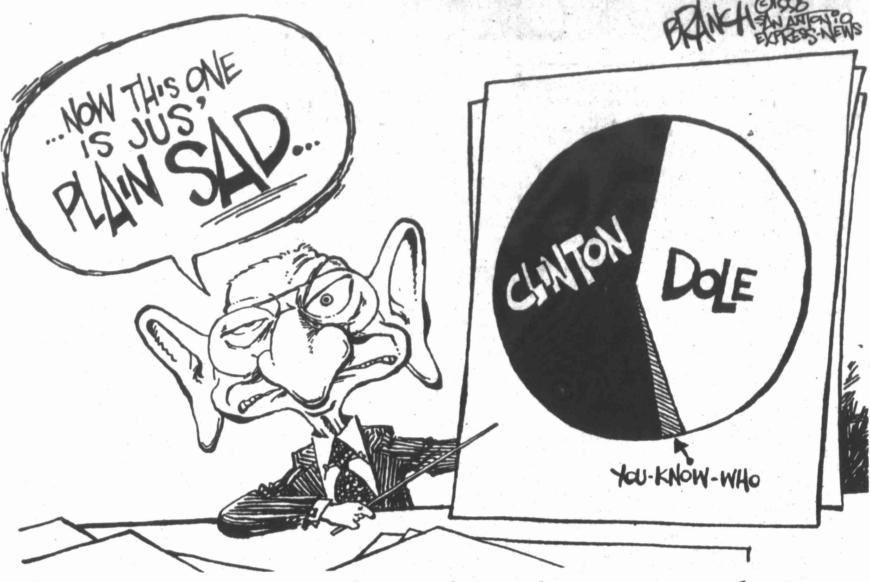

What most strikes one in reading Agnew quotes today is that they have nothing to do with argumentation and everything to do with villifying opponents. Thus Vietnam war protesters become "an effete corps of impudent snobs" and members of the press become "nattering nabobs of negativism." Those were years when wise leadership was especially needed. From Agnew we received inflammatory rhetoric.

The rhetoric would finally come to an end, though, because investigators found Agnew had accepted and even extorted hundreds of thousands of dollars in kickbacks as a county executive, as the Maryland governor and even while he was vice president. Because the nation was in the middle of Watergate, Agnew was allowed to plead nolo contendere - no contest - to one felony count, pay a small fine, serve several years of unsupervised probation and resign, thereby avoiding a trial while also preventing him from becoming president.

Agnew might have earned a higher historical mark with a contrite confession, but pretended to an innocence he could in no way make credible. Mostly, he blamed Nixon. But it wasn't Nixon who made him do what he did, and he deserves no better place in the country's memory than the place he himself carved

-SCRIPPS HOWARD NEWS SERVICE

More on President Clinton's enduring popularity

By PAUL CRAIG ROBERTS Scripps Howard News Service

In a recent column I offered two explanations for President Clinton's continuing political viability in the face of concentrated claims of unethical, immoral and, perhaps, illegal behavior.

I suggested the electorate was comfortable with the first couple because, as character role models, they cut the rest of us a lot of slack and make us feel good by comparison. Another explanation is special interest group politics in which voters support whoever butters their bread regardless of character.

Aware that my explanations do not exhaust the possibilities, I asked readers for their opinions on Clinton's perplexing popularity. Responses have come in, and they are worth a column's ink

Readers offer three basic explanations. One blames the media, one blames a decline in the American character and one blames an ideological redefinition of who the bad guys are.

Many readers believe Americans are kept "noninformed" by the conventional media and simply do not have access to the damning information about the first couple. Without this information, people assume, on the basis of their high school civics classes, that the president is honorable by virtue of his position. This assumption, coupled with the media's presentation of Clinton as a caring person, assures him the benefit of the doubt.

For example, one reader notes that when Republican presidential contender Bob Dole's temper flares, the media drones on about Dole's "dark side" and "mean streak," but when Clinton erupts, his loss of composure is portrayed as an understandable response to a nit-picking question.

Other readers believe character is no longer the issue it once was because character has been bred out of us, making disreputable behavior acceptable. Readers blame a variety of influences. To summarize: Clinton's generation was pampered by parents who followed the Dr. Spock philosophy of child rearing. They were coddled and spoiled. As kids, they were the first to suffer sports programs and other activities strictly organized by adults.

As one reader put it, "Pick-up ball games and recreational ingenuity disappeared." Everything was organized and done for them, and they became self-centered. When they got to college, their selfimportance led them to challenge a war that threatened to disrupt their comfortable lifestyle. The Vietnam protests served to degrade academic standards throughout the country, so a new generation made it to adulthood without ever being held accountable

The sexual revolution spread promiscuity to such an extent that the standard by which Clinton's womanizing would have been judged was simply erased. Movies and TV programs have established casual sex as the norm. The upshot is that the Me Generation and the X Generation add up to a huge voting bloc with a different understanding of integrity and character.

Indeed, say the third group of readers, good and bad have been redefined. A good person is one who cares about the "little guy." Caring people are Democrats, and the evidence of their caring is their insistence on big government to take care of the people. Bad people are Republicans who serve business. The business world is evil. It pollutes, it sells tobacco, it downsizes and destroys jobs, all for the sake of greedy profit.

A caring person stands up to business. A caring person has a big heart filled with big intentions. It is the intentions that count, not the person's personal behavior. Clinton's enduring popularity is his reward for his success in selling himself as a person who cares.

There is a lot of evidence for this point of view. For example, in the face of drug use expanding again among teenagers, the national Fraternal Order of Police has announced its support for Clinton's reelection. 'Rank and file police officers have never had a better friend in the White House than Bill Clinton," says the order's president, Gil Gallegos. "Our communities, our kids and our police officers are a lot better off today because of the leadership of President Clinton."

Clinton's caring image is his trump card. Even radical feminists wno hate philanders are lined up firmly in support of Clinton.

Social scientist and author Irving Kristol says the Democratic National Convention did not deal with issues; dwelling instead on heartbreaking sob stories.

Compassion is the message and the passion for compassion makes Bill Clinton's character irrelevant. The media can stop covering up for Clinton, because those who believe salvation lies in government programs couldn't care less about the personal failings of their Dole needs foreign policy menace - how about Canada?

By DALE McFEATTERS

Scripps Howard News Service

Desperate times demand desperate measures, and for Bob Dole these are desperate times. He is running a nearly fatal distance behind President Clinton in the polls.

Programs and promises haven't worked for the Republican candidate, who also lacks the ebullient personality of his opponent. The answer to his dilemma is simple, close at hand and effective: Canada.

A proven strategy in American presidential politics is the fictitious threat. Remember the Red Menace? The Missile Gap worked for John Kennedy. After the election, it turned out that there was indeed a Missile Gap but one that was grossly in our favor.

Canada is Big, it's Quiet, it's Up There. Does anybody really know what they're up to? About 80 percent of Canadians live within 100 miles of the United States. Could they not fairly be said to be massing along our border? A look at the map shows that

Windsor, Ontario, is a dagger pointed at the heart of Detroit. And what has Bill Clinton done to protect us from Canada, the Menace From Above? Precisely nothing. Already over half the North American continent is in Canadian hands.

Bob Dole should hammer away at that point. Of course it's a lunatic proposition, but the Canadians are too polite to say so and, in fact, will play into the Dole campaign's hands

Canadian TV would react by staging one of those endlessly earnest panel shows examining the question: Is Canada Really A Menace and If We Are What If Anything Should Be Done About It and Would Quebec Go Along? Canadian public affairs shows tend to be excruciatingly well balanced so the producers would almost certainly dig up a crackpot who would say that Canada, in league with the Trilateral Commission, the UN and the Illuminati, was plotting at this second to take over the Great Satan.

Besides, by the time the genteel Canadians get around to being peeved, the election will be over and the American electorate will have forgotten the whole menace.

In the meantime, Dole could come up with dozens of examples of sinister Canadian inroads into American life that Clinton could not convincingly deny. The Canadians, for example, have a near stranglehold on two vital aspects of American culture - quality beer and standup comedy. While America slept, hockey franchises inflitrated into parts of America where hockey has no business being played Miami, Phoenix, Dallas, Anaheim. Toronto won the World Series, and Canadian cities are now muscling their way into the National Basketball Association.

In Florida, the Canadian flag is everywhere. A close check of Florida real estate records may well show that the Canadians have bought all those parts of Florida not already owned by the Cubans. Need we say more? Does anybody believe Quebec would be content simply with independence from Canada? Of course not. Soon rabid francophone nationalists would be talking about Greater Quebec and asserting claims to Fond du Lac, Mich., then Des Plaines, Ill., Terre Haute, Ind., French Lick, too, and finally the entire state of Louisiana.

And what has Bill Clinton done about unchecked Quebec expansionism? Nothing, absolutement rien.

Clinton will undoubtedly play down, even ridicule, the military threat from Canada. But history shows that in the two military conflicts (1775-76 and 1812-14) between the United States and Canada, the Canadians are up 2-0.

Don't laugh. Unlikelier threats than Canada have worked in American politics. Ronald Reagan invoked Nicaragua and the threat of Sandinista tanks rolling across the border at Harlingen, Texas.

Long QT Syndrome linked to sudden deaths in children

By KELLIE JONES Features Editor

You've probably read about athletes who collapse on the playing field and later die even though they seem to be in perfect health.

There are several Sudden Arrhythmia Death Syndromes (SADS) including Long QT Syndrome (LQTS). QT refers to an interval measured on the electrocardiogram (ECG). LQTS is an abnormality of the heart's electrical system due to defects in heart muscle cell structures called ion channels, according to information released by the SADS Foundation

If a person has LQTS, they lose consciousness or they can suddenly die. There are two types of inherited LQTS, Romano-Ward and Jervell. Lange-Nielsen. The Romano-Ward type is so named after the two Salt Lake City families that originally had the syndrome!

It is not known how frequent the syndrome occurs in families because although it was discovered some 40 years ago, it is still not well-known or recognized. It is estimated one in 5,000 children may have it and cause 3,000 to 4,000 sudden deaths in children and young adults each year in the United States. Sudden loss of consciousness during physical exertion or emotional excitement should raise the possibility the person has LQTS.

Big Spring resident Chuck Carr and his three children all have LQTS. Carr's wife, Renae, said they aren't sure which parent of Chuck's is the carrier but more than likely it is his mother since her family is from Salt Lake City. Chuck and the children are all taking beta blockers which slows the heart

Since he has been on the beta blocker medicine, Renae said her husband hasn't had any more episodes and their children haven't passed out either. The beta blockers are 90 percent effective in those who take Jervell, Lange-Nielsen form of the syndrome is associated with congenital deafness.

Most people wake up in the mornings with an alarm clock and it scares them. Well, this normal every day occurrence can literally scare an LQTS sufferer to death along with hearing a loud horn, a ringing telephone, anything that startles them and causes their heart rate to increase.

The Carrs' youngest son, Christopher, is nine months old and on an apnea monitor. The Alexandria and Benjamin, have to take their medicine crushed up in grape syrup or juice. When someone with LQTS exerts themselves, gets scared or there is some other emotional excitement, their heart can beat 300 to 400 times a minute and the beta blockers, high blood pressure medicine, slows the rate down. When they pass out, their heart stops. Some sufferers have to wea pace makers to shock their heart back to beating again once they pass

"We are having a hard time finding a pediatrician that knows a lot about this. We thought we had found one in Midland three months ago and he said the medicine the kids were on wasn't a high enough dosage. He said he's still doing research to find out what they need but this is a life-threatening situation so we hope to find another doctor," Renae said.

Another hard part of the situation is finding other medications to take that a person might need like antibiotics or antihistamines. The only antihistamine safe enough to take right now is Claritin and the down side is that it doesn't come in liquid form so the Carrs' would have to crush the pills if one of their children needed to take it.

Renae said the closest support group available is in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. She is hoping if there are others locally who have LQTS, a support group can be started in Howard County.

A possessive, older boyfriend can be dangerous to teenager

Scripps Howard News Service

This letter raises an awareness of a problem we see everyday. From our experience, we know that the majority of pregnant teen girls are impregnated by a male at least five years older. Although you are not pregnant, you need to be aware that you are vulnerable in this type of situation.

Young girls are often thrilled

Taking others feel bad and trying to isolate them is a way of control-Lling someone. This is not healthy in any relationship, and it often worsens

The possessiveness started when I wanted to go out with my friends because I needed some time on my own. I wanted to go with the girls to have fun and so I wouldn't lose touch with them. I think friends are really important.

He agreed at first, but when it came time for me to go out, he started accusing me of needing my friends more and asked what I needed him for? He started to put me on guilt trips, and I ended up not going because he'd either follow me wherever I'd go or he'd call every five minutes.

This is the only problem I have with him, but everything else is great. What can I do?

And possessiveness, according to any number of experts, should be regarded as a warning sign in a relationship: Making others feel bad and trying to isolate them from others is a way of controlling someone. This is not healthy in any relationship, and it often worsens with time.

Isolating you from friends now can lead to isolating you from your family and even denying you personal freedom later. There are cases where women are actually locked in their homes until their spouse comes home from work. This is no way to live.

You were right when you said that friends are important. You should go out with them while

NEW YORK (AP) — The bulls and bears are starting to welcome the kids.

For the first time, two Wall Street firms — Merrill Lynch and Bankers Trust — made the Working Mother list of the best 100 companies.

The 11th annual survey by Working Mother magazine also found greater use of flexible work schedules, a wider recognition of the child-care needs of employees working at branch offices, and expanded leave benefits for new fathers and breakfast in New York, said the administration would like to take the Family and Medical Leave Act even further.

In its October issue, Working Mother chooses its best companies based on pay, advancement opportunities for women, child care, flexible hours and family-friendly benefits such as adoption aid and elderly care resources.

The list doesn't rank the companies, but notes the 10 best. They included the banking companies of Barnett Banks Inc. of Jacksonville, Fla., MBNA America Bank of Del., and Wilmington, NationsBank Corp., Charlotte, N.C., and the computer companies of Hewlett Packard Co., of Palo Alto Calif., and International Business Machines Corp., of Armonk, N.Y.

The Top 10 also included the pharmaceutical companies Eli Lilly & Co., of Indianapolis, and Merck & Co., of Whitehouse Station, N.J.; Johnson & Johnson, a New Brunswick, N.J.-based consumer product company; the Patagonia clothing company, based in Ventura, Calif.; and the document processing company of Xerox Corp., of Stamford, Conn.

Of the 100 best companies, 17 made the list for the first time, including Merrill Lynch and Bankers Trust.

While many companies fail to offer women any paid maternity leave, the New York-based Merrill Lynch & Co., offers 13 weeks off at full pay, the most generous on the list. New dads get five days paid leave, and the primary care giver who adopts a child gets five weeks paid leave.

The financial services company, which has 39,830 employees - 42 percent female - last year instructed managers on how to make alternative schedules work. One division, which provides system support for private clients, expects to have 10 percent of its 1,500 employees working from home by the end of the year.

"We firmly believe that our work-life strategy is good for business because it's good for our employees and it's good for Merrill Lynch," said Patricia Crowley, head of organizational change and wellness.

She said the programs help the company recruit and retain superior employees, and allow workers to be more productive on the job.

Bankers Trust New York Corp. was one of the first Wall Street firms to offer employees alternative work arrangements, including job sharing, flexible hours, compressed workweeks, and staggered schedules, in which an employee might work four days one week and six days the next.

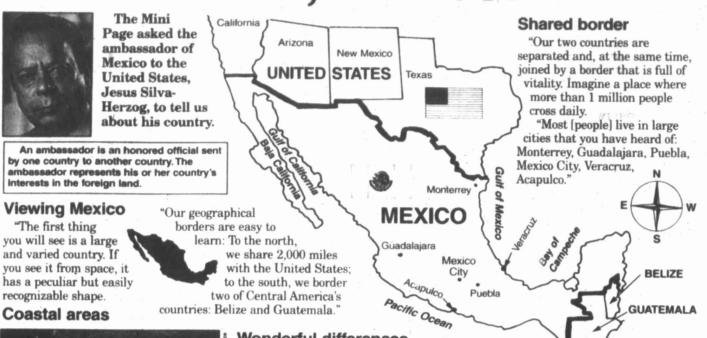

The firm, at which 45 percent of the 7,685 employees are female, offers emergency child care at three locations in the New York area. It also provides a prenatal program, rooms for breast-feeding and an Employee Assistance Program that offers counseling to workers and rela-

Coahoma-Stanton clash promises to be great game

Edwards said, "The key for us will be not giving up the big play. It depends on how long we keep the ball."

Coahoma has some good weapons, such as quarterback Marshall Wright, receiver Matthew Hamilton and tailback Tim Phillips, plus tailback Mike McMillan will be returning to the lineup. Aaron Hernandez is no slouch, either. He scored two touchdowns last week against Anson.

Cotton praised, "Wright does a tremendous job and Hamilton is a great receiver, and they have two or three kids at tailback. Their offensive line is solid all the way across. Their center (Heath Blair) does a great job.

"We had a real good game against Roscoe," Cotton said. "The only downside was that we got 11 penalties.'

On the defensive side, Edwards calls Stanton "very aggressive and hard on the corners" with Mark Carrillo, who had 11 tackles against Roscoe, and Freddy Olivas. The Stanton secondary is blessed with speed with McCalister, Herm and Davis.

Key defenders for Coahoma are end Blake Nichols, Hamilton in the secondary, and tackle Isaac Martinez.

Colorado City might argue about Coahoma-Stanton being the area game of the week. The Wolves host Ballinger, which was ranked third in the state in Class 3A before losing 12-0 to Big Spring last week.

"They're always tough, and their execution is super," said CC head coach Bill Grissom. "They put lots of pressure on a defense. They're just a real aggressive type football team."

The trouble is that Ballinger isn't healthy. Standout quarterback Cody McLarty has missed the first two games and standout running back Ricky Guerrero has had an ailing shoulder. But if they play, Ballinger is flat dangerous

The education of Tory Mitchell Sophomore speedster making transition to quarterback

By CLIFF NEWELL

Sports Editor

What do you do when you have perhaps the best sprinter in the state of Texas? You make him a quarterback.

That is not the most logical statement on the surface. But when Big Spring head coach Dwight Butler explains it, it makes perfect sense why he decided to turn sophomore super speedster Tory Mitchell into a quarterback.

"I wanted Tory to get his hands on the ball as much as possible," is Butler's buttondown explanation.

"He brings so many things to the table. When you've got an athlete of his ability, you've got to find a way to get the ball into their hands. There's no better way to get the ball in his hands than to put him a quarterback. If you made him a receiver or a running back, he just wouldn't handle the ball as

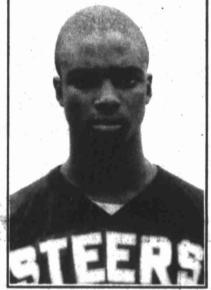

Of course, there were those who questioned Butler's move. Among them was Tory Mitchell.

"I didn't like it at first," admitted Mitchell, when he was told last spring he was being switched to quarterback. "But knowing I can do it has made me like it a lot better."

The Steers made a happy discovery last spring: Mitchell could pass the ball as well as run with it. He also has a quarterback's brain.

"Tory is a real knowledgable kid," said Steer quarterback coach Greg Winder. "He understands everything, and that's what has made the switch so easy. He has natural throwing ability, although he still needs a lot of work on his passing."

Butler noted, "The hardest part for Tory has been learning the whole offense. That and Tory Mitchell was known for his speed until he showed a fine passing arm last spring. At the right, Coach Greg Winder helps Mitchell with his footwork as Jerrod Helms looks on. Head coach Dwight Butler said the transfer was made to get the ball in Mitchell's hands as much as possible.

learning to read defenses are the two major things he's got to learn. We've been able to see his maturity from week to

Still, the plan was to bring Mitchell along slowly. Senior Jerrod Helms had come on well in fall practices and had claimed the starting job. Mitchell was set for backup quarterback duty and action at wide receiver.

Then Helms suffered a concussion in the opening minutes of the first game against Monahans, and in went Mitchell, his young life probably passing before his eyes. He definitely looked confused for a while, before guiding the comeback that nearly beat the

"Tory had the big eyes out there when he took the first snap," said Winder. "When Jerrod went out, he really wasn't sure what he was supposed

"I was sure he was going to get sacked," Butler said. "I was yelling at him to throw it

With a good game under his belt, Mitchell should be ready for more progress. "As he matures, Tory will be a much bigger threat," Butler said. "Other teams will have to worry about stopping him and not so much about the rest of the team." This week, Mitchell may see little, if any, action at quarterback. The "cranial webs" in Helms' head have disappeared, and he will get the starting nod. Mitchell will shift to wide receiver and also see action in the secondary.

"He's too good an athlete not to play somewhere," Butler said. "He's not just a good football player."

When track start, Mitchell could be the state's fastest. As a freshman he was third in both the 100 and 200 meter dashes at the Class 4A meet, setting school records in the process. He is also a fine basketball player.

But in the future, Tory Mitchell will be known as the fastest quarterback in Texas. And probably one of the most

Roger Clemens might just do it. The only pitcher in major league history to strike out 20 batters, Clemens, at the age of 34, did it again Wednesday

Clemens hopes to change that. His latest gem moved him ahead of Jerry Koosman to 17th on the career strikeout list with 2,572.

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Mariners are at it again.

With the season winding down, Seattle stretched it's winning streak to seven Wednesday night and shaved the Texas Rangers' lead in the AL West to three games.

The Kingdome is beginning to sound exactly like it did a year ago. And the Mariners are playing exactly like they did last season, when they over-took the California Angels to win their first AL West title.

"At this rate we could win all the rest of them," Jay Buhner said after hitting a three-run homer and driving in four runs in Seattle's 5-2 victory over "The only choice we have to do is win," Mariners manager Lou Piniella said. "You need to play well in September. There's a good job of it."

Seattle has gained six games in the standings in seven days. The Mariners, just two games behind Baltimore in the wildcard race, will try to equal their season-best eight-game winning streak of April when they meet the Rangers in the finale of the four-game series

Texas, which led the secondplace Mariners by nine games on Sept. 11, has lost seven of eight. The Rangers have lost nine of 12 to Seattle this year, including four straight in the

ATLANTA (AP) - Fred McGriff hasn't given up on starting a new 30-homer streak. The Houston Astros insist they haven't given up on the sea-

Houston Astros on Wednesday. "Thirty is a goal every year," said McGriff, who had seven straight 30-homer years until he hit 27 in the strike-shortlittle short, but hit two at a time and you're in the mix got a shot. I never give up on

Some fans in Houston apparently believe their team has given up on making the playoffs. St. Louis beat the Cubs 5-3 Wednesday night to increase its lead over the Astros in the NL Central to 4) games, the Cardinals' biggest margin of

"I got a phone call this morning saying there are people in Houston who think we have quit," manager Terry Collins said. "I'll put that to rest right now. This team has not quit. That is absolutely the farthest thing from the truth.'

The Astros, who have lost nine straight road games in September, had the misfortune of going up against 22-game winner John Smoltz and fourtime Cy Young winner Greg Maddux in their two-game series against the Braves.

Maddux (14-11) threw a masterful six-hit, no-walk game Wednesday as the Braves cut winning the NL East. Montreal, which beat the Mets 4-3, trails by six games heading into a five-game series that begins tonight in Atlanta. "This was a huge win."

McGriff said. "We needed a couple of wins over Houston before the series with Montreal." Maddux cruised to the win on a day when he received a rare offensive outburst from his teammates.

"We came in here and had to face Smoltz and Maddux," said Jeff Bagwell, who drove in both Houston runs to break his own team record with 117 RBIs for the year. "That's par for the course. But we're going to keep battling every day.'

Maddux came in with the second-best ERA in the National League, but the Braves scored three runs or less in half of his 32 previous starts. Against the Astros, he not only didn't walk anyone, he never even reached three balls in the count while throwing his best slider of the year.

"I don't try to live up to the last four years," said Maddux, whose Cy Young streak will come to an end this year, most likely broken by Smoltz. "I've had some terrible games, sure, but overall I'm happy with the way I've thrown the ball this minute game. The Astros went ahead 1-0 in the first after a lackadaisical fielding play by McGriff. But the first baseman redeemed himself in the bottom of the inning with a two-out, two-run homer against Mike Hampton (10-10), making his first start since Aug. 31 after being sidelined with tendinitis.

Maddux threw 65 strikes and only 29 balls in the 2-hour, 1-

"The first homer felt good because it came off a left-hander," said McGriff, who hits left-handed.

thanks to a 2-yard TD run by Josh Ontiveros and two TD passes from the combination of quarterback Joe Owens and James Newman, on plays of 25 and 20 yards.

Ballinger had narrowed the margin to 18-8 in the second half when Ontiveros struck again, this time on a 20-yard scoring run.

Coach Tommy Gibson praised linebacker Josh Fernau and end Josh Ontiveros and the entire defense for an outstanding job.

On offense, winning commendation was the entire line of center Matt Frazier, guards Thomas Garza and James Smith, tackles James Phillips and Dusty Clayton, ;and tight end Arthur Olague.

Preview

Colorado City seems to be living up to its high preseason hopes with wins in their first two games. But the Wolves haven't looked as powerful as expected. The reason may be Ballinger

"This is the game our kids were looking forward to, even though you try not to do that," Grissom said. "It's been on their minds.

No one had better overlook the Wolves. Terrific tailback. Arian Emerson had 137 yards on 21 tries in the CC win over Stamford. He has a defensive ounterpart in linebacker Chris Fambro. Against Stamford he caused a fumble. picked it up and returned it for a touchdown. He also had an interception, a sack and 10

"We've been up and down," noted Grissom. "We haven't been consistent like we're going to be. But we're real pleased to be 2.0.1

SANDS vs ROPES :30 p.m. at Ropes

The Sands Mustangs have lost two straight games, and that is disastrous by the standards of head coach Billy Barnett, whose overall record is a brilliant 94-17. But injuries have dampened the Mustangs once high hopes as one starter after another has been sidelined with injuries. The outstanding competition hasn't helped matters either.

The list of the ailing include Bill Barnes, Michael Wigginton, Brent Burns and Josh Long We don't have any cohesiveness," Barnett said. "We're still like a puzzle in a box. Still. Barnett sees signs of hope. The team played much better in their loss to Highland last week "The kids played hard and got after it," Barnett said. "We didn't slack off like we did the week before. I don't think the score was an indication of how well we played.

But Ropes may present some problems for the struggling

"They run a lot of differrent offenses," said Barnett. "We've seen seven on film. That could put us in a bind because we haven't had the same kids out.' Ropes also has a defense ranked in the area's top 10.

SOUTHLAND vs BORDEN COUNTY

7:30 p.m. at Borden County It's good if you can play a "terrible" game and still win.

Head coach Bobby Avery didn't like the way his Coyotes played in their win over Grady last week. Especially in the second half, when they didn't score a point.

Avery said, "We made so many flaws in our execution, and Grady was good enough to keep us from scoring in the second half.

"We've got a lot of tools on offense. We need to polish them."

The Baeza brothers certainly are good tools. Against Grady, Fernando rushed for 106 yards and scored 3 touchdowns, and Oscar had 96 yards on 11 tries. Both also played big defensive games. Quarterback Colt McCook passed for 150 yards.

Avery expects an excellent battle from Southland, which defeated Borden County 21-0

"We both have the same teams back," noted Avery. "But I think we've added more to our team.'

HAMLEIGH vs KLONDIKE 7:30 at Klondike

The Klondike Cougars have a good chance to get on the winning track this week against Hamleigh.

"We match up well," said head coach Jim Kinnear. "We have the same speed, size and quickness. If we can cut down our turnovers and mistakes, we have a real good chance to win.

Despite defeats in the first two games, Kinnear noted, "We're progressing every week. As soon as some of our kids gain experience, we'll be pretty competitive.'

ODESSA SOPHS vs GARDEN CITY

7:30 p.m. at Garden City (tonight)

After an inspiration win in its opener, Garden City found out that Wink is as tough as ever last week.

However, the Bearkats will try to get back on track against the Odessa sophomores.

Garden City boasts a tremendous passing attack with quarterback Bradley Batla, racking up over 500 air yards in the first two games.

STERLING CITY vs FORSAN 8 p.m. at Forsan

If Forsan can come down from the high of getting a last minute victory over Rankin last week, they have a good chance of getting their second straight win over Sterling City.

If the Buffaloes get in a tight spot they can count on field goal kicker Daniel Davis to get them out. He had field goals of 40 and 29 yards against Rankin, and the last one won the game in the last 36 seconds.

Sterling City is expected to be a tough contender for its district title.

BUENA VISTA vs GRADY 7:30 p.m. at Grady

The Grady Wildcats are off to a promising start with a win and a solid performance against an outstanding Borden County club.

But Buena Vista boasts an excellent club that is coming off a 9-2 season.

A rebuilding Greenwood team will have a tough time getting on the winning track

Denver City boasts a huge lineup, and it has an advantage with artificial turf on its home

Rangers

The team ERA during the winning streak is 2.53, dropping the club's ERA from 5.36 to 5.22.

All this has been done without Randy Johnson, last year's American League Cy Young Award winner who underwent surgery on Sept. 12 to repair a bulging disc.

Johnson, who made only eight starts this season because of his ailing back, visited with his teammates before the game for the first time since his surgery. He is expected to be ready to return next spring.

"He's had successful surgery," Piniella said. "He's going to get some rest now. He's got to get his stitches out at the end of the week."

In Wednesday night's game, Buhner hit his 41st homer of the season and raised his RBI total to 130. Juan Gonzalez' 45th homer had given Texas a 2-0 lead.

"It's nice to win the first three," Buhner said. "We knew we had to win three of the first four. There's no doubt that we'll be looser than they are tomorrow. This is just like last year. Things are happening."

A boisterous crowd of 35,162, displaying a Refuse To Lose II banner, watched the Mariners continue their comeback. As the noisy fans filed out of the Kingdome, they chanted "Sweep! Sweep! Sweep!"

Sterling Hitchcock, Mike Jackson and Norm Charlton combined for a four-hitter.

Hitchcock (13-8), who had lost three straight decisions, wonfor the first time since Aug. 16 and beat Bobby Witt (15-11) for the third time this year. Hitchcock allowed two runs and four hits in 5 2-3 innings. He had a 9.39 ERA in his previous four starts, going 0-2.

Jackson and Charlton finished with perfect relief, with Charlton getting his 18th save.

"I'm not frustrated," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "A sweep means nothing. It's one ballgame. That's life. But I know we can play better than we have in the first three games, and I expect we will play better."

Texas, which has averaged 10.1 hits per game, has just 14 combined in the first three games of the series. The Rangers are hitting only .156 in the first three games.

"We're kind of in an offensive slump right now," the Rangers' Damon Buford said. "You can't expect our pitcher to go out there and hold them to a shutout or one run every

"When you're winning, all the breaks are going your way," Will Clark said. "When you're losing, you have to make your own breaks.'

Gonzalez put the Rangers ahead 2-0 in the fourth when he homered just inside the leftfield foul pole following Clark's

But Seattle came back in the bottom half when Ken Griffey Jr. singled, Edgar Martinez walked and Buhner hit a 409foot drive over the center-field

Buhner drew a bases-loaded walk from Jeff Russell in the seventh as Seattle scored two runs on one hit. Paul Sorrento added a sacrifice fly.

Notes: The Mariners became the fourth team in the AL and seventh in the majors to draw 2.5 million fans at home this season. ... Buhner drove in four or more runs for the seventh time this year. His previous home-run high was 40 last season. ... Buhner had a double in the sixth inning when his towering fly ball hit a left-field speaker. ... Hitchcock went six starts between victories. He became the third Mariners pitcher to give up 25 home runs this season. ... Gonzalez hit his first homer in 10 games. ... Witt gave up his 28th homer.

... Charlton recorded his 50th save with the Mariners. Only Mike Schooler (98) and Bill Caudill (52) have more saves for Seattle. ... Texas now has four consecutive road defeats, its longest road losing streak since June.

They wanted money, bank and credit cards, which I willingly gave them. They told me they'd have to tie me up. (That actually relieved me since I figured they would have no need to hurt me and, being fairly agile, I could eventually work myself loose.) Well, they proceeded to bind my hands behind me with duct tape, and bind my legs and feet with rope. They taped my mouth and wound the remaining yards of duct tape around my entire body. For good measure, they plopped me face-down on a bed and bound my hands and feet together so I couldn't even stretch out. That's how I spent the next 14 hours. I did not attempt to roll off the bed for fear of breaking a limb, and though I struggled from time to time, I knew it was hopeless.

When my roommate finally returned, I was as tightly bound as ever. She needed scissors and a knife to get me free and it still took 20 minutes.

letter I wrote to you about a year ago with some advice to a woman whose husband had suddenly left her. Today I'm responding to the letter from "Devastated in Renton, Wash."

She should dump him! The bum I was once married to told me on our honeymoon that a former girlfriend turned him on more than I did. I should have left him on the spot. (Hindsight is always 20/20, isn't it?) No one should stay in a marriage that isn't mutually supportive, respectful and loving. "Devastated" sounds like a nice person, but her husband is hostile toward women, and he will never change without extensive counseling and indepth soul searching to find out why he is so angry.

Abby, please tell her that the prospects for finding love again aren't all that slim. I got married last year, at the age of 47, to the most wonderful man in the world, and I am not tall and slender like "Devastated." Sign me ... BETTER THAN EVER IN PIEDMONT

DEAR BETTER THAN EVER: Congratulations on having found such a wonderful man. As the old song goes, "Love is wonderful ... the second time around.

Best wishes for continued happiness. DEAR ABBY: I couldn't help but respond to "Steamed's" dilemma about her friend bringing a salad to Bible study and a hosted lunch. Her answer lies in the very Bible she is studying: Proverbs 15:17: Better a meal of vegetables where there is love than a fattened calf with hatred.

It would be a nice gesture for 'Steamed" to prepare a lovely salad lunch the next time it's her turn to hostess. -ROCHELLE IN SACRAMENTO © 1996 UNIVERSAL PRESS

Residents and businesses all over the area have been receiving calls about changing their billing on long distance calls. Dick Rowland, president of the BBBPB, has learned that the company making the calls in actually named Long

according to the Better

Business Bureau of the Telephone. "They called the BBB office, and it was all I could do to get them to tell me the name of their company," Rowland stat-

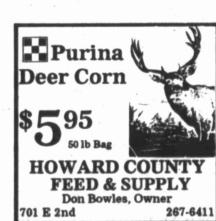

The caller begins by asking the resident if they would prefer to receive only one bill a month, that would include local and long distance, rather than one for local service and one for long distance.

"When the company called us, it sounded like a call from SWBT. I had to ask a lot of questions to find out they were actually trying to change our long distance carrier," Rowland stated.

Rowland reminds residents and businesses to check all telephone bills carefully and make sure the long distance carrier has not been changed. "Changing your long distance service, without your permission is a violation of federal regulations," Rowland stated. "However, by telling them you wish to receive only one service, you're actually giving them permission to change to their service." Rowland suggests that if you believe you've been changed to another service, without your permission, contact your original carrier, tell them what happened, and ask to be switched back. There is also a form you can get stating you do not wish to be changed again, without written permission. Your parrier has all the information and just outside it. I was wearing an Army uniform, taking basic training at Fort Carson. The harshness of the military was in direct contrast to my fond memories of Colorado Springs. I didn't know you could feel so bad in such a pretty place. But to me back then, Fort Carson was anything but pretty. It seemed plain, stark and cold. The mountains, once beautiful, turned into obstacles I had to climb. My first night of bivouac we slept on the side of a mountain. In my efforts to get warm and comfortable I had wiggled out the door of my tent and woke up with snow on my face. I never once got warm during that miserable week. I couldn't wait to leave Fort Carson and Colorado Springs.

With perspective, my feelings have softened. I have been to Colorado Springs several times since being there as a soldier. The beauty has returned.

In fact, some Army buddies and I are planning a reunion at Colorado Springs. I can't wait.

I want to experience some western history, do some shopping and go to the library where I went as an Army private on my only weekend pass during basic training. I want to travel to the top of

It was the stunning view from Pikes Peak that gave a woman visitor the inspiration to write the song, "America the Beautiful."

It was the summer of 1893 and Katharine Lee Bates, a professor of English at Wellesley College, was in Colorado Springs to teach a summer session at Colorado College. On July 22, Katharine and several other visiting faculty members took a trip in a prairie schooner to the summit of Pikes Peak.

Horses got them to the halfway point and a team of mules finished the pull to the top of the 14- thousand-foot mountain. Because of the illness of one of the teachers, they only stayed on top for a brief half hour. But that was long enough for her to write later, "An erect decorous group, we stood at last on that Gate of Heaven summit and gazed in wordless rapture over the far expanse of mountain ranges and sea-like sweep of plain. Then and there the opening lines of "America the Beautiful" sprang into being."

She wrote the entire song that evening on her return to Colorado Springs.

The four stanzas went back to Wellesley in her notebook. Two years later the poem made its debut in the pages of the Congregationalist magazine and quickly soared in popularity. She rewrote portions of it, mainly for simplification and the revised version was published in the Boston Evening Transcript in November of

The changes made the poem less ornate. "O beautiful for spacious skies" replaced "O beautiful for halycon skies." Her original "Til souls wax fair as earth and air and musichearted sea" gave way to "And crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea."

Many composers vied for the privilege of putting "America the Beautiful" to music, but Katharine finally chose "Materna," composed by Samuel Augustus Ward in 1882.

Katharine Lee Bates died on March 29, 1929, without ever seeking or receiving a penny in royalties for the thousands of reprints and performances of the song.

Two years later, in 1931, "The Star Spangled Banner" was selected over "America the Beautiful" for our national
