

With rage gone, issues dulled, America passes judgment

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's finally Election Day, and America is choosing between Bill Clinton's conduct in the White House and Bob Dole's promise of a more disciplined stewardship to carry the nation into the next century.

Whatever their presidential prospects, Republican leaders seemed cocky about retaining GOP control of Congress for only the first time since Calvin Coolidge occupied the White House six decades ago.

Speaking in the 4 a.m. darkness in Harry Truman's hometown of Independence, Mo., Dole himself refused to give up hope that he would achieve the prediction of a banner in front of him: "Upset of the Century."

"The tide is rolling," Dole proclaimed. "All over the country. I have seen it in other people's faces. The people are going to win this election."

Haley Barbour, the GOP chairman, said Dole was closing "this campaign on a tear and Bill Clinton is closing it on a slide. ... I don't rule out Bob Dole winning this election."

But for days Republican ads argued, in unspoken acknowledgement that Dole's prospects were poor, that the country should not give Clinton "a blank check."

"I think probably we have a greater chance of actually increasing the number of seats we will have," said Newt Gingrich, the Republican House speaker whose scorched-earth speeches made him the symbolic issue in contests across the nation.

Barbour called increased Republican strength in the Senate "likely." Close races abounded; the South was the key.

In Georgia, voter Mike Collier, 30, a computer programmer from Norcross, said he voted for Clinton even though he wasn't fond of his performance in office. His reasoning: "It's better to keep somebody who's not too terrible in."

In Michigan, social worker Diana Ruckert, 25, said she voted for Dole even though she knew the polls show his trailing. "That's what voting's all about," she said.

Clinton seemed ever more confident of becoming the first re-elected Democrat since Franklin Roosevelt's 1936 landslide, and the polls gave him reason. His goal reached beyond victory — he wanted to win with more than 50 percent of the vote, a target denied him in 1992 and made difficult again by the insurgent candidacy of billionaire Ross Perot.

Clinton won 43 percent in 1992 to then President Bush's 37 percent and Perot's 19 percent.

Clinton, Dole and Perot went back to their roots — Arkansas, Kansas and Texas — to await America's verdict.

In final appeals, Clinton told boisterous crowds on his way to Little Rock, "Your vote is going to decide whether we return Congress to a majority of people who have prepared to shut the government down."

Dole, his voice cracking, raced across four time zones as he headed toward Russell, Kan. His main message — he could be trusted while

Shouting's over; Voters decide

AUSTIN (AP) — The campaigning went down to the wire, but today it was the voters' turn.

Secretary of State Tony Garza predicted a light turnout for a presidential election, with only 58.5 percent of the 10.5 million registered Texas voters likely to cast ballots.

But the state's 32 electoral votes were enough to bring two presidential hopefuls to Texas for one last pitch Monday.

Republican Bob Dole told a Houston crowd, "You are going to decide this election right here in Texas." Reform Party nominee Ross Perot, in San Antonio for his first Texas appearance of the campaign, railed against President Clinton's character.

The president wasn't in Texas on Monday, but he hadn't ignored the nation's second-largest state. He campaigned in El Paso and San Antonio on Friday and Saturday.

Hundreds of other candidates — for other federal, state and local offices — tried to make the most of the waning hours.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm barnstormed to a half dozen cities. The Republican, whose presidential hopes were dashed early in the year, asked for a third Senate term by reiterating his campaign themes of smaller government and lower taxes.

"Republicans believe that you can make better decisions than the government can," he said.

Gramm's Democratic rival, Victor Morales, hit the road for one final campaign trip in the white pickup truck that became his symbol. Morales drove from his Mesquite headquarters to Austin.

He said the key to his victory would be a big turnout among Hispanic vot-

5th Circuit Court affirms dismissal of Wheeler's suit

By STEVE REAGAN

The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals Monday upheld a lower court's dismissal of a lawsuit filed by a former Howard County sheriff's deputy.

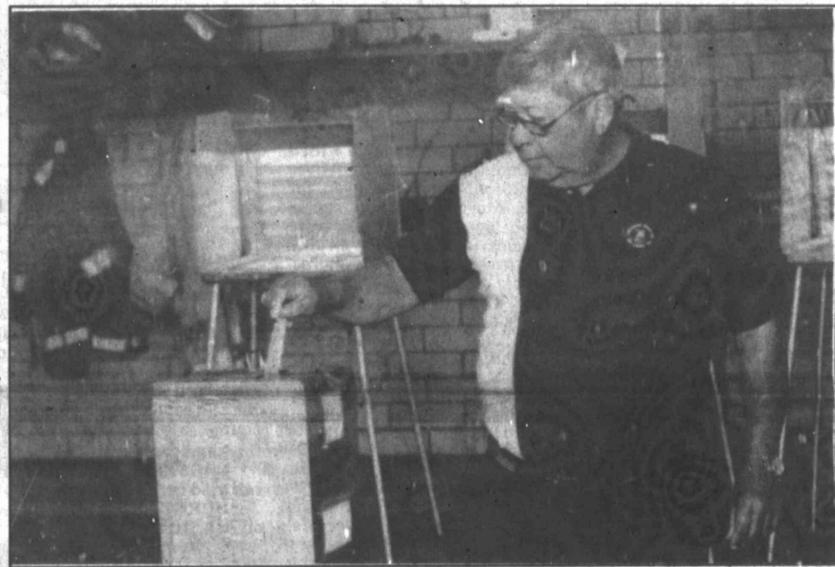

The court affirmed — or let stand — a lower court's 1995 dismissal of a suit filed by Kenneth Wheeler which claimed he had been wrongfully terminated from the sheriff's office in 1994.

Judge Sam R. Cummings of the U.S. District Court in Abilene dismissed the case on July 27, 1995, citing previous precedent stating that "sheriff's deputies in Texas are at-will employees serving at the pleasure of the sheriff with no cognizable property interest in their employment."

Wheeler claimed in his original suit that he was fired for

HC administrators say focus during campaign boost to junior colleges

By CARLTON JOHNSON

A rather routine meeting of Howard College's board of trustees Monday afternoon revealed good news for the Big Spring campus.

Howard College President Dr. Cheri Sparks and several trustees recently attended the Texas Association of Community College Trustees and Administrators Conference in Austin and brought back information and ideas they hope will help Howard College for years to come.

"We had a very good conference," Sparks said. "We are finding out more and more (at the state level) that community college education is becoming a big part of the future of our country."

More and more responsibility is going to be put on junior colleges, but at the same time, junior colleges could be receiving as much as 17 percent more money from the state in the future," Trustee Adrian Randle said.

Board chairman Don McKinney agreed with Randle, saying, "Trustees will also have to accept more of a burden in the future than they ever have because of the new responsibilities facing community colleges."

Sparks added universities are agreeing with the new role community colleges are playing and with the added funds they may receive because they too could receive as much as a 12 percent increase in state funding.

Trustee Robert Ethridge said

Boy Scouts conducting food drive Saturday

HERALD Staff Report

The Lone Star District of the Boy Scouts of America will conduct its annual "Good Turn Food Drive" from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday.

All food collected will be given to the Salvation Army and Northside Community Center for distribution to area needy, Boy Scouts officials said. Scouts and their leaders will visit streets in Big Spring, Coahoma and Sand Springs to collect food. Persons interested in helping with the effort need to place any non-perishable food items in a bag and put them on the front porch. Officials ask people to make sure their donations are visible from the street.

"In the past, we have had bags inserted in the Herald, but we are trying to help the recycling effort and ask everyone to furnish their own used bag," said Scouting official Clem Jones. "If you don't have an extra bag, just place the food on the porch and the Scouts will pick it up."

If it is not convenient to put food on your porch, the Scouts will be at the First United Methodist Church Saturday. "Just look for the big white horse trailer," Jones said.

The Salvation Army and community center are strained to meet their needs at this time of year, so the Scouts hope to help them furnish food.

Douglas Nixon, 35, the driver of this pickup, was arrested for driving while intoxicated after a one-vehicle accident this weekend. He and his two young passengers were treated and released from the hospital.

Accidents claim one life, another arrested for driving drunk

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

A pair of weekend accidents in Howard County left an Eldorado woman dead and sent four people to the hospital.

Linda Elkins of Eldorado died Saturday in a Lubbock hospital of injuries she sustained in a two-car accident north of Big Spring Friday afternoon.

According to Department of Public Safety reports, Elkins, 69, was the passenger in a 1992 Ford Tempo driven by Patricia Lloyd, also of Eldorado.

Their vehicle, which was northbound on U.S. Highway 87 about seven miles north of Big Spring, struck a 1989 Toyota pickup truck driven by Saragosa Ochoa of Big Spring. The DPS report states Ochoa's vehicle, which was westbound of FM 1584, attempted to cross Highway 87 when it was struck by Lloyd's vehicle.

Lloyd and Elkins were transferred to a Lubbock hospital it was pointed out to him at the conference that junior college educated students are just as able, if not more, to compete in the job market right along with university educated students. This is important because receiving at least a community education has become an issue in this year's presidential election.

"Not taking sides or offering political advice," Sparks said, "when community colleges become a part of a presidential platform, it says a lot about the direction of our country."

Another issue tackled at the Austin conference, which caught the attention of Sparks and trustees, was that of financial aid and the paperwork burden it imposes on institutions, not to mention students.

"I don't know how well we'll address this issue, but it's (paperwork) very difficult for students, and especially for a student who might be the first one from his or her family to attend college and not having had exposure to this process," Sparks said. "The paperwork can be a very intimidating thing."

Trustee Michael Flores said community colleges will have to continue looking for ways to improve the massive paperwork involved in the financial aid process.

The board also tackled the issue of the college's investment policy.

Howard College has engaged in investing in certificates of deposit with 30-day interest rates of 4.7 percent; 90-day rates at 4.88 percent; 180-day rates of 4.97 percent; and 1-year rates of 5.1 percent.

The college has also invested in the state's investment program — TexPool, which had an average interest rate in October of 5.22 percent.

According to college officials, as of Aug. 31, Howard College, which includes the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus, had a total of $6,626,519 invested in CDs and TexPool.

"We are not going to have anything unsafe," Sparks said. McKinney added the investment predicament that hit Odessa College a couple of years ago has made a lot of people think about their investments.

Other issues discussed Monday included the roof on Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, the soon after the accident. Elkins was pronounced dead Saturday by Lubbock County Medical Examiner Robert Byers.

Ochoa, who sustained minor injuries in the accident, was cited for failure to yield right of way.

A one-car accident Saturday sent a Big Spring man and two children to a local hospital.

According to DPS reports, a 1985 Ford pickup truck driven by Douglas Nixon, 35, overturned as it was southbound on Rural Road 33 about six miles southwest of Big Spring at about 4:40 p.m. Saturday.

The report states that Nixon lost control of his truck and it flipped 1 1/4 times, coming to rest on its right side.

Nixon and his two passengers were transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, where they were treated and released.

Nixon was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated and endangering a child, the report added.

purchase of several computers and replacing one of the college's buses used for team travel with two 15-passenger vans.

After hearing a recommendation from the college's roofing consultant, trustees approved a $30,000 addition to the roofing project.

Instead of redesigning the roof's structure, contractors will add a five-eighths-inch layer of plywood on top of the existing structure followed by an ice and water shield and then another layer of plywood.

Trustees, who were told this method is effective in protecting against water leaks and hail damage, say this method is more feasible than restructuring the design of the roof and the current structure is strong enough to support the extra weight.

Phil Ferqueron, who has worked with both Howard County and the city of Big Spring as a consultant, told trustees this type of repair is being used more and more with metal roofing systems.

Clinton could not. "My voice may change, but I still keep my word," he said.

Perot slapped Clinton's ethics in a Texas speech and a final binge of television speeches, run election eve on the major networks. "We are headed toward a second Watergate and a constitutional crisis," Perot said, inaccurately claiming Clinton was facing "pending criminal charges."

Clinton's administration is under investigation by the Whitewater prosecutor and has been under fire for accepting questionable foreign donations. No federal charges have been levied against the president.

As they traditionally do, the folks in a two New Hampshire hamlets gathered at midnight to give the country the first returns: Dixville Notch gave Dole 18 votes to eight for Clinton and one for Perot. At Hart's Location, 50 miles away, it was Dole 13, Clinton 12 and Perot four.

Across the nation, turnout is expected to be low. It could fall close to 50.1 percent of citizens over age 18, the rate recorded in 1988, the lowest in modern times.

Four years ago, spurred by Perot, turnout reached 55 percent.

ers. "If it comes through with a million, I think, a little bit over a million, then it's over for Phil," Morales said.

The races for Congress were less clear cut.

More than half the 30 congressional elections were to be decided today. But since federal judges ordered special elections in 13 Dallas and Houston-area districts — and many of those drew more than two candidates — some December runoffs were possible.

Democrats were hoping to expand their 18-12 margin in the U.S. House but said the court-ordered elections gave the GOP an advantage. Republicans hoped to trim the Democrats' lead by at least two seats.

The GOP also was eyeing the state Capitol, where Democratic control of the Legislature has been a foregone conclusion for more than a century.

Democrats were clinging to a 16-14 lead in the 31-member Senate, with one seat vacant, and holding a more comfortable 84-63 lead in the 150-member House, with three vacancies.

The GOP even challenged House Speaker Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, who has been a lawmaker for 24 years.

Republicans hoped to hang onto their Texas Supreme Court majority, a job made somewhat easier when Democrats failed to field a candidate against Justice Greg Abbott.

In Court of Criminal Appeals races, Democratic Judge Frank Maloney was seeking re-election to the Court of Criminal Appeals, while two other Democratic incumbents retired.

supporting former deputy Jimmy Wallace when he ran against Sheriff A.N. Standard in the 1992 primary election.

Wheeler was with the department from March 1991 to October 1992 as a dispatcher and deputy.

But Judge Cummings ruled that Wheeler's rights had not been violated as a result of his termination.

"Howard County and the sheriff's department had not violated any constitutionally protected freedom of speech or association interest held by Wheeler, determining that under the facts of this case Wheeler had no such constitutionally protected interests," the judge wrote in his dismissal order.

Wheeler's suit was the third filed by former employees against the county, County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson said today. All three lawsuits have since been dismissed, he added.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6:

Set goals, determine the path you wish to take this year, then follow it. You attain the greatest success if you adhere to and implement the plans you envision.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your directness is important with co-workers. Imagination flings the door wide open. Ideas are enhanced by brainstorming. Get feedback from an older boss or a respected friend. Examine ideas thoroughly, before leaping in with both feet. Tonight: Get in a good workout at the gym. ****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Creative visualization illuminates options. You discover more than one way to work through problems. Make your opinions known. Reach out for others who are at a distance. Your soft words touch another. Discussions are animated. Tonight: Make it different. ****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be more solid about what you expect and want. Recognize and value the importance of your domestic life, vis-a-vis a partnership. You might want another's input before you finalize a change. Build on what exists. Don't retreat from a problem. Tonight: It's couch potato night. ****

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You discover that a lot is going on with a partner. You need information. How a situation unfolds influences what you share. A partner responds to your creative and dynamic energy. Making music together, professionally or personally, is a snap. Tonight: The song plays on. ****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You need to have things your way. Your more possessive side emerges. Realize what is happening with associates and with someone who is important to you. Understand what transpires at work. Be open to new possibilities. Tonight: Indulge in the finer things of life. ****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your more playful side comes out. A more whimsical you is unleashed, encouraged by a child or flirtation. Venture out, and handle matters in a different way. Trust what is happening with others. You have the charisma and personality to melt barriers. Tonight: Be your naughty self. ****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Pull back, and consider what is good for you. Pause and think; don't give up. Family and security dominate. You see another point of view. Don't assume that someone else is right, however. Review a change, and make your own decision. Tonight: Don't hesitate to say "yes." **

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Focus on what is happening within a friendship. Understand priorities, partners' motivations and long-term goals, to figure out what is the appropriate course of action. Your opinions are valuable now. Feedback is imperative to problem-solving. Tonight: Aim for what you want. ****

Mom becomes too amicable following daughter's divorce

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother and my ex-husband. When "Steve" and I divorced two years ago, there were a lot of hard feelings. My mother is aware of this because I was living with her at the time. Abby, my mother constantly takes Steve's side over mine. She repeatedly "reminds" me how lucky I am that Steve pays child support and has regular visits with our daughter. I agree that I am luckier than most divorced mothers. But when I discuss any problem I might be having with Steve, Mom takes his side and says, "He pulls his own weight."

What I would like Steve to do is to take more responsibility for our daughter. She stays with him two days a week, but you can bet that on one of those days he will have something else to do — like work, a date or a ball game. Then he asks Mom to baby-sit our daughter and Mom readily agrees. When I ask her to baby-sit for me, she immediately wants to know why. When Steve drops our daughter off at Mom's house, family members tell me that he usually spends up to an hour visiting with her. I think this is strange behavior.

What is this "thing" between my ex-husband and my mom? She didn't think he was so great when we were married. Why the sudden change? Is this my ex's way of staying involved in my life? When I ask Mom about this she gets defensive, or ignores me, or hangs up on me. — CONFUSED DAUGHTER, METAIRIE, LA.

DEAR CONFUSED: Your mother is walking a tightrope between remaining cordial with your "ex," being loyal to you and being a good grandmother. She may go a little overboard defending Steve, but she may also be playing the "devil's advocate," pointing out his good features so that you will eventually have a civil relationship.

Although Steve is no longer your husband, that doesn't mean he can't be a friend of your mother's. Because you share custody of your child, Steve will always be in your life to some degree. Try to accept it and go on with your life.

DEAR ABBY: I am a male in my mid-30s and have been divorced for nearly two years. For the past year, I have been casually dating. During this period, a friend of mine passed away suddenly. His widow is everything I would ever want in a wife. Our families have participated in many activities together — baseball games, zoo, picnics, movies, etc. Our children get along great. I never intended to fall in love, but I have.

I know I am ready to move on with my life. But I don't know when my friend will be — if ever. How will I know when the time is right? She is truly a diamond, and I don't want to lose her — or our friendship. Please help me. — IN LOVE

DEAR IN LOVE: I wish all the questions I am asked were as easy to answer. Invite her to dinner without the children and tell her how you feel.

HOW TO PLAY

Select a winner from each of the week's games, listed below. Select in descending order of your CONFIDENCE in your choices. Win points at left for each correct selection toward possible total of 136 points. See complete rules below. You must be at least 8 (eight) years old to enter. To enter, clip along dotted line, then place game entry in POWER POINTS container at co-sponsor's retail outlet(s). Entrants must list name, address and phone number below.

LIMIT: You may enter only one coupon statewide per week.

DEADLINE: 2 P.M. FRIDAY

TIEBREAKER 1 Total points scored (both teams) in COWBOYS game.

TIEBREAKER 2 Total offensive yards (both teams) in this game.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Arizona at Washington	Atlanta at St. Louis
Baltimore at Jacksonville	Buffalo at Philadelphia
Chicago at Denver	Dallas at San Francisco
Green Bay at Kansas City	Houston at New Orleans
Indianapolis at Miami	Minnesota at Seattle
New England at N.Y. Jets	Oakland at Tampa Bay
Pittsburgh at Cincinnati	Detroit at San Diego
N.Y. Giants at Carolina	Texas at Texas Tech

POWER POINTS OFFICIAL RULES

- Object of the game is to amass as many of the 136 possible points as you can. Simply review the week's schedule of games, listed on entry form, and decide which game you are surest of picking a winner in. Write the name of your projected winner on the 16-point line. If that team wins its game that week, you win 16 points. Write the name of your second-surest winner on the 15-point line, and so on down to the 1-point line, which game you figure to be a toss-up.
- Next, fill in Tiebreaker 1, the total points scored by both teams in the week's Cowboys or Oilers game. If this step fails to produce a winner, the judges will apply Tiebreaker 2, total offensive yardage from scrimmage in this game. If a winner still doesn't emerge, a drawing will be held among those contestants still tied. Decisions of the judges are final. The weekly winner of the contest will receive $1,000.
- Any entry form that does not contain a legible name, address, etc., will be disqualified.
- Entries that fail to forecast a winner from each and every game will be disqualified, as will entries that fail to distinguish between the Jets and Giants of New York and Pitt and Pittsburgh.
- No points are awarded on tie games or in case any game is not played for any reason during its scheduled week.
- Entering POWER POINTS constitutes permission by contestant for his or her name and photograph to be used for news and reasonable promotional purposes at no charge.
- Employees of this newspaper and their immediate families are ineligible to participate.
- Any inquiry about or protest of weekly results must be made by Noon on the Friday following the announcement of winners.
- No purchase necessary. Facsimile game entry forms will be accepted. Enter contest by dropping entry form into POWER POINTS container at participating co-sponsors.
- Weekly deadline for entry will be 2 p.m. Fridays except when noted otherwise on weekly entry form.
- Neither this newspaper nor any co-sponsor will be responsible for illegible entry forms or those lost, stolen or damaged in any way.
- Limit: one entry per person per week. Each entry must represent the original work of one entrant; "group" entries, "systems" or other attempts to enter multiple entries will be disqualified. Filing out extra forms and putting your friends' and relatives' names on them violates this rule. Any such entries are destroyed prior to grading.
- Contestants must have reached the age of eight (8) years by the Sunday of any week's play.

OUR VIEWS

Vietnam Memorial bid deserves our support

The current "Mount The Huey" campaign to upgrade Big Spring's Vietnam Memorial needs more than just the boost it will receive this weekend from the local Harley-Davidson owner's group, it needs community-wide backing.

Of course, one of the ways in which the community can get involved in supporting the project is to attend Saturday's "Mount The Huey Seafood Fest" at the Harley-Davidson Shop on West Third Street.

Mel's Catfish Restaurant is catering the event which begins at noon Saturday and the Harley Owners' Group is asking for $15 donations for the all-you-can-eat meal. In addition, assorted games are scheduled and three bands are expected to perform.

The local Vietnam veterans committee is raising funds to construct a permanent display for a UH-1 "Huey" helicopter at the memorial.

The project calls for placing the helicopter, which the veterans committee purchased several years ago, atop a 20-foot-tall mount. The exact cost of mounting the Huey at the memorial is known, but estimates range between $10,000 and $30,000.

Committee members say they hope to be able to display the helicopter during Saturday's fund-raising event, as well as in other locations throughout the city, as they continue their bid to secure the funds necessary for the project.

From our viewpoint, making a donation of $15 to help in upgrading the Vietnam Memorial is something all of us who are able should do. Getting an all-you-can-eat seafood meal in the process is nothing short of a bargain.

Besides, this effort not only needs our support but deserves it.

OTHER VIEWS

In a campaign of breathtaking hypocrisy, President Clinton has saved the best for last: Even as the attorney general mulls asking for a special prosecutor to investigate his party's political fund-raising, he called for campaign finance reform.

With the Democratic National Committee awash in cash and personally freed from the need ever to raise funds again, the president proposed banning "soft money" contributions of the kind John Huang raised in abundance.

"This is a time for action," he said — four days before the election.

The reform measures the president endorsed are embodied in the McCain-Feingold bill, which co-sponsor Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., says Clinton never lifted a finger to help pass.

Exhibiting the kind of meanness that has dogged his campaign, Bob Dole joined the president in this leap into hypocrisy by endorsing the principles of McCain-Feingold, whose passage he blocked as Senate Republican leader.

That bill would ban contributions to the parties and federal campaigns from corporations, labor unions and political action committees. It would ban "soft money," a way of avoiding campaign contribution limits by giving directly to the parties.

There are problems with the McCain-Feingold bill. It would set voluntary spending limits on congressional races, limits which might be unworkable in practice, and calls for free and vastly reduced TV time for candidates, a way of pushing campaign costs off on broadcasters.

But now a bill that neither worked to help pass has the endorsement of the leaders of both parties, and since neither of them will run for president again, they can both devote their efforts — assuming, of course, they meant what they said — to campaign finance reform.

Then everybody will be happy, except perhaps for Vice President Al Gore, who, if the Democrats keep the White House, will be ideally situated to raise money for his own presidential race under the bad, old rules.

Looking for light-hearted campaign moments

WASHINGTON — As the 1996 presidential campaign ends, its many light-hearted moments should be remembered. OK, its few such moments.

Many think the defining moment of the Bob Dole campaign may have been Sept. 18 in Chico, Calif., when he leaned against a rail that wasn't nailed down and plunged head-first into the crowd. While the first reaction of nearly everyone was horror, Dole's immediate recovery and non-stop quips saved the day for him. "I think I just earned my third Purple Heart going over the rail. I think you could say I've fallen for Chico."

He would later amplify it to say that he was merely "reaching out" to voters or "trying to do that Democratic dance, the Macarena. I won't do that again."

From then on, he would say, "Don't worry. I'm not going to dive off the stage today." Now, he uses the incident to illustrate his point that there are too many lawsuits in America. As he was falling, he says, his cell phone rang and it was a trial lawyer telling him, "I think we have a case here."

Dole's worst gaffe — ranking up there with George Bush putting Pearl Harbor Day on Sept. 7 or telling voters "I'm coming up with my own drug problem" and Dan Quayle spelling "potato" with an "e" — was probably referring to Hideo Nomo as pitching for the "Brooklyn" Dodgers, a team that actually left Brooklyn in 1957.

His best one-liner may have been when the Republican convention showed a schmaltzy video of his life, playing up his war wounds and his family's poverty. Dole, who has harshly criticized Hollywood for movies he hasn't seen, joked, "I finally found a movie I like."

Dole, who had people saying he looked positively "lifelike" during the debates, occasionally uses self-deprecating humor about his age of 73 (if he wins, he would be the oldest president ever to be elected to a first term). Usually, he notes that Strom Thurmond, the 93-year-old Republican senator seeking another term from South Carolina, thinks Dole is a kid.

Vice President Al Gore, who has a well-deserved reputation for being wooden, elicited his most genuine laughter when he took the lectern at the Democratic National Committee to "dance" the Macarena. Standing stock still, his face frozen, he deadpanned, "Do you want to see me do it again?"

Dole's running mate Jack Kemp, ex-quarterback, ex-congressman and ex-Housing secretary, is usually too earnest and eager to discuss policy to joke, although he has a good sense of humor. Sometimes he lets loose.

He says he decided to go into politics after retiring from the Buffalo Bills in 1970. "After two broken ankles, two broken shoulders, a broken passing hand and 11 concussions, there was nothing left to do but go into Congress. The only thing I never broke was my hair."

While comedian Mark Russell says Clinton is a master of humor, the president has been cheerful and upbeat but careful to avoid giving his critics any new ammunition. Russell's take is that Clinton is "at his best at a funeral doing a eulogy. Bob Dole is at his best when the funeral is not his own."

It's been Hillary Rodham Clinton who unintentionally provided humor when it was revealed she had a White House meeting where she had imaginary conversations with Eleanor Roosevelt.

Dole now never fails to say that his wife Elizabeth, a lawyer and $200,000 head of the American Red Cross, is "so talented that Eleanor Roosevelt is trying to contact her."

Well, we tried to glean humor this year. The problem with this election is that Dole is so desperate he tried to court his enemy Ross Perot and Clinton is so worried about low turnout and having no coattails to elect Democrats to Congress that he dare not joke.

Nothing like Ronald Reagan telling Walter "I'll-raise-your-taxes" Mondale in 1984, "I'd say you were taxing my patience, but it would just give you another idea."

Nothing like George Bush saying of rival Michael Dukakis, "I wouldn't be surprised if he thinks naval exercises are something you'd find in a Jane Fonda workout book."

Of course, the highlight of the year for comedians was the revelation that Dick Morris, the political guru who helped resurrect Clinton's political career by urging him to be more "family" oriented and conservative, was seeing a $200-an-hour prostitute and sharing with her presidential conversations and the information that NASA had found evidence of life on Mars.

Sometimes life is stranger than fiction.

But sometimes political races are "B-or-i-n-g."

Jewell: A nobody who wanted to be somebody

By LEONARD LARSEN
Scripps Howard News Service

WASHINGTON — He was, like so many of us, a nobody who wanted to be somebody. He was a part-time guard and he wanted to be a respected police officer, admired for his skills, dedication to his profession and, perhaps, for bravery in the face of danger. When his moment came one night during the Olympics in Atlanta and he tried to be what he wanted to be, they used it against him. A shabby FBI investigation, a rushed search warrant and a shameful media onslaught hurled Richard Jewell into worldwide fame as the principal suspect, the "Olympic bomber," responsible for two deaths and dozens of injuries. He's lived with that and he'll live with it the rest of his life, even after the Justice Department informed Jewell — 88 days after the Atlanta bombing — that he was no longer an FBI target. And none of them — not the FBI, not the magistrate who issued a search warrant based on flimsy evidence and pure gossip and certainly not the media, which spent untold time and effort harassing Jewell — have said they were wrong and they're sorry. Actually, said FBI Director Louis Freeh, his agency did a good job overall in the Olympic bombing case, although — with the case still unsolved — he remains troubled that information leaked to the media two days after the July 27 pipe-bombing prematurely revealed Jewell as the FBI's prime suspect. Freeh said he's also concerned about the "propriety" of the FBI questioning of Jewell before Jewell knew he was a suspect. That, presumably, was a sleaze-tainted session during which FBI agents sought to trick Jewell in what they told him was a "training video" in which he would sign away his right to counsel. Freeh might more urgently examine two other matters: an obviously flawed FBI process that produced the search warrant against Jewell on no real showing of evidence while the pack media was savaging Jewell, and FBI use of criminal "profiles" that will fit — or be forced to fit — a criminal suspect when and if such a suspect is identified. The "profile" the FBI eventually force-fitted on Jewell — that of a bumbling braggart on the fringes of law enforcement who would set off a bomb to make himself appear heroic — was never mentioned in the FBI affidavit which on July 30 officially revealed Jewell as the Olympic bombing suspect. But the "profile" appears to have been used repeatedly in the affidavit, from criticisms of Jewell's gung-ho work attitude at previous jobs as a campus guard and a deputy sheriff, to reports — as if they were incriminating — that Jewell received bomb training in one job, even to suggestions that Jewell's actions were suspicious when he did what probably saved some lives the night of the bombing: called attention to the backpack in the Atlanta park that turned out to have contained the bomb. Other gossip repeated in the sworn affidavit for the Jewell search warrant included information from an acquaintance of Jewell's who told the FBI that his wife and he watched Jewell in a TV interview after the bombing and "shared concerns regarding Jewell's stability." That useless gem of non-evidence was alongside the account of FBI contact with another acquaintance of Jewell's who, in the words of the FBI affidavit, "opined that Jewell might have believed that this (setting off an explosion in his area of responsibility) could make him appear heroic and would enable him to get employed as a police officer, again." Little or no usable evidence or testimony linking Jewell to the Atlanta bombing or any crime appeared in the FBI affidavit, whose spilled contents not only smeared Jewell but kicked off a relentless FBI wild goose chase while the real bomber must have made a clean getaway. The mean work of the FBI in persecution of a man now seen as a guiltless victim is exactly as contemptible as the print and electronic media, which not only raced each other to tar a hapless victim but bragged — still brag — that the media must do such vile business because it's their right and obligation under the First Amendment. The news business, all of it, should be ashamed. The FBI should be cleaned out, top to bottom.

Yankees' Derek Jeter is unanimous choice as AL Rookie of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Derek Jeter began this spring as the second-most publicized shortstop in New York, thinking he might get sent down the minors once the season started.

By opening day, he'd already made his mark.

In the first game of the year, Jeter homered and made a sparkling, over-the-shoulder catch. By the time the Yankees won the World Series, he had blossomed into one of baseball's best young players.

Just four months past his 22nd birthday, Jeter unanimously won the AL Rookie of the Year award Monday.

Jeter batted .314 with 10 home runs and 78 RBIs, and settled a position that had long been in flux for the Yankees. Not that he was going to brag about it.

"Baseball is a real humbling sport," he said at Yankee Stadium. "One day you're on top and the next day you're not. I'm enjoying this now, but I don't think you're going to have to worry about me getting a big head."

Jeter was the eighth Yankees player to win the award — including shortstops Tony Kubek and Tom Tresh — and first since Dave Righetti in 1981. He received all 28 first-place votes and 140 points in balloting by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Chicago White Sox pitcher James Baldwin, who went 11-6, got 19 second-place votes and 64 points. Detroit first baseman Tony Clark, who hit 27 home runs, was third with six second-place votes and 30 points.

Jeter was the fifth unanimous choice for the AL award and the first since California outfielder Tim Salmon in 1993.

Voting was completed at the end of the regular season. That was before Jeter hit that startling home run caught by a 12-year-old boy in the AL playoffs and before his RBI single against Greg Maddux keyed New York's win over Atlanta in the clinching Game 6 of the Series.

"Winning a world championship is the best, even more than winning this award," Jeter said.

Jeter, the sixth player picked in the 1992 draft, briefly appeared for the Yankees in 1995. He earned the starting job this spring, although fancy-fielding Mets shortstop Rey Ordóñez attracted more attention than Jeter at the start of the year.

Jeter credited manager Joe Torre with giving him boosts of confidence.

"I had rough periods all season. In spring training, I thought they were going to send me out when the season started," he said.

"He told me I was the shortstop and he was behind me everytime I had a problem or didn't play well," he said.

Jeter became the Yankees' sixth different opening-day shortstop in six years — following Tony Fernandez, Mike Gallego, Spike Owen, Randy Velarde and Alvaro Espinoza — and quickly established himself.

On opening day in Cleveland, in just his 16th major league game, he showed off his many talents. He was the first Yankees rookie to homer on opening day since Jerry Kenney in 1969, and also made an over-the-shoulder catch, a play that became his trademark.

He played 157 games this season, the most by a Yankees shortstop since Bucky Dent in 1977. He also became the first No. 1 pick of the Yankees to make an impact with the team since Thurman Munson, chosen in the 1968 draft.

"Big situations never scared him," Torre said.

Besides being a successful rookie, there was another status that seemed to bring Jeter even more celebrity: Being single.

Jeter, who often talked to fans while in the on-deck circle, turned into the darling of many of the Yankees' female rooters. In fact, after John F. Kennedy Jr. got married, some said Jeter was the most eligible bachelor in New York.

"Oh, I don't know who said that," he said. "That may be because I am one of the few single players."

Not if 8-year-old Christina Skleros has her way. The youngster from Barnegat, N.J., became a Yankees' good-luck charm because each time she sang the national anthem, they won. After Game 6 of the Series, she said she wanted to fix up her favorite player, Jeter, with her homeroom teacher.

Jeter's 78 RBIs were the most by a Yankees shortstop since Frank Crosetti had 78 in 1936, and he became the first full-time shortstop for the Yankees to bat over .300 since Gil McDougald hit .311 in 1956. Jeter's RBI total was the highest by a rookie shortstop in the majors since Julio Franco had 80 in 1980.

Jeter made 22 errors and stole 14 bases. He also struck out 102 times while batting in several spots, including leadoff and ninth.

Jeter, whose salary was $120,000 this year, had a $10,000 bonus clause in his contract for winning the award. He'll likely get about $220,000 as his share for winning the World Series.

Steers can make playoffs with help from Pecos

By CLIFF NEWELL
Sports Editor

Big Spring Steer football fans, all is not lost. Not by a long shot.

Even though the Steers have lost three straight district games, they still have a shot at finishing third in district and making the state playoffs.

"I was shocked when I found out," said head coach Dwight Butler. "Now it's just basically head to head."

The following needs to happen for BSHS to reach post-season play:

• Big Spring must defeat Andrews.

• If Fort Stockton beats Pecos, Big Spring must beat Andrews by eight points.

• If Pecos beats Fort Stockton, Big Spring just has to win.

Of course, winning at Andrews won't be easy. Andrews features super sophomore Shaud Williams.

Actually, Williams used to be super. Now he is unbelievable after rushing for 448 yards in Andrews' 43-27 win over Fort Stockton last Friday.

Meanwhile, Butler said, "I just hope we have enough players to play."

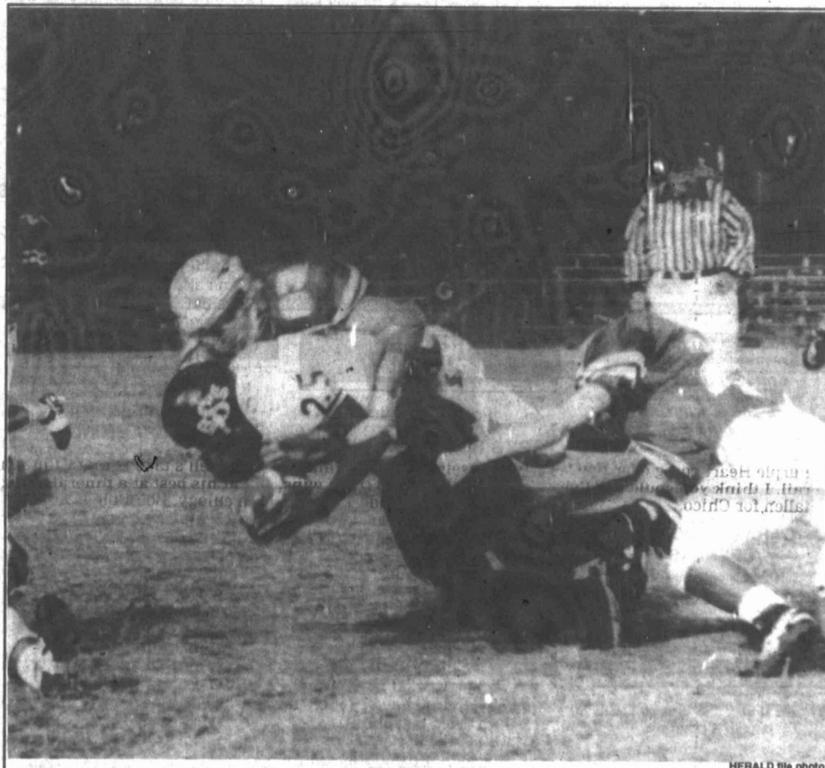

The Steers have been thin all season, and the situation has gotten worse in the last few games. Starting quarterback Gabriel Mendoza is "very questionable" after suffering a leg injury against Sweetwater, and a number of other Steers are banged up.

Still, Butler thinks the prospect of still attaining a playoff berth will be a tremendous motivation for his team.

Of the clash with Andrews, he said, "I think it's going to be great."

While the Steers are making their last-ditch effort to reach post-season, the District 4-4A game of the year will be taking place between highly-ranked Sweetwater and defending champion San Angelo Lake View for the district title.

4-4A ROUNDUP

Antwoyne Edwards dives for yardage against San Angelo Lake View earlier in the year. The Steers travel to Andrews Friday night to face the Mustangs in a game that has playoff implications.

Lake View has won 14 straight district games, but unbeaten Sweetwater must be rated a favorite in the contest. However, the Mustangs must stop the Chiefs ability to come back, thanks mainly to stand-out quarterback Sterlin Gilbert.

A roundup of last week's games:

Using the terrific running of quarterback Andrew Boatright and a giant size advantage, Sweetwater rolled over Big Spring 33-6 in Memorial Stadium.

Boatright proved to be impossibly slippery in rushing for 255 yards and scoring four touchdowns. The biggest factor, though, was the large Sweetwater line wearing down the Steers in the second half. As usual, the Mustangs accomplished their victory with almost no passing attack. Despite a 2-7 record, it was the first time the Steers had truly been out of a game this season.

Big Spring tailback Antwoyne Edwards was a true workhorse. He carried 13 times on Big Spring's opening drive alone, and he finished with 116 yards on 35 carries.

In Fort Stockton, Andrews rode Shaud Williams' 448-yard rushing effort past the Panthers, 43-27.

Williams gained the attention of the entire state when he rushed for 448 yards and scored five touchdowns. Fort Stockton managed to be competitive, despite missing injured standout Jacob Vasquez. His absence prevented a showdown between the district's two top running backs. The Panthers got 124 yards from running back Danny Diaz and 121 yards from quarterback Ector Lopez.

The Lake View Chiefs tuned up for the big game with Sweetwater by routing Pecos, 32-14 in San Angelo.

The Chiefs seem to be surviving the loss of top running back Adam Binnix. Replacements Chris Burgess had 112 rushing yards and Kendall Jones had 81.

Quarterback Sterling Gilbert was his usual self, completing 10 of 15 passes for 112 yards.

Big 12 South comes down to Tech, Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Most everyone figured the Texas Longhorns would be playing for the chance to be in the Big 12 title game in St. Louis on Dec. 7.

But few figured they would be 4-4 (3-2 Big 12) and needing to win their final three games to win the Big 12 South Division outright.

As it turns out, Texas Tech (5-3, 4-2) is in the driver's seat with Byron Hanspard, the nation's leading rusher, averaging 201 yards per game, and a defense that ranks in the top 30 nationally in every statistical category.

If the Longhorns lose to Tech Saturday in Lubbock, they'll be out of the Big 12 South hunt and in need of win... in their final two games at Kansas and home against Texas A&M simply to qualify for a bowl bid.

"This is our season," said Texas linebacker Tyson King, already shaking his head at the prospect of having to tackle the elusive Hanspard all Saturday evening. "We've got to prove our doubters wrong against Tech. We haven't done that well against big-name teams. We get another chance Saturday. We're down to our ninth life."

Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes, whose team romped over the Longhorns 33-9 in Lubbock in 1994, said the Raiders aren't taking Texas lightly.

"They were certainly an overwhelming choice in the preseason polls to win the South Division," Dykes said. "They've got a lot of firepower."

"I know we'll see the best they have to offer Saturday. I just hope to be able to hang in there with them," Dykes said in his usual attempt to poormouth his team's chances.

The Longhorns have been battling themselves as much as anyone. The defense hasn't stopped the run. The offense is prone to costly turnovers, and the team's heart was questioned after four star players met with an agent one day after a supposedly gut-wrenching loss at Colorado.

Throw in the fact that Texas has blown three fourth-quarter leads in losses to Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Colorado and you have a team that many thought would contend for a national championship still searching for an identity.

The Longhorns, losers of four of their last six, barely escaped with a 28-23 victory over Baylor at home Saturday after leading 21-0.

"This is our most important game of the year," said center Ryan Fiebigler. "It had been awhile since we had won a game and beating Baylor was an ugly win, but we won. We know we have to do a better job of putting teams away."

Texas coach John Mackovic is trying to stress positives.

"We know if we win this game, it gives us a tremendous leg up on Tech or anyone else," Mackovic said. "If we lose, we would definitely be out of it. This game is a must game if we want to win the southern division, and a key game for us to be a qualifier for a bowl game."

The game will likely hinge on the Longhorns' ability to stop Hanspard, which could mean trouble for Texas. The Longhorns, a four-point underdog this week, are giving up an average of 203.4 yards per game on the ground.

Tech has had two weeks to prepare for Texas after an off-week.

Texas defensive players tried to project how many yards Hanspard could gain and still have the Longhorns come out with a victory.

"I don't know," said Taje Allen, a senior cornerback from Lubbock. "Rashaan Salaam ran for 317 yards on us a few years ago and we were still in that game. Hopefully, Byron won't get that much."

Defensive end Gray Mosier said, "If he runs for 99 yards, he won't hurt our feelings. But when he starts going into the end zone, that's when it gets tough for us to accept."

Texas leads the overall series 34-11, but the two teams have split the last 10 meetings. UT holds a 12-7 advantage in games played in Lubbock. The Longhorns played a nearly flawless game last year in a 48-7 rout in Austin.

Sweetwater moves to No. 4 in latest AP prep poll

DALLAS (AP) — This defending champion isn't going so well for La Marque.

The Cougars suffered their second regular-season defeat last weekend and on Monday were absent from The Associated Press high school football poll for the first time since the 1992 season ended.

La Marque's 42-poll streak — which had been the longest in any class — was ended by a 20-7 loss to Lamar Consolidated. The victory improved Consolidated to 8-0-1 and earned the Mustangs the No. 10 spot in the 4A poll.

Elsewhere, Humble's 17-14 victory over Aldine brought it into the poll at No. 9 and sent Aldine to 10th from second, and Kennedale became No. 10 in 3A in place of Hitchcock, which was bounced out by Sealy.

Kennedale hasn't been ranked since at least two decades ago, while Humble and Lamar Consolidated return to the rankings for the first time since 1994, according to Walk Sports Services, which tracks the AP poll dating to 1976.

La Marque's slide is one of the big stories of this season.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL POLL

The Cougars opened the year ranked No. 1 in 4A and won their first three games to tie the class record of 50 straight regular-season wins set by Cuero from 1971-76.

That streak ended the following week when La Marque was stomped 22-0 by Tyler John Tyler, the fifth-ranked team in 5A at the time.

The Cougars rebounded to win four straight before last weekend's meltdown. Now, La Marque has its first two-loss season since 1991 and has lost two regular-season games for the first time since '90.

Yet, the Cougars picked a good year to stumble. This is the first season three teams from each 4A district will make the playoffs, so they'll probably still have a chance to defend their title in the postseason.

Consolidated made the playoffs last year with a 6-4 record and were ousted in the first week. This season, the Mustangs could go even further — especially if they can prove Friday's game wasn't a fluke.

Corpus Christi Calallen, which remained second in 4A following a 48-0 victory over Rockport, now has the state's longest streak of consecutive weeks in the AP poll at 42. The Wildcats began their run after the first game of 1993 season, one poll after La Marque started its streak.

Sweetwater moves up a notch, from fifth to fourth.

The shakeup in 5A is interesting because defending Class 5A Division I champion Converse Judson (8-1) slipped out of the poll despite doubling San Antonio Madison 56-28.

The Rockets received 23 points in the statewide survey of sportswriters and broadcasters, the same amount as Lewisville and Richardson Lake Highlands — and just one point behind No. 10 Aldine (8-1). Humble (9-0), which is ninth, was four more points ahead.

Hitchcock's loss in its 1996 poll debut made way for Kennedale (8-0-1). The Wildcats have shown vast improvement from last season, when they were 6-4-1.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 5, the 310th day of 1996. There are 56 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: In 1805, the "Gunpowder Plot"

Fifty years ago, on Nov. 5, 1946, Republicans captured control of both the Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives in midterm elections. Democrat John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts won a House seat. On this date: In 1895, George B. Selden of Rochester, N.Y., received the first U.S. patent for an automobile. In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected president, defeating Progressive Republican Theodore Roosevelt and incumbent Republican William Howard Taft. In 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt won an unprecedented third term in office as he defeated Republican challenger Wendell L. Willkie. In 1944, British official Lord Moyne was assassinated in Cairo, Egypt, by the Zionist Stern gang. In 1956, Britain and France started landing forces in Egypt during fighting between Egyptian and Israeli forces around the Suez Canal. (A cease-fire was declared two days later.) In 1968, Richard M. Nixon won the presidency, defeating Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and third-party candidate George C. Wallace. In 1990, Rabbi Meir Kahane, a Brooklyn-born Israeli extremist, was shot to death after a speech at a New York hotel. (Egyptian native El Sayyed Nosair was acquitted of state charges, but was later convicted in federal court of Kahane's killing.)
