

Critical need for O-negative blood cause for Friday blood drive at BS Care Center

By CARLTON JOHNSON Staff Writer

A recent critical need for type O negative blood has prompted San Angelo-based United Blood Services (UBS) to schedule a blood drive from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday at Big Spring Care Center.

According UBS Relations Community Representative Angie Tyson, the drive could not come at a better time.

"We are very grateful to Big Spring Care Center for allowing us to conduct a blood drive this close to a holiday," Tyson said. "Just this week UBS had to declare a critical appeal for type O negative blood, which is a very serious situation going into Memorial Day weekend."

According to Tyson, type O negative blood is universal and can be received by anyone regardless of blood type. Holidays are typically a time of increased blood usage, but unfortunately, a time of Donors are asked to provide identification, such as a driver's license or UBS donor card, and are also asked to know the name of any medication they are currently taking.

According to Tyson, donors must be between the ages of 17 and 79 and must be feeling well and healthy at the time of their donation.

"Most people think there is an urgent need when they hear the term blood drive, but the idea decreasing numbers of blood is to keep a plentiful supply on ments made with local hospi-donors. "We don't tals to supply that hospital's ever want to cry wolf, but someone always needs blood," Tyson said.

Big Spring residents have responded well to UBS during local blood drives in the past. What we do is try to schedule blood drives every 10 weeks," Tyson said. "People can safely donate blood every eight weeks and one of our purposes is to schedule drives so that the people who want to give can."

UBS operates based on agree-blood products. UBS supplies both Scenic Mountain Medical Center and the VAMC as well as the entire area between Big Spring to the north and Sonora to the south and Brownwood to the east and Alpine to the west.

"The agreements we make with local hospitals mean we have the opportunity to go into various communities to host our blood drives," Tyson said "People who donate are basically making sure their own community hospital is provided with blood as well as the next largest hospital they or someone may have to go to for further medical care.

"One of the challenges faced in West Texas is that the population is not as great as it is in many metropolitan areas." Tyson added. "But a lot of miles and a lot of area still has to be covered. People generally have very little idea of what kind of mileage we're talking about when it comes to blood drives in West Texas."

work resumes on Beals Creek project

By JOHN A. MOSELEY

News Editor

Having received the go ahead last month from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the city of Big Spring has resumed construction on the Beals Creek project.

"We're back to working on the schedule," City Manager Gary Fuqua said this morning. "Once we received the notice to proceed, we went back to working full-tilt on the project."

Having received some of the relief it sought to offset the increased costs of the project in the form of a credit for the city allowing its landfill to be used for disposal of the addition soil contamination found at the project site, the city was able to begin work once the Corps approved resumption of work. The exact dollar amount of the credit the city will receive is not yet known. However, when the Corps of Engineers announced the project could be resumed, Community Development and Utilities Director Todd Darden said the city hoped it could receive a credit of about $1.4 million. "The Corps of Engineers is still negotiating with the contractor, and once they finish those negotiations, they'll determine how much credit we'll receive." Darden said this morning. "I really do expect that we'll be hearing from the Corps any day."

The initial soil contamination found a few years ago was thought to be minimal and isolated to one spot, and borings done at various locations of the site did not reveal any additional contamination.

The additional amount of contaminated soil is the equivalent of a football field 13 1/2 feet high.

Instead of the original cost estimate of $5.73 million - $4.24 million being paid by the Corps and $1.49 million by the city the additional contamination has increased the estimated project cost to more than $10.8 million of which the city would owe about $2.72 million.

The contaminated soil to be removed will total approximately 130,000 cubic yards, all of which would be cleaned and taken to the city landfill.

The city estimates that value at $1.8 million and believes it can receive a credit of $1.4 million, which would drop the city's cash payment to $574,000. The city has already paid about $190,000, leaving about $384.000 with about $548.000 in cash on hand for the project. The city is also in the process of applying for Texas Department of Community Development Urgent Need grant for up to $300,000, which would also drop the city's cash contribution considerably, but the grant may not be needed if the credit is granted. The city may also have funds left over from the original Beals Creek bond to purchase equipment to take care of the channel once the project is completed.

Dr. Morgan Park dedication scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday at park

Dedication signifies culmination of 3-year community project

Today the doors close on another school year for the Big Spring Independent School District and to make sure children have plenty to do this summer, the city has timed the opening of Earnest S. Morgan Park to coincide with the end of school.

Morgan Park will be officially dedicated at 10 a.m. Friday during a ribbon cutting ceremony, followed by a barbecue luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Friday's ceremony is the culmination of a three-year effort, which has been spearheaded by Big Spring City Councilwoman Stephanie Horton.

The park at 900 Father Delaney St. was once the old northside swimming pool which has been filled with sand and turned into a volleyball court, playground equipment has been added, a basketball court built and a walk-way (trail) that winds its way through the park is also included.

The city of Big Spring was notified in the fall of 1995 by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission that the park project had been approved for a 50/50 Texas Parks and Recreation grant in the amount of $71,500.

The federal matching fund program was established to assist states, cities, towns, counties and other local governments in defraying the costs of purchasing park land and developing outdoor recreation facilities.

As for Friday's ceremony, City Manager Fuqua said it will be a time for a lot of hard work to be appreciated.

"We're going to have a barbecue lunch and thank the people involved with getting this project off the ground," Fuqua said. "We want to get things kicked off since today is the last day of school."

"A few months ago, we began looking at what would be a good time to have the ribbon cutting ceremony and Mrs. Horton thought it would be good to put it around the end of

According to Horton, the city crews also received a lot of help from the inmates in the city's inmate work program.

Horton added there are kids in the area where the park is located that have not had anywhere to play in the past and Morgan Park will keep kids from wondering into school playgrounds like nearby Lakeview Headstart.

One of the main goals of the park is to provide a safe, enjoyable, low maintenance and secure outdoor recreational facility for Big Spring residents regardless of age or physical ability.

For a second time in three months, a Big Spring Police Department officer has been placed on administrative suspension for allegedly falsifying time sheets

Patrolman Jerry Penny, a veteran of almost three years with the department, was placed on paid suspension May 9 and a "show cause" hearing was held with Police Chief Jerry

According to City Attorney

Jim Finley, Edwards' decision on Penny's punishment is expected to be announced this

This morning Edwards said he hopes to be able to meet with Finley and be able to announce his decision in the case Friday.

"I'd like to be able to have a resolution on this by Friday," Edwards said this morning. "I don't like to live things like this hanging up in the air. It's not fair to the officer and his fami-

According to Finley, once dwards makes a determination in the case, Penny will have the choice of accepting Edwards' decision or appealing that finding to City Manager Gary Fuqua.

If the city manager upholds the police department's decision, Penny would have the option of again requesting an appeal that would be heard by a retired district judge.

"It's the same appeals process available to all city employees, not just police department per-sonnel," Finley explained. Efforts to contact Penny prior to press time this morning were unsuccessful.

According to Dwight Tiller, a representative of the Combined Law Enforcement Associations of Texas (CLEAT), Penny is a member of that organization, and will be represented by a CLEAT attorney during the discipline process.

Lt. Scott Griffin, Penny's former patrol division supervisor, was fired by the police department on March 4 for allegedly falsifying time sheets.

Edwards' decision to fire Griffin was upheld by Fuque on March 31. An appeal of Fuqua's decision will be heard by Curt Steib, a retired district judge from San Angelo.

Bill cracking down on minors who smoke derailed

AUSTIN — A bill imposing criminal penalties on minors who smoke has been derailed on a technicality. But the author of the bill says the measure could be back before the Texas House by the end of the week.

Rep. Warren Chisum, R-Pampa, killed further debate on the bill Wednesday night after two amendments that he proposed backed by the tobacco industry - were soundly defeated by the House.

The measure was returned to the House State Affairs Committee, where it was unanimously approved in a meeting late Wednesday night. Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, the House sponsor of the bill, said it could be considered again by the full House as soon as Friday.

Berlanga accused Chisum of being selfish for using a parliamentary tactic to stop debate on a bill that had strong support. "When he gets beaten badly and soundly by this body, he picks up his ball and goes home," Berlanga said. "He's clearly carrying water for big tobacco and that's most unfortunate."

Committee approves parental notification abortion bill

AUSTIN - Parents of minor girls seeking abortions would have to be notified at least 48 hours before doctors performed the operations under a bill approved by a House committee 11-1 late Wednesday.

The bill, already passed by the Senate, faces heated House debate before going back to the Senate to consider House changes. It's sponsor, Sen. Florence Shapiro, R-Plano, has said there are enough votes on the House floor for the bill to pass.

Mrs. Shapiro had criticized Rep. Steve Wolens, D-Dallas, chair man of the House State Affairs Committee, for delaying a committee vote on the bill.

"It's been in his committee since the middle of March," Mrs. Shapiro said Wednesday before the committee vote. "I think it's just been one of those issues that's been volatile and I think that he's got some concerns that he wants addressed. I just wish it hadn't been this late in addressing them."

. Gov. George W. Bush has said if the bill passes the House, he'll sign it.

Senators say action needed to diversify universities

AUSTIN — With major state universities facing a sharp decline in minority applications following the end of affirmative-action programs, some senators are suggesting shifting state money to more diverse schools.

"I think we ought to let the money go where the people are," said state Sen. Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, a black alumnus of the University of Texas' law school. "I think funding should be shifted to those educational institutions that do reflect the face of Texas.

UT's law school was the launching pad for a federal court battle that has ended with public universities eliminating race as a factor in admissions and scholarship decisions.

Since last year's court decision, minority applications have fallen dramatically at UT. Twenty-four percent fewer black students applied for fall 1997 admission, while Hispanic applications fell by 22 percent. The total number of applications from all potential students dropped 13 percent.

In addition, just one black student has so far sent in a tuition deposit to attend the law school, although it's not clear what decision may be made by 10 others who were offered admission, officials said.

Texas House bill would rewrite child protection laws

AUSTIN — Child-care facilities that violate health and safety rules would face a range of penalties, under a bill tentatively approved by the Texas House. Debate over the measure, rewriting and clarifying state laws governing the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services, turned into a fight over the regulation of so-called family homes Wednesday. Up to 12 children, including those of the homeowner, can be cared for in such homes after school. At other times, only up to six children not related to the homeowner can be cared for at one time. Under current law, family homes are required to be registered with the state and must meet some minimum health and safety standards established by the department. Rep. Patricia Gray, D-Galveston, said the law is not completely clear and that some homes are able to get away without being registered and without following state rules. But Rep. Charles Howard, R-Sugar Land, said he was concerned that allowing the department to set rules for the homes could force some out of business if the rules were set too high.

Family says Redford teen shot on border by Marines was only tending family's goats

REDFORD (AP) — The mili- with his 30 goats and a rifle to Chief Doug Kruhm to attend the tary says Ezequiel Hernandez Jr. was shooting at four Marines on a drug patrol. The 10th-grader's family says Hernandez was just walking with his goats in search of better grazing.

TEXAS

Whatever happened on a patch of land near the Hernandez home Tuesday ended with the 18-year-old killed by a bullet from an M-16 and resulted in the suspension of military-aided anti-drug efforts in the Big Bend region.

The U.S. Border Patrol chief and leaders of a military-civilian drug task force scheduled a briefing in Marfa for today to discuss the incident, which involved military monitoring of a suspected drug-trafficking route.

It's the second such incident this year in which military personnel shot a civilian along the Texas-Mexico border.

Belen Hernandez, the victim's sister, called her/ brother's death unjustified.

"Even if he did shoot at them twice like they said, I think they had no right to kill him." she said. "They could've shot him in the leg or arm, but not to kill him."

Ms. Hernandez, 26, said her brother had come home from school, eaten and then left the seek better pasture.

"He was on another property. He was passing by them (soldiers)," she said. "He always used to pass by, taking his goats to the mountains so they can eat grass.'

The shooting occurred less than a half-mile from the family home.

Hernandez' father speaks little English, but expressed his anger after Presidio County Sheriff Danny Dominguez called for the father to identify his son.

"He is more than a little angry," Ms. Hernandez said. "I wish they (Marines) would tell us how this could have happened."

The elder Hernandez told his daughter he believed the teen was shot in the back.

Authorities say Hernandez fired twice with a .22-caliber rifle at the four Marines and was getting ready to fire a third time when he was shot in the chest with an M-16, said Border Patrol spokesman Mario Ortiz.

Texas Rangers, the elite arm of the Department of Public Safety, were investigating the shooting at the request of District Attorney Albert Valadez.

Military activities in the area were suspended pending a afternoon press briefing in Marfa with Gen. James Lovelace, commanding general of the joint military task force.

"The general will be here to show his compassion and concern and to make sure they're going to cooperate fully with the Texas Rangers to make sure it's thoroughly investigated," Ortiz told The Dallas Morning News in today's editions.

Immigrant rights advocates said using troops along the border increases violence.

"We've got more and more military personnel on the border carrying weapons," said Suzan Kern, coordinator of the El Paso-based Border Rights Coalition.

"They're not local, they're not trained as Border Patrol agents, and they probably don't know the field very well. You're asking for more and more bloodshed."

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, with services to be scheduled by Saturday in Marfa, Ms. Hernandez said.

The border patrol and military officials said a four-man unit from Camp Pendleton, Calif., was helping watch a suspected drug-trafficking route shortly after 6 p.m. Tuesday when the teen came upon them.

M s. Hernandez said the famifamily's two-acre homestead review, with Border Patrol ly didn't know the military was in the area

"We didn't even know they (soldiers) were over there," she said. "We never heard about it."

Family members heard only one shot and don't believe the teen fired at Marines on a patrol coordinated by Joint Task Force Six, the federal planner of anti-drug operations involving the military and civilian authorities.

In another incident earlier this year, an Army Green Beret conducting surveillance along the Rio Grande near Brownsville wounded a Mexican man who opened fire on him.

The man, Cesario Vasquez Acuna, 30. of Matamoros, later pleaded guilty to charges of assaulting a federal officer and carrying a firearm during the commission of a federal crime. He faces up to 15 years in prison and a $500,000 fine when he is sentenced next month.

The Jan. 24 shooting was the first in 2,000 missions authorized since 1989 to help local authorities fight drug smuggling, said Maureen Bossch, a spokeswoman for JTF Six. which is based at Fort Bliss.

Redford, largely a farming community, is about 200 miles southeast of El Paso, nestled along the Rio Grande in the region known as Texas' Big Bend.

SARAGOSA - Armando

Morales is deeply wounded from the tornado that razed his town 10 years ago, but he doesn't show it.

"I write poems about life, things that happen." Morales said. "I love writing about how quiet and peaceful it is out here."

Morales, 14, runs around the back roads of Saragosa on a bike with his 11-year-old cousin Jeanne Ortega. A rock-fetching Chow named Fluffy usually tags along.

Third condemned inmate this week put to death

HUNTSVILLE - Almost 17 years after a Fort Worth bar customer was shot and killed and robbed of $3, the man convicted of his murder was executed.

Bruce Callins, 37, on Wednesday evening became the third condemned Texas inmate to receive lethal injection this week. Another execution set for this evening would be the seventh this month, a record for a single month in Texas, and the 15th this year.

"I just want to let all my people know — everybody's that's supported me - I love them and I wish them all the best," he said in a brief statement while strapped to the death chamber gurney. Two sisters were among five friends and family members he selected to watch the execution. Six minutes later, at 6:29 p.m. CDT, he was pronounced dead.

Callins was condemned for the June 27, 1980, killing of Allen Huckleberry, 27, who was seated at a bar that afternoon when Callins walked in brandishing a .22-caliber pistol and announced a holdup.

GOP solons vow to seek approval of welfare waiver

WASHINGTON - If they can't beat the White House, they'll change the law.

Texas' Republican lawmakers, charging that the White House is obstructing state plans to develop a more efficient welfare delivery system, say they'll seek redress in Congress.

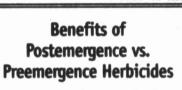

They emerged from a meeting Wednesday with White House chief of staff Erskine Bowles and vowed to pass bills that would allow Texas leeway to turn much of its welfare system over to private contractors.

"We are lawmakers; we have the ability to change the law," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas. "And we will introduce a bill to overturn this decision, to give Texas the power to operate their (welfare) system efficiently and in the interest of the people of Texas."

Said fellow Texas Republican Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison: "We will have the votes."

Many growers here may begin their grass control program with

Treating grass after crop emergence is becoming more common because postemergence treatment is a logical part of an integrated pest management program. Using a postemergence herbicide application allows growers to determine grass problems before treatment and select a specific treatment for the problem. And, post herbicides are more available and effective than in the past.

Plus, postemergence herbicide applications offer the best control of perennial grasses like bermudagrass and johnsongrass, as well as tough annual grasses like broadleaf signalgrass and Texas panicum.

There are several postemergence herbicides available. Growers can select the herbicide tailored to their individual problem. One of the best is FUSILADE® DX® herbicide.

Fusilade DX has a doublestrength formulation for excellent control of problem perennial and annual grasses in soybeans and cotton. Research indicates Fusilade DX controls 90 percent or more of rhizome johnsongrass when applied within two to three weeks of crop emergence.

In addition, Fusilade DX works quickly. The herbicide is rainfast in an hour and stops plant growth in as little as two days.

OUR VIEWS

City offers to help clean up community

on't say the city of Big Spring never gave you anything. In fact, the whole month of June will be a gift — a free chance to get trashy, weedy, junky property cleaned up. City employees will even help.

All during the month, large items will be picked up from the curb on weekends for only a call to the code enforcement office. Junk cars will be towed away at no charge.

The rest is up to you. Take a look around. Is there something that could be done to beautify your property? Is there some cleaning project you've been putting off?

You might even be rewarded for your efforts with a gift certificate. You might get some recognition for doing your part.

But remember the proverbial carrot and the stick: the month of June is your carrot. After that comes the stick.

Code enforcement officers say once June is over, they will begin cracking down on violations.

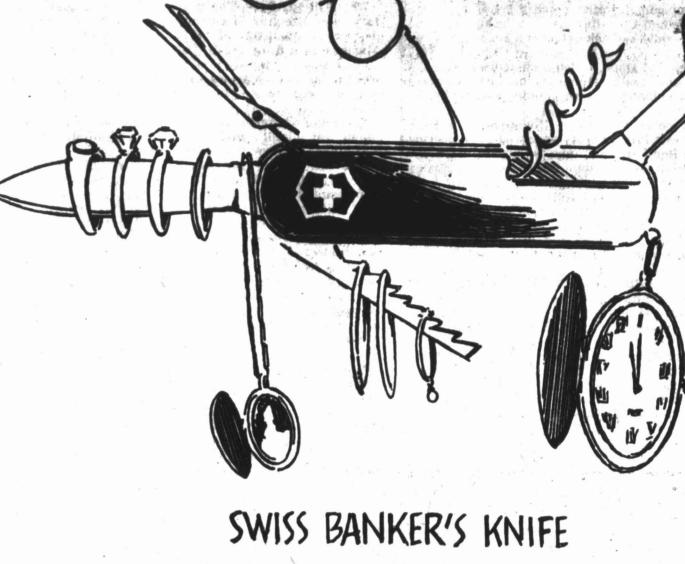

Actually, junk, trash and tall weeds should never be tolerated. But so far, code enforcers say, their efforts to get problem property owners to clean up their own spaces have yielded little cooperation.

So city workers are pitching in.

Think of it as your last chance to get those projects done before the summer heat takes over.

Better yet, think of it as the motivation you - or your neighbor - may need to beautify our community and make it more pleasant for all of us.

Then roll up your sleeves and get to work. AP AP IN ENG

In September 1994, Abbott arrived at Dr. Bragdon's office for a scheduled appointment. As a new patient, she filled out a registration form. The form asked if she were suffering from an infectious disease. She checked the box: HIV, the AIDS virus.

Dr. Bragdon balked. Filling a cavity often requires a needleinjected anesthesia; the patient's mouth fills with bloody spume. He saw the procedure as a direct threat to his own health. He was willing to take such a significant risk in a hospital, but not in his own office. Abbott refused the offer. Instead, she brought suit in life activity, for not everyone engages in these activities. Indeed, Abbott testified that after she tested positive for HIV. "I made a decision not to have children." Judge Selya called this an "emaciated" argument, and indeed it was. -- The evidence offered by Dr.

Bragdon in support of his apprehension of risk was not impressive. The American Dental Association and the Centers for Disease Control have concluded that by following certain recommended procedures, dentists run a minimum risk of being infected by a patient during a routine office visit.

Certain outcome of 2000 census: more controversy

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

No matter how the government finally conducts the count of an estimated 270 million Americans in the 2000 census, there are sure to be complaints about the outcome, and probably court challenges.

The current debate about the use of statistical sampling, akin to polling, to account for people who can't be reached directly is itself only a sample of rounds to come. This will be the 21st constitutionally mandated census, the 10th-year population count that apportions political representation and determines the allocation of about $100 billion in federal aid to states and cities. Pre-census projections indicate that 11 of the 435 House seats could be shifted among states to reflect population changes. House districts will be reapportioned to reflect where the census shows the people are.

The 1990 census was contested in about 50 lawsuits filed by cities, states and interest groups, arguing that the acknowledged undercount, now estimated at about 4 million, was costing them millions of federal dollars. It also affected congressional and state election districts. Studies since have indicated that at least 1.6 percent of the population was not counted, with the missing people centered in inner cities and among minorities. There were demands, most from Democrats, that the numbers be adjusted to correct the undercount. The Republican administration decided against it, on grounds that the proposed adjustments weren't certain enough to warrant amending the "actual enumeration" the Constitution requires. Six years into the dispute, the Supreme Court upheld the census results. The Clinton administration favored that outcome. By then, the Census Bureau was at work preparing for the 2000 count, and planing a system in which statistical sampling would account for households that don't return mailed census forms, don't respond to follow-up telephone calls and don't answer when a census-taker goes to the door.

The National Academy of Sciences recommended the changes in a study ordered by Congress after the 1990 hassle. It reported that with statistical sampling, the numbers would be more accurate next time.

But this is not just science and statistics; this is politics.

The Census Bureau plan is to have at least 90 percent of households in each neighborhood covered by questionnaire, telephone or census visit. Census workers would visit one in 10 of the remaining households, and the numbers would be extrapolated from that sampling.

Republicans congressional leaders don't like the idea. Some party members worry that sampling will reduce the count in rural areas and increase the number of people located in dense urban areas, shifting seats to Democratic strongholds.

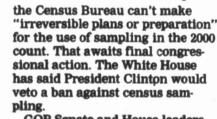

A Senate measure to forbid sampling was toned down to say that

GOP Senate and House leaders are adamant. "We must physically count each and every American,' they said in letter to the census director.

That's never been managed. Undercounting flawed even the 1790 census, to the dismay of Thomas Jefferson. The academy of sciences report on sampling said a continued attempt to count every last person would be fruitless. The Republicans said sampling would risk court challenges. So would a census conducted without statistical adjustments. And Republicans are suspicious. Sen. Fred Thompson, R-Tenn., chairman of the Senate committee overseeing the process, said there is concern at the possibility of administration tampering with the census.

McVeigh defense begins in Murrah bombing trial

DENVER (AP) - After a streamlined prosecution case capped with wrenching testimony about the deaths in the Oklahoma City bombing, Timothy McVeigh's lawyers take center stage with a simple defense: He didn't do it.

Big Spring Herald Thursday, May 22, 1997

The defense case is expected to be even leaner than the pros-ecution's, which crammed 137 witnesses into 18 days of fastpaced testimony.

"It may take less than two weeks," McVeigh attorney Stephen Jones said Wednesday after the prosecution rested. "It's just hard to say."

Jones is expected to call 30 to 40 witnesses who will attack "every single point the govern-ment has made," sources close to the case told The Associated Press.

Prosecutors wrapped up with images of the bomb's destruction and a witness' account of terror and lost friends.

One juror wept into a white tissue and another appeared on the verge of tears as Florence Rogers, president of the credit union in the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building, testified about the blast that killed 18 colleagues and two customers.

"The whole building started to blow up. I was thrown against the floor in a tornadolike rush," said Ms. Rogers. "When I was able to stand up, all the girls that was in the office with me had totally dis-

Prosecutors then showed slides of the rescue effort while Oklahoma City District Fire Chief Mike Shannon described his search for survivors.

Shannon said nine floors of the building pancaked, crush-ing the victims.

"We were wiping body fluids off our helmets and uniforms," he said.

The final government witness, a state medical examiner, authenticated an inch-high stack of death certificates for the victims, many of whom could be identified only through dental records, fingerprints or surgical scars.

McVeigh, 29, faces the death penalty if convicted of murder and conspiracy in the April 19, 1995, explosion that killed 168 people and injured 500.

Prosecutors used witnesses to portray McVeigh as a cowardly terrorist, driven by a warped interpretation of right-wing writings and a desire to avenge the FBI's deadly 1993 siege on the Branch Davidian compound near Waco, Texas.

Eyewitness and scientific testimony tied McVeigh to the 20foot Ryder truck that witnesses say was packed with ammonium nitrate fertilizer and racing fuel and detonated at 9:02 a.m., as office workers were preparing their morning coffee.

U.S. District Judge Richard Matsch has prohibited the appeared. I never saw them defense from introducing the theory that international terrorists were behind the bombing, the sources said. Before the trial, Jones had suggested the bombing was the combined effort of neo-Nazis. Iranian terrorists and others.

In his opening statement, Jones promised the jury that his case "will establish ... that my client is innocent of the crime that (the government) has outlined to you."

Sources said the defense will use an attack strategy to poke holes in the prosecution's case. For example, prosecutors co-manager called Eric McGown, who said he saw McVeigh in a Ryder truck at the Dreamland Motel in Junction City, Kan., April 16 or April 17 in 1995, two days before the bombing.

Defense attorneys plan to call McGown's mother, Lea, who has said she saw McVeigh at the motel in the truck on April 16, 1995, not the following day. Prosecutors have contended McVeigh rented the truck April 17, 1995, in Junction City.

As they left the courthouse Wednesday, relatives of bombing victims said they were pleased with the prosecution's case, but still filled with sorrow

"I'm not happy," said Roy Sells, whose wife, Lee, died in the explosion. "And if he's convicted, I still probably won't be a happy man, maybe satisfied, but not happy.'

North Koreans want to avoid war

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) -North Korea said today its food shortage has reached "a serious stage" but that it has no intention to risk a war out of desperation.

The North was denying what it called an "ill-boding campaign" by foreign coun-tries warning that the communist state might start a war with South Korea to divert domestic attention from its food crisis.

"It is true that our temporary food shortage has reached a serious stage," an unidentified spokesman for North Korea's Foreign Ministry said in a statement, carried by the country's official Korean Central News Agency. "But war is not what we want," it said.

The statement accused "bellicose elements" of spreading false rumors to justify plans to launch "pre-emptive" attacks on North Korea.

Worries that North Korea was preparing for war grew after comments by North Korean defectors, including Jang Yop, a member of Pyongyang's highest decisionmaking body, the Workers Party's Central Committee, who arrived here in April.

Today, a North Korean defector said rumors were widespread in the North that its new leader Kim Jong Il might start a war between July and October.

"Everyday, TV screens are showing Kim Jong Il visiting military units and exhorting the nation to strengthen its military," said the defector, Kim Won Hyung.

He told a nationally televised news conference that Kim Jong Il might risk armed provocations after the third anniversary in July of the death of his father, President Kim Il Sung. Since his father's death, the junior Kim has been ruling North Korea as head of its 1.1 million-mem ber army.

Kim Won Hyung and seven other members of his family, along with six members of a friend's family, arrived in South Korea last week after fleeing their country aboard a small ship.

North Korea suffered devastating floods in 1995 and 1996, and the United Nations said famine could hit this year unless outside aid arrives quickly.

Washington and Seoul are holding off large government aid until the North agrees to peace talks aimed at officially ending the 1950-53 Korean War. They worry that the North is spending most of its resources on its military while its people go hungry.

South Korea believes that food aid before peace will only encourage North Korea to maintain its militaristic poli-CY.

Young author's work published in statewide literary magazine

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN Features Editor

A local fifth grader's murder mystery made the pages of a statewide literary magazine for kids.

Courtney Koch, a Bauer student, discovered her story was published when she attended the Rising Star Young Writer's and Artists' Conference in Austin last month.

"I was really surprised," she said. "I didn't think it would be in there."

Ten Bauer students entered the competition with poems, stories and artwork. The school has entered the contest for the last four years, and one student's work has appeared in the magazine each year.

"We want to try to make it a learning thing," said teacher Linda Long. "We want the kids to think about their work possibly being published in 'Rising Star.'

Long, who also attended the conference, said tension built when, after a four-hour ceremony, the magazines were finally distributed so students could see who had been published.

We were madly thumbing through it, trying to see who would be in it," she said.

"The hard part was sitting there for four hours," said Courtney.

Work chosen to be entered was chosen from portfolios of work the students have produced all year, Long explained. Courtney said there were things she might have changed if she had known her story would be published.

"To me, it just mattered if I got an A," she said. But writing the story,

In Courtney's story, her firstperson detective uses a few clues to try to solve a murder. There are enough twists and turns in just a few paragraphs to make an episode of "Murder She Wrote."

'You can't give too many clues," Courtney explained. Like the shows on TV, they just give a few clues and you try to figure it out."

Courtney is not sure if she will choose a career in writing someday, but if she does, it will be writing about something she loves

"I like to write about my cats," she said. "They do so many different things."

The day was not all work and no play. Students enjoyed playing baseball and swimming in the creek. Students Daniel Smith and Jason Anderson entertained the others with their cannonballs off of the small bridge.

Students also learned about nature. Glen Killough told the students about the plant life around the Wildlife Recreation Area. He explained what cattle eat and named the plants. Biologist Bill Del Monte showed students how the age of deer is identified through their teeth and how the antlers can show the genetic quality of bucks. After returning to Forsan, the students wrote up reports on the flora and fauna they saw on the trip.

The trip was a wonderful experience for the students of Forsan High School. Not only did they learn about nature. but they enjoyed it.

Dairy MAX provided $3,235 to Stanton District to help purchase six milk barrels, nine cooler curtains, and three forced air coolers. Regionwide, the field test that concludes in November involves 1,200 schools at a cost of $500,000.

During the week of April 1, Big Spring schools promoted colder milk to their students. Elementary schools had a "Milk Thing" theme in order to draw the students attention to the new equipment and the importance of milk.

Junior high and high school students had the opportunity to win a $5 video gift certificate with each carton of milk they purchased. Junior high and high school students also participated in a Milk Mustache contest. Those who won received gift certificates to Baskin Robbins ice cream shop.

The milk barrel is a portable container that holds a case of half-pint cartons, surrounded by ice.

Forced-air coolers use fans to circulate cold air to chill the product and can hold the proper temperatures while their doors are open. Laboratory tests have shown the barrel and the cooler curtains can maintain milk that already is at the desired temperature.

NEW YORK (AP) - A high school girls choir from Milwaukee made it all the way to the stage of Carnegie Hall, fulfilling a dream their teacher financed with the money she'd saved for retirement.

The sacrifice - since repaid - was worth it, Nancy Ehlinger said, because her girls' performance "just shows that urban kids can be as good as suburban kids.'

'It gives me a sense of accomplishment," she said before the concert. "I've been able to give the kids something they will never forget."

The teacher known to her students as Miss E received an invitation last fall for the choir to perform with four other school groups at a concert in the famed concert hall.

She organized bake sales, a raffle and a lottery and wrote to 70 foundations to pay the travel expenses - $1,036 per girl for five days.

The fund-raising brought in enough to pay the first $4,000 installment for the trip. But when the next two installments came due and only $1,250 had come from the foundations, she dug into her own future, borrowing $8,000 on two credit cards and withdrawing $28,680 from her IRA (Individual Retirement Account).

"I wanted the kids to have the opportunity," Miss E said. "I didn't want it to fly away."

Eventually, as news of her beneficence spread, the choir raised an additional $21,000. enabling her to put back most of what she'd withdrawn.

Twice, the last time in 1984. Miss E had performed at Carnegie Hall with the Milwaukee Symphony Chorus, an experience the 56-year-old teacher wanted to duplicate for her choir's inner-city teenagers

Weird and Wonderful

Carnivorous Plants May 22-28 is Celebrating Wildflowers Week, and amazing plants are popping up all over. You probably will spot animals eating plants. But sometimes it is the plants that are eating the animals!

Strange plants

In all the world, there are about 350,000 different kinds of plants. Of that number, 500 are most unusual. These are the meat-eating, or carnivorous (kar-NIH-vor-us), plants. There have been a lot of strange stories made up about these plants. But they are much too small to eat people.

They do eat animals such as insects, slugs and miders

Plant traps

Carnivorous plants use their unusual leaves to trap tiny animals. Some of these plants, such as the Venus flytrap, grab onto an insect. The bladderwort, an underwater plant, slurps up tiny animals with parts of its leaves. Others have special smells to attract insects.

PETER

ACROSS:

They might smell like something sweet to eat. Or they might smell like rotten meat.

That extra something

Carnivorous plants grow in bogs, or wet, soggy ground. In this type of ground, plants can't get all the nitrogen they need from the soil. Nitrogen is a substance found in the air and in all living things. Insects have a lot of it. While most carnivorous plants can survive without trapping insects, the extra food they get when they do trap them is very important.

The pitcher plant

The pitcher plant has hollow, tubelike leaves lined with hairs. The plant produces a sweet juice that attracts insects. When they fall in, they are unable to crawl out because hairs inside the plant point downward.

The insect becomes tired, falls into the fluid collected in the bottom, and drowns. The plant then dissolves the insect's soft body parts.

Carnivorous plants are in trouble. People have drained many of the swampy areas where they live. Today, many are raised in hothouses or botanic gardens. (A botanic garden is a place to grow, study and exhibit special plants.) Carnivorous plants are found in many parts of the world. In the United States, most are found in the southeastern states.

Rockets falter again; Utah leads Western finals 2-0

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -They couldn't stop the pickand-roll, they couldn't grab any rebounds, they couldn't mount a comeback.

When everything had already failed for the Rockets, including a pre-game gripe session with the referees, Charles Barkley resorted to thuggery near the end of Utah's 104-92 victory Tuesday night.

"I was trying to separate his shoulder or break his rib," Barkley said of a flagrant foul he committed on John Stockton midway through the final period. "I was serious."

That's how frustrated Utah has made Houston, which returns home to The Summit

Sunday.

And unless the Rockets find a way to stop Utah's well-oiled. multi-faceted attack, they are in danger of being swept out of the Western Conference finals.

"We've got to win Friday, we've got to win Friday,' Barkley said. "You can come back from 3-1, but not from 3-

Utah had such a well-rounded attack that the fans, for the first time in at least a month. didn't even chant "M-V-P" at Karl Malone. Instead, they were on their feet cheering the entire team - and with good reason.

Stockton had 26 points, 12 assists and eight rebounds; for Games 3 and 4 Friday and Malone had 24 points and 15 rebounds, Jeff Hornacek scored 17 points and Bryon Russell added 12.

> Utah's bench pitched in, too, just as it did in the Jazz's 101-86 victory in Game 1.

Led by reserve center Greg Foster and backup point guard Howard Eisley, Utah's bench outscored Houston's 23-11.

"They've been giving us a lift," Stockton said of Utah's bench. "They come in and score and get us a little bit of a lead, and I think that gives everybody a sense of confidence. You can use any edge you get in the playoffs."

The Rockets tried to gain an edge prior to Game 2 by complaining to the referees that the Jazz are setting illegal moving picks.

"We addressed it in a professional manner, but it was like talking to a wall," coach Rudy Tomjanovich said.

"I'm not trying to be a whiner, but it's a factor in the game."

The officials did not call Utah for a single moving pick violation, and the Rockets' collective temper boiled over when Barkley flattened Stockton underneath the Jazz's basket.

"Next time I'll break him in half." Barkley said to referee Jack Nies.

"They're going to keep setting their moving picks, and obviously the refs aren't going to do lation plays for its three super-their jobs," Barkley said before stars. mentioning that he was deliberately trying to hurt Stockton.

"Whatever," Stockton replied. "That's my comment on what he did and what he said whatever.'

Hakeem Olajuwon led the Rockets with 30 points, but almost half of them came in the fourth quarter when Houston was already out of it. Barkley, who fouled out, added 16 points and Clyde Drexler had 15.

The Jazz took control by ending the third quarter with a 15-2 run, getting strong contributions from their lesser-known players while Houston's attack deteriorated into a series of iso-

Hornacek hit a corner jumper, Eisley made a 3-pointer, Foster made a corner jumper, Russell stole the ball from Drexler and went in for a fastbreak dunk, Eisley made another jumper, Foster scored on a drive and Eisley closed the period with two free throws to send Utah into the fourth quarter with an 83-68 lead.

"It's amazing how long we hung around," Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "They made a run, we missed five layups in three minutes and we could never make a game out of it after that."

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech suspected they might see a Central Regional field loaded with giant-killers. Instead, the Red Raiders were pleasantly surprised to learn Monday that they would be playing host to a talented and balanced field.

"I think all of us thought it might be pretty stacked," Tech pitcher Jason Gooding said. "But as we saw some of the teams we thought might come here go to other regionals, it worked out all right.

"We've still got some

This year, a California influence is absent. Nevada is the westernmost team invited to Lubbock.

"When I looked at the regionals this year, they all scared me," Hays said. "Last year, there were a couple I thought wouldn't have been bad to play in. But when I look at the others this year. I don't see any I'd volunteer for."

Tech won the Big 12 Conference regular-season title before finishing second in the league's postseason tournament. The Raiders dropped a 19-17 decision to Oklahoma in the tourney title game late Sunday "I think that experience was good for us as far as preparing us for regionals," Tech first baseman Joe Dillon said. "It helps you get ready to know what to expect.' The Raiders acknowledged that the partisan crowd at All Sports Stadium in Oklahoma City proved helpful to the Sooners. "We had some great support up there, but it's going to be awesome to play in front of our home crowd," said Raider pitcher Shane Wright. "They've been pulling for us all year, and it will be great to have all those people out there pulling for us again.'

Lewis: U.S. track protects drug users

(AP) - Carl Lewis assailedAmerican track and field authorities on Thursday. contending they ignore and sometimes shield athletes who take performance-enhancing drugs.

'There's no question in my mind that they have more knowledge about the drug problem than they are telling the public," Lewis said in a telephone hookup from Houston. "In some cases, they have overlooked and even tried to protect the athletes.

"We have a structure that has broken down and a drug problem that has been ignored and some times supported. This has led to great levels of cynicism among the public and made it 10 times worse than it was."

Lewis, winner of nine gold medals at four Olympics, spoke in the wake of disclosures that distance runner Mary Slaney, a any drug test case until all of several U.S. records, was under investigation for excessive levels of testosterone in a test at the Olympic trials in Atlanta last June.

There have been reports in Europe this week that U.S. 400meter hurdler Sandra Farmer-Patrick also tested positive for testosterone during the trials and has been suspended for four years.

Both Slaney and Farmer-Patrick competed at the Atlanta Games

The U.S. Olympic Committee has denied that Farmer-Patrick tested positive for drugs at the trials.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation said it could not confirm that Farmer-Patrick had been banned for drug use.

"Until today, we haven't yet received an official confirmation about the suspension or not of Farmer-Patrick," IAAF

Because testosterone is a natural substance, higher-thannormal levels in a drug test do not automatically trigger a positive result. Instead, USATF rules call for an investigation to determine if the finding is the result of the body's natural processes or a conscious effort to cheat.

Lehman seen as top competition to Woods

FORT WORTH (AP) -Rested and ready, reigning British Open king Tom Lehman loomed as a major threat today to torpedo Tiger Woods' bid for a third consecutive PGA Tour victory.

"I'm swinging well and I feel fresh and ready to play,' Lehman said on the eve of the $1.6 million MasterCard Colonial, his first outing in a month.

"I've generally played well after a break," said Lehman, the 1995 Colonial champion and the PGA's player of the year in 1996. "It's more important to be fresh mentally. You can overcome swing problems easier."

Position, he said, is the key here, along with putting and chipping.

The 7,010-yard, par-70 Colonial Country Club course rarely surrenders its charms to long hitters such as Woods, the 21-year-old superstar who has taken the golf world by storm. But then Woods is decidedly more than just a long hitter.

Oakland hurler gives staff rare victory

ARLINGTON (AP) – After only five victories this season by Oakland starting pitchers, Dave Telgheder felt a responsibility to the rest of the Athletics to pick up a victory.

On Wednesday, Telgheder notched the starting staff's sixth win and his first since last September. Geronimo Berroa supplied the offense with a homer and three RBIs to help the Athletics end a fourgame losing streak with a 7-3 decision over Texas.

Telgheder said he was determined to halt criticism by the media and fans. Oakland starters - now 6-21 - were angry when a story in a Fort Worth newspaper described them as "putrid."

"I needed it, we needed it for our confidence," said Telgheder after collecting his 12th career victory. "You don't like to be called horrible and putrid. So it did motivate us. It was in the back of my mind tonight. We've been getting hammered. I wanted to stop it."

Telgheder (1-2) allowed six hits in 7 1-3 innings and had a career-high eight strikeouts.

"Winning last week, in a weird way, meant a little more to me than the way I did at Augusta," he confided. "When you're not playing well and you're all over the place and somehow you scrape it around and gut it out and win, that means a lot."

He attributed his two-stroke Nelson victory largely to mental toughness.

Among the upbeat favorites in the chase for the $288,000 top prize is defending champion Corey Pavin, who appears to be ending a year-long slump.

"I played a lot better last week," Pavin said, shooting the final three rounds of the Nelson in 65-69-68 after an opening 72.

crowds welcome Zoeller Colonial

FORT WORTH (AP) – He was the man the golf fans came to see, and they couldn't get enough of him. They packed the gallery trailing him, hollered encouraging words and cheered his every move.

But it wasn't Tiger Woods the masses at Colonial were after. This time, it was Fuzzy Zoeller getting the Woodsian treatment.

Wednesday's scene came exactly a month after Zoeller first apologized for racially insensitive statements he made about Woods and one day after the two met face-to-face for the first time since the controversy.

Zoeller has been off the PGA Tour since the Masters, where he called Woods "that little boy" and urged him not to request fried chicken or collard greens for the Champions Dinner next year at Augusta National

During his layoff, he's lost a sponsorship deal with Kmart and he says he's received letters calling him racist.

The way he was received at Wednesday's pro-am proved that Zoeller is still a fan favorite. After his round, he admitted he didn't expect such a warm welcome.

"But, trust me, it was all appreciated," he said. "I've had a tough couple of weeks, so I enjoyed watching smiling faces having fun. That's what it's all smiling and winking.

Zoeller and Woods didn't cross paths Wednesday.

Woods teed off at 7:28 a.m. CDT in cold, cloudy weather. But, being Tiger Woods, he still drew more than 200 admirers. He was long finished by the time Zoeller's group got going at 1:29 p.m.

Another 200 or so fans followed Zoeller's fivesome. They erupted with applause, whoops and cheers when Zoeller was introduced. One fan hollered a negative comment about Kmart and Zoeller responded with a big smile and laugh.

"The people of Fort Worth are special," said Zoeller, the 1981 MasterCard Colonial champion who has made the cut in 16 of his 18 starts here. "I'm sure they come out and treat all their former champions well. It makes the day go through nice and smooth."

Zoeller didn't waste time hamming it up. After his first tee shot, he spread his arms wide, then used his hand to shield his eyes as if watching

Minutes later, Zoeller led the rest of his playing partners and much of the gallery in singing 'Happy Birthday'' to teammate Russ Chappell, who turned 50

Wednesday. "I had to do something for him. I didn't buy him a gift," Zoeller said, laughing.

The red marker Zoeller kept tucked in his back pocket nearly ran out of ink as he signed dozens of hats and programs as well as a woman's shirt sleeve and a $1 bill. After one hole, he took a ball out of his pants pocket, signed it and offered it to a young boy.

Two Fort Worth police officers walked with Zoeller's group - which isn't usually done in the pro-am — but they were hardly needed. Their biggest duty was handing autographed items to fans as Zoeller walked between shots.

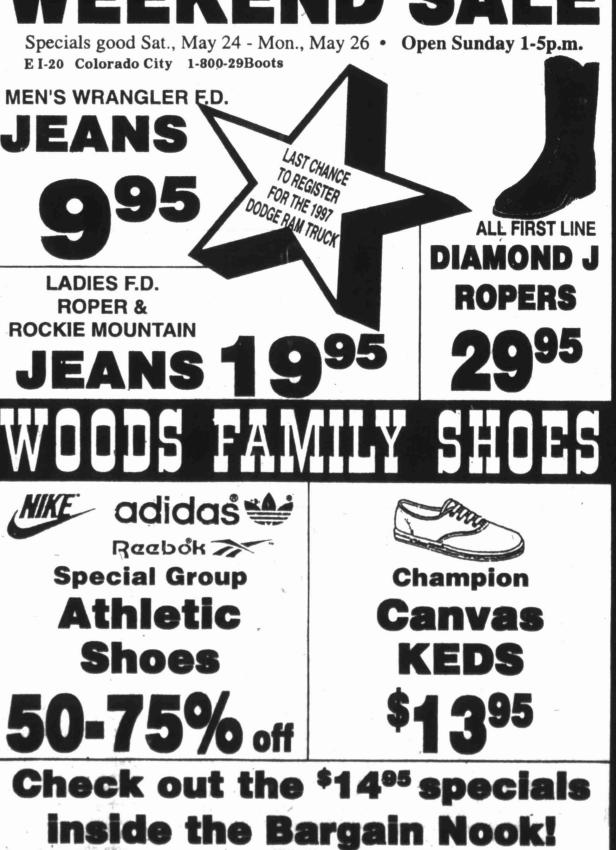

Zoeller, who smoked constantly and used a cellular phone occasionally, also wasn't afraid to cut up a little. He teased his partners after bad shots and joked with his caddy.

As for his game, there were little signs of his six-week layoff. He parred most holes, had a few birdies - including a near ace at 16 - and a few bogeys.

Overall, Zoeller shot a 2-over and his group came in at 58. seven shots back and in the middle of the pack.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR FRIDAY, MAY 23:

This is an extraordinary year for you. Break past previous restrictions, and open the door to new opportunities. You invest a lot of energy into a domestic change. Improve the quality of your life. Maintain your home in the best way possible. Some of you will move; others will consider a new addition to your environment. You get what you want because of your endurance. If you are single, romance comes in the form of a foreigner or someone exotic. If attached, travel_will enhance the bond of your relationship. SAGITTARIUS presents alternatives.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tempers flare when one least expects it. Be direct with another; don't push any buttons. If you can detach and look at the big picture, you will be able to make your point more clearly. Goodwill makes all the difference in another's response. Tonight: Go to the movies.****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Be determined about what you want. Another might be testy; overlook it, if you can. Let creativity surge. Ideas come forth that open you up. You take a strong stand with a boss, and it pays off. Be determined when talking to a partner. Tonight: Opt for close-

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are dynamic. Pull back, and don't react; you can make a difference in the outcome. Much is going on, and you can handle a partner positively. Be careful with a domestic matter. Expect another to be explosive. Stay in control. Tonight: Head out and about.*****

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A partner shares strong feedback. Financial gain is likely, if you are open. Initiate discussions, and leave no stone overturned. Your sense of humor makes a difference in how others receive your message. Another lures you to his way of thinking. Tonight: Relax with a friend.***

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Let your imagination go. Associates enjoy a refreshing perspective. Reach out for another, and gain information. Renew the decision-making process. Others seek you out. Popularity is high. Tonight: Make the most of the moment.****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You are off base if you think an aggressive, angry approach will work. There are many ways to clear the air. Think through what you want for the future. A co-worker encourages you. You have excess energy; go exercise before you do anything. Tonight: Head home.** LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Your anger is obvious. Reconsider a decision and action. Your temper undermines a conversation. Be direct, yet politically correct, with others. A special relationship blooms; bathe in the good feelings. Tonight: Go to a favorite spot.****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Use extra caution with finances, even if you think the coast is clear. Consider different options with a friend, but don't necessarily take the advice. You'll want to be more secure. Pace yourself; this is an intense day. Tonight: Run errands on the way home.***

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Be upbeat about a special call. You might find a boss difficult. Just know that you can handle it. Your smile melts away problems and opens doors. Deal with others directly and simply. Do not push another away. Stay open to his ideas. Tonight: Ask, and you shall receive.*****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Take another look at what is going on. Office gossip or news from a distance may throw an odd light on events. Separate hearsay from truths. You might not want to make a decision now. A money offer could be more complicated than you think. Tonight: Get a good night's sleep.**

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't let another's recriminations stop you from doing what you want. A positive outlook is key to making an adjustment. You are heading in the right direction. You can pull rabbits out of hats. Even a wild scheme meets with success. Tonight: Be with friends.*****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Maintain a high profile. Another's flack may have a lot to do with jealousy and insecurity. Think through what you want to do at this time. You make financially sound decisions. Instincts are right on: trust yourself and your abilities. Tonight: You are a force on the scene.***

Race car owner enjoys limelight

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Ron Hemelgarn held up his right hand and gazed lovingly at the big ring on his fourth finger.

"This is the most expensive thing I own," Hemelgarn said. "I paid for this with years of sweat, money and time.

The car owner labored in the shadows of bigger, betterfinanced, more successful teams at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for 20 years before Buddy Lazier made his dream come true with a victory in last year's Indianapolis 500. The victory also has deprived Hemelgarn of some privacy, a loss he actually enjoys.

"For myself, winning this race, it sure took me from just an ordinary team owner to the point to where I can hardly go to the bathroom without having to sign 15 autographs," he said.

"It took 19 years to achieve a goal that I set out to do, to win the Indy 500," he said. "I also realize that every fan out there that wants your autograph ... rich or poor ... a little kid or a crippled person, you take the time with them.

"I can remember coming here and nobody wanted my autograph. Nobody wanted to interview me. I earned my way up, and I'm not going to turn my back on the people that got me here.

An entrepreneur since he began gathering newspapers and magazines as a 6-year-old and delivering them to a salvage yard for spending money, Hemelgarn hasn't forgotten those who helped him make the run to an Indy triumph. "I'm not going to turn my back on the people who got me here, the fans, the media, and even with the sponsors," he

he still thinks his team can

INDY 500 said. "After we won last year, there were people coming to us and wanting to be sponsors. I went right back to my sponsors who took me here last year and gave them the first options.

"I had some opportunities to replace a sponsor for more money, and I didn't do it ... I know who took us to the dance. and they can stay with the dance as long as they want."

Hemelgarn, who has Lazier, Lyn St. James and Johnny Unser in Sunday's 35-car lineup, first came to the speedway as a spectator in 1964 when he hitchhiked from Dayton, Ohio. He returned as a sponsor in 1978, using the cars to publicize health clubs he owned in Ohio and Indiana.

In 1984, he bought a team and has had cars in the race every year since. His drivers have included Tom Sneva, the late Scott Brayton, Arie Luyendyk and Gordon Johncock.

Although he's spent millions as an owner, Hemelgarn recalls listening to the race on radio in 1956 and relates to the sport as a fan.

"I stood out there as a fan looking in at the old garages and wanting to be inside, meet a driver or polish the tires. Those memories are very, very close to me," he said.

Sunday, he hopes to add another memory.

"I know everybody says they want to win the Indy 500. I really believe we have the cars, the drivers and the team that can get that done," Hemelgarn said. 'I've got room on my hand for another ring and am optimistic it can come our way.'

Tuesday's game, the Bulls held Miami to 28 points and six field goals in the second half and forced 11 turnovers. The Heat also helped out Chicago by going just 13-of-25 from the freethrow line over the final two quarters.

"We should have won it, but just gave it away," P.J. Brown said.

Several others — including Alonzo Mourning, Tim Hardaway, Isaac Austin and Dan Majerle — made similar comments.

"When players say, 'We let one slip away,' it gives them an excuse that they thought they played better than they did and that the next game is going to be different," Riley said.

"Bull. They took it from us. They obviously showed their greatness at the end with their defensive pressure. We succumbed to that. If we get in that situation with them again and ... we don't respond to it, they'll take another from us."

The Bulls, meanwhile, want to avoid a similar situation tonight.

"We have to get out of the box quick, don't give this team too much confidence in our own building," said Michael Jordan, who had 37 points.

The scenario reminds Bulls coach Phil Jackson of the previous round against Atlanta. Chicago fell behind by 16 and rallied to win Game 1, but then lost the second game at the United Center before rebound: ing with three straight victories to take the series.

"There's a certain time usual ly where we get the jump ... but you can't rest on that. That's false security," Jackson said. 'In the last series. (Atlanta) came back and really jumped us. We have to be concerned about playing right on our court.

He's less concerned about Dennis Rodman, even though the "Worm" got yet another technical foul.

Rodman now has received at least one "T" in each of Chicago's nine playoff games and has 12 this postseason. He also has been called for 39 fouls, including six 'Tuesday.

But he did have his most effective game, grabbing 1$ rebounds in 36 minutes and helping the Bulls bottle up Mourning in the second half, His technical was assessed after he shoved Mourning without cause.

"You all know Dennis, you all know his antics," Mourning said. "It's unfortunate that we as players have to put up with that stuff. He's a pest out there. That's why they have him on the floor, to irritate and get you out of your game.

If so, it appeared to work. Mourning had only one field goal in the second half and ended up 7-of-15 from the foul line.

Rodman, who had been both ered by a sore knee and tight refereeing during the playoffs, almost doubled his previous postseason rebounding high (10).

"I think he's back," Jordan said. "He showed a lot of intensity."

But Jordan wasn't happy about Rodman's technical, which interrupted a third-quarter run, and disliked a long jumper the offense-challenged Rodman attempted in the fourth.

"He has a green light sometimes," Jordan said, "but it was yellow at the time he took the shot."
