New director at Dora Roberts Rehab wants community to 'embrace' facility

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

"I want the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center (DRRC) to be embraced by the community because this is a fabulous place and people should look at it as their own." That's what's on the mind of new DRRC Director Wesley Beauchamp, who recently completed his first week on the job.

BEAUCHAMP

Beauchamp, who comes to DRRC from Norwest Investments, replaced John Yater, who was with the center for eight years and resigned under pressure.

"I want to see things start to grow here at the center and I'm currently working on getting a full staff here," Beauchamp said.

Beauchamp said the task ahead for him is to hire a full-time audiologist, a part-time speech therapist and a part-time physical therapist.

"I want to have more open houses at the center to let people know that they do have a choice when it comes to rehabilitation," Beauchamp said. "It's my job to get that message out.

"I feel like the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center has so much to offer the community and should be more involved in the community," Beauchamp said.

"I will work with the staff here and develop those relationships," Beauchamp added. "I want people to think of us as THE rehabilitation center."

DRRC has been in Big Spring for 36 years, concentrating on outpatient physical therapy, cardiac rehabilitation, speech therapy and audiology.

Through the years, the center has added several programs such as the back school, work hardening and cardiac rehabilitation.

According to Beauchamp, DRRC plans to continue its tradition of providing service.

Because DRRC accepts all patients regardless of their ability to pay, it is a member agency of the United Way.

Funds also come from the annual Summerfest Pro-Am Charity Golf Tournament, scheduled for July 27-28.

The cardiac rehabilitation program is the second largest program at DRRC, behind the physical therapy program, and on a yearly basis DRRC has approximately 1,700 cardiac patient visits a year.

Heads are not counted, but rather the number of times a patient is actually at the center.

The 12-week program helps patients who are recovering from heart attacks or other cardiac-related illnesses.

Patients in this program have suffered heart attacks or have some other type of cardiac problem. Some are recovering from angioplasty, open-heart surgery or some other type of procedure.

According to Beauchamp, he wants the Big Spring community to get to know the center rather than who happens to be in charge, because the center is there to help the community.

"Management comes and goes, but the center will be here," he said.

What a difference!

Farmers say early conditions best they've seen; bringing hopes of rebound from two bad years

What a difference a year makes ... that's the message heard from farmers throughout the area this spring as they look at planting conditions that offer promise of a harvest that could make last fall's near disaster a faint memory.

"Even the older guys ... you know, they ones who are always pessimistic ... even they're optimistic this year," said Knott farmer Van Gaskins, who began planting the 4,800 acres he has in cotton on May 15 and finished Wednesday. "I've been back here since 1992 and it's the first time I've seen some of these guys with smiles on their faces. It's really something to see."

"It's all the difference in the world from last year," he added. "We didn't really ever have enough moisture to even start a crop. A lot of it never came up, and that that did never amounted to much."

"But this year we've got good moisture," Gaskins continued. "Now if we can just get one or two more rains a month in June, July and August, we ought to have a really good season."

The message is the same to the south of Big Spring.

"We've got a good crop coming up and the soil moisture is perfect," said Horace Tubb. "In fact, I've been farming since 1941, and so far, it's as good a year as I can remember."

To the east, John Metcalf and Donnie Reid say they can't remember better conditions for farming in the Coahoma area.

"It really seems like we couldn't have asked for better soil moisture," Metcalf said while making repairs to equipment he'll use in fertilizing his fields. "Of course, it's been so bad the last couple of years, just the change in attitude goes a long way right now."

Reid, who has 1,300 acres planted in cotton, seemed a little more cautious. "I'm almost afraid to get my hopes up, but we really are due a good crop," he said. "And right now, things look awfully good. We just need for them to stay good."

And to the west, where Lanny Fryar is finishing the majority of his planting in Martin County, only the prospect of having to spray for boll weevils and concerns about what price his crop might bring at the gin dampens the optimism.

Fryar noted that dryland cotton farmers are, by the nature of their business, gamblers. As a result, even prime planting conditions aren't enough to allay all fears.

"Right now conditions are good and we really needed them to be," Fryar said, noting that none of the area's farmers have been able to replace worn out equipment. "But we not only need to be able to have a good harvest, we've got to get a good price for our cotton this fall."

"We're basically getting the same price for cotton that we were getting in the '50s and '60s," Fryar added. "That wouldn't be a problem if the cost of production were the same it was 30 or 40 years ago, but those costs have skyrocketed, just like the cost of living."

Fryar's concerns were not only echoed by Gerald Hanson of Stanton, a retired farmer and farm supply store owner, but by Reid and Metcalf, as well.

"It was 1979 ... that's the last time we made a good crop and everybody made a good profit," Reid said. "There have been a couple of years when we had a good crop, but didn't have the price."

Hanson and Reid both noted that there was once a time when a farmer could buy a new pickup for $1,700. "Today, it costs almost 10 times that much for a new truck," Reid said.

"That doesn't mean we're not looking ahead to a good season," Metcalf said, noting that farmers in the Coahoma area were able to produce a small crop last year.

Niehues, Anderson named to boll weevil foundation

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Garden City producer and businessman Carey Niehues and Colorado City producer and businessman Woody Anderson were among 14 newly appointed members to the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation (TBWEF) Board sworn in last week at TBWEF offices in Abilene.

The ceremony also marked the initial meeting of the TBWEF board following the signing of legislation giving the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) and Commissioner Rick Perry more direct control of the state's boll weevil eradication program.

In announcing new board members earlier this week, Perry said, "Though TDA has been given additional responsibilities by the Legislature, make no mistake that the boll weevil eradication efforts in this state will continue to be producer driven. Members of this board, along with TDA, are ready to work with producers to ensure Texas remains the leading cotton producing state in the nation." Cotton is the leading cash crop in Texas, but because of the boll weevil, producers lose more than $20 million annually.

Since Gov. George W. Bush signed legislation designed to answer "he concerns recently expressed by the Texas Supreme Court, producers across the state are more optimistic about the boll weevil spray program."

The 30-county High Plains area of the state, which includes Howard County, has also been impacted by the new legislation. The High Plains area is overseen by Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) Inc., and because of the new legislation has been split into two regions where the eradication program is concerned.

The northern zone includes Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall, Bailey, Lamb, Hall and Floyd counties while the southern zone includes Howard, Andrews, Borden, Martin, Dawson, Motley, Dickens, Crosby, Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza and Kent counties.

Farmers waiting to see how changes in boll weevil program work

By JOHN A. MOSELEY
News Editor

Weather and planting conditions aren't the only change area cotton farmers are eyeing from a year ago — they're also waiting to see the changes which have been made in the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Program.

Gov. George W. Bush signed into law a bill, authored by Sen. Robert Duncan, R-Lubbock, during the final week of the 75th Legislature's session that replaced the pesticide-spraying program which had been ruled unconstitutional.

"Our top priority was to develop a statewide program that will eliminate the boll weevil," said Duncan, who called the boll weevil "the number one menace to the cotton industry. Texas needs to have policy in place to fight this major threat to our economy."

The new program became necessary after the Texas Supreme Court declared the previous program unconstitutional, saying that governmental powers lawmakers gave to the private Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation were too broad.

provisions are:

- Placing control of the program under the Texas Department of Agriculture.

- Eliminating the program's power to destroy the cotton crop of farmers who fail to pay fees, instead allowing for a lien to be placed against the crop.

- Specifying that farmers delinquent on payments could not be sued for past-due collections, and that farmers will not be refunded for past assessment payments.

- Establishing an advisory committee in each regional eradication zone.

Most area farmers already have a good stand of cotton. Last week's rains, while said to be too heavy in some areas, coupled with this week's forecast highs of 95 degrees, are expected to bring the rest of the cotton to the surface.

County farmers, and the other by 120 Rio Grande Valley farmers, contended the Abilene-based Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation's method of assessing fees for the pesticide-spraying program was unconstitutional.

In both cases, state district judges invalidated the assessments and stopped their collection.

The state's high court, considering an appeal from the four-

"Last year, we made just enough cotton that we had to get out there and harvest it."

"For the most part, it costs just as much money to grow a poor crop as it does to grow a good one," he added, also noting, "But, if you make a crop, 60 cents a pound is better than 95 cents when you don't make one."

Metcalf, who has planted 1,000 acres of his 1,700-acre farm in cotton this year, indicated that area farmers have had several "break even" years in which they were at least able to make enough to pay their bills.

"The last couple of years haven't been break even, though," he said. "It's been bad and two losing years have really put farmers around here in a bind."

"We really do need a good crop that will bring a good price," Metcalf said. "I don't know a farmer around that doesn't need that real bad this year."

While Gaskins admits that he's already seen thrips and yellow striped army worms in some of his cotton fields and that insects could be some problem this summer, he says "it's shaping up as a very good year."

"I think the gin operators should be gearing up for a big year," he said, "because all the indications are that this will be one."

Although Gaskins said a one-inch rain that fell just after the start of planting forced him to plant a second time on his fields around Knott, other farmers said another promising factor is that most of them seem to have gotten away with only one planting.

"I've seen years when we've had to plant three or four times to make a crop," Metcalf said. "But so far, just about everyone has only had to plant once. We're just hoping that it stays that way."

NEW ATHLETIC FACILITY

Dedication of the Big Spring Independent School District's new athletic training facility is scheduled at 1:45 today with an open house to follow from 2-4 p.m. The training center is located just north of Blankenship Field and includes a variety of areas to help enhance athletic performance. The facility has already drawn a great deal of interest from administrators in other school systems, including Midland, Odessa and Pampa.

McVeigh jurors prepare for death penalty talks

DENVER (AP) — In a front-row seat in the jury box, a middle-aged teacher's assistant removes her glasses and dabs at her eyes as witness after witness describes bloodied bodies and empty lives.

One row back sits the foreman, always in a suit and tie, frequently staring at Timothy McVeigh as he hears of desperate, futile searches and heroic rescues.

Around them are mothers, former military men, a landscaper, a waitress, a computer programmer.

These are the jurors of the Oklahoma City bombing trial, 12 ordinary people thrust into an extraordinary situation — deciding whether the man in front of them should die for his crimes.

"I imagine it's one of the most difficult decisions anyone has to make," said Andrew Cohen, a Denver attorney attending the trial.

"I think people only think about it in the abstract. I think they're going to take their time. In that room, when they have to raise their hands, it will be difficult. Someone is going to say, 'I just can't do it.'"

For six weeks, the seven men and five women have traveled together, shared lunches and even spent free time together when they were sequestered during deliberations.

They mostly have been attentive through testimony both tedious and dramatic, listening intently as prosecutors have sought to convince them McVeigh deserved to die and defense attorneys have asked for mercy.

Last week, they convicted McVeigh of 11 counts in the April 19, 1995, bombing that killed 168 people and injured more than 500.

Soon, they will retire behind closed doors to decide if McVeigh will be executed or serve his life out in prison. They also may recommend that U.S. District Judge Richard Matsch impose a lesser sentence.

All acknowledged they could impose the death penalty, but several said they would consider a lesser sentence if the offender showed remorse, according to a review of their statements during jury selection.

The jurors are mostly white and middle-class, ranging from young adults to retired. Several are religious, and some have military backgrounds.

The foreman, Juror No. 11, is an unmarried engineer whose father was a career Air Force officer. His religion, he says, is "following the Golden Rule."

He has cried during particularly graphic accounts. During the selection process, he said the death penalty would be a difficult decision, but one that must be made fairly.

"I think it is owed to the defendant, it's owed to the system and the process..." he said. "I want to be able to sleep at night."

At least three other jurors — Nos. 1, 2 and 4 — often cried, too, particularly during last week's accounts of the bombing aftermath.

Juror No. 1 is a grandmother who lives near Loveland, north of Denver, and volunteers at her Lutheran church. Her husband is a retired San Diego policeman. She said she could impose the death penalty, but could stick to her decision if she favored a life sentence.

Juror No. 2 is a Denver-area teacher's assistant who specializes in learning disabled children. A self-described "soft touch," she has said it would be difficult to decide to impose the death penalty, but "I'm convinced I could make it."

Juror No. 4 is a retired retail manager from suburban Broomfield, who survived a cancer operation. She believes the death penalty is required in some cases, but "only if it is proven without a reasonable doubt."

The foreman and Juror No. 3, a 20ish landscaper who's a single parent, have stared intently at McVeigh since the verdict was handed down.

Several jurors, including a computer programmer, a waitress, a nurse and a maintenance worker, had little doubt about the need for a death penalty.

TEXAS BRIEFS

John Sharp files papers to run for lieutenant governor
AUSTIN — One day after Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock announced he wouldn't seek re-election, State Comptroller John Sharp stepped up to the plate.

Sharp filed formal papers Friday with the Texas Ethics Commission, a step necessary to begin his campaign.

The Democrat had been touted as a frontrunner in the bid for governor in 1998, but Sharp told his staff he'd be running for the No. 2 job after Bullock made his announcement Thursday. No reason was given for his decision not to challenge George W. Bush for the governor's job.

SHARP

Sharp, who was sworn in as Texas comptroller in 1991 and has since been responsible for numerous welfare reforms, is expected to officially announce his candidacy in the next few days, spokesman Ross Ramsey said.

Republican Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry also said Thursday he is strongly considering a run to succeed Bullock. Perry and Sharp were college friends at Texas A&M in the late 1960s.

FEMA denies disaster declaration requested by Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas isn't getting the presidential disaster declaration Gov. George W. Bush requested to deal with the aftermath of the killer tornadoes that hit Central Texas with a vengeance last week.

But that doesn't mean federal help of one sort or another won't be forthcoming.

As residents of Jarrell and Cedar Park work to rebuild lives, homes and businesses, they may be eligible for low-interest loans and other relief from the Small Business Administration, the Agriculture Department, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Nonetheless, Bush and other state officials expressed disappointment Friday that they were denied a major disaster declaration and its promise of greater federal bounty.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency notified Bush that the property devastation from the May 27 twisters, which claimed 28 lives, didn't meet the threshold required to trigger the help.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 8:

Your interests are varied this year. Making money is important to you; however, you might not want to compromise a relationship or goal in its pursuit. Interactions are increasingly important. Relating skills are heightened, and need to be fine-tuned. Others hear you loud and clear. If you are single, you sort through a myriad of possibilities, and are open to a special relationship. Still, before you meet this person, you might date a lot. If attached, the two of you will change the nature of your communications, activities and needs. Stay tuned into each other. LEO perks you up.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Confusion reigns, and situations become even more oblique. By midday, your sense of humor explodes, and you see all of this as hilarious. Your laughter draws in friends. Today is a perfect example of "all's well that ends well." Bravo! Tonight: Play the night away.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You need to revamp plans more than twice. There is little that you can do, so give up and hang out. Investigate finances, to determine if you can afford a major expenditure. A partner wants to get in on it. Tonight: You are happy at home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Mercury moves into your sign, making you verbal. Others find you charming. You need to handle a pending money matter. A partner wants to talk; indulge him. Go to a favorite spot for coffee. Tonight: Hanging out is fun.*

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You are confused by a partner's choices. Make a decision about your limits. Verbalize your inner fears about a situation that is rapidly getting more chaotic. Take time for a favorite, relaxing pastime. Tonight: It's your treat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Start the day slow. If you feel you don't want to deal with another, you can avoid contact for now. There is much pressure. By afternoon, you are ready to join a favorite friend. Your magnetism is exciting. Tonight: Just be yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You are not content about what is happening with a loved one. Plans keep changing, which upsets you. Go out and do something you want to do. A family member is unusually soothing; spend time with him. Tonight: Play ostrich.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Confusion surrounds domestic and professional matters. There is no immediate resolution. Reach out for a friend, and let the good times roll. Your mirifical nature emerges. Get together with others for a fun game of softball or volleyball. Tonight: Be where the gang is.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
You are overwhelmed by another's flakiness. How you choose to deal with it could vary. Some will let go of the immediate chaos; others will worry. Focus on family, and make the most of a fun get-together. You have a rare opportunity for a special chat. Tonight: Stay home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Get past a money-partnership issue. You don't get an answer right away. Let it go. Visit a favorite beach, or have a picnic in the woods. Friends perk up at the idea, and want to join you. Your view of a problem changes substantially during the day. Tonight: Rent a movie.*

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You are not as sure of yourself as usual. This is OK for now; let it go. You will feel better soon. Talk to a partner about simplifying your life. An outing for just the two of you proves immensely enjoyable. Tonight: Be open to warm moments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
You are burned out, or are making mountains out of molehills. Another yanks you out of your doldrums. Loosen up. You have fun, in spite of yourself. The more friends, the merrier. Enjoy the moment. A flirtation could develop. Tonight: The party might not end.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
You are not sure about what you want. Another's reaction makes you feel guilty or sorry. Get into a favorite pastime, to release tension. Have more faith in yourself and your judgments. A discussion with a family member is important. Tonight: Get a head start on tomorrow.*

For better or worse, interleague play to begin

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

By the time Barry Bonds steps into the batter's box at The Ballpark in Arlington baseball will have changed. Forever.

Interleague play is here at last. And, for better or worse, the game will never be the same.

No need now to wonder whether Mark McGwire or Ken Griffey Jr. can whack a ball 600 feet at Coors Field. No more reason to debate who's the best team in New York, Chicago and Canada.

Answers to those intriguing questions will come soon enough.

Want to see if Roger Clemens can blow heaters past hitters who have never faced him? Looking ahead to a World Series between Baltimore and Atlanta?

Just watch in a few days and find out.

Love it or hate it, and few fans are in-between, it all begins Thursday night when the San Francisco Giants visit the Texas Rangers.

Willie Mays, Nolan Ryan and the two league presidents will take part in the ceremonial first ball toss. Then, it will take only one pitch to alter history: Not since the first major league was formed in 1871 have teams from different leagues played each other in the regular season.

They will this year, with every club playing either 15 or 16 interleague games for a total of 214 AL-NL meetings. The plan is in effect for 1998, too, but the great experiment will need approval from players and owners to continue beyond that.

Jackie Robinson, Mike Schmidt and Ozzie Smith never got to play at Fenway Park, but career National Leaguers like Greg Maddux, Darren Daulton and Moises Alou get their chance this year.

Could Stan Musial have caught up with one of Bob Feller's fastballs? How would Ted Williams have fared swinging away against Warren Spahn?

We'll never know, and that was always part of baseball's charm.

But this summer, we'll see if Mike Piazza can master Randy Johnson or if Albert Belle can go deep against Alan Benes.

For better or worse.

"Life is all about change," Atlanta pitcher Tom Glavine said. "Sure, baseball has a deep, deep tradition. But that doesn't mean that it's right or perfect."

"It's one of those things like the wild card. Everyone complained about that and hated it and now a large majority like it," he said. "Within time, interleague play will be the same way. People will forget all about the tradition."

Milwaukee shortstop Jose Valentin has a more personal reason for liking the idea.

"I've been waiting my whole life to see Wrigley Field," he said.

Gauging by ticket sales, fans are getting excited, too.

The Subway Series between the Mets and Yankees is nearly sold out. So is Baltimore's three-game visit to Atlanta.

"Everyone in the South wants to see Cal Ripken play," Braves pitcher Mike Bielecki said. "He's a legend. Without going all the way up to Baltimore, the people down here would never have that chance."

Even the matchups that seem less attractive are selling. Pittsburgh may draw its largest crowds next weekend when ex-Pirates Jay Bell and Jeff King lead Kansas City into Three Rivers Stadium.

Cincinnati is expecting its biggest crowds since opening day when Belle and the Chicago White Sox visit. Reds players are also pumped, with relievers Jeff Shaw and Mike Remlinger already anticipating Belle's arrival.

"Me and Rem were talking about it yesterday, about Albert," Shaw said. "He just wanted to know how I thought we would get him out."

OK, owners got what they wanted — some full ballparks and increased interest in the game.

But what about the fabric of baseball? Is it worth shucking all that tradition for what some claim is merely a quick fix?

"I don't think it's good,"

Cleveland pitcher Jack McDowell said. "It changes the pennant races. That was the one good thing about baseball, that everybody played the same schedule and had the same shot as everybody else."

And what happens in October, when two clubs meet in a rematch?

"That's what made the World Series so much more special,"

Braves shortstop Jeff Blauser said. "They're going to say, 'Well, when these teams faced each other back in June this is what happened.'"

Of course, there will be logistical problems.

The DH will be allowed at AL parks but not at NL sites. So AL pitchers have been preparing to hit, sort of.

At Jacobs Field, a groundskeeper recently threw batting practice to Cleveland pitchers. At Fenway Park, Boston pitchers broke out video cameras to record each other in the batting cage.

Preparing for new opponents is another matter. Montreal, for example, is in the dark about the first AL team it will face, the Detroit Tigers.

"We know nothing about them," Expos manager Felipe

Alou said. "The day or two before, we'll have to find out some things."

"This is not like the Bulls having three or four days to go over the Jazz. You've got to get ready for the team you're playing today," he said.

Whether it's the Mets or Braves. Or Yankees or Orioles. For better or worse.

World's First...

1997 HALF-POUND "SILVER CERTIFICATE"

Shown larger than actual size of 6"x2-1/2"!

The Washington Mint Announces the HISTORIC FIRST MINTING of an Extraordinary Eight Ounce Commemorative Proof Struck from Pure Silver Bullion—Advance Price $149

The Washington Mint announces a limited advance minting of the world's first 1997 Half-Pound "Silver Certificate."

PRECIOUS SILVER BULLION

The 1997 Half-Pound "Silver Certificate" is a massive piece of pure silver bullion that has a surface area that exceeds 30 square inches and contains more than EIGHT OUNCES OF PURE SILVER BULLION.

And NOW, during a limited advance strike period, the VERY FIRST 1997 Half-Pound "Silver Certificate" ever struck are available at a special discount price — only $149!

PORTHOLE COMMEMORATIVE

Over 70 years ago, the Government of the United States issued a now rare legal tender note that the bearer could exchange for real silver bullion at the federal treasury. This note bore the remarkable likeness of Abraham Lincoln as captured by Civil War Photographer Matthew Brady. The treasury immortalized President Lincoln by designing a large circular "porthole" frame around Lincoln's Portrait.

Our 1997 Half-Pound Silver Certificate is a stunning adaptation of this legendary Porthole note. But our exquisite silver proof is actually struck in precious silver bullion!

UNPRECEDENTED WEIGHT

The Half-Pound "Silver Certificate" combines unprecedented weight with extraordinary dimension — it is a landmark in proof minting.

The specifications for this colossal medallion proof are unparalleled. Each one:

- Is Individually Struck from Pure .999 Silver Bullion
- Weighs Over One Half-Pound (8 troy ounces)
- Has a Surface Area That Exceeds 30 Square Inches
- Contains 248.82 Grams (3,840 grains) of Pure Silver
- Is Individually Registered and Numbered 0100
- Is Fully Encapsulated to Protect its Mirror-Finish
- Includes a Deluxe Velvet Presentation Case
- Comes With a Numbered Certificate of Authenticity

ADVANCE STRIKE DISCOUNT

The price for the 1997 Half-Pound "Silver Certificate" will be set at $175 per proof.

HOWEVER, IF YOU PLACE YOUR ORDER NOW, YOU CAN ACQUIRE THIS GIANT SILVER PROOF AT THE SPECIAL ADVANCE STRIKE DISCOUNT PRICE—ONLY $149. NOTE TO COLLECTORS: IF YOU PLACE YOUR ORDER FOR THE HALF-POUND "SILVER CERTIFICATE" WITHIN THE NEXT 10 DAYS, IT WILL BE PROCESSED IMMEDIATELY, AND THE EARLIEST ORDERS WILL RECEIVE THE LOWEST REGISTRATION NUMBERS.

ADDITIONAL DISCOUNTS

Substantial additional discounts are available for serious collectors who wish to acquire more than one of these exquisite silver proofs. You can order:

- THREE Half-Pound "Silver Certificates" for $399.
- FIVE Half-Pound "Silver Certificates" for $645.
- TEN Half-Pound "Silver Certificates" for $1,195.

There is a limit of ten Half-Pound "Silver Certificates" per order, and all orders are subject to acceptance by The Washington Mint, LLC.* Total charges for shipping, handling and insurance are limited to $9.50 per order.

ONLY 50,000 AVAILABLE

The Lincoln Porthole is the eighth Half-Pound Silver Certificate in our commemorative currency series. The Washington Mint will strike only 50,000 Half-Pound Silver Certificates for 1997, so oversubscription is a virtual certainty.

BEGINNING TODAY, TELEPHONE ORDERS ONLY WILL BE ACCEPTED ON A STRICT FIRST-COME, FIRST-SERVED BASIS ACCORDING TO THE TIME AND DATE OF THE ORDER.

CUSTOMERS ARE STRONGLY ADVISED TO SECURE THEIR RESERVATIONS IMMEDIATELY BY CALLING TOLL FREE:

1-800-926-MINT
Ext. 38747

(24 hours a day, 7 days a week)

A major credit card is necessary to secure your reservation, and The Washington Mint fully guarantees satisfaction with a money-back policy for a full 60 days.

The Washington Mint, LLC®

Since 1981, The Washington Mint has procured rare coins, secured bullion and struck medallions for the American numismatic public as an independent private mint, not affiliated with the United States Government. This independence provides the cornerstone for our commitment to excellence in both product and service, and most importantly, it guarantees to our customers essential rights and complete satisfaction.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

It's more than cookies and punch ...

The different religions have very little in common besides their belief in God. In most cases there is one exception and that is Vacation Bible School (V.B.S.).

Many people have fond memories of attending V.B.S. even if they don't go to church on a regular basis once they grow older.

In some cases it is the first and only time they will attend a church, so there is a lot of pressure on teachers to try to make it fun for children.

"I taught the second grade at Coahoma, but here I get to teach the children about God and if I did it there I would get into trouble," comments Amlee Martin, a teacher at the Midway Baptist Church, "and I like getting to know the kids." When asked what her most memorable moment was Martin said, "One of my children accepted Christ as his savior and that is always exciting."

V.B.S. is a place for children to learn more about their religion and make new friends with the visitors who are encouraged to come. The children have contests to find out who can bring the most visitors.

The Ackerly Baptist Church reports an increase in attendance this year, which is a surprise to the small congregation. Even more surprising is the fact that they were fully staffed this year. "We almost never have that," says Ann Moore, the pastor's wife. "This year went so well that we will do the same things next year."

Despite the times that we live in, most churches report that attendance is either up or the same as last year.

"Some of my most best memories are of V.B.S. and I have a 61-year old body and a 6-year old heart," says Midway pastor Hubert Wright, "I just love all of it."

Some of the main objectives are not only to teach about God but to also instill a sense of community, patriotism and pride in ones own self and religious beliefs.

Word is spread many ways about V.B.S., fryers and posters are most common, but the most effective way is "word of mouth" from child to child as they tell each other about their church.

Most children's favorite part of the day are the games and the cookies and punch but they all agree; the reason they're there is to learn more about God and the teachers always make it fun.

God bless our teachers!
