CISD board completes candidate interviews

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

COAHOMA School trustees here have finished interviews with candidates for the superintendent position, but no timetable for a decision has been announced.

The Coahoma school board met in special session Thursday, and completed the initial round of interviews with the six finalists for the L.D. "Sonny" Monroe, superintendent of Coahoma schools for the past five years, announced his resignation from the school system Monday. In May, trustees declined to renew his contract.

Monroe will become business manager of the Kermit school district effective July 18.

Since their May action, trustees have been working closing with Brian Labeff, executive director of the Region 18 Educational Service Center in Midland, to find a help, trustees recently announced six finalists for the job.

The finalists are: Ronny Collins, superintendent at Wellington; Michael Hartman, former superintendent at Bronte; Tommy Sanders, superintendent at Mart; James Warlick, former superintendent at Greenwood; Gary Gazaway, superintendent at Hull-Daisetta; and Joe Boyd, superintendent at Buena Vista. Trustees hope to have a new new superintendent. With his superintendent named by Aug.

Trustees looked through more than 40 applications before deciding on the final six, board president Gail Wells

A school district spokeswoman said no more interviews are scheduled, and that the board will meet next Thursday to further consider the matter.

At that time, the board may narrow the field further, the spokeswoman added.

Stop signs change on MLK

HERALD Staff Report

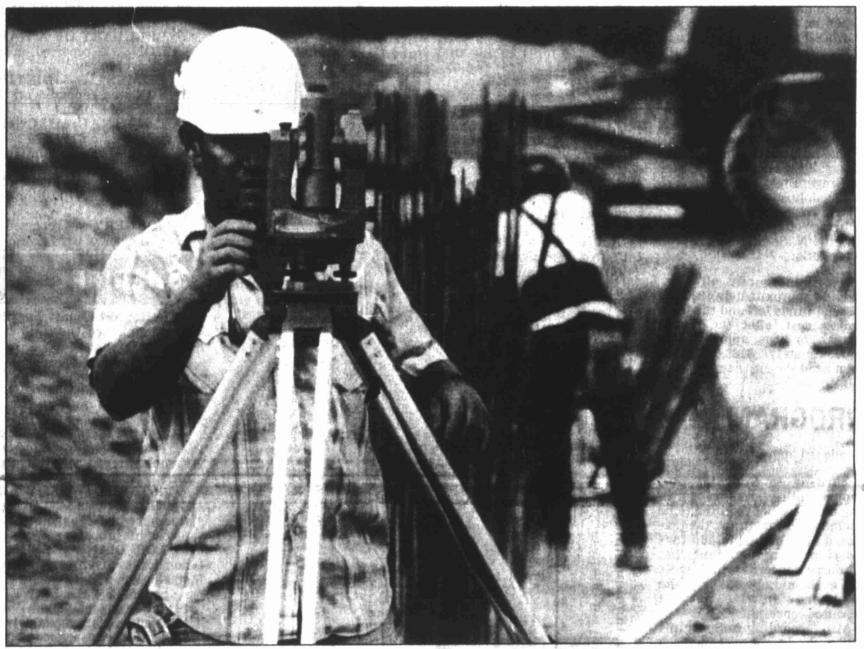

Big Spring residents are being advised that two 2-way stop signs have replace four 4-way stop sign at the intersection of Pennsylvania and Martin Luther King Boulevard, with the 2-way stop signs on Pennsylvania, making MLK a through way street. Community Services Director Todd Darden said this was a decision made by the Traffic Commission. "We had the Traffic Commission look at the issue and the commission felt that since they city removed the hill at the northeast corner of MLK and Pennsylvania, the impairment as far as visibility is concerned has been eliminated." Darden said.

Darden added city hall has received a few call from residents wondering about the change.

What is did was basically get rid of an area where there were back-to-back stop signs," Darden said. "But, because of the hills that remain at Douglas Street, those signs are still up."

Farmers, ranchers can utilize new program

By CARLTON JOHNSON

Staff Writer

Beginning Monday, area farmers and ranchers may the new for signup Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP). Signup continues through Aug.

The new program is a result of the 1996 Farm Bill and offers a limited number of producers who have serious soil, water and other natural resource problems with technical, financial and educational assistance.

"EQIP is not like the former Great Plains Conservation Program (GPCP)," Eddy Spurgin, district conservationist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Big Spring, said. "This program is extremely engaged in livestock or agricultural production who would provide the greatest environmental benefit at the least cost to the program.'

Applications will be prioritized after Aug. 1 based on specific criteria, according to Spurgin. "After the Farm Service Agency (FSA) determines eligibility, NRCS conservationists and the producer will make an inventory of the natural resources, identify natural resource problems and concerns, determine treatment needs and agree upon the land management and structural practices the producer will install," Spurgin said. "The extent of the conservation practice, fields and acres to be treated, cost-share rate and incentive payment levels the producer will accept as well as the total program payments, are included in a ranking formula," Spurgin added. Twelve Geographic Priority Areas (GPA), encompassing 167 County, are the primary target for more than $8.7 million in EQIP funds allocated to Texas. Each GPA has similar natural resource problems and concerns which EQIP can address. The GPAs targeted include Blackland, Central Texas, Northeast Texas, Gulf Coast, Edwards, Rio Grande, Upper Rio Grande, Pecos River, Middle Concho, Southern High Plains A. Southern High Plains

B and Southern High Plains C. "Water conservation, excessive wind and water erosion, limited water supply and brush invasion are a few of the specific resource concerns identified in the GPAs," Spurgin said. "Howard County is in the Southern High Plains C Priority Area, which also includes the counties of Martin, Andrews, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum, Terry and Cochran." Producers in counties outside the GPA are also eligible for the remaining $4.7 million in EQIP funds provided it will solve identified statewide nat-limited and is for persons counties, including Howard ural resource concerns, such as excessive erosion, and ground and surface water quality.

According to Spurgin, each application will compete with other applications in their GPA, while those outside of the GPAs will compete against each other.

"Contracts will be awarded based on their ranking, regardless of location," Spurgin warns. "That means some counties may not have any contracts, even though they are located inside a GPA.

Applications for a single conservation practice on an individual field addressing a single natural resource concern may not be competitive in a GPA or with the statewide natural resource concerns.

Acceptance into EQIP will require a five-year to 10-year contract, even if only one year of cost share is needed.

Contracts are for a maximum amount of $50,000 with a maximum 75 percent cost-share,

District trustees decide to sue comptroller over valuations

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

Litigation is in Big Spring ISD's immediate future. Big Spring school trustees voted unanimously during their Thursday meeting to purlegal action against the state comptroller's office to rectify what school board believes to be faulty property valuations.

Austin attorney Jeannie Navarro, who has represented the district in past similar matters, will file suit against the comptroller's office in Travis

County in the near future. Board vice president Larry McLellan said the board believes that the comptroller's office has overvalued certain property in Big Spring. This is of particular concern to BSISD because higher property valuations mean less state aid to school districts. The comptroller's office has selected 46 properties in Big Spring that it considers "typical," and uses the valuations from those properties to determine the amount of state aid BSISD will receive.

During its calculations, the comptroller's office determined that three of the properties used in the sample were undervalued, and that finding had the effect of lowering state aid to BSISD by $178,000.

That's what drew the school board's ire.

"We feel those three properties are atypical, and need to be

Price Construction set to start street paving program

By CARLTON JOHNSON

Staff Writer

The change order to the city's street improvement program has been approved and a schedule of when Price Construction will begin working was presented to the Big Spring City Council by City Manager Gary Fuqua at Tuesday's council meeting.

The council gave its final approval of the city's paving project Tuesday, including the change order, which drops Price Construction's base bid amount by $80,364.25 from $852,184.75 to $771,820.50.

The change order encompasses the deletion of valley gutter improvements on Settles Street and a change in responsibility for laboratory testing, saving the city a total of $80,364.25.

The street improvement project is the result of a bond issue passed a few years ago by Big Spring voters.

The first phase of the project will begin Monday with mobilization of the project at Goliad,

Rebecca 11th, Young and streets. Through Aug. 29, that portion of the project will include removing the existing asphalt, removing the existing base, subgrade preparation, adding a flexible base and concrete valley gutter and finally the hot mix asphaltic concrete process. From Aug. 29 through Sept.

25, the project will focus on Johnson and Main streets using the same processes with the addition of stripping.

The project is scheduled to moves to San Jacinto on July 28 for work on a lift station and concrete slope protection.

The remainder of the project is scheduled to be worked on from Sept. 29 through Nov. 10.

The specific areas included in the paving project include the Rebecca & 25th intersection; Settles and Sixth to Ridegroad; Douglas Street in front of McDonald's; the intersection of 18th and Scurry; Johnson and Third to Fourth; and the Second and San Jacinto intersection.

The second phase of the project includes streets that have been in need of repair for quite a while: the Kentucky and Purdue intersection: Goliad and N.E. 10th to N.E. 12th; N.E. 11th and Nolan to Goliad; Fourth and Lancaster intersection; Hearn and Hwy 87 to Vicki; Main and First to Sixth; Lincoln and 11th to a half block south (east branch of Lincoln); West 19th and Lancaster to Gregg; West 20th and Lancaster to Gregg; Eighth and Owens to State; Johnson and Second to Third; West Ninth and Gregg to Scurry; Young and 16th to 18th; and the N. Second and Benton intersection.

According to city officials, there is approximately $900,000 in bond funds left and the total project cost, after the recent change or was approved, is approximately $129,000 less than what the city has on hand.

HOUSTON — A doctor who was just acquitted of charges he molested a woman patient has filed malicious prosecution lawsuits against seven women who testified against him.

Dr. Steven Payne filed the lawsuits Thursday accusing the women of making false and malicious allegations that abused the criminal and civil legal processes.

He seeks $100,000 in actual damages in each case to cover his defense costs and $2 million in punitive damages.

Attorney Arthur Howard also filed three malicious prosecution suits and counterclaims against three women who filed lawsuits against the doctor.

A jury found Payne innocent on June 23 on charges that he sexually molested a patient during a pelvic examination in September 1996. Three other cases are pending against him.

HOUSTON - The city of Houston wants to sell you tap water. In a bottle. Really.

Houston Chronicle reported Thursday that city officials actually think there's a market for water residents already get straight from their tap.

"We don't foresee sending Perrier back to France with its tail between its legs," said Dan Jones, deputy director of city's Public Works and Engineering Department. "But we are absolutely certain that our taste, color, clarity and quality is 100 percent competitive with what's on the shelves today."

A prototype of a sports-size water bottle with a blue label and city seal has been developed for the product dubbed "Superior Water."

City officials believe that with a limited initial outlay of cash for bottling and distribution, city water could be on supermarket shelves and actually turning a profit by this time next year.

HOUSTON Several Houston Fire Department employees have been arrested for releasing confidential information to law firms about accident victims transported to hospital in ambulances.

Houston Police spokesman Jack Cato said Thursday that bribery charges were pending against five female data entry clerks who worked in the Houston Fire Department communications office.

James Okolo, described as a runner for a law firm, was arrested on a bribery charge and later released on $40,000 bail.

Another law firm employee has been named in an arrest warrant and is expected to surrender to authorities, authorities said.

Prosecutor Chuck Noll wouldn't go into detail about the sting by HPD's Public Integrity Review Group.

PHOENIX - Death row inmates in Texas make dolls and pants. Missouri killers work in a metal shop and Tennessee's type away on computers.

But none is allowed outside to work in the light of day.

"That is their world," Tennessee Department of Correction spokeswoman Pam Gehman said.

In Arizona, however, it's a different world - one where death row inmates are required to toil in an outdoor vegetable garden yards away from a chain-link fence that runs along a public road.

Some critics are questioning Arizona's make-them-work policy after a botched escaped attempt Wednesday that left a condemned inmate and his wife dead not far from the garden.

"It is the position of the LHCC board that these developments are the result of city politics, as will be revealed by the evidence," said board member Efren Villanueva, reading a prepared statement. "Politicos have manipulated our system of jurisprudence."

When pressed by reporters, Villanueva declined to give specific examples of corruption.

AUSTIN — The latest phone scam in Texas is testing whether employees are willing to bail out their bosses.

BROWNSVILLE - A man has pleaded guilty to attempting to bribe a juror in a major drug-trafficking trial, the second jury-tampering conviction in two months in the Rio Grande Valley. Despite the successive cases, both of which involved drug trials, prosecutors said they believe jury-influencing crimes remain rare.

"I don't have any evidence it's a growing problem," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Eric Reed, who is prosecuting the latest case. "But as the stakes become higher in the drug trade - with bigger money and bigger judicial penalties — the government has to be ever more vigilant about these sorts of attacks.'

On Thursday, Bobby Herrera, 27, of Brownsville pleaded guilty to one count of jury tampering and agreed to testify against a co-defendant who is scheduled for trial Monday in Houston.

Herrera admitted to offering up to $10,000 to juror James Almaraz for a not-guilty vote in the April drug trial of Javier Lopez Cantu.

DALLAS - Texas had a record number of mandatory early inmate releases last year. District Attorney Bill Sowder The Dailes Morning News

Citing state records, the newspaper reported that 15,726 offenders were released under automatic early release, almost three times the number under Democratic Gov. Ann Richards. That year, 5,622 inmates were released early under a mandatory-release program, prompting Bush to depict Richards in television commercials and speeches as soft on criminals.

During his campaign for governor, Bush campaign commercials accused Richards of being soft on criminals because of her record regarding early releases.

Bush last year signed legislation that ended mandatory release for those convicted after last Sept. 1, but inmates sentenced before that date can still get out of prison early.

HOUSTON - Reading & Bates Corp. and Falcon Drilling Co. have agreed to merge in a $5 billion deal to form the world's largest offshore driller.

RB Falcon Corp., the product of the merged Houston companies, hopes to be better positioned for the deepwater drilling boom around the world.

"This positions us well everywhere in the world," said Paul Loyd, the Reading & Bates chairman who will be chairman of the new company. "The area out past about 3,000 feet is really a brand new market and before there never really was a fleet built to operate in those water depths."

Most of their 5,500-worker combined work force will be retained in the merger, although some layoffs may occur, Loyd said Thursday.

The new company will include 14 vessels capable of drilling in water depths of more than 3,000 feet, said Steven Webster, the Falcon Drilling chairman who will be president and chief executive officer of

MISS LOUIE PAULGER Big Spring

TO THE EDITOR:

Why is it, that when a person trying to better themselves, is always fighting to stay ahead? Why is someone else always trying to run anothers life, just because they are .fferent?

I own and drive an 18 wheeler. I am self employed, own my own home, and need a place to ark only my truck and not the trailer when I come home days off, which is only four to seven days out of ever;y 30 to 80 days. I have gone to the city council and traffic commission, and secured a permit to erk my truck in my backyard, t some of the people in Big Spring will not leave this alone. According to the current laws, I have the right to park my truck in front of my residence, long enough to load and unload my belongings, however, as soon as I park my truck in front of my residence, a police officer arrives, informing me that a complaint has been called in. I then move my truck, only to discover that in various other parts of the city, many of them residential, other trucks and trailers are parked as well. When I inquire if an officer has-been by to issue a citation, or if any complaints have been called in, the answer is usually "no one has been by, nor have any complaints been received." I feel that I am being run out of town by the "I am better than you group," and I am getting tired of it! Live your own life, and let me live mine! JOHN EDWARDS

Wallowing in a pigsty of political corruption

It is embarrassingly clear that our system of financing federal elections has become a pigsty of dirty money -- a system under which citizens who won't take tainted donations have almost no chance of winning a seat in or the presidency It inalready equally clear that the chances are feeble to nonexistent that the system will be cleaned up as a result of the hoopla-ed Senate hearings chaired by Sen. Fred Thompson, R-Tenn.

The propaganda spewed forth by both Republicans and Democrats on Tuesday and Wednesday made it clear that what we will get is an incredibly costly exercise in blameplacing, resulting in deeper political polarization and a lot of ethnic hostility.

While pledging a fair and nonpartisan hearing, Thompson opened with extremely sensational but undocumented charges of efforts by the government of China "to buy access and influence" within the Clinton administration with surreptitious donations during the 1996 presidential campaign.

'Never before in the 221-yearold history of our nation have allegations this serious about the role of foreign influence on an American election been raised," said Sen. Robert C. Smith, R-N.H.

"We're talking about John Huang," said Sen. Robert C. Bennett, R-Utah, referring to the Democratic official who has been accused of being part of China's plot, and or even engaging in "espionage" and "treason" on China's behalf.

But the Democrats -- including Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, the ranking Democrat on the Governmental Affairs Committee - were talking about Simon Fireman, the vicechairman of Bob Dole's GOP campaign, who was fined $1.6 million for campaign-law abus-

And Democrats want to substitute for talk about Huang talk about Michael Kojima, who in 1992 gave the George Bush campaign a whopping half-million dollars, winning his wife a kiss from Bush and himself rare access in the Bush

White House. Kojima became the nation's most notorious deadbeat dad when a former wife revealed that he owed more than $100,000 in childsupport payments.

Kojima's $500,000 donation had been ponied up by Japanese businessmen who sought to win influence in the Bush administration. Sen. Daniel K. Akaka, D-

Hawaii, expressed fear that the hearings will become an orgy of Asian-bashing, "casting doubt on the integrity of Asian Pacific Americans.

Sen. Richard J. Durbin, D-Ill.. pointed out a crucial reason why these hearings will not fix what is broken about American campaign financing: "Every press account of foreign efforts to involve itself in our political process points to that involvement primarily at the congressional level, and yet this committee will not touch that issue," he said.

Sen. Robert G. Torricelli, the New Jersey Democrat, cited this and other reasons why he fears the hearings will become "nothing more than another excuse by many to delay consideration of fundamental reform of the system."

At the heart of "fundamental reform" is the outlawing of "soft money," the often shadowy contributions that are not specifically limited or banned under current law. Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., pointed out that in 1996 the Republican Party raised more than $140 million and the Democratic Party more than $120 million in soft money. This includes a gift of $1.3 million to the Republicans from just one company, and a gift of $450,000 to the Democrats from a single couple.

Levin said, "It's the money chase which is driving the illegal and improper conduct" in both parties, and that the need to chase money is "a serious" lla disease which has become chronic." boom have heen

Democrats are waging a drive to disarm the Republicans by repeatedly trying to get the GOP to agree to outlaw soft money, something the Republican National Committee has refused to do.

These hearings represent highly-publicized attempts by some politicians to purge the disease by pushing doses of humiliating publicity down the throats of enemy politicians. They are likely to make American voters even sicker than they imagined they can

I had started to weaken then. Neither of us said anything, but I could feel my resolve to drive her each time between Atlanta and Louisville, Ky., melting away. She visits often. one else in quietly returning to ValuJet, telling ourselves, like everyone else, that the discount airline right now is probably the safest, most regulated in the skies. (I heard no fewer than three people repeat that bit of conventional wisdom while waiting at the arrival gate.)

A short trip is a hard bargain for a child to pass up, even when she has heard all the TV reports about swamps, alligators and human remains. Chelsey took the ValuJet crash quite personally. She had flown alone on the airline half a dozen times with adult assurances that such travel was swift and safe, the only way to go.

And call me cheap. I paid more for her last doll than I did for Two-for-One Tuesday tickets for Chelsey, her mother and little brother. (That could mean I'm paying too much for toys and too little for transportation, but my theory is the flight takes only an hour and she will have the doll forever.)

Chelsey flew through the door from the plane, a foot taller, beaming. None of that studied nonchalance she used to affect when strolling out with an attendant.

That night, safe at the house, she shared with me her journal entry. It was all about flying

"I stepped onto the plane, almost saying out loud, 'This is just to get there faster.' I had forgotten how planes were. They go straight up, most of the time without going down. I didn't think the sun would stay out long enough to get past the clouds. Before this, ValuJet had a terrifying crash. The word 'crash' would not leave my brain. I did not do much but lean my head back.

"My little brother ate peanuts. Then he complained about how noisy it was. Then he said his stomach hurt. But he was not scared like me. Maybe he won't go through what I had to."

Please know I don't compare my family's mini-melodrama with what the victims' survivors are enduring. I cannot begin to imagine their anger and loss. I wouldn't blame any of them if they never flew again.

But it is interesting, in a sad kind of way, to watch a 9-yearold discover that life is full of horrible exceptions - and adults are full of it.

Children are taught to believe in us. We hold them in the swimming pool and tell them they can float. We put them on a plane and tell them it will land. We work hard at keeping their worlds happily-ever-after places.

Soon enough, dents are made in our credibility. As with a new car, that first scratch is the hardest to bear.

Chelsey had never doubted my word on anything before. I don't know if I've hurt or helped by putting her right back on that pony.

I do know this. Growing up means learning your own truths, believing what you see, discovering that on a given day statistics mean nothing.

LA attempt to ban gang meetings gets support and legal challenge

Jefferson Park once belonged to the 18th Street Gang. Gang members in the Los Angeles neighborhood would hang out on corners, deal drugs, get into fights, even strip cars in the owners' driveways.

Nowadays, though, street vendors sell frozen treats. Children cool off with garden hoses. Neighbors chat over fences.

"It's peaceful," says resident Rosario Gonzalez.

City officials credit the change to the city's serving notice on 18 gang members last March that they were about to be banned from gathering in groups of more than two anywhere in public in the neighborhood.

On Friday, a judge is expected to formally impose the freeassociation ban, an increasingly popular way for cities across the nation to fight gang vio-

Los Angeles already has won three similar court injunctions against other gangs in different neighborhoods.

In Jefferson Park, the 17-block area of working-class homes still bears the scars of its occupation by one of the most dangerous street gangs in the West. Scrawled on nearly every road sign are graffiti reminders: "XV3," "18," "EIGHTEEN."

Just being named as targets of the ban apparently put enough heat on the gang members to drive them off street corners.

Efrain Moreno, one of the 18 Jefferson defendants, objects to the tactic.

"I understand if I was selling drugs, or out there robbing and killing, you know. Yeah, put me in jail for a long time," he says. "But I'm not doing none of that. Now they're making my life miserable.'

He also has support from the American Civil Liberties Union, whose lawyer Allan Parachini calls the injunctions "cheap and easy, politically high-profile tactics.

The ACLU issued a study in May suggesting that crime actually went up in and around areas where gang injunctions saying the numbers may have gone up simply because there were more police in the area and residents were emboldened to report crimes.

Jefferson Park residents are convinced they have seen a turnaround.

Keith Gibson says his dad has painted over a neighbor's garage nearly 15 times in the past few years to cover up gang graffiti. Since word of the possible injunction spread, it hasn't been touched.

Motorists no longer hang a quick U-turn when they see a crowd. And there's been less sidewalk drug dealing and more nights without gunfire, Gibson says. "I feel much better for the kids' sake, too," he says.

Some residents acknowledge that having tranquility may mean bending the U.S. Constitution a little.

"I know it's discrimination, but they've earned it, through what they've done," says Dora Mendoza.

The city went to court on March 21 to ask for the injunction, and dozens of police officers fanned out to serve gang members with the lawsuit. The court action also forced them to show up in court more than once to respond.

Assistant City Attorney Jule Bishop says of the strategy: "We are not prohibiting meetings. We're asking the court to regulate it. If the Women's Club started having meetings in City Hall and refused to leave when asked to, we'd go to court and ask them to leave."

Fifteen-year-old Adrian Davila simply laughs at the idea of an injunction against gang members.

"They're not going to listen," he says.

So how can 18th Street Gang be stopped?

"They can't," he says. Richard Ramirez, whose upper body is covered with "18" tattoos, including one on his chin, says there's nothing to

They see us only on the outside,", he says, pointing to his baggy clothes and short haircut.

Group meets weekly for 15 years to create handiwork for others

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN

Features Editor

Their pastor calls them "sewing saints."

For more than 15 years, five members of the Ackerly First Baptist Church have been meeting every Tuesday to sew, crochet, knit and quilt.

This is how they serve. "Anybody who says they want something, we just do it," said Murlene Williams, a member of the group.

Other members of the devoted group are Mary Webb, Verle Miller, Augustus Cook, and Pauline Schuelke.

It started as a group of church women who were also handcrafters. They would meet weekly to work on their own projects, share a devotional and then visit sick and homebound members of the church. As the years went by, requests for their handmade items grew, and the ladies began to see how their projects could benefit oth-

Now the handiwork of the Sewing Saints goes to the Big Spring State Hospital, nursing homes all over the area, the River Ministry, Circle Baptist Encampment in Stanton and other places.

"They give real meaning to the term 'commitment,'" said pastor Robert Moore of the church. "They're always there. They have a commitment to work, serve and give."

Moore adds that the number of items made by the group is "astonishing."

They have completed about 300 quilts. They are at present making 40 lap throws for nursing home residents and 60

Every Tuesday, they are working by 9 a.m. and will spend the day there, putting in

Through the years, they have given at least one quilt to every pastor. They also make baby blankets for women of the church who are expecting.

Moore said he has sent an article about the "Sewing Saints" to the "Baptist Standard" magazine, where he hopes to see it published.

"All of them are a source of inspiration to those who know them," Moore says in the article. "And they issue to us all a challenge to a greater commitment to our church and its programs."

that his or her home requires regular and routine maintenance. Even minor repairs must be made from time to time to keep the house comfort-

Yet, we know the house will not collapse if it is not the subject of constant attention. So we tend to let some small tasks go undone until we "have to," and we let our frustration get the best of us because we took our homes for granted.

Now stop and consider a sandcastle. Sandcastles are fun to build. Even adults who go to the beach with their children can get caught up in building the ultimate castle. But you cannot take a sandcastle for granted. Sandcastles last only a short while if they are left unattended. The constant onslaught of wind and surf will soon leave it just another pile of sand. The builder can never assume that his sandcastle will last more than a day. To keep the castle from destruction requires constant attention.

There are a lot of things in our lives are running smoothly. it is easy to say, "Oh, my faith will last. It will always do me well. I can always count on my faith." Yet, when we begin to take our faith in God for granted like that, we tend to stop nurturing it. Without constant nurture, faith will eventually fail.

Daniel (as in Daniel and the lion's den). Here was a man of great principle and faith. His integrity had caused Darius. the king of the Medes and Persians, to notice him and elevate him to a place of honor and authority. In fact, he was put ahead of others who to plot against Daniel. As a result of their conspiracy, Daniel was eventually cast into a den of hungry lions. However, when Daniel first heard about the ploy, he went to his room "he continued kneeling on his knees three times a day, praying and giving thanks before his God, as he had been doing previously. (Daniel 6:10). He eventually faced the injustice with courage because he had nurtured his faith all along.

Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors:

Q - I have a VA Loan Guaranty Certificate of Eligibility which was issued to me over 15 years ago. Can I still use it?

A — Yes. Certificates of Eligibility do not expire and are good for the maximum loan guaranty currently available.

Q - I am a veteran who is having a difficult time making payments on my VA guaranteed home loan. What happens if I fail to make payments?

A - Failure to make payments on the loan may lead to foreclosure and the loss of your home. If the government is required to pay a claim as the result of failure to repay the loan, you may become indebted to the government for the amount of any such claim. If you find yourself in financial difficulty, please contact your loan holder to discuss the problem and make arrangements. If additional assistance or advice is required, contact VA toll free, 1-800-827-1000.

TIPS FOR LIVING

Your feet and your health

(NAPS) - Your feet frequently mirror your general health. Certain health conditions, such as arthritis, diabetes, poor circulation, AIDS, anemia and kidney malfunction can affect your feet. Sometimes the initial symptoms show in your feet.

With diabetes, your feet need special care. Here are some do's and don'ts for care of the foot in a diabetic patient.

Do bathe feet daily and use skin softening cream on them. Don't use scrapers, corn plasters or home remedies on corns.

Do avoid extremes of heat and cold. Don't walk on an injured foot even if it doesn't seem to hurt. Do exercise to improve circulation. Don't stand in one position for a long time.

Do check with your doctor before using any medication on your feet. Don't use tobacco in any form.

Named to the All-American performance team at the camp were: flag captain Lori Broussard; Laci Lyons, Beatrice Trevino, Kami Horn and Crystal Ferguson, along with drum majors Stephanie Waggoner and Michele Steward.

The students attended camp from June 23-26 in Brenham, with classes and competitions all day. The all-performance team was selected for superior technique, leadership and all-around ability.

local ordinances and laws,"

Either there will be fairly substantial protection or churches will be at the mercy of their neighbors."

Laycock said if a restrictive law or ordinance is neutral to religion and generally applicable to all organizations, "the city won't need a reason for its action, even if it has the effect of discriminating against a church.'

Sooner or later, Laycock predicted, a church likely will challenge such an ordinance and the Supreme Court may have to decide the issue.

"This will be an important case. If what Boerne did to St. Peter's Church isn't unconstitutional, constitutional protection is worthless," Laycock declared.

Mark Chopko, general counsel for the U.S. Catholic bishops' conference, said the problem with Wednesday's decision is that "there are thousands of churches like St. Peter's across the country, and they're much more vulnerable now.'

But in Massachusetts and Minnesota, RFRA-like state laws have successfully protected religious entities in disputes with secular authorities, and Chopko said the Supreme Court hasn't entirely ruled out federal legislation.

'We have several options. We have to be in dialogue with the rest of the religious community about what to do next," he said.

Marci Hamilton, professor of law at Yeshiva University's Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, who argued the case for Boerne, said RFRA supporters have exaggerated the threat to religious freedom.

"If there's a hint of discrimination against a particular sect and something is done because (city officials) don't like that religion, that's unconstitutional," she said.

But Hamilton predicted religious leaders will seek passage of RFRA-like state laws rather than new federal legislation that must pass Supreme Court

"If that doesn't happen, we'll get a chance to see how the peyote decision will work in practice, * she said.

Hamilton said the peyote decision, in which American Indian inmates in an Oregon prison were refused the right to smoke the drug as a religious practice, reflects a tension between the community's will against a particular practice and a general support for religion throughout the nation.

"We don't know how that's going to work in practice yet, but I think we'll see these disputes solved more often through negotiation and that's not a bad thing," she said.

Hamilton said with RFRA, churches didn't need a strong reason to get exemptions from local city requirements. Without RFRA, they face a higher standard of proof to show that what they want is a reasonable accommodation of community needs to their own needs, she said.

Michael Ariens, professor of law at St. Mary's University, said last week's decision won't be the last word. RFRA-like state laws are a real possibility, he said.

"State constitutions can provide greater liberties than the federal constitution. They don't have to be interpreted the same way," Ariens said.

(Hebrews 12:1,2), you develop qualities that will see you through good times and bad.

If you take your faith for granted and neglect prayer, stop reading the Bible and give up on the church, there is no guarantee that your faith will weather the storms of life. It is important, then, that we rest our faith on the solid foundation of Jesus and His word, but we must treat our faith like a sandcastle

THE BIBLE SPEAKS OF "SPIRITUAL WICKEDNESS IN HIGH PLACES" (EPH. 6:12) SOMETIMES THOSE IN AUTHORITY USED THEIR HIGH OFFICE FOR THEIR PERSONAL GRATIFICATION. THE BIBLE RECOUNTS NUMEROUS EXAMPLES OF THIS CONDUCT. DAVID'S SEDUCTION OF URLAH'S WIFE, ELI'S DRUNKEN SONS, JEZEBEL'S GREAT WICKEDNESS IN HER PAGAN WORSHIP. IN DAVID'S CASE, GOD SENT THE PROPHET NATHAN OUT OF THE WILDERNESS TO REBUKE HIS SINFUL BEHAVIOR. AGAIN, THE LORD PICKED A HUMBLE PROPHET FROM THE WILDERNESS TO BEAR THE DIRE TIDINGS OF THE EVENTUAL DESTRUCTION OF ELI'S SONS FOR THEIR UNFORGIVABLE BEHAVIOR. IN JEZEBEL'S CASE, THE GREAT PROPHET ELIJAH WAS BROUGHT FORTH, AGAIN OUT OF THE WILDERNESS, TO PREDICT VIOLENT DEATH FOR HER MOCKERY OF GOD. IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THAT, INVARIABLY, THE HIGHER THE PERSONAGES...THE MORE HUMBLE THE MESSENGER FROM GOD!

Some decry revivals of 'holy laughter'

FORT WORTH (AP) - A woman laughed uncontrollably. A man leapt from a front pew of the church and began spasmodically jerking, his arms flying up and down.

"In the name of Jesus, let it bubble up. Let it bubble up out of your belly," encouraged Rodney Howard-Browne, 36, a burly, long-haired evangelist from South Africa as he stood at the lectern of Calvary Cathedral near downtown Fort Worth last week.

Howard-Browne, who calls himself "the Holy Ghost bartender." was dispensing quick shots of the spirit-filled revivalism that is sweeping the land from Toronto, Canada, to Pensacola, Fla. Often the revivals are marked by "holy laughter," or people falling backward as they are "slain in the spirit," and miraculous healings.

The Pentecostal-style revivals which have received attention in national newsmagazines and on network television are going on in various cities in the United States, Australia, Europe, Africa and Asia.

Some discount the spiritfilled revivals as overblown emotionalism and refer to the "holy laughter" manifested by Howard-Browne and others as nothing more than religious hokum.

But many Christians see the protracted revival meetings marked by unusual signs of the spirit as a new "Great Awakening" similar to two farreaching spiritual revivals that swept America in the 1700s and the 1800s.

"I may offend you, but I'm here to serve up the new wine of the Holy Spirit," Howard-Browne told some 2,000 people at Calvary Cathedral, where he preached to near-capacity crowds during a four-night revival. "Some of you have been drinking vinegar so long you look like a pickle.'

Former Big Spring man dealing with INS mess

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN Features Editor

Former Big Spring resident Robert Pekowski is, in his own words, living a night-

The Lubbock resident's wife, a native of the Phillipines, is in immigration limbo after her recent arrest under threat of deportation. Shirley Pekowski was released on bond June 28, but her problems with the Immigration Naturalization Service are far from over.

"We've got a long, long way to go," said Pekowski in a recent telephone interview. His family lived in Big Spring many years while his father, Edward G. Pekowski was stationed at Webb Air Force

"They are still talking about sending her back. I've lost my job. We have no money coming in." The Pekowskis have four children from age 8 months to 6 years old.

Pekowski said he still has many friends in Big Spring, and has heard from some of them during his recent difficulties.

His trouble began when Pekowski, seeking to resolve problems he knew existed with his wife's immigration status, contacted INS himself. They had married in 1994 after meeting in Hawaii, where Pekowski was stationed with the U.S. Army. He says he knew there were problems with her immigration status because she had never received a green card. The couple had attempted to resolve the problem earlier, but had missed an appointment with INS because he was suddenly transferred from Hawaii to Washington, D.C.

"I had contacted them (INS) myself," Pekowski said. "I was asking for their help in resolving her status."

Then, after receiving her file and finding a deportation order in it, Pekowski said agents came to their home and arrested his wife.

He was left caring for the children, including the baby that his wife had been still nursing, alone.

Now, Pekowski said his only hope is that INS will reopen his wife's case. Then he can present his argument that deportation would put the family at extreme hardship.

Church camp creates success stories

DALLAS (AP) - As 5-year-old Ursula Hicks approached the stage, the fear showed in her eyes. She tentatively stretched her hand toward the violin that was awaiting her fingers to make the "pop" sound of "Pop Goes the Weasel."

Twenty-nine other children, ranging in age from 5 to 11, stared intently at her as she approached.

Finally, her finger touched the string and a small pop sound was emitted. Dallas Symphony Orchestra violinist Bruce Wittrig finished the song and Ursula returned to her seat with a large smile on her face. "It felt like fun," she said.

Ursula and the other children who watched and listened to Wittrig are participating in a monthlong camp run by St. Paul United Methodist Church called Camp SucSeed.

The Rev. Janette Chandler Kotey, associate pastor and minister of music and the arts for St. Paul, said the purpose of the camp is to introduce young African-Americans to the arts. Most of the children are from the inner city, and many live in public housing.

The camp began on June 16 and runs through July 18. Campers can sign up by the week, according to Barbara Weaver, camp director.

"The program is geared toward the arts - music, drama, and visual - and how the kids can use them in their everyday lives," Ms. Kotey said. "That is what makes the program unique."

Adrian Masterson, 11, said that the camp is helping him learn not only about the arts but also about religion.

"I'm getting to spread my mind and learning to help each other and help us learn about God," he said.

Ms. Kotey said that one of the main goals of the program is to promote self-esteem in the children.

"We want to help them become wholesome citizens. and exposure to the arts can help them understand the world around them," Ms. Kotey

Big Spring's American League Blue All-Stars advanced another step in their quest for a District 3 Junior League Tournament title Thursday, taking a 9-4 win over El Paso Frank Manning.

In the process, Big Spring batters pounded out 14 hits and roughed up three El Paso pitchers, while Dereck Wilson went six innings and scattered five Manning hits en route to his second victory of the tournament.

While their aggressive style cost the Blue stars a couple of scoring opportunities, manager Delvin Guinn said those were more than offset by the El Paso miscues they created.

"That's been our style and it's been really effective for us," Guinn said, Rogers for adopting that style of play for the team.

'That's the way he played baseball at the high school when he was an allstate first baseman and they went to the state tournament," Guinn added. "If he'd have been in a collision and had blood coming out his ears, he'd have still been out there at first base and challenging you when he got back to the plate.'

As a result, Big Spring jumped out to a quick 3-1 lead in the first inning and countered with at least one run every time El Paso scored.

Willis Morrison, having returned to his third base position after a pitching stint Tuesday, opened Big Spring's first inning charge with a single to left and wasted little time in moving to third on two wild pitches El Paso's crediting third base coach Brandon Alex Delgado issued while walking Brandon Greathouse.

Ryan Guinn ripped an RBI single to right, swiped second and scored a few moments later when Dusty Floyd ripped a single to center for two of his three RBIs on the night.

Morrison and Floyd paced Big Spring's hitting attack, each finishing the night with 3-for-4 showings. As a result, Morrison scored three times and Floyd paced the team in RBI production. Clayton Kelso and John McKinnon were not far off the pace, each going 2-for-4 at the plate.

Big Spring's offensive pressure was so strong, however, that all but two players were credited with hits and none were denied chances to reach the base paths.

When Big Spring extended its lead to 4-1 in the top of the third inning and

El Paso trimmed the edge to 4-2 in the managed to escape with allowing just bottom of the frame, the homestanders simply tacked on another run in their half of the fourth when Manuel Holguin drew a walk, advanced to second on a passed ball and scored when McKinnon hit a one-out single to left.

The back-breaker came in the fifth, however, when Morrison doubled to left and scored on an infield single by Greathouse. After Guinn reached base on an error and moved to second on a double steal attempt that erased Greathouse, Kelso singled to right, scoring Guinn and chasing Delgado from the mound.

Floyd wasted no time in welcoming El Paso reliever Holt Grambling, ripping a double down the leftfield line to score Kelso.

one run in each frame and then helped his cause with an RBI single in the top of the seventh.

However, in being thrown out at the plate for the final out of Big Spring's seventh, Wilson injured his knee and was replaced on the mound by Guinn, who worked his way out of a basesloaded jam with one out by getting Grambling and Jeff Ramos to ground ground into force plays.

Big Spring now advances to the winner's bracket semifinal, facing Midland Eastern, an 8-2 winner over Odessa Jim Parker Thursday, tonight

Today's schedule also includes loser's bracket games pitting El Paso and Odessa Turner and Odessa Parker While Wilson would face a couple of against Midland North Center. Both

Mariners hammer Rangers

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEATTLE — At his first All-Star game in Cleveland this week, Joey Cora of the Seattle Mariners got some sage advice. Obviously, he wasn't listen-

"The fellows there were telling me, 'Don't go out and hit 20 home runs because then people will expect it next year," he said.

Cora, a switch-hitter whose previous high was six home runs, hit his ninth - a threerun shot that capped a sevenrun inning - as the Seattle Mariners continued their mastery over the Texas Rangers on Thursday night.

The Mariners beat Texas 12-9 for their fifth straight victory over last season's AL West

Seattle improved to 6-1 against the Rangers this season and 43-13 since Lou Piniella became the manager here in

"I know I can hit home runs now," Cora said. A switch-hitter, the 5-foot-8 second baseman is hitting home runs from both sides of the plate for the first time in his career. He's no longer a platoon player. His home run in the fifth came against left-hander Eric Gunderson after the Mariners knocked Ken Hill (5-6) out of the game. He has five of his homers this year from the right side. "It's unbelievable," Piniella said. "And we used to platoon him. You know he takes a good swing at that ball and he's got a good weight shift."

Cora went 4-for-6 to raise his average seven points to .337 on a night when Ken Griffey Jr. went hitless.

Alex Rodriguez was 4-for-5 with two doubles, Jay Buhner tripled and doubled twice and the Mariners had 18 hits, eight for extra bases.

Texas wasted red-hot Juan Gonzalez's five RBI night and his 21st homer. He has seven home runs and 20 RBIs in his last 11 games.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

On the night Hideki Irabu's career started, Sandy Alomar's 30-game hitting streak ended. And both players sounded relieved Thursday. A sellout crowd of 51,901 at Yankee Stadium watched Irabu win in one of the most-anticipated major league debuts in recent years. The Japaneseborn pitcher, who held out rather than play for anyone other than the Yankees, struck out nine in 6 2-3 innings as New York defeated Detroit 10-3. "When I got up on the mound, all the things I went through the last six months, the ordeals, went through my mind like a flashback," he said through a translator Alomar, the All-Star game MVP, went 0-for-4 in Cleveland's 8-2 loss at Minnesota. He popped up to end the game, and fell just short of matching Nap Lajoie's team-record set in 1906.

"It's a load off my back." Alomar said. "I swung at a lot of bad pitches tonight.

"I felt anxious," he said. "I

wanted to get it early."

In other games, Chicago defeated Kansas City 6-3, Boston beat Toronto 8-7 in 11 innings, Seattle downed Texas 12-9 and Anaheim topped Oakland 8-4.

Irabu had waited a long time for this night.

The 28-year-old right-hander spent nearly a year breaking the bonds that tied him to his team in Japan, then refused to pitch for the San Diego Padres when they acquired his rights. He eventually was traded to New York and wound up with a rookie record $12.8 million, four-year contract.

The Yankees and their crowd were ready for Irabu. Sushi was sold alongside the regular hot dogs and beers at the concession stands. Some fans hung "K" cards from the upper deck, although there also were "sanshin" cards - the Japanese word for strikeout drawn in fancy shodo (calligra-

"It was my first experience to face a crowd like this," Irabu said.

Irabu, called the Nolan Ryan of Japan because of his power pitching, got off to a smooth start. He retired the Tigers in order in the first inning and struck out Bobby Higginson and Travis Fryman, showing a 96 mph fastball.

Irabu struck out eight in the first four innings. Manager Joe Torre took him out in the middle of the seventh, even though the Yankees led 10-2 and the Tigers were not threatening, and Irabu received a standing

"I did it, basically, so the fans could show their appreciation,' Torre said.

"I don't think he's ready for the majors. I didn't see anything overpowering," said Tigers leadoff hitter Brian Hunter, who grounded out twice and struck out against Irabu. "Everybody was hyping his fastball, but we didn't see it. Mediocre curve. The split was his best pitch. You can't really judge him on his first start, I guess.'

Astros ace saves All-Star outing for Pittsburgh

Darryl Kile saved his All-Star performance for the Pittsburgh Pirates

The Houston ace, a mere spectator Tuesday night in Cleveland, limited Pittsburgh to six hits in his third shutout of the season as the Astros routed the Pirates 7-0 on Thursday night.

"It's a big series for both teams," said Kile, who pushed Houston into a first-place tie with Pittsburgh in the NL Central. "The Pirates are trying to maintain the high level of play they had before the break and it would be big for us to come away with some in other National League games Thursday night, it was New York 10, Atlanta 7; San Diego 11. Colorado 5; Los Angeles 11, San Francisco 0; St. Louis 3, Chicago 2; and Florida 8, Philadelphia 7.

Houston ended Pittsburgh's seven-game winning streak. "This was kind of a little exclamation point on top of making the All-Star game," Astros manager Larry Dierker said. "He didn't get to pitch, but he showed why he was picked.' Kile (11-3) has won his last four decisions and 10 of his last 11, losing only once since April 30. He took a no-hitter into the eighth in his previous start, a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati on July 5. "He's probably the best in the league right now," Pirates manager Gene Lamont said. "He used to bounce quite a few curveballs up to the plate, but he can throw it for strikes now whenever he wants to."

The right-hander, who struck out seven and walked two, has given up only one run in two complete-game victories over Pittsburgh this year.

"When he's on, he's as nasty as any pitcher in the league,' Pittsburgh's Al Martin said. "His curveball is so nasty, and he throws it so hard you can't even see the seams on the ball sometimes.'

Kile also had a run-scoring single off Jason Schmidt (4-5) during a two-run second inning that made it 3-0.

"It broke my bat, my hand and pretty much shattered my thumb. It was one of those lucky breaks," said Kile, a .106 lifetime hitter.

All-Star first baseman Craig Biggio was 4-for-4 with three RBIs, including doubles in each of the first two innings.

Schmidt, coming off consecutive complete-game victories, hits over four-plus innings. He had surrendered only three runs over 25 innings in his previous three starts.

Manny Alexander, returning to New York's lineup following knee surgery, tripled home the winning run in the ninth inning, and also homered and singled to lead the visiting Mets past Atlanta.

Greg McMichael (5-6) got the final out in the eighth for the victory, and John Franco struck out the side in the ninth for his 21st save.

Atlanta tied it in the eighth on Eddie Perez's homer and pinch-hitter Keith Lockhart's RBI double. Todd Hundley had a three-run homer in the top of the inning to give the Mets a 74

With golf's big names absent, unknowns in Quad City lead

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

COAL VALLEY, Ill. - Gary Hallberg hasn't made a cut in 17 months. Russ Cochran has one victory in two decades. Dave Stockton Jr. is struggling to live up to his name. Sean McCarty is making his PGA Tour debut.

Welcome to the Quad City Classic. Tiger Woods isn't here. Neither are 21 of the tour's other top 22 money-winners. It's a perfect chance to revive a career or get one started. Hallberg used a nothing-tolose attitude to shoot a 5-underpar 65 Thursday and take a one-stroke lead into today's second round. Cochran, Stockton and McCarty were a stroke back. Dozens of others also are hoping to take advantage of the "I had a lot of time off and lost absence of big-time stars; 20 golfers were only two back, and 55 players broke par at Oakwood Country Club.

"It was a beautiful day," said Hallberg, who has missed 18 consecutive cuts and has survived to play on the weekend in just one of his last 23 events. "I'm loose. I'm relaxed. I didn't have any crazy thoughts about my swing.'

Hallberg, a top-100 player as recently as 1994, has cashed just one tour paycheck since September 1995. That was $2,544 for finishing 63rd in last year's Hawaiian Open.

"I started getting hand problems a couple of years ago, carpal-tunnel syndrome," said Hallberg, who grew up in the Chicago suburb of Barrington.

my tour card."

So he has been spending time with his family and working for a company that manufactures synthetic putting greens.

"A guy has to make a living," Hallberg said. "These have been tough times. I've struggled for a few years."

Cochran has struggled since shooting a course-record 65 in the third round of last year's PGA Championship. First, he "choked my guts out" in carding a final-round 77. He has been inconsistent since, unable to get another victory to go with his 1991 Western Open

"There have been disappointments," Cochran said. "You have to be able to accept the pain that goes with golf. This

Nicklaus flashes old form in opening Senior Players

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DEARBORN, Mich. - Fit and feisty, he was looking a little like the Jack Nicklaus of old.

Despite bogeys on Nos. 16 and 17, Nicklaus shot a 3-under-par 69 in the first round of the Senior Players Championship on Thursday and trailed coleaders Larry Gilbert and Dana Quigley by two strokes.

Dave Stockton and South African John Bland were one shot off the pace, each at 68 over the 6,876-yard Tournament Players Club of Michigan course.

John Schroeder, Vincente Fernandez and Larry Mowry were tied with Nicklaus, who has played sparingly this year because of a sore hip. Yet, clearly, his competitive juices can still be stirred.

"Aside from the fact that I haven't won this year ... I would be in a very good frame of mind to go to the British Open," Nicklaus said. "I would feel competitive. It would give me a great boost mentally.

Nicklaus, who designed the TPC of Michigan, looked like he might charge into a commanding lead when he reached 4-under with a two-putt birdie from 30 feet at No. 13. Instead, he began to struggle.

His five-foot putt for par hit the hole but spun out on the

"Actually, I hit a very, very nice putt that just spun right clear around the hole. Came out," Nicklaus said. "I accept that one. That just happened."

But he couldn't accept what happened next. Nicklaus drove into a bunker on the right side of the 17th fairway, then caught the lip and ended up in the next bunker. He finally knocked a 6-iron to 12 feet, but missed the par-saving putt.

GOLF

"I don't know why I was even bothering to hit the ball down the right side of the fairway," Nicklaus said. "I couldn't have reached the water (on the left) with a bazooka."

Still, he fashioned a Nicklaus flourish at the finish, hitting a 5-iron to 5 feet for a birdie on the final hole.

"So, I had two bogeys in a Nicklaus said. 'Obviously, if I'd screwed up 18. that would have spoiled the whole day, wouldn't it?'

Quigley, who has played in seven Monday qualifiers in an effort to gain entry into Senior tournaments since his 50th birthday on April 15, birdied five of the final six holes. He curled in a 20-footer at No. 18.

"Nothing seems very hard in this game when you're on a roll like that," said Quigley, out of Crestwood Country Club in Rehoboth, Mass. and wellknown around New England golf circles. "It's like no effort at all. Great players always say that, I know. When a guy like me gets to that level, it's just really special."

Gilbert, seeking his third win since joining the Senior tour in 1993, played almost flawless golf. He missed only two fairways while hitting all 18 greens in regulation. It was the 16th round of par or below for Gilbert, winner of three PGA Club Professional championships before joining the tour.

"I had 31 putts, despite a three-putt," Gilbert said. "With a hot putter, I could have been maybe 8-under."

Hale Irwin, winner of four Senior tour events this season, was well off the pace with a 73. Graham Marsh was tied with defending champion Raymond Floyd at 70.

Stockton, who won the tournament in 1992 and 1994, recovered from two quick bogeys and was even at the turn..

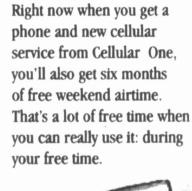

Bland, who was edged by friend Marsh by a stroke in the U.S. Senior Open last month, turned a bogey-free round into really something special with birdies at Nos. 16 and 17.

Nicklaus flashes old form in opening Senior Players

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DEARBORN, Mich. - Fit and feisty, he was looking a little like the Jack Nicklaus of old.

Despite bogeys on Nos. 16 and 17. Nicklaus shot a 3-under-par 69 in the first round of the Senior Players Championship on Thursday and trailed coleaders Larry Gilbert and Dana Quigley by two strokes.

Dave Stockton and South African John Bland were one shot off the pace, each at 68 over the 6,876-yard Tournament Players Club of Michigan course.

John Schroeder, Vincente Fernandez and Larry Mowry were tied with Nicklaus, who has played sparingly this year because of a sore hip. Yet, clearly, his competitive juices can still be stirred.

"Aside from the fact that I haven't won this year ... I would be in a very good frame of mind to go to the British Open," Nicklaus said. "I would feel competitive. It would give me a great boost mentally."

Nicklaus, who designed the TPC of Michigan, looked like he might charge into a commanding lead when he reached 4-under with a two-putt birdie from 30 feet at No. 13. Instead, he began to struggle.

His five-foot putt for par hit the hole but spun out on the

"Actually, I hit a very, very nice putt that just spun right clear around the hole. Came out," Nicklaus said. "I accept that one. That just happened.'

But he couldn't accept what happened next. Nicklaus drove into a bunker on the right side of the 17th fairway, then caught the lip and ended up in the next bunker. He finally knocked a 6-iron to 12 feet, but missed the par-saving putt.

GOLF

"I don't know why I was even bothering to hit the ball down the right side of the fairway," Nicklaus said. "I couldn't have reached the water (on the left) with a bazooka."

Still, he fashioned a Nicklaus flourish at the finish, hitting a 5-iron to 5 feet for a birdie on the final hole.

"So, I had two bogeys in a row." Nicklaus said. "Obviously, if I'd screwed up 18, that would have spoiled the whole day, wouldn't it?"

Quigley, who has played in seven Monday qualifiers in an effort to gain entry into Senior tournaments since his 50th birthday on April 15, birdied five of the final six holes. He curled in a 20-footer at No. 18.

"Nothing seems very hard in this game when you're on a roll like that," said Quigley, out of Crestwood Country Club in Rehoboth, Mass. and wellknown around New England golf circles. "It's like no effort at all. Great players always say that, I know. When a guy like me gets. to that level, it's just really special."

Gilbert, seeking his third win since joining the Senior tour in 1993, played almost flawless golf. He missed only two fairways while hitting all 18 greens in regulation. It was the 16th round of par or below for Gilbert, winner of three PGA Club Professional championships before joining the tour.

"I had 31 putts, despite a three-putt," Gilbert said. "With a hot putter, I could have been maybe 8-under."

Hale Irwin, winner of four Senior tour events this season. was well off the pace with a 73. Graham Marsh was tied with defending champion Raymond Floyd at 70.

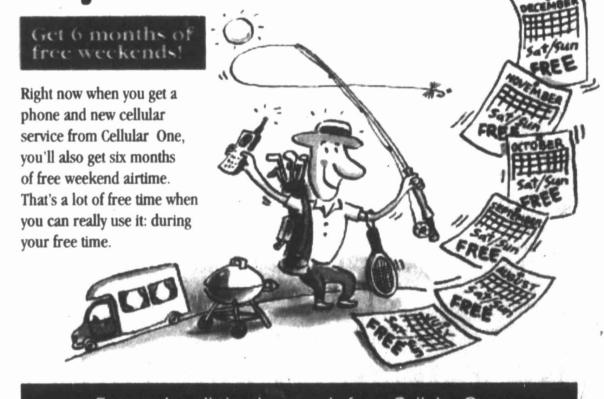

Stockton, who won the tournament in 1992 and 1994, recovered from two quick bogeys and was even at the turn..

Bland, who was edged by friend Marsh by a stroke in the U.S. Senior Open last month. turned a bogey-free round into really something special with birdies at Nos. 16 and 17.

Bill collectors ask neighbors to knock on debtors' door

DEAR ABBY: We have a cordial relationship with our nextdoor neighbors, but we are not close. We are aware that they have been experiencing finan-cial difficulties, but they have never revealed any details and we haven't asked.

About three months ago, we

started receiving calls from collection agencies saying that they had not been able to reach our neighbors, and asking us to tell our neighbors to contact them. There have been 15 or 20 of these calls, usually at dinnertime. When I tell them that we have no intention of doing their work for them and embarrassing our neighbors, they become persistent - even rude.

I am infuriated by this invasion of our privacy, and the harassment to which we are being subjected because these agencies can't do their job. If they have our neighbor's address and have had no response to their letters, they should send someone in person to speak to them — they shouldn't ask us to do it.

Abby, is this legal? And is there any regulatory agency we can contact to keep from being bothered? — HARASSED IN SANTA CLARITA, CALIF.

DEAR HARASSED: No, it's not legal. According to the Federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, you should have received no more than one phone call.

You can deal with this problem in one of two ways: Call the local office of the Fair Trade Commission and file a complaint, and they will go after the collector. Or, contact the local bar association and consult a consumer protection attorney. My experts tell me that you may be entitled to damages.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother and his wife live next door to us. Until recently, we were all best friends. My sisterin-law and I did everything together.

Not long ago, she accused me of doing something that she later found out I had not done. Even after finding this out, she has not apologized for accusing me. We were best friends for nine years, but now she won't even look in my direction.

I am hurt that she accused me before she got the facts, and angry that she never bothered to apologize. How should I handle this? Can we still be friends? - NOT SO GUILTY AFTER ALL

DEAR NOT SO GUILTY: Your sister-in-law may be so embarrassed about her mistake that she's reluctant to approach you. Since the friendship is clearly important to you, be the bigger person and make the first move. Tell her you are relieved that she learned the truth, and you'd like to put the incident behind you so you can continue to be close friends.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to the family whose parents failed to keep in touch on a road trip, and therefore couldn't be located when a grandparent died. you advised, "The best policy is to leave a detailed itinerary with friends or family or ... make a point of checking in regularly.

I would like to add another suggestion: Before going on the road, invest in a long-distance pager. The cost is reasonable and can even include a toll-free pager number. Give the number to a couple of trusted friends or family members.

Back this up with voicemail service on your home phone and check your messages daily. If you call during off-peak hours, the cost will be minimal. That's what I did, and it certainly gave me peace of mind. - ELLEN K. HOWE, WEST COVINA, CALIF. DEAR ELLEN: An excellent idea. Thanks for sharing it. To order "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is includ-

Sorenstam struggles at U.S. Open

NORTH PLAINS, Ore. (AP) -Annika Sorenstam had to be, dreaming. A triple bogey? Five over par after nine holes? Tenshots off the pace after the first

"It was tough," she said, "real tough."

The calm, graceful player who has dominated her sport for two years crumbled Thursday under the intense pressure of trying to become the first golfer to win the U.S. Women's Open three times in a

Golf's "other" Swede Liselotte Neumann fared much

She shot a 4-under-par 67 in a bogey-free day to take a one shot lead into today's second round of the premier event of women's professional golf Eight golfers, including Nancy Lopez, were within two shots of the lead.

Neumann, the 1988 U.S. Open champion, used precise putting and, over the difficult final four holes, a conservative strategy to forge her one-shot lead.

A disastrous triple-bogey left Sorenstam at 5-over-par 41 through nine holes.

"I was a little confused. I was a little upset. I didn't know what was happening," she said. "As far as I can remember the last three or four years. I haven't been 5-over-par after. nine holes. It's like, 'Where am' I and what am I doing? Take: me away from here."

She had one more bogey. before finishing at 6-over 77.

"I felt like I was ready. I didn't feel nervous at all. I was just excited about being here, in Sorenstam said. "For some reason maybe it was the tension. maybe there was something inside of me that put this together.'

For hours after her round? she took putt after putt on the practice green. She is not one to give up.

'I can shoot 5-under on this course," Sorenstam said "That's what I've got to tell: myself, anyway." Susie Redman used her fire ever hole in one to vault into the with Kelly Robbins, Deb Richard and Se Ri Pak at 3 under 68.

Hall of Famer Lopez, who never has won a U.S. Open was tied with Trish Johnson Muffin Spencer-Devlin and Lorie Kane at 69.

Six shots back, at respectable 2-over-par 73, was JoAnne Carner, "Big Mama, who won this tournamen twice, the last time in 1976, and is the oldest of the 150 compet tors at 58. She is the oldes woman to shoot a score that low in the tournament's 52-year history.

Johnson could have been tie for the lead, but she drove here third shot into a marshy are in front of the 18th green for double-bogev.

Sorenstam's triple boge came on the par-4, 388-yard 9th when her tee shot sailed into a bunker. Using a 9-wood, she hit her second shot far to the right. into deep, clingy knee-high fescue that hid her ball so long she nearly had to give it up for lost before a member of the gallery found it.

She took a swing, and the ball traveled about three inches then she swung again, finally getting back onto the course. She finished with a 7.
