Country music fans, hold on to your hats.

Grammy-winning western swing band Asleep at the Wheel will appear at a free concert 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Wal-Mart parking lot.

"We're real excited to be able to offer this for Big Spring," said Tim Diehl, store manager. "Asleep at the Wheel is big, and this is going to be a terrific show."

Asleep at the Wheel and new artist Bill Young will perform as part of "CMT Presents ... Wal-Mart Country Music Across America" tour. The artists will perform in the store parking lot on a specially-built truck that converts into a stage.

"This is a wonderful setting, with elaborate sound and lightThere will be plenty of room for everybody, and we've got traffic control, so there should be no problems.

"There will be plenty of room for everybody, and we've got traffic control, so there should be no problems," Diehl said. Asleep at the Wheel, led by

Ray Benson, made its debut in 1973 and went on to earn six Grammys. The group recently released a live reunion album, "Back to the Future Now," that includes some of its original members.

Program gives boost to probe

By CARLTON JOHNSON Staff Writer

The investigation into two murders — one in November 1991 murder and another in February 1994 — continue for the Big Spring Police Department (BSPD), and one received a boost when one of the suspects was featured on Saturday's broadcast of "America's Most Wanted."

The segment featured John

Minneapolis and Spokane, Wash., and from Arizona to Texas.

"I was in the kitchen, putting away dishes when they started talking about the Freight Train Riders Association (FTRA)," Helgeson said. "That's kind of a railroad gang, I guess."

Helgeson told his superiors that at the end of the program, a picture of a man named John Boris appeared on the screen.

Boris was described as having a swastika tattoo, and to use aliases of people known to live along the routes where the FTRA operates. Helgeson remembered that a man with such a tattoo was arrested Wednesday night in La Crosse in a transient campground and identified himself as Randy A. Piper.

Republican witnesses about a $50,000 donation that House Speaker Newt Gingrich's closest political adviser obtained.

The money, given to the National Policy Forum, a now-defunct GOP think tank, was raised by consultant Joseph Gay'ord in July 1995.

The $50,000 donation is a subject for scrutiny when the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee resumes hearings Wednesday. After two weeks of testimony on possibly illegal Democratic fund-raising, Democrats will be summoning Republican witnesses.

The source of the money to the policy forum was a California company, Panda Enterprises, owned by an Indonesian burinessman who reportedly has close ties to China.

"We certainly intend to pursue it," said a Democratic investigator for the Senate panel, even though the businessman and his daughter gave far more — $250,000 — to the Democratic National Committee.

The National Policy Forum is among several tax-exempt groups investigators have been scrutinizing to see if they were misused for political purposes. The group was founded by former Republican National Chairman Haley Barbour, who will be called as a committee witness.

Internal documents suggest the forum was closely connected to the Republican National Committee. But Barbour contends it was a separate organization that was permitted to — and did — accept foreign contributions. Foreign donations to the parties or their candidates are illegal.

The information about Gaylord was provided to the Senate committee by John Bolton, who was president of the forum from January 1995 through the end of 1996, when it went out of existence.

Bolton told the panel that Gaylord "was paid a consulting fee by (the forum) to raise money, which he was not doing. Panda Enterprises was the first contribution that came in under his auspices. I looked at Panda Enterprises and asked what it was."

Gaylord, a close Gingrich associate, did not return a telephone call to his office for comment.

The Los Angeles Times has reported that on July 17, 1995, $50,000 was transferred by wire from an undetermined source to the bank account of Panda. HERALD photo/Jonathan Garrett

Early voting begins on Aug. 9 referendum

By CARLTON JOHNSON Staff Writer

Today marked the start of early voting for the state's special election regarding the proposed increased in the homestead exemption.

The amendment on which voters will vote was approved during this year's legislative session after state law makers could not agree on Gov. George W. Bush's property tax reform bill.

If voters approve the amendment, the higher homestead exemptions will be funded with a $1 billion surplus in the state budget.

Early voting for the Aug. 9 election will continue each day through Aug. 5 in the Howard County Clerk's Office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Aug. 5. According to County Clerk Margaret Ray, in past elections her office has also opened on Saturdays during the early voting period to accommodate early voters, but that won't be the case this time around.

In accordance with Subchapter A of the Election Code – appointment of election judges – Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray recently presented the Howard County Commissioners' Court with a list of election judges and their alternates for the upcoming election.

Howard County has consolidated its 21 precinct into six precincts for the election and will use paper ballots as a costsaving n.easure.

The six consolidated precincts with the following polling places and election judges will be used during the election:

•Precincts 101-112 at the Northside Fire Station — Omega Hernandez, election judge.

•Precincts 202-205 at Goliad

Please see VOTING, page 2

But the man then denied he was Piper, and the picture on the identification card he showed police did not match him.

He said his real name was Hugh Thomas Ross, Helgeson said. When deputies checked that identity, they found Ross was wanted on a warrant for robbery in Spokane, Wash.

Washington authorities showed no interest in extraditing Ross, so La Crosse County Circuit Judge Michael Mulroy released him on a signature bond, but an a FBI fingerprint match identified the man as John Boris — wanted in Texas in connection with as many as three homicides.

After Helgeson told his superiors what he had seen and what had happened Wednesday night, police arrested the man identified as Boris in the same transient campground shortly after midnight.

Circuit Judge Ramona Gonzalez ordered Boris jailed without bond until he appears before Mulroy again.

According to BSPD Det. Jim Rider, the BPSD is currently working on other information about the case but cannot discuss the details.

GENERAL NEWS

EXAS BRIEFS

ate withdraws support from proposed rall trall

DALLAS (AP) - Plans for a paved hiking and biking trail hrough rural North Texas have been put on the shelf because of a lack of public support.

The Texas Department of Transportation has withdrawn a $1.7 million grant for construction of the Chaparral Rail Trail after most cities along the proposed 56-mile route pulled their support. "I'm extremely disappointed," said Joe Barton, president of Chaparral Rails to Trails Inc., which owns the corridor and will still try to build a trail.

The project would have turned a former railway into a recreational trail from Farmersville in Collin County to near Paris in Lamar County.

Skeleton, other state equipment missing

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) - The state doesn't have a skeleton in its closet - and it's worried.

The special orthopedic skeleton from the University of Texas at Austin is included in millions of dollars worth of state equipment as well as at least nine handguns and rifles, listed as missing, the Corpus Christi Caller-Times reported Sunday.

Last year, art collections and senators' chairs were lost or stolen from the Senate. At least 13 pieces of heavy equipment and a range of other items from cameras to stereo systems could not be found according to state documents.

Eighty-three percent of the $13.5 million in missing or stolen quipment cited in documents from the Texas Comptroller's Office is from inventories at the state's colleges and universities records show.

"The state should not tolerate theft," Goy. George W. Bush said. Each state agency owes it to the taxpayers to make sure their quipment is secure and accounted for. We urge state agencies to earch for this material and hold people accountable."

Housing officer owes back taxes

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A top local housing official repeatedly has been sued for failing to pay more than $31,000 in property taxes and fees and has failed to maintain several vacant properties, according to a newspaper report.

Choco Meza, a senior vice president for housing operations at the San Antonio Housing Authority, had five lawsuits against her dismissed after setting up payment plans.

But according to city and tax offices, Mrs. Meza and her husband still owe $23,700, the San Antonio Express-News reported Sunday in a copyright story.

"We're not wealthy folks," said Mrs. Meza, whose housing authority job pays her $90,000 annually. "We've worked hard to acquire what we have. At times, it's been tough."

Mrs. Meza's husband, Daniel, said he takes full responsibility for managing the finances.

Diocese head: No women priests

FORT WORTH (AP) — The head of the Episcopal Diocese of Fort Worth said he will resist compliance with a newly approved canon requiring acceptance of women as priests.

Bishop Jack Iker said he believes that "radical feminists" influenced a vote at the Episcopal General Convention in Philadelphia on Saturday to make it mandatory for him to accept female cler-

"In the heart of radical feminism, there is a lot of internal anger I think we saw that here," Iker said after the 140-44 vote in the convention's House of Bishops.

The church voted 21 years ago to ordain women, but Iker and bishops in Quincy, Ill.; San Joaquin, Calif., and Eau Claire, Wis., have refused to do so.

Workers living in 'virtual slavery

NEW YORK (AP) - All manner of beggars and panhandlers scrounge a living on New York City subways, from musicians on station platforms to the downtrodden who recount tales of woe as they ask riders for money.

But it was the most silent of the city's underground entrepreneurs who may have been in the most desperate of straits.

Authorities are unraveling an operation in which dozens of deaf and sometimes mute Mexicans were illegally smuggled into the country and sent to work on the subways, living in "virtual slavery" for bosses who confiscated their earnings as payment bringing them here.

Acting on a tip from four Mexican deaf-mutes who walked into a Queens precinct house early Saturday, police found 57 people, most of them also deaf-mutes, living in two crowded homes.

Seven other Mexican immigrants, some of them also deaf, were arrested Sunday on charges that include aliensmuggling, grand larceny and extortion. The alleged ringleader was still at large.

The immigrants, who appeared to be in good health, worked 18-hour days begging and peddling cheap trinkets, authorities said.

"Essentially they were being used as slaves," said Mayor Rudolph Giuliani. "This is a situation in which a certain group of people in this day and age held them in bondage."

Such peddlers are familiar to anyone who rides the subway. They move through trains, placing keychains with tags reading "$1, I am deaf" on the seats, then rush back to retrieve those not purchased.

The trinket sales apparently were lucrative for someone -$30,000 in cash was seized at one house, the mayor said.

"The conspiracy has to be bigger," said Giuliani, who called the arrangement "virtual slavery.'

In Mexico City, the Rev. Martin Montoya Garcia, director of the Rosendo Olleta Institute for the deaf, said the news confirmed his fears.

"There are a lot more groups up there," he said. "There are people who know the deaf community here, know the places they hang out, and know how to communicate with them.

"They come and take them away."

tified by some victims as "the boss," to whom they gave the proceeds of their long days on the subway.

Prosecutor Richard Brown said Rustrian was believed to be a "local enforcer" working for a more powerful ringleader.

"We're of the opinion that there's another individual who's above him making frequent trips to Mexico to homes for the deaf, luring two or three at a time, bringing them through LaGuardia or Newark (airports)," Brown said.T h e alleged ringleader was identified in today's editions of The New York Times as Reinaldo Paoletti.

Search for Versace's killer expands

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) -As authorities probed hundreds of tips on the whereabouts of suspected killer Andrew Cunanan, the FBI has reportedly begun warning his acquaintances they may be his next targets.

Cunanan, a suspect in the slayings of fashion designer Gianni Versace and four other men across the country, may be seeking revenge against those he believes have crossed him, FBI spokeswoman Colleen Rowley said in today's editions of USA Today.

The FBI was reviewing interviews with people who knew Cunanan to determine who should be warned. The agency was reportedly concerned he was working his way down a hit list of wealthy gays and art patrons.

More details have emerged attended by Cunanan.

A Brazilian woman told authorities she has photos and video showing Cunanan and Versace together at the July 13 gathering. USA Today quoted a confirmed the woman's claim and said the photos have been given to the FBI.

A friend of Cunanan's told the FBI that Cunanan had a crush on a member of Versace's entourage, Time magazine reported. Authorities have tried to determine whether Cunanan and Versace knew each other.

A week ago, a day before the July 15 slaying, security cameras at the News Cafe recorded Cunanan about 30 minutes before Versace made his usual appearance to buy magazines, Newsweek reported. The cafe is within walking distance of Versace's home.

Before all of this. Cunanan had left a brazen trail across Miami Beach.

It was not clear whether police received the receipt, Calls to Miami Beach police and the FBI were not returned Sunday.

HOUSTON (AP) - Had it with your spouse? Think the road to splitsville is just around the corner?

In the past, Houston's Harris County would be your last stop because divorce cases could linger in the courts for years. But suddenly divorce cases in Harris County - where 32,000 are filed annually — are quickly making it to trial. Recently, judges here have forged new rules to put divorce cases in the fast lane. Their target is to have divorces reach trial within one year of filing — even sooner if estranged couples commit to expedited trial settings.

"We hope this system has resulted in less delays in getting cases to trial," said state District Judge Jim Squier. "I know lawyers may have complained, and we have 'fine-tuned' the system. But we've got to think the litigants want to get to trial as quickly as practically possible."

Until the start of 1995, attorneys for the participants in divorces determined trial dates for their cases.

If both or even one of the attorneys developed later problems with that date, delays were customarily granted.

North Ireland Protestants hold out for details on IRA's call for cease-fire

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - A day after the Irish Republican Army's cease-fire began, attention turned to the tricky task of getting pro-British Protestant leaders to talk peace with the IRA's political allies.

David Trimble, the leader of Northern Ireland's main Protestant party, was to meet in London today with Prime Minister Tony Blair to demand specifics on when the IRA will start to disarm.

Without such plan, a Trimble's Ulster Unionist Party could be torn apart and may stay away from the negotiating table altogether. Addressing details, however, doomed the last IRA cease-fire, something Blair knows full well.

Trimble's party represents the biggest chunk of Protestant majority opinion and without it there is little hope that talks can produce a lasting end to sectarian strife that has left 3,400 people dead in nearly three decades of bombings, shootings and riots.

IRA cease-fire Sunday's cleared the way for its political wing Sinn Fein to participate in peace talks, which are scheduled to resume in September after 13 fruitless months.

The last IRA truce - of Sept. 1, 1994 - collapsed after 17 months because Protestant leaders refused to meet Sinn Fein negotiators until the IRA started disarming. The condition was rejected by Sinn Fein and the IRA.

The British government said the scheduled mid-September date for talks will allow time to judge whether the IRA truce will hold, but already some Protestants are hard-line already scurrying for the exit.

The Rev. Ian Paisley's Democratic Unionist Party and the smaller United Kingdom Unionist Party both have declared where they stand — as far away from Sinn Fein as possible - and promise to lambaste Trimble if he doesn't join them.

They believe the IRA ceasefire will last only if they surrender to Sinn Fein's political demands of ending British rule and uniting the Protestantmajority state with the rest of Ireland, which won independence from Britain in 1922.

"No unionist wishing to Northern Ireland's defend union with Great Britain would get down in the gutter with the frontmen, IRA's said Democratic Unionist deputy leader Peter Robinson.

Even supposed moderates among Trimble's senior team responded to the IRA's new truce with dire predictions.

Ulster Unionist security spokesman Ken Maginnis, who will accompany Trimble to meet Blair, branded the peace process "an act of folly" and predicted that this IRA truce would "end in tragedy."

However, John Hume, a leader of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, warned Trimble not to shun talks that include Sinn Fein.

"If they were to stay away I would suggest strongly to the British and Irish governments that the talks process should continue, with the door open for people to return who have left," Hume said, raising the prospect of his moderate Catholic party and Sinn Fein cutting a deal without Trimble.

While politicians in the examined the talks, prospects for the Catholics arriving for Sunday Mass in west Belfast were sim-

OUR VIEWS What's the score?

The success enjoyed by Big Spring's American League Blue All-Stars in this summer's Junior League tournaments - without question a source of pride for the entire community – has somewhat overshadowed the highly-commendable way in which the Big Spring Youth Baseball Association hosted the District 3 Junior League Tournament.

The manner in which the Blue All-Stars conducted themselves, and the way Junior League president Jay Phinney and other BSYBA representatives conducted the tournament were exemplary.

Sadly, however, once the tournament was completed, one could only wonder why scoreboards on the fields at the Roy Anderson Complex did not work, why wooden planks in those fields' bleachers left splinters in spectators' backsides and why the signs naming each of the complex's fields were either missing or broken loose from fencing and left lying on the ground.

<sup>1</sup> It was also somewhat vexing that city of Big Spring personnel were not involved in the preparation and maintenance of the two baseball fields used during the tournament.

The complex is, after all, city property. But it took only looking to fields adjacent to those under use to see that city officials obviously view the facility as a low priority.

The most telling of the facility's shortcomings — inoperative scoreboards that left spectators from both Big Spring and visitors from the other three cities whose teams were playing in the tournament wondering which team was ahead and what inning it was — seem proof positive of that observation.

In explaining why the scoreboards weren't in use, Phinney noted that none of the scoreboards can be used, because they haven't been fully installed. The Coca-Cola Co. donated the scoreboards, controls and wiring several years ago, but city officials have maintained that the BSYBA must pay for having electricians lay wiring and provide final installation both at the scoreboards and in the individual fields' pressboxes. "That's something we would have liked to do this year, but there just wasn't enough money," Phinney said, noting that local Junior League officials opted to create three new teams this summer, the increased costs of equipping those new teams put a substantial dent into the program's funds. It seems clear that the league's officials nade the correct choice - choosing to expand the league and there provide an opportunity for more local youngsters to take part in the program rather than making improvements to city-owned property.

Phinney said he hopes the league will be able to raise enough money next season to have the scoreboards made operational.

However, it is questionable that local residents which annually purchase candy during the youth baseball program's fund-raising project do so in hopes of providing operational scoreboards for the city's baseballsoftball complex.

The Coca-Cola Co. deserves commendation for its donations and should not be asked to further contribute to the process of installing the scoreboards it provided. However, it does seem that city officials, in the process of establishing the coming fiscal year's budget. ought to consider what's needed to not only install those scoreboards, but also to better maintain the complex.

School integration: History is repeating itself

PITTSBURGH Disillusionment - a stark sense of failure to achieve racial integration, especially in public education - is a dis-

Syndicated Columnist pursuit of integration, through procedures such as court-ordered busing, on grounds that "it's better to use the money to get good teachers, facilities and books for black children than to continue this futile search for integration that the white man clearly will never accept." Some delegates here seem to think that this is a grave new challenge to the NAACP; it is only history repeating itself. In 1947, after the late, great NAACP lawyer Thurgood

Marshall began legal action to force the admission of black students to the University of Texas, many black Texans -including Carter Wesley, publisher of The Houston Informer -- assailed Marshall and the NAACP as "cuckoo." They said it would be easier to take "separate but equal" and the $3 million Texas was offering for a black law school than to force integration of the white law school.

Marshall exploded, saying blacks had better awaken to the reality that "segregation has been maintained for the sole purpose of relegating the Negro to a standard of citizenship below that of all other Americans." In Sept. 1947, he rushed to Denison, Texas, site of the state NAACP convention, and won a blistering debate over the wisdom of a no-compromise policy for integration in education.

Now, some here are saying anew that those clinging to Marshall's views are "cuckoo." Few will openly advocate "separate but equal" now, but they clearly are ready to throw in the towel out of a belief that the old NAACP ideal is unattainable.

The mere revisiting of the 1947 arguments makes the goal of race-free education all the harder to achieve, because it tells whites who want segregation that they have won.

During those arguments in Texas, at least there was a reasonable basis for debate. Some blacks truly thought that it might be advantageous for their children to let the white man have the University of Texas to himself while blacks got a law school of their own.

The debate now rises out of deep frustrations over the fact that, while the state universities are truly open, the public schools continue to reflect the deep racism that guards residential patterns in this country. There was a time when blacks said to the white man. "There's no hiding place down here." But time has shown that, thanks to court decisions, forbidding school busing across city-suburban boundaries "white flight" does provide some hiding places.

The more disillusioned the black person, the more absurd the justifications for abandoning the fight for an integrated society. And the more straw men get beaten. "I'm offended when somebody says black children can't learn if they're not seated next to some white child," one hears often. I know of no one who ever heard Thurgood Marshall, Roy Wilkins, Medgar Evers, or anyone else in the NAACP say that was a reason to fight Jim Crow. What they said, and got the Supreme Court to agree to, was that when a state or unit of government said that black children were unfit to study in the same classrooms as white children, it stigmatized black children and wounded them for life.

That is an unassailable truth. And Marshall said, "Justice is when everybody can get the same thing at the same time in the same place."

He had seen that when people are separated by race, class, color or other reasons, the best police protection, the new schools, the best books and even teachers, the snowplows all go first to the richest, most powerful groups

Look at the American Indian and see that rule of life in shameful force.

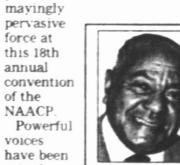

But disillusionment has not won the day here. The voice and views of Thurgood Marshall are very much alive.

Blue All-Stars face Abilene in sectional finals tonight

By JOHN A. MOSELEY

Sports Editor

Big Spring's American League Blue All-Stars have advanced further in the summer baseball playoffs any local team has going into tonight's Junior League Sectional Tournament finals in Abilene.

The Blue All-Stars will face Abilene Junior in at 7:30 tonight at Abilene's Redbud Park.

Big Spring enters the double-elimination finals undefeated, having capped sub-sectional play in Snyder with a 9-4 win over Pecos Saturday.

Abilene's host team, however, has its back to the wall, having suffered a 14-6 loss to White Settlement Saturday before wrapping up its sub-sectional title with a 17-7 win Sunday.

The sectional winner will advance to state tournament play which begins Friday in Waco.

In grabbing the sub-sectional title, Big Spring was again forced to come from behind in beating Pecos.

Additionally, manager Delvin Guinn was forced to use two of his top pitchers in avoiding a loss at the sub-sectional level, as he relieved starter Dereck Wilson with Steven Franco after two impings Saturday.

Big Spring characteristically jumped out to an early first-inning lead, scoring two runs when Franco drew a base on balls, swiped second and moved to third on a passed ball. Catcher Ryan Guinn provided an RBI single and then scored on a Pecos error.

Pecos answered in the second inning, scoring four runs when Wilson appeared to have been rattled when umpires charged him with a balk.

"I really think it did rattle Dereck some," Delvin Guinn admitted. "But we were able to call on Steven and he did a wonderful job ... the whole team did.'

Big Spring retook the lead in the fifth inning with three runs, putting the ball in play and forcing Pecos into several uncharacteristic errors,

In the process of trying to stop the bleeding, Pecos coaches used three different pitchers, but Big Spring managed four more runs to cement the victory.

Ryan Guinn and Manuel Holguin led the way offensively for Big Spring, both going 2-for-4 at the plate, while Tye Butler and Willis Morrison provided a strong middle infield combination defensively.

In addition, Guinn threw out two Pecos runners attempting to steal second base in the latter innings, helping snuff out rallies before they could materialize.

"I really don't think the kids have had time to sit back and realize what they've done," Delvin Guinn noted. "We've been too busy playing baseball and it looks like we're going to continue to be. But other than the high school's team reaching the state tournament, no other team from Big Spring has ever advanced this far. We're awfully proud of these kids."

Friday, edging out Shalei points, the only rider to post a score; Aaron Lide of Andrews Erramouspe of Clovis, N.M., grabbed the 8-Under calf roping crown with a 66-point ride; Dwayne Sanders of Odessa won the 9-12 steer riding with an 81-point ride; and Nathan Tickner of Boles, N.M., topped the 13-15 bull riding with a 70pointer.

Sterling Morris of Andrews won the 9-12 calf touching competition, edging out Brad Good of Kenna, N.M., with a 6.292 clocking.

In the tie down roping competition, J.D. Kibbe of Portales, N.M., won the 13-15 division with a time of 10.649 seconds, while Casey Crow of Lovington, N.M., won the 16-19 division with a 9.145.

Tiffani Sooter of Lovington, N.M., grabbed the 0-Under barrels win, while Taylor Fellows chalked up the 9-12 division with a 17.724-second ride.

Pole bending competition saw Sooter chalk up a second title with a 21.358 clocking in the 8-Under division, while Kristi McLaughlin of Odessa took the 9-12 division with a 20.942; Lindsey Milloy of Farwell topped the 13-15 division and Brandi Curtis of N.M., was the 9-12 division Roswell, N.M., raced to a 20.586 win in the 16-19 division.

The chute dogging win went to Dustin Dixon of Portales, N.M., who posted a 3.359 to edge out the opening night performance of 3.403 seconds turned in by Monty Eakins of Amarillo.

In other breakaway roping divisions, Lide chalked up his second win with ... 6.832 clocking in the 8-unders, while Grady Herrera of Tatum, N.M., was the boys' 9-12 winner at 3.048 and Kimberly Howard of Elida, N.M., was the girls' 9-12 winner with a 3.430 time.

Chezie Davis of Carlsbad, N.M., was the 13-15 girls' breakaway roping winner at 3.412 seconds, while Dillon Lewis of Clovis, N.M., was the boys' 13-15 winner with a 2.917 of Lazbuddie.

In the goat tying competition, Tori Bilberry of Elida, N.M., won the 8-Under title; Bridgett Hecht of Portales, winner; Brandi Denton of Winters topped the 13-15 field; and Kasi Kibbe of Portales was the 16-19 division's winner.

Sandon Stalls of McLean won the 16-19 boys' ribbon roping title with a 6.177 clocking. The other boys' division winners in that event were Rex Tippy of Hobbs, N.M., who won the 13-15 group with a 6.402 clocking, and Chance Millican of Elida, N.M., who was the 9-12 winner with a 7.231.

Martin of Lovington, N.M. who topped the 9-12 steer stopping competition; and 13-15 team roping winners Jeffery Seaton and Josh Morris, both homers, including three this season.

"It's nothing you do any different at the plate," said Greer, whose game-winner Sunday was his 14th homer of the year. "To be honest, you're just trying to get on for Juan (Gonzalez). He's the one who can do some damage.

Gonzalez didn't come through in the eighth, popping out against Sager (2-3). Sager also worked out of a ninth-inning jam by striking out pinch-hitter Warren Newson with runners on the corners.

In other American League games, Chicago beat Baltimore 10-2, Cleveland beat Boston 7-2, Minnesota beat Oakland 1-0. Seattle beat Kansas City 5-4, Anaheim beat Toronto 9-5 and Milwaukee knocked off New York 6-2.

In National League games Sunday, Colorado beat Chicago 9-5, Houston beat Montreal 9-0, Los Angeles defeated Atlanta 8-3, San Diego downed Florida 3-0, New York topped Cincinnati 10-1, San Francisco stopped St. Louis 9-2 and Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 4-1.

Sager retired the first two batters in the 10th, and was ahead 0-1 on Greer - the only one of Texas' top five batters without a run or an RBI at that point -- when he threw the game's last pitch.

"It was a bad location," Sager said. "I got a breaking ball up and he did what he was supposed to do and drove it.'

Greer, who is left-handed, put fourth on another RBI double by Hamelin, an RBI single by Casanova and a run-scoring fielder's choice by Damion Easley

Lee Stevens' two-run double in the fourth put Texas within 5-2, then an RBI single by Bobby Higginson in the seventh put Detroit back up 6-2.

The Rangers tied the game in the bottom of the seventh with four runs off relievers Doug Brocail, Dan Micelli and Mike Myers. Mark McLemore and Ivan Rodriguez each had RBI singles, then Gonzalez hit a two-run double.

Brewers 6, Yankees 2

Hideki Irabu, lacking his best stuff, got hit hard in his first road game.

Irabu (2-1) was tagged for six runs and seven hits in 6 2-3 innings as his ERA rose from 5.40 to 6.38

At Milwaukee, Scott Karl (4-10) allowed eight hits in his first complete game of the season, struck out five and walked one. Nilsson backed him with three RBIS

"When I hit that double, everybody was cheering, 'U-S-A! U-S-A!' " said Nilsson, who is from Australia. "I don't know where I come into that.'

White Sox 10, Orioles 2

Cal Ripken was ejected for only the third time in his career as Baltimore lost for the 10th time in 13 games, and Frank Thomas went 4-for-5 with a two-run homer and four RBIs.

are being accepted by mail beginning July 15 and continuing through Aug. 15 at the O.H. Ivie Reservoir Field Office.

Applications will be accepted by mail only. The number of permits issued will be limited, and requests for information and application packets should be made by calling the Colorado River Municipal Water District by calling 267-6341 or writing to CRMWD, P.O. Box 869, Big Spring, Texas 79721.

A public drawing for the permits has been scheduled for 10 a.m. on Sept. 17 at the field office located near the north end of the dam. Applicants are welcome to attend the drawing if they so desire.

For the 1997 season, only archery hunting will be allowed during both the archery and gun season on the Talpa WMA.

Both shotgun and archery hunting will be permitted on the Riverside WMA, but only during the gun season, Nov. 1 through Jan. 4.

Volleyball camp set for July 28-Aug. 2

The Rose Magers Volleyball Camp has been scheduled for July 28-Aug. 2 at Big Spring High School's Steer Gymnasium.

Registration forms are available at Athletic Supply and at Neals Sporting Goods. The fee for registering is $75 per participant.

The camp will be structured with girls of different ages taking part in different sessions. Seventh through ninth graders will attend 8 a.m. until noon sessions, while fifth and sixth graders will have a session from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Junior varsity and varsity players will attend sessions from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

For additional information, contact coach Traci Pierce at 267-4047. Registration forms should be mailed with fee payments to 2711 Rebecca, Big Spring, Texas 79720 not later than July 24. Registrations received after July 24 will require a late fee of $10.

Too far back? Fred Couples Leonard now.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR TUESDAY, JULY 22:

Travel comes into sharp focus this year. Now is the time to embark on the summer escape you've been dreaming of. Others seem to know what buttons to push to get a reaction from you. You control your destiny, so take more responsibility for creating your own happiness. If you are single, you find it easy to connect with others. A more serious commitment is likely, if you take the next step. If attached, work on communicating better, and air grievances without being overly confrontational. Hurt feelings can be healed. PISCES could lay a guilt trip on you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Shift your focus to matters of the heart. Don't let insecurity deter you from your desires. A new diet and fitness regime can work. Tonight's dreams could be prophetic. Tonight: Research health insurance plans.***

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A friend imparts beneficial advice that could dissolve a creative block. Children act up, but all they need is your attention. Take advantage of the weather and barbecue in the back yard for dinner. Tonight: Work on a home project.**** GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Irritation results when a boss oversteps boundaries and lands in your comfort zone. You know you are right, but what good will it do to battle it out? Accent tolerance, and moderate behavior. By midday, the mood lifts. Tonight: There's no place like home!***

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You derive inspiration from something you read on this whimsical day. If you can dream it, you can do it; break self-imposed limitations. Write a note to someone you care about; it will lift both your spirits. Tonight: Head to the mall!*****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

The sun enters your sign; for the next few weeks you experience renewed energy. Another seems put off by your improved attitude. Actually, he is worried that you'll leave him

Trouble can only come if you gnore the needs of a loved one; he will let you know if that is the case! A lunch date makes you both feel wonderful. Work piles up in the afternoon; expect to stay late to complete it. Tonight: Find out who delivers takeout to the office.****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Work calls, and you rise to the occasion. But your friends require an appearance from you as well. If you budget your time properly, you won't have trouble accomplishing it all. Then, you can have some fun! Tonight: Enjoy a game of darts at a neighborhood pub.****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Today has many gifts to offer you; creativity and luck are high. Use the energies of the day to raise a boss's consciousness. Your competence shines, especially professionally. A friend makes a declaration of love! Tonight: It's a good night for a first date.****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Jealousy rears its head, just when you thought things were leveling off. It's temporary, of course. You have been through worse, so don't overreact. Someone is trying to see how far he can push you; just laugh about it. Tonight: Take a spin on a stationary bike!**

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

To your great delight, a presentation or written proposal hits the mark. It's fabulous to be appreciated. But it's only the beginning, so rather than resting on your laurels, prepare for your next coup. Bigger wins are just around the bend. Tonight: Get beauty rest.****

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Over the next few weeks, you'll make needed adjust ments in your personal life Don't be too quick to dismiss a potential suitor because of an idiosyncrasy. You have been known to be shocking yourself. Humor helps you navigate tense moments. Tonight: Flirt with everyone!***

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) The moon highlights you. Expect accolades for work well done; you know you have earned it. A promotion is on the horizon, with extra obliga-
