Diana to be laid to rest Saturday

Diana will receive a funeral at Westminster Abbey Saturday that befits her status as the mother of Britain's future king, but will not be given a state funeral.

Diana - who captivated the world as she moved from a fairytale romance and marriage to a painful divorce and then a struggle to rebuild her life was killed early Sunday in a carcrash that also claimed the lives of her new boyfriend, Dodi Fayed, and their chauffeur.

French investigators, meanwhile, increasingly were focusing on speed as the main factor in the crash in the concrete road tunnel beside the River Seine, just north of the Eiffel

A source close to the investigation said the car carrying the princess entered the tunnel at well over 60 mph, and the daily Le Parisien quoted witnesses today as saying the vehicle was going 90 mph or more. The speed limit was 30 mph.

One Paris police source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Diana and Dodi were not wearing seatbelts.

Diana will be buried at Althorp, the Spencer family seat in Northamptonshire, north of London, after Saturday's funeral, which begins at 11 a.m. (4 a.m. EDT) Buckingham Palace

However, the palace, which about how to handle the popular princess, would not comment today on the delicate issue of the status of the funeral.

"The status is irrelevant," a spokeswoman said. "This is a unique funeral for a unique person.

There will be no lying in Earlier today, Diana's coffin was moved to the Chapel Royal at St. James's Palace, where mourners were invited to sign a book of condolence. The palace is Prince Charles' home.

At the request of both the royal family and the Spencers, the coffin will lie privately in front of the chapel's altar until the funeral.

Moore board OKs airpark master plan

By CARLTON JOHNSON

Staff Writer

Moore's Development For Big Spring Inc.'s board of directors recently approved spending $32,748 on the airport/airpark master plan with Big Spring's portion totaling $48,862

According to Moore officials, the bids on the plan were a little higher than expected, but Moore was able to negotiate them down to an acceptable amount.

The airport/air; rk plan is a cooperative effort between Moore, the city of Big Spring and some input from the Federal Aviation Administration.

According to Assistant City Manager Emma Bogard and City Councilman Tommy Tune, the plan is a vital tool in planning the future for the airpark and will not only provide a plan for improvement and upgrades to the airpark, but will provide information that will assist local entities with economic development opportunities.

The planning process will consist of two elements, updating the airport master plan, and preparing an industrial park master plan. The previous air-ticipation; and preparation of park master plan was written in

As per FAA requirements, the airport master plan will include aerial photography; background information and inventory; forecasts of aviation activity; capacity and facility requirements; facility alternatives (if required); and a study of area _compatibility recommendations and environmental evaluation.

Also included will be airport plans update; schedules and opinions of costs for a development plan; management and financial program; public par- Please see MOORE, page 2 master plan documentation.

According to Moore Executive Director Danette Toone, the ideal thing is for the industrial airpark portion of the master plan to include facilities inventory and condition assessment; review of current lease conditions and recommendations; infrastructure inventory and assessment; master planning; circulation review and planning; and multi-modal and rail access review and planning. The industrial plan will also

Labor Day: A time to honor U.S. workers

Congress first set aside holiday in 1894

By CARLTON JOHNSON

Staff Writer

Labor Day became an official holiday in the U.S. in 1894 and has since been considered a day of rest for the nation's workers.

Many Americans consider labor to be the one constant which has contributed to the general prosperity of the nation and has strengthened it in times of hardship.

One demonstration of labor in action is the recent Teamsters Union strike against United Parcel Service.

Labor Day does not always fall on Sept. 1, but has been set for the first Monday in September for many years.

The Labor Day observance is a recognition of labor's contributions to the nation and is of special significance America's labor unions as a symbol of the labor movement's many victories during the past century. As of the late 1970s America's unionized labor force numbered around 18 million and has often been referred to as Big Labor. According to one version of events, it was at a meeting of an early labor organization in 1882 that Peter J. McGuire, founder and general secretary of the new Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and leader of the Knights of Labor, who first recommended the idea of setting aside a day to honor labor.

McGuire believed such a day was necessary to honor laborers and bring their plight before the public eye.

His idea came to light at during a meeting of the New York Central labor Union on May 8, 1882 when he suggested the labor holiday be celebrated on the first Monday of September.

According to McGuire, the holiday would come at one of the most pleasant seasons of the year, midway between Independence Day and Thanksgiving and would fill a gap in the chronology of legal holidays.

Oregon became the first state to recognize Labor Day as a legal holiday on Feb. 21, 1887.

Then the holiday was on the first Saturday in June, but was moved to the first Monday in September in 1893.

Twenty other states followed Oregon's lead in 1893 and a bill to establish Labor Day as a federal holiday was introduced in Congress.

In June 1894, President Grover Cleveland signed an act making the first Monday in September a legal holiday for federal employees and in the District of Columbia.

McGuire, considered by many to be the true founder of Labor Day, died penniless in

He is remembered annually in the most solemn of ways with a wreath-laying ceremony at his grave in Pennsauken, N.J., near his Camden home.

County fair begins silver anniversary run

By CARLTON JOHNSON

Staff Writer

Today is special in Howard County for two reasons — the first is because it marks the Labor Day holiday and the second is probably the most important to local residents - the 25th edition of the Howard County Fair.

According to Howard County Fair Board member Tammy Watt, the board was able to incorporate several new ideas into the silver anniversary celebration of the Howard County Fair because of the fair convention many of the board members attended in January.

"We brought back a lot of new ideas and saw many new and exciting things we have tried to incorporate them into the Howard County Fair this year." Watt said. "We are excited to be celebrating our 25th year in Howard County and look forward to a great fair."

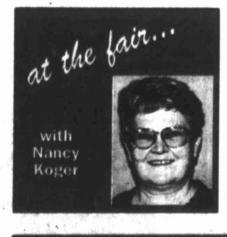

The fair begins at 4 p.m. today

The work of a fair and convention decorator is demanding and fast-paced; he comes into a vast, open area and must transform it into orderly and attractive spaces in a matter of hours.

OUR VIEWS

Here's to the working class

Today, we celebrate one of the most basic components of a successful society — the worker.

Great decisions are made by politicians, generals command during wars and scientists explore the mysteries of the universe. But without the "common" working man and woman to drive the gears of society, all the equations and theories wouldn't amount to

In recognition of the workforce that fuels this country, the U.S. Congress has set aside the first Monday in September for the observance of Labor Day.

So, what exactly should we be observing today? George Sand once said. "Work is not man's punishment. It is his reward and his strength, his glory and his pleasure." While some would doubtless take issue with Sand's statement, there is more than a little truth

For many, what we are is defined to a great deal by what we do for a living. A great majority of U.S. workers take great pride in their occupations, and strive to do the best job possible.

Given those facts, therefore, a day of celebration of our work makes a great deal of sense.

Very few good things came about as the result of random chance or good fortune, but from simple, hard

A cure for polio? Jonas Salk worked years on the problem before finding a cure.

Likewise, the Empire State Building and other great structures in this country just didn't appear out of the blue one day, but were the result of years of labor. The examples could go on and on ...

But it's not just great accomplishments we recognize today, but the simple realization that much that makes this nation great has been made possible by the work of our people.

OTHER VIEWS

Were ever two holidays more at odds with our animal spirits than the bookend celebrations of Memorial Day and Labor Day? On the former we honor our sacred dead, but, be our thoughts ever so reverent, the faint report of a starter's pistol commences the great national dash into promising summer. And today, Labor Day, strain as we might to smilingly salute our working ethos, in truth we bury another summer. Oh joy.

Funny about summer. It's the only mortal season, the only one whose passing seems a clear subtraction. We may love the snows of winter, the colors of fall, the birds of spring. But when those seasons expire, we slide pretty much unreflectively into the next. But summer's end feels like a loss of a bit of us, who will never again frolic in the waves or lie listening to milesoff thunder in quite the same way. You can so go home again. It's the beach that's never just as you left it.

This might be unbearable except that each new summer is full of amnesic charms, sensual and of-the-moment. Even its less pleasant aspects - sunburn, poison ivy, whining insects at large from Castle conspire to keep our minds present-hitched. Who ever sank into melancholy while pulling a stinger from his naked toe? And summer's boons are matchless: the exhilaration of sun and sand and water, the fresh garden vegetables, the double-header afternoons and carnival nights. Plus even more sublime blessings:

'You hold her hand and she holds yours,

And that's a very good sign That she's your tootsey-woot-time. So now it's goodbye - time to shake sand from sneakers, grab briefcase or book bag, and face the music of duty. If on this Labor Day that music sounds a little like a dirge, buck up. On the calendar of memory is always a July. And on a real one it is only nine months to Memorial Day and another summer's birth.

Take care with the war on terrorism

Let's suppose the FBI comes to your house, places you under arrest, and takes you off to jail.

You ask, "What's the charge?" "Terrorism."

Not being a terrorist, you ask, "Who says, and what evidence do you have?' And the govern ment replies, "Sorry, that's a secret. As Orwellian tion judge denied him bail. This is an outrage and a direct result of that bad legislation passed by a Republican-dominated Congress in the name of fighting terrorism. Amendment VI of the Bill of Rights says, "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall-have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and the cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.' Clearly, any law that allows secret evidence is unconstitutional on its face, and because any person within our jurisdiction, citizen or not, is entitled to equal protection of the laws, then Al-Najjar is clearly a victim of an unconstitutional procedure.

I don't know the gentleman personally, and I don't, of course, know the nature of any secret evidence the government claims to have. I just say that if anyone has evidence, present it in open court and give Al-Najjar a chance to defend himself. Give this scholar the same rights we give burglars and killers.

This is precisely the kind of tyrannical abuse of power the Bill of Rights is intended to stop. No one can defend himself against charges if he doesn't know who made them or what evidence they claim to have. Under this system, anyone can be condemned on the basis of hearsay or just malicious, false claims by government agents.

Presumably, the government arrested Al-Najjar because he was associated with the World and Islam Studies Enterprise as editor of an academic and research journal. The Feds got bent out of shape when a former president of the institute returned to the Middle East to assume the leadership of the Islamic Jihad.

But despite two years of federal investigations, no evidence of anything illegal has been found, or if it has, the government is keeping it a secret. An independent investigation by a former president of the American Bar Association paid for by the university found no on the part of the institute and its employees. Only a paranoid bureaucrat evidence of any illegal activity would assume that because a man leaves one job to take another, there must be some connection between the organization he left and the organization he has gone to work for. Apparently, the government is forming an anti-Islamic lynch mob and is using that poorly drafted anti-terrorism law as a cover. It was passed by a Congress which, God knows, has both little regard for and knowledge of the U.S. Constitution.

There's nothing wrong with arresting and prosecuting actual terrorists. There is plenty wrong with scrapping the Bill of Rights in the name of fight-add ing terrorism. There is plenty wrong with punishing innocent people. All evil is done in the name of some good, but that never makes it less evil.

I would hope that Americans will insist that Al-Najjar received justice as defined by our Constitution. Not only for his sake but for ours.

In a sour mood because of a slow cab driver

By MARSHA MERCER

Media General News Service

WASHINGTON — It was 5:45 a.m., and the taxi was nowhere in sight. So much for calling the night before to arrange for a ride to the airport. I stared moodily into the predawn darkness. It was Saturday. It was August. The neighborhood was asleep.

Finally, the taxi swung into my driveway, and we were off. Sort of. We stopped at the first traffic light and waited. We sat. We waited. We sat and waited. The light stayed red. We were the only car on the

All I wanted was to brood quietly, but the driver had other ideas.

She talked about the sensor embedded in the street that was supposed to turn the light to green. She talked about the policeman she saw once who ran a stuck red light. She talked about how she followed him. She talked about everything. Anything. Nothing. The light stayed red

Finally, she ran it, talking about what she'd say if a policeman stopped her.

She had the steering wheel and the power. I was trapped in a traveler's nightmare. Now that flying is a predictable, if boring, means of getting from here to there, taking a taxi is one of the last adventures in modern travel.

You enter another dimension, the driver's world. Sometimes it's fun.

In Chicago last August after a late night at the Democratic National Convention, several colleagues and I climbed into a cab and headed for a midnight supper.

The driver asked how we were feeling. "Hungry," somebody replied.

And how was he feeling? "I'm feeling very positive.' He told us he'd just been named "international cab driver of the year." That he'd won the honor because he makes up his own songs and sings while he drives. I asked to hear something - and he sang a rocking little ditty about a bad girlfriend. At that moment, in his cab, the driver was a star. He was the most talented man on his planet. By the time we reached the restaurant, we were all feeling very positive. One of my friends handed over $7 for an audio tape of the driver's songs.

When he listened later, he found the music 'disappointing," of course. Cab drivers love to be characters. In New York, a driver never uttered a word — but he had developed his own horn language. He honked every few seconds — whenever he spotted a woman pedestrian by herself. If any woman — young or old, pretty or not — was waiting to cross the street, he honked. But never had I been caged with a mad woman who'd been up all night, had drunk one too many cups of coffee and wanted to talk. She asked my name, and as my luck would have it, hers was Marcia. She asked how I spell mine, and then clucked disapproving. She'd taken Latin in high school. The Latin derivation of Marcia was Mars. which was also the word for "war," she said.

Clearly, Marcia was the historically accurate, superior spelling.

I didn't tell her I'd also taken Latin or that I'd show her "warlike" if she didn't pipe down. I took the path of least resistance and limited my responses to monosyllables

She went on about the value of Latin and other languages for a while. Then she asked my last name. She repeated "Marsha Mercer" and, in a censorious tone, announced that she couldn't say it. She ruled it too hard to pronounce. Fine, I thought sourly. Don't.

As dawn broke, she said she was taking a detour to avoid some police activity she'd seen earlier. Very slowly, she cruised around the block and near the cop cars that blocked the street, craning to see what was happening..

I finally said I was in a hurry. She demanded to know what time my flight was. I told her, even though I knew better. "Plenty of time," she declared, poking along. She launched into another story.

We finally got to the airport. Marcia was still talking as I shut the car door.

Cowboys take out frustrations in 37-7 drubbing of Steelers

PITTSBURGH - When they were doing so much wrong, it was easy to forget what the Dallas Cowboys could

They set an unparalleled standard of excellence on the field by winning three Super Bowls in four seasons, then set about destroying it off the field with drug arrests, handgun violations and horrific lapses in judgment.

If a player wasn't being arrested, the coach was. They trashed their training-camp dormitory - and their

What a team. And what a mistake to think the Cowboys had become divided, not united, by controversy. The Cowboys took out the frustrations of a tumultuous offseason, beating the Pittsburgh Steelers 37-7 Sunday in a performance that reminded that, amid all the turmoil, much talent remains.

Troy Aikman threw four touchdown passes — a third as many as last season — and Michael Irvin scored twice as the Cowboys roughed up the Steelers in their opener for the second time in four years. They also won big in Pittsburgh in 1994, by 26-9.

For once, Cowboys owner Jerry Jones wasn't talking about a suspension, a court case or banning his players from a bar, but football. Winning thing. They looked equally dazed and confused during the worst loss of Bill Cowher's six seasons as coach, failing to cross the Cowboys' 40 until they trailed 37-0. It was hardly what they expected following the first 5-0 preseason in their history.

"This certainly exceeded our expectations. We certainly didn't expect this," Jones said.

"Certainly, in my worst nightmare, I didn't imagine a day like today,' offensive coordinator Chan Gailey

Irvin, suspended for last year's opener and a magnet for all of the Cowbeys' off-field problems, picked on each of the Steelers' new cornerbacks, rookie Chad Scott and Donnell Woolford, for TD catches among his seven receptions for 153 yards.

The Steelers have replaced more

The Steelers could say the same than half of their starting defense, including key starters Rod Woodson, Chad Brown and Willie Williams, and they looked it by giving up 380 vards and failing to sack Aikman even once.

"It's been quite a while since I had this much fun. I think you can start not loving what you do, and that's what happened." said Irvin.

Aikman looked Super Bowl-ready. He was 19 of 30 for 295 yards and no interceptions in his most proficient game since he threw for four touchdowns against the Bills in the January 1993 Super Bowl against the Bills.

Steelers quarterback Kordell Stewart, making his first NFL start on the same day that Aikman made his 126th, was sacked only three times, but often looked like he didn't know

Simply, Slash crashed. He often overthrew his receivers and, despite Switzer's pre-game worries that Stewart could alter a game with his running, carried only once for four

"Kordell Stewart was introduced to the NFL today," Cowher said. The Cowboys' stars needed no introduction - Aikman, Irvin and Deion Sanders, who set up a touchdown with an 38-yard punt return. The Cowboys almost didn't notice that Emmitt Smith never broke a big run while being held to 69 yards on 26 carries.

SAN DIEGO - All of a sudden, the San Diego Padres are starting to get some respectable starting pitching.

"That's our game," manager Bruce Bochy said after Sterling Hitchcock pitched six strong innings in a 5-3 victory over the Texas Rangers on Sunday.

"That's what we've got to do." Unfortunately for the Padres, it's coming too late. The defending NL West champions head into September 13 games behind San Francisco.

The Padres have held opponents to three runs or less the last four games, winning three times. On Saturday night, Andy Ashby allowed just one run and seven hits in eight innings of a 4-1 victory.

Wally Joyner went 3-for-4 with two RBIs and Ken Caminiti hit a bases-loaded single with two outs to highlight the four-run third inning as the Padres swept the two game series.

The Padres improved to 7-7 in interleague play with two games left, while Texas dropped to 8-6.

Hitchcock (10-8), who has won at least 10 games in three straight seasons, started the third-inning burst with a bloop single. He allowed three runs on seven hits in six innings. struck out four and walked

"Normally, when I throw that many fastballs I get killed," Hitchcock said. "But I had a little extra on my fastball and not a whole lot else. I had some timely balls hit at people and some good defensive plays made behind me. A four-spot in the third inning doesn't hurt, Hitchcock got off to an inauspicious start when Damon Buford hit his third pitch for a homer en route to a personalbest 4-for-4 day.

"I thought it was a pretty good changeup and it gets hit for a homer," Hitchcock said. "That sort of sent a message uh-oh. A lot of times, though, that's the only run you give

Lady Steers tumble in third-place match at Denver City

HERALD Staff Report

It's a scenario that's becoming all too familiar for Traci Pierce and her Big Spring Lady Steers.

For a second straight weekend, the Lady Steers hit the road for a volleyball tournament — this one in Denver City and finished in fourth place in an eight-team field.

After having won their pool in Friday's opening round of play, the Lady Steers knocked off Lubbock Christian 15-9, 15-9 in Saturday's first match before Lubbock Coronado in the sec-

As a result, they were paired with Lamesa in the third-place match. Paced by strong play from Keesha Lott, Krissi McWherter and Juanita Valdez, the Lady Steers jumped out to an early lead in the first game of the match. However, the Lady Steers lost momentum and were beaten by an 11-15 score in the first game.

Buoyed by the comeback in the first game, Lamesa went on a tear in the second and took dropping a 2-15, 2-15 loss to the third-place trophy with a added. "We just didn't get the won the first game by a 15-8 15-9 win in the second game. While Pierce won't say she isn't pleased with another loss in a third-place match, she clearly believes the Lady Steers had an opportunity to step up a notch and let that chance get

"We had Lamesa down, 11-9 in the first game of that thirdplace match," Pierce said. "We really should have won it, but let them get back in the game and win it.

"I really think we'd have beaten them if we'd gone ahead and won the first game," Pierce key points when we needed them and it allowed Lamesa to get something going."

The Lady Steers opened the tournament in impressive fashion Friday, powering past Fort Davis in their first match by a 15-4, 15-4 score.

Traditional New Mexico power Clovis was only marginally more successful in trying to handle the Lady Steers, as Big Spring took a 15-5, 15-9 victory.

In their third match of pool play, the Lady Steers faced Denver City's host squad and margin before the Lady Mustangs rebounded for a 15-5 win in the second. The Lady Steers return to their home court in Steer Gym Tuesday, playing host to Midland Greenwood in a series of four matches.

Tuesday's schedule calls for the Big Spring freshman to open the fray with a 4 p.m. match That contest will be followed by sophomore action at 5 p.m., the junior varsity at 6 p.m. and the Lady Steers varsity starting the nightcap at 7 p.m.

> ARIES (March 21-April 19) After a lengthy weekend, you energetically breeze into work. No one will stop you. Your determination is clear; you know what you want. Negotiations are animated. A partner does not see eye-to-eye with you but is willing to talk. Tonight: Work off extra pounds at the gym.*

> TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A partner provides feedback and wants to brainstorm. You are stunned by how assertive he can be. You will be pulled in, despite any decisions you make. A new encounter could be laden with flirtation, and it could become a lot more. Tonight: Stop fighting it!**

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You build foundations. Establish boundaries between work and home life. You feel pushed by a co-worker or obligations. You have the energy to cover all bases. Consider a home office. Tonight: Comfort another who feels threatened.*

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Active talks accomplish a lot. When greeted by an obstacle, you brainstorm your way around it. Allow your creative genius to emerge. Clear your desk, return calls and reach out for others. A boss makes demands that force you torevamp your schedule. Tonight: Go to a favorite neighborhood spot!*

HOROSCOPE

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Act on financial decisions. You have the insight to implement changes. You could be pressured by a domestic situation. Communications with someone who is at a distance might be difficult now. Be understanding. Tonight: Work on your fall budget.*

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are in control. Take action now, when you feel empowered. Don't take a back seat. Choose your words carefully; they carry more power than you are aware. Discussions about money are difficult with a partner; it's as if you ran into a brick wall. Tonight: Tell it as it is!*

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Gather pertinent information, rather than taking action. It is a great time to find out more about the status of a financial investment. You might be tempted to spend freely, but that would be an error. The unexpected occurs with a partner. Tonight: Go, to bed early.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You have high energy and a lot of direction. By asking probing questions you get interesting answers. You see a friend in another light as a result. Pull back, and listen to your inner voice. There are many alternatives here. Tonight: Zero in on what you want!*

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.

You are in the limelight, a good place to make strong decisions. You are frustrated by recent events. It might be time to enact some changes. High energy and dedication make you a winner. A loved one might be touchy when dealing with you. Tonight: Work late.*

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

Your determination is evident as you make calls. Seek out answers, and make what you want happen. A friend eggs you on with ideas. Listen to suggestions. You win, if you don't buck the status quo. A family member is out of sync. Tonight. Go to the movies.*

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You have your hands full, trying to meet another's demands. Determine your goals. Be as direct as possible. Another might balk, or you might not be listening. Pressure is intense with a boss; you need more support. Tonight: Talks heat up!*

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Money matters are off. You are bewildered, so you try to come up with answers. Right now, the best bet is to restrict spending. A friend or loved one at a distance has a lot to share. Listen; you will feel inspired by his ideas. Popularity is high. Tonight: Go for cheap fun!*

Wife's suspects man's appettie for sex is really an addiction three or four months, I have heard that a new addiction is about to be exposed in our society: sexual addiction. Just a few months ago on ABC's television news magazine "20/20," they devoted an entire segment to this subject.

Abigail Van Buren Columnist

I have been suspicious of my husband for years, but because of his ongoing difficulties with marijuana, alcohol, nitrous oxide, cocaine. and prescription diet and pain medications, I thought maybe the interest in sexually explicit magazines, movies, etc., just went with the territory. After the last go-around with chemical problems, he threw out all the pornography. I was relieved; then I recently discovered more hidden magazines. They are not the kind one picks up at the corner convenience store.

From what I've been able to ascertain, my sexual appetite is normal, but his seems insatiable. When we've been on

DEAR ABBY: In the past vacation, relaxing and paying undivided attention to one another (no kids or interruptions), we can make love three or four times a day. And if I don't want to do it again a fifth time, according to him I have a problem! Often when he comes up to me to kiss me, he will grab me, which I have always indicated I don't like. He has always had poor sleep patterns, getting up and down several times during the night, and nearly every time he comes back to bed he tries to initiate sex. When I object and tell him I don't like to be awakened, he often berates and belittles me, sometimes calling me names and saying I'm frigid. I think if he's getting his information from pornography, not only is it not what I'd call a scientific source, it's a perverted representation of what the majority of the population would call normal. Is this a common problem? I don't feel I am respected, cherished and showered with attention. I am usually tired. You can sign me ... FEELING USED IN GREAT FALLS, MONT. DEAR FEELING USED: You must love your husband very much to have remained with him through all the tribula tions you describe. Sex addiction is nothing new. I have ship of sex addicts called Sexaholics Anonymous (SA). Operating in conjunction with SA are the S-ANON International Family Groups — 12-step fellowships of people who have been affected by the sexual addiction of a family member or friend. A program such as this could provide comfort and direction for you.

known about it since the early 1980s, when I first learned of the existence of a 12-step fellow-

S-ANON members are wives, husbands, children, parents, siblings, friends and even coworkers of sex addicts. Banding together in a program based on the principles of Alcoholics Anonymous, they work to resolve their common problems and to help others recover from the effects of another's sexual addiction.

There are no dues or fees for S-ANON membership. Anyone who is bothered by the sexual behavior of someone in the family is eligible to join. I urge you to attend some meetings.

Those who wish further inforabout S-ANON mation International Family Groups should write S-ANON I.F.G., P.O. Box 111242, Nashville, Tenn. 37222-1242, and include a check or money order (no cash, please) in the amount of $1 to cover postage and handling.

DEAR ABBY: A reader recently asked why we don't have classes in schools to teach kids patience, kindness, manners, not to litter, etc.

Psychologists say that children's personality traits, their ability to get along with others, their perception of right and wrong, their sense of humor, values and morals are formed by age 4. Children are a reflection of their home environment and parental training. Schools should reinforce what the children have already learned.

It's time parents realize that they are the most important "teachers" in their children's lives. Don't blame the schools. We're doing the best we can. -OLD-FASHIONED TEACHER IN OVERLAND PARK, KAN. DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: You have stated it very well; however, not all children are fortunate enough to have parents who can teach them these vital lessons. The most enduring education comes from parents and teachers working together. To quote first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, "It takes a village to raise a child."
