Friends of Settles now within 10 windows of completing tower

By KATHY GILBERT
Staff Writer

Donations to the Friends of the Settles window replacement campaign have almost hit the top, organizers said Thursday.

The Big Spring community has donated a total of about $70,000 to buy 289 windows in the tower, penthouse and on the ground floor, said Tommy Churchwell. Only 10 windows remain to be sold to complete the tower, he said.

Friends of the Settles was formed last June to develop a plan for revitalizing the building. Churchwell had previously started the windows project on his own, saying that beautifying the Settles is the key to revitalizing the downtown area.

"The motivation was image for Big Spring," said Churchwell, "the Settles was the biggest, the tallest and the ugliest building downtown. It looked like a bombed-out building."

The crumbling depression-era edifice was a "tombstone over downtown," said John H. Walker, a member of Friends of the Settles and chairman of the Big Spring Convention and Visitors Bureau.

After windows have been positioned to protect the hotel from the elements, CVB hopes to put a tourist information center in the old drugstore, Walker said. Plans for a restaurant, apartments, and non-profit office space have been floated as well.

A Texas Department of Transportation ISTE grant will also be requested to fund the tourist center, Walker explained.

"The Settles can be a positive anchor for downtown. It can be used as a tourist information center to get someone into it and get it started being used again."

Although it was once the most luxurious hotel, and the tallest building, between El Paso and Fort Worth, the Settles has been in dire financial and physical straits for years, historical reports show.

In a startling omen of things to come the Settles went bankrupt within months of opening its doors in October 1930. Ranchers Will R. and Lillian Settles had built the hotel after the discovery of oil on their ranch in 1927. Plummeting oil prices, however, forced them out of the hotel business forever.

The Settles repeatedly closed and reopened, but still became known as the finest overnight lodging between El Paso and Fort Worth.

Back taxes began to collect, along with water in the basement, in the late 1970s.

A coup de grace was leveled at the behemoth when the hotel was stripped of

Organizers report concert, fireworks project on schedule

By JOHN H. WALKER
Managing Editor

With 85 percent of needed funds raised, the July 4th Foundation is heading into the final stages of preparation for the July 3rd Pops in the Park Concert.

More than $23,000 of the budgeted $27,000 has been pledged with two-thirds of the monies already in the bank.

The concert is scheduled to get under way at 8:45 p.m. on Friday, July 3 in the Comanche Trail Amphitheatre and will feature the Big Spring Symphony and Chorale.

In addition, a fireworks display will be synchronized with the symphony presentation of patriotic music.

The program, which is being presented by the Big Spring Symphony, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, City of Big Spring and Big Spring Herald, is expected to draw between 6,000 and 10,000 people.

"We think it will be a tremendous program that everyone will enjoy," explained Carroll Jennings, a member of the foundation's board.

The program is patterned after one in San Angelo that incorporates that city's symphony and chorale with a fireworks display.

Concerns that the drought condition and county burn ban would affect the fireworks were also answered by fire marshal Burr Lea Settles.

Settles said the city will have a regular fire truck located below the area where the fireworks will be fired while the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department will have a rough terrain truck in the immediate area of the fireworks display.

The county burn ban will not affect the fireworks display because it pertains to the areas of the county that lie outside the Big Spring city limit.

"Basically, (County) Judge (Ben) Lockhart said any ban within the city would have to come from the city council," Settles added.

"The fireworks used in the display will be of the Class C variety, which should limit the possibility of drift."

The display will include a large replica of the United States flag that will be mounted 28 feet above the ground on two poles that will be set in place by TU Electric.

"People do need to realize that we're shooting the fireworks in the park, not from South Mountain," Jennings

Proposal: Finley, Brewer would be removed and new leadership chosen

By CARLTON JOHNSON

Today, members of the Permian Basin Drug Task Force are nervously waiting to hear from Gov. George W. Bush's office concerning a compromise that would allow funding of the 10-year old organization to be restored.

Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter is the chairman of the task force board and is flying to Austin to see if a proposal approved by the Ector County Commissioners' Court Thursday to hire an interim task force commander would satisfy Gov. Bush.

Funding for the group was cut off at midnight Sunday and the 31 employees of the task force were placed on paid vacation as of 8 a.m. Tuesday, including commander Tom Finley and assistant commander Jack Brewer.

Many of the allegations of financial mismanagement are aimed at Finley and Brewer. The Criminal Justice

Izzard: Let vets select own type of health care

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

For serving their country, some paying the ultimate price, Republican Congressional candidate Rudy Izzard thinks veterans should be entitled to select their own type of health care policy and have the government pick up part of the cost.

IZZARD

Thursday, Izzard made his second campaign stop in the last two months in Big Spring to talk about veterans health care. "Veterans health care will be a priority of mine if I make it to Congress," Izzard said. "It would not be possible for us today to debate things such as welfare, Social Security and other issues if it weren't for the sacrifices our veterans made for their country."

A lot of veterans have to travel great distances just to receive primary care and it costs them as well as taxpayers, according to Izzard.

"Veterans tend to put off health care because of costs," Izzard said. "And a cough, if not treated, could turn into something like pneumonia."

"The three things I propose to help our veterans health system are to deal with primary preventive care; see that veterans have access to the physician of their choice; and make sure Veterans Affairs hospitals remain in the mix for veterans," Izzard added.

A first line of defense for veterans is to have a reduced fee plan for primary preventive care, according to Izzard, who also believes veterans should be able to join the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHBP).

"Congress is reluctant to expand the program to include veterans because of the estimated cost of $250 million to $300 million," Izzard said. "I could find that much money in frivolous social spending in our federal budget. I support a broader test of FEHBP."

Where VA hospitals are concerned, Izzard said there are proposals to shut them down and privatize them.

"Maybe we need to change the scope of our VA hospitals," Izzard said. "We need to shift some private sector principles into the VA hospital system. The priorities of the current administration are not properly placed."

Izzard told supporters that he believes what he told them about veterans health care and would not have the gall to go to Washington and change his mind.

"I would be too ashamed to come back and face local veterans," Izzard said. "We honor our veterans in ceremonies for their service to their country, but we pay lip service to them when it comes to benefits."

While vets' health care was topic, bilingual ed was the issue

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Rudy Izzard, the Republican challenger for Congressman Charles Stenholm's 17th Congressional District seat this fall, was in Big Spring Thursday to talk about veterans health care — but several residents attending the meeting at the Howard County Courthouse wanted to talk instead about California's Proposition 227 on bilingual education.

While California residents passed Proposition 227 by a margin of 61 percent to 39 percent, Texas officials have said they are in no great hurry to follow suit.

Proposition 227 does away with bilingual education in California, instead assigning students to up to a year of an English immersion program. It includes $50 million annually for 10 years for tutoring.

Backers of the California proposition said the experience of earlier generations show children can quickly pick up English. They said the current system means children fall behind their peers who are taught in English.

This issue of bilingual education was put to Izzard during Thursday's meeting.

"Every American citizen should be fluent in English," Izzard said. "Bilingual programs set people back as far as their developing English skills. If I went to a foreign country to

Male reluctance for medical checkups could prove deadly

By KATHY GILBERT
Staff Writer

Men's reluctance to get their annual checkups could cost them their lives, the American Cancer Society said this week.

That's why June has been named Prostate Cancer Awareness month, Bill Birrell, 76, of the Howard/Glasscock Chapter of the American Cancer Society explained.

As a survivor of prostate cancer, Birrell knows firsthand the value of early detection of a cancer with few warning signs.

"Some men may go through their whole lives and never know they have it," Birrell said.

Birrell's cancer was discovered three and one-half years ago during a routine checkup, he said. "Before they found mine, I didn't think I had any problems."

Tragically, many deaths from prostate cancer were preventable, said Birrell. Prostate cancer is survivable if detected early enough, he explained.

All men over 50 should have a prostate screening examination, according to the American Cancer Society. A blood test, called a prostate specific antigen, or PSA, is required along with a digital (finger) rectal exam.

"The blood test is just one indication," said Birrell. "If your PSA goes up, then they do further testing. But the PSA is just one indicator."

Prostate cancer is the most common cancer, excluding skin cancers, in white, African-American, Hispanic, Filipino, Japanese and American Indian men. The incidence rate is about one-third higher in African-American men than other racial groups.

Each year, there are approximately 184,500 newly detected cases of prostate cancer nationwide. About 12,000 of these are Texans.

Last year, prostate cancer caused 2,300 deaths in Texas and 39,200 deaths nationwide, according to American Cancer Society figures.

"Every year, thousands of men may be dying needlessly, many of them uninformed or embarrassed to consider having a PSA blood test with a digital rectal exam as part of a regular physical exam" the American Cancer Society announced recently.

In honor of Prostate Cancer Awareness Month, the local American Cancer Society will provide a free blood screening on June 30 from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the St. Paul Lutheran Annex on 809 Scurry in Big Spring.

Programs will also be presented at the Lions Club at noon on June 10 at 1607 E. Third St., and at the ABC Club meeting held at noon on June 12 at the Brandin' Iron Inn on U.S. Highway 87.

Dr. Clark McDaniel of Scenic Mountain Medical Center will be the featured speaker.

Other groups interested in hosting programs may call Birrell at 263-0659.

live, the first thing I'd do is learn the language."

"If a group of people wanted to advance up the socioeconomic ladder, they need to learn English," Izzard added.

A lot of solutions to some of these problems have to begin at home, according to Izzard, who says he favors immersing students in English.

One audience member who addressed Izzard, said, "We're wasting tax dollars on bilingual education. I'm sick of paying my tax dollars to a losing program."

"We can't be all things to all people and we have to make some hard choices at times," Izzard said. "The first place you look when you're trying to make choices like this is the U.S. Constitution."

Bilingual education isn't in danger of being dismantled in Texas — as long as it's working, according to Gov. George W. Bush.

Bush said Wednesday that he's in no hurry to follow California's lead in doing away with the program.

"The ability to speak English is key to success in America. If a bilingual program is not teaching children to read and comprehend in English as quickly as possible, it should be eliminated," Bush said. "But if a bilingual program is helping to achieve the goal of teaching children to read and comprehend in English, then we should applaud it and say well done."

and several $500,000 in confiscated drug money.

Members of the Texas Rangers, FBI and the Texas Attorney General's Office are still investigating the criminal allegations against the task force.

Since the Ector County-based (Odessa) task force began operations in 1988, the group has seized $28 million worth of drugs; seized 469 vehicle; seized $2.5 in cash; seized 255 weapons; arrested 4,968 people; and assisted other police agencies in seizing an additional $7 million worth of drugs and arrested an additional 926 people.

If Painter can convince the governor to go along with the plan, former Department of Public Safety captain and former task force investigator Arvin Kilpatrick, 62, of Midland, is the board's choice as interim commander of the task force. Kilpatrick is a 39-year veteran law enforcement officer in West Texas.

One of the charges levied against the governor's Criminal Justice Division by pro-Finley officers is that executive director Nancy Hugon is biased against him and wants him off the task force.

The task force is one of 47 multi-jurisdictional task forces in Texas and covers an area that includes Andrews, Borden, Crane, Culberson, Ector, Jeff Davis, Loving, Midland, Presidio, Reagan, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler Counties.

Howard County had participated with the task force in previous years, but had declined this year because of allegations against the organization. Glasscock and Martin counties had withdrawn from the task force prior to the Howard County pull-out.

"I didn't think the county should have been involved with this group," Howard County District Attorney Hardy Wilkerson said. "I would be happy to participate in the building of a new task force under new management."

Howard County Sheriff Bill Jennings has had conversations in the past with the task force, but said his office never worked any cases with the group.

"I would also go along with a new task force," Jennings said.

its fixtures and furniture.

Owner after owner then picked up the building for the price of back taxes (or perhaps a little more), but failed to rally financial and community support for a viable project. At one time a luxury hotel was proposed, then a prison, then a low-income housing project for senior citizens.

Bad luck, poor timing, poor planning, lack of funding and other factors blocked all proposals to find a use for the imposing 15-story historical monument.

Meanwhile the building began visibly decaying. At one point, fences had to be strung around the block to protect passers-by from chunks of concrete falling from the pediments.

Friends of the Settles rallied to enclose the hotel's now-vacant windows in an attempt to inspire the community to improve the downtown area.

"We just want to clean up downtown," said Churchwell. "When the owners of the other smaller buildings see the Settles looking good, they might go ahead and put money into cleaning it up."

Once the windows are in place, the Friends of the Settles will hand the baton to the city, explained committee member Wade Choate.

"Our goal is to get the windows up," he said. "The city owns the building. After that, it's up to them to pursue it."

House votes to safeguard crop insurance, increase ag research

WASHINGTON (AP) — With election-year pressure mounting from farmers and minority groups, the House overwhelmingly passed legislation Thursday to restore food stamps to many legal immigrants and safeguard crop insurance.

The $1.9 billion bill, which also increases spending on agricultural research, was sent to President Clinton on a 364-50 vote. The Senate passed it 92-8 in April.

White House spokesman Barry Toiv said the president would sign the bill.

"This bill not only supports farmers but fulfills a commitment the president made when he signed the welfare reform law to restore the unnecessary and mean-spirited benefit cuts for legal immigrants," Toiv said. Conservative Republicans almost derailed the bill, chiefly over returning food stamps to about 250,000 of the 935,000-legal immigrants who were removed from the rolls by the 1996 welfare overhaul. Many of them believed the change would repudiate that change in welfare law.

"It's funny that we pass welfare reform and then turn around the next year and destroy it," said Rep. Sam Johnson, R-Texas.

Others, however, called the bill a compromise produced by a traditional urban-rural coalition that links farm interests with anti-hunger programs.

"There are times when one has to swallow the good with the bad, and this is one of those times," said Rep. Bill Barrett, R-Neb.

Attempts in the Senate and House previously to strip out the food stamp provisions failed, but the lengthy delay provoked outrage among Hispanics, Asian-Americans and others as well as worry among farmers about their crop insurance policies, many of which are due to expire at the end of June.

Mary Kay Thatcher, lobbyist for the American Farm Bureau Federation, said House GOP leaders were persuaded during the weeklong Memorial Day break that stalling was costing political points in some races in the Midwest, California and elsewhere.

"There were some swing districts where it could have made a difference," Thatcher said. "It didn't take them too long to read the tea leaves."

The DNC had been slamming the GOP for the delay, faxing out press releases comparing it to the 1995 government shutdowns and last year's failure to pass a disaster relief bill swiftly.

"Once again, Republicans want to put right-wing politics over helping people," said Steve Grossman, the DNC's national chairman.

Immigrant groups wrote thousands of letters and encouraged people to sign paper plates asking for food stamp restoration that were sent to members of Congress, particularly Republicans.

"They are conducting out- reach, but all the outreach in the world isn't going to help them if they keep stepping on the toes of the Latino community," said Cecilia Munoz of the National Council of La Raza.

However, Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Dick Lugar, R-Ind., said a GOP majority strongly supported the bill and deserved credit for pushing it through.

"I've seen any number of explanations suggesting that it might be a black eye. This is a remarkable success for Republicans," Lugar said.

Most of the $1.9 billion in spending would come from administrative savings from the food stamp program but the bill also reduces some subsidies paid to crop insurance companies.

It would provide $818 million over five years to restore food stamps to immigrants who were in this country as of Aug. 22, 1996, and who are elderly, under 18, disabled or came to the United States to escape political or religious persecution.

The legislation also would guarantee $470 million over five years to pay agents and companies for expenses and commissions to write crop insurance policies and ensures that provision will not have to compete with other spending priorities.

In addition, the bill would spend an additional $600 million over five years for agricultural research — focused on high-priority areas such as biotechnology and food safety — and would increase spending on rural development programs by $100 million.

TEXAS BRIEFS

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — An increase in the prospective number of minority students at the University of Texas law school comes in the wake of new scholarship opportunities for minorities and new admission criteria.

The Ex-Students' Association created the Texas Leaders Scholarship Program, a financial aid program designed to increase diversity and counter effects of the anti-affirmative action court ruling known as Hopwood.

Five minority law students so far have been awarded $7,500 scholarships, The Daily Texan reported Thursday.

Eleanor Moore, scholarship coordinator for the association, said she expects more recipients to be named soon.

DALLAS — An 11-year-old boy who told police he beat and sexually assaulted a 3-year-old girl then testified that he only beat her was found guilty of both acts Thursday.

Jurors found the fourth-grader guilty on two counts of sexual assault and one count of injuring a child in the April-9 attack. He was found innocent on a third sexual assault charge.

The boy faces up to 40 years in state custody. The punishment phase began immediately. It will be decided by the six-man, six-woman jury that convicted him after seven hours of deliberations. The boy testified Wednesday that he dropped the toddler down a concrete embankment, hit her and stepped on her, but he denied any sexual contact.

WESLACO — With a drought drying up water levels, Valley growers face another year of weather-related economic losses, predicts Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

Perry said the drought will cause $97 million in losses for the region's cotton, grain sorghum, sugar cane and corn crops in 1998.

Farmers aren't hopeful that the season will turn around, either, said Charles Ray Krupala, who grows dryland cotton and grain in eastern Willacy County.

"We really needed a good year," he told the Valley Morning Star of Harlingen for a story published Thursday. "But it's turning into the worst one yet."

AUSTIN — A federal judge has postponed a decision on whether the city's cleaning of Barton Springs pool violates federal law and harms the Barton Springs salamander, an endangered species.

U.S. District Judge Sam Sparks on Wednesday heard arguments in a case that could lead to the closing of the popular, spring-fed swimming hole — an Austin landmark.

"This is not just any pool," Sparks said.

At issue is whether the city has the correct permit required to clean the pool. The city has applied for but not received a permit that would allow "incidental taking," a broad term that can mean everything from harassing or capturing an endangered species to wounding or killing it.

Austin lawyer Robert Kleeman, representing two scientists, argued that the city cannot clean the pool while it awaits that permit. Not cleaning the pool could lead to its closing.

AUSTIN — In his calls to the city of Temple's 911 dispatcher, Stephan Peterson became increasingly distraught.

He told the dispatcher that his wife, who suffered from asthma, was in respiratory arrest. He gave directions to their home.

But the dispatcher told him a different address was listed on the 911 screen — and that's where the ambulance went.

After five calls, the ambulance finally reached the right address. Hilda Peterson, 47, was dead, two months before the couple's 16th wedding anniversary.

GALVESTON — Once every two years, harpists come from around the world to honor their instruments and the lilting music they produce. This week, they've plucked their way here.

About 400 harpists have gathered for this year's conference, held biennially since 1984 for the chance to exchange musical knowledge during workshops and to enjoy each other's music, said Mary Radsprinter, coordinator for the 1998 International Folk Harp Conference.

The gathering runs through Sunday and features a performance Saturday night by renowned harpist Patrick Ball. "The harpists who are here are the ones interested in learning more and getting better," said Ms. Radsprinter, who began playing 28 years ago while a junior high student in Milwaukee. Her principal announced the school's orchestra had ordered a harp and needed someone to play it.

"I was the only one to show up," she said. "I sat down, and it was magic."

HOUSTON — When city workers in 20 municipal offices use their water cooler now, they're not drawing refreshment from some faraway, pristine spring.

Actually, the water doesn't come from a spring at all. It's the same stuff coming out of the faucets, only with the fancy name of "Houston Superior" water.

If the municipal taste test works, Houstonians soon might have the chance to buy the same water off their shelves that flows through their taps.

Because the water is bottled at a city plant, City Councilman Chris Bell said it tastes better than the water that flows to homes. Lengthy travels through metal and plastic pipes likely affect how citizens' water tastes from the tap, he said.

BURNET — A 15-year-old boy was being held Thursday in a youth facility in Kerrville on attempted capital murder charges after shooting his mother with an AK-47 rifle on Wednesday.

Officials with the Burnet

County sheriff's office said the boy apparently was upset with her for complaining to the sheriff's office about his father earlier Wednesday.

The mother, 42-year-old Johnnie Vance, underwent surgery to repair a gunshot wound to her right shoulder and was in fair condition at Brackenridge Hospital in Austin on Thursday, according to the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Vance's estranged husband, Paul Vance, 46, was arrested Wednesday afternoon and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon after briefly holding Mrs. Vance with a gun to her head at the family's business, according to a report from the sheriff's office.

Authorities said a preliminary investigation showed that Vance's actions were a result of difficulty in dealing with the estrangement from his wife.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

During our visit to Big Spring recently, we experienced a minor mechanical problem with our car. I had no idea what would be needed to correct it and we dropped the car off at Pollard Chevrolet-Buick-Cadillac, and talked to Russ in the service department. I told him that we were going to San Angelo with my brother-in-law to visit and would not return before closing time, and I would check with him the next morning. He said that would be fine.

The next morning I called Russ and he told me what the problem was and he would have it fixed shortly. After about two hours I went down to pick up the car and he said he needed another part for the repairs that was not in stock, and it would take a couple of days to get it. Since we were intending to leave for North Carolina early the next morning, he said that the problem would not hurt the car to drive back to Carolina. By this time they had computer diagnosed the problem, put a part that did not totally correct the problem and switched back to the original part.

I was totally shocked when they gave me the keys and said there was no charge. In dealing with repair shops and seeing all the horror stories on television and in the papers about people being taken in when they have service work done, it was refreshing to deal with someone like those (folks) at Pollard. They could have charged whatever and I would not have known. Russ had told me when I first went in that it was a $50 charge just for the diagnostics.

You can bet if I ever have car trouble while visiting Big Spring, I will not hesitate to visit Pollard. Not saying the other auto repair shops are dishonest, I just know Pollard Chevrolet-Buick-Cadillac can be trusted.

Thanks, Russ.

Lewinsky is again the key to the presidency

Now that Monica Lewinsky has new lawyers, she is once again the key to a possible towering crisis of the presidency.

Will she save herself from criminal prosecution for swearing falsely that she did not have sexual relations with President Clinton by cutting an immunity deal with special prosecutor Kenneth Starr and then testifying that she was the president's lover? Or will she defy Starr and protect the president by saying that she was just boasting girlishly and untruthfully when she was tape-recorded telling erstwhile friend Linda Tripp and apparently FBI agents that she engaged in sex with Clinton?

CARL ROWAN

Her new lawyers might tell her she cannot take the latter line because they fear Starr has enough other evidence, circumstantial or whatever, to make a jury believe that both Lewinsky and Clinton are liars who have tried to obstruct justice? But these lawyers know that the implications are monumental if she renounces the court affidavit in which she denied having a sexual affair with the president.

Were Lewinsky to testify that she did have sex with Clinton, and in effect say that the president lied in his under-oath statement in the Paula Jones case, we will have a major crisis in the presidency. There is now no question that Starr will move ruthlessly for impeachment, an indictment, or whatever he thinks will wrest the presidency from Clinton.

And there will be a crisis in the lives of several people close to the president, such as lawyer Vernon Jordan, Clinton's White House secretary Betty Currie and others who have testified before the grand jury.

Is it conceivable that, to save herself, Monica would incriminate Jordan and Currie, both of whom befriended her? Jordan admits that he got her both a job and a lawyer.

It is my view that Congress will never impeach Clinton without direct testimony from Lewinsky that he lied about their relationship and asked her to lie. Even if Monica so testifies, impeachment might still be impossible because almost all Democrats and some Republicans find the effort to unseat a president on what is fundamentally a sex charge repugnant.

Starr's aides make the dubious argument that Mr. Clinton might simply be indicted. Even if indictment of a sitting president were legal, Starr would win the Powerball Lottery before he would find a jury in the District of Columbia that would convict the president, no matter how "serious" Starr says Clinton's crimes are.

One can even reasonably doubt that a jury here would convict Lewinsky were she to refuse a Starr deal and get indicted. Too many potential jurors here believe Starr is abusing Lewinsky in a brazenly politically-motivated attempt to overthrow Clinton.

But everything about this bitter case will change if and when Monica testifies. The president has kept his lips sealed in the face of great media criticism because his lawyers have convinced him that it would be foolhardy for him to say anything until he knows what Lewinsky will do and say.

The former White House intern is in a terrible bind, with prison up one path and total humiliation up the other. But at least she now has two very savvy lawyers. It will be more than fascinating to see how they manage to protect her without throwing Clinton and his friends into the clutches of Kenneth Starr.

All the news that's unfit to print

Buried in an AP dispatch from Moscow was a line that showed Russia has truly shed the last vestiges of its old totalitarian government:

DALE McFEATTERS

Boris Yeltsin urged Russia's media to avoid gloomy coverage of the nation's events... 'It is easy to find where things are going wrong in our country,' Yeltsin said in a regular radio address. But press freedom 'does not mean wantonness and unabashed cynicism.'

Yeltsin posed a tricky technical problem for reporters and editors. How do you put a positive spin on the Moscow stock market losing half its value since the beginning of the year? 'Good news for Russian bears! If you shorted the market, you're a big winner, unlike, of course, those millions of investors who were wiped out...'

Or the yield on one-year Russian T-bills going to 150 percent? 'Suddenly, wallpapering your bathroom just got cheaper, assuming you still have a bathroom...'

Or the coal miners striking because they haven't been paid in months? 'Heeding U.S. Vice President Gore's call for a reduction in fossil fuel use, Russia's miners quit digging coal and, to further cut global-warming emissions, stopped all train traffic on the Trans-Siberian railroad...'

In the bad old days, the Kremlin would have just started shooting reporters and editors until the press got the hang of the party line. Attentive readers of the Soviet press in 1941 thought relations between Hitler and Stalin were fine, right until the German tanks showed up in the front yard.

The old government-controlled Soviet press gave its readers a relentless diet of good news, or at least what the leadership considered good news: factory hands working overtime and cheerfully declining to be paid for it, beaming peasants harvesting record amounts of grain (even as the starving readers were boiling the newspaper to make a nourishing gruel) and smiling group portraits of the Kremlin leadership. Over time, the group got steadily smaller as Stalin had them shot.

The result was that nobody believed the Soviet press, except the leadership which seemed genuinely surprised to find how much they were hated.

Most government leaders believe, at some level, that the news would be good if only the press would write it that way. This theory is usually expressed in some variation of: "Why doesn't the press write about the thousands of planes that land safely every day instead of focusing on the one that crashed?"

The better government leaders get over it, and Yeltsin showed that he may be in that class when he admitted that it is easy to find where things go wrong — the implication being that if the press wanted to find something going right, the press would have to get out and dig for it.

Periodically, a tycoon — inevitably one with no experience in publishing — announces that he is going to start a newspaper that will print nothing but cheerful, upbeat, wholesome stories. The tycoon briefly basks in the praise of politicians, preachers and professional moralists before going broke. The readers stay away in droves, and, once the complimentary subscriptions run out, the politicians, preachers, etc. won't renew if they have to pay.

In denouncing "wantonness and unabashed cynicism," Yeltsin shows he still has a ways to go. The readers like a little restrained wantonness — rowdiness, lust, mischief, unpredictability — in their news. They do, however, prefer their cynicism abashed.

One suspect in Colorado shooting dead, two others still on the run

BLUFF, Utah (AP) — In a scene reminiscent of the Wild West, authorities said two survivalists suspected of killing one lawman and wounding two others had been cornered today in a canyon in the Utah wilderness.

A third suspect was dead, apparently after shooting himself and leaving pipe bombs attached to his body.

Scores of law-enforcement officers, including National Guard troops and SWAT teams, have converged on southeast Utah, not far from the Four Corners area where Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid used to hide from posses led by Pinkerton detectives.

The manhunt began last Friday in Colorado, after a police officer Dale Claxton, 45, was slain in a barrage of gunfire in Cortez, 50 miles east. Searchers found nothing but a pair of tracks until Thursday.

That's when Kelly Bradford, a San Juan County sheriff's deputy, was shot as he checked a report that a camouflage-clad gunman had fired at a social worker. Bradford, 35, was in serious condition at a Colorado hospital.

Bluff, a colorful artists' colony of about 300 people, was evacuated after Bradford was shot near the San Juan River. Found 300 yards away was the camouflage-clad body of Robert Matthew Mason, 26, of Durango, Colo. — one of the three men wanted in Claxton's slaying.

Authorities did not know if Mason had shot Bradford. Sheriff Mike Lacey said Mason appeared to have shot himself in the head. A bomb squad removed the pipe bombs.

Officers followed tracks until dark Thursday before the ground search for Alan "Monte" Pilon, 30, of Dove Creek, Colo., and Jason Wayne McVean, 26, of Durango was called for the night. Helicopters with night-vision equipment searched through the night.

Colorado Gov. Roy Romer mobilized 200 National Guard troops Wednesday to join 300 officers from four states who have been searching for the fugitives since Claxton's patrol car was raked with automatic rifle fire. He had pulled over a stolen vehicle.

The suspects later had a shootout with other officers — wounding two — before fleeing into the canyons. All three were identified as survivalists.

Bradford was shot after state Division of Family Services social worker Steve Wilcox, who had been visiting Navajo families, encountered a man dressed in camouflage clothing and carrying a high-powered rifle.

"(Steve) was driving back from having lunch by the river when he saw some boots in the road," said his wife, Janet. That's when he saw the man hiding in some bushes "pointing a rifle at him."

Wilcox sped away and heard a gunshot and "saw dust kick up," his wife said. He called 911 on his car phone and met Bradford, who put on a protective vest before he was shot.

"He's a pretty young officer and his wife is expecting a baby in a couple of weeks," Mrs. Wilcox said of Bradford. "These men are awful. They don't ask questions. They just come out shooting."

Police said they found three pipe bombs in Pilon's camper and two more bombs in Mason's pickup, which was parked next to the camper near Durango. The bombs were detonated.

Earlier Thursday, at a police roadblock three miles north of town, traffic was heavy coming out and at least five school buses were headed toward town to help ferry residents away from the community 35 miles northwest of the spot where Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona meet.

Authorities also cleared rafters from the San Juan River.

The area around where the fugitives were believed cornered today is a mixture of Bureau of Land Management, tribal and private property.

"This is sacred area for the Navajo," said Bill George, 27, a Navajo from Bluff. The ridge is one of the tribe's sacred arrowheads they believe carved the world.

Terry Nichols gets life term

DENVER (AP) — Calling him an "enemy of the Constitution," a federal judge sentenced Terry Nichols to life in prison Thursday after Nichols refused to answer questions about how he helped plan and pull off the Oklahoma City bombing.

U.S. District Judge Richard Matsch said the deadliest terrorist attack on U.S. soil was designed to undermine the government.

"This is not a murder case," he said. "It is a crime against the Constitution of the United States. That's the victim. ... Terry Nichols has been proven to be an enemy of the Constitution."

Matsch had indicated he would consider a lesser sentence if Nichols revealed new information about the bombing. But Nichols declined an opportunity to speak.

Matsch said Nichols and co-defendant Timothy McVeigh were on a campaign to disrupt and intimidate the U.S. government, but that the bombing drew Americans together instead.

"There was no anarchy; there was no reign of terror," he said. "We proceeded with the orderly process of recovery and restoration."

Nichols showed no emotion when Matsch announced the sentence. His ex-wife, Lana Padilla, and their son, Josh, wept. His wife, Marife, and his parents were not in the courtroom.

"I hope Mom is up there dancing," Angela Richerson, whose mother, Norma Jean Johnson, was killed, said in Oklahoma City. "We did deserve this big time."

Outside court, Marsha Kight, who lost her 23-year-old daughter, Frankie Merrell, said simply: "God bless America."

Nichols' attorney, Michael Tigar, said he would appeal. "We're going to go forward here and attempt to reunite the Nichols family," he said.

Nichols, 43, was convicted Dec. 23 of conspiracy and involuntary manslaughter in the April 19, 1995, bombing that killed 168 people and injured hundreds. He was acquitted of murder and weapons offenses.

The jury deadlocked over whether to give him the death penalty on the conspiracy conviction, so the sentence fell to Matsch, who under law could impose no more than life in prison without parole.

Federal prosecutors wanted a life sentence, arguing that Nichols worked "side by side" with McVeigh to plan and carry out the bombing.

Defense attorneys had recommended no more than seven years, insisting Nichols was building "a life, not a bomb."

They also had said Nichols could not speak freely before his sentence because anything he said could be used against him if he is tried on state murder charges in Oklahoma, where prosecutors have vowed to seek the death penalty.

Matsch ordered Nichols to serve eight concurrent six-year terms on the involuntary manslaughter convictions — for the eight federal agents killed — and to pay $14.5 million in restitution for destroying the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building.

Before sentencing, bombing survivors and relatives of the victims urged Matsch to put Nichols behind bars for life.

"I'm here to pray the court will not show leniency," survivor Patti Hall said.

Rudy Guzman, whose brother, Randy, was killed, said: "Please keep him locked up so he'll never hurt anyone again."

Train crash

Victims still buried in smashed train

ESCHEDE, Germany (AP) — Rail officials yanked dozens of Germany's fastest trains out of service Thursday while rescuers extricated more bodies and investigators pointed to a wheel failure as a possible cause of the country's deadliest rail accident in more than 50 years.

By Thursday afternoon, 90 bodies had been recovered from the wreckage of the Hamburg-bound InterCity Express, which crashed and broke apart at 125 mph Wednesday morning in Eschede, a small town 35 miles north of Hanover.

At least 100 people died, state officials said; some of the victims were still trapped beneath the ruins of a concrete overpass that came crashing down upon the train.

Another 200 people were injured, 95 of whom were treated in hospitals, officials said.

Deutsche Bahn took all 60 of its first-generation ICE trains, which are from 5 to 7 years old, out of service for inspections as they finished their runs Thursday, idling more than half of the nation's high-speed trains.

"We plan on trains' being delayed, but we will ask people to understand as we feel this is necessary for their safety," rail spokesman Martin Katz said. "We are going to do everything possible to make sure that this tragic accident won't happen again."

Earlier, officials had lowered the speed limit for all ICE trains to 100 mph until the entire fleet could be inspected.

Expecting to find more bodies, rescue crews hammered away at the ruins of the overpass to reach the mangled wreckage of two cars: a 48-seat first-class car and a 24-seat dining car. It was not known how many people were in the cars at the time of the crash.

Authorities set up a reception center for worried relatives in a sports hall in Eschede. The window shades were drawn and a sign warning "No Press" was attached to plastic sheets covering the door.

Bodies and body parts were taken to Hanover for identification.

"The goal must be to identify the bodies as quickly as possible," Chancellor Helmut Kohl said after visiting the crash scene. He pledged $550,000 in government aid, matching donations of the same size from the state government and the railway.

Nearly five dozen clergy members and counselors counseled relatives and rescue workers.

"I've never seen so many injured, so much destruction and so many dead. I believe this is what all of us are experiencing," the Rev. Cristoph Kuenkel told a few hundred people who gathered Thursday evening for a memorial service at the town's Lutheran church.

Horst Stuchly, president of the federal railway office, said there was no indication of human error and that a break in a wheel was emerging as a possible cause. In an interview on ARD television, Stuchly added that part of the train derailed about 300 yards before the train reached the overpass.

The locomotive separated from the rest of the train at the overpass — one of the events investigators are considering as a potential cause of the crash.

A spokesman for the Federal Transport Ministry told AP that a broken wheel on the first car behind the lead locomotive may have been a factor. She did not elaborate.

The Rheinischer Merkur reported Thursday that federal rail experts found signs one of the coaches derailed fully 30 miles before the overpass. The section continued along the rail bed until a bend near the overpass, the newspaper said.

Police in Celle said parts of a train were found on the track 30 miles from the bridge, but they gave no details on the parts and were uncertain whether they were from the crashed train.

Officials said it appeared that the fifth car of the 12-car train hit the bridge. The back end of the car was broken off; the fourth car veered off the rails and rolled onto its side, while three other cars jackknifed farther up the line.

I Corinthians 7:29

What God Has Joined Together...

The marriage ceremony, during which a man and woman become husband and wife, can be a very emotional experience, and many of the guests and family members may often be seen crying tears of joy. When the bride and groom are reciting their vows, those present are usually calling to mind their own wedding day, or they may just be thinking about all of the blessings and joys in store for the newly married couple.

Regardless of the reason for tears at a wedding, the words "for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health," have a special meaning for everyone, and they are a promise that should not be taken lightly. Marriage was instituted by God, and God is love, and love in a marriage is necessary for a lasting relationship. A husband and wife who love and respect each other, and keep God in their marriage, should have a strong union that no one can separate.

... a man leaves his father and his mother and cleaves to his wife, and they become one flesh.

Sculpture search ends right at home

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN
Features Editor

When the Rev. Jeremiah Murphy, priest for St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Coahoma, began looking for a sculpture to honor the church's 50th anniversary, he searched across the country.

But he soon found himself right back at home, knocking on the door of Coahoma resident Dale Drewery, an artist and construction worker.

"I was looking for a statue," Murphy said. "I mentioned it to him in conversation and he said, 'Let me make it.'"

Drewery had been suggested by a member of the church who knew he was an artist, although he had never made anything like what Murphy envisioned.

Now Drewery's vision of St. Joseph, the "foster father" of Jesus Christ, stands between the church's sanctuary and education buildings.

"It's something I've waited a long time to do," Drewery said of the work. "This is what I was trained to do, and I just sat on my training."

The fiberglass statue covers a steel frame. Painted in bright colors, it stands about 5 feet tall on a grotto fashioned by Drewery in honeycomb limestone. In front, a fountain is surrounded by hand-carved stones.

Drewery estimates the statue took about 300 hours of work,

'It's something I've waited a long time to do.'

-Dale Drewery

mostly done in his living room. The church paid him only for materials.

"It is more and better than I ever expected," said Murphy, who will unveil the finished product for parishioners Sunday. On Saturday, June 13, Bishop Michael Pfeiffer from San Angelo will be the church's guest for a 50th anniversary celebration, including an outdoor mass and blessing ceremony for the statue.

For his work, Murphy gave Drewery some pictures of the saint, including one that closely resembles the finished product. There is one major difference, however.

"He has given me the Texan St. Joseph," Murphy joked. "In the pictures, he is small and kind of thin."

Drewery's St. Joseph has large shoulders and a thick chest. He holds a staff covered with lilies, an image found in many pictures of the saint.

Still to come are some additional landscaping and park benches Drewery will build around the statue.

A Presbyterian, Drewery said he was very pleased to be able to meet the parishioners and Murphy, with whom he became friends.

Artist and construction worker Dale Drewery (left) and Father Jeremiah Murphy admire the statue of St. Joseph which will be unveiled Sunday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Coahoma.

"It's just kind of a lifelong dream," he said. "The people here have been marvelous."

Anyone is welcome to join St. Joseph's in their celebration. Pfeiffer will conduct mass beginning at 3 p.m.

Rev. Eddie Tubbs

First Baptist calls minister from N.M.

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN
Features Editor

First Baptist Church of Big Spring has called the Rev. Eddie Tubbs as its new pastor.

Tubbs, a native of Dumas, is currently serving the First Baptist Church of Farmington, N.M., where he has been pastor since 1994. He has also served as pastor, associate pastor, chaplain and Baptist Student Union Director in New Mexico and Texas.

Vaughn Martin, chairman of the pastoral search committee, said they considered more than 40 applicants before choosing Dean.

"He's very enthusiastic," Martin said. "We looked at what he's done with programs and the growth in churches where he's been, and decided that was what we wanted for Big Spring."

Although First Baptist has about 1,200 members, it still has trouble — as do many churches — with low attendance, Martin said.

"In at least two other churches, he's brought great growth," Martin said.

TUBBS

A committee of seven members has been meeting once or twice a week since February to search for the new pastor, since the departure of the Rev. Kenneth Patrick late last year.

Tubbs' wife, Connie, is a schoolteacher and they have two daughters, Jessica, a student at Wayland Baptist University, and Jennifer, who will enter ninth grade this fall.

Tubbs' education includes a bachelor of arts in psychology from Howard Payne University in Brownwood, and a master's of religious education from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

Big Spring Woman's Club

The Big Spring Woman's Club held its annual organizational meeting in May to select projects, programs and fund raisers for the 1998-99 club year. The Kid's Zone park was selected as the Club's community improvement project and fund raiser recipient. To raise proceeds for the park, a golf tournament has been scheduled for July 18 at 8:30 a.m. at the Big Spring Country Club. For more information call Julie Wolf at 263-7664, or to register for the tournament call the Big Spring Country Club pro shop at 267-5354.

Proceeds from the golf tournament, plus the club's budgeted community improvement project allocations will be used to purchase items such as picnic tables and park benches. These items will be used to accessorize a new pavilion, which will be built with the $3,000 donated in April by the Big Spring Woman's Club.

Amy Overton, president of the Big Spring Woman's Club, "We selected this project after talking with Becky Crane, from the City Parks Department. They are working on the exterior areas of the play area by adding restrooms and landscaping, but voiced a need for picnic tables and benches. Our club went a step further by donating the $3,000 to build a covered pavilion for parties and family gatherings with the plans of adding picnic tables and benches with our See CLUB, Page 8A.

Gift of a lifetime: Love your children's mother

Somewhere I once read that the greatest gift that a father can give to his children is to love their mother.

That may be a bit of an overstatement because fathers should also show love for their children in many other ways.

Providing for their physical needs, making sure that they get an education, going with them to church, and spending time with them are just a few.

Yet, when fathers love their children's mother they give them a gift that will last a lifetime. When fathers love their children's mother, they show their children how to love. More than that, they show their children how to put value in marriage.

In our throw-away world, marriage has become a victim. It has been reported that for every two marriages that occur in the United States every year, one marriage ends in divorce. I would like to think that such a statistic is inflated. But I do know that marriage is not bound by the sense of commitment that it once was in this country.

Far too many couples are rejecting the needs of their children for their own selfish ends. Fathers and mothers toss their marriages aside with little regard for the needs of their children.

A not so uncommon excuse goes something like this: "I know the children will be hurt, but I just can't live this way anymore. Besides, children are resilient. They will bounce back." The fact of the matter is that statistically speaking, children don't bounce back from divorce, they divorce when they grow up.

As the head of the family, the father has the responsibility to instill in his children the values upon which a strong and enduring society is built. From the beginning of creation, God has intended for the family to be one of the foundation stones for society to build solid lives.

For the family to fulfill that purpose, husbands must love their wives, even as Christ also loved the church (Ephesians 5:25) and fathers must bring their children up in the training and instruction of the Lord (Ephesians 6:4).

Fathers, when you extinguish your love for your children's mother you have failed your children at the most fundamental level. You have failed to teach them what real love is. Instead, you teach them that marriage is merely a selfish endeavor. You teach them that love takes the easy way out. You teach them that marriage is disposable.

Actually, the greatest gift you can give your children is to bring them up in the Lord. That becomes increasingly unlikely apart from loving your wife, you children's mother, 'til death do you part.

Yo-yo fad is back, updated for the '90s

By AMY MCRARY

Scrrips Howard News Service

Walk the dog. Shoot the moon. Rock the cradle. An ancient toy, updated with a '90s spin, is the hot craze in this up-and-down world of fads and children.

What goes down may come up — or sleep or creep or loop — these days. Yo-yos, around since the ancient Chinese and Greeks, are back in high-tech designer style. Small enough to slip into a pocket and slip out during recess, yo-yos can get confiscated at some schools.

"Teachers have the largest collection of yo-yos in the country," says John Stangle, president of the American Yo-Yo Association.

But these aren't the yo-yos baby boomers tried after tossing down their hula-hoops. In this "world of yo," the colorful wheels on a string cost more and do more. The classic versions remain, but today's yo-yos are hardly simple.

Yo-yos now can include transaxles, clutch systems, ball bearings and brake pads. One — the popular "Brain" from Yomega Corp. of Fall River, Mass. — returns automatically to the user's hand. Their names are as fancy as their workings — "Fireball," "Turbo Bumble Bee," "Viper" and "Terminator Tornado" — have joined more standard choices named "Butterfly" and "Imperial."

Newer yo-yos untwist so strings can be replaced; a serious yo-yoer can go through a couple of strings a week. Many souped-up yo-yos have maintenance requirements. Playmaxx, for example, cautions users of its $30 to $35 Turbo Bumble Bee to guard against dirt and water to help protect the toy's ball bearing and brake pads. And while a thrifty parent can still find some yo-yos for $3 to $5, the most-wanted versions are from $10 to $50. Some yo-yos even carry a $100 price tag — not a toy to toss in the kitchen drawer after a few spins.

Yo-yos never go away but seem to rise in popularity every few years, say toy analysts.

Corkery signs sixth Lady Hawk recruit

By JOHN H. WALKER
Managing Editor

Howard College's Lady Hawks added their sixth recruit of the year Thursday with the announced signing of 5-foot, 8-inch Alesha Love of San Diego, Calif., Samuel Morse High School.

Love averaged 24 points and seven rebounds on a team that finished 25-2 and won the California Eastern League championship.

"She had teammates that signed with Alabama and UNLV, but she was the top player on the team," explained Lady Hawks coach Matt Corkery. "She just didn't have the grades to go Division I."

Corkery said Love "has all the offensive skills" but needs to work on her defense.

"We believe that Alesha can make big contributions in our program immediately," Corkery said. "She's a great scorer. She can create her own shot, score from behind the 3-point line and finish strong at the basket."

In addition to her scoring and rebounding stats, Love averaged six assists and four steals and earned first-team All-Eastern League honors.

"She's just really talented offensively," Corkery added.

Love will be joining a Howard College team that finished 34-3 and claimed third place in the National Junior College Athletic Association national tournament in Salina, Kan.

The Lady Hawks return two starters — guards Karlita Washington and Ricka McKee — along with guard Kim Robertson and inside players Latasha Moore and Jovanae St. Cyr.

Other players who have committed to joining the program include 5-4 Shaketha Ashley of Compton, Calif., 6-2 Tawana Horn of Los Angeles, 6-0 Yolanda Grant of Flatonia, 5-9 Bertha Collins of Aldine Nimitz and 5-6 Ashanti Nix of Levelland.

Grant was one of the leading players on Flatonia's Class 2A state championship team while Nix, who sat out this past season, helped lead Levelland to the Class 4A state title her senior year.

Corkery said he still wanted to recruit "a couple of big kids" to the program and that he had visits scheduled over the next couple of weeks by players who are 6-2 and 6-4.

"If we can get some size inside, I'll be more comfortable," Corkery, who will take a 62-8 record into his third season as Lady Hawks head coach.

Coahoma celebration scheduled for Sunday

HERALD Staff Report

COAHOMA — A community-wide celebration honoring Coahoma's state champion Bulldogettes softball team will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Coahoma Elementary School cafeteria.

Bill Read, the city's mayor, will be among those officially congratulating the Bulldogettes, who brought Coahoma High School its first ever state championship with a win over Blooming Grove in Austin two weeks ago.

Members of the team will be introduced during the event and refreshments will be served. The public is invited to attend.

Abernathy-Coahoma series to hinge on pitching depth

By JOHN A. MOSELEY
Sports Editor

While Abernathy coach Rodney Gardner believes his team's staff of five pitchers gives his Antelopes an advantage in today's start of the Region I, Class 2A championship series, don't expect Coahoma's Trey Morgan to agree.

The two teams will square off in Game I of the series at 6 p.m. on the manicured turf of McMurry University's Walt Driggers Field. Game II will begin 30 minutes following the end of the opener.

A third game, if necessary, will see the two teams returning to Abilene for a 2 p.m. Saturday showdown.

"There's no question they're deep in pitching talent," Morgan said as he prepared for the Bulldogs' defense of their Region I crown. "But we've got a couple of excellent pitchers in Delvin (White) and T.J. (Green) that have proven they can get the job done and go the distance in the process."

"I really wouldn't say either one is better than the other," Morgan explained, noting that White will be the Bulldogs' starter for Game I, while Green will pitch the nightcap. "Really, about the only difference is that one of them is left-handed and the other throws with his right."

White will bring an 8-2 record and a 1.92 ERA into the opener. In 59.1 innings of work this season, he's struck out 107 and allowed just 17 runs.

Green, who went the distance in Monday's regional semifinal win over New Deal, is 8-0 on the year. His ERA is a more than respectable 2.01 and he's struck out 95 batters in 59.1 innings of work.

The key to Bulldog fortunes, Morgan says, will be continued hitting and aggressive offensive play, as well as limiting defensive mistakes.

"We've been able to do pretty much the same thing in all of our playoff games ... make a few errors early, but settled down to play really good defense and put the ball in play, forcing the other guys to handle the ball."

Coahoma senior T.J. Green delivers a pitch during his complete game win over New Deal in Monday's regional semifinal. Green, who'll start today's second game of the best-of-three regional finals series with Abernathy, will carry an 8-0 record into the nightcap. Sophomore Delvin White will pitch the first game.

Morgan said he has no intention of trying to do anything different.

"Hopefully, we can continue to keep our mistakes to a minimum and keep up the pressure, causing them some problems," he noted.

The Bulldogs have consistently come up with 10 hits per game in playoff wins over Stamford, Tahoka and New Deal and in all three games, forced their opponents into seven more errors.

"I'm convinced we'll be just fine if we keep hitting the ball like we have been," Morgan explained. "We've been aggressive at the plate and it's paid off for us."

"We've gotten 10 hits in every one of our playoffs. And we've also been very aggressive on the base paths," he added. "That's forced some of the errors our opponents have made and we've been able to make the most of them."

Henderson keys Oakland's 6-1 win over Texas

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A blend of speed and power made Rickey Henderson one of the game's premier leadoff hitters. Nothing has changed in his 19th year in the big leagues.

Henderson has been displaying that rare combination on a daily basis for the Oakland Athletics, with the latest instance coming in Thursday's 6-1 victory over the AL West-leading Texas Rangers.

The 39-year-old outfielder hit a tie-breaking, three-run homer in the seventh. It was his third home run in as many games, and helped make a winner of Jimmy Haynes (4-2), who teamed with Bill Taylor on a five-hitter.

"I still enjoy the game and my body has been great to me," said Henderson, who made a key defensive play, running down Domingo Cedenzo's third-inning liner in left field and taking a hit away with a diving catch.

"The guy really takes care of himself," Oakland manager Art Howe said. "He's been going out there just about every day for us, and he still gets the bat through the zone."

Henderson, whose 22 stolen bases tie him with Texas' Tom Goodwin for the AL lead, has six homers this year and is in the midst of a four-game roll, going 5-for-16 with a double, three homers, eight RBIs, six runs and three walks in that span.

"I've been seeing the ball really well for the last two weeks," said Henderson, signed as a free agent prior to this season for his fourth tour with the A's.

"I've been hitting the ball pretty much on the button. I haven't been coming up with that many hits because it seems like I had been hitting the ball right at people. But it so happens in the last three days, the balls I've been hitting have been getting out the ball park."

The score was tied 1-1 in the bottom of the seventh, when Miguel Tejada doubled and Ryan Christenson rolled a bunt single down the third-base line that no one picked up.

Henderson drove Rick Helling's first offering into the left-field bleachers as Oakland won for just the fifth time in the past 15 games.

"Rickey Henderson is no punch-and-Judy," Texas manager Johnny Oates said. "I've seen Rickey hit a lot of balls out. It comes down to the one pitch, but a lot of things happened before that."

Helling (7-3), who failed in his third try for his eighth victory, said a miscommunication between him and third baseman Luis Alcega led to their failure to go after Christenson's bunt, allowing him to beat it out.

"It's frustrating because they're willing to give you an out," said Helling, who allowed four runs on eight hits over seven innings. "But there was no way to get it and there was a little miscommunication between Luis and myself. The next thing you know he hits a home run and it's 4-1."

Haynes, acquired in a midseason trade with Baltimore last year, allowed one run on five hits in 7 1/3 innings and Taylor got five outs for his 10th save.

"Rickey's homer was a huge lift," Haynes said. "It gave us some breathing room."

Henderson said Haynes deserved it.

"The way Jimmy pitched, we just needed to go out there get him a few runs," Henderson said. "He did an outstanding job for us."

Notes: Henderson, baseball's career stolen base leader, scored his 1,948th career run, putting him within one of Stan Musial for sixth place. ... Oakland rookie Christenson had his first three-hit game, including a two-run double in the eighth. ... The teams finished in 2 hours and 24 minutes, Oakland's quickest game this year.

Jordan looks to make most of Hornacek matchup in Game 2

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Admittedly dog tired, losers of four straight playoff road games and down 0-1 to the Utah Jazz, the Chicago Bulls would seem to be in big trouble going into Game 2 of the NBA Finals.

So why are they all yukking it up? Why is coach Phil Jackson mugging for photographers? Why is nobody the least upset that Dennis Rodman took an overnight trip to Las Vegas just hours after Wednesday night's 88-85 overtime loss? Michael Jordan kidded that some of his coach's spiritual serenity is wearing off on the players.

"I think it's that Zen Buddhism stuff," Jordan said. "We're practicing smiling when we may be frustrated inside so we can relieve some tension. It's an art form. It takes about 10 years."

Time seems to be running out for the Bulls. A loss tonight would drop them to 0-2, a place Chicago has never been in its run to five titles in the 1990s.

"I have an inner confidence about ourselves and what we are capable of accomplishing," Jordan said. "One game does not deteriorate that. It's the ultimate apex of the season, but don't fight that apex with anger and frustration."

Instead, Jordan is banging away at the piano in his hotel suite, taking out his frustration on the ivory and plotting for a big game tonight.

"Well, I played at it," Jordan said.

"Don't confuse the issue here. I pushed the keys. I don't really know what I'm doing, but it's relaxation for me, that's all."

Jeff Hornacek will start out guarding Jordan. Bryon Russell and Shandon Anderson also will get their turns.

Hornacek insists he feels fine, but he looks as if his sore Achilles' tendon is bothering him.

"It looks to me like Jeff Hornacek's really struggling," Jackson said.

Trojans earn a third shot at LSU following 5-4 CWS win

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — By the time both teams leave Omaha, Southern Cal and LSU will know each other pretty well.

The schools met today for the third time during the College World Series. This time, the winner advances to Saturday's championship game against Arizona State. The loser goes home.

"We're a good matchup," LSU first baseman Eddy Furniss said. "We've played two very close games."

Seth Etherton had 10 strikeouts in eight innings and Seth Davidson tripled in what proved to be the deciding run as USC beat two-time defending champ LSU 5-4 on Thursday.

The Trojans (47-17) reversed a 12-10 loss to LSU in the opening round on Saturday. In that game, Etherton — the Anaheim Angels' top choice in this week's amateur draft — allowed six of the Tigers' CWS record eight homers.

"It was definitely gratifying to come back and get after these guys," said Etherton (18-3), the draft's 18th overall pick.

"I think I had a better curveball," he said. "It had a better snap. I was able to locate the ball better and go in and out. It wasn't that big of a difference, other than I was able to keep the ball down."

Etherton struck out slugger Brad

Cresse — his second strikeout of the eighth inning — with a runner on second base to end an LSU scoring threat.

In the bottom of the eighth, Davidson tripled in pinch-runner Jeff DePippo to put the Trojans ahead 5-3.

"I just looked for a good pitch," Davidson said. "He gave me one with the first pitch and I drove it the other way."

In the ninth, the Tigers (48-18) closed to 5-4 against Southern Cal closer Jack Krawczyk as Wes Davis scored on Jeff Leamont's two-out single.

Krawczyk, who struck out two in the ninth, finished the game when he got Danny Higgins on a fly to center. It was his 22nd save this season and 48th of his career, both tying NCAA records.

He said the records never entered his mind.

"I just had to go out and do my job," Krawczyk said. "I threw my fastball and struck out a guy. That was good. I threw the ball and got a flyout to center field. That was No. 48. That was good."

The Tigers knew it would be tough to rally against Krawczyk.

"Krawczyk is like hitting a knuckleballer without a knuckleball," Furniss said. "He throws it up there and it's just like a gravity ball. It goes up, and then just drops off."

Gooden wins first game for Indians

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the first time in his long major league career, Dwight Gooden won a game when he wasn't wearing a New York uniform.

Gooden, who pitched only for the Mets and Yankees prior to this season, pitched six strong innings to help the Cleveland Indians beat the Minnesota Twins 3-2 Thursday night.

Making just his third start of the season after being sidelined by a sore pitching arm, Gooden (1-2) gave up six hits and just one run — a second-inning homer to Marty Cordova.

"I think anytime a pitcher the caliber of a Doc Gooden takes the mound, you expect the best," Indians manager Mike Hargrove said.

Gooden, a 33-year-old former Rookie of the Year and Cy Young winner whose career was derailed by drug problems and injuries, signed with Cleveland in the offseason after two seasons with the Yankees.

"I always expect good things out of myself," said Gooden, who walked one and struck out three. "You hope your hitters can get something going and you can keep them in the game."

Gooden lost his first two starts this season, giving up nine hits and six runs in 8 2/3 innings. But he shut down the Twins on Thursday night, and got offensive support from Jim Thome, who hit a three-run homer in the fourth off Brad Radke (7-4).

It was a much different result than the last time Gooden pitched in Minnesota. Last Aug. 8, while with the Yankees, Gooden allowed six runs in two-thirds of an inning, matching the shortest outing of his 14-year career.

In other American League games, it was Toronto 9, Detroit 6; Chicago 7, Kansas City 1; Oakland 6, Texas 1; Boston 9, Baltimore 1; New York 6, Tampa Bay 1; and Anaheim 6, Seattle 2.

In National League games, Los Angeles beat St. Louis 3-2, San Diego beat Houston 5-1 and Colorado defeated Arizona 5-2.

Blue Jays 9, Tigers 6 Shawn Green and Carlos Delgado hit two-run homers and Ed Sprague had a three-run double as Toronto handed Detroit its fifth straight loss.

Woody Williams (7-2) won his fourth straight decision despite giving up six runs and seven hits in six innings. Randy Myers pitched the ninth for his 14th save.

Tony Clark and Damian Easley homered for the visiting Tigers.

White Sox 7, Royals 1 Jamie Navarro pitched an eight hitter and Jeff Abbott hit a three-run homer as Chicago won its 11th straight at Kauffman Stadium.

Navarro (5-6), who snapped a personal three-game losing streak, benefited from inning-ending double plays in the first, second, sixth and seventh.

Red Sox 9, Orioles 1 Bret Saberhagen allowed one run in seven innings and Darren Lewis drove in three runs as Boston rebounded from its only shutout loss of the season.

Saberhagen (7-3) allowed seven hits, walked one and struck out three in his longest outing of the season. Lewis went 3-for-5 with an RBI single and his third homer of the season.

B.J. Surhoff homered for the visiting Orioles.

Yankees 6, Devil Rays 1

Hideki Irabu held Tampa Bay to one run in 7 1/3 innings and Bernie Williams was 3-for-4 with two RBIs as New York won its fourth in a row.

Irabu (5-1), who lowered his league-leading ERA to 1.45, had six strikeouts and four walks. Graeme Lloyd got the final five outs at Yankee Stadium.

The Yankees played without star shortstop Derek Jeter, who was placed on the 15-day disabled list before the game because of a strained abdominal muscle. It was the first game Jeter missed all season.

Angels 6, Mariners 2 Darin Erstad and Gary DiSarcina homered as Anaheim won at Seattle for their fifth straight victory.

Seattle's Ken Griffey Jr. hit his 22nd homer of the season, moving ahead of teammate Alex Rodriguez for the AL lead. It was Griffey's third homer in three games.

The Angels completed a 6-1 road trip and moved within 3 games of first-place Texas in the AL West. The Mariners lost their fourth straight and fell seven games under .500 (26-33) for the second time this season.

Dodgers 3, Cardinals 2 Jim Eisenreich scored the winning run in a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals on Charles Johnson's single in the ninth. The Dodgers tied it in the eighth off Curtis King on a two-out, run-scoring single by Eric Karros.

Johnson went 2-for-4 and has 10 hits in his last 23 at-bats after an 0-for-35 spell that began shortly after last month's blockbuster trade.

Scott Radinsky (2-2), the third Los Angeles pitcher, pitched out of a two-on, one-out jam in the top of the ninth to earn the victory.

Padres 5, Astros 1 Andy Ashby became the first big leaguer to pitch three straight complete games this season, and Greg Vaughn hit his 20th homer as San Diego beat visiting Houston.

Ashby (7-4) allowed eight hits and drove in a run with a suicide squeeze in the seventh. He also restored control after Padres pitchers walked 17 Astros in losing the previous two games.

Ashby matched his season-high with eight strikeouts and walked four in his fourth complete game this year. He lost the shutout when Moises Alou led off the ninth with his 12th homer.

Drivers say new TMS surface 'glass smooth'

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Texas Motor Speedway's new surface is getting rave reviews from Indy Racing League drivers. As for that new drainage system, the jury is still out.

Qualifying runs for Saturday's True Value 500K, scheduled for Thursday night, were put off until today after an hour-long downpour soaked the track. Despite some two hours of drying by hurried crews, areas of dampness remained on the inside.

IRL executive director Leo Mehl said the dampness had nothing to do with seepage problems that plagued the track before a recent $3 million overhaul, instead blaming high humidity. And Mehl said there was no hurry to get qualifying in on Thursday.

"The track is as good a racing surface as I've seen," he said. "At the speeds we're running, it begins to be a safety situation. ... And you don't want to be running Indy cars at 1 o'clock in the morning."

Other new track features — a smoother surface with friendlier banks — got strong marks. Through a day of practice, drivers said the track, which was torn up and repaved with a finer aggregate asphalt after complaints by drivers in the NASCAR Texas 500 in April, was among the best. They also said wider turns should make for more exciting racing on Saturday.

"With the exception of a small bump in turn 4, it is glass smooth," said Billy Boat, who drives for A.J. Foyt.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 6

Emphasize work and daily planning; and improve the quality of your life. You need an outlet for your feelings and creativity. Understand what you want, so you can realize it. Guard against taking others' comments too personally. You are especially sensitive this year. If you are single, romance flows. 1999 will be a time to remember. In 1998, you'll do the preparatory work for a long-term connection. If attached, express yourself more this year. You might not always understand what your significant other means. Expect a dynamic, loving winter. SCORPIO pushes your buttons.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You love intensity and passion. Determined to create just that, you do so easily in whatever part of your life you choose. Humor and fun mix. Don't hold back; another needs to see the Ram reveal itself. Caring grows because of honest esty. Tonight: Pull the shades.*

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
When you allow others to make the call, you end up having a wonderful, special day. Touch base with friends, and catch up on news. Right now, you radiate positive energy. It is very hard for others to resist you. Popularity soars, as you let it all hang out. Tonight: Do the social circuit.*

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You have some key projects that need tending, but right now, distractions get the best of you. Air out your feelings involving a loved one. Join together to clear up a project, and you'll open many emotional doors. Tonight: Go for that back massage, or soak in a hot tub.*

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't hesitate to ask for what you want. Loved ones are only too happy to accommodate you. A money matter disillusion you. Talk it over; before you know it, answers come. Let childlike glee emerge. A friend has something for you. Tonight: Don your dancing shoes.*

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Stay secure, and put your best foot forward, even if you are confused. Someone isn't giving you the whole story, or doesn't see clearly either. You are naturally positive and caring. Another reveals his true colors as a result. Tonight: Make it an easy night at home.*

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You make an extra effort, which is no surprise to anyone who knows you. Communications help sort through confusion this morning. Do what you want to do. Get on the phone, and make plans accordingly. You catch up on someone's news, much to your delight. Tonight: Hang out.*

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
You get carried away with overindulging and spending. You welcome the good times. Extremes punctuate the day. Another finally displays his feelings (which you already knew anyway). Curb possessive tendencies. Others care for you.

Tonight: Out on the town.*

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Someone bestows his good will but cannot do enough to make you happy. Accept invitations, go out and enjoy the moment. Your charisma and magnetism lasso in that special person. Be willing to ask for what you want. Tonight: Ready for the world.*

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Take a deep breath, and absorb news. You need a day to lounge and enjoy. One of your greatest qualities is your ability to indulge. Use this ability for yourself right now. Someone wants to do everything to make your life easier. What is stopping you from accepting? Tonight: Get R & R.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You are a live wire, and full of fun. Be more upbeat, reach out for others and talk about your feelings. Be careful about unclear thinking regarding your finances. Don't take money for granted. Your more cheerful side bubbles forth.

Love abounds. Tonight: Laugh it up.*

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Responsibilities fall upon your shoulders. Someone's demands and expectations confuse you. But by handling what he needs anyway, caring flourishes. Invite others over for a get-together. Happiness surrounds your home. Tonight: Make a must appearance.*

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Get together with loved ones for a day outing. You want to do something offbeat. You could decide to spend the night out of town; plan accordingly. Away from your own surroundings, you are willing to share more of your feelings. Tonight:

Go for exotic cuisine.*

Girl has message for other teens: bigger is not bad

DEAR ABBY: Everyone has heard about teen-age girls who think they're fat when they're not. I'm 13 years old and a little overweight, but I try not to think about it all the time. I know lots of girls who do, and many of them are slim, healthy and attractive. Parents and teachers try to tell girls that size doesn't matter, but most teens think it does.

Magazines, television and even our peers recognize only thin people as being beautiful, so how can you blame girls for wanting to be thin? I'd like to give some advice, especially to other teen-agers.

Girls, if you are with someone who is heavier than you or uncomfortable with her body, don't complain about your own. It will only make them feel worse. Believe me, I should know — I have been hurt many times by behavior like this.

Guys, let a girl know she doesn't have to have a perfect body or look like a model for you to like her. One reason a lot of girls go on diets is so that guys will notice them.

Everyone: Compliment others. Make them feel loved, accepted and beautiful. Focus on people's good points, not their flaws. Not only will this make them feel good, it will make you glad to know you have made somebody's day a little brighter. — BEEN HURT

DEAR HURT: Excellent advice! It is unfortunate that someone who is as thoughtful and caring as you has been hurt by the thoughtlessness of others. The insight you possess will take you far. I hope those around you conduct themselves by your example.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Mother of the New Kid on the Block," whose son is having trouble finding new friends in a one-friend-at-a-time neighborhood, prompts this letter. She said he gets on his bike and goes to another boy's home, only to find the other boy is not allowed to entertain more than one boy at a time.

Why does he have to go to someone else's house?

When our son was small and we moved to a new neighborhood, I invited the four neighbor boys near my son's age to our house on a Saturday afternoon for lemonade, stories and games. They enjoyed themselves so much they came over to our house to play every day. It was no trouble for me because my son was happy playing with his new friends in a safe place. I knew where he was and what he was doing at all times. The other mothers appreciated the fact that their children were supervised.

Yes, it takes some extra effort, but everything worthwhile takes work and commitment. Abby, I'm glad I did it because my son had a happy childhood and grew up to be a well-adjusted man. — JUANA O. ACOSTA, OXNARD, CALIF.

DEAR JUANA: Your solution was wise and loving, but it would have been more fair had the other mothers taken turns entertaining the children. Sharing the load lightens the burden.
