

Clinton agrees to testify via tape in Starr investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — In two boosts for his investigation, prosecutor Kenneth Starr has a dress from Monica Lewinsky that could be a key piece of evidence, legal sources say, and President Clinton has agreed to testify in the probe of an alleged presidential affair and cover-up.

The sources said attorneys for Ms. Lewinsky turned over a dress that she says was stained from an encounter with the president.

One source familiar with the garment, speaking on condition of anonymity, said prosecutors likely would run forensic tests on the dress, examining it for evidence to corroborate Ms.

Lewinsky's claim that she and Clinton had sexual relations.

The sources provided several new details of Ms. Lewinsky's proffered testimony, saying she has told prosecutors she discussed with the president the possibility of returning gifts he gave her to presidential secretary Betty Currie.

The sources said Ms. Lewinsky would testify that she and Clinton agreed that the gifts, including a book, should be given to Mrs. Currie and that the testimony would help further prosecutors' investigation of possible obstruction of justice.

Ms. Lewinsky gave the gifts to Mrs. Currie after she received a subpoena in December from lawyers in the Paula Jones sexual harassment lawsuit against Clinton that sought her testimony and evidence, sources have said in the past.

In the other major development Wednesday, Clinton agreed to break six months of silence and provide videotaped testimony concerning his relations with Ms. Lewinsky, a former White House intern who claims she had an 18-month sexual relationship with Clinton beginning in 1995.

Under an agreement with Starr, Clinton will answer questions Aug. 17 from inside the White House with his lawyers present.

Senior aides said Clinton is prepared to repeat his denial of any sexual relations with Ms. Lewinsky. If so, his testimony could conflict with Ms. Lewinsky's. Legal sources, speaking only on condition of anonymity, say she told prosecutors this week she and the president had sexual relations and discussed ways of concealing it.

Clinton's arrangement with Starr averted an unprecedented presidential appearance under subpoena before a federal grand jury where witnesses appear without counsel. Starr agreed to withdraw the subpoena to accommodate Clinton, and the president will delay his summer vacation to testify. His testimony, under oath, will be made available to the grand jury.

Regarding the dress, Ms. Lewinsky's new lawyers, Jacob Stein and Plato Cacherts, offered the garment to Starr's office as part of the deal in which Ms. Lewinsky gained immunity from prosecution, the sources said. Ms. Lewinsky's first lawyer, William Ginsburg, did not proffer the dress to prosecutors, according to the legal sources. Ginsburg repeated Wednesday night that he knows nothing about any such clothing.

Starr's spokesman, Charles Bakaly, did not return phone calls late Wednesday. Judy Smith, a spokeswoman for the Lewinsky family, declined to comment.

Surveys show people believe Clinton is doing a good job, but that he did lie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Americans approve of the way President Clinton is handling his job, but a majority also believe he lied under oath about whether he had sex with Monica Lewinsky, according to one new poll.

Three surveys taken since last weekend amid rapid-fire developments in special prosecutor Kenneth Starr's investigation of whether President Clinton had an affair with Ms. Lewinsky and then tried to cover it up.

White House officials said

Wednesday the president will provide videotaped testimony and noted that Starr has withdrawn his subpoena ordering Clinton to appear before the grand jury. Ms. Lewinsky has reached an immunity agreement with Starr to tell her story to the grand jury.

In a CNN/USA Today/Gallup poll taken Wednesday, Clinton's approval rating was 65 percent. That was almost the same as in an NBC News/Wall Street Journal poll taken from last Saturday through Monday.

But two thirds of those questioned in the CNN/USA Today/Gallup poll thought it was definitely or probably true that Clinton had sexual relations of some kind with Ms. Lewinsky. And 56 percent believed he definitely or probably lied under oath about it.

While 43 percent thought the president definitely or probably tried to obstruct justice, only 24 percent of all those responding thought obstruction was a serious enough matter for Congress to consider impeachment while 41 percent thought obstruction was serious, but not grounds for impeachment.

The same number, 63 percent, thought both the president and Ms. Lewinsky were very likely or somewhat likely to tell the truth. But 31 percent of the respondents thought the president was very likely to tell the truth, while only 23 percent thought it very likely Ms. Lewinsky would be truthful.

The Gallup telephone survey of 622 adults had a margin of error of plus or minus 4 percentage points.

A CBS News poll released Wednesday found that 60 percent thought Clinton should testify while 37 percent thought he should not.

That poll found that 62 percent of those questioned disapproved of Starr's immunity deal with Ms. Lewinsky while 29 percent approved.

Those surveyed were split about Ms. Lewinsky's credibility, with 45 percent saying that they didn't think jurors would believe her. Only 34 percent said they thought she was a credible witness and 18 percent said they didn't know.

By a 2-to-1 margin, those surveyed felt that Starr is conducting a partisan probe to damage the president rather than an impartial investigation.

Texas cattlemen face herd liquidation due to drought

NAVASOTA (AP) — Rancher Matt Moore gestures at the dusty line of bawling cattle moving across one of his pastures, ground that should be lush with grass — but is instead crunchy dry and woefully short due to drought.

"Basically what they're getting is just a little pickings of the grass," said Moore, 29, whose family has raised cattle on this land near the Brazos River for five generations. "We're not able to feed the cattle we have been."

Indeed, Moore said Wednesday during a visit by Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman that he's only fattening about 250 calves this summer instead of the usual 900, because pasture is gone, and alternative feed is too expensive or cuts into necessary winter stocks.

Ranchers in the nation's No. 1 cattle state are beginning to liquidate their herds because of the driest Texas midsummer on record.

"We're only starting to feel the effects of this thing," said Curtis Burlin, who runs the Navasota Livestock Auction Co., where auctions are running 30 percent ahead of last summer. "If you have to sell them all, it'll take you five years to grow new cows."

A Texas A&M University study released Wednesday estimated a 50 percent loss in the state's crops and cattle forage at a cost of nearly $1 billion. Cattle losses are projected at $180 million because of premature sales and added feed costs. Both numbers are sure to worsen if the drought persists into August.

"We're sitting on what could be one of the worst natural disasters in Texas history," said state Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, who said some auction houses are selling 10 times the number of cattle they did last year at this time.

For consumers, this could mean a temporary drop in beef prices as more cattle are slaughtered. In the long term, however, beef prices at the supermarket could rise as herds are thinned out and some ranchers quit altogether.

While the U.S. Agriculture Department projects crop insurance payouts of up to $700 million in Texas this year — enough to cover maybe half of the farmers' actual losses — that money won't cover scorched pasture, withered hay or underweight cattle.

Although all 254 Texas counties have been declared federal disaster areas, the low-interest loans available to producers are of limited use and available only if they have been turned down twice by other lenders. And many farmers can't afford to take on more debt.

Glickman said the Republican 1996 "Freedom to Farm" law ended a program that allowed USDA to assist farmers with feed costs and compensate them for dead animals during disasters.

"I don't have the authority" to help the ranchers, Glickman said. "Congress has to give me the money."

On Capitol Hill, lawmakers are considering a $500 million aid package for the Southern drought and chronic wet weather in the northern Plains. Part of that $500 million — a total Glickman said "is probably not going to be sufficient" — would be spent on replenishing the livestock program.

Congress is moving to release next year's farm payments early WASHINGTON (AP) — Rushing to get aid to struggling farmers, Republicans are speeding action on legislation that would allow growers to get their 1999 government payments early.

The legislation, introduced last week, is to be offered for approval in the Senate by Friday, when senators are scheduled to leave on a one-month recess. No opposition is likely, said Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa. If the House approves the bill next week as expected, it would go to President Clinton for his signature.

Farmers could still put off getting their 1999 payments until next year if they don't want the cash this fall. The payments, guaranteed through 2002 under the 1996 farm law, will total $5.6 billion next year.

"It would be only a first step but a very important first step addressing low grain and livestock prices," Grassley said Wednesday.

Advancing the 1999 payments would be in addition to some cash assistance that lawmakers are considering giving to producers who have suffered repeated crop failures. The Senate approved $500 million this month for such payments, and House leaders have indicated tentative support for the plan. Agriculture Department officials say $500 million may not be enough.

The Senate rejected a $1.6 billion plan by Democrats to boost prices by expanding crop-marketing loans.

Single ticket wins Powerball in Richmond

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A single winning Powerball lottery ticket worth a record $295.7 million was sold in the east-central Indiana town of Richmond, lottery officials said today.

The winning ticket was sold at the Richmond Speedway in Richmond, a town just west of the Ohio state line. Hoosier Lottery spokeswoman Diane Balk said. The buyer of the winning ticket chose the $161.5 million lump-sum payment rather than the jackpot, she said.

No one immediately came forward to claim the prize.

"Hopefully, before they come to us, they will talk to an investment counselor, tax attorney or accountant and a lawyer and try to get everything pretty well situated in their own mind," state lottery Director James Maguire said today on ABC's "Good Morning America."

The previous record jackpot for a single winner was $195 million, also in the Powerball game, won by an Illinois couple in May.

The huge jackpot in Wednesday's drawing, swelled by repeated drawings in which no one won the top prize, created a sensation in the 20 states where Powerball is sold.

So many tickets were sold, lottery officials had thought there might be more than one winner. "We certainly expected two or three (tickets). But this stuff happens," said Chuck Strutt, executive director of the Multi-

State Lottery Association, which oversees the game.

Strutt said that the winning numbers drawn Wednesday night — 8, 39, 43, 45, 49, and Powerball 13 — were "difficult for human beings to pick."

"Human beings tend to pick numbers that mean something to them — birthdays, which would of course be 31 or less — and things like that," he said.

The jackpot had throngs of people dreaming big, including Henry Johnson, who drove 70 miles from his home in Crystal Springs, Miss., to Kentwood, La., to buy 200 tickets in hopes of striking it rich.

"If I win, I'm going to lie down like a roach and scream at the world," he said.

As customers in Washington, D.C., and the 20 states that play Powerball snapped up $210.8 million worth of tickets for the drawing, Powerball's inventor questioned whether it had gotten too big.

"It's not appropriate that we allow people to spend six hours or 10 hours in line to buy a ticket," said Ed Stanek, executive director of the Iowa Lottery.
