School prayer rally set for Wednesday at Big Spring High

Ministers, students, teachers and other members of the local community will gather Wednesday morning to pray at the flagpole in front of Big Spring High School. The service will begin at 7:15 a.m., and organizers say it will last less than half an hour.

This service comes in the wake of shootings that occurred last Tuesday at Columbine High School. Two students went on a rampage at the school, killing 12 of their fellow students and a teacher, and injuring many others.

"A church member asked me, 'Couldn't we do something?" explained Eddie pastor at First Tubbs, Baptist Church. 'This is something we can do."

He said the non-denominational event was organized with permission of school district officials, and in cooperation with several other ministers.

New YMCA program will let participants spring into shape

By BILL McCLELLAN

News Editor

A new slant on spring at the YMCA begins May 3 with the Spring Into Shape six-week fitness course designed combine exerwith weight management through proper nutrition.

"This program

who want to firm up and trim down," said Pete Thiry, executive director of the YMCA.

Maria Barber, aerobic instruction and YMCA fitness coordinator, will lead the new program, which will meet every Monday at 7 p.m.

Spring Into Shape is a six week program that includes unlimited use of the new YMCA fitness center, as well as fitness classes and indoor swimming pool, Thiry said.

Instruction is provided on the Nautilus resistance equipment and the new cardiovascular toward both men and women equipment. A personal fitness program will be established with each participant, he said.

On May 3, all participants will be provided a list of recommended foods to eat as well as a list of foods to avoid, Barber said.

"I do not like to use the word 'diet'. A true weight management program is one that has people select foods they can eat on a daily basis for a lifetime, not for a month," Barber said.

A totally individualized program, Spring Into Shape begins with a demonstration of fitness equipment, and appointments for body measurements, as well as a discussion of nutrition.

The second class May 10 will focus on the principles of training such as duration, intensity and frequency. On May 17, class members will learn the effects of cardio versus resistance exercise.

Then, on May 25, diet and nutrition will be the topic of the class, followed by body composition analysis on June 1. June 8 will be an awards presentation ceremony and final measure-

All members of the class will receive a Spring Into Shape tshirt, and prizes will be given for all those who complete the program.

"To lose weight some people just need to increase their activity level, while others need to reduce the amount of food they eat. This program does both. It delivers a one-two punch and positive results are seen on the tape when measurements are made," Barber said.

The cost for the classes is $20 for YMCA members and $60 for non-members. For more information contact Barber at 267-with a 90 percent attendance. "That means they could only miss one afternoon in six weeks," Cook said.

The students seemed to enjoy the extra attention, and Jarrod Reed said he understands the TAAS test better now that has completed the tutorials.

"We believe this was a great success, as we continue working on academic excellence. This is the second year we have had the TAAS tutorials, where students prepare for the TAAS objectives in reading and math and the TAAS format," Gainey

All third through eighthgrade students will begin taking TAAS tests Tuesday, as prescribed by the Texas Education Agency, said Murray Murphy,

On Tuesday, third through eighth graders will take the math portion of the test, which is designed theoretically to measure how well students are learning. On Wednesday, these same students will complete the reading portion of the test.

Then on Thursday, eighth graders will take social studies TAAS tests, and science TAAS is administered Friday.

Those Big Spring High School seniors who need to pass the EXIT test to receive their diploma and attend graduation in May will also be administered that test.

"We only have about five or six students who will be taking the EXIT level on Tuesday. We will have the results back prior to graduation, so they may graduate with their class, Murphy said.

He added that all students should get a good night's sleep and eat a healthy breakfast before the tests, which begin at 9 a.m. and are generally concluded by noon.

"All those good things good parents tell their children to do, that's what these students need," Murphy said.

Cinco

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN

This weekend, Big Spring and Howard County residents will have the opportunity to celebrate Cinco de Mayo.

And while celebrants in the United States use Cinco de Mayo as a social celebration, the holiday is the third most important in Mexico behind Independence Day on Sept. 16 and Revolution Day on Nov. 20.

In 1862, the Franch army advanced on the city of Puebla, in the state of the same name, expecting a warm welcome.

Instead, the generals appointed by President Benito Juarez to defend the city had other ideas.

Ignacio de Zaragoza fortified the Hill of Guadalupe north of the city and on May 5, his 2,000 military men and Puebla citizens, armed with home and farm tools, defeated a frontal attack by 6,000 men of the best trained army of the time.

General Porfirio Diaz won reputation leading the repulse of the final French assault. The city is now officially called Puebla de Zaragoza in honor of this victory.

Since that time, Mexico has celebrated May 5 as a national Locally, Cinco de Mayo will be observed Friday, Saturday and Sunday at La Vedera Club, 1100 W. IH-20.

"It takes a lot of work, so we still need more help," said Libby Uribe, an organizer of the celebration. On tap so far are live bands

Friday and Saturday nights, and folklorico dancers from Odessa performing Sunday night. The event will take place at the pavilion outside next to the building. Food booths will include such traditional foods as tripas, fajitas and gorditas, along with "festival food" such as sausage on a stick, roasted corn and hamburgers. "It's going to be a lot of fun for everyone," Uribe said. "This is something you can bring your family to, and everyone will have a good time." For sale at the event will be such items as flower arrangements, T-shirts and toys for the kids. Game booth are also planned.

Some of the clubs and organizations slated to participate include Hispanic Women for Progress, Knights of Columbus and the ALSA Club.

OUR VIEWS

Regionals week features the best of the Crossroads oday marks the start of an entire week of regional golf and tennis tournaments and track meets involving athletes from Crossroads County high schools.

While it's clear that Big Spring High School track phenom Tory Mitchell — the reigning district region, state and national champion in the 100 meters and 200 meters — will grab the lion's share of headlines from newspapers throughout West Texas heading into this weekend's Region I, Class 4A track and field championships in San Angelo, a raft of Crossroads athletes are just as deserving of recognition for extending their spring sports seasons.

A number of local golfers — among them Coahoma's Bulldogettes team, Big Spring's medalist tandem of Ashlie Simmons and Sammy Rodriguez Jr. and Coahoma boys' medalist entry Blake Nichols opened Region I tournament play this morning.

At the same time, Big Spring's trio of Lady Steers seniors - Kim Dominguez, YuChing Li and Stephanie Lewis — head into the Region I, Class 4A tennis tournament on San Angelo's Bentwood Country, Club courts, while netters from several other schools begin play in Class 2A and 1A tournaments in Lubbock and Abilene.

And while Mitchell and most of Big Spring's Lady Steers track team will compete in the Region I, Class 4A track meet in San Angelo on Friday, strong teams from Stanton, Coahoma, Borden County, Sands, Grady and Garden City will also be vying for honors at regional meets.

In fact, every one of the Crossroads Country's eight schools has athletes competing at the regional level sometime this week

We want to take this opportunity to commend all of the area's regional qualifiers for their sterling performances in district competition and wish them the best of luck this week in their bids to qualify for state tournament and meet competition in May.

Take the time to support the athletes of the Crossroads as they carry the banners of their respective schools and communities into competition.

The Writer's Art: Robbins' or Robbins's?

carried a four-column headline on April 13: "Saving the Human Details of Jerome Robbins's Art." Half a dozen readers clipped the article and asked the same question: "Robbins's? Can that punctuation be right?" It certainly is right for the Times. which sets its own idiosyncratic rules. (At the Times, dates are in the 1990's; every where else we're in the 1990s.) My own preference would lie with "Jerome Robbins' art," but the rule is in transition and copy editors are largely on their

Authorities are divided. The Editor's Guide for Church Newsletters, for example, lays down the old familiar rule: "For singular and plural nouns ending in s, add the apostrophe only, e.g., Charles' friend." Professor William Strunk Jr. is equally unambiguous: "Form the possessive singular of nouns by adding 's. Thus write, Charles's friend."

Merriam-Webster's Manual

for Writers & Editors equivocates. The manual likes 'Simmons's role," but it also likes "the Browns' house."

The Associated Press Stylebook firmly instructs us to use only an apostrophe after a singular proper name ending

The Chicago Manual of Style, which many editors regard as a bible of usage, offers a veritable disquisition on the topic. Single-syllable nouns are no problem: Burns's poems, Marx's theories. The manual goes on to say:

"The question of how to form the possessive of names of more than one syllable ending in the sound of s or z probably occasions more dissension among writers and editors of good will than any other orthographic matter open to disagreement. Some hold with the rule espoused for many years by the highly respected Modern Language Association: 'In words of more than one syllable ending in a sibilant, only the apostrophe is added.

The editors go on to say that a rule geared only to sibilants won't work. Such a rule would give us "Parrish' cartoons" instead of "Parrish's cartoons," and this is clearly absurd. After an extended discussion, the editors come down in favor of a rule that is "both more subjective and more pragmatto this: "If it looks and sounds like a plural, treat it like a plural." Thus they recommend Dickens' novels and Williams' poetry, but also Harris's tweeds and Angus's kilt. That makes sense to me, even if it doesn't to the AP.

In actual practice, experienced editors go their own separate ways. Last summer, Justice Clarence Thomas spoke to the National Bar Association. Both Time and Newsweek carried articles on his address. The editors of Time preferred "Thomas' critics." The editors of Newsweek opted for "Thomas's critics." I believe Newsweek made the better choice.

The humble apostrophe seems to trouble writers more than any other form of punctuation. The Allstate Motor Club offered prospective members a bonus. Just for trying the club's program, a baby boombox would be "your's free." How did that apostrophe get in there?

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. promoted a pamphlet on travel safety. "While your away ... If it's business or pleasure, make sure you and your home are safe while you're on the road." Surely someone at MetLife knows the difference between the possessive YOUR, as in your policy, and the contractual YOU'RE, as in you're in deep trouble, What's so tough about ITS and IT'S? A financial news service reported last year that BankAmerica disclosed a huge loss on a loan to a hedge fund. "It's shares fell 11 percent Wednesday." No way! Southern Living had words of praise for the Peace Center in Greenville. S.C., where top-ranking instrumental soloists scheduled a celebration of Brahms. "Not bad for a center that is only seven years old (it's first season was 1990-91) ..." Come now!

The wackiest of all errors in punctuation is the needless quotation mark. A nursery in Houston advertised yellow or orange "day lilies" and "Mexican" heather, not to speak of "pine bark" mulch. In Winston-Salem, N.C., a jewelry store offered some sound advice: Don't Be Fooled By The 'So Called" Discounters. The quotation marks were useless, pointless and wrong.

Let me recur to the Chicago Manual of Style. It says it all: "Punctuation should be governed by its function, which is to make the author's meaning clear, to promote ease of reading, and in varying degrees to contribute to the author's style." Keep those sound precepts in mind, and you're not likely to go badly wrong.

Since revelations about his personal life are sure to anger him, we relish revealing some of those closely guarded details, which both CIA and Russian intelligence sources provided to our associate Dale Van Atta.

Any day we can beard the paranoid prima donna of Havana is a good day. What follows are some of the juicer insights:

· The dictator, who preaches socialist abstemiousness to the people, has three luxury yachts and at least 32 houses. Three of those houses are in Havana and two are underground bunkers - appropriate for a man who always feared the United States might nuke him.

 Castro became so paranoid after the CIA's murder plots in the 1960s that the ocean is cleared before he can indulge in a favorite sport: scuba diving. At times, more than 100 frogmen have been called in to check out the waters for any foreign — even fishy — object and protect him while he · Divorced from his first and only legal wife, Castro has had numerous liaisons with other women, some of which produced children. By a reputed secret second wife, Castro had at least five sons. The dictator, whose middle name is Alejandro, gave them all names

HOUSING CRISIS — It was far from your typical buttoneddown lobbyists' gathering: Balloons flying, whistles blowing, bull horns bellowing and choreographed dance routines.

National People's Action had their annual meeting in the nation's capital two weekends ago. What they lack in coinage and clout, they made up for with enthusiasm, as housing activists and community groups from around the country gathered to press their concerns to America's leaders. There was just one notable name missing: Andrew Cuomo, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. He had better things to do than tell these activists how he planned to fix the government's most badly broken agency. Cuomo was in South Africa, advising that country on how they, too, can be like HUD. Several other high officials did show up. But the man they really wanted to see was Cuomo. Specifically, the activists wanted to know why his department has been lax in policing the Federal Housing Administration, an agency established to help low-income families become homeowners but which has strayed badly from this noble mission in recent years.

The FHA is a classic example of what happens to an agency when wealthy special interests manage to attract and maintain the attention of top officials. Michael Kuzma, a lawyer studying housing issues for the New York state legislature, traces the agency's problems to a 1994 policy that lets banks who originate FHA-backed loans to choose their own appraisers. This has led some shady lenders to artificially inflate home values — since the government pays the price of any defaults. Not surprisingly, defaults have skyrocketed since the policy was implemented.

"It is outrageous that (Cuomo) would fly off to help the South Africans when (HUD) is allowing bad-lenders and realtors to use FHA as a get-rich-quick scheme all over the country. Kuzma said. "If (Cuomo) wants to solve problems, we have plenty for him right here in Rangers close out sweep of Minnesota witl lived up to his expectations.

"I'd like to be 25 games in front," said Oates, whose team has a two-game lead over Oakland in the AL West Division.

What does make him happy is completing a four-game sweep at Minnesota with a 9-5 win on Sunday. That gave the Rangers eight wins in their 12-game road trip, giving them momentum heading into a three-game series at The Ballpark against the Yankees starting Tuesday.

"Anytime you play them, you know you're matched up against a good ballclub," he said. "You've got to pitch well, you've got to play a mental and physical in Sunday's win. "With our injury situation, I have to go out and be prepared to play every day, no matter who's here," Stevens said. "As long as I'm swinging the bat, I'll be in the lineup.'

Rick Helling was forced to go Sunday on three days rest after Burkett was temporarily scratched from the rotation. The short layoff didn't hurt the right-hander, who pitched seven strong innings for his first win of the season after three straight losses

"It didn't really feel any different, to be honest with you," Helling said. "I felt like I could have pitched more."

The Rangers staked Helling to an early 6-0 lead, which enabled him to relax. "This four-game series looked more like our offense from last year," Helling said Oates said all four games against the I wins followed the same blueprint.

"All four guys gave us good starting pitching, we got some runs on the board early, we played pretty good defense, and the bullpen did a real good job consistenly," he said, ready to head home after the 13-day road trip.

"It's good to be over, it's good to win eight," Oates said. Minnesota also followed a pattern, but it's one that they just as soon forget. They fell behind early, rallied in the late innings, but came up short.

'We score late, but I don't know if that's a good thing," said Matt Lawton. "If you watch us, we battle back and battle back, but we keep losing.'

Losing is the bottom line that Tom Kelly sees.

It couldn't have been much worse for Howard College's Hawks.

The Hawks, presented with an opportunity to clinch the Western Junior College Athletic Conference (WJCAC) baseball championship, closed out their regular season Sunday with 14-2 and 12-5 losses to Odessa College's Wranglers.

In the process, the Hawks went from controlling their own destiny to waiting until this week's doubleheader make-up between Odessa and New Mexico Junior College to see whether or not they'll enter the NJCAA Region V tournament as the WJCAC's champion or its runner-up.

"We just didn't play very well and Odessa played great baseball," a clearly dejected Hawks head coach Brian Roper said following Sunday's twinbill losses.

"I wish I knew what the answer was," Roper continued, noting that his Howard teams have shown a propensity of peaking too early and failing to finish the season in top form. "We open the conference 9-0 and then wind up 15-9, losing five of the six games against Odessa. That's not the way you want to head into the regional tourna-

The Hawks, who'd dominated Odessa in a 4-0 win Friday, getting a two-hit, 14-strikeout performance from sophomore Brandon Claussen, saw Saturday's scheduled doubleheader with Odessa rained out and were forced to finish the series Sunday after-noon. noon.

That delay seemed to make all the difference for the Wranglers, who managed to hit home runs off every pitcher Howard sent to the mound Sunday - the four that saw duty in the opener and both Nick Webb and Duite Welch in the nightcap.

"They (Wranglers) were just dominating today," Roper said after seeing Odessa pound out 12 hits in the opener and 11 more in the second game - seven of those 23 hits being long balls.

"We didn't hit the ball at all in the first game, but we out-hit them in the second game and still got hammered," he added. 'We just couldn't keep them in the park ... they did a great job of coming up with the big hits when they needed them.

In the first game, Howard simply couldn't get a handle on Odessa's Jeff McWilliams, who allowed just two Hawks hits in going the distance.

Meanwhile, the Wranglers made life miserable for Howard starter Danny McMurtry from the outset.

McMurtry was drilled by a line drive off the bat of Odessa's lead-off man Kory Doan on the opener's third pitch. The Hawks freshman was able to retrieve the carom

McMillan managed to get out of the inning, but served up a three-run homer to Odessa's Kody Groves in the third inning, and after giving up a one-out walk to Kyle Akins, surrendered the mound to sophomore Josh Duwe after having worked just two-thirds of an inning.

But Odessa wasn't through. The Wranglers topped their four-run rally in the third with five runs in the fourth, the big knock coming from designated hitter Steve Watkins' two-run homer to left.

Howard's only runs came in the bottom of the fourth when the Hawks' spoiled McWilliams' no-hit bid with a pair of runs. Right fielder Rhett Wells led off the inning with a walk. Second baseman Drew Topham followed with a single and both runners scored when first baseman Caleb Reger hit a shot down the line in left.

Odessa answered those two runs in the top of the fifth, however, when shortstop Rich Davis singled to left off Howard's fourth pitcher, Chris McLain, with two out

Both Howard pitchers gave up the long ball — Webb giving up a solo shot to Davis in the fourth inning that allowed the Wranglers to take a 3-0 lead, and Welch giving up a three-run homer that capped the Wranglers' five-run rally in the top of the seventh that staked Odessa starter

Danny Delmas to a 12-3 lead. Reger provided the Hawks' only answer to Odessa's parade of home runs, clubbing a solo shot to put the Hawks on the board in the bottom of the fifth.

The Hawks added two more runs in the sixth and single tallies in the eighth and ninth innings, but simply couldn't match Odessa'sscoring in bunches

The sweep left Howard with a 40-14 mark overall, finishing the regular season with a 15-9 WJCAC record. Odessa, which improved to 14-8 in conference play with Sunday's sweep, now needs only manage a split with NMJC this week to secure the WJCAC title.

Parnevik rides 'wild' driver to tourney win at Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) Jesper Parnevik's tee shots got so bad during the final round of Greater Greensboro Chrysler Classic that he started hoping they would just end up in the rough.

At one point, he told his caddy, Lance Ten Broeck, that he had no idea where the next drive might end up.

Despite the erratic driver, Parnevik was still finished with a 2-under 70 and close out a record-setting victory on Sunday.

Parnevik hit just five fairways off the tee but still finished the tournament at 23under par, breaking by six shots the 72-hole scoring record for the tournament since it moved to Forest Oaks Country Club in 1977. Sandy Lyle and Ken Green set the previous mark of 17-under-par 271 in 1988. Lyle won that year in a playoff.

Parnevik's four-day 265 was the best on the tour this year. beating by one stroke David Duval's 266 at the season-opening Mercedes Championships. He came within five strokes of the all-time tour record for most strokes under par set by John Huston in the 1998 Hawaiian Open.

The score didn't come easy. "I really did struggle with my driving on the weekend. Parnevik said. "Every time I hit a fairway, I made birdie. Apart from that, it was a struggle. The swing that I had on my irons that worked very well, did not work very well on my driver.' Parnevik started Sunday with a three-shot lead and led by two heading to the 16th tee. But he wasn't comfortable with his "I stood over the ball (on the

Tech exes set for Saturday's annual scholarship tourney

By JOHN A. MOSELEY

A gauntlet of sorts has been thrown down by organizers of Saturday's scholarship golf tournament sponsored by the Big Spring chapter of the Texas Tech University Ex-Students Association.

"We're challenging alums from other schools ... especially other Big 12 or old Southwest Conference schools ... to band together and try to take our prizes," noted Howard County District Attorney Hardy Wilkerson, who co-chairs the tournament organizing community with Roxie McDaniel. "This tournament certainly isn't for just Texas Tech exes or supporters of the school," he explained. "In fact, we'd like to see this thing develop some great rivalries between local graduates of other universities." The tournament, the second staged by Tech exes, will be played at the Big Spring Country Club in hopes of exceeding last year's event that provided scholarships to Texas Tech for two Big Spring High School graduates in 1998

Slated as a four-person scramble — teams will be composed of A, B, C and D players - participants can either form their own teams or turn in their entry listing a handicap and be placed on a

Entry fees will be $60 per person, McDaniel said, and will include cart rental, green fees and a luncheon following Saturday morning's 18 holes of play slated for an 8 a.m. start. "Last year we had eight teams compete for the championship and we'd love to have even more people turn out this time around," McDaniel noted. "We'd like to be able to at least match what we did last year when we were able to provided two scholarships to Tech for a pair of graduates from Big Spring High School."

The chapter's scholarships are not only for Big Spring High School graduates, however.

"Actually, any graduate of Howard College or a high school in Howard, Martin or Dawson counties is eligible to apply for the scholarships," McDaniel explained. "In fact, we're still taking applications from area high school students and Howard College sophomores for this year's scholarships through Friday.

"We can't stress that strongly enough," she added. "We'd love to see kids from Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma, Stanton, Grady, Sands, Klondike ... all the area-high schools, as well as Howard College apply."

Unlike scholarship applicants, golfers wanting to play in Saturday's tournament need to get their entries in by Thursday evening to give organizers time to place individuals on a team. Wilkerson noted that last year's tournament scholarship program."

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 27:

Others clearly want to get along with you. A more nurturing attitude takes you far and helps you to gain. You might often have great aspirations for your work and your colleagues. Why keep these lofty and unat-tainable? Consider going back to school or doing what is necessary to make this happen. You're sometimes overly serious and linear in your thinking. Learn to ask for help. If you are single, romance knocks on your door early this summer. You might wonder what you want; be more open to alternatives. If attached, try not to be as demanding. Allow more caring to emerge. You'll be delighted by what is returned. Libra understands

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Dig into work. Pressure to perform becomes increasingly high. You could feel bogged down, but another helps you lighten up. Intuition works well with financial decisions. Trust your instincts. A boss really does think the world of you. Tonight: Putting in that extra effort.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Allow your imagination to reign. Don't take another's decision personally. You gain a new understanding from a discussion with a friend. Take an overview. Accept an invitation that could take you back to school or on travels. Tonight: Say "yes" to life and its offer-

CANCER (June 21-July 22) *Carefully think through a decision. Family and domestic matters need to take higher priorities, even for you. A boss or parent has high expectations. but you can and will meet them. Ask for that pay raise or mood to grant your wishes. ionight: A cozy night at home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make calls, schedule meetings. Your gregarious style draws others. New information sheds light on a decision and on plans. A partner mixes information with famusy at times. Sort through what is realistic. Creativity and humor bubble forth. Tonight: Where the action is.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Gather feedback to make strong money decisions. You need to increase your security; to do that, opt to invest more in yourself. A dream involving your work and the quality of your life is possible! A partner does more than his share to help you on your chosen

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Others respond to your magnetism and personality. Recognize that time is your friend. Be aware that you are putting a loved one or child on a pedestal. The bad news is that he can only fall off! Use different styles of communicating, and note the varied responses you receive. Tonight: Show your stuff.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Take a deep breath and think before you leap into a situation. It might be wisest to do nothing. You find out who you can count on. A co-worker offers you important information. If you want a pay raise or promotion, start doing what you need to do to get there. Tonight: Get away from it all. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

Be more in sync with your long-term needs. Another could cause an uproar when you least expect it. Examine where you are coming from with a boss or someone to whom you give a lot of power. Intuition works. Implement a money decision. Tonight: Thinking about work into the wee hours.

Bridesmaid hurt that parents did not make wedding cut

DEAR ABBY: My best friend is being married this summer, and she has asked me to be one of her bridesmaids. We have been friends since the third grade. My parents have always treated her like one of their own children.

We see her only a couple of times a year now. because she moved 800 miles away. Abby, recently learned that my parents are not invited to the wedding. Am I wrong to feel hurt that they are excluded? If she had to limit the number of guests. why didn't she just omit my sisters and make room for my parents, who have always been so good to her?

I always thought that proper etiquette requires the parents of wedding attendants to be invited to the wedding. Am I wrong? - NETTLED IN NAN-TUCKET

DEAR NETTLED: Although most etiquette experts say the parents of attendants should be invited to the wedding, Emily Post explains that it is a nice gesture when feasible, but not necessary. It's possible that budget constraints caused your friend to limit her guest list. Please give her the benefit of the doubt. Don't take this personally or allow it to sour a lifelong friendship.
