The driver of a pickup truck traveling behind the bus also was killed.

VA Home bid date pushed back; July is now construction target

By BILL McCLELLAN

News Editor

Late May is now the bid date for the Texas State Veterans Home to be constructed between the Big Spring State Hospital and I-20 on the west side of U.S. 87, the design group vice president said Friday.

"We'll be going to bid on the 19th of May, or the 26th at the very latest," said Fred "Skip" Smith, regional vice president for The Park Associates, Inc.

The project has been slowed somewhat, but that's not unusual when dealing with state and federal government, Smith said.

"Everybody has been bumped back all through this project, but that happens sometimes. The good news is we'll go to bed on the 26th at the very latest... and construction should begin in July for sure, at the latest." Construction is underway at sites in Temple and Floresville. Smith said, and the veteran's home in Bonham will be going to bid May 5. "We're so close to starting now Big Spring facility. "We should it is scary," Smith said of the get the final architect's documents within the next 10 days and we'll be sending those out to subs (subcontractors) everywhere.'

The facility will encompass more than 76,000 square feet of space, with what builders call a "neighborhood" concept. The 160-bed home will feature more natural lighting, shelves in each room for the residents and a play area for children visitors.

The Park Associates and its partners, Rees Associates, Inc., a Dallas-based architectural and planning firm and MW Builders from Temple are designing. building and will operate the four homes.

Graeber, Simmons & Cowan, an architectural design firm in Austin, will serve as construction management oversight representative for the state during construction.

Once construction begins, it should take 10 to 12 months to complete.

"I get lots of phone calls from Big Spring," said Smith. "People are wanting to know when they can move in. It's important for all of these veterans. And this could save them a lot of dollars. We're excited about it. We're anxious, like them, to see it happen."

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the Big Spring facility were held Aug. 10, 1999 and officials showed architect's plans in a public meeting on Oct. 18.

and a slacking economy, Sweatt said property crimes increase, as well as criminal mischief and assaults. The hotter temperatures may create hotter tempers, and what begins as an argument might quickly escalate into a brawl when the weather heats up, he said.

"People tend to drink alcohol a lot more when it gets hot, and they lose their inhibitions and restrictions," he said.

burglary of a home is how difficult it is for someone to gain entrance, he said. "Our rule is the more time it takes and the more noise it makes for someone to get into your house increases the chances that someone will see or hear something, and might stop some burglars," he said.

Also, recording all possessions on a computer disc is a good way to keep serial numbers and inventories. Sweatt recommends keeping a hard copy in a safe place as well.

Liberty Bell 7 — the only U.S. manned spacecraft ever lost following a successful mission – was discovered Saturday 300 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral, three miles beneath the surface of the Atlantic.

Salvagers will have to wait several more weeks, however, before they can exhume it. The underwater robotic rover that was used to identify and photograph the spacecraft sank in rough seas Saturday, putting recovery efforts on hold until a new vessel can be obtained.

Still shiny in spots, the spacecraft is propped upright on a sandy knoll, its window and parachute liner still intact and its periscope still extended. The words "United States" and "Liberty Bell" are plainly visithe capsule was never found.

Mrs. Grissom said last month that she resents not being consulted from the start about the salvage effort and doesn't want the capsule to be restored at the Kansas Cosmosphere and Space Center, as is the plan. That's where the capsule eventually will be put on display under an agreement with NASA and the Smithsonian Institution.

Finding Grissom's capsule wasn't easy. Shortly after setting sail on April 19, Newport and his team struggled with a broken sonar. Once fixed, it uncovered 88 potential targets in a 24-squaremile area that Newport had pinpointed based on 14 years of analyzing NASA charts and photographs.

The first target they looked at with the camera-equipped rover lowed the decomposed pieces of the capsule's heat shield up a hill. The trail of debris led them to the 7-foot titanium and aluminum capsule.

At first, Newport thought the dark, tall, conical object was airplane wreckage. He was stunned when he saw the words "United States.

"I remember saying, 'Oh my God, I can't believe it. That's it. We found it. This is it!" he said. 'There was a lot of shaking hands and slapping each other on the back and just congratulating each other and just staring in disbelief at this spacecraft in front of us, us being the first ones to see it since 1961."

Newport, 47, a former space station worker, had made two previous attempts to find the capsule in the early 1990s, but did not have sophisticated enough equipment or enough

"This was a very difficult thing to find," he said. "You have to understand, what we did was find something in water half a mile deeper than the Titanic and it's smaller than one of the Titanic's boilers.'

Two cameras and a tape recorder that sank with the capsule could shed light on why the hatch blew open too soon — one of the biggest mysteries of American space flight. But it's doubtful the film can be salvaged after so long underwater.

The hatch would hold the answer. Newport estimates it could be as much as a mile from Liberty Bell 7; he plans to spend a day looking for it when he returns for the capsule and the sunken rover.

If the capsule was tough to find, the hatch will be that much tougher. But Newport can't resist trying.

'Day of Prayer' worthwhile effort to 'bring us back' his Thursday, Big Spring residents will join millions of Americans in churches, schools, courthouses, parks and municipal buildings to lift their hearts in prayer. The occasion is the National Day of Prayer, an annual observance first established in 1954 and given a specific date by the 100th Congress in 1988.

Organizers of the observance expect more than 20,000 prayer events to take place, coordinate by an estimated 40,000 volunteers. Big Spring will hold at least two such events, one outside the Municipal Auditorium at noon, the other at Comanche Trail Park Amphitheater at 6 p.m.

"Light the Nation...with Prayer" is the theme for the 48th annual National Prayer Day. It is taken from Matthew 5:14-15, which reads, "You are the light of the world. A city on a hill cannot be hidden. Neither do people light a lamp and put it under a bowl. Instead they put it on its stand and gives light to everyone in the house."

That's the purpose of the National Day of Prayer, to bring people together for a time of prayer, and generally, song. To let that prayer be one shining light for love, peace, kindness and understanding. One light shining in each heart as we thank God for his many, many blessings. And one light in each mind and in each thought to ask for His guidance.

The observance is non-denominational. Everyone is

TO THE EDITOR:

Enough is enough. Hindsight is suppose to be 20/20 and yet we still do not seem to be listening to the screams of our children to save them. I realize that as part of a tolerant society that we have backed down on several occasions when as Christians we should have been praying and saying No, you cannot put my child in danger by taking his prayer protection out of the schools.'

It seems as though the only time it's okay to mention God, prayer, and salvation is when something tragic happens such as the massacre in Littleton, Colo. As a Christian community we should know that the time for God is before we die. It may sound nice to say "they're in heaven" over someone's funeral but the truth is that unless those children and that teacher knew Christ their souls have been lost forever. We should be taking heed to God's warnings. This is the fifth tragic incident in the past few years. They all have the same symptoms and each time they get analyzed on what the teacher. parents, students, and/or our society could have done. The truth of the matter though is that we made our decision when we said go ahead and take our prayer protection away. We need to pray to our Creator. The One who spoke us in to existence. We, as Christians, can no longer stand by and be tolerant of those who say that God does not exist. Why is it always the Christians that are tolerant of the unsaved? We were all given the great commission to preach the gospel to the world. Why is it that we are the

from our beliefs to keep peace. It is not going to be peace that is experienced when the Lord returns for His people. We were given the power over Satan. We gave it back to him. Jesus came. died on the cross and returned that power to us. Are we really saying we would rather live under Satan's rule? We need to stop giving away what is rightfully ours. God did not create us to sit quietly in the peace of our homes. We can no longer afford to do that. We should not be on the defensive. The battle has already been won by Christ--we simply have to be bold enough to claim the victory Christians know that spiritual truths cannot be understood by the unsaved, so I am writing this to Christians only. There is enough of us here in this one town to save our children from the enemy's clutches. The Word says: "if two of you on earth agree about anythin; you ask for, it will be done for you by my Father in heaven. For where two or three come together in my name, there am I with them. (Matthew 18:19-20), the passage was confirmed not too long ago when the community held a praise/prayer session for rain. I believe it was only four days later when it rained! He is listening but He is also trying to get our attention. I call on all mothers to pray. The Lord is showing us that it does not matter what we do to try and protect our children if we do not invite Him to be involved. Each of us are vulnerable to attack. He is our Savior and it"s time we started recognizing it.

Smugglers bring countless immigrants over border ver the last two months, nearly 500 Chinese citizens seeking political asylum have arrived near the shores of Guam, the tiny U.S. colony 1,500 miles off the coast of China.

The asylum seekers have quickly filled the island's prisons, forcing the Coast Guard to divert several hundred to nearby islands.

Senior government officials tell us that an organized criminal syndicate is masterminding the flood of would-be immigrants from China's Fujian province, filling them with false hope and charging them up to $10,000 for the two-week trip.

If granted asylum, the migrants will be part of a fortunate minority: They will be eligible for residency and, eventually, citizenship. In 1997, the United States admitted nearly 800,000 immigrants. But each year, many more enter illegally.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service estimates that 5 million undocumented immigrants live in the United States. More than half are from Mexico. Federal immigration officials tell us that a tougher and more sophisticated border patrol has forced illegal immigrants to turn to smuggling operations like the one headed by the "Snake Heads" — the Chinese slave traders sending boats to

"It's no longer jump in the boat and try to get there," said Lt. Cmdr. Pat Philbin, a spokesman for the Coast Guard. "There are sophisticated operations at work here. They're having to pay smugglers (large amounts) of money to get them here. International immigration experts put the number of people trafficked around the world annually by smugglers at 4 million, with the largest portion going to the United States. Though federal officials have been aware of the problem for some time, the size and complexity of the operations are proving alarming.

Last year, one investigation dubbed "Seek and Keep" revealed a smuggling network that had been bringing Indian nationals, Pakistanis, Afghanis and Syrians to the United States for least 10 years. Smugglers brought the wouldbe immigrants through Moscow, to Havana, to the Bahamas and finally to South America before transporting them to the United States.

Federal officials estimated that during the final three years of the operation, the smugglers brought as many as 300 aliens per month into the country, collecting approximately $20,000 for each person.

A second investigation,

LEAKS HERE

"Over the Rainbow II." revealed that "Snake Heads" were moving between 100 and 150 Chinese nationals per month. The majority of those smuggled were from the Fujian province. Smugglers moved them to Canada, through an Indian reservation and into New York City, where the immigrants began working to pay back nearly $50,000 in smuggling fees. Investigators estimated that smugglers could have collected as much as $170 million from the operation.

Most are placed in virtual servitude until they pay back the cost of their passage. While the most egregious abuses often go undetected, what's known is revealing. A 1997 report from the Department of Labor found that 63 percent of garment companies in New York City paid less than minimum wage. A 1996 Los Angeles survey found a comparable 61 percent out of compliance. The New York workers had average back-wages of $7,000, compared to $3,200 for those in Los Angeles.

Though the majority of illegal migrants end up in sweat shops, a growing number of women and young girls are coming to work in the sex trade.

Many are fleeing economic hardship. As many as 400,000 women under 30 have left Ukraine in the past decade. The Thai Embassy in Ukraine receives nearly 1,000 visa applications a day, most of them from women. In a 1997 study by the International

Last year, as part of an investigation of the sex trade. Mickael Platzer, head of operations for the United Nations' Center for International Crime Prevention told the New York Times that "This (Ukrainian sex trade) is happening wherever you look now. The mafia is not stupid. There is less law enforcement since the Soviet Union fell apart and more freedom of movement. The earnings are incredible. The overhead is low — and you don't have to buy cars and guns. Drugs you sell once and they are gone. Women can earn money for a long time.'

UPDATE — Several months ago, we reported that under the Department of Agriculture's new food safety inspection system, slaughterhouses could fail three complete salmonella "test periods" — spanning almost a year — before being disciplined.

The glitch allowed plants that had already exceeded allowable levels of contamination to continue operating until the end of the test period. But after taking considerable criticism, federal regulators have decided to put consumers ahead of producers. Last week, USDA quietly announced that it will shut down plants completing their third test period immediately upon failure.

Eloise has been cooking something somewhere in Cedartown, Ga. since she was 12, and now shes, well, just say shes in her prime. These days shes working her culinary magic at Moores Soda Fountain, formerly Moores Pharmacy, a Cedartown institotion since 1908. Local historiand the menu claim it is

Georgia. Getting Eloise as chief cook was a major coup for Moores new owners, Beverly and Tom Evans, relative newcomers to the oldest soda fountain in Cedartowns Main Street. When they reopened the beloved Moores this month, a collective sigh of relief went up from Cedartown residents. They had marked the milestones of their lives with a Moores famous lemon sour, cherry Coke, banana split or egg and olive sandwich. Moores Corner was more than a street corner; it was a hub.

When Paul Pitts heard six months ago that Moores Pharmacy was closing, he ran up the street from his office, in a panic, near tears. (He has a serious grilled cheese habit, and hes only been around town five years.) I was devastated, he says. (Pitts works for Cedartown Main Street, a downtown revitalization group.)

Soon, and to his relief, he learned the spunky Evanses were interested in buying the corner building thats housed Moores since 1928. They dreamed of keeping alive at least the soda fountain part of the business.

So they negotiated. They renovated. They cleaned out 60plus years worth of paper from the upstairs. The couple struck a deal with Newnans familyrun J&S Ice Cream. And they hired Eloise.

The result is almost a sparkling Hollywood set, a 1950s post-prom moment you wish youd had but never quite did. From the checkerboard floor to the whirling ceiling fans, its a white-sports-coatand-pink-carnation kind of place. The smell is of freshsqueezed lemons and the hardboiled eggs Ashley Witt is busy peeling. The atmosphere is yes teryear.

Its been amazing, Beverly Evans says. People come in and say things like, I proposed to my wife right over there. Then Beverly sighs. Were missing so much by letting our towns go under

There were no big discount stores or chains to drain downtowns when Dr. A.S. Moore moved to Cedartown. He bought an existing pharmacy for $2,600 and renamed it Moores. When Dr. Moore died in 1941, he left the drugstore to his son, Albert. Albert, who was a well-known state senator, Southeastern Conference football official and popular character, died young and left the business to his brother, Virgil, who soon sold it. Virgil was the last Moore to own Moores.

Mary Ann Lindsey was Albert Moores bookkeeper for 13 years, starting in 1958, some would say Moores golden era. The old high school was just two blocks away on West Street, and Mary Ann says the drugstore drew the after-school teen-age crowd. There was no jukebox, but a record player played Chubby Checker and Elvis and Jerry Lee.

Albert Moores friend Pat Colquitt says that when the drugstore closed at night, the adults had their own brand of fun. It was, he says, a good gathering place.

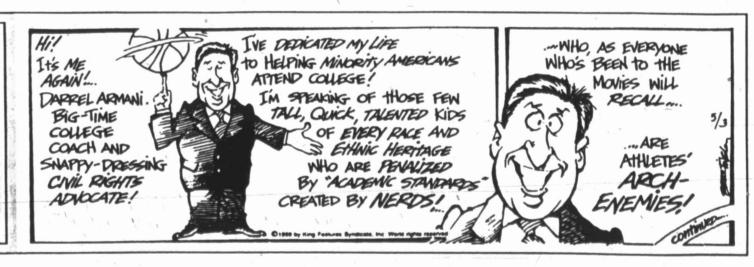

Many Christmas Eves we worked well past midnight, wrapping gifts, Mary Ann recalls. And people stopped for sodas after Cedartowns Easter parade extravaganza.

The most recent Moores incarnation features Pat McKelveys Coca-Cola collection some of it for display only. Pat spent last weekend filling old display shelves with the kind of collectible items that have lured visitors from as far away as Arkansas. The clock above the soda fountain says Aristocrat Ice Cream, as it has for 70 years. It still keeps time.

Howard College's Hawks closed out the regular season Sunday afternoon by sweeping Colorado powerhouse Trinidad State in a pair of games at Jack Barber

The Hawks' 9-6 and 6-3 wins allows them to take a 42-14 record into Saturday's opening round of the NJCAA Region V baseball tournament.

While sophomore left-hander Nick Webb pitched seven strong innings in the opener, he was forced to leave the game with the Hawks trailing 6-5. Duite Welch came on to pitch two innings of relief and got the win when Howard scored four runs in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Hawks' late rally with a single. Shortstop Shane Webb then drew a walk and Kennard Bibbs beat out a sacrifice bunt for a hit that loaded the bases.

That set the stage for sophomore outfielder Rhett Wells, who hit a grand slam home run — his seventh round-tripper of the season.

In addition to Wells' big shot, first baseman Caleb Reger finished the game with 3 RBI.

Tuesday regional semifinal playoff at Abilene Wylie High School's softball complex.

Hawks close regular season with sweep of Trinidae Catcher Robert Ramos led off the run double, while freshman outfielder

Jay Alsup provided a run-scoring single. The sweep left Hawks head coach Brian Roper hoping they are a sign of things to come.

"I really would like to hope this is a preview of what it will take to get to the Junior College World Series," Roper said, noting that the winner of the Region V tournament will 'almost certainly face Trinidad State for the right to advance to the JUCO World Series in Grand Junction, Colo., May 21-27.

"The only problem with that is we know we've got a tough regional tournament ahead of us," he added. "But we played very well against a quality baseball team. And that gives us an idea of what to expect if we can win the region-

The Miami Heat can win the East by winning one of their two remaining games. The San Antonio Spurs can win the West by finishing 2-0.

The playoff picture cleared up a little Sunday as the Heat rallied to defeat the Charlotte Hornets 100-93 and the Spurs beat the Utah Jazz 84-78.

Miami needs to beat Atlanta at home on Tuesday or New York on the road Wednesday to clinch the East, while San Antonio must defeat Portland and Golden State on the road Tuesday and Wednesday to win the West.

"I know one thing, regardless what happens, we will be in the playoffs," Miami coach Pat Riley said. "I want to have the best record in the Eastern Conference and we'll go from

"This was huge," San Antonio's Tim Duncan said, "and winning those last two ames will make it really, real ly big.

Elsewhere, Sacramento defeated Phoenix 111-100, Portland downed Denver 110-102, the Los Angeles Lakers beat Seattle 91-84, Detroit defeated Philadelphia 100-96, Atlanta topped Cleveland 76-65, Indiana trounced New York 94-71 and Houston beat the Los Angeles Clippers 110-84.

Charlotte will be eliminated if it loses at home to Philadelphia on Tuesday or at home Wednesday against Boston — or if the Knicks beat the Celtics tonight or the Heat on Wednesday.

Seattle will be eliminated if it loses Tuesday against Dallas or Wednesday at the Los Angeles Clippers — or if Sacramento wins one its remaining games, tonight at Denver or Wednesday against Vancouver.

Terry Porter was unstoppable in the fourth quarter, going 5for-5 from the field — including two 3-pointers — and scoring 12 of his 18 points.

Jamal Mashburn paced Miami with 20 points, while Alonzo Mourning, wearing goggles, returned after missing three games with an eye injury and had 19 points and 12 rebounds

Eddie Jones led Charlotte with 23 points, but ran off the court bleeding with 1:17 to play and the score tied 92-92 after teammate Derrick Coleman inadvertently elbowed him in the head while attempting to block a dunk by Mourning. Jones was sorely missed down the stretch.

Kings 111, Suns 100

The Kings completed a 3-0 sweep of the season series as Jason Williams had 24 points and Chris Webber, who played with an elastic belt around his lower back, had 13 points and 13 rebounds.

Williams had seven points in a 53-second span of the fourth quarter and Webber, apparently unwilling to risk his back by dunking, delicately, dropped in a layup on a breakaway with 1:19 remaining as the Kings broke open a close game down the stretch.

John Elway had shown the natural poise that made him one of the NFL's greatest quarterbacks. Standing in a crowded conference room where his family, friends and fans waited for official word of his retirement, Elway joked about having his car towed the night before and prepared to reflect upon his remarkable 16 years with the Denver

That's when the enormity of it all blindsided him. Elway's husky voice started to crack and his eyes welled up with tears. Taking a final knee was not going to be so easy.

"I really don't look at it as retirement," the 38-year-old Elway said Sunday during an emotional news conference. "I look at it as graduation. We graduate from high school. We graduate from college. I'm just graduating from football."

With that, Elway paused for the second time in two minutes, choking back tears and trying to regain his composure. His wife Janet cried as she sat in the front row with their four children and John's father, Jack.

podium and handed her husband a box of tissues. "It chokes you up," Jack Elway said.

"I've got a lot of friends. I like people, but that's my best friend.' Elway has been Denver's adopted son since the Broncos acquired him from the Baltimore Colts on May 2, 1983. It was fitting that he would walk away from football exactly 16 years later.

"They don't have an over-40 league or an over-50 league," Broncos tight end Shannon Sharpe said. "This is it. It's hard. To thank all the people who have been a part of his career and helped him get to this point, it's very emotional.'

Sharpe was one of several teammates who showed up on Elway Day. Running back Terrell Davis, defensive end Neil Smith and Elway's heir apparent, Bubby Brister, also listened intently as Elway explained that he could no longer endure the rigors of NFL life.

"It's time for me to move on," Elway said, breaking up again. "I can't do it physically anymore, and that's really hard for me to say.'

During his career, Elway's play often left opponents speechless. He guided his team to more victories

At one point, Janet walked up to the (148) than any other quarterback in NFL history. He threw for 51,475 yards and accounted for 54,882 total yards - second only to Miami's Dan Marino.

Elway also rallied his team to 47 gamesaving drives — more than any other quarterback. He was selected to nine Pro Bowls and was named the NFL's MVP in 1987. He holds 55 Broncos' regular-season or postseason records. "I don't think I've ever been around a guy that has had expectations as high as John Elway," Denver coach Mike Shanahan said. "Everybody has expected him to be the best on the football field. He's exceeded those expectations.'

For years, the only thing missing from Elway's resume was a Super Bowl title, and he took care of that by winning two straight. In his final game, he was voted Super Bowl MVP in a 34-19 win over Atlanta last January.

He becomes the only quarterback to retire after winning a Super Bowl.

"There's nothing harder than losing a Super Bowl when you work that hard to get there," Elway said. "Heck, after 14 years I was wondering if we'd ever get it done. If we hadn't have won a Super bowl, the chances are I'd be back next

John Elway, shown in this file photo leading the Denver Broncos to an AFC championship win over Cleveland in 1988, officially ended his football career Sunday.

TUESDAY, MAY 4: Others push and make demands this year, but that doesn't mean you have to respond. These people will tell you what you lack, whether you want to hear it or not. Your sense of humor helps you deal with others; your naturally easy ways are disarming. Your many natural gifts help you lasso in what you want. If you are single, you connect well on a one to one basis. Others respond to you in an intimate setting. Always remember how much you have to offer. You could meet someone special while traveling — possibly a foreigner. If attached, the two of you will relate on an even deeper level this year. Plan on frequent getaways and trips.

Capricorn gives you yet another perspective. ARIES (March 21-April 19) *Use the earlier part of the day to research, make calls or check out a spicy piece of office gossip. You pull it together later in the day, when you shift into productivity mode. Use your strong sense of direction to mobilize others. A pep talk or an incentive does the trick

Tonight: Visit with a older friend or relative. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make time for one-to-one meetings at the office, bank or dentist. What was very serious becomes funny with some perspective. Allow others plenty of slack. Reach out for others, get going on a writing project. You gain because of your broad point of view. Tonight: Time for a movie. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Others are full of personality. Let them call the shots and run with their ideas. You could be delighted by what happens. Take time with a partner; have a needed discussion. Follow through on what is important to you. You can take a stand later. Tonight: Make nice.

*Plunge into work and get the job done. Balance and handle all the demands others make of you. Your need to indulge others is high; you will do as much as you can. On the other hand, your creativity helps you cut out what is unnecessary. Tonight: Where

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

your friends are. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Let your imagination help make what you want a reality. Others push hard for what they want, but you really don't care. Your congenial mood sparkles. Friends play a big role in your day. However, chores become demanding. Use your time wisely. Tonight VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Take time for family and HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR personal matters. Another's extremes force your hand; you might feel you can't keep it all together. Use humor, and explain your limitations. Talk about what you want and expect. Others respond. Brainstorm; look past details. Tonight: Add some wildness to your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) *Make that additional effort. Express what is on your mind, but be aware that another at a distance is more emotional and less focused than you are. Perhaps a clearing discussion is needed. You might need to spend on your home and family. Tonight: Find a

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Deal with money matters before returning calls. Business proves to be demanding, though you can certainly meet another's requests. You get a lot done because of your energy and your sense of direction. You could be a bit more caustic than you realize. Tonight: Chat

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.

*Beam in exactly what you want this morning. Others are more than willing to go along with your ideas. Your charisma speaks. Your intuition serves you when dealing with others. Be clear about your frustrations. Make a long-overdue financial decision. Tonight:

Juggle the budget. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

Take a back seat and think through an important decision. Another might not look at problems the same way that you do. In fact, he could be quite laid back. Be realistic about diet and health — are you pushing your limits? Tonight: Your wish is another's command. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Use the morning to further a special wish that surrounds a child or loved one. Another cares deeply about you. Extremes punctuate your day. Respond to a boss who could be aggressive and pushy. Your instincts guide you on the right course. Establish limits.

Tonight: Bring home extra PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You are in the limelight. Others look at you with a fresh perspective. News from a distance could cause you to regroup and go in a different direction. Your softness comes out, even if you would rather keep it a secret with everyone but family. Schedule time for a key meeting. Tonight: Where

Lonely widower's friendship is threatened by his daughter

DEAR ABBY: My husband hunter." She even threatened passed away 11 months ago. A to hit me! former co-worker advised me to take a trip to "get away from it father to give her power of all." I took her advice and went attorney while he was out of on the trip of a lifetime, to Greece, in September.

While I was on this trip, I 'Richard,'' a gentleman who had lost his wife. We hit it off and spent a lot of time getting acquainted At one point, he bought me refuse, but he insisted I keep it. It was some thing I had admired but was too costly for my budget. I am not poor: I own my home, car. have some savings and own some stock. I live on a fairly small widow's pension, but if I budget and am careful I'll do an expensive

gift, which I tried

After we returned to the states, Richard called me regularly, sent me flowers when I was hospitalized and has generally been a good friend. The problem is his daughter, "Liz." She dislikes me intensely Richard arranged to visit me for a week to meet my friends and family. They thought he was terrific and were happy for us. When I went to visit him, he had a welcome poster printed and hung in his living room. When Liz saw the poster, she tore it down and threw it in the garbage. She informed me that she did not welcome me and thought I was a "fortune

Liz tried to convince her town, as she has been handling his finances for him. His sister advised him not to let his daughter run his life, and that he should take Liz's name off his checking account and take care of his own bills. Of course, Liz thinks this was my idea. I tried to explain to her that I have no designs on her father's money, if he has any, and that we're just good friends who enjoy traveling together. When we first got together, I told Richard I would not see him if his daughter objected. The problem is, he told me he would just "give up on life" if we couldn't see each other, and he'd rather be dead than lonely.

He lives in Michigan and I live in Montana, and neither of us wants to remarry, as it would complicate our lives. Any advice you can give me will be greatly appreciated.

LONELY IN MONTANA

Abby, I am 56; Richard is 72

DEAR LONELY: Do not for one moment think that this is about you. It's about money. Since Liz pays all of her father's bills, she is aware of the expensive gift he gave you. and obviously views you as a threat to her inheritance. Unless Richard wants his daughter running his life, he needs to take control of his financial affairs. I see no reason for you and Richard to end your friendship or forgo traveling together because of his daughter's determination to control him. My advice to both of you: Listen to your hearts.
