About 100 peace officers ran into Big Spring Tuesday, escorted by flashing police vehicles, as part of the Law Enforcement Torch Run for the state Area 18, which consists of Big Spring, Midland, Odessa. Lubbock, Snyder and Amarillo, has raised $32,000 to benefit Special Olympics this year, he

"This is up for us. We're hoping for a Texas goal of $1.5 million, that's statewide. Last year we raised $900,000 statewide,"

Special Olympics is an opportunity for those with mental and physical challenges to participate in athletic competitions. The games are adapted to meet the special needs of the athletes, and all monies raised for the organization is used to provide those special devices or accommodations.

The funds provide the necessities needed to compete, things like shoes or medications. Just whatever they might need," Candelaria said.

The runners will travel from Big Spring to San Angelo, where they will spend the night in hotels. Then, the trail continues through San Antonio into Houston, for the Special Olympics games. The course covers more than 3,000 Texas

We will have more than 1,500 law enforcement officers at the ceremonies opening Houston. Also, correctional officers with the Texas Department of Corrections will be joining us in Houston," Candelaria said.

The peace officers are traversing Texas in a leap-frog formation, he said. Each department has a motor home where the officers ride, awaiting their turn to jog, run, walk or bicy-

"My personal goal is to run 25 day torch run. Det. Lupe Liedecke with the Big Spring Police Department, said she and fellow officers Javier Becerra and Gilbert Barraza requested vacation time for their absence from the department. "Chief Lonnie Smith is very supportive of our efforts. When we return, we will begin fundraising, because we have some Special Olympics kids in Big Spring who want to compete next year," Liedecke said. This is the third year Big Spring has participated in the torch run, she said. "Our kids have never been represented at the games, but we hope to take then next year," she said.

Runners were welcomed to Big Spring by Capt. Pam Jordan and city manager Gary Fuqua. Then the group, led by the Big Spring officers, ran from the courthouse lawn to Wal-Mart, a 1.6 mile jog.

Garcia mayor pro-tem; Contract with Cornell approved Tuesday night

By BILL McCLELLAN

Big Spring City Council on Tuesday approved a contract with Cornell Corrections, selected mayor pro-tem and heard about possible funds from the Texas Department of Transportation that could used to beautify the downtown area.

As expected, no action was taken on housing for the Wilderness Camp inmates. The city is waiting to hear from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice (TDCJ) on a site loca-inmates who perform work in and around Big Spring. "Eventually, this item is not going to be on the agenda. I don't know when, but someday," Assistant City Manager Emma Bogard told the council. Bogard told council members that TDCJ sent nine people to look at the proposed sites for Wilderness Camp housing. The current facility, located on the former Webb Air Force Base, is deteriorating and too costly to repair, city officials have said. Bogard said that TDCJ is waiting for reports to come in from various people who have

Council members had tabled a contract with Cornell Corrections two weeks ago, but readily approved it Tuesday. Essentially, the new contract calls for a 50-year lease instead of 35. Another new provision of the pact would increase the per capitation agreement every five years. Currently, the city is paid 70 cents per inmate per day. That will increase by one percent for each point of increase by the Consumer Price Index after each five-year period, said Jim Finley, city attor-

In other business, Oscar Garcia was selected mayor protem by the council. Chuck Cawthon had been serving in that capacity. However, because of the May elections, in which Cawthon was re-elected to the council, the position of mayor pro-tem had to be re-selected. Cawthon asked to be removed for consideration to the post, and nominated Garcia.

Big Spring will be applying for some funding assistance through the Statewide Transportation Enhancement Program, council members learned. The funding, which is the same as was used to help renovate Hangar 25, is for nontraditional transportation assistance. Specifically it can be used for items such as pedestrian and bicycle walks and education, scenic or historic highway programs to include tourist and welcome facilities, landscaping and scenic beautification, historic preservation and establishment of transportation museums.

Leigh Corson, planning coordinator of the city, told the council that staff is looking into two areas.

"We'd like to look at pedestrian areas with walkways and lighting to help beautify the area and encourage use of downtown. We'd also like to consider a tourism area where visitors could come and learn more about Big Spring. An area with restrooms and information. Something that would be both functional and help beautify the downtown area," Corson

Relay for Life, the American Cancer Society fundraiser, raised close to $105,000 this year, organizers announced Tuesday. "We are just more than elated at the response to Relay this year." said co-chair Diane Wood. "I can't believe this community continues to give and give and give as it does." The community campout, during which walkers circle the track for 19 hours to collect pledges, raised a total of $104,790, Wood said. Last year, the total money raised was $100,000, and this year's goal had been set at $102,000. Wood's announcement came at the "wrap-up" party for Relay supporters at Garrett Hall in

First United Methodist Church. "We're so close to 105 (thousand dollars) and I feel like more will come in this week to get us to that," she said. "I can't say enough how much we thank all of you."

Special recognition was given to the underwriters, companies and businesses whose up-front funding helped the event get started. Despite an economy that appeared to be lagging, Wood said volunteers raised $5,000 more in underwriting money than last year.

"American Cancer Society strives to keep expenses down," she said. "They push us to keep our expenses to no more than 15 percent. Well, our expenses will be showing zero, because all of our expenses were underwrit-

Jackson & Perkins are donat ing Veterans Honor roses to VA medical centers around the country. The debut of the rose will be at Arlington National Cemetery, where it will be planted Thursday in a memorial rose garden.

Locally, veterans from the hospital, along with employees, will plant the rose near the new outpatient clinic, said Iva Jo Hanslik, acting community relations coordinator for the medical center.

"We remember our veterans not just by ceremonies like this, but by instilling in our children and our children's children the understanding and respect for what their sacrifices have meant to us all," Hanslik said.

The Veterans Honor Rose is a hybrid tea rose. It is described by Jackson & Perkins as a "stunning dark red, with dark green, semi-glossy foliage and a light raspberry fragrance." The rose bush will grow to a height of about four feet, with a width of about five feet. The bloom is large, about five and one half inches with a high centered

"These will be experienced teachers using programs that have been selected through the site-based decision making teams," Murphy said.

And junior high school principal Bill Tarleton is expected to present a recommendation for Teen Leadership, a drug free schools program funded by federal money.

"He will be recommending we put the program into the junior high school, and Mr. Bowermon may pilot the program in the high school," Murphy said.

In the end, a bill to grant $179 million in research and development tax credits was killed on a technicality after Democrat lawmakers argued it would cost too much.

Another bill — originally intended only for Internet-related tax relief — was loaded down with a series of other tax cut proposals. It was passed less than 30 minutes before the deadline

House has endorsed more than Sylvester Turner, D-Houston, who called the "point of order" on the business related bill.

According to Turner, the bill that survived included:

 About $61 million for Internet access tax relief. Under this provision the state would exempt the first $25 of monthly access service and would phase in an exemption for all information and data processing services from the sales tax.

- About $60 million for a three-day school clothes tax holiday. The sales tax exemption would apply to clothes less than $100.

Rep. Harold Dutton, D-Houston, had sponsored similar legislation that got stuck in committee after leading lawmakers became concerned that there wouldn't be enough to accommodate all requested tax relief.

a sales tax exemption for medicines.

The tax cuts given preliminary approval Tuesday, face another House vote today. They will then be sent to the Senate and eventually have to be meshed with $451 million in relief already passed by the House for a variety of things, including school supplies and diapers.

Leading lawmakers have said since budget writers expect to have only about $500 million in tax relief available some of the legislation would have to be trimmed or killed.

The business-related tax cuts killed Tuesday would have granted tax cuts for companies conducting research and development, job creation, capitol investments and setting up daycare for their employees children.

Defending them, bill sponsor Rep. Rene Oliveira, D-- More than $250 million for Brownsville, said not investing priorities," he said.

"It is expensive, but what we reap in return will be worth it,' Oliveira said.

Turner argued that the "tax cuts were for a particular special interest" and would not benefit everyone.

The bill "is too much at this time. I don't think we're ready for it," he said.

Turner, who sits on the Appropriations Committee, said there is much that could be done with the funds left from the research and development bill.

"There are a number of things that remain a priority for the state of Texas that we did not fully address and I think that before you start cutting money away from not just this budget but future budgets you better take a lot at those

Unhappy conservatives slow House work on spending bills

WASHINGTON (AP) Conservative discontent with Republican leaders over spending legislation is slowing House debate over an agriculture bill, creating new uncertainty about how Congress will complete its spending work this year.

Things are less chaotic in the Senate, where subcommittees approved a $21.2 billion bill Tuesday covering energy and water programs, plus a $48.9 billion measure for transportation. But GOP leaders there are unsure how must-pass spending bills can be approved that, under budget limits, are supposed to be $24 billion below this year's levels for domestic programs.

For nearly nine hours Tuesday, the House debated a $61 billion measure financing farm and food programs for next fiscal year. Lawmakers barely made any headway. It was the first spending bill for fiscal 2000, which begins Oct. 1, to reach the House floor.

The main reason for the glacial pace: a parade of amendments by conservatives, who claimed the measure put lawmakers on a path toward breaking limits imposed by the budget that Congress approved just last month. Exceeding those limits would mean spending part of the Social Security surplus, which Republicans have pledged not to do.

"It's a matter of living up to our responsibility to secure a Rep. Tom Coburn, R-Okla., a leader of the dissident group. "And quite frankly, I'm not sure this body is up to it."

Speaking on condition of anonymity, participants said domestic spending bills instead.

conservatives want GOP leaders to explain quickly what their strategy is for approving all 13 spending bills for federal agencies for fiscal 2000 without letting President Clinton win billions of extra dollars for them.

Right now, many lawmakers and aides say there is no such strategy. Even so, many of them privately concede that negotiations with the White House that result in additional spending are all but inevitable.

'We're trying to find out how to do all this stuff, and we can't do it on their time frame," said House Majority Whip Tom DeLay, R-Texas, asked in a brief interview what conservatives wanted.

Of six amendments the conservatives offered, only one was approved, Agriculture Department's chief information officer's budget by $500,000.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted 24-3 to divide $536 billion among its 13 spending bills. The only opponents were three Democrats: Sens. Richard Durbin of Illinois, Dianne Feinstein of California and Byron Dorgan of North Dakota.

Like an outline approved last the week bv Appropriations Committee, the Senate plan would leave bills covering education, environment and other domestic programs $24 billion below this year's levels and more than $30 future for our children," said billion below what Clinton requested. To begin bridging that gap, the Senate panel voted by voice to take $3.1 billion approved in earlier bills for defense programs and use it for

Senate poised to approve electric deregulation bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Senate was poised to approve legislation today to deregulate the state's utility market, the Senate sponsor of the measure

Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, said he would ask the Senate to approve the House version of the bill that supporters predict could mean lower electric rates for most of Texas' residential customers. The House approved the bill last week.

With Senate approval, the bill will go to Gov. George W. Bush. As Senate sponsor, Sibley had the option of recommending the Senate reject any changes made could begin shopping for a new Bill supporters expect utility companies to be enticed into moving to Texas to offer lower prices and new technology, which could range from selling "green power" to providing gadgets that tell consumers when they are wasting the most electricity.

The bill has been criticized by some consumer groups that complained that it didn't go far enough in assuring lower prices for residential customers and in keeping incumbent utilities from keeping their market power.

"There are still areas we'd like to see improved, but I agree the Senate should concur. The Legislature has decided to move forward with deregulation so we should start implementing

The legislation, a priority of Gov. George W. Bush, was initially designed to allow so-called grandfathered plants to voluntarily apply for a flexible permit from the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission.

The permit would not have been as stringent as those issued for newer plants.

But facing a midnight deadline for preliminary House approval, bill sponsor Rep. Ray Allen, R-Grand Prairie, late Tuesday accepted amendments requiring the plants to use the best available technology to until Sunday to work on a final upgrade their equipment by 2003 or shut down.

Allen, fearing the bill would be lost altogether because of the deadline, said he was willing to accept the amendments - for

"We knew that we had to move the bill forward," he said. "Sometimes in this process, the parliamentary maneuvering, the people who use the rules to the best of their advantage, live to fight another day.'

With preliminary approval, the bill needs one more House vote before it is sent back to the Senate, which passed a more flexible version. The initiative would then likely go to a conference committee to work out differences between the two versions.

Statements by Morales, aide vary in fees probe accounts are emerging o why a former top aide to the Texas attorney general quit the state's anti-tobacco lawsuit.

Ex-Attorney General Dan Morales has told a national arbitration panel that set legal fees for the state's landmark tobacco settlement that Will Pryor, his former top assistant, dropped out of a Jan. 31, 1997, contract with him and Houston attorney Marc Murr because Pryor could not meet a financial HOUSTON (AP) - Conflicting commitment to help pay for the Chronicle in an interview lawsuit.

However, Pryor countered that he quit the case because it became obvious that he wouldn't have much work to do. Pryor also said he was concerned that his former employment with Morales could raise questions about the potentially lucrative contract.

"From my perspective, it really didn't have anything to do with financial considerations," Pryor

Tuesday.

Pryor said he consulted with Morales a few times after signing the contract but soon dropped out because "my involvement wasn't necessary.

"In any meaningful sense, I really wasn't doing anything,' he said. Texas Attorney General John Cornyn accuses Morales of trying to fraudulently secure $260 million in legal fees for Murr, told the Houston his friend, in the tobacco case.

OUR VIEWS

Hangar dedication time to remember those who served vive years ago, a group of concerned Big Spring citizens took it upon themselves to take on a monumental task. They decided the history of the Big Spring Bombardier School and Webb Air Force Base needed preserving. There wasn't much left of the old base, not much that was salvageable,

There were a couple of old hangars, but they were falling apart. Time had caught up with them years ago. It would take a tremendous amount of work and a lot of money to take one of the aging relics and turn it into something to be proud of again, something useful to the community.

But they did it.

Through grants and fund-raisers, they transformed a deteriorating old building into a place full of pride and

That place, designated Hangar 25, will be dedicated on Memorial Day. It's a fitting time, because in and around that hangar men trained for combat in World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War. Men who would fight for freedom. Men who would go out into combat in hellish places. Men who would give their lives for their country. Our grandfathers, our fathers, our sons.

The Hangar 25 Air Museum is dedicated — or will be on Monday — to preserving and protecting the history of the men, the women and the aircraft who served

At 1:30 p.m. that day, the great doors of Hangar 25 will once again be opened. The Lamella roof construction, built that way by the same ingenuity it took to win peace in World War II, will reach high. And that old hangar will serve its country again. It will stand majestically, proudly, on the West Texas landscape as it did more than 50 years ago.

No doubt, you had relatives who were called to duty in World War II, the Korean War or Vietnam. Maybe you, yourself were one of those who walked the fields, sailed the ships or flew the planes into conflict.

It really doesn't matter whether you or yours served in the Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force, National Guard or any other branch of the service. Dedication of Hangar 25 is the dedication of decades of answering the call to duty. Hangar 25 may be about pilot training, but it is really about the sweat, the tears, the anguish, the laughter, the joys and the dreams of thousands of individuals who served our country admirably.

It is about individuals we cannot and should not ever forget.

Take the time Monday, first to attend the Gold Star Chapel dedication at the Vietnam Memorial, then to make your way just a few blocks down the road to the site of the former Big Spring Bombardier School and Webb Air Force Base. Make your way to Hangar 25.

Let's show this old girl how proud we are of her, and more importantly, how proud of we are of all of those who served with her and who, in our hearts, will always be remembered.

Much like those who waste their lives and deface the property of others with graffiti, the publicity surrounding the socalled event perpetuated the problem.

That's why responsible newspapers and broadcast media do not publicize the "tagging" of property by those whose purpose in life has yet to be determined.

You see, it's part of the game these vermin play to try and get publicity out of their acts — and that's what we saw across the nation following the Columbine tragedy.

Yes, we all report on an event such as the vandalism at the Spring or Kids' Zone or the Vietnam Memorial, but responsible media tries to do it in such a manner as to make the public aware of the problem and to try and assist in the eventual apprehension of the perpetrators.

But reporting "he said she said" is not responsible.

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN

When 11-year-old buddies Kelly Stanley, Colby Newton and Shawn Lawson were looking for a place to hang out this summer, they didn't settle on the pool, the park or the mall.

They built a place of their own. The ribbon cutting ceremony for the Scout House Club. as they named their new hangout, was May 16 in Kelly's back-

"It's pretty nice in there," said Colby, who admits that, when the boys started work, he didn't expect to see such a posh finished project.

"I thought we'd probably get halfway through and then drop it," Colby added. "But Kelly really kept it going.'

The 12-foot by 8-foot clubhouse, built on a concrete slab, has working lights and electrical outlets, so the members can play a stereo or television set.

With help from a few others Samuel Ortiz, Pedro Sorolla, Steve Stanley and Colin Stanley - the boys built their club from the ground up. All they lacked as school ended was a coat of paint on the walls, which (Martha Stewart look out!) they plan to be red and black, club colors.

Of course, all this took plenty of money, which the boys. raised doing odd jobs throughout their neighborhood — raking leaves, washing cars and such. Kelly also added the money he earned for making straight A's on his report card.

The three chose their club's name because they are all members of Boy Scout Troop 1. Now that they have such a nice place to meet, the boys have also agreed on a list of regular chores to keep it clean. "Everyone has to do their jobs," explained Kelly, naming off a list that included vacuuming, taking out the trash and outdoor maintenance.

"We'll keep it probably better than we do our rooms," said

Laine Lawson, Shawn's mother, said the families were pleasantly surprised by the amount of work the boys put into their

"The Walk"

A few days ago I took a walk and as I walked I begin to cry. For you see the walk I took was special. It was the survivors walk for the American Cancer Society Relay for Life. The reason I cried was in loving memory of all the many who fought the battle of cancer and lost. Cancer is ugly, it doesn't care who it hurts.

Little Jordan Evans fought the battle from a small baby to age 10. For his little body just wasn't strong enough to fight anymore. Jordan always wore a smile on his face, just happy to cial young woman she was more fought the battle and lost. when she lost that battle. Marilyn Newson touched many lives with her loving and car-

Christy Cox, who never gave up thinking she would win, sadly she lost that battle at age 27, leaving behind a husband and a little daughter who will only have memories of the young mother who loved her

Madgalena Hernandez who planted beautiful flowers to brighten up the world also fought the battle and lost. John Coffee also fought the battle and just when it looked like he be alive. Parents: Buckle up to set example for children

Buckle Up...it saves lives. While approximately two-thirds of Americans report that they always buckle up in the front seat, only about half that many say they use their safety belt in the back seat, according to a survey released by the Air Bag and Safety Belt Campaign. Although the back seat is the safest place to ride in a car, unbelted back seat passengers are at serious risk. In a crash they can pose a potentially fatal threat to others in the vehicle as they become flying objects.

Although many people say they understand the risks associated with being unbuckled, far too many people admit that they are not buckling up. Increasing safety belt use is the most effective way to save lives and reduce injuries on the nation's roadways behavior. Adults who do not never ride in the front seat buckle up send children a dead-message that is okay not to wear a seatbelt. Research indicates that if a driver is not buckled, 70 percent of the time children riding in that vehicle will not be buckled either. If a driver is belted. 94 percent of the time, children will be belted too.

I would like to thank all the kind people who gave me donations as I went from door to door collecting money for the Relay, especially Arthur and Melinda Hernandez who saw that I was getting weary and asked me how much money did I need to reach the goal I had planned ($50). I told them and in orly a moment they gave me a check which made me reach the $300 goal I had set. For the American Cancer Society was most kind to me when I fought my battle with cancer. Think of him as the innocent, sunlight of West Texas, or as the muscular lumberjack of Oregon for whom nothing was impossible

Wes Prichard, as he was known in his youth, was born week. He was active and intelliand raised in Big Spring.

It was in the early years of the century that Aden Haley Prichard and Lily Ford Prichard welcomed their first son, William Wesley to this world on June 7, 1907.

Haley Prichard was a wellknown rancher and farmer who on occasion taught mathematics at the local high school and designed and built many of the homes in Big Spring.

The family lived in Big Spring on Lancaster Street until Wes was 16 when his father moved the family to Bend, Ore. to be with Haley's brother Asa Prichard.

William Prichard spent his remaining youth in Bend where the family met tragedy when Wes's uncle Asa and shortly after, his father Haley, were killed in separate, unrelated accidents shortly after coming to Oregon.

In his life Bill was a true man of the west, he was skilled in many trades. He worked as a railroad brakeman, a truck driver, a logger; he ran a timber felling crew for the CCC and was a Journeyman meat cutter.

In the sea, Bill Prichard found his calling when he joined the Navy to see the world. Bill spent over 10 years at sea rising from able seamen and after a year of school received a commission as a 3rd Mate in the U.S. Merchant Marines.

Returning to Oregon to help his family through the Depression Bill spent the 30's in Bend, Ore. where he lived until the beginning of World War II when he rejoined the Navy when the nation needed his services.

Bill was rated a Battalion Chief and a Chief Commissary Stewart in the U.S. Navy.

To his credit he ran the galley of the supply ship Xanthus and he was on the original commissioning crew of the Battleship IOW. While on Oahu, he ran a mess for assault troops training for the Pacific Invasions. The unit served meals to over 4,000 hungry American Servicemen each day. Bill had command and responsibility for up to 350 sailors.

It was on the cruiser Biloxi that Bill and another Chief turned the ship in time to avoid it being hit by a German torpedo.

Bill escaped death at least three times in his Navy life, but found love and marriage when he visited New York City where he met and married Lillian Fertig of Brooklyn, N.Y.

At the end of the war, Bill Prichard lived with Lillian in New York until 1958 when he moved the family to Seattle. Wash., he was always in his heart a man of the West.

The marriage was a good one sturdy, straw-haired 12-year-old as William had two children, sitting on his mule Daisy in the Linda Kathleen and Wesley Ross Prichard. He lived with his beloved wife of 54 years lived in Shoreline neighborhood of Seattle, Wash., until he was felled by a stroke last gent up to the last.

This can be said of William Wesley Prichard, he was a good Christian man, of a type that we will not see again. As a man he never lied and he was an honest workman all his life. He died as he lived well respected by all who knew him and beloved by his family. His loss creates a void that will never be filled in the lives of people who knew him

Consumers still cautious about 2000 — what buying food from online grocers

NEW YORK (AP) — You'll buy a book, balance your checkbook, even invest in stocks over the Internet. But when it comes to grocery shopping, most folks still hop in the car and go to the supermarket

That may change soon. Some of the Internet's elite. such as Amazon.com and the founder of software pioneer Netscape, are betting big money that people will soon be salivating over the idea of buying everything from fresh tuna steaks to raisin bran online.

"It's all about experience, and if you make the online experience better than what they can find themselves at the store, there's a great chance that your online grocery business will succeed," said Michael May, an analyst at Internet research firm Jupiter Communications.

Online grocery sales are still quite small, totaling just under $150 million last year, or less than 1 percent of the more than $440 billion in total supermarket sales, according to Jupiter. But Jupiter expects sales to rise to more than $3.5 billion by 2002.

So far the biggest challenge for cyber-grocers has been persuading Americans to just try

In fact, fewer than a million people have bought groceries online, while the average American visits a brick-andmortar supermarket 2.2 times a

"Americans are attached to their supermarkets. They like to wander around the stores and touch and smell what they are going to buy," said Tom Agan of the consulting firm Kurt Salmon Associates. Online grocers are also struggling to assure shoppers that they won't get stuck with spoiled food, hefty surcharges and late deliv-

"I didn't get what I wanted, it wasn't cheaper, and the delivery was late. After all that I figured it was easier to just go to the supermarket," said Janice Ryer, a working mother of two from Atlanta.

Ryer hasn't bought groceries online since her disastrous attempt a year ago from a nowdefunct Internet supermarket that operated out of her local Kroger's market.

But that doesn't mean the Just a year ago, shoppers online.

clothes on the Internet because they couldn't try them on. Today, the market is booming.

The e-grocers now generating the most buzz - and investment dollars — seem to have a combination of technological savvy and understanding of customer service.

One is Webvan of Oakland, Calif., which plans to begin serving the San Francisco Bay area later this year. Webvan, founded by Borders Books founder Louis Borders, has backers like CBS and the big Japanese high-tech investment firm Softbank.

Webvan's warehouse has motorized carouse's filled with thousands of items. There, a worker can fill 10 times more orders in an hour than most competitors, whose employees roam grocery stores or warehouses, filling shopping carts.

Another is HomeGrocer.com. which announced this past week that Amazon.com had bought a 35 percent stake for $42.5 million. It also recently received $5 million from the Barksdale Group, an investment firm run by James Barksdale, founder of Netscape.

Founded just a year ago, it now has more than 10,000 customers in the Seattle area. On Monday, it began serving Portland, Ore., and had more than 400 customers signed up by mid-week HomeGrocer buys all of its own inventory, which it then stores in its own distribution center in each city. That holds down its prices and also ensures better quality.

It also developed a delivery truck with multiple zones, allowing ice cream to go in the freezer, orange juice to be refrigerated and bread and bananas to stay in a temperate climate. "I wasn't sure what to expect when I started ordering from them. But it really is easy and convenient," said Michelle Borozan, a high-tech worker from Seattle who started shopping at HomeGrocer in February when her son was "The produce is better than

Report says male action figures too buff for boys

BOSTON (AP) - Since the 1960s, male action figures appear to have been on a steady diet of steroids, beefing up to inhuman proportions and giving boys a skewed definition of masculinity, a psychiatrist In a study published this week in the International Journal of Eating Disorders, Harvard psychiatrist Dr. Harrison Pope said male action hunks are sending boys the wrong message, much as Barbie gives girls a twisted picture of perfection.

He said his studies have shown increased emphasis on muscular males over the years, and the latest analysis continues the trend.

"We chose to study the toys because we could measure them and they were good examples of the trend," Pope said. "We talked to many kids and the toys they liked the most were very muscular figures."

Researchers measured the circumference of GI Joe's waist, chest and biceps at different stages of development over the years.

The original GI Joe from the 1960s, scaled to human dimensions, had a biceps circumference that equated to about 12 inches, similar to an ordinary

But a GI Joe Extreme from 1997 had a biceps circumference of more than 26 inches, almost the size of a small man's waist. In comparison, the biceps of real-life home run slugger Mark McGwire measure about 20 inches

Even Luke Skywalker, nearly two decades after a more slender action figure was released for the original Star Wars series, was clad in an open robe hanging over a welldefined chest in a 1995 model, Pope said.

Bulldogettes dominate 2-2A all-district softball team

The Bulldogettes had been so dominant in 2-2A play — winning every district game by run-ruling the opposition that they grabbed six first-team positions as well as chalking up the two individual honors reserved for the loop's most valuable player and newcomer of the year.

As a result, the league's coaches decided to select a 14-player first team, allowing good athletes from the rest of the district's squads a chance for recognition. Coahoma also placed one player on the 10-person second team. Topping the all-district list was Bulldogette center fielder Cassie Tindol, one of three seniors who helped lead Coahoma to the Class 2A state championship game for a second consecutive Freshman third baseman Erin Stovall was the coaches' choice for newcomer of the year, having batted at a .417 clip.

In addition to those individual honorees, the Bulldogettes put sophomores Amber Bingham, Kenni Kay Buchanan, Brandie Hart and Kortney Kemper, as well as seniors Misty Baker and Kelli Buchanan on the all-district squad's first Kay Buchanan closed the year with an 11-4 record after suffering the 5-3 loss to Alto in the Class 2A title game in Austin.

Dogs prep for red-hot Stamford

By JOHN A. MOSELEY

Sports Editor

After having seen his Bulldogs post two straight 3-0 playoff wins, Coahoma head coach Scott Lewis admits having plenty of concerns going into Thursday's 7 p.m. Class 2A regional semifinal with Stamford's Bulldogs at McMurry University's Walt Driggers Field in Abilene.

"We're just not hitting the ball very well," Lewis said as he put his team through Tuesday afternoon workouts. "We've been getting some timely hitting, but we really haven't been a big hitting team all year. That worries me, because sooner or later, that's going to hurt you."

The 19-7 Bulldogs showed that timely hitting in last week's 3-0 regional quarterfinals win over New Deal's Lions - first baseman Blake Nichols providing the most crucial hits, a two-run home run in the second inning and an RBI single in the

That concern is somewhat compounded this week, Lewis admitted, because Stamford - the third-place finisher in District 8-2A behind Hamlin and Jim Ned seems to be peaking at exactly the right

"Stamford's on a roll ... they've gotten hot at just the time you want to be playing your best," Lewis said. "They finished third in their district, but they got here by beating Hamlin pretty handily in the last

"They're going to have a lot of the same things going for them that we've had going for us, too," he added. "They came out of a tremendously competitive district and that prepares you handle playoff competition. And they've had really good pitching."

While virtually nobody in the state can boast of better playoff pitching than Coahoma ace Delvin White has provided, two shutout wins in which he allowed just one hit and struck out 33 batters, Stamford will counter with the combination of Jason Reyes and J.J. Guzman.

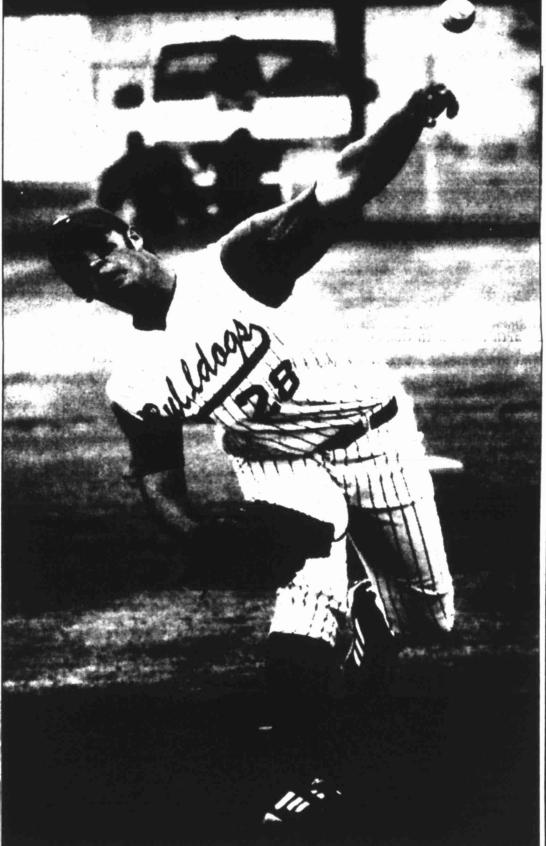

"Reyes and Guzman are both excellent pitchers," Lewis said. "Guzman is the harder thrower of the two, but Reyes throws tremendous breaking stuff ... it's a great combination. They like to start the game with Reyes, let him go four innings and then bring on Guzman to finish."

The Stamford pitching duo also lead the Bulldogs in batting, as well. "They're both just excellent athletes," Lewis said, heaping praise on the Stamford duo. "They're the best hitters in their lineup ... both of them hit for power and average. And on top of that, Reyes ran a leg on their sprint relay team that qualified for the state track meet." It is Reyes, however, that Lewis says his team needs to jump on early when Thursday's regional semifinal showdown gets under way

"We need to jump on top early," Lewis explained. "Of course, that's nothing really new, either. That's been the secret to suc-

Texas Rangers rookie Mike Venafro was the last to find out he won his first major league "Not until I came in here and they handed me the ball and said 'congratulations,'" Venafro said from the locker room. Venafro pitched 3 2-3 innings of scoreless relief to get the victory in the Rangers' 7-2 win over the Tampa Bay Devil Rays on Tuesday night. Venafro (1-0) retired 11 of the 13 hitters he faced and needed only two pitches to retire Wade groundouts after replacing starter Ryan Glynn with a runner on second and one out in the fifth inning. The left-hander entered with the Rangers leading 5-2 and proceeded to allow just two singles, manager Johnny Oates said. Venafro recorded eight groundball outs. Glynn pitched in and out of trouble during his first major league start, stranding, seven runners through four innings. He was pulled just two outs away from qualifying for his first victory.

Another rookie, Zimmerman, got the final three outs as the trio of first-year players gave up nine hits.

"It's exciting to see three kids from the minor league system that weren't on the ballclub when we opened the season come in here and do what they did," Oates said. "That's certainly encouraging, to put it mildly ... that's exciting.

Glynn allowed two runs and seven hits in 4 1-3 innings. He walked three and had three strikeouts.

McGriff, who went 4-for-5, had a run-scoring single in the third that made it 4-1

After Royce Clayton's single made it 5-1 in the fourth, Tampa Bay got the run back in the bottom of the inning on Randy Winn's RBI single. Glynn avoided further damage

Jazz fights off Portland, stays alive with 88-71 victory

Jazz 88, Trail Blazers 71

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Jazz can be ferocious when cornered. Coach Jerry Sloan wishes they wouldn't wait so long to get that way.

Fighting for their postseason lives Tuesday night, the Jazz landed hard elbows, grabbed tough rebounds, hit big shots and generally outmuscled the Portland Trail Blazers, winning Game 5 of their second-round series 88-71.

"We play that way now, but I have to wonder what the problem was that got us in this position in the first place,' Sloan said. "We don't seem to have any urgency unless we're up against it." Utah avoided playoff elimination for the third time in 11 days. The Jazz are 6-1 in their last seven do-or-die postseason

"I hat's when ver play our best, is when we rise to the challenge that the other team presents to us," said Karl Malone, the first quarter. The two jawed con- Anthony.

"This team doesn't back down. We did what we had to do to win, and Portland will try to do the same thing on Thursday. That's when the Jazz will get one last chance to win in the Rose Garden and force Game 7 on Saturday. Despite the defeat, the Blazers don't expect to go back at the Delta Center. "It's hard to beat a Utah team one time, two times, three times, let alone four," guard Jim Jackson said. "I think Game 6 is a defining moment for this team. We'll see how we handle it."

> foul for taunting and Portland coach Mike Dunleavy was ejected. With nine minutes to play and Portland down 72-58, Grant was called for a foul for violently swinging his elbows on a rebound, and after the Jazz missed their next shot and Grant rebounded, he got the technical for faking a throwing motion at Malone's head. When the technical was called, Dunleavy burst onto the court to confront referee Ron Garretson. He was citated and had to be restrained by two another apparently inadvertent elbow in assistant coaches and guard Greg

"It was out of frustration, I'm sure," Dunleavy said of Grant's actions. "It was the right call. ... He had guys hanging on him all night, though. My guy gets hit in the head, and he gets the foul. That's what set him off and set me off, too.'

'We might have got a little emotional, but I don't think that was the difference in the game," said Portland's Damon Stoudamire, who had 12 points and six assists. "Mike's ejection might have been taking one for the team. Maybe we needed some emotion.

The fourth-quarter fireworks undercut a strong overall game from the Jazz, who shot 50 percent for the first time since their Game 1 of their first-round win over Sacramento. Utah also outrebounded the Blazers 45-31 and made just three second-half turnovers.

The Jazz are hoping to become the sev-

Bobby Witt (3-2) took the loss, giving up seven runs and nine hits in six-plus innings. The Devil Rays have lost four straight and tied a season-low by falling two games under .500 (22-24).

enth team in NBA history to recover from a 3-1 deficit to win a series, the most recent being the Miami Heat, who beat the Knicks in seven games in 1997.

The Blazers, who haven't advanced past the second round since 1992, struggled offensively for the second straight game. Portland shot just 34.3 percent and missed its first seven shots of the fourth quarter. Utah never trailed and began the second half with a 13-2 run, but the Blazers kept it close behind Rasheed Wallace and Isaiah Rider, who scored half of Portland's 58 points in the first three quarters.

After winning the first game of the series at home, the Jazz lost Game 2 on a last-second layup miss by John Stockton. Utah then dropped two games in Portland over the weekend. losing three straight for the first time since the 1998 NBA Finals.

In retrospect, Rob Radlosky probably would have preferred to let Ken Griffey Jr. and the Seattle Mariners skip town before making his major league

After six seasons in the minors, Radlosky got his big chance in the fourth inning Tuesday night. And right from the start, the Minnesota reliever was in trouble.

Brian Hunter, the first batter he faced, hit an RBI single. Alex Rodriguez followed with an RBI double. And then Griffey hit his major league-leading homer, a three-run shot.

"It's Ken Griffey," Radlosky said after the Mariners beat Minnesota 15-5 at the Metrodome. "It was outside, low and away. That's Ken Griffey

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't Angels 4, Orioles 1 nervous," said Radlosky, who left after three innings with an 18.00 ERA. "I was nervous in my first Triple-A start this year.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Boston 5, New York 2; Anaheim 4, Baltimore 1; Cleveland 3, Chicago 1; Texas 7, Tampa Bay 2; Toronto 5, Detroit 3; and Oakland 5, Kansas City 3.

In National League games, it was San Francisco 17, St. Louis 1; Montreal 4, Philadelphia 2 in 11 innings; New York 8, Pittsburgh 3; Cincinnati 3, Los Angeles 2; Florida 6, Chicago 3; Atlanta 5, Milwaukee 2; Houston 2, Colorado 1 in 12 innings; and Arizona 4, San Diego 0.

Seattle scored eight times in the fourth against Radlosky and fellow rokie Gary Rath (0-1). Last week, the two pitchers were teammates at Triple-A Salt Lake.

"A week ago we were sitting there trying to get Las Vegas out," Rath said. "Now we're trying to get Ken Griffey out. I already made up my mind that he was going to hit the ball

The most unusual hit of the night, however, came before the game. That's when Mariners outfielder Matt Mieske was struck by the Twins' remotecontrolled blimp while he was stretching.

"I thought they were just messing around," Mieske said. "And the guy said they didn't do it on purpose — it broke. It's really light. It didn't hurt. It was funny more than any-

"It came across the infield. I looked up and it was coming right at me and lowering and lowering and lowering. I knew the guy was in the upper deck with the controller," Mieske said. "It crashed right into me. So, I just pushed it up into the air and then two guys came out and got it fixed.'

Mieske went out and got three hits, including a homer, and drove in four runs.

Red Sox 5, Yankees 2

Rookie Brian Rose beat New York for the second time in a week, and Boston won at Yankee Stadium.

Rose (2-0) allowed three hits in six innings. In his only other start this season, the 23-year-old righty pitched seven scoreless innings to beat the Yankees last Wednesday at Fenway Park.

Mike Stanley, popular when he played for the Yankees, hit a three-run homer against his former team. Nomar Garciaparra

Indians 3, White Sox 1 Charles Nagy outpitched Chicago's Jim Parque for the second time in a week, and

Cleveland won at Jacobs Field. Mike Jackson got three outs for his 10th save in 10 chances. Recently bothered by tendinitis in his right shoulder, he had not gotten a save since May 10.

Blue Jays 5, Tigers 3

Rookie Roy Halladay improved to 3-0 lifetime against Detroit as Toronto won at Tiger Stadium.

The Blue Jays have won two in a row for the first time since April 21-22.

Halladay shut out the Tigers in his previous start when he came within one out of a no-hitter against Detroit.

Garret Anderson put together his first two-homer performance in the majors, leading first time in team history. It homer and Mike Piazza added a third baseman Lenny Harris' Anaheim over visiting Baltimore. Omar Olivares pitched eight strong innings and Troy Percival closed for his 12th save. Percival has pitched 9 1-3 hitless innings in his last 10

Athletics 5, Royals 3

Mike Oquist held Kansas City hitless for five innings and host Oakland ended its losing streak

Oquist did not allow a hit until Carlos Febles blooped a single after a leadoff walk in the sixth. Overall, Oquist gave up two hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Braves 5, Brewers 2

Pinch-hitters Keith Lockhart and Javy Lopez homered to start the ninth, and Walt Weiss homered later in the inning as Atlanta won in Milwaukee.

Atlanta connected for back-toback, pinch-hit homers for the was only the second time Atlanta had two pinch homers in game, with Lopez and Mark Whiten doing it on July 22, 1996. Greg Maddux, who has not won since April 29, allowed five hits in seven scoreless innings. He wound up with a no-decision and avoided his first four-game losing streak in three seasons.

Expos 4, Phillies 2 Manny Martinez's two-run homer with two outs in the 11th inning gave Montreal the victory in Philadelphia. Martinez's homer off Steve Montgomery (0-1) ended the Philadelphia bullpen's streak of eight scoreless innings since it was learned closer Jeff Brantley is out for the year.

Ugueth Urbina, who has struggled recently, pitched 2 2-3" perfect innings.

Mets 8, Pirates 3

Brian McRae hit a three-run

443-foot solo shot during New York's four-run fourth inning.

Piazza went 3-for-5 with a double and three RBIs, and Matt Franco hit a two-run, pinch-hit homer as the Mets won their fifth in seventh games. New York stopped the Pirates' threegame winning streak.

Masato Yoshii (5-3) allowed Al Martin's leadoff homer in the first, then settled down to win his fourth in a row.

Reds 3, Dodgers 2

The Reds moved three games over .500 for the first time since 1996 by taking advantage of Los Angeles' fielding gaffes behind Kevin Brown.

The Reds won for the eighth time in nine games by turning Todd Hundley's passed ball and throwing error into a pair of unearned runs in the fourth.

Astros 2, Rockies 1 Carl Everett singled under glove with one out in the 12th inning, giving the Astros a victory in Houston. With the bases loaded and one out, Everett hit a potential double-play grounder to the drawnin Harris, who tied a Colorado record with three errors

Monday night. The ball went under Harris' glove and into left field, scoring Bill Spiers with the winning

Diamondbacks 4, Padres 0

Randy Johnson struck out 12, pitched a six-hitter and hit an

RBI double in Phoenix. 'Johnson (5-2) had at least two fastballs clocked at 100 mph while pitching his 24th career shutout and 60th complete

Arizona tied a 68-year-old major league record with three double plays started by a catcher. All began with a strikeout by Johnson.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR THURSDAY, MAY 27:

Deal with others in a constructive and positive way. Despite your resourcefulness and excellent communication skills, those you interact with might not always be rational. Let humor play a greater role in your life. Dont keep pushing an associate or friend to see things your way; he wont. Avoid power plays of any kind. If you are single, romance might be tough, even depressing, at times. Be aware of a tendency to put another on a pedestal, thinking he is someone he isnt. If attached, you will have the opportunity to redefine your relationship this year. Scorpio pushes your buttons.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day Youll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;

3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult ARIES (March 21-April 19)

On days like this, you would prefer to stay in bed! Confusion, hassles and power plays mar your interactions. Stay on a one-to-one level with others. Confirm ideas. Consider different types of thinking. The more open you are, the fewer problems you will have. Tonight: With a special friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Despite your best intentions, convincing others is challenging. Uproar marks your interactions. Your message may fall upon deaf ears or may meet with clueless recipients. Money matters are especially tense and difficult. Another has a great idea using your funds! Tonight: Make(it easv GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Confusion irks you, though you could be the source. Negativity mars discussions and work, affecting your mood. Avoid intrigues. Take care of yourself; add some extra exercise to your day. Postpone anything you dont have to do; focus on what you must do.

Tonight: Soak away stress. CANCER (June 21-July 22) *Creativity is essential in handling surrounding negativity. Your emotional state impacts your perception of uproar, problems and restrictions. Loosen up. Reach out to a friend who is having a difficult time. Dont take anothers opinion personally. Tonight: To the gym, then talk to a loved

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Say little and dont react, if possible. Tension is remarkably high. Evaluate your options in handling a difficult work situation, a bad risk or an evasive associate. You might consider playing ostrich! Humor goes a long way in taking the heat off a problem. Tonight: Cocoon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep communication flowing. Pressure intensifies as you attempt to get down to the basics. Another appears to be defensive and unwilling to share key information. Staying focused is all you can do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Demands at home are just as troublesome as those at work.

Tonight: Handle one thing at a

Others clearly do not see any issue the same way as you do. What you think is a brilliant idea could actually be the product of hazy thinking. Get to the root of a problem without being controlling. Another truly doesnt understand. Dont worry this too will pass. Tonight: Pay bills.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Associates could be difficult, at best. Confidence is sorely lacking from those around you. Loosen up and let others give more input. Show your caring. You can get around a money problem if youre willing to say no. Domestic matters are confusing. Tonight: Let your smile warm another up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.

*Head (or stay) home. Consider being mum. You might not agree with others right now. In fact, you could be feeling downright rigid. Be sensitive to others. You could be causing power struggles and/or misunderstandings. Is this? what you really want? Tonight: Chill out

Husband wants to take steps to tell step children to leave

Syndicate Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago I lost my first wife. About a year and a half later I remarried. My kids were adults and on their own. My new wife still had children in high school. I helped all of them to get their first car, and sometimes worked on their cars to keep them running When they have prob lems or need money, have been the thev one came to for help. My grown children try to work out ment, and she never worked to put anything into it. Not a day goes by that I don't wish I had not remarried. I would have been happier living by myself.

 HATES EVERY DAY DEAR HATES: It's possible that when your wife's children were in high school, you overindulged them. However, you are all adults now, and it is time for them to accept responsibility for themselves. You are * overdue for a talk with them. If your wife feels unable to bring herself to talk to them with you

After 40 years of hard work, vou are entitled to some happiness in your retirement. If you are truly as unhappy as your signature indicates, talk to a lawyer about your options, and what your wife is entitled to if you and she should separate. It 2 may not be as much as you
