The Ladies Aid of the Rhea Lutheran Church will hold an ice cream social on July 4th at the parish house there.

A local delegation headed by Alan Romich and Wright Williams attended the water meeting at Muleshoe Monday night. Muleshoe and area residents have had several similar conferences with representatives of the City of Lubbock, that city having secured water rights on over 50,000 acres near Muleshoe.

Rodeo and pioneer celebration season seems to be opening in the area. The first rodeo announcement forwarded the Star is that at Clarendon to be held July 3, 4, 5. Prize money will top $2,000 in addition to saddles and boots to be given the performers. A free barbecue will be held at noon on the Fourth, followed by a western parade; western dances will be held each night, and an old-settlers get-together will be held on the 4th.

A letter from Bill Sheehan, Friona attorney now stationed at the Fourth Army Headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, tells that he will leave for Charlottesville, Va., on July 21st to attend a three months course at the Judge Advocate General School at the University of Virginia Law School.

He will continue to get any mail addressed him at Fort Sam Houston.

Bill still refers to Friona as "home" and he re-states his intentions of coming back to practice law here when his tenure of service is completed.

His address is Lt. Wm. H. Sheehan, Hq., 4th Army, J. A. Section Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

Notice in the Texas Game and Fish magazine where a fellow down at Junction caught a 36 1/2 lb. carp on an artificial lure! Some of you local fishermen tell us, isn't this very, very unusual?

Now we can go down to the Mineral Wells spa without being subjected to inquiries about our health! At this Texas capital for hot baths, skeleton-shaking massages, and mineral waters, the Texas Parade publication notes that Texans rarely visit there for the therapeutic benefit, rather thousands go annually simply to give some cheering word to the indisposed from out of state!

Understand the new Shamrock station is nearing completion at the northwest corner of town and announcements about their 24-hour service will be made in a few days.

Yes, we really pity the poor fisherman. There's Oldest O. J. Beene, for instance who just wouldn't tell us about his catch for he admittedly had told so many conflicting tales that he wasn't sure himself what the correct report would be! And we are betting that Pappy Thornton is more or less in the same boat; at least we'll consider him so until we see some visible evidence of his catch—in our own ice box.

Honored At Party
Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wagner of the Rhea community were surprised with a party Sunday on the occasion of their 12th wedding anniversary. Neighbors brought pies, cakes and ice cream, and the group spent the afternoon in visiting and extending their good wishes to the Wagners.

Additional Rural Telephone Loan Will Speed Service to 1320 Users

An additional loan of $357,000 to the West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative has been approved by the Rural Electrification Administration, Senator Tom Connally informed the Star this week.

The money, long awaited by local potential customers of a rural phone system, will be used to complete the projects planned to be carried out by a loan made in December 1950 which has since proved insufficient because of rising costs. In addition, the new

Texas 4-H Round-up at College Station Included Busy Program, Local Boy Tells

By DARRELL KENNETH THOMPSON

(Editor's Note: Thompson and Dwaine Menefee were the Parmer County boys attending the state round-up at College Station early this month. Both youths reported a worthwhile trip, and Thompson brought the following written report of their activities to The Star this week.)

We left Amarillo about 3:15 p. m. Sunday June 8th in three Trailway Buses, and arrived in Wichita Falls around 9:00 p. m., and spent the night in the Holt Hotel, where our rooms were reserved for our entire group of the three bus loads of enthused 4-H Club boys and girls.

We ate breakfast at 6:30 a. m. at the hotel cafe and started traveling about 7:00 a. m. for College Station.

Had our dinner about 1:15 p. m. and arrived at College Station about 4:00 o'clock Monday evening.

After our arrival we all received our meal ticket book, then ate supper, afterwards we visited the Students Center and played games consisting of table tennis and bowling. We were in bed by 11:00 p. m. as the lights were turned out at that time each night. We were awakened by the call loan will make it possible to add approximately 240 miles of line to the system, making a total of more than 980 miles in Parmer, Deaf Smith, and Castro Counties. Also two additional central dial offices will be built, making a total of seven; and twenty new subscribers will be added, giving service to a total of 1320 connections.

Letting of contracts for the outside equipment needed in the construction is set for July 22, Leo Forrest, cooperative manager, has announced. Some materials already are on hand, with other amounts to be shipped at dates extending to the last quarter in 1952.

The loan announced last Thursday brings the total amount allocated to the three-county project to $811,000.00.

Rites are Pending For Mrs. Robards

Funeral services are pending for Mrs. J. D. Robards, 61, who died in the local hospital at 9:15 o'clock Tuesday night after a lingering illness. Mrs. Robards had been hospitalized for some nine weeks and had been bedfast since October.

Though definite plans are not yet determined, the services will be conducted at the First Baptist Church in Friona with Rev. Russell Pogue in charge.

Atharlie Mae Riley was born January 18, 1891 in Arkansas, and the family moved to Wood County Texas in 1897; she was converted and united with the Mt. Zion Baptist Church there in 1913, and she was married to J. D. Robards in 1919.

Preceded in death by one child, Mrs. Robards is survived by the husband, one daughter, Mrs. Marvin Brand of Thornton, California; a son, Oran M. Gamblin of Dallas, two step-children, Lewis Robards of Dallas and Dennis Robards of Friona.

Locals Take Small End of 16-8 Game

Friona baseball experienced another loss this week with the Ginners bowing to the Tullia Dusters in a 16-8 game.

The game was a wild affair, being staged in a dust storm. Tullia started the scoring in the second inning, getting 5 runs off 3 hits, 2 bases on balls, and one hit batter off pitcher Barnett, who held them in check then until the fifth period.

Clements went in for the local group at that time and allowed 1 run the 5th, 3 in the 6th, 2 in the 7th, 5 in the ninth; Clements was pulled in the 9th with one out, and Renner went in to retire the side on two strike-outs.

Barnett allowed 5 runs on 6 hits Clements allowed 11 runs and 12 hits; Renner, no runs, no hits. Barnett struck out 3, Clements 7, and Renner 2.

Friona scored 4 runs in 3 innings—two in the 4th, one in the 6th and one in the 7th, these off 9 hits and 6 bases on balls.

Friona plays here next Sunday, hoping to get in the winning column again.

Game Summary:
Two base hits, Floyd 1, Klemman 2, Webb 1, Love 1, Miller 2, Shropshire 1, Hart 1. Home runs: Horton 1, Shropshire 1; Stolen bases, Clements 4, Renner 1, Veazy 1. Left on base: Friona, 8; Tullia, 5. Losing pitcher, Clements; winner, Horton.

No Water Shortage Likely in Friona

Friona gardeners and lawn workers need have little worry of any local water shortage, city secretary Roy Wilson has pointed out. Though water is being strictly rationed in Amarillo and other cities of the area, local consumption has been only slightly more than half of capacity during the hottest days.

Local use reached a high Tuesday of 716,895 gallons, but it was noted that much of this was consumed in the watering of the city park via fire hose practically every lawn received care that day, with the hot winds prevalent and with the reduced summer water rates enabling better care of the lawns and gardens.

The city pumps can accommodate approximately 1-1.3 million gallons per day.

Wheat harvest has hit its stride in Parmer County this week, and the near 100 carloads of wheat delivered to Friona elevators by this morning may represent about one-half of the local crop according to grain dealers.

Weather conditions have been perfect for the harvesting, with hot, dry days prevailing through out the past two weeks. This has caused most fields to develop rapidly, but with the short crop no labor or machinery shortage has been felt locally.

The best yield so far reported from accurate measurement has been that of a 40-acre tract farmed by J. D. Mabry just south of Hub, yielding 41 bushels. This was irrigated black hull wheat watered one time.

One of the better dryland yields has been that of Marvin Black who is putting over 20 bushels per acre.

Most wheat, however, is harvesting in the 4 to 20 bushel bracket. Local market price yesterday was $2.00 even.

Wheat, cotton and grain sorghum farmers alike are watching the skies this week for signs of badly needed moisture—wheat farmers anxious to follow the harvest with plows, and the other farmers with grain or cotton in the ground hunting relief from the scorching south winds that have prevailed for the past six days. Temperatures have hovered around the 100 degree mark each of these six days, and young wilting cotton is probably suffering most for rain.

Funeral services were held last Thursday in Bovina for John Stephens Potts, 79 years old Rev. M. T. Durham conducted the services in the First Baptist Church there.

Mr. Potts was born March 16, 1873 at Pottsville, Texas. He married Sarah Jane Collett in 1901 at "The Cove" near Pottsville, and the family came to Parmer County in August of 1913.

Survivors include the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Odessa Jane Kennedy of Amarillo; four sons, Bonnie and Garland of Amarillo, Herbert of Farwell, and John at Shamrock; two sisters, Mrs. Will Jenkins, Pottsville; Mrs. Linnie Clayton, Lampasas; and one brother, A. C. Potts from California.

Also surviving are eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Interment was in the Bovina cemetery.

WSCS Sub-District Meet Held Here; Over 60 Attend

Some 60 women of the area last Thursday attended the sub-district meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at the Friona Methodist Church. Communities represented included Bovina, Happy, Hereford, Hart, Dimmitt, Oklahoma Lane, Y. L. Progress and Lazbuddie. Twenty-seven women from the Friona organization were present.

Mrs. Estes, Bovina, former district secretary of promotion, was in charge of the program based on the presentation of quadrennial plans for 1952-56. She introduced the five officers who in turn presented the five goals and the general plan. Mrs. J. H. Boyle of Friona explained the "Third Emphasis on a World Church." All present participated in the covenant of discipleship.

A skit in two scenes for use in launching the quadrennial plans was presented by Mrs. Hadley

Reeve, Mrs. Joe Moyer, Mrs. Arthur Drake, Mrs. Jim Shaffer and Mrs. Kenyth Cass.

Lunch was served at the noon hour. Each table was entered with a replica of the theme and emphasis. Arrangements of miniature roses and phlox were used in the decorations.

The group was honored with the presence of the local pastor, Rev. U. S. Sherrill.

Tuesday Meeting
On Tuesday afternoon the local WSCS continued their study of the Book of Acts, under the direction of Mrs. Gore. Mrs. Forrest Osborn presented the devotional, and others on the program included Mesdames Lamb, Shaffer, Cass, Reeve, Ford, Slagle and Moyer.

About Foreign Aid:

To those who go "whole-hog" for relief to foreign countries, we wish to mention these facts for consideration:

Industrial production in Belgium and Luxembourg actually has reached 146 per cent of pre-war level—yet we are assisting them to "catch up!"

Industrial production in Denmark has reached 162 per cent; in Italy, 144 per cent; in the United Kingdom, 146 per cent, etc.

At least these are the figures presented by Senator Ellender of Louisiana and publicized by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

In the interest of our own economy the present situation would appear to us a gigantic hoax—or gross inefficiency to say the least—when federal officials daily extoll the need of more and more foreign aid.

United States or Federal Government!

Something else about the Federal Government we don't understand: Uncle Sam started a land-buying spree in 1937 that has taken 65 million acres off state and local tax rolls and made the Federal Government owner of ONE-FOURTH OF THE LAND AREA OF CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES—according to a bulletin accessible through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

All this and the tidelands, too!

Americanism At Its' Best

We noticed that J. Evetts Haley, the cowboy historian of the Southwest, has been appointed as director of the newly-founded Institute of Americanism at Texas Technological College at Lubbock.

We like the idea of such a department, and we heartily commend the officials who brought about Mr. Haley's appointment; likely there are few men in the entire country who understand and practice the tenets of true Americanism to greater extent than this Texan.

Haley, 51, comes from a family of veteran cattlemen. He attended the schools of the state, receiving his MA degree from the University of Texas. Many local people will remember him as field man for the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. Later he became associated with the University of Texas. Then he went back to his ranching and writings. And throughout the years he has proved himself a fighter for what he believed the better American principals.

Haley is a good man to head any institute of Americanism.

Little-Known Facts About Dairying

June, national dairy month, is a good time to point out these little-known facts:

There are 274 individual nutrients in milk.

When Caesar invaded Britain in 50 B. C. he commented on the fact that though Britons had an abundance of milk they did not know how to make cheese.

Over 500,000 Texans are engaged in the production, processing, distribution, and sale of dairy foods.

Should We Accept All Benefits?

It's very probably folly to point out these and the many other socialistic trends in the United States today—for there is no limit to the inroads of socialism in every function of our government. And we all have been recipients, some willingly so—others with the attitude "might as well take my share of the handouts, they'll go somewhere," and a small minority who openly fight the trends.

It is human to welcome "benefits" from the state—with no immediate and visible price attached.

And there are many, many worthwhile benefits—ours for the asking, that would on the surface appear advisable. Yet every one will by some means require ultimate payment.

For instance, there's the proposal made only this week that the Federal government initiate a 32 million dollar program to provide scholarships for needy college students. And proposals are for the amount to increase annually until a total of 128 millions per year could be placed available for this education.

Well, this would be a welcome program in many, many homes, and would no doubt raise the earning power, the standards of living, and the social plane of many worthy young people.

Is it worth the price?

Before we can criticize this latest "guardianship" move of the central government, we must note that each of us have received and oft-times welcomed similar benefits.

The subsidy programs, the social security set-up, all these are GOOD TO RECEIVE, but are they worth the price?

For generations the forefathers of our country fought to establish a government of free enterprise, getting away from the old-world systems of vassel states; yet recent trends are taking us right back to the antiquated systems which have brought nations to their knees in every period of history.

We had an interesting conversation this week with a fellow who seldom mentions politics without scoring the Washington expenditures and waste and patronage. But this man readily accepts every benefit handed out in our area, and he openly admits it. Quoting, "Sure, I take every payment available, for I'm going to have to pay for these measures through taxes just as the other fellow will do, and it would be foolish to pay without receiving!" And that is logical thinking, a trend of action that will remain prevalent until a radically new and different administration policy is inaugurated in Washington.

And that is the simple reason we want a change in administration. Some may warn—Depression, Un-employment, Bread lines; but we believe the American people can work out their salvation in much better ways that through the present guardianship of the ever-increasing power in Washington.

That is why we will vote against Trumanism.

Now San Angelo—Who'll Be Next?

(From The Muleshoe Journal)

Jesse Osborn, among others, has often told this writer: I have the feeling that it is not only Lubbock that wants a part of our water. I feel it is only the beginning and that several other towns I can think of are equally interested—because they have inadequate supplies.

There's proof that our local people are right in fearing this contingency in an article which appeared in Charlie Guy's "Plainsman" column in today's Lubbock Avalanche. Mr. Muleshoe can go further than Guy and state that San Angelo citizens are putting the pressure on their city dade to seek water in Baily County, and will have proof thereof in a day or so, if you are interested. Anyway' here's Charlie's illuminating comment this morning:

Down in the San Angelo country, where the Conchos used to flow but where the rivers now are mostly dried up, they have a water problem. Locked in a drouth which has been going on for a couple of years or so, the folks down there have a much bigger—at least much more pressing—water problem than we. It should be printed Water Problem—with a capital "W" and a capital "P".

Civic leaders of the Tom Green capital have been very much interested in Lubbock's approach to the local water problem. They are especially interested in the appointment here of the 15 man Water Resources board, whose members are charged with the responsibility of studying the situation, finding long-range water supplies, and recommending action to the City commission.

WASHINGTON AND

"Small Business"

—By C. WILSON HARDER

An explanation of current attacks on the nation's anti-trust laws by many such as David Lillenthal, former head of the government's multi-million dollar experiment in socialism in the Tennessee Valley, is the action taken late last month by the Department of Justice.

H. G. Morrison, Assistant Attorney General, released a 60 page printed report to the Senate Small Business Committee, headed by Senator Sparkman of Alabama, on the history, and problems encountered by the U. S. Department of Justice enforcing anti-trust laws.

This report shows clearly the part Justice Department had in winning World War II. And for the first time an indication is given why in early stages draftees drilled with wooden guns, and other make believe devices.

The Justice Department report states that just prior to Pearl Harbor, control of the nation's resources was so closely tied up by a few organizations that it was difficult to get materials needed for defense.

And the report states even more astounding facts were found.

American monopolies were bound to foreign cartels, U. S. defense dragged because of international agreements on the use of raw materials and patents.

Justice Department language on this point is quite clear.

Here it is, "One of the most startling disclosures resulting from the anti-trust investigation of National Federation of Independent Business was the extent to which international cartels, particularly German industrial monopolies, had penetrated and secured control of the destinies of American business. As a result . . . it became clear . . . our industrial capacity and way potential had been seriously impaired by destructive cartel arrangements. These agreements limited American production, and use of technology, kept prices at high levels, prohibited American companies from engaging in world trade, and gave important production information to potential enemies."

Today, there are signs the same thing is taking place.

One example is the world wide controlled materials plan imposed on the United States by State Secretary Dean Acheson.

Paradoxically, Acheson's plan is attacked by both democrats and republicans, prompting this saying around Washington.

"America no longer has a two party system; it is now a three party system, the republican party, the democratic party, and the Acheson party."

Justice Department disclosures coming at a time when the nation is concerned with national defense, with the slow-down in arms production, and in the lack of progress in Korea, have been a bitter slap at those working to force American business into worldwide monopoly.

Hence the reason for bitter attacks against the nation's anti-trust laws, the only weapon that can prevent this from happening.

Nothing just happens in Washington. Behind every move there is a reason.

But the reason is often found only in a dark cellar.

The Law and You

By Robt. (Bob) Kirk

DO YOU KNOW what the ninth and tenth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States, being a part of the Bill of Rights, are?

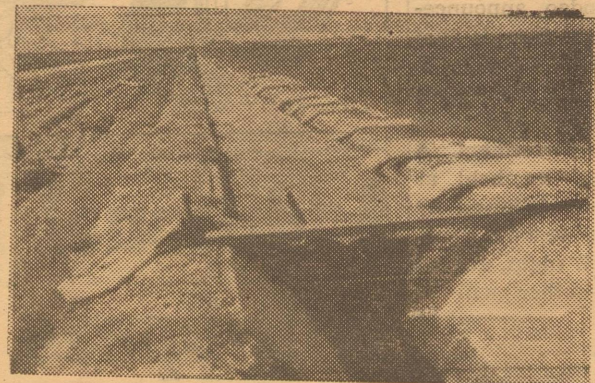

Amendment Number Nine states "The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

Amendment Number Ten states "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, and nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

In the early days, at the time of creation of these United States, it appeared to the individuals in all of the States, that the Federal Government was going to take away all of their rights, and that the States would be left without any rights. Amendments Number Nine and Ten were set into the Constitution and were established as a part of the Constitution for the purpose of preserving to the people and to the states all of the rights not definitely designated as belonging to the Federal Government. In other words, the original theory was that the Federal Government was a government of delegated powers, and had only such powers as were given to it through the Constitution, and the acts of the Federal Congress, and that all other matter not delegated to the Federal Government came within the the jurisdiction of the various states. In the beginning of the Federal Government, its powers were very limited, as the states were very jealous of giving up any authority to the Federal Government. As time has gone by, the Federal Government has extended its powers and prerogatives over a wider field, which is ever widening at the present time. Were it not for Amendments Nine and Ten, the Federal Government would probably already have extended its authority far beyond that which it has at the present time, but the states throughout the years, and to the present time, have fought against the advance of the Federal authority, seeking to contain it within the limits originally set out under the Constitution, and have slowed the advance of the Federal authority. States rights as against Federal rights is still a vital issue today.

The Things You Have To Watch in Legislation

During the amendment period of the Defense Production Act (this the price and wage control bill) amendment was offered by Mr. ... which would be put into the law the Executive Order which provides for the declaration of certain areas as Surplus Labor areas. Such a declaration means that the manufacturing concern in these areas can obtain government contracts on a negotiated basis rather than on a competitive bid basis even though the cost of such manufactured products would be substantially more than if it were produced in another area. The purpose of such an amendment is to insure employment in areas where there is a surplus of labor. The effect of the amendment would be to penalize the American taxpayer and take away from him millions of dollars in taxes that could otherwise be saved. It would also promote inflation. One of the prime causes of inflation is excessive government spending. Therefore when the government pays more for an article, as it would under the Potter amendment, than the same article could be purchased under competitive bid contracts, the result is simply excessive spending and fuel on inflationary fires. The amendment is also discriminatory in that it would favor thickly populated areas and penalize the South, the Southwest and a great portion of the West. Such an amendment would also favor big industry and discriminate against small industry and small manufacturing plants and contractors. The manufacturing concerns in such designated areas can effectively control business growing out of government contracts, and the ones who get hurt are the small manufacturing plants in districts such as ours, as well as the laboring people in those districts and the American taxpayers. Mr. Lanham (D), Ga., introduced a substitute amendment which would in effect prohibit such practices. The House voted on the Lanham amendment first, and the vote was tied 114 to 114. This meant that the Lanham amendment was defeated because the proposed amendment must receive more yeas than nay votes in order to pass, and the tie vote does not meet those requirements. However, the Potter amendment also failed by a margin of approximately twenty votes. We of the South and Southwest had hoped that the Lanham amendment would pass as it would have fixed a policy and would have sharply curtailed the practice that is going on now. We were happy that the Potter amendment failed and hope that this is an indication that such practices will stop. One manufacturing concern in the Middle West, and I presume others, sent out a form letter to all its salesmen advising the salesmen to keep a sharp lookout for all possible contracts because this manufacturing concern was located in one of these surplus labor areas. The letter outlined the greater benefits accruing to the manufacturing concern by being so located, and instructed the salesmen that their Washington office could bring the proper pressure to bear in Washington to obtain contracts at higher prices than under competitive bidding. It was a strange coalition that voted against the Lanham amendment and for the Potter amendment. The coalition was made up of conservative Republicans from the Middle West and East along with big city Republicans and Democrats who have followed New Deal philosophies. The one responsible for defeating the Potter amendment were the members of Congress from the South, the Southwest and the West. If we can stop these practices in government spending, we can save the taxpayers millions of dollars and help in the fight against inflation.

Hidden Ball Plan On Tidelands Nipped In The Bud

A plan was afoot between the Secretary of the Interior and the President to by-pass Congress and seize the tidelands in the event the veto of the Holland bill was sustained by Congress. Under the present situation the Executive Department has no authority to lease the tidelands. Even if the Senate should uphold the President's veto of the Holland bill, the Executive Department still would not have power to traffic in these lands. The secret plan that was afoot was a plan to use an old 1949 surplus property law under which GSA Administrator Larson had signed an order in April delegating authority to Secretary of Interior Chapman to dispose of oil and gas on the continental shelf. The Secretary of the Interior had gone so far as to submit the plan to oil company representatives and testified that these representatives had told him that they would be satisfied with such plan and would accept leases thereunder. All of this information and the tactics and scheming indulged in had been kept from Congress until Senator Holland made some charges on the Senate Floor on July 9th. After these charges had been made, the entire picture began to unfold and the opposition built up so strong and so fast that the Secretary of the Interior advised the Senate Judiciary Committee last Thursday that he and the President had abandoned the design to use this old law. It is getting to

CROP SPRAYING

Despite of the progress made in modern agricultural methods each year, the farmer is often faced with problems as old as recorded history.

One major obstacle which with Texas farmers will have to contend with this season can be traced as far back as Biblical times—the plague of insects. While insect infestations are not expected to actually reach plague proportions in Texas as they have in other parts of the world in 1952, the problem is still a serious one.

Recent inspections reveal that cotton insects, including the persistent and destructive Pink Bollworm, are more strongly entrenched in Texas fields than at any time in the past 40 years. Comparison records of the Pink Bollworm, alone show that for every one of the worms found in South Texas cotton last year, there are ninety (90) this year. The build up of other harmful insects is almost equally as heavy. As a result, the farmer can expect a higher ratio of crop damage in addition to a greater expenditure on insecticides.

It will be to the Texas farmer's advantage to follow an organized method of spraying crops this season for the best insect control. The best plan will be to get in touch with county agents and study the seven-step spraying program as set up by the Texas Extension Service.

Much of the effectiveness of spraying or dusting is nullified by poor timing. Spraying on a guess basis often catches harmful insects in the pupa stage when insecticides and pesticides have little or no effect. It may also do away with some of the useful insects.

The seven-step program varies over the state but each area has a definite plan set up according to local climatic and insect conditions. This type of spraying assures the farmer of getting the most benefit out of money spent for insect control.

The most effective measure yet found against the Pink Bollworm is strict compliance with planting and plow-up deadlines. These measures are already in effect in areas where the heaviest infestation exists. But the extremely large build-up this season is due partly to the mild winter which failed to kill off the usual number of last year's generations.

The Pink Bollworm can't stand wet feet but it does carry over well in dry and mild weather. The farmer will have to practice every control measure possible this year to keep down the present insect 'plague.'

Notice To Wheat Farmers

New Regulations on Marketing of Wheat

Are Announced by the

Federal Food and Drug Administration

As Grain Dealers of this area, we feel that all farmers producing Wheat and Grain should be advised of the new Food and Drug Law Administration program so that you will be able to prepare yourselves against certain financial losses not heretofore a primary consideration in determining the market value of Wheat: All farmers should know that soon all elevator operators will be forced to examine carefully all deliveries wheat by the farmer for signs of insect infestation and rodent and bird contaminations. The approximate tolerances are as follows:

- (1) Wheat can not have more than 3 weevil exit hole kernels in 100 Grams (approx. 4200 kernels of Wheat)
- (2) Wheat can not have more than an occasional rat or mouse excrement pellet.
- (3) Wheat can not have but an occasional bird excrement pellet.
- (4) Wheat can not have an excessive amount of filth.

These regulations are in the interest of all people and every effort should be made to encourage the handlers of wheat, that wheat is a human food and must be handled as food.

THE GRAIN DEALERS OF THIS TERRITORY

urge the cooperation of the Wheat Farmers in meeting these regulations.

Remember that wheat with a high moisture content is an invitation to weevil infestation, heat damage and musty wheat.

WHEAT HARVESTED SHOULD TEST 13% MOISTURE OR LESS
FOR SAFE KEEPING

The Above Regulations also Apply to FARM STORED WHEAT

Your Grain Dealers cannot accept grain if it does not conform to the requirements necessary to be fit for human consumption. In order to avoid severe penalties for contaminated grain, all farm storage bins must be made bird-proof and rodent proof. Bins should be cleaned and treated for weevil infestation before grain is stored. Where grain cannot be turned it should not be stored when the moisture content is in excess of 12%.

How to Make Efficient Grass-Legume Mixture

Experience of farmers the country over and trials at agricultural experiment stations, have all shown greater yields and continued productivity of forage and greater livestock gains for grass-legume combinations as compared with either a grass or a legume sown alone. Increases of from 40 to 60 per cent in forage and gains in live weight of animals are not uncommon.

Mixtures should vary according to the purpose intended and the prevailing soil and climatic conditions. Under most conditions simple mixtures of 2 to 4 species are preferable but sometimes more complex mixtures containing 5 or more species are desirable.

The advantages of a mixture can best be assured by giving careful study to its composition. Some considerations which are under human control, are the following:

1. If there are great variations in the moisture available in different parts of the field because of lay of the land or changing seasons, choose a grass and a legume that like wet conditions and another of each that thrives with less water. This will help maintain the desired grass-legume relationship over the whole field.

2. If high yields of roughage are desired to be fed with grains or other concentrates, the highest yielding species that are sufficiently palatable and nutritious, to be consumed and utilized by the particular livestock for which intended may be chosen. If the rations are to be exclusively forage for use by producing or growing animals, only species with the highest nutritive value, particularly high in protein should be chosen.

3. If the weed problem or soil erosion is serious, have at least one rather aggressive species in the mixture that will help keep the weeds in check and hold the soil best on slopes. Smooth brome grass, intermediate wheatgrass and the tall fescues are all useful.

4. On soils and in localities where alternate freezing and thawing causes heaving, a good proportion of grass should be maintained during the life of the stand.

5. Because of the tendency to bloat where lush growth of legumes is available, it is less hazardous to have a substantial proportion of grasses in the mixture as well as to take other precautions.

6. Where honey production is desired, include Ladino and alsike clovers which tend to furnish a larger and longer honey flow.

These and many other things should be considered in making up your grass-legume pasture or hay mixtures. Consult your local seed dealer and your county agent who are working together in solving this problem for your locality.

"SEE YOU IN CHURCH"

When someone says: 'See you in church' it doesn't mean a social engagement . . . it shouldn't be just an idle quip—it means, or should mean, a sincere invitation to everything that is fine and worthwhile in this world. To get a new hold on the basic values of life there is nothing to compare with church attendance. The inspiration of sacred music, the comfort of prayer, the stirring ministry of the Word of God, the Christian Fellowship found there not only make feel better. . . you are better because of them. Join your friends in the church of your choice every Sunday.
