Permian Building demolition project getting a hand from Cornell

Corrections, Inc. told council members Tuesday that Cornell will help fund the building's demolition.

"Cornell would be happy to be a partner in that project with you. Where ever you end up, will will work with you on that," said Logan, who was in Big Spring to ask the council to consider a series of new contract amendments that will allow Cornell to refinance with a larger company.

City Manager Gary Fuqua told the council that Jack for Cornell Cathey Construction Company will tear down the Permian Building for $89,300, plus $8,000 in insurance costs. The price would not include removal of utility lines, protecting windows of adjacent buildings or removal of the debris. Fuqua said asbestos removal will add another $25,210 to the project. That figure could be lower as Howard College is negotiating with the state to have the asbestos removed by qualified inmate labor.

Those costs brings the total to about $122,510, said Fuqua, which is within the $115,000 to $125,000 estimate city officials had been working with.

Thus far, some $103,000 has been pledged toward demolition of the building - $50,000 each from the city and Moore Development for Big Spring. Inc. and $3,000 from Big Spring Main Street.

"We're awful close," said Fuqua. "We're excited that we are going to be able to make that happen.

Officials have said that the building is not only an eyesore, but a potential danger. Bricks have fallen off one side of the multi-story structure in recent years, causing areas to be roped off around it.

While Fuqua's report came early in Tuesday's council meeting, it wasn't until Logan approached the board in reference to refinancing that Cornell's help on the project was announced

"From our view, this is one of our most valuable operations," Logan said of the Cornell facilities in Big Spring. "We have a

118th Court Testimony shows defendant had blood alcohol content of 24 at time of fatal impact

RICK MeLAUGHLIN Staff Writer

Testimony in the intoxication manslaughter trial of Antonio Martinez Rodriguez opened in 118th District Court Tuesday with D.A. Hardy Wilkerson weaving separate stories of two young men that would end tragically Feb. 27 with the death of one and criminal charges filed against the other.

One story Wilkerson presented to the eight-woman, four-man jury was that of the accused, Rodriguez - a young man who already had two driving-whileintoxicated convictions before his 20th birthday, and who, according to the prosecution, had been partying and drinking much of the afternoon and early evening of Feb. 27.

At about 8:30 p.m., Rodriguez only was speeding down alle Fourth Street on his way to pick up his girlfriend, Frances Alcantar, at Big Spring Mall. According to expert testimony,44 his blood alcohol content was-.24, nearly 2-1/2 times the legal limit.

school friends would enjoy. Wilkerson told the jury in his opening remarks that Walters' body was catapulted 210 feet through the air and his bicycle knocked 180 feet by the force of the impact of the 1998 purple Hyundai that Rodriguez was allegedly driving.

Expert witnesses and Gray testified the vehicle never slowed as it sped from the scene of the impact, continuing his trip to the mall to pick up Alcantar.

The car had substantial body damage and a broken windshield, Wilkerson said, which witnesses corroborated. A Big Spring police officer heard the ensuing police radio traffic of the hit-and-run and found the vehicle at the mall, where Alcantar worked at the Santa Fe Sandwiches.

Rodrigues was found there and arrested. He is charged with three crimes - intoxicainghter failure to tion m stop and render aid and driving while under the influence, third offense.

Howard County's 1999 cotton crop is off to a good start, but no one would complain about a timely rain, according to assistant county agent Brandon McGinty. "Overall, the cotton's looking real good," McGINTY he said, adding that cotton in the northern end the southern part, is already blooming.

There is still some young cotton in the county, however, that was washed out with the rains of the weekend of June 11-13.

"That cotton is still pretty small, but it's coming along,"

McGinty said. Farmers still need rain following the high heat and winds of the week of July 4, although some areas of the county got moisture Saturday.

"There was about an inch or an inch-and-a-half out in the northern part of the county, tapering off to a half-inch of the county, as well as some in around Fairview," he said. "From Fairview on in to down, it dropped off.

McGinty said there was good cotton in the southwest corner of the county, but that it needs rain.

Rob Haney, president of the Howard County Cotton Growers Association, said last week that a rain over the next couple of weeks would be both timely and beneficial.

"It (cotton) looks pretty good, but the wind dried out the moisture pretty fast. If we could get a couple of rains in July, when

The other story was that of Jesse Lee Walters Jr. of Arlington, only 4-1/2 months younger than Rodriguez, who had been out for an evening of bicycle riding with his college pal, Brian Gray. Walters was a computer information systems student at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Walters and Gray, who were out to rent a movie, were riding their bicycles westbound on Fourth Street around 8:30 p.m. on the south side of the one-way

The prosecution called four expert witnesses who laid the foundation for the prosecution's case - that Rodriguez had a blood alcohol content of .24, almost 2-1/2 times the legal level; that paint chips found at the scene matched paint samples from the vehicle found at the mall; that DNA from the vic-

City tables seeking grant for park, gives go-ahead on one for terminal

By BILL McCLELLAN News Editor

Big Spring City Council took a step toward improving the city's image Tues-day, agreeing to pursue one grant to help build an air terminal at McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark but tabling another that would seek funding for a downtown tourist rest area.

A third Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) grant application - sought by the Hangar 25 Air Museum Committee to fund improve-ments at Hangar 25 - received council approval.

Those were some of the 20 items council members considered during their regular meet-

TUNE CAWTHON

The council's consensus to $200,000 through pursue TxDOT's Terminal Development Program gives city officials the final go-ahead to proceed with the grant application. Grant administrators, which have already tentatively approved Big Spring's participation in the program for the year 2000, have requested a schematic floor plan, preliminary cost estimates and a resolution to commit to funding and construction of the terminal.

A preliminary estimate for the terminal is about $566,000. That doesn't include $93,000 for a new water line, which city officials say will have to be replaced whether the terminal is built or not.

Local funding for the project would come from the airpark fund, which contains about $2 million. Those funds, council members have been told, can only be used for aviation needs. If constructed, the terminal would contain a lobby, airport manager's office, pilots' lounge, public waiting and conference would be $187,214.64. rooms, storage, restrooms, a flight planning area and a breakroom

Officials have said that a new terminal is important for Big Spring, both as an arrival spot for executives flying into the city as well as local pilots, and to enhance the city's appearance and services for companies that might be interested in locating to Howard County.

For those arriving by highway, council members are hoping to secure another grant through the TxDOT's Statewide Transportation Enhancement Program. However, they tabled the measure Tuesday after learning the city's matching funds in the 80-20 program

"I have serious reservations about putting us on the hook for that amount," Councilman Tommy Tune said of the park, which would be located on the quarter-block where the Permian Building sits, as well as the vacant lot directly north of the courthouse.

If the grant were awarded, TxDOT would fund $748,858.56, for a total of more than $950,000.

"Nine hundred thousands dollars for a pocket park at that location it's difficult for me to justify the scope of that project. I might consider something significantly less," said Tune.

grit than the pros, young bull riders, calf ropers and barrel racers show their stuff at the Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo.

The event, which runs nightly through Saturday at the Rodeo Bowl, is the top fund-raising effort for 4-H Club members and 4-H Adult Leaders he Association. Funds raised at the rodeo go toward sending 4-Hers o various leadership activities ind events.

The young cowboys and cow-tirls are all competing with the toal of qualifying for the High Plains Junior Rodeo Association Finals.

"They gain points by placing in their events, and if they have enough points it will qualify them to go to finals," said Dana Tarter, who, as an extension agent for Howard County, is involved in 4-H.

Along with the goal of making the junior finals, contestants also compete for local prizes from each rodeo they attend. At the Big Spring Rodeo, the contestants are striving for the Highpoint Prize. This year, the high-point cowboy and the high-point cowgirl will each receive a set of stirrups," said Tarter.

The Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo is open to youth under age 19. Events are categorized according to age.

There are five events open to cowboys and cowgirls age 8 and under. These are barrel racing. pole bending, goat tying, breakaway roping and calf riding. Older kids are divided into specific age categories-9 to 12, 12 to 15, and 16 to 19. These older youth will also be competing in barrels, poles, goat tying, breakaway roping and calf riding, but some more difficult events are also open to them, such as ribbon roping, tie-down roping, team roping, chute dogging, steer and bull riding, bareback riding and saddle bronc riding.

Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for students. Children age 6 and under will be admitted free. Performances will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 6 p.m. Saturday.

"We appreciate everyone who comes," said Tarter. "Anyone can come out, that's the fun of it."

great relationship with Big Spring and we want to continue to be a good partner. This (helping with the Permian Building demolition) is something we're happy to do.'

Fuqua said it will be a month or two before demolition can begin . Among other things, the city has to take possession of the building.

"I'm very optimistic that we can have the building down by the end of the year," said Fuqua.

Clean-up of the debris will be handled by city crews, with possible assistance from the county and Wilderness Camp inmate labor.

Council members approved Cornell's request to amend the contracts with the city, which Logan called "transparent to the City of Big Spring.

"Cornell is refinancing Big Spring and one or two other operations, primarily to provide more capital for expansion," said attorney Drew Mouton. "And the new lender group is requesting a new financing structure. This will not affect Cornell's relationship with Big Spring at all."

Weevil Eradication Foundation "should be close to getting their (weevil) traps out. "They were late in getting them, but they should start getting some numbers (of weevils per acre) pretty soon. He said foundation employees would not start spraying for weevils until they saw the first open bolls, about the end of August or first of September. "This first year is going to be a diapause program," he said. "The whole purpose this year is to try and get the numbers (of weevils) down going into winter.

David Young, a forensic serol* ogist, testified that blood on the windshield, and blood from Rodriguez and Walters showed the blood on the windshield definitely matched that of Walters. There is one chance in 6 billion that it does not," he said. Gary Salling of the Lubbock DPS office testified that the paint chips at the scene match paint from the car at the mall. Wayne Jones of the Big Spring Police Department also testified that the paint chips matched samples. He also described the scene on Fourth Street and described pieces of the crumpled bicycle and the from the car owned by Frances Alcantar.

Rick Hamby, a former district attorney himself, has been retained by Rodriguez, who faces up to 20 years in prison, if convicted.

said the project had originally been set up for the city to pay $280,000 but when that appeared out of the city's price range, it was downsized. Funding for the project would largely come from the city's hotel/motel tax fund, which currently contains only $32,000. The city generates about $221.000 annually for the fund, but Fuqua said there is only about $8,000 to $10,000 left after obligations are met. Half of the funds go to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, he said, and most of the rest go to other organizations and meet other needs.

Fuqua said the Industrial Foundation has verbally committed $25,000 to the park project, and other groups have indicated some interest.

After further discussion, the matter was tabled to allow Fugua and others to work on downsizing the project and seeking funds from other groups.

"There are a few things we might be able to do, and still retain the original scope of the project," Fuqua said after the meeting. "We can use some inmate labor perhaps and there are other areas, which we can "isaye some funds."

The grant must be submitted by Aug. 9.

tim matched DNA from blood at the scene and from blood taken from the car at the mall; and that witnesses could almost certainly name Rodriguez as the driver of the car.

The prosecution's first witness of 10 for the day was Dr. David Hoplett, chief medical officer from Lubbock, where Walters was taken after being treated at Scenic Mountain Medical Center. Walters died at University Medical Center about 1 a.m.

Hoplett said Walters' primary cause of death was damage to the brain. He also suffered a broken neck. Both bones of the lower legs were broken, the thigh bone of the left leg was broken and one arm was broken. The medical examiner said he had internal injuries as well. including a swollen brain and damage to the kidneys and liver.

"I don't see how he lived as long as he did," Hoplett told the jury. "These were massive injuries."

Another expert, James Martin Thomas of the Texas Department of Public Safety's Lubbock office, testified that samples of Rodriguez's blood were at the .24 level.

In other business, the council bypassed the low bid on fencing for the airpark, choosing instead the second lowest bid. which was submitted by a local firm.

FenceCo of Midland bid $20,938.44 for the low bid. Higginbotham-Bartlett of Big Spring was 2.6 percent higher, at $21,490.45. There were nine other bids.

"I've got a problem giving this to someone out of town when we have a local bid that is this close. I think it would be cheaper for us to go with a local person," said Councilman Chuck Cawthon. Among the items approved for second reading Tuesday was a request to apply for an $80,000 TxDOT grant for additional landscaping, sidewalks and display cases at Hangar 25. The Hangar 25 Air Museum Committee has agreed to commit $20,000 toward the project.

New items approved by the council included a request to close North Sixth Street between North Main and North Scurry for the St. Thomas Festival July 16-17; late homestead exemption refunds; an oil and gas lease with Santa Fe Energy Resources, Inc.; and approval of bids for inmate housing materials.

The latter item was refers to materials to renovate and construct housing for the Wilderness Camp inmates. Approval was gained under an emergency statute, and the matter is being brought to the board as a formality.

Others included, on second reading, approval of traffic signals at Fifth Street and Main Street and four-way stop signs at Sixth Street and Main, changes in zoning at 1213 East

Manhunt ends as railway slayings suspect turns self in to Ranger

HOUSTON (AP) - One of the most intense manhunts in the history of the Southwest ended with a simple handshake between a Texas Ranger and a tattooed Mexican drifter.

Rafael Resendez-Ramirez, suspected in a terrifying series of killings along railways in three states, took himself off the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list Tuesday by surrendering at an El Paso border station.

It was a puzzling move for an elusive man who could face the death penalty for brutal slayings that began nearly two vears ago. Resendez-Ramirez, 39, who faced a court appearance today, is charged with three killings and suspected in five more. His surrender was aided by family members in contact with a rookie Texas Ranger.

"This is about the best news in Weimar since the end of World War II," said Bernie Kosler, mayor of the tiny south Texas town where Rev. Norman Sirnic, his wife, Karen, and 73year-old Josephine Konvicka were bludgeoned to death earlier this year.

Within hours of his surrender, Resendez-Ramirez was flown to Houston where authorities interrogated him for nearly eight hours about the slayings of two area women: Noemi Dominguez, a 26-year-old school teacher, and Dr. Claudia Benton.

Police booked the man whose real name is Angel Leoncio Reyes Resendis - on a burglary charge linked to Benton's death on Dec. 17, 1998. At a hearing early today, he tried to enter a guilty plea but was rebuffed.

Although he is linked to five Texas slayings and charged in three others in Kentucky and Illinois, many expect him to face prosecution first in Houston.

"He'll be tried first in Harris County, believe me," said prosecutor Ted Wilson.

In Texas, a charge of capital murder can only be filed when there is evidence that a murder occurred during the commission of a select group of felonies. Burglary is included in that group. Resendez-Ramirez's surrender agreement included assurances of family visits, a psychological evaluation and promises that he would be safe in jail, authorities said.

The agreement does not shield him from the death penalty. Mexico has refused to return suspects to countries where they may face a death penalty, which Mexico does not have.

And Resendez-Ramirez surrendered himself to the state that has executed more people - 180 - that any other since the death penalty was declared constitutional in 1976. Harris County prosecutors have sent more killers to death row than any other in the nation.

Mike Cox, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety, said he thought the suspect might have feared bounty hunters in both Mexico and the United States. A $125,000 reward had been offered for his capture.

Resendez-Ramirez's arrest capped a massive six-week international manhunt by thousands of investigators and railroad authorities. The fugitive was thought to have traveled by hopping freight trains, finding victims living near the tracks. Railroad communities were terrified.

"The stores around here sold out of pistols," Kosler said. 'That worried me, thinking that some innocent person might get hurt. We're used to walking up to everyone's house. Now, you better call ahead or you may get shot."

Democrats say House GOP tax cut could break budget

Republicans say their $864 bilsurplus money to taxpayers, but Democrats contend it will explode after 10 years into a potential budget-buster.

The tax plan, nearly half of which is a 10 percent across-theboard cut in income tax rates, would be phased in slowly from 1999 to 2009. In fact, its cost over the first five years is only a combined $199.9 billion, ballooning to $203.3 billion in 2009 alone.

Treasury Secretary Lawrence Summers told the House Ways and Means Committee in a letter Tuesday that such huge revenue losses would eat up money that could go to help shore up Social Security or Medicare. "The cost of the proposed tax

WASHINGTON (AP) - House cuts would explode beyond the 10-year budget window," lion tax cut is a fair refund of Summers wrote. "This would pose even greater risks for the future, just as the first wave of the baby boom generation is retiring.

The Ways and Means Committee today planned to begin voting on amendments to the measure, which Summers again said President Clinton would certainly veto. Democrats say that makes the bill little more than a campaign slogan for 2000.

Republicans contended the surplus projections don't take into account the dynamic effects a tax cut could have on economic growth or federal government savings as people no longer need such government services as Medicaid.

"Tax bills create wealth," said Rep. Nancy Johnson, R-Conn. "They help people live better."

The panel's chairman, Republican Bill Archer of Texas, brushed off veto threats and insisted his bill properly ensures that all taxpayers receive a refund from the surplus they have created. The income tax cuts don't go to everyone because some 40 percent of Americans now pay none at all, he said.

"It's very, very difficult to give an income tax cut to people who pay no income tax," Archer said.

In a speech in Miami, Clinton urged Republicans to reconsider the tax cut and focus budget surpluses on Social Security and Medicare while not forgetting key spending programs such as defense and education. Democrats appear willing to accept a tax cut of perhaps $250 billion.

"So I ask again the Republican leaders in Congress. for the sake of saving Medicare and strengthening our future, to reduce the size of your tax cut and join us in putting first things first," the president said. There was some early Republican grumbling as well. A letter to Archer from about 50 House conservatives complained that provisions to fix the "marriage penalty" were too meager, although the lawmakers did not threaten to vote against the overall bill. "We believe this bill doesn't go far enough in providing relief to families," said the group Presidential George W. Bush says his claim of serving in the Air Force is legitimate, based on time he spent training and on alert while a member of the Texas Air National Guard.

FORT WORTH (AP) -

Bush defends literature touting active-duty service

Asked about BUSH his service as he arrived in Washington Tuesday night, Bush said, "I don't want to get into a semantical discussion. ... I served 600 days active duty. I flew F-102 fighters and I was proud of my service. ... The facts are I served 600 days in the Air Force.

The Republican presidential front-runner already has faced questions about whether he received preferential treatment when he joined the Guard during the Vietnam War.

Now, his statements that he was in the Air Force are being examined. Bush started saying he had Air Force service a couple of decades ago in issue papers and ads during a congressional race he lost in West Texas

A pullout ad from The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal of May 4, 1978, shows a huge picture of Bush with a "Bush for Congress" logo on the front.

On the back, a synopsis of his front-runner career says he served "in the U.S. Air Force and the Texas Air National Guard where he piloted the F-102 aircraft."

When asked whether the lit erature was misleading, Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes said Tuesday that it was all "accurate." She said while Bush was attending flight school from November 1968 to November 1969, he was considered ton active duty for the U.S. Air Force. Several times when he was serving in the Guard, he was placed on alert and was considered to be on active duty as well, she said.

He worked 607 days of active duty service during the training and alerts, according to the campaign.

The Air Force says Air National Guard members are considered 'guardsmen on active duty' while receiving pilot training.

They get active-duty pay, which is more than their Guard pay, during pilot training. They are not, however, counted as members of the overall active-duty force.

Still, local bases say they don't really differentiate.

Jim Teet, a spokesman at one of the bases where the Air Force teaches pilots to fly jets, said Guard and Reservist officers working to get their wings are considered part of the fulltime military.

Clinton wants more working families to get food stamps WASHINGTON (AP) Seeking to encourage the fastmoving shift of Americans from welfare to work, President Clinton is taking steps to help low-income families with jobs receive food stamps.

Only two of five working families eligible for food stamps actually apply for assistance and receive it, the White House said. Clinton, in a speech today in Baltimore, was announcing a series of executive steps intended to increase food stamp enrollment. The president was speaking to the ademocratic a Leadership Gouncil. nili Fueled by the strongest economy in a generation and strict ter car and still receive food new work requirements and time limits, welfare rolls have dropped from more than 5 million families in 1994 to just 2.7 million by the end of last year. However, studies show that many of the families still have trouble paying for food and other household bills.

Many people are not getting assistance such as Medicaid, food stamps and child care subsidies that are available even after a family stops receiving case assistance.

The White House said Clinton would announce steps allowing "expected earnings every quarter states to make it easier for instead of every month. working families to own a bet-stamps. Currently, working families receiving federal help such as child care lose food stamp eligibility if the value of their car exceeds $4,650. Clinton's order will allow states to use more generous asset tests, the White House said.

In addition, the president was to simplify food stamp reporting rules which, the administration said, discourage recipients from going to work, and give agencies a huge paperwork burden. For example, working families would be able now to report

Furthermore, Agriculture

Secretary Dan Glickman was to undertake a public education campaign to inform working families about food stamps.

Clinton's visit to Baltimore came on the heels of a daylong visit to the Miami area, where he raised up to $1 million for the state's Democratic Party and criticized Republican tax cutting plans.

He also harshly condemned the Coast Guard's tactics in trying to prevent six Cuban refugees from swimming to shore in Miami on June 29. They were blasted with highpressure water aimed at their rowboat.

Junior rodeo exciting and a good benefit storied rodeo tradition in Big Spring and Howard County will continue tomorrow night as the 54th annual Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo gets under way at the Big Spring Rodeo Bowl.

Sanctioned by the High Plains Junior Rodeo Association, the rodeo's three-day run - performances begin at 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday, as well as at 6 p.m. Saturday – will see hundreds of young cowboys and cowgirls from Texas and New Mexico competing in a number of events.

Open to all youngsters under the age of 19, the rodeo's field is divided into four age groups. The competitors will be entered in a number of events including barrel racing, pole bending, goat tying, breakaway roping, calf riding, ribbon roping, tie-down roping, steer stopping, team roping, chute dogging, steer riding, calf touching, bareback bronc riding saddle bronc riding and bull riding.

Many of the rodeo's contestants will go on to compete at the collegiate level, following their junior rodeo careers, as well as enter the professional ranks. As a result, those who attend this weekend's rodeo will have an opportunity to watch tomorrow's prorodeo stars as they hone their craft.

The rodeo is the Howard County 4-H Club's major fund raising effort each year, helping the club in its efforts to assist in the development of 4-H members in a variety of leadership activities, educational programs and contests. We encourage our readers to attend this weekend's rodeo performances. Not only will you have an opportunity to enjoy one of the summer's best youth sporting events, but in the process will help fund a more than worthwhile program that benefits our communitv's vouth.

harsh. "What would you do if it was your child?" she asked. Talk about a no-brainer ... I would do what my Mother would have done ... IOHN which is H. catch my WALKER attention in a serious way.

No, I was by no way a perfect - that was my older sischild ter - and my Mom didn't keep me tied to the house after dark. but she did know where I was and who I was with and I knew when I was supposed to be home.

"What about single parents?" the caller asked. "Single parents can't keep up with their kids because they have to work."

My Mom was a single parent.

It was the two of us from the time I left the eighth grade until I got out of Delta State. She worked for the Holiday Inn in Greenville and was gone to work by 7 a.m. and home after 6 p.m. - and if we had a day together during the week, we were lucky.

There are all kind of excuses when we need one, but the basic reason that kids are out and committing acts of vandalism is that their parents have allowed them to get out of control

There are kids on the street in Big Spring who are out and about long after they should be - and while all of them surely aren't into vandalism, there's enough of it going on that they simply need to be inside, where kids belong. The problem covers the entire community.

There are rocks through business windows, vehicle windows smashed, tires slashed and that mindless graffiti everywhere.

After talking with the graffiti abatement coordinators in Odessa and El Paso, where their programs are nationally recognized for their success, it's clear that the way to gain control over the graffiti problem is to get it down in a hurry

Both communities have hotlines, where a graffiti location can be called in to. Then, within 24 hours of the time it was found and reported, it is down. The key is not in trying to talk the graffiti away, but rather in getting it covered and out of sight.

The most mindless of the problems are those acts that destroy something just for whatever thrill the thugs get out of it - such as the wrecking of the American flag made out of painted rocks over on Washington Boulevard.

That flag was put together back in 1992 and, I guess by all standards, lasted a long time before falling victim to the mindless, who even took some of the rocks with them to keep it from being pieced together again.

Thursday night in Midland, there is a workshop for National Night Out, scheduled for Aug. 3 and a couple of us are planning on attending It is at 6:30 at Vagos Restaurant (the former Club Granada) at 3312 W. Wall and, while it's set up as a planning session for Midland's National Night Out, it is open to the public.

No, we don't do anything like National Night Out in Big Spring, but perhaps we should for it helps reinforce the importance of Neighborhood Watch programs and gets neighbors in touch with one another - watching out for each other's property and anything suspicious.

In the meantime, since there are those parents who won't take responsibility for their kids, it's time for law enforcement to start enforcing the curfews.

It's time to get the parking lots full of kids from in front of businesses at night, where they leave's pile of trash - including beer bottles and cans when they finally wander off to wherever it is that they do.

It's time for neighbors to watch out for neighbors and it is time for us to get our Neighborhood Watch program going again.

If we don't say enough's enough, then who will?

President Clinton has identified an issue of genuine importance to senior citizens. Older and disabled Americans are concerned about the high cost of medical care - includ ing the high cost of medicine.

Clinton's proposal to add prescription drugs to Medicare coverage is a sensible idea. Unfortunately, it just doesn't go far enough to solve the problems people living on fixed incomes are having in meeting the costs of health care.

The average Medicare beneficiary pays $600 for prescription drugs Under Clinton's plan, the average person would pay $300 for the drugs, plus $288 in annual premiums for the drug coverage. The average person's total bill would be $588. Total savings: $12

Of course, there are bigger savings for those whose bills are higher. For example, a person whose prescriptions total $2,000 a year would save $712. But that person still would end up paying $1,288. How many seniors living on fixed incomes do you know who could absorb that amount?

It's going to require a much more dramatic solution than the one Clinton is now proposing. In 1992, Clinton said that affordable health care should be a national priority. For a variety of rea sons, the push to forge a national plan that would address these problems failed. Since then, the problems have just gotten worse. Galveston County is stark evidence of that. The county's largest provider of health care has slashed its payroll and cut services. And 1,800 senior citizens are being squeezed out of access to convenient care.

In that light, the proposal to save the average senior $12 a year doesn't look like much of an answer.

My parents think I'm weird because I like to put ketchup on my hot dogs. I don't like to put mustard or mayonnaise, just ketchup. Don't get me wrong, I do LOVE the extras. For example, chili, cheese, onions and relish. Mmmm, I'm already ready to sink my teeth into one.

My kids just eat the hot dog without the bun and nothing else. My daughter likes to dip things. She usually dips her hot dog in ketchup. I wonder where she gets that from?

As I was looking for some things to write about this week. I ran across some very interesting recipes to dress up your plain old hot dog. Try these, and enjoy!

Protect yourself with sunblock when exposed to the outdoors a sunny day? A sunny day usually encourages us to get outside, take a walk, participate in sports, garden, swim, and just plain relax. For years, exposure to the sun was thought to be a benefit of being outdoors. The reality we must face today is that sun exposure without the appropriate protection can cause premature aging of the skin, cataracts and eye dam-

'Trash talk' T-shirts gone after complaints

PLANO (AP) - There'll be no more trash-talkin' about women at J.C. Penney.

The department store chain is pulling a line of basketballthemed T-shirts that targets young hoops-loving males with lines such as "Your game is as ugly as your girl," and "You like that move? So does your girl."

A Washington feminist group says the "trash talk" line of apparel, manufactured by the Pennsylvania company AND1 Basketball, is offensive to women.

"It's a putdown of girls in the process of putting down a sports opponent," said Martha Burke, president of the Center for Advancement of Public Policy in Washington, D.C.

"The strong implication is that girls are the property of boys to be traded like baseball cards. It's an insulting, dehumanizing thing, and we have enough incivility in society without this gender-based stuff."

Ms. Burke said after several people contacted the center to complain about the shirts, she denounced the apparel in the center's newsletter, "The Washington Feminist Faxnet," which is faxed to several thousand supporters around the country.

The newsletter included the telephone and fax numbers for J.C. Penney Co. Inc.'s Plano headquarters.

Company spokeswoman Stephanie Brown said the retailer got enough complaints that it will no longer carry shirts that specifically target women. Other AND1 apparel will still be available. "We are having some concerns coming our way, and they are valid concerns.'

Heart-healthy diet Who can keep up with constant changes?

seem simple: an apple a day to keep the doctor away.

Then came warnings against butter, then margarine, then against fat in general, and then for some fats.

Head scratching turned to head spinning with scientific odes to the healthiness of red wine, beer, grapes and certain types of fish - and the Mediterranean diet.

Now from London comes the idea that a cup of tea a day, or maybe six cups, can help prevent heart attacks.

But the advice is so myriad, and ever changing, that health experts and even cooks say it's all too confusing for the average person who simply wants to know what's good to eat.

"There's a lot of naughtery about food," says Julia Child, speaking in the same sure voice that calmly advised dreds of episodes of television's "The French Chef."

Adds dietician Lisa Cohn: "We go to sleep at night and they say you must have fat. You wake up and they say 'No fat.' It's confusing.'

Ms. Cohn, who's with the Partnership for Women's Health at Columbia University, advised that those seeking healthy foods should look at what's in the food.

"The big thing is flavonoids; they're becoming an important part of nutrition," she said. "And that's what's in tea and bright colored fruits and vegetables - and red wine."

Flavonoids are natural substances that make blood cells less prone to clots, which can cause heart attacks. They are also one of the most powerful antioxidants, which offset the damaging effects of oxygen in

NEW YORK (AP) - It used to adding a cup of cream in hun- the body, such as fatty deposits in the arteries.

"Go for bright colors like purples and reds, and I don't mean jelly beans," Ms. Cohn said. "Beautiful salads, eggplants, mixed fruit salads with oranges and reds and maybe bright blue blueberries. Have them on a daily basis. Have vegetables at least two meals a day.

Robert Eckel, chairman of the American Heart Association's nutrition committee, agreed that looking for the latest fad health food is not the solution to healthy eating.

"People get too focused on individual food items," he said. Eckel said that while people shouldn't ignore new studies on the possible benefits of individual foods, they should be taken with a grain of salt, as it were. "It's important to balance the new information against what we already know," he said.

Texas launches diabetes awareness with prevention and control initiative

AUSTIN (AP) - An estimated 1.6 million Texans have diabetes, but only about half realize it.

That's why state officials on Monday unveiled a two-year pilot project to identify and treat diabetics. The program also will concentrate on helping the growing number of children being diagnosed. Uncontrolled diabetes can lead to a stroke, blindness and kidney and heart disease.

"We are at a crossroads today," said Health Commissioner William Archer. "If we do not do something today then we look in the next 20 years to see significant numbers of Texans with blindness, kidney failure and death."

Texas Diabetics The Prevention and Control Initiative will be funded with a $1 million donation from health care company Bristol-Myers Squibb, said Archer. It is the largest donation to the Department of Health, he said.

"We recognize the critical need to work in concert with governments, medical institutions, international organizations and community-based groups to effectively address disease prevention and treat-ment," said Bristol-Myers Squibb area vice president Anthony Coles

The state will spend $200,000 to alert the public of early signs of diabetes and for prevention efforts under the initiative, Archer said.

Public awareness programs will be focused on areas where there is a high propensity for the disease, including black and Hispanic neighborhoods, he said.

There also will be an effort to set up screening programs in rural areas, including West Texas, Archer said.

Another major aim will be to identify the thousands of Texas who don't know they have the disease, Archer said. The private-public initiative will set aside $400,000 for communities to use for diabetes screening, he said.

"We have to find the Texans that don't know they have diabetes because people with dia-betes can live well," Archer said.

It's particularly important to target children who are at risk, he said.

"We need to get into the schools at an earlier age to stop the dynamic where we see 12-year-olds with significant diabetes," Archer said.

Texas has seen a significant increase in the number of obese children, Archer said. Obesity is a risk factor for diabetes, as are high or low blood sugar, family history and limited physical exercise.

Another $400,000 will be used to educate health care providers in the latest treatment technologies. Archer said some doctors don't use the protocol set out by the Texas Diabetes Council, also part of the initiative.

"Medical education and technology move at such a rapid rate that our ability to keep up with it without provider education can be quite limited," said Coles of Bristol-Myers.

Screening and treatments may start in October, according to Coles. Bristol-Myers Squibb is based in Plainsboro, N.J.

Artist fulfills mother's dream with illustrations of children's books

GROVES (AP) - When out next year. Norma O'Rene Montgomery Buvens was a young girl growing up in the early 1900s on a goat ranch at Pipe Creek in Bandera County, she would take her parents' Poland China pigs from their pens, bring them into the house and dress them up in her Sunday best.

Life

"My mother had such an adventuresome soul," said Normareen Buvens Smith, 68, of Groves. "To her, the animals were her baby dolls, but of course, when she put them down to see how they looked, they would run all through the house and tear up her beautiful dresses. Oh, the stories she would tell."

Smith said her late mother wrote 21 short stories based on those childhood days in turn-ofthe-century Bandera County, with the hope that someday they would be published as a series of children's books. Thirteen years after the mother's death, the daughter fulfills the dream by providing the illustrations to make the series a reality.

"Just Inside the Gate," published by Eakin Press in Austin, is the first book of Buvens' series. Smith said she is working on illustrations for her mother's next two books in the series, scheduled to come Smith described her mother, who died in 1986 at the age of 85, as a natural-born storyteller with a remarkable memory.

"She could remember everything from the time she was nine months old, and so her stories are all absolutely factual," Smith said.

Buvens' stories are all about the antics of her and her brother, Orman, on and around the family ranch. "She thought that anything he could do, she could do just as well," Smith said

She recalled one story in which her mother was walking across a stream on stepping stones while holding a fish she had caught. A large water moccasin swam up to her and stood up on its tail, obviously wanting the fish, but she didn't want to surrender her prize. (She eventually gave the snake what it wanted, at the urging of her brother).

Smith laughed as she repeated the tale. "I used to be entertained by the hour by her stories," she said.

On another occasion, young Norma fell into the river, but her petticoats kept her afloat until her brother could jump in and keep her from being swept away

"It's a wonderful thing to her."

have these stories," Smith said. 'Mother's stories are the family's living history that she's passed down to all of us. She read her stories to my six children and I've read them to my seven grandchildren."

Smith remembers her mother as being beautiful, funny and kind.

"When I was growing up, she always made even the most ordinary things seem interesting," she said. "She was a talker and this was before television, so she entertained everybody.

When Smith was born in Many, La., her mother had a photographic studio, which was most unusual for a woman in Sabine Parish at the time.

"She enjoyed art and photog raphy and my father indulged her," Smith said.

Which was fortunate, Smith said, because her father, Joseph Hamilton Buvens, was killed in a car accident when she was 5, and her mother supported the family with the studio.

Smith learned an appreciation for photography at a young age from her mother. "She let me come in the darkroom with her, handle film and make prints," she said. "Whatever she was doing, I could do with

4. Wear sunglasses. Check the label to assure that they protect from 99 to 100 percent of UVA and UVB rays. The color of the lenses does not affect their protection; protection comes from a chemical applied to the lenses.

5. Cover up. Wear loose fit-ting, long sleeves, long skirts and pants as much as possible. Tightly woven fabric is best because the sun's rays can penetrate. Wet clothes allow the sun's rays to pass through the fabric more easily.

6. Artificial tanning devices once were thought to be safe but now experts know that these devices also emit harmful UVA rays which can cause serious skin damage.

7., Check your skin regularly to improve your chances of finding precancerous skin conditions. Signs to look for are a sore that does not heal, moles or blemishes that change shape, texture,n size or color. Call a doctor if you notice anything suspicious. Early detection is the key.

Precaution take now to avoid skin damage from the sun can eliminate health problems in years to come.

Big Spring's third, and for many the most enjoyable, rodeo of the year is slated to get under way at 7 p.m. Thursday with the opening performance of the 54th annual Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo.

That's right, the rodeo season in Crossroads Country did not come to an end with the final performance of the 65th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo in June.

Just 11-years younger than Big Spring's event that features the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association's top talent, the 4-H Junior boys from throughout Texas and New Mexico to compete.

Performances of the rodeo continue through Saturday, with Friday's action getting started at 7 p.m. Saturday's finale will begin at 6 p.m.

Sanctioned by the High Plains Junior Rodeo Association and open to all youngsters under the age of 19.

Many local rodeo fans find the 4-H Junior Rodeo even more enjoyable than Howard College's rodeo that features top collegians and the Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, because it features youngsters of all ages and differing levels of prowess. The rodeo provides an opportunity for boys and girls ages 8 and under to enter five events — barrel racing, pole bend-

Rodeo draws young cowgirls and cow- ing, goat tying, breakaway roping and calf riding.

> Those same events are also contested in six other age groups - competitors in girls' and boys' age groups for 9through 12-year-olds, 12- through 15-yearolds and 16- to 18-year-olds.

> In addition, the older competitors will also compete in tie-down roping, ribbon roping, steer stopping, team roping, chute dogging, steer riding, calf touching, bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding and bull riding.

This year's rodeo will feature some new, as Rod and Candace Fry of Behind The Chutes Ministry of Amarillo will conduct services at the Saturday night performance.

The rodeo is the major fund raising effort of the year for the Howard County 4-H Club and the 4-H Adult Leaders Association. Funds are used to assist in the development of 4-H programs and to help local youngsters take part in a number of activities including the State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University.

The event is conducted totally through vouth and adult volunteers involved in the Howard County 4-H program.

Approximately 50 youngsters and adults involved in the 4-H program will help members of the Howard County Extension Office staff and High Plains Junior Rodeo Association officials in coordinating the rodeo.

Tickets for the rodeo are $4 for adults and $2 for students. Children under the age of 6 are admitted free.

American League posts third straight All-Star Game win

BOSTON (AP) - Once the Splendid Splinter got teary, there was hardly a dry eye on the field at Fenway Park.

The All-Star game turned into a tribute to Ted Williams on Tuesday night, and the greatest names from baseball's past, present and future all were there to take part.

Stan Musial, Hank Aaron and Willie Mays surrounded him. So did Ken Griffey Jr., Tony Gwynn and Derek Jeter. They watched him lob in the ceremonial first ball, then saw Pedro Martinez pitch his way into history in leading the American League over the Nationals 4-1 for its third straight win.

Martinez became the first All-Star pitcher to strike out the first three hitters. He then overpowered Mark McGwire to make it four straight, and wound up fanning five of the six batters he faced.

Martinez's fastball made a memorable impression on McGwire. But seeing Williams up close, talking to him and having him give a pat on the shoulder, seemed to move Big Mac even more.

Indians prove they belonged in AL lineup

BOSTON (AP) - When David Cone took the mound for the American League in the third inning, there were at least four good reasons for his team's bright prospects in the All-Star game.

Kenny Lofton, Manny Ramirez, Jim Thome and Roberto Alomar

Cone, the New York Yankees ace, usually pitches against those four Cleveland Indians, who were voted to the starting lineup in Tuesday night's game, a 4-1 .win over the National League.

"At least for one night you can laugh and joke with them that they're on your side,' Cone said.

Cleveland took baseball's best record, 56-31, into the All-Star break. And those four starters performed as if it were a regular-season game. "I think we were basically showing the world what Cleveland is all about at this point," Lofton said. Cleveland players scored three of the AL's four runs and had two of the team's six hits. And Omar Vizquel, the Indians shortstop who entered the game in the seventh inning, contributed a brilliant defensive play that ended an NL rally with a runner on third and two outs in the seventh. "It shows the kind of talent and the kind of quality players we (the Indians) have," he said. "People vote for our players because they deserve to be here. the Big Spring Junior League Rangers turned powerful offense into a championship, finishing the season with a 9-3 record.

The Rangers' 9-3 mark left them with a threegame margin over the two teams that finished tied for runner-up honors in the league that included three other Big Spring teams and one Coahoma squad.

Big Spring's A's and Mariners managed to share second place with 6-6 records.

That's precisely what happened in the third round last year at Royal Birkdale, when Brian Watts was the only one to break par and Woods shot himself out of serious contention with a 77.

Birkdale could pale in comparison, though, to a nasty day on the thin fairways of Carnoustie.

Osborn had plenty of company, however, as Josh Mathews closed the season with a .575 average, Andrew Vizcaino hit at a .561 clip, Brandon Mendoza added a .537 average and Lee Gillihan batted .500 on the season.

In addition to their strong offensive attack, the Rangers got excellent pitching from Mendoza and Vizcaino.

Solid defensive play from the entire team allowed Mendoza to finish the season with a 5-1 pitching record, while Vizcaino was 4-1.

ways," Phil Mickelson said. "I've never seen fairways as penalizing as that for a major championship.

In a year when the U.S. Open was played with little rough, the British Open more than makes up for it with tall, spindly grass that seems to grow out of everywhere on the links course.

Hitting the fairway is crucial. The problem, the course plays so long that most players will be forced to hit drivers off the tee on most par-4s.

That's where Woods and a few others will have an edge.

"I will be able to hit say a 2far as some of the guys can hit their drivers," Woods said. "I advantage in any tournament, period.'

"When you see Ted Williams," and tears are running from his eyes, it's a very emotional time," McGwire said.

Planned as a pregame salute to the all-century team, the last All-Star game in the 1900s became a one-man show for the man considered by many to be the greatest hitter ever.

Williams waved his cap to the standing crowd of 34,187 as a golf cart drove him around the park he always called home and took him to the mound. Every other player - retired and active - closed in around him for a baseball embrace.

"I can only describe it as great," said The Kid, now 80. 'Hell, I haven't had a base hit in 30 years, and I'm a better hitter now than I've ever been in my life.'

Maybe a bit more emotional, too.

"When I got up there, tears were coming out of Ted's eyes.' said Colorado's Larry Walker, who dug up a piece of the right field turf as a memento. "I kind of turned away, it almost brought tears to my eyes. The greatest player in the world is surrounded by more great players. I know Ted was extremely touched by it.

As was everyone else.

"It was like 'Field of Dreams," Cleveland first baseman Jim Thome said. "Here these guys walked out, the best players that ever played the game."

It helped, too, that the whole thing was narrated by Kevin Costner, the actor who starred in that baseball movie.

See INDIANS, page 2B

In fact, the game itself started 14 minutes late because of festivities. Not than anyone seemed to mind.

"It's the chance of a lifetime," Texas' Rafael Palmeiro said. 'The game can wait.'

Once it began, Martinez made short work of the National League hitters. Though its starters had outhomered their AL counterparts 214-149, they were no match for Boston's ace.

With Hall of Famers Bob Feller, Warren Spahn and friend Juan Marichal watching, Martinez tied an AL record for strikeouts and became the first AL starter to win an All-Star game in his own park. That was plenty to earn him the MVP award.

Rally celebrating U.S. women's World Cup no ticker-tape parade

NEW YORK (AP) - A World Series welcome it wasn't.

There was no ticker-tape parade up the canyons of lower Manhattan. Instead, members of the U.S. women's soccer team celebrated their World Cup win with a small rally in midtown Manhattan on Tuesday.

Just goes to show, despite a hard-core contingent of loyal followers, women in sports have yet to pump up their "Girl Power" enough to equal the boys.

On Saturday, the team captured the Cup with a rousing victory over China before a crowd of 90,185 in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., the best-attended women's sporting event in history.

On Tuesday, team members welcomed a few hundred fans to 56th Street behind Niketown, where one or two in the crowd commented on the "disappointing" turnout. Particularly disappointing, perhaps, in comparison to the tens of thousands who have turned out for ticker-tape parades honoring world championships by the New York Yankees and New York Rangers.

Still, there were a fair number of children whose smiles couldn't be dimmed. Dozens of ponytailed, soccer-playing girls - complete with telltale scabs on their elbows and knees - were thrilled as their heroes passed by.

Asked whether men's soccer could compete for attention, 13-year-old Caitlin Cittarelli said there was no question.

"Everybody knows the women try harder," the Stratford, Conn., girl said. "It's great because, I mean, they represent our country so well."

And Caroline Bishop, a 16-year-old from Malverne, N.Y., who has played soccer since kindergarten, said she favors the women's team "because they can actually win."

The players showed their gratitude by swapping jerseys with a handful of young fans who brought their own junior-sized uniform shirts to trade.

Watching the World Cup champs strip off their shirts for the swap was a bit reminiscent of their victory, which defender Brandi Chastain celebrated Saturday by yanking off her jersey the way men's players sometimes do.

The team donned white T-shirts beneath their uniforms Tuesday, but Chastain wasn't quite so shy during the game itself. Unforgettable photos show her kneeling on the field in a black sports bra with fists clinched.

The jersey swap at the rally gave Chastain's teammates a chance to tease.

"I just want to apologize for the beer belly on Brandi," midfielder Julie Foudy quipped. "I told her if she was going to take her top off, she had to have a better body than that.'

Because of the team's large attendance and repeated promotion of its players, Indian fans stuffed the ballot box, although Thome appeared to be the only clear-cut case of a player beating out a more deserving one.

Carnoustie is back in the Open rotation for the first time since Tom Watson beat Jack Newton in an 18-hole playoff in 1975 to win the first of his five British Open titles.

The course is longer now and the fairways tighter. Bunkers were mostly all redone, and one was added on No. 6 to keep players from carving shots like Ben Hogan hit on the par-5 in 1953 on his way to a win there.

"If we get the wind they are predicting for Thursday, you might see some real tears out there," said Watson, who is

"I'm kind of used to seeing Manny come to the plate when I'm on base," he said. "It was fun to have it done at the All-Star game."

caught stealing on the play, Martinez was done. The AL went on to win for the ninth time in 12 games, cutting its deficit to 40-29-1.

"Last game of the century. Boston. Fenway Park. A lot of nostalgia," AL manager Joe Torre said. "The weather cooperated. It was great."

Except for the hitters, that is. The teams combined for a record 22 strikeouts, including 12 by AL pitchers, to break the mark of 21 in 1984.

No one came close to reaching the Green Monster in left field or wrapping a shot around Pesky's Pole down the short right-field line. This was the first All-Star game without a home run since 1990 at Wrigley Field Cleveland's four starters, however, helped the AL score enough to win. John Wetteland got a save while Curt Schilling, whom the Indians covet, took the loss.

Kenny Lofton led off the AL first with an infield hit, Indians teammate Manny Ramirez walked with two outs and Thome hit an RBI single.

Baltimore's Cal Ripken, a 17time All-Star, followed Thome's hit with an RBI single for a 2-0

Holdsclaw enjoys big following heading into WNBA All-Star game

NEW YORK (AP) — While rookie sensation Chamique Holdsclaw is the center of attention, she is equally in Tonight, she will perform before a awe of her WNBA All-Star teammates.

"I'm just excited to be here and meet some of these people," the 21-year-old Holdsclaw said. "Remember, I'm the youngest person here and I grew up watching some of these players. It's definitely an honor to be on the same court as them."

down the streets of New York, especially on the eve of the inaugural WNBA All-Star game, at Madison Square Garden.

The WNBA player hyped by the league as the Michael Jordan of the women's game said its "kind of impossible" not to be recognized.

She was mobbed by autograph seekers at the NBA Store and attended a full house at Madison Square Garden, including Whitney Houston singing the national anthem and Spike Lee trash-talking from the sidelin Holdsclaw and Washington Mystics teammate Nikki McCray will play alongside the New York Liberty's Teresa Weatherspoon and Kym Holdsclaw has a hard time walking Hampton. A starter for the injured allstar Rebecca Lobo has yet to be named. The Western Conference all-star starters will be Cynthia Cooper, Sheryl Swoopes and Tina Thompson of the Houston Comets, Michele Timms of Phoenix and Lisa Leslie of Los Angeles.

The No. 1 pick in the draft after winning three consecutive NCAA titles at Tennessee. Holdsclaw has lived up to her billing. She leads the Mystics inscoring (18.7) and rebounding (8.9) and ranks among the league's top four in both categories.

The 6-foot-2 forward can bring the ball upcourt like a guard, hit fadeaway jumpers or use her agility to slide around post players for a reverse layup.

"I just have a unique style and approach to the game," Holdsclaw said. "People aren't used to seeing it, so that excites them."

McCray said Holdsclaw seems unfazed by the pressure of being one of the WNBA's marquee players.

"She handles it great," McCray said. "She comes to practice, works hard, stays focused. She goes home, sits on the couch, goes to the movies and chills out with her friends. She's done a great job of handling everything."

Holdsclaw has her own way of blowing off steam.

"I like to go to the amusement parks and the spa. And I just hang out with my friends.

The Mystics, 3-27 as an expansion team last season, are still adjusting to an influx of new players and new coach Nancy Darsch.

While Holdsclaw has put up decent numbers, the Mystics are struggling in fifth place. They earned their first twogame winning streak after a victory over Charlotte on Monday.

Valerie Still, the two-time ABL championship MVP, recently joined the Mystics to provided veteran leadership to a young team.

"I think that's been the difference in our play over the last couple of games," Holdsclaw said. "She's just a great leader. She's very outspoken. She tells you like it is."

She may have spoken with the rookie after Holdsclaw committed 11 of the Mystics' 24 turnovers in a loss to Utah last week.

3B

"I've never had 11 turnovers in a game in my life," Holdsclaw said. "That's just one game, so I'm not consumed by it. When I'm on top of my game, the sky is the limit.'

Holdsclaw realizes she cannot carry the team by herself.

"I didn't expect us to totally change things around. They have some great players added to the league this year. The teams are just that much better." The Mystics recently added 6-3 center Nyree Roberts to the roster in a trade with Houston. 'We have all the elements. If we get another big girl inside, we're going to be the Houston Comets of the future."

Armstrong takes first of mountain stages in Alps

SESTRIERES, Italy (AP) Lance Armstrong took a huge step toward victory in the Tour de France today by surging ahead of his rivals on the tough first mountain stage and keeping a firm hold on first place.

The American's victory in the race's ninth stage, a 133.4-mile climb in the Alps, was his third stage victory, after the prologue and Sunday's time trial. He now leads the field by a commanding 6 minutes, 3 seconds. With about six miles left, the American left the leading pack of seven riders with a decisive sprint. No one was able to catch him.

Crossing the finish line, he held his arms aloft and looked to the sky.

In second place was Switzerland's Alex Zulle, 31 sec-. onds behind, followed by Spain's Fernando Escartin, one minute, 26 seconds behind.

Second in the overall standings is Spain's Abraham Olano. France's Christophe Moreau is third, seven minutes and 44 seconds behind.

For much of the race, riders had to battle driving rain and wind, making the intimidating hairpin slopes of the Alps an even greater test. of physical and mental endurance.

Five attend baseball camp HERALD Staff Report

Five local youngsters spent time in Missouri honing their baseball skills this summer by attending the Mickey Owen Baseball School.

Two of those local baseball products - Willis Morrison, Micheal Smith and Jon McKinnon - took part in a sixweek session at the Miller, Mo., school.

Morrison, the son of Willis and Barbara Morrison of Big Spring, saw some action last spring as a freshman on the Steers' varsity.

McKinnon, the son of Clayton and ReeAnn McKinnon of Big Spring, not only played base-ball last season, but also played varsity basketball at Big Spring High School.

The other three - Micheal Smith, the son of Phillip and Becky Smith of Big Spring: Nathan Clements, the son of Jim and Leslie Clements of Big Spring; and Taylor Leatham, the son of George and Mary Taylor of Big Spring - attended a two-week session.

Each summer, the Mickey Owen school has students who come from all over the world where they almost literally play, eat and sleep baseball. During their stay, the five Big Spring athletes received specialized training in all phas-

Tony Stewart's worst injury in his rookie season has been to his pride.

Now, he hopes the embarrassment he caused for himself by refusing to talk after a difficult loss in the Jiffy Lube 300 will quickly subside.

"When you get that close to a major goal and something happens that's beyond your control, it's disappointing," he said Tuesday. "I just hope everybody is big enough not to be too upset.

Upset was the best way to mildly describe Stewart after he ran out of gas on the 298th lap Sunday.

"I certainly gave people an article for Monday," he said, trying to make light of his snub of the media, a rarity in NASCAR – where all drivers are expected to talk regardless of their standing in a race.

Stewart, perhaps the best rookie of the last two decades. dominated this one. But all he had to show for it was a 10thplace finish to a race he should have won.

A bad miscalculation on fuel consumption and perhaps some hard driving when a lighter touch was needed precluded him from getting his first career victory "I wish I hadn't run out ofⁱ time, it'll come. there," Stewart said. "I was so: consumed with emotion after the race was over that I just didn't do the right thing.

too much time to set up a shot. The photographer said it took less than a minute.

Stewart said he didn't realize the seriousness of his actions Sunday until he was on the plane back to Charlotte, N.C. But by that time, it was too late for the former Indy Racing League champion.

Now he's paying the price, with the media taking him to task for failing to stick around to explain his part in handing Jeff Burton his third straight victory in the race.

"I've taken some grief over this, and I deserve it," Stewart said. "I know I have to deal with the good days and the bad, and I just hope people will see the big picture, that sometimes you do or say things in the heat of battle that you wish you could take back.

Stewart knows he'll probably be asked about the snub at the next stop on the schedule, the Pennsylvania 500 on July 25. He will be ready to deal with it and the question of when he'll break through for the first of what most figure will be many victories

When you present the big picture, others become part of the team. Your abilities to mobilize and draw favor make you a natural leader. If you are single, romance blossoms; you'll get exactly what you want. However, you might have to sort through all your suitors! If attached, your relationship will become deeper because of a mutual commitment. VIRGO helps you communicate. ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Accept responsibilities. You might need to discuss an office problem in a few days. Right-now, your words fall on mute ears, although everyone thinks they are listening. Make meetings; join friends; network. Socialize more in your professional life. You gain success and another's support. Tonight: Where your friends are.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Let others offer feedback. Just because you listen to another's opinion doesn't mean you have to follow his advice. Survey potential. Take the lead and bring co-workers together. Your positive attitude creates better working conditions. Another clearly leads your fan club. Enjoy. Tonight: Do what you must

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Close relating sends you on your way with a smile. Your ingenuity moves a project to the next step. Don't settle for less than what you want. Stay focused. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

*Pace yourself. Remain confident. You can get a lot done, successfully. Make time and get organized. Follow through on an important meeting. Communication surges. You know what you expect.
