Grant application go-ahead approved for Pioneer Plaza; funding still not α sure thing

By BILL McCLELLAN News Editor

It's been downsized several times, but the prospect of a downtown tourist park in Big Spring is still alive after getting the go-ahead from city council members Tuesday. "I think this is a good plan and a workable plan," Mayor Tim Blackshear said in voicing his approval. FUQUA

The project is still many months and dollars away from reality. Foremost, it relies on approval of a Transportation Statewide Enhancement Program grant through the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT). If that hurdle is cleared, more that $100,000 in local funds will have to be secured.

If constructed, the park back, it will rely on several major donors.

"We have a pledge from the Industrial Foundation for $25,000 and we have made a request to the Dora Roberts Foundation for another $25,000, though they are still considering that," City Manager Gary Fuqua told the council. "Also, the chamber of commerce is looking into possible funds of $5,000 to $10,000."

In recommending the city continue with the grant application, Fuqua suggested the city also pledge $25,000 toward the project.

Assuming all of the entities mentioned come through, that would mean $80,000 to $85,000 of the city's $103,202.64 obligation would be met, Fuqua noted.

He pointed out that with demolition of the Permian Building, something will have to be done with the land.

"This is too big to take on by ourselves, but if we can get it done like this, it would be a

To combat problems such as school violence, every child needs adequate parenting, 24 hours a day, every day of the year, an expert told local citizens Tuesday.

Dr. Lawrence Stone, a psychiatrist, was one of three speakers on the subject of school violence at a parents' forum. The forum followed a day-long workshop on the subject, sponfor MH/MR and presented by the Family Health Institute of San Antonio.

"You are part of an enormous team that has to be successful in raising your children," said Stone, explaining that teachers, coaches, and other adults also acted in the parenting role. 'We want to stimulate you to become part of the whole process in this community."

About 30 local parents and concerned citizens attended the meeting, some speaking and

City signs off on TxDOT's proposed highway beautification project

Big Spring City Council gave its support Tuesday to a Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) grant application that would enhance entryways into the community along Interstate 20

The project, funded primarily the Statewide through Transportation Enhancement

Program, would run from the Business I-20 interchange to just east of Highway 350. Specifically, it would call for three- or four-tiered retaining walls along with vegetation to enhance to looks of the landscape

The Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century of 1998 makes funds available to TxDOT through the enhancement program.

Engineering assistant Brian Klinksiek told council members that the project is still being mapped out, although he expects to complete it before an Aug. 9 deadline.

"I don't really have a budget yet," said Klinksiek. "I'm working with approximately one million dollars. There would be no funds utilized from the city, we just want your support."

Klinksiek said if approved, the grant would be an 80-20 match, with the local TxDOT office providing 20 percent of the cost.

"I'm not sure where the funding would come from as yet. There are several sources available to us," he said later.

DWI sentencing due today; possession of marijuana trial opens in district court

RICK McLAUGHLIN Staff Writer

A Big Spring man is to be sentenced in 118th District Court today for felony driving under the influence, third or more offense, while the trial of another man gets under way for possession of more than 100 pounds of marijuana. Mark Richard Hadlock, 37, was to be sentenced this morning for his fourth DWI since Christmas Day of 1987. The jury took 15 minutes to find him guilty Monday. Hadlock requested that the judge pass sentence rather than have the jury make a sentence recommendation.

Hadlock was involved in an automobile collision Aug. 7, 1998 on the Snyder highway, said 118th District Attorney Hardy Wilkerson, causing some $2,000 in damage to the victim's car. Hadlock allegedly was speaking unintelligibly in a slurred voice, causing the victim to report Hadlock to the police.

In the meantime, Wilkerson said Hadlock had crawled under the right front panel of his vehicle, where he had a flat tire caused by the collision, Wilkerson said.

Officers of the Department of Public Service arrived and concluded that Hadlock was intoxiated, even though he refused take a field sobriety test or a lood test.

When a tow truck arrived to take the car away, a bag with a six-pack of empty beer containers fell from the wheel well area, Wilkerson added.

In addition to the DWI from December of 1987, August of 1968, June of 1996, and July of

Instead, he said, parents, teachers and other school officials must work together with the whole community to combat the problem.

It is a parent's job, he told the group, to be consistent and set boundaries for children.

"Know your children personally," Stone said. "You'd be surprised how many parents don't. Know your neighbors. Know where you will let your child go, and where you won't.

"Define expectations and be consistent. Define consequences clearly, but always recognize, acknowledge and reward good effort."

Other speakers included Robert Cruzan, chairman of the board for the Family Health Institute, and William Wolff, an expert in security issues and systems.

When asked if their families had been personally touched by school violence, many of those in attendance nodded. Several parents told personal stories about issues with their children.

In response to a question about the graffiti problem, the experts said it can be a precursor to violence.

"In studies, graffiti represents the possibility of heavy gang involvement, but not necessarily," Stone said. "So many children have picked it up now."

Several participants decried the turnout for the forum as a sign of parental apathy about the problem. Parent Nolan Beall said he would like to see more involvement in school by parents beyond the elementary level

"I think there's a feeling est naronts that this (vi lence) just won't happen to us," he said Cruzan said the forum, and the day's workshop, would be a success if it had spurred parents and professionals to action. "To say that we're going to solve the problem of violence in our community, to say that we're going to solve the problem of violence in our schools, we're all going to have to do our part."

Approval came on the heels of some discouraging news from Fuqua. He said that early estimates from the appraisal district indicated the city would see little if any loss in funds from property valuations. However, after values were certified last Friday, it appears the city will lose $47,000 to $48,000 in revenue, compared to last year.

Following Tuesday's meeting, Fuqua said it is doubtful the loss will mean as much during the coming year, as it will for the next.

'We actually were going to be able to build the fund balance up just a little bit (under the proposed budget) and thought we might be able to get some employees some raises, purchase some equipment, things like that. That is where it will hurt the most," he said.

On final reading, the council gave the mayor authority to enter into an oil and gas lease Fe Energy with Santa Resources.

Annual agreements for use of city facilities were approved on first reading. They included pacts with the Men's Industrial Softball League Association and the Church League Slow Pitch Association at $100 per team.

The council also approved a contract with Big Spring Remote Control Car Club for use of the facilities at Comanche Trail Park. That agreement calls for a $10 fee per member annually.

City Manager Gary Fuqua also received verbal approval for city employees and equipment to be used to help the Hangar 25 Air Museum Committee pick up part of a B-52 airplane in San Angelo.

expected to show that Ayala was the driver of a 1981 yellow Chevrolet pickup truck, and that Ayala had no valid driver's license, no insurance and no current registration.

Furthermore, witnesses Rollins and Garza, would explain their original suspicions which included that, while Ayala was going from El Paso to Ft. Worth, he had no luggage, extra clothing or toiletries, Wilkerson stated.

Later, the two officers testified they were also alerted to the presence of only two keys in the ignition, freshly painted wheels and new tires on an old truck that was in what they called "poor condition."

A wrecker towed the truck to the police where the officers obtained a consent to search from the defendant, they testified. The dog, trained to sit when drugs are detected, sat when air was released from each of the four tires.

Eventually, Hardy said in his earlier statement, 113 pounds was found in the compartments in the wheels.

Defense attorney Charles Myers told the jury that Ayala and his wife were having marriage problems at the time and Ayala was "between jobs." His wife wouldn't let Ayala use their vehicles, which is why he was driving a car not registered in his name, the defense attorney said.

The trial is expected to conclude by the end of the day.

House votes in favor of normal trade with China help bring greater social change threatened Taiwan and stepped opponents picked up only four

President Clinton's China policy survived a tough challenge when the House voted to approve his decision to grant China normal trade status for another year.

The 260-170 vote Tuesday to defeat a motion to reject that decision came after a boisterous debate in which China critics argued that a nation that spies on the United States and persecutes its own citizens does not deserve trade advantages.

With the vote, the administration cleared an obstacle to its larger goal of concluding negotiations with Beijing on opening up China's markets as a condition to that country's admission into the World Trade Organization. Clinton welcomed the vote, saying expanded trade "can freedom." He said he would pursue a WTO agreement "not as a favor to China but as a means of opening and reforming China's markets and holding China to the rules of the global trading system.' Since 1980, both Democratic and Republican presidents have annually extended normal trade status - formerly called mostfavored-nation status - and the vocal anti-China faction in Congress has never succeeded in overturning those decisions.

This year, however, opponents of normal trade came. armed with allegations that China had stolen U.S. nuclear weapons secrets, tried to buy influence in U.S. elections.

"Whitewashing human rights abuses in the People's Republic of China is not in our interests or in the interests of the people China," said of Rep. Christopher Cox, R-Calif., who led the investigations into suspected Chinese espionage.

"This debate and this vote is not about tariff rates, it's about sending a signal to Beijing." But despite the fallout over espionage and a trade deficit with China that is expected to go well over $60 billion this year, a majority of both

supported normal trade, and votes from 1998.

"Our national interests are best served by maintaining commercial relations with our fourth largest trading partner and an emerging power in the Pacific," said Rep. David Dreier, R-Calif.

Business groups strongly supported normal trade. U.S. Chamber of Commerce President and CEO Thomas Donohue said 200,000 American jobs depended on it and "open ties to China is critical for businesses in every corner of this country."

Dana Mead, chairman and CEO of Tenneco and chairman of the Business Roundtable, said the vote set the stage for a WTO agreement that would "finally open the world's largest marketplace."

Collins becomes first female to land spaceship, anywhere

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA's first female commander guided-space shuttle Columbia to a dazzling latenight landing after delivering the world's most powerful Xray telescope to orbit.

Under a nearly full moon, Eileen Collins completed the 1.8 million-mile journey at 11:20 p.m. Tuesday, becoming the first woman to land a spaceship of any kind, anywhere.

"It's really just a tremendous feeling," she said today.

Within a few hours of her triumph, NASA confirmed what it had already suspected: Hydrogen fuel leaked from one of the shuttle's main engines during liftoff five days earlier. "It looks like several of the tubes are damaged in the nozzle, and it looks like we had a real hydrogen leak there," shuttle manager Bill Gerstenmaier said today.

He described the leak - and an unrelated short circuit that happened just five seconds into the flight - as significant failures. If more hydrogen fuel had seeped out during Columbia's 8>-minute climb to orbit. Friday, the engine could have shut down, forcing the shuttle to attempt an unprecedented emergency landing.

Video of the right engine nozzle, taken following touch- in nine years.

down, showed that two, three or possibly even four hydrogen-circulating tubes were ruptured. The slender tubes are made of steel.

Gerstenmaier said it's too soon to know whether the problems will delay the next shuttle flight, a radar-mapping mission by Endeavour in September.

For now, anyway, the spotlight is on Collins, a former test pilot and aircraft commander who was the first woman to lead a mission in 38 years of U.S. human space flight.

The 42-year-old Air Force colonel made only the 12th space shuttle touchdown in darkness. The runway was illuminated by xenon lights.

A beaming Collins posed for pictures in front of Columbia about 1> hours after landing. 'Get over here you guys," she called to her four crewmates, who joined her for the photo shoot.

Later, she told reporters the touchdown was fun but challenging.

"There is a little bit of pressure when you're the first woman who lands the orbiter, because I know that people are watching and want to see how it's going to go," she said.

At five days, it was NASA's shortest planned shuttle flight

While the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled repeatedly that criminal trials must be open to the public and the media, the courts have not affirmed a similar constitutional right in civil proceedings.

U.S. commander of NATO forces, Gen. Wesley Clark, to step down early

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration has told Gen. Wesley Clark, the American commander who led the successful NATO bombing campaign against Yugoslavia, to give up his command two months early next year. Clark, an Army four-star general who is supreme allied commander in Europe, fielded a call from Army Gen. Henry Shelton, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, on Tuesday with word of the early relief of command.

Clark, who had the tough job of molding together a multinational NATO military during the 11-week air campaign against Yugoslavia, was scied-uled to step aside in July of next year, having just received a customary one-year extension of der in Europe. But the Clinton administration has decided to install Air Force Gen. Joseph Ralston, now the vice chairman of the Joint Chiefs.

Ralston's current appointment expires in February and to avoid an automatic reduction in Ralston's rank upon leaving a Joint Chief's post, his appointment as European commander must become effective in May. Two senior defense officials, who spoke Tuesday on condition of anonymity, confirmed Shelton's call to Clark.

The move, approved by Defense Secretary William Cohen, comes as month after NATO-ended the alr campaign over Yugoslavia and Its province of Kosovo, having forced the Belgrade government against an ethnic Albanian-Muslim population in the southern province.

Speaking to reporters today at the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo, Cohen said he regarded Clark highly and attributed his early replacement to a matter of timing rather than a measure of Clark's performance.

"I looked for the same qualities that General Clark had in serving in his capacity as commander as the European forces," Cohen said. "I see the same qualities in General Ralston, namely diplomatic skills, his ... war record as such and the capability of serving in that capacity.

Clark, interviewed by telephone from Brussels, told the Post, "I'm not going to speculate

Amid much criticism and against widespread doubt, the air campaign succeeded in compelling Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic to withdraw his troops from Kosovo and halt the ground campaign against 19 NATO allies. The general's the Kosovo Albanians. A NATO peacekeeping force is now in the region.

Commissioners' tough decisions paying off for all s the economic roller coaster of the Oil Patch made its wild ride though West Texas earlier this year, Howard County commissioners were criticized for making some tough decisions – most notably, reducing the work week to 37 1/2 hours for county employees.

Because they were willing to make those decisions, members of the court were the recipients of a great deal of criticism from a number of people with a "me first" attitude.

Since that time, other West Texas counties have been faced with similar decisions because of lost revenues from oil and gas sources.

Unlike Howard County, where our commissioners figured out a way to keep everyone on the county payroll employed, commissioners in several West Texas counties have made the decision to eliminate jobs based on seniority.

That could have happened here, too, but it didn't. Our commissioners court was provided the tax forecast months ago, unlike other area counties that have just recently been given the data.

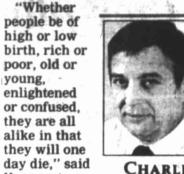

Because they were provided with the data far in advance, they were able to study their options before they made any decisions. They were able to develop a long-range plan to address declining revenues.

No, in a perfect world we wouldn't want anyone to

Samurai has correct view on Kennedy dear

e appropriate thing to say of the death of John Kennedy Jr. was said nearly 300 years ago by a Japanese samurai:

Yamamoto Tsunetomo.

we don't know that we will die someday, but we grasp at straws. While knowing that we will die someday, we think that all the others will die before us and that we will be the last to go. Death seems to be a long way off. Is this not shallow thinking? It is worthless and is only a joke within a dream. It will not do to think in such a way and be negligent. Insofar as death is always at one's door, one should make sufficient effort and act quickly."

Kennedy's death and the deaths of his wife and her sister are just human tragedies. The fact that the media made him a celebrity and have fixated on him and his family changes nothing. The loss of loved ones is the same for everyone. A person's celebrityship is something artificial, deliberately created by the media. It exists really only in the minds of the media people. It has nothing to do with the person, who is a human being like the rest of us.

The old samurai, whose words were written down by another samurai in a book, called "Hagakure," understood that life consists only of the present moment. The past exists only as memory, and the future only as imagination.

"There is surely nothing other than the single purpose of the present moment," he said. "A man's whole life is a succession of moment after moment. If one fully understands the present moment, there will be nothing else to do, and nothing else to pursue. Live being true to the single purpose of the moment." That is why the Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius remarked that whether one dies young or old, it is the same, for one loses the only thing one has or ever will have - the present moment.

If you knew young Kennedy, then his death is a personal loss. If you knew him only as a TV or print image, then beyond the normal compassion all should feel for all humans, it doesn't really concern you. By most accounts, he was an amiable young man who enjoyed his life. That's about as good as it gets for anyone. Some even argue it is better to go at the heights than to wait for the inevitable decline mortality imposes on all survivors of youth.

Another Japanese writer, this one modern, believed this so strongly that he committed suicide at the height of his fame. To be sure, this writer, Yukio Mishima — while greatly talented - was a bit eccentric. He was greatly put out with modern Japan, but, oddly for a man who spoke so highly of

"Hagakure," he must have missed the following passage

... although one would like to change today's world back to the spirit of one hundred years or more ago, it cannot be done. Thus it is important to make the best out of every generation."

As for the so-called Kennedy curse, that, too, is a media creation. Take any large, extended family and, during a 50-year period, it will have its share of tragedies. The only unusual thing about the Kennedys is to lose two members to assassination. In some parts of the world, even that might not be unusual.

I don't share the liberal adulation of the Kennedy family. Not to speak ill of the dead, but the original Kennedy administration was more akin to Blunderville than to Camelot. Sen. Ted Kennedy disgraced himself more than once. The family has distinguished itself but not in the fields of intellect and integrity. Still, I'm sorry for their losses.

The members of the commissioners court did what we elected them to do when they looked at the numbers and made some difficult decisions ... and, on Monday they did as they promised back in April when they said if the conditions change, they would revisit their decision.

The financial data today, with $20 a barrel oil, looks better today than it did then. As a result, commissioners are reviewing their decisions and options.

In the meantime, even though their decisions might not have been popular, they kept people working and the county moving ahead.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

The world (most people) seems to believe that loud is good, louder is better, loudest (eardrum bursting) is the best. Even a lot of churches seem to think that if you believe in the Lord you should be as loud as possible (to show how Holy you are).

I have never believed, and do not now believe this litany

Many years ago when I was a child we were taught that (1) silence is golden; (2) a child should be seen and not heard; (3) calmness. decorum and quiet showed respect and good manners. The Lord I believe in is not deaf or asleep.

He hears the quietness whisper (even your thoughts).

If you are loud you subscribe to the creed of the Nazi Party (the Devil's own). If you tell a lie (any lie), loud enough, long enough and often enough, most people will come to believe it over time (especially if you tell it with fervor, frenzy and dedication).

The current trend toward loudness started back in the 1940s and has been accelerating ever since.

Many of us who do not like or believe in it have not spoken it because it would take us out of our "comfort zone.'

I have been among the worst of these, but, it is time that we spoke up and tried to do something about it. ELDRED E. GRAY BIG SPRING

Henry lives in Valentine and hunts about 170 days a year on several ranches in the Texas mountain country

"I hunt from Valentine to Balmorhea and from Kent to Shafter," says Henry. "When I kill a lion I show it to the rancher or somebody who works there, then I skin it and sell the hides. I cut the meat up and cook it and feed it to my dogs.

Cat hides sell for $150-$300 dollars depending on the size of the skin and the desire of the buyer.

"When I get a deep freeze full of them I usually find an advertisement and send them somewhere.'

Henry just got a lion hide coat he had made in Eureka, Montana by a master furrier named Randy Richards. Henry sent him nine hides, Randy tanned them and made Henry a coat and charged him $1,000. The coat is heavy and Henry is looking forward to wearing it this winter.

Ranchers want the lions cleared out because they kill deer. The landowners wish to keep deer herds up for hunters who pay good money to get a trophy deer on mountain ranches.

"In 1990, the herds were so small nobody could kill a decent buck," says Henry. "They knew the lions were eat ing them. That's why I got the job. On the ranches where I've worked, they've got quite a few deer back now.

Henry has a dozen dogs that help him hunt mountain lions. Some cost as much as $5,000. He lost one of those expensive dogs when the dog tangled with a mountain lion on the edge of a mountain and the dog and the lion both fell into the canyon below.

"I always take a straight dog with me," says Henry. "That's one that won't bark on nothing but a lion.'

He hunts horseback or on a mule.

"I start out at about 3:30 in the morning during the summer. If it's gonna happen, it's gonna happen early. When the heat comes, the scent is gone. As soon as it's light enough to see I just unload, get on my horse or mule and go to ridin' down through them canyons where they travel.

"Whenever the dogs smell a track they just take after it. Sometimes they trail it and catch it, sometimes they don't. When I ride up to a lion, I get on the ground and shoot him. gut him and put him on my mule or horse and haul him out."

Some of the mountain lions are heavy.

"A male lion will weigh a little over 100 pounds, maybe up to a 130. A female will weigh from 60 to 80 pounds."

He uses a 30-30 rifle and a Glock 17 pistol. His pickup bed has a partition down the middle of it. One side is for his horse or mule, the other is for his dogs.

I can remember when computers were used for the "slow learners" only, and now, if you don't have a computer, you are behind the times!

Kids are so computer literate. My son, Matthew, has passed me up on the computer knowledge and he's only 5 years old.

One day, he was playing one of the educational games I have for my computer, I heard the printer printing. I ran to see what he had done. He had figured out how to print out a certificate, something I didn't even know could be done on that game. Plus I was in awe that he even knew how to print!

I think I'll ask him for help

It's amazing to me how much the next time I get stuck. Speaking of kids and computers, I thought I'd share with you some information on Internet safety and kids today. In a survey done by the Family Education Network, 47 percent of youths preferred using the Internet to watching TV. Eighty-five percent of children surfed the Net for topics of interest, 73 percent accessed it for school-related information and 68 percent use e-mail. Fifty-four percent of children played games on the Internet, and 48 percent visited chat rooms

In order to keep the Internet safe for children and young people, parents need to establish web-surfing rules.

Such rules include the topics children are allowed to look up, finishing homework or chores prior to logging on, and chat room guidelines. But thanks to the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act passed by Congress last fall, most websites are now required to get a parent's permission before they can collect personal information from kids 12 and under.

Here are some precautions

they suggest:

·Before your child registers with an online site, make sure you read the privacy policy. If one isn't posted, send an e-mail asking how personal information is treated. At a minimum, a good site will allow you to opt out of any marketing lists it either uses itself or sells to other companies.

 Remind your child she/he should never give out personal information. As kids get older, requests will become more frequent, and the enticements (like free things) more attractive.

To keep chat rooms safe:

•Understand the rules of the road. Most rooms post guidelines about such things as appropriate language. Read these with your child and send an e-mail if you can't find the information you're looking for.

 Establish ground rules. Your child should never disclose his real name, phone number. address, or hometown to those he's chatting with. He should also avoid 'private,' unmonitored chat rooms.

 Whenever possible (and for as long as he'll allow it), sit with your child while he chats. Hopefully, you and your child can avoid any problems with the Internet.

Staying fit is a job for life

WACO (AP)- Zipping up the back of a dress or reaching the top shelf of a cabinet may seem like mundane tasks for the young, but for an older woman such movements can be difficult as her bones weaken and her muscles shrink.

Several senior women in Waco are determined they will not let age and necessary tasks stop them from enjoying life to the fullest. The group of mostly 50-plus-year-olds meets three times a week at Joy's School of Dance on Bosque Boulevard to stretch, lift and dance their way to more energetic, healthy lives.

Many of the women, who are now in their late 60s and 70s, have been participating for more than 25 years in a local dance-aerobics class. They say they have more energy, feel younger, have stronger bones and better balance because of the exercise. Many of them say the dance-aerobics also have helped with arthritis and life. mental disposition: MUOD GIVAG . "

Advance planning can ease stress, expense of back to school about to start. I notice as I am out shopping that once again the "school days" aisles are filled with school supplies, advertisements are filled with neat clothes and other items that you will need to get started back to school.

Oh, the expense that goes with back to school! A little advanced planning and some tips for shopping with children can help ease the stress on parents as well as the budget.

First, if you have more than one child that you will be purchasing supplies for, review all supply lists and make a master list from that. Then, determine if there are times that can be purchased in larger quantities for a cheaper price.

Look over the circular ads in the newspaper and decide where you might be able to get the base buys on the majority of school supplies, then stick with one or two choices for shopping

Hard to believe that school is school policies on school supply items. Many schools are now enforcing special guidelines on different pay periods. If you thought ahead enough to purchase some clothing items on the lay-away plan be sure that you have a list of those items before you head off to shop for other school clothes.

Be sure that you have children try on new clothing and shoes if possible at the purchase site. This saves a lot of time in returning items that do not fit.

The same shopping tips apply when shopping for clothing as mentioned above make sure everyone is well rested and knows what items they will be shopping for, follow the list that you have made in advance and again, if possible, allow one special item to purchase for each child.

If you take advantage of the tax free weekend and plan to make all of your major purchases on that weekend, still prepare yourself in advance. know what items you need to buy and stick with a budget.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) -The inability to drive a stick shift might land some people in a driver's education class. This time, it helped land a would-be carjacker in jail.

Police said Lawrence Eaddy tried to carjack a Mercedes driven by Scott Gallagher on Thursday but was thwarted by the car's manual transmission.

While ordering Gallagher, at gunpoint, to assist him, Eaddy tried for 10 minutes to drive away from the grocery store parking lot, hitting a shopping cart, a retaining wall and another car in the process. police said.

Gallagher said he managed to get away when his attacker looked away.

IMPERIAL BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Playing in the sand is anything but kids' stuff. Just ask the team of nine architects that spent five hours on the beach molding the sand into a three-piece sculpture.

The effort paid off - $5,000 to be exact

The group of architects was among the 34 teams participating in Sunday's 19th annual U.S. Open Sandcastle Competition.

Armed with everything from garden shovels to sculptor's tools, some teams worked from detailed blueprints, while others orchestrated bucket brigades to haul sand and seawater

"This is a serious hobby for us," said Vern Cooley, 53, a member of the first-place winning team from Seattle.

"These act vities help build bones and keeps bones strong," said Irons, who has a master's degree in health education and is a part-time Baylor instructor at University.

Twenty-plus years ago, many of the women in the group began taking aerobics for beauty aspects — they wanted to keep thin and attractive. "We didn't know 20 years ago how crucial their bone development was going to be at this stage," Irons said. "Women back then weren't living as long as they do now. Now we know because of the baby boomers that women have got to build their bones get their bones strong and keep them strong throughout their lives.'

Keeping active in aerobics

Many of the women have had bone density tests performed to measure how strong their bones are.

"Doctors have said they have young bones and good postures," Irons said.

Plus, they are improving their agility and balance just by dancing, she added.

"For an older woman, that's Loeen Irons, 49, has been incredibly important because of falls and breaking a hip," said Irons, who's read statistics that say up to 30 percent of the women who break a hip die from side effects.

'If we can keep them agile and in good balance and with a good kinesthetic idea of where they are, then they're just going to be a better, healthier person," Irons said. The group also works on flexibility. "Flexibility is crucial for simple things like being able to zip your own dress or to reach something on a top shelf," she said. "We're talk-ing about life. We're not talking about being ballerinas. We just want to keep enough flexibility to enjoy life.

Irons joined a dance-aerobics class 25 years ago when her daughter was born. Within a few years, she began teaching the class.

"I just love to dance," she said. "This incorporates enough dance elements to make it fun. We just think we're Ginger Rogers when we're out there.'

Traveling all around town to purchase. get the best buys at each store can be more expensive in the long run. Let your children help you in preparing the shopping list: talk with them ahead of time so that they know what items you will and won't be purchasing. If possible allow each child to pick out one special item that they would like to buy, such as a notebook, markers or book bag.

Be sure that they know that this will be the one item that they get to choose, and all other items will be purchased strictly by the list.

The same things apply to shopping for school clothes. Take some time before you go shopping to make an inventory of the items that you have, a list of things you will need and the things that you want. Once you have completed your inventory, decide what things you must purchase. Maine ranked best state for raising children

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) -Compiling data on factors ranging from immunization to juvenile crime, a national advocacy group concluded that Maine is the best state in which to rear a child.

Maine advanced from eighth place last year, when lowa was No. 1 in the rankings compiled by the Children's Rights Council.

Behind Maine were Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire. Bringing up the rear, in descending order, were California, Arizona, Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana and Washington, D.C. The council, based in the rankings today. The report measured rates of abuse and neglect; the rate of immunizations under age 2; the dropout rate; children in poverty; the child death rate; the infant mortality rate; those not receiving natal care; total juvenile crime; the divorce rate; and the teen birth rate.

The states were ranked by calculating the average of all 10 factors for each. The report draws on data from public and private sources including the FBI, the Department of Health and Human Services, The Annie E. Casey Foundation and state Washington, was announcing law enforcement agencies.

Maine officials took pride in the No. 1 listing but acknowledged that there's still room for improvement.

"It's nice to be recognized. We're going to pat ourselves on the back a little bit," said Dennis Bailey, spokesman for Gov. Angus King.

He said King has made child welfare a top priority with programs such as the Children's Cabinet, formed in 1994 to let the heads of five state agencies collaborate on policies affecting parents and children.

SEAL BEACH, Calif. (AP) -Call it a turf war, or rather, a surf war

Surfers and windsurfers are fighting over who gets to ride the best waves at this quartermile stretch of beach about 40 miles south of Los Angeles where the San Gabriel River empties into the Pacific Ocean. In 1989, the City Council passed an ordinance that restricts when and where surfers and windsurfers can catch their waves. The ordinance was passed as a safety measure to protect swimmers.

Except for a few minor altercations, surfers and windsurfers had gotten along for years, lifeguards said.

However, as windsurfing has became more popular, growing numbers have encroached into the surfers' haven in the late afternoon, when wind conditions are ideal for their sails.

Tensions began to soar about a month ago, when a windsurfer was cited by lifeguards for reckless operation and speeding while stealing a few moments on the surfers' precious waves.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -- Indian Red is out. Chestnut is in.

After sifting through more than 250,000 suggested names, Crayola has renamed its reddish-brown crayon to avoid misunderstandings over the color's origin.

The color indian red, which Crayola said was based on a reddish-brown pigment commonly found near India, was dropped because teachers complained students thought it described the skin color of American Indians.

The new name will appear on 15 million crayons each year beginning in September. It is only the third time in the company's 96-year history that a color has been changed.

"We were looking for a name that would be helpful to teachers working in the classroom, and we thought chestnut was appropriate," company spokeswoman Stacy Gabrielle said Monday.

Nearly 100,000 people from age 3 to 90 submitted names, including 155 people who suggested chestnut. Other popular suggestions included red clay, clay red and mars red.

Saying that he and his family are "tired of it," Bobby Doe said this morn-" ing that he was dropping the appeal of his reassignment from head baseball coach at Big Spring High School to the coaching staff at Big Spring Junior High School.

"It's just not worth it," he said. "My family and I are tired of it. We're going to take a year off and see what happens. Athletic director Dwight Butler told Doe on July 20 that he was being reassigned because he wanted "our baseball program to go in a different direction."

The next day, Doe met with deputy superintendent Murray Murphy and later made the decision to file an appeal of Butler's decision.

But Doe said after thinking about it, he made the decision to drop the appeal.

"I think there was probably a 50-50 chance the school board would have reversed it (Butler's decision), but even if we had won, it would have been a temporary victory," he said. orary victory," he said. "It wouldn't have been good for me or my family.

Doe said he simply wanted to put the issue behind him.

"I'm not going to coach, I'm just going to teach this year," he said, "I'll teach for a year ... take some time and see what happens and we'll decide if we want to stay here or not."

Doe said he had been offered what he called "a real good coaching job" over. the weekend, but because of financial commitments, could not accept.

Doe is a Big Spring native who began his coaching career here in 1983 before leaving for one year to take the head baseball coach's position at Hawley.

He said the timing of his reassignment left him with few options, especially after he had turned down coaching offers from Odessa High School and from the Austin ISD earlier in the year.

Doe led the Steers to their first-ever postseason win in 1992 when they were district co-champions before taking the Region I championship and advancing to the Class 4A state tournament.

They followed that with a district title in 1993 and then were district runnersup in 1994 before chalking up their second regional title and finishing as the Class 4A state runners-up.

Big Spring was again a runner-up in district play before reaching the regional finals in 1995 and 1996. The Steers missed the playoffs for the first time during Doe's tenure as head coach in 1997.

The 1998 season saw the Steers return to the playoffs, but they were eliminated in the opening round.

Sanders Barry Sanders retiring from football despite closeness to rushing mark PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) Barry Sanders is quitting football, despite the near certainty that he would become the NFL's all-time rusher this year.

"My desire to exit the game is greater than my desire to remain in it. I have searched my heart through and through and feel comfortable with this decision," the NFL's secondleading all-time rusher said in a statement released today.

Sanders arrived in London today on a flight from Detroit and said: "I'm going into retirement and I don't see my plans changing."

Asked why he came to London, Sanders said, "I don't know the right way to retire. This is just my way of doing it." He said he would spend a couple days in London before traveling on to Amsterdam and

12. Martefire ment would speak for him. The statement by the Detroit Lions' running back was posted on The Wichita Eagle's Web site. Sanders grew up in Wichita, Kan. He retired without talking to Detroit coach Bobby Ross or anyone else in the Lions organization, but said he leaves "on good terms with everyone in the organization. Sanders will be put on the Lions' reserve list after he notifies the club of his retirement. He can be brought back any time this season until Dec. 5. He also would be ineligible for the playoffs, according to league spokeswoman Leslie Hammond. The 31-year-old Sanders could always return to the game because he generally keeps himself in top shape, whether he is working out with the team or not. People who know him regard him as a man of his word, and generally unlikely to waver once he makes a major decision. Attempts by his agents to talk him out of retiring have been as futile as a defender trying to arm-tackle him. 'I am not involved in a salary dispute of any kind," Sanders said. "If I had played this season, I would have earned a more than satisfactory salary.' One of his agents, David Ware, said he was unable to dissuade Sanders, even with the argument that he's only 1,458 yards shy of breaking the NFL career rushing record.

Barry Sanders announced today he would retire from football despite the near certainty he would become the NFL's alltime rusher this season.

Sanders rushed for 1,491 yards last season, ending a streak of four consecutive 1,500 yard seasons "Shortly after the end of last season, I felt that I probably would not return for the 1999-2000 season. I also felt that I should take as much time as possible to sort through my feelings and make sure that my feelings were backed with conviction," Sanders said.

Rangers win ninth straight, 8-6

BALTIMORE (AP) Everything seems to be falling neatly in place for the Texas Rangers, who played without Juan Gonzalez and still blew past Mike Mussina and the Baltimore Orioles.

Emergency starter Luis Alicea homered and drove in three runs as the Rangers stretched their winning streak to nine, pounding Mussina in an 8-6 victory Tuesday night.

Todd Zeile had four hits for the Rangers, who improved to 11-1 since the All-Star break. Texas' win streak matched its longest of the season.

"Nine in a row is a very good feeling," said manager Johnny Oates, who seemingly pushed all the right buttons against his former team.

Brady Anderson homered twice, driving in four runs, and Albert Belle hit his fourth homer in two games for the Orioles, whose six-game winning streak ended.

his previous four starts, was tagged for 11 hits and seven ahead for good. He added a sacruns in 4 2/3 innings. It was his rifice fly in the third. second-shortest stint of the season and only his second loss since June 2.

The seven runs he allowed matched the total he gave up in his previous four starts.

"It was just bad pitching. I didn't give us a chance," he said. "I was disappointed in the way I threw, but that's a pretty good club over there. If you don't have your best stuff, they're going to beat you up."

Alicea was inserted into the starting lineup at second base shortly before game time after Gonzalez, the team leader in homers and RBIs, was scratched because of a strained right wrist he sustained Friday. Mark McLemore replaced Gonzalez in right field and Alicea got a rare start

Mussina (13-5), who had won season, a two-run drive in the second inning that put Texas

"We've got veterans on the bench who can fill in for anybody," said Texas starter Aaron Sele, the beneficiary of the Rangers' outburst against Mussina.

Sele (10-6) allowed five runs and eight hits in six-plus innings. He has won seven of nine decisions since giving up nine runs in a loss to Baltimore on May 16.

John Wetteland worked the ninth for his major league-leading 30th save in 37 chances. Texas is 7-1 in games decided by one or two runs since the All-Star break, and 30-17 in overall in that situation.

"It seems like two months now where each ballgame comes down to the last pitch," Oates said. "Fortunately for us,

"Individual accolades have never been the things that moti-

The Lions said they would comment after seeing Sanders' statement.

Speculation about Sanders' reasons for leaving include the Lions' 5-11 finish last season, Ross' temperamental personality, local media reaction when it became known that he was con templating retirement and because he doesn't believe the Lions are committed to winning.

In his statement, Sanders only had praise for the team and its management.

"I truly will miss playing for the Lions. I consider the Lions' players, coaches, staff, management and fans my family. I leave on good terms with everyone in the organization," he said. "I have enjoyed playing for two great head coaches, Wayne Fontes and Bobby Ross, who are good coaches and lead ers.'

During Sanders' 10 seasons in Detroit, the Lions have a 78-82 regular-season record and made the playoffs five of those years.

Lawyers for Major League Baseball finally win a fight

Phillips on their side. This is one of the few times in recent memory - Carmen - when something that running baseball, Tuesday really was Christmas in July. Two weeks ago, the umpires got together at a union meeting and threatened to walk out. Baseball's response? "Walk." The week after that, 56 of the 68 umpires submitted resignation letters, effective Sept. 2. There were defections almost immediately. By last Friday, 14 had asked for their jobs and their resignation letters back. Soon enough, the 42 holdouts made it unanimous. Baseball's response? "Keep on walking.'

On Monday, the umpires and Phillips, their union boss and chief legal strategist, sued the American and National Leagues in federal court. They basically threw themselves on the mercy of the court, asking for an order that would allow them to withdraw the resignations prior to Sept. 2.

On Tuesday, the court unmercifully threw the umps out. During a conference call with lawyers for both sides, U.S. District Judge Edmund V. Ludwig denied the union's request for a temporary restraining order.

As it turns out, about onethird of the 68 umpires will lose their jobs. Even now, some of the pink slips are already in the mail.

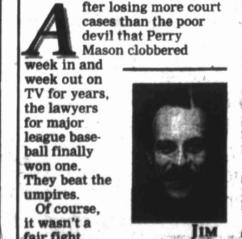

Two high-ranking baseball officials told The Associated Press that AL president Gene Budig sent letters to nine umps accepting their resignations; his NL counterpart, Len Coleman, is expected to mail as many as 13 by the end of this week. The officials also said that the two leagues already have hired 25 replacements, all minor-leaguers, to fill the spots.

As is customary in such cases, the officials spoke on condition of anonymity. The real wonder is not that they leaked the information, but that they could speak at all given how hard all the baseball people must have been laughing after the lawyers called them to break the news.

What isn't funny is what happens next: Phillips keeps a lot of them have gone our way.

Belle's 25th homer staked Baltimore to a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but the Rangers answered with a four-run second. After Alicea's homer, Mussina allowed two singles before Rusty Greer hit a twoout, two-run double on a liner to right that eluded the glove of the leaping Belle.

Alicea's sacrifice fly drove in an unearned run in the third. A two-run triple by Royce Clayton made it 7-2 in the fifth and ended Mussina's night.

"You can't expect Moose to be perfect all the time," Miller said. "He just wasn't comfortable out there.'

Baltimore got a run in the fifth on an RBI double by Anderson, but Sele avoided further damage by striking out Harold Baines with the bases loaded. Anderson chased Sele with a two-run homer in the seventh, bringing the Orioles to 7-5.

Zeile singled in a run in the ninth, his seventh straight game with at least one RBI. Anderson led off the Orioles' half with his second homer.

his job and a few good umps lose theirs.

One big loss will be the exit of Rich Garcia. He gained notoriety three seasons ago working right field in the AL playoff between the Orioles and Yankees, when a then-13-yearold New Yorker named Jeff Maier leaned over the railing and helped turn a warningtrack fly ball into a hometown home run. But that's the way umpires always get remembered.

The truth is that Garcia was a very solid, very mobile, very respected off cial who was ranked third best in the league in a survey of players last winter. Fat lot of good that did grab a chair when the music stopped, but didn't deserve to. Ted Hendry blew at least two memorable calls in playoff games last season, failed to get out of the way of a grounder in a third and was ranked 30th out of 32 AL umps in the player survey. But he will be back next season, because he got his resignation letter back early. So will the guy ranked behind him, Mr. No. 31, Durwood Merrill, for the same reason.

The flip side of that is some of the umps who managed to

The biggest shame, though, is that Phillips has four years left on a deal the umps gave him last year. He badly miscalculated his union's solidarity. As a result, his strategy for outmaneuvering baseball in advance of contract negotiations was to open the window and tell the rank-and-file: "Jump/You'll get instructions on the way down. The umpires' contract was up Dec. 31. Phillips anticipated a lockout and hatched the resignation-letter scheme to get around a no-strike provision in the existing contract. All that did was move the umps outside the protective cushion that federal law extends. People who resign voluntarily have no job protection. Wouldn't it have been something to see Phillips face when he mouthed the word, "Ooops!"

Phillips' desperation move was the lawsuit filed Monday. People who have seen the complaint say it's notable only for the poor quality of the arguments. He asked a district court to do what the National Labor Relations Board or an arbitrator are more likely to do.

The umps can only hope that District Judge Ludwig has a change of heart somewhere along the way, or that the NLRB or an arbitrator bails them out. Their odds don't look any better than they turned out for another bunch of low-flyers, the air-traffic controllers who went up against President Reagan.

And just like Reagan, commissioner Bud Selig won the staredown without batting an eyelash. That's not hard to do when the sidewalk is coming up fast on the guys you're staring down. And even better, Selig won't have to play the Grinch when the umps' contract expires, right around the real Christmastime

Sanders was a training-camp holdout in 1989, 1991 and 1997. All were related to contract negotiations. Sanders has played two years on a six-year, $36 million contract.

Sanders, 31, has 15,269 career rushing yards, trailing only Chicago Bears' Walter Payton's 16,726 yards rushing.

The Lions have had two 5-11 seasons sandwiched around a 9-7 record in 1997 that earned them a wild-card spot in the playoffs.

Virtually no one expected professional careers from the undersized duo, who have overcome everything from rebuilt knees (McGarity) to refugee camps (Nguyen). "They weren't the prototypes of what everybody wants a player to look like," A&M coach

R.C. Slocum said. "But there's no substitute for a guy who knows how to make plays, and both Dat and Wane have proven that they can do that."

Nguyen, McGarity proving themselves

McGarity led the Big 12 in receiving last year, setting Longhorn single-season records for receptions (58) and receiving yards (1,087).

But McGarity almost didn't make it to his senior year. He considered giving up football after his third reconstructive knee operation.

McGarity first hurt his knee as a junior running back at a San Antonio high school. He went down again in his first full-squad practice as a college freshman. Then it happened in the fourth game of his junior year Nguyen's journey began in a refugee camp in Arkansas. The son of Vietnamese immigrants, Nguyen's first love was soccer. But he gave that sport up to play football in the Gulf Coast town of Rockport, Texas. Although he was a dominant high school player, he faced many critics who didn't think he could keep it up at the college level.

Nguyen proved early on that he could, and by the end of his career had 'made a schoolrecord 517 tackles and won the Lombardi Award.

What truly made Nguyen stand out was his knack for making the biggest plays in the biggest games. In arguably the most important game of his career, Nguyen made 17 tackles in A&M's upset victory over Kansas State in the 1998 Big 12 championship game.

Similarly, McGarity's breakout game came when he caught a late touchdown-pass to help Texas shock Nebraska for the 1996 Big 12 title.

Neither performance made NFL scouts come knocking down their doors, but Nguyen and McGarity didn't mind.

"I can't help it if I'm not a big, prototype linebacker, and Wane can't help it if he's a small receiver," Nguyen said.

DEAR NANCY: Thank you for sending the poem. Many people feel awkward about expressing their sympathy to families who have experienced a loss. Rita Moran's poem not only contains a strong message, it also offers helpful advice for those who don't know what to say. Read on:

PLEASE, don't ask me if I'm over it yet. I'll never be over it.

PLEASE, don't tell me she's in a better place.

She isn't here with me. PLEASE, don't say at least she isn't suffering.

I haven't come to terms with why she had to suffer at all.

PLEASE, don't tell me you know how I feel,

Unless you have lost a child. PLEASE, don't ask me if I feel better.

Bereavement isn't a condition that clears up.

PLEASE, don't tell me at least you had her for so many years. What year would you choose for your child to die?

PLEASE, don't tell me God never gives us more than we can bear.

PLEASE, just say you remember my child, if you do.

PLEASE, just let me talk about my child.

PLEASE, mention my child's name.

PLEASE, just let me cry.
