Column Left . . .

The city of Friona sprays from the air two or three times each summer in its battle against the flies, latest spraying being early this week.

We don't condemn the spraying, but it looks rather futile to us to spray or dust but do nothing about garbage disposal.

We believe the city administration wants to do the right thing, and we further believe that if enough of us talk with them about this situation, some method can be worked out for regular garbage pick-up in both the residential and business sections. In fact, we just imagine we're going to keep harping on this subject until something is done, and we believe something can be done without excessive cost.

Latest of the paint jobs in town is that at the Plains Hardware and Furniture Company. For appearance of the firm an pride in the town—there's nothing like a paint job!

And just about the time that we thought Wesley Foster had done everything he could to remodel his store he comes up with a weekend of floor sanding.

Beginning this week The Star again is offering free tickets to the Regal Theatre in Friona for a number of readers each week. How do you get the tickets? Just read the classifieds; your name may be listed there.

(Lots of good values listed in the classifieds too.)

A number of people have asked us why certain items have not appeared in The Star; they evidently have reported these items to news solicitors whom they presumed sent the items to the local paper, but who actually are in the employ of neighboring publications.

To insure your news getting in this, your hometown paper, please report your news to the staff at the office (Mrs. Neelley, the editor, or Foreman Roland) or to Mrs. W. A. Tinney, news solicitor, or Mrs. Kenneth Houlette subscription representative.

The news is supposed to tell the whole truth we've been led to believe but sometimes the most interesting items are between the lines. For instance there's of John Bengner who had quite a trip to California last week and an item elsewhere in this issue tells of their trip. But we notice they returned through Nevada and not a word is said about stops in Reno and Las Vegas! And we'd hazard a guess that John got pretty well acquainted with Harold's Club and think of, however, is a lot of saw the sights! Only point we can see probably would have liked to been there, too.

Pouring gasoline on a snake to kill it may be another way of getting the job done, but it proved catastrophic for Roy Slagle last Saturday when in such a process he spilled some gas on his pants leg which ignited, resulting in bad burns.

Understand there is greater demand than ever for registered nurses. The American Red Cross has currently issued an urgent call for RNs to serve during the polio season. Incidentally, polio incidents are running 58 per cent above the same period last year in the nation. Texas and Iowa are said to be the critical areas.

If present plans of the Texas Game & Fish Commission materialize, dove hunting season in this section of Texas will commence Sept. 1.

The Marine Corps has opened flight training for college graduates who have entered its Officer Candidate program. These college graduates, according to S-Set. Gene Lawle must successfully complete a least 14 of their 20 weeks special basic course at Quantico, Va., before applying, because all Marine aviators must know tactics of ground warfare for their coordinated air-ground teamwork in attack.

Sgt. Lawler said that applicants for the next Officer Candidate Class beginning September 30 were now being accepted. He said that college graduates accepted for flight training under the Marine Corps Reserve Officer program would be sent to U. S. Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., for their pilot training.

For information contact your local Marine Corps recruiter.

The Friona Star— Editorially Speaking....

"A vigilant press has made the American people the best informed in the world."

Monday Morning Musings...

'Tis Embarrassing When the Grass IS Greener Elsewhere!

Wish you could have been with us as we accompanied the local Cub Scouts to an afternoon of swimming at the Hereford pool early this week.

With the large number of Friona area residents there (and the management reports a consistent trade from this locality) we could not help but again wonder if there were not some means of providing this entertainment right here at home. Think of the pleasure of the local youngsters and older ones alike, think of the advantages wherein both the community and the county would be knitted closer together. With Bovina, Lazbuddie, Farwell, and Friona youngsters all having fun in a local pool, they would understand one another much better, no doubt, and find that we all are pretty good folks! And couldn't this project be made economically feasible? Seemed to me a lot of quarters were being rung up at the Hereford pool as we passed through the gate.

With minimum entertainment available locally, we just can't sympathize too much with parents who do not understand why their children stay out so late going to Clovis or Amarillo or elsewhere.

Wholesome activity here is a MUST—whether it is in the form of a pool, more tennis courts, a recreation center or whatnot.

Lots to be Considered

We've decided that its all in the point of view.

We were interested this week in hearing some national politics discussed wherein a middle-aged fellow was very definite in his intentions to vote Democratic "all the way." And he was telling a younger fellow, "You just don't remember the depression, and if you have another, it is because fellows of your age are going to tip the balance to the Republicans. I never made so much money before the Democratic regime, I never had so many opportunities or conveniences; I was never able to borrow at such low interest rates."

Evidently the listener was being censored because he had not experienced the full economic cycle.

But on the other hand, that speaker had missed a lot that the listener knew much about. The veteran could remember two wars, both in the last decade, that prompted this false prosperity at the expense of the GI. Should he be asked to discount this experience just because he could borrow money easier and cheaper than in previous decades?

More and more we believe it is folly to be dogmatic in any other realm than that of sure life, death, and life after death. Everything else is subject to the experiences, environments, and individual tastes and opinions of the individual.

Watch the Women

Boy, oh boy, we can see the possibilities of this.

From another section of the county comes a suggestion from a very able lady that a 'Parmer County League of Women Voters,' be formed. We surmise that this would be inter-party in nature.

And again we are placed in the predicament where we just can't say much! Why, if we even refrained from being enthusiastic about this move, there are some good women, the wife included, who probably would out of simple stubbornness put the project over!

Actually the suggestion has its merits, we must admit. But we just wish we could look at the move objectively without remembering that WAC captain under whom we served for a short period early in our army career! Heaven forbid a repetition of that power!

Nature Took Care of Much

Charlie Turner periodically brings us a copy of his firm's publication, "The Weekly Broadcast" a most interesting little paper of merchandising trends, humor and wisdom.

For instance it admonishes: "Nature has given to men one tongue, but two ears, that we may hear from others twice as much as we speak!"

—MMM—

An Active Legion is Possible

Surely hope every Legionaire, eligible member, and everyone who has benefitted from the veterans' program in any way, will give the new commander of the Friona Post 206 their full support.

We believe that Paul Fortenberry is as capable as any commander in the state—but he needs wholehearted cooperation before much can be accomplished, even with the better-than-average facilities of the local post.

The local post is solvent financially, it has a good physical plant, and it has a constructive program of work, but all this can amount to minimum benefits if wholehearted support and participation is not realized.

Congratulations and wishes of good luck to Commander Paul.

—MMM—

The Young Folks Have a Slant

Better watch these young fellows, they're watching and listening as you go about your daily tasks!

A thrifty young fellow this week, after making his small bank deposit, came to us with a worried look on his face, and asked "What will be the effect of inflation on my deposits—Truman may get beat!"

—MMM—

An Expensive Election Looms

The August Democratic Primary run-off will be one of the most expensive elections most of us have yet witnessed. Relatively few names will be on the ballots, a handful of voters will turnout, but the full machinery of election holding and ballot counting will have to be placed in operation.

And there are a number of good candidates, who will be in the run-off, who are very apprehensive about the small vote forecast. It is questionable if the people's choice will come out victor, for a small vote is dangerous and certainly not representative of the public favor. Let's not contribute to this miscarriage of election intent—let's get out the vote!

—MMM—

We Concur with Mr. Izzard

Have you been reading Wes Izzard's remark regarding the beer cans along the highways? Believe me, we've had our share of this unsightly cluttering on local highways—even as they lead through the towns proper in Parmer County.

Disgusting, to say the least.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Wrong Tools To Plug That Leak

WASHINGTON AND "Small Business"

—By C. WILSON HARDER

Despite bitter opposition, independent business again has the protection of fair trade laws. The bill enacted by Congress replaces a previous law knocked out by Supreme Court decision.

Because a barrage of propaganda was unleashed against fair trade laws, it is well to review the purpose of such a law.

Fair trade laws do not set prices on commodities, only on specific brands. Under the new law, a manufacturer must enter into fair price agreements with retailers in each state. The fair trade price is then established for the state.

Opposition argued fair trade prices create pegged prices.

This claim is erroneous, misleading.

Consider waffle irons, for example. The manufacturers of the Super Waffle Iron know they only have one chance of surviving in a field flooded with cheap waffle irons made both at home and abroad.

Their one chance to survive without cheapening their quality is to rely on independent stores throughout the nation who have reputations for standing behind their merchandise.

But huge merchandising combines, controlled by vast financial interests, look at waffle irons differently.

First of all, if they can sell the Super Waffle Iron at a loss, they can attract throngs of customers who will also buy other merchandise priced at a profit. At the same time, the independent merchant, with limited capital, cannot take the losses to compete. Independent competition is forced out.

But the effect is even more far reaching. The huge merchandising combines also want the manufacturing profit, make and put in their stores an imitation of the Super Waffle Iron of cheaper quality at a cheaper price, but because of the cheap quality, the cheap price yields a greater profit.

But people generally demand brands they recognize as the best quality. Therefore, if the merchandising combine is to sell its own brand in volume, the Super brand must disappear from the market place.

By making it impossible for independent merchants to sell the Super Waffle Iron, except at a loss, the brand disappears from the market, leaving the field open to the cheaper quality house brand.

With this new law, Super Waffle Irons still have price competition. Waffle irons, as a commodity, are not fair traded, just specific brands whose makers feel the product quality is such that the public is willing to pay for that extra quality. If the consumer wants to buy a cheaper brand, there is no law in the world to prevent her from doing so.

The fight to restore fair trade laws to the nation was a bitter one. At times it was even confusing due to the erroneous propaganda spread against the measure. But by organized effort of independent businessmen at all levels, manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, the battle was won.

DO YOU KNOW what an easement is?

An easement is a right given by the owner of the land to another person to use all or certain portions of his land for an indefinite period of time and is of record in the Deed Records of the County where the property is located, is binding on subsequent purchasers of the land. One who buys a piece of land given, is bound by that easement. Upon which an easement has been given to the land, but gives to the party receiving the easement the right to use the land for certain purposes. Frequent types of easements are for the laying of a pipe line across a piece of poles for carrying telephone or property, or for the placing of electric wires across the property. Easements such as these give the owner or wires across the premises the right to go upon the premises to make necessary repairs to their equipment. Should any damage result to the land or improvements on the same, or to the crops, by reason of the exercise of the easement, then the holder of the easement is liable to the owner of the land, or the person entitled to possession of the land for the damages so resulting.

PRESS RELEASE

In response to much public interest in the tax matters of Parmer County, Texas, which we certainly welcome and which we deem a very healthy sign, the County Commissioner's want to make public the tax situation as it pertains to some individuals and corporations and welcome an investigation and public interest into all tax matters.

Parmer County for the years 1949 including this date, has raised the valuation of the railroad tax $69,710.00 in lieu of lowering the tax.

This county taxes the railroad as high as any county in the Panhandle; for instance: we are 20 percent higher on the cut-off to Lubbock than the average county tax on that line. Parmer County occupies the position of taxing the railroad higher than any other county.

This matter should be thoroughly understood and each court, including the years 1949 down to and including the present court, should take its share of the responsibility or credit for this situation.

In the year of 1949 the Interstate Commerce Commission merged all of the Santa Fe lines into one railroad known as the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railroad. Interested citizens of Parmer County and members of this court proured the railroad to divide all of its intangibles and rolling stock on a basis commensurate with the mileage in each county, Parmer County having approximately 49 miles of railroad to tax and being the highest taxing unit on railroads in the Panhandle got the railroad to request the State to allocate the intangibles and the rolling stock and through the various agreements and negotiations certain mileages were lowered and intangibles and rolling stocks were increased, and out of the entire transaction Parmer County received a net increase of $69,710.00.

Now, let us say that the State allocates the rolling stock and intangibles, but it was at the railroad's request that this was done. Consequently, the eastern counties raised their mileage on the roadbed and lost the intangible and rolling stock tax in part.

This county has not seen fit to employ experts to value railroad property. Many of the counties have. This information is available and this county has had access to it. The so-called experts which have been employed by various counties at a considerable cost have reached the conclusion that $38,000.00 per canning mile is a fair market value of the railroad. This, of course, depends upon the weight of the steel in the lines, the condition of the cross-ties, and many other factors. The factor that is ordinarily used by the so-called experts is 120 to be multiplied by the weight of the rails. The value that this county places upon the main line is $15,500.00 per mile, including intangibles. This makes the railroad renders taxes at slightly less than 50 percent of its actual value. The average land value in Parmer County for tax purposes, according to the State Comptroller's records, is $6.05 per acre. We hardly think that $6.05 per acre represent 50 percent of the actual value of land in Parmer County. We know of no railroad cutting and have no figures on this basis to determine their value, but we do know of some land in the county that is assessed at $5 and $6 per acre which has sold at from $200 to $300 per acre. We do not think that we are favoring the railroad over citizens of this county. We believe that we have gained an evaluation of $69,710.00 we have cut the tax of that taxpayer.

With reference to the lowering the value of town lots, this practice has been followed by this court and many preceding courts. The value of land in this county for tax purposes is not more than $4.00 and not more than ourselves in the position for $7.00 per acre. We have the having land which was subdivided into lots assessed at $400.00 per acre and land across the road assessed at $10.00. We thought — and think that some adjustment was necessary. For this reason the Commissioners' Court at its last regularization meeting announced all applications for adjustment on unimproved town lots in any city in the county not being used for residential or industrial purposes would be favorably considered if applications were made for adjustment, and we believe we have given favorable consideration to all such applications.

We have to treat all taxpayers alike within constitutional and statutory limitations regardless of personalities or residence, and with your help we will try to give adjustments where discriminations occur.

The last available information that we have on cattle shows that approximately 10,000 cattle were rendered for taxation in Parmer County and the actual market value of cattle and hogs was much different than our tax rolls showed. The raise in the valuation of cattle was given for the purpose of equalizing this differential and again to let every taxpayer pay his share of the taxes. We welcome any inquiries into the entire tax structure of Parmer County and assure you that we will be the first to recommend a correction of any discriminations for that exist.

Signed: E. R. Day.

EDITOR'S COMMENT: And

another letter to the editor is welcomed!

For the benefit of any late readers of The Star we will mention that this statement evidently is an outgrowth of an editorial published two weeks ago wherein the editor cited some minutes of the commissioners court in pointing out that the average citizen knew little of the actual workings of this group.

The statement which we print this week, signed by E. R. Day, and prepared by an astute party on legal type paper such as attorneys commonly use, was brought to us too late for publication last week, but it is never too early or too late to print comments on the tax or local government situation, so we are printing this statement for your digestion this week.

We will make little comment on the prepared statement brought us, for our findings were clearly noted in the editorial we mentioned, backed up by minutes of the court; in fact the whole incident points to this one conclusion:

The time has come when the minutes of every commissioners court meeting should be published in the local paper as an open revelation and report to the people who are to be served. With such practice of open publication, controversial or questionable incidents could be studied AT THE TIME, and not only as a defensive measure some weeks or months later after having been brought to light by some curious editor who felt that surely the minutes of the court could not be misleading.

If the railway, for instance, was being "held up" on its taxes in Parmer County—although a minute on the court records showed a reduction in rendition (duly accepted by the court) then WHY did not the powers who prepared the above statement openly advertise to the citizens at that time how a complicated situation had arisen with possibly misleading statements (as they were called by a neighboring publication) appearing in the court minutes?

We think regular publication of the minutes would prevent repetition of this.

One parting thought: With the avowed "open book" policy of the commission and its spokesmen, why has nothing been said recently about the request of Precinct 1 for its right to form an independent road district? AND WE KNOW, AND YOU KNOW that an answer was promised on this request months ago. Yes, inconsistencies are evident.

Mrs. Truett Smith and children of Paducah spent the week end in the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Benger. Miss Rowena Smith remained for a longer visit with her aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Benger have returned from a 16 day trip to California where they visited their son Noel at Yuba City and other relatives in San Francisco. Enroute they visited the Painted Desert, Hoover Dam and Lake Tahoe, returning by way of Salt Lake City and Santa Fe.

Texas Market News Service

Market price information is the keystone to the most profitable and efficient trading in agricultural products.

The farmer should not be dependent on prices quoted to him by his prospective buyer. He should have the advantage of knowing what the products are bringing in other sections of the state and nation.

Until a year ago, the Texas farmer did not have his own yardstick for determining the best price he should receive for his goods. He had to rely on quotations from markets which, in many cases, were so far away that they did not reflect the true picture in his own area.

In October, 1951 the Texas Department of Agriculture concluded an agreement with the United States Department of Agriculture which established a market news service in the state. The expense was to be shared jointly and the service got underway on a budget of $20,000.

The poultry industry in Texas was the first to be afforded daily price quotations. Previously very limited information was available and market prices were based on transactions in the Northwest Arkansas broiler area. Today, the poultryman can compare his prices with those in all areas of the state as well as nationally.

Fruits and vegetables provide a large portion of the income of many farm families and information was also lacking in this field. Only the more intense truck crop areas in the Rio Grande Valley are currently covered in the state, but quotations are also available from Florida, California, and other producing areas.

Market reporting in these two fields of agriculture is now well advanced and, pending availability of funds during 1953 plans are underway to increase the service to grain sorghums, wheat, rice, and other products important in Texas farm economy. The information is sent out by mail, radio, telephone, and through the state newspapers.

Briefly, the market news contributes to a free, informed, competitive, and hence efficient marketing of products. The farmer benefits from expanded marketing outlets and increased returns because of lower marketing margins. The consumer also benefits from better buys, steadier supplies and a greater selection. And finally, the efficient marketing man benefits from a larger and steadier volume of business.

Daily fruits and vegetables and poultry quotations can be obtained by any person in Texas through a request to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, State Land Office Building, Austin, Texas.

Mrs. Fred White and John Fred left Tuesday morning for a vacation trip to Colorado.

Trip From Norway To Helsinki Described in Letter from Jane Meyer, Daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Geo. E. Meyers

Dear Folks:

Well, I did arrive at Helsinki, Finland. To begin with I had great fun with the little man at the Winge Travel agency in Oslo, Norway over my ticket. I insisted that I wanted to go to Helsinki. He said, 'Oh yes, Hel-singsfors.' 'No, Helsinki,' I said. Hel-singsfor — Helsinki — Hel-singsfor, Helsinki, round and round we went. Naturally I got a ticket to Hel-singsfors, Finland. These traveling agencies always win. When I did arrive in Hel-singsfors it was to find its just another way of spelling Helsinki 'Believe it or Not.' I have since learned that regardless of how you spell it in Norway, in Hel-sinki — Helsinki — it will be spelled far differently.

Originally I had planned to travel by train from Oslo to Stockholm and thence by boat to Helsinki. But something unexpected happened. Namely no place to sleep anywhere on the train or boat. Me—you know me—I do like to sleep now and then. I switched and sailed on a dinky little coastal steamer that normally sails from Bergen to Stavanger, but was making a special trip to Helsinki for the Olympics. So I switched to the ship.

The trip began with my throwing things, frantically, into a bag at 6:30 in the morning after having entertained the Texas Summer school students at the Oslo University until some unthinkable hour the night before. I arrived at the spot where I was to board the ship and saw 720 tons of green, of course it was green for what other color fits better. I'm sure it was a green ship. The captain had a wonderfully reassuring smile and so I clambered aboard. Everything had a wonderful lime tar m thing was wonderful; I had bright red roses to stick in my water jar in my cabin—a nice, single first class cabin—and Chris to see me off, also an Italian newspaper man whom I knew from the winter Olympics for company on the ship. The weather as we left the dock was beautiful. I stood on the deck waiting for the 'Ja Vi Elsker'—The Uorwegian national air—but we heard the first strains of the Olympic Hymn. The funnel began to spout black, very black smoke, great puffs of it—and away we went—we set out to sea. The skies soon got dark and darker. The sea got rougher and rougher before we had hardly cleared the Oslo fjords. Then came the waves—no, waves is not the precise word. There was nothing gentle or peaceful about the tons and tons of water heaving up and down underneath us.

We all took a leave of absence from dinner, breakfast etc. Those of us who talked ourselves into believing that we were 'hardy creatures'; that seasickness is all a matter of psychology—or lack of it—ate anyway. I'm sure that the sea gulls enjoyed our dinner. I finally slumped into bed about two in the morning where I gently collapsed, only to end up on the floor two waves later. I finally managed to sleep—right through breakfast which I didn't miss in the least.

We waved our way on and on relentlessly. The first relief came as we saw the pilot who came bobbing out to us in a small craft to guide us into a haven among the Swedish rocks. The scenery was perfectly marvelous. The weather was blowing a full gale which made the clouds into weird and fantastic shapes all tinged with fiery red and all gold-rimmed. Among those rocks we had a relatively peaceful evening.

We were protected by the rocks and could and did eat and we could and did sleep, and how!

Second day we woke up to waves bigger and better than before. Everyone was seasick. Even the captain looked a bit greenish. Either we began to get used to having our small world weave about at the will of some sea-devil, or we were used to being seasick for on the third day complete strangers began to appear on deck, and we began to recognize faces we hadn't seen since we left Oslo. The very fact that we recognized those faces was a sign of recovery.

Third day we needed coal—We landed at Visby on Gotland, a Swedish port. There little men with great ambition, shoveled coal off a railroad cra onto the street, then from the street they shoveled it, slowly, into small baskets which two men very carefully lifted and carried onto the ship where they dumped the coal into a pile in the hold of the ship, and it was then, once more, shoveled into a pile near the engine.

During the "coaling" of the ship (?) (anyway it traveled on the water) we went into the town to see it and ended up in a picture show. And there we saw—The last stand of General Custer, also believe it or not.

In due time—48 hours late—our little old ship the D-S Soma landed at Pipervika. Helsinki is a city of contrasts. There are flashy modernistic office buildings and there are drab, hot-waterless apartments and sleeping accommodations offered the Olympic visitors. I am on the ship instead of in the town as it is far more livable and convenient. I'm taking pictures like mad for the press, that is Reuters News Agency of London, England.

I haven't said much about the Olympics. I'm here covering them for the news agency I mentioned. It is like the Associated Press in the good old USA.

The Olympics opened with the lighting of the Olympic Light, followed by the Olympic parade. The weather had been bad and was bad. It rains about three time a day. The Olympic parade of nations was most impressive even in spite of the fact that it was a mud spattered spectacle. The funniest thing at the Olympics today was the 50 kilometre walk, you know, heel toe, heel toe, etc. An Italian won it by walking those 50 Kilometers in 4 hours and 30 minutes and 7.8 seconds. He was really tired when he finished.

The British were most terribly disappointed. Everyone in the stadium thought their man McDonald had won the 100 meter, but in a photo finish they decided that the American had won (Continued on Want-Ad Page)

Full enjoyment of the retirement years can be realized by starting now—while your life is ahead of you—in a sound financial program, regular deposits, and wise withdrawals.

In fact financial security seldom comes in one moment or with one transaction—but rather is the reward of carefully laid plans and a consistent banking procedure.

We invite you to come in and discuss your financial needs and desires with us—we'll be glad to advise and assist in the realization of your life plans. That's our job!

MANKIND'S RAY OF HOPE

When man-made armies clash on world frontiers, when great nations angrily debate on council floors, when all the world looks to power rather than love for the answer to survival, then we must renew our quest for a life beyond—and let love replace power, let truth replace armies, let charity replace debate. A Higher Being has given us the pattern—it is our job to live by it. Attend the church of your choice regularly.
