A Christian music festival planned Saturday at Comanche Trail Park promises more than music, drama and worship. Organizers also hope to reach 350 needy families with free boxes of food.

"There are a lot more hurting people in this community than most people imagine," said Jim Koerber, with Church of the Harvest. The church is organizing the third annual Praise Fest, combining it with a food giveaway for the first time.

"We're talking about reaching

350 families," Koerber said, giant rock concert," Koerber "and there are a lot more in that."

The food will be distributed from 4-6 p.m. near Comanche Trail Park Amphitheatre, where Christian bands, musical groups and drama teams are scheduled to start performing at 6 p.m. There will also be giant inflatable toys for kids, free hot dogs and drinks for everyone who attends.

Koerber said the first Praise Fest was planned in response to a large rock concert.

"Perhaps a person can mow the lawn of an elderly neighbor. or perhaps a group wants to clean up their neighborhood or school. Anything that will benefit someone else is what the day is all about," Jones said.

Castillo said the entire community is invited to participate, and activities are not necessarily limited to Oct. 23.

"Everyone can participate, even if the activity takes place on a different day. Activities could include running a canned food drive to benefit local agencies, collecting diapers, baby formula or supplies to help needy mothers, or having a workday at your church or neighborhood and cleaning trash or painting over graffiti. Ideas are only limited by our imaginations," Castillo said.

backs of the poor," said the twoterm Texas governor and Republican presidential frontrunner.

The GOP-led Congress is mulling several bookkeeping gimmicks to keep a promise to avoid spending portions of the federal surplus reserved for Social Security.

One proposal accepted by Republican House leaders would produce $8 billion in savings by spreading the earned income tax credit over 12 monthly payments rather than the lump sum now paid with tax refunds.

"I'm concerned about the earned income tax credit. I'm concerned for someone who is moving from near-poverty to middle class," said Bush, whose is trying to build an election coalition by blending traditional conservative values with moderate rhetoric. > Bush, the self-professed "compassionate conservative," signaled in August that his longawaited tax proposal would revise the earned income tax

Bush has delayed revealing his tax plan, in part to ensure that tax cuts to wealthy Americans are offset by relief for voters in the middle class

His remarks at a news conference during a swing through Silicon Valley marked the first time he has spoke against the spending plan. Bush has close ties to Congress and the GOP establishment, a point that his Democratic and Republican opponents could use against him if Republican lawmakers mishandle the politics, of the budget debate.

Indeed, the Congressional Budget Office says current Republican spending proposals would exceed two-year-old spending caps set for fiscal 2000 and eat into the Social Security surplus.

Asked about the report, Bush said, "The administration and Congress should hold to the spending caps.'

He did not elaborate.

The Senate office of Arizona's John McCain, who is also running for the Republican presidential nomination, chafed at Bush's criticism of congressional Republicans.

McCain's press secretary Nancy Ives replied by saying, "If we were to eliminate the pork that's in the spending bills right now, we wouldn't have to rely on budget gimmicks; we would have the money to spend on low-income Americans and hard-working families instead of spending that money on special interests."

GOP leaders advance farm aid

Billions of dollars could be in the mail to farmers by the middle of October if Congress finishes work quickly on a spending bill that was stalled for more than a week.

The bill, which includes $8.7 billion in emergency farm relief, was cleared for final votes after Republican leaders forced it out of a House-Senate conference committee Thursday without a provision weakening the U.S. trade embargo of Cuba or any changes in new dairypricing rules.

Votes in the House and Senate could come today.

"It's a good amount of money that we ought to go with quickly," said Sen. Charles Grassley,

The bill offers $7.5 billion for growers hurt by a second year of low market prices, including $5.5 billion that would be paid to farmers who have "market -transition" contracts with the government. The Agriculture Department said those checks could be sent to farmers within signed into law by President Republican leaders from having Clinton.

The bill also offers $1.2 billion for farmers who lost crops to drought and floods. Moving separately through Congress is $500 million for hurricane-related farm losses in North Carolina.

The conference committee stopped work on the bill last week after GOP leaders refused to let them consider the Cuba provision. The leadership then coaxed a majority of the panel's members to endorse the bill individually, securing the last two signatures Thursday after-

The price of the committee's approval was a variety of special provisions for the lawmakers' home-state farmers: $125 million in subsidies for dairy producers, a requirement that meatpackers start reporting the prices they pay for cattle and hogs and a guarantee that livestock producers would get $200 million in drought aid.

Rep. Jack Kinston, R-Ga., said

two weeks of the bill's being he signed the bill to keep to make additional concessions to Democrats. "They were all over me to get this out of the station," he said, referring to the leadership.

The bill was expected to meet some opposition in the House and Senate.

"You have people who are upset about what's not in the bill and you have people who are upset about what's in," said Sen. Pat Roberts, R-Kansas.

Democrats and Both Republicans were angry that GOP leaders prevented the committee from meeting and voting on the Cuba measure, which had passed the Senate, 70-28.

"The process was manipulated," complained Sen. John Ashcroft, R-Mo., the amendment's sponsor.

"Certain elements of the House are more concerned with continuing the Cold War than with helping our nation's farmers," said Jim Dornan, a spokesman for Rep. George Nethercutt, R-Wash.

Federal Reserve chairman says free trade benefits far outweigh lack of job creation

WASHINGTON (AP) - Trade liberalization has greatly benefited the U.S. economy but the gains have come through creation of better jobs, not more Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan

Speaking to business executives Thursday night in Greenspan Minneapolis, mounted a vigorous defense of free trade, which he has done several times this year as the nation's trade deficit has widened sharply.

He said increased global trade has "fostered markedly higher standards of living" for the United States and other countries that have participated in promoting it.

He also said freer trade has pushed businesses to more profields ductive through increased global competition, meaning fatter paychecks for workers and lower costs for

"We too often try to promote free trade on the mistaken ground that it will create jobs."

Trade can influence the type of jobs that an economy can create, but not the overall number, he said, which is influenced by other factors, such as the central bank's decisions on whether to spur or dampen consumer demand by lowering or raising interest

"It is difficult to find credible evidence that trade has affected the level of employment in this country over the long run," Greenspan said. "Indeed, we are currently experiencing the widest trade deficit in history with a level of unemployment close to record lows.

Greenspan's remarks, which were distributed in Washington, represented the latest in a series of speeches he has given this year to counter what he views as a growing clamor for

But Greenspan cautioned, new trade barriers as the U.S. trade deficit has ballooned.

The deficit so far this year is running at a record annual rate of $247 billion, 50 percent above last year's all-time high of $164 billion. The global financial crisis has cut sharply into exports of farm products and manufactured goods while increasing the flow of low-cost imports into the United States.

"The campaign to expand free trade is never won,' Greenspan said. Legislation to further lower trade barriers "is becoming increasingly difficult to pass in Congress.

The 134 members of the World Trade Organization will gather in Seattle in December to launch new trade liberalization talks. But the Clinton administration will not be able to complete the negotiations because President Clinton has been unable to persuade Congress to pass the necessary legislation.

OTHER VIEWS

At some point President Clinton is going to run out of excuses for why he won't share more than a pittance of the federal budget surplus with the American taxpayers who created it. New figures indicated this year's surplus is going to be even higher than the previous forecast.

The Clinton administration says the overcharge of the taxpavers for fiscal year 1999, which ends Thursday, will be at least $115 billion, up from $99 billion projected earlier.

Yet against the backdrop of that rapidly swelling surplus, Clinton still insists the broad tax-cutting plan he vetoed last week is "too big, too bloated." We wonder: How enormous, how gargantuan would the surplus have to get for Clinton to agree to anything more than the minuscule, "targeted" tax cut he supports?

The answer, found in nearly seven years of Clinton fiscal policy, is that there will never be a surplus large enough or economic conditions favorable enough, for department must explain convincingly, within five months, why its supervision of five small school districts in east Texas should continue. The judge will be a hard man to convince.

Six weeks later, on Sept. 10, District Judge Robert D. Potter entered a similar order freeing Charlotte and Mecklenburg County, N.C., from courtordered busing. Their schools, said the judge, have eliminated "all vestiges of past discrimination.'

A whole era of school desegregation is slowly coming to an end. For many of those caught in a tidal wave of social change, the era has been a painful experience. They have known real bitterness, and they have shed real blood. For the most part, however, the experience has been a story of inconvenience, discomfort and accommodation. Children of different races have learned the meaning of diversity. On balance, the expensive and unsettling means have justified a desirable and constitutional

In the Texas case, Judge Hannah phrased his show cause order in salt and pepper terms that local school officials must have savored. The bare bones of fact are not in dispute. In 1970 the Justice Department filed suit against six separate school districts Lufkin, Kilgore, Jefferson, Carthage, Elysian Fields and Sulphur Springs. The government alleged that 16 years after Brown v. Board of Education, the schools were still effectively segregated. The U.S. District Court agreed. Remedial efforts went into motion. Recently there has been some activity in the Lufkin case, but the other five districts have been as quiet as classrooms on Sunday.

Judge Hannah said: "For 29 years now, these districts have labored under court orders which in varying degrees require (1) the filing of often voluminous, semiannual compilations depicting, inter alia, student and faculty racial composition by individual classroom, and (2) court supervision over the most mundane aspects of district operations, such as requiring court approval prior to the conveyance of the smallest parcel of real estate.'

On its own motion, the court has concluded that resolution of the case "cannot be left to the vagaries of Justice Department decision-making."

The government has not raised a substantive complaint against the defendant districts since it won easy consent decrees in the early 1970s. Except for a complaint to the court from a black teacher, and a motion to sell four vacant school buildings, nothing has come up that has required court supervision.

"In stark contrast to the dearth of docket entries indicating substantive scrutiny or enforcement measures by the government, the file contains an abundance of compliance reports filed by the individual school districts." The government has required Kilgore to file annual reports; Jefferson and Carthage to file semiannual reports.

These statements of compliance run on and on. Jefferson, for example, is required to report in the spring and in the fall not only the racial composition of the faculty and the student body, but also "the number of students by race enrolled in each classroom."

The reports must provide details on pupil transfers. Are black and white children transported on the same buses? Are all gymnasiums, auditoriums and cafeterias operated on a desegregated basis?

Has a biracial advisory committee been established? If so, have its recommendations been accepted? "Although they vary from one district to the next from one year to the next, these compliance reports are generally comprised of a summary letter and an appendix. It is the appendix that contains, in excruciating detail, the raw data on racial composition that permit us to know the exact racial breakdown of the 20 students that were in Ms. Mayfield's second-period kindergarten class at Carthage Primary School in 1987. Including the appendices, these reports can exceed 180 pages."

Judge Hannah ploughed an acre of statistics. As of April 1999, the Jefferson district operated three schools - an elementary school (441 pupils). a middle school (653) and a high school (422). There were 668 black students, 823 white students, 20 Hispanic students, one Asian student, three Indian students, and one student classified as Other. Faculty members were similarly numbered and identified. Desegregation orders, Judge

Hannah remarked, were always intended to prescribe temporary remedial measures. They were to cover only the period of transition from segregated schools to unitary schools. When purposeful state discrimination has ceased, federal courts should yield control of school affairs to local authorities. "A federal court is not required to sit by idly waiting for the Justice Department to finally declare victory if that means another 30 years of vain hope that bureaucratic social engineering will one day triumph over demographic realities.'

The story has aspects that would have fitted into Orwell's vision of "1984." One sees miles of silent corridors, hundreds of gunmetal cabinets, tons of unread reports. Drawers close on buried files. Will anyone mourn an end to court supervision of an East Texas school?

Florida A&M University bombings suspect in custody

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Lombardi. A 41-year-old white man was arrested on federal charges in two recent bombings at predominantly black Florida A&M University, the FBI said today.

Lawrence Michael Lombardi, an unemployed father of two from Tallahassee, was arrested about 4:30 a.m. and charged with a single count of manufacturing a bomb, said FBI agent Tom Kneir.

No other information was immediately made available on

Two small explosions have gone off at the campus since Aug. 31.

No one was injured in either blast, but strident racist telephone calls accompanied each incident, spreading fear on the 12,000-student campus.

The caller also warned of future attacks. The FBI said this week that one call said another one would happen today.

Campus police said every building at the school was being searched every morning.

The FBI released a surveillance camera photo Thursday of a man they said has information about the case, but said the man wasn't a suspect.

The man was photographed buying something at a local Lowe's home store, the day before the first blast.

Local, state and federal investigators descended en masse on hilltop campus in Tallahassee after the first blast.

The first blast Aug. 31 involved a small device that went off in a men's room at an administration building 10 minutes after a warning was called in. Damage was very minor

The second, larger than the first, was on Sept. 22.

It was in the first-floor restroom of Perry Paige Hall, which has four floors of laboratories, offices, classrooms and the Navy ROTC office. Again. damage was minor

Pizza chain buys rights to put logo on Russian rocket

DALLAS (AP) — An international space race is on again, with companies now joining in the competition to boldly go where no advertisers have gone before.

This time, it's not about which nation pushes farther in space exploration. Instead, it concerns which program gets more financial help in an era of shrinking budgets.

The Russian space program is getting a multimillion-dollar boost from Texas-based Pizza Hut, which will paint a 30-foot advertisement on a Proton rocket in November. NASA says it isn't far behind, with private partnerships envisioned to reduce costs for the agency.

"This is the colonization of public space by commercial interests." said James Twitchell, a University of Florida professor who studies commercial culture.

Pizza Hut announced Thursday it would pay the cashstarved Russian space agency about half the price of a 30-second TV ad during the Super Bowl - currently up to $2.5 million — for the right to paint its logo on a Russian Proton rock-

The rocket is scheduled to blast off in mid-November with the living quarters for the International Space Station.

The segment carrying the Pizza Hut logo will be cast off and burn up in the atmosphere before it reaches orbit. But Pizza Hut marketers are counting on the minutes leading up to liftoff and the sight of the engines firing under the company's red-roof logo to provide enough film footage to fuel vears of advertising campaigns.

And Twitchell said Dallasbased Pizza Hut is underwriting, through its ad, part of the Russian space endeavor.

"The question to ask is whether the endeavor is worth it," he said, "and then should it be encumbered with advertis-

Although the stunt shows how space could be the next commercial frontier, don't expect American spacecraft to look like NASCAR cars any time soon.

While U.S. law doesn't preclude placing corporate logos on American spacecraft, NASA would not consider it on taxproperty, agency payer spokesman Brian Welch said.

Still, Daniel Tam, NASA's assistant to the administrator for commercialization, said space agencies need to think about the marketing potential they can offer in an era of shrinking budgets for space exploration.

Failed Mars mission blamed on metric conversion confusion

LOS ANGELES (AP) Converting English measurements into metric units isn't exactly rocket science, but NASA is blaming the loss of its $125 million Mars Climate Orbiter on a metric mishap.

The monumental goof caused the spacecraft to fly too close the Red Planet and burn up or break apart in the atmosphere it was to have studied, the space agency said Thursday.

The probe had successfully flown 416 million miles in 9) months before vanishing just as it was starting to circle Mars early on Sept. 23.

"It does not make us feel good that this happened," said Tom Gavin of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. "This mix-up has caused us to look at our entire end-to-end process. We will get to the bottom of this.'

A final report on the mission is expected by Nov. 19 enough time to fix any problems with another Mars-bound spacecraft that is scheduled to land in early December.

In a preliminary report, JPL said the spacecraft's builder, Lockheed Martin Astronautics, submitted acceleration data in English units of pounds of force instead of the metric unit called newtons. At JPL, the numbers were entered into a computer that assumed metric measurements.

"In our previous Mars missions, we have always used metric," Gavin said.

Noel Hinners, vice president of flight systems for Lockheed Martin Astronautics in Denver, admitted the numbers should have been submitted in metric units.

The bad numbers had been used since the spacecraft's launch last December, but the effect was so small that it went unnoticed. The difference added up over the months as the spacecraft journeyed toward Mars.

Mission navigators crunched the numbers to help understand the position of the spacecraft during flight. The calculations measured the force of small thruster firings that helped counteract the effects of natural forces such as the solar wind energy particles streaming from the sun.

'Marriage: Total Commitment" (Eph. 5:21-32; Matt. 19:4-6) is Dr. Ed Williamson's message this World Communion Sunday at the First United Methodist Church, 400 Scurry.

The message is about the deeper level of dedication required in a marriage. Be sure you bring your canned goods this Sunday for the Salvation Army Food Drive. Worship is at 8:30 and 10:50 a.m. Our home http://www.xroadstx.com/-dove.

Youth meet on Sunday afternoon with Mid-High youth meeting at 5 p.m. Youth Choir is meeting at 6 p.m. and Senior Highs meeting at 7 p.m. There is also a Bible study for senior highs on Wednesday night at 101 Washington. Children also have a great time in our Sunday School at 9:40 a.m. every Sunday morning.

We also have children's vocal and handbell choirs led by John and Denise Ross. Single Adults have a class all their own, taught by Jackie Henry, on Sunday mornings t 9:40, and if you are a single adult you are invited to come and visit

There is also the children's vocal and handbell choirs led by John and Denise Ross and a single adults class on Sunday mornings.

The First United Methodist Church has several Sunday School classes for adults, youth and children. There is a Wednesday noon Bible study class and meal each week in Garrett Hall and everyone is invited to attend.

On Monday, at 7 p.m., FUMC will host a community-wide Harvest Rally for Christians all across Howard County. This special worship service, sponsored by the Ministerial Fellowship, will be to thank God for giving us a "rainier" year than we had last year as well as thanking God for His grace in the "Jesus Video Project" conducted in our coun-* ty in the past few weeks.

Music will be shared by persons and groups from a variety of Christian groups and churches in our area. There will be a social after the rally in Garrett Hall. Christians of all groups are invited to this service of praise, thanks and Mark your calendars for the Fall Revival scheduled for the week of Oct. 17, and this years evangelist is Dr. Jordan Grooms. More information and times will be in next week's announcement.

Coahoma Church of Christ

Ted Kell of Brownwood will be in Coahoma to preach a series of sermons beginning Sunday, Oct. 17. The theme for his sermon series will be "Keep Your Eyes on Jesus" with the messages taken from the New Testament book of Hebrews.

Ted began preaching in 1950 and did stateside mission work in Wisconsin from 1958 to 1970.

In 1970, he went to Lubbock as an instructor in the Sunset School of Preaching (now Sunset International Bible Institute) where he taught until 1983. He served the Austin Avenue Church of Christ as preacher from 1983 to 1998 at which he retired to continue his ministry in meetings and workshops.

Mr. Kell will begin the lesson series during the 9:30 a.m. Bible class on Sunday, Oct. 17, with a lesson entitled, "Help In Times Of Our Need.

At 10:20 a.m., the sermon is entitled "No One Like Jesus." Then, at 6 p.m., on Sunday, he will speak on the subject "Victory Over Death." The meeting will continue Monday through Wednesday evenings t 7 p.m. with the following lesson titles: "Let Us Encourage One Another," "Never Give Up" and "The Eternal Jesus."

All visitors will be our welcome guests.

First Assembly of God

This Sunday at the First Assembly of God Church, Fourth and Lancaster, Pastor R.T. Havener will be delivering two sermons to help Christian's live a more victorious life.

In the worship service at 10:40 a.m., the message will be "Building up Discipleship." In the evening service at 6, the title of the message will be "Questions in the Christian's Life the Bible doesn't seem to answer." Both of these sermons are designed to help the Christian live more victorious in a world system that is becoming more and more anti-God as we approach the new Millennium. Jesus Video Fall Festival

The Howard County Ministers' Fellowship is sponsoring a Fall Festival this coming Monday night, Oct. 4, at 7 p.m., at the First United Methodist Church.

The purpose of this event is to thank God for what He is doing in our community, pray for what we need Him to do, honor those who have made sacrificial efforts — like the Midland Group who donated the 10,000 Jesus Videos and to be inspired by what's ahead.

The evening will include a musical celebration, personal testimonies and prayer, as well as special presentations by Midland Mayor Bobby Burns and Big Spring Mayor Tim

Everyone is invited to this free event so, as a community, we can obey the Command of the Lord in Jeremiah 29:7 for us to pray for the peace and prosperity of the city in which we live, for as it prospers, we too will prosper!

Ready to teach

Watson to lead local group of Disciples

By DEBBIE L. JENSEN

Features Editor

The Rev. Jimmy Watson plans to approach his job as pastor at Big Spring's First Christian Church focusing on what he does best.

"I look at it as an opportunity for teaching," said Watson, who earned a doctorate at Baylor University. And his plan seems to fit: Watson said his new congregation seems "hungry for knowledge.

The Big Spring community "fits" Watson in other ways as well. A Sterling City native, it was his hope to find a position in West Texas to be near his children. They are living in San Angelo with their mother.

And for Watson's wife. Rayleen, moving to Big Spring was like following a family tradition. Her grandparents had lived here for a time, and her father was born here. Later, Charles Sowell was stationed at Webb Air Force Base when his daughter Rayleen was a little

But Watson's call to lead the Disciples was interesting in another way — it required that he change denominations. Watson, ordained in the United Church of Christ (UCC), was able to transfer to the Disciples of Christ. Watson, who grew up Baptist, was ordained into the United Church of Christ in 1993. He has served churches in St.

HOROSCOPE

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 2, 1999:

Make the most of opportunities that are presented to you this birthday year. Without question, you have unusual allure and charm working in your favor. Aim for what you want - there's every reason to believe you'll achieve it. Others look to you for guidance. Your career takes higher precedence. If you are single, romance opens up next spring; you could meet Mr. or Ms. Right while traveling. Develop a friendship as well as a love relationship. If attached, the two of you love romping together. However, quarrels often ensue over funds. Be more understanding of each other's opinions and needs. CANCER pushes you to the forefront.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-

ARIES (March 21-April 19) * Make it no big deal to spend time lounging around the house. You might have overextended yourself, and as a result are exhausted. A child particularly enjoys the time he shares with you. Make calls; visit with others in a leisurely fashion. Tonight: Don't make a big deal of anything.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Your best efforts bring excellent communication. You need to clear the air and not hold any upset feelings inside. Another understands only too well. You might be surprised and delighted by how he decides to remedy the situation. Tonight: Let another indulge you - you deserve it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) * You could go overboard trying to share your affections with another. Take time for others. Make a point of letting loved ones know just how important they are. Your care and concern mean a lot. Return calls: you might have a delightful invitation coming. Tonight: Out on the town.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Listen carefully to another's feedback. You might not like his overly serious tone. but you know he means well. Make an extra effort to bring friends together. Invite others over for a spontaneous gettogether. Tonight: Let your charisma speak. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  You might not want to deal with others or discuss what is on your mind. Take some time off to play hermit. You'll be surprised at how quickly you come out of the doldrums. Another's actions draw a big mile. Tonight: Happiest with one special friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Your gregarious nature draws attention and good will from others. You could even enjoy shopping in a crowd or people-watching in a busy spot. Plans are apt to change. Don't worry about making a long-distance call right now. Tonight: Indulge a loved one and your-

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

* You can't help it - you want to be in the limelight and in charge. Or a partner may be pushing you to take responsibility. Though you love the goodies, recognize that flak often comes with a position like this. Nevertheless, you draw kudos left and right. Tonight: Leading the gang. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Make plans for a day trip. You recharge and see life with a renewed perspective. Be more clear about what you want from another. Remain sure of yourself in a discussion. A friend doesn't mean to be difficult, but he is. Be willing to lovingly get down to brass tacks. Tonight: Lounging around

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.

* Realize that you might be overly tired; therefore, you might be more sour than you need to be. Take a break and share some time with a loved one at a distance, perhaps on the phone. Consider making plans to take a mini-vacation soon. Join friends later, if you want. Tonight: You're best with just one person, right now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

 Take a firm stand with a loved one, even though he could be reactive. A close friend or partner shares with you, wanting to work together to help you get what you want. Popularity soars. Plan to juggle your time between friends and that special person. Tonight: You are the party!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You need time to loll around and take care of yourself. Your normal high-energy pace tires you out. Think about other ways to accomplish the same amount, but in an easier fashion. Don't say it is impossible! A friend invites you to try a new sport. Tonight: Go for something different. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

* Your vision of what is possible gives you more flexibility than you have been allowing yourself. See how you have recently limited yourself. Listen to feedback. A co-worker has some interesting ideas. Brainstorm. Creativity remains high. Tonight: Put more romance in your life.

Limping Raiders face a juggernaut in fifth-ranked A genius to figure out why oddsmakers pick the Texas Tech Red Raiders to lose by 16 points against No. 5 Texas A&M on Saturday.

The Aggies come to town sporting the nation's top-rated defense — an iron wall that has given up a single rushing touchdown and has 10 interceptions this year.

Texas Tech, on the other hand, has a stop-and-go offense that has trouble producing coherent drives and is short one star running back and Heisman hopeful. When the two teams collide, Tech coach Spike Dykes says it will take more than a little good fortune for his team to

"We know what it means to play a big team," Dykes said. "You've got to look for lucky breaks. But you've also got to

LUBBOCK (AP) — It doesn't take a believe you can win before you can win. opener against Arizona State, and Dykes So we believe it. And come Saturday, we'll try to make it happen.'

Unfortunately for the Red Raiders (1-2), the Aggies' defense, while untested by a true offensive power, seems to be living up to its billing in the early season.

A&M (3-0) intercepted four passes and returned two for touchdowns in a 23-6 victory over Southern Mississippi last weekend. The Aggies also allowed only 68 yards rushing this season after holding Southern Miss to 18.

That's especially troubling considering Tech can't make use of its primary offensive threat, running back Ricky Williams, who is out for the season with a sprained knee.

Williams missed the team's last two games after injuring the knee in the had listed the running back as a "maybe" for the game. During practice Tuesday, Williams aggravated the injury while running in a no-contact exercise.

Taking over Williams' chores will be a committee consisting of Shaud Williams, a freshman who has posted 210 yards since Williams' injury, and James Easterling, who has 198 yards rushing. Ricky Hunter, who has 71 yards rushing this season, also will help.

"If we hadn't been playing already, this might be a problem," Easterling said, "We've played for two games and we're not afraid to have the whole burden on our shoulders. Ricky told us that now is our time to shine. That's what we're going to do.'

Aggies coach R.C. Slocum didn't seem too worried about Tech.

"We know what plays they're going to run," Slocum said. "Tech has been pretty consistent with what they've done offensively, they just have different people doing it.

But if one thing supports the possibility of a Texas Tech victory, it's the amount of hype the matchup produces locally. In the past, victories over Texas or Texas A&M have contented Raiders fans even during mediocre seasons.

The result: Tech has beaten the Aggies three out of the last four times. Two of those times, the Aggies were ranked.

"We love when the Aggies come down here to play with us," said Tech quarterback Rob Peters. "We get up for the game and we feel we're ready for them this year."

Buffs trying to get back on track

Ly JOHN A. MOSELEY

Sports Editor

A year ago this week, an unbeaten Forsan Buffaloes team played host to Eden's Bulldogs for homecoming, and were hard pressed to survive a challenge by a much larger team.

While the Buffs aren't unbeaten as they were a year ago, Forsan faces a team that's every bit as big as it was in 1998.

"I don't know where they get all that size, but everyone's bigger than we are," Forsan head coach Roger Hudgins said as he prepared his team a trip to Eden where they hope to improve on their 2-2 record in a game set for 8 p.m.

"I'll tell you, they've got a pretty good football team," Hudgins added. "We really don't know what to expect, though. We've seen film of their game against Robert Lee and Menard. They beat up on Robert Lee pretty good, but Menard beat them. The question is which team we'll see

One thing's certaine hodeve If Hudgins has his way, the Bulldogs won't benefit from ersonal foul penalties tled against Forsan.

'We flat gave that one away last week," Hudgins said of the Buffs loss to Rankin's Red Devils. "We're ahead, have two personal fouls called on us that keep Rankin's drive for the game-winner alive.'

Of course, the last time the Buffs felt as if they'd given away a game they should have won - three weeks ago in Roscoe — they rebounded with an impressive performance against Sterling City the next

"I think we're in position to do the same thing again," Hudgins said. "We're going to be all right if we just take care of business. We shouldn't have as much trouble with penalties at least we better not. We've already told our kids that anyone who has a personal foul penalty called against them is going to have to do some extra work. We haven't told them what they'll have to do, but it will be significant. Elsewhere in the Crossroads area, Coahoma plays host to Wink's Wildcats at 8 p.m. and Stanton entertains Jim Ned's Indians at 7:30 in the other games involving Class 2A teams. Also at 7:30, the area's Class A and six-man teams will get into action. Garden City

Forsan freshman running back Wes Longorio breaks loose from a Sterling City defender en route to scoring a touchdown against the Eagles two weeks ago. Stockton. Grady's Wildcats will not be the only teams celebrating homecoming. Similar fetes are scheduled in Coahoma and Borden County, as well as in Stanton — three of the four Crossroads teams that are cur-

Buffaloes, who carry a 4-0 mark into their game against the 2-2 Indians tonight

Among those at least a little surprised at the Buffs' success to date is head coach Mark Cotton, who realized that his team's first seven games would pit them against teams that went to the playoffs in 1998.

"At the beginning of the year to be quite honest, I envisioned us to be anywhere from 2-3 to 5-0 in the first half of the season," Cotton admitted. "It feels pretty good right now, though. Not many people thought we could be 4-0.

As was the case in the Buffs' 16-12 win over Reagan County a week ago, Cotton says Stanton faces a seasoned opponent. The Indians return 13 starters from their 6-6 playoff campaign in 1998 and are fresh off a 14-0 win

The Indians' biggest weapons are quarterback Cole Egger and running back Eric Maxwell, both of who Cotton describes as all-state material.

"They're real big and physiback from a playoff team that everyone expects to be back there again." Cotton said of the Indians. "They've gotten off to a little slower start than some might have expected, but they've got a new coach and it's taken them a little time to make adjustments.

The Buffs will also be dealing with homecoming distractions. Cotton, like many other coaches, admits homecoming is always a troubling time

'There's so much going on that it's sometimes hard to keep things focused on what you're trying to do on the football field," Cotton explained "But it's one of those thing s you have to go through, even though you wish you didn't have to.

Oates has said Burkett could be his Game 5 starter if the Rangers meet the Yankees in the first round of the playoffs.

Aaron Sele, Rick Helling and Esteban Loaiza have already been set as the Rangers' top three starters. "They definitely deserve those nods," Burkett said. "I just hope I've earned some consideration.'

Burkett has rebounded from an awful start.

He failed to win in his first 11 starts, including 0-2 with a 12.00 in his first three before being placed on the disabled list with bursitis in his right shoulder. Burkett was banished to the bullpen on May 18 before returning to the rotation in late 🤻

Burkett (9-8) improved to 5-1 in his last seven starts, allowing three hits in six innings. Tim Crabtree, Jeff Zimmerman and Mike Venafro combined on one-hit relief, completing the Rangers' ninth shutout of the season.

Burkett continued his late surge, giving him a better than .500 record for the first time since he was 4-3 on May 27.

Coahoma splits JV for two wins; Stanton falls to Jim Ned

HERALD Staff Reports

Coahoma's Bulldog junior varsity had the rare opportunity to split the squad Thursday night and chalk up a pair of posting a 34-6 win over Jim Ned's freshmen and a 24-0 victory over Wink's junior varsity.

Stanton's Buffalo junior varsity took on Jim Ned's JV and might have rather had an opportunity to take on the Indian osh, as they suffered a 36-0 defeat only their second loss in the past four vears The Indian freshmen were really no match for the split Coahoma squad, as Cory Hill put the Bulldogs up in the first quarter with a 65-yard touchdown burst.

The 'Dogs then slammed the door in the second period as quarterback Brandon Haile hit Anthony Herrera with a 21-yard touchdown pass and then teamed up with Eddie Gonzales for the conversion for a 14-0 Coahoma lead.

Haile would add another touchdown pass, this one a 48-yarder to Gonzales, and Hill would pound in from two yards out to give the Bulldogs a 28-6 halftime

J.C. Watts added insult to injury early in the third quarter, capping a Coahoma drive from six yards out to make it 34-0. The Indian frosh managed a touchdown on the final play of the third quar ter, but that would be all the 'Dogs would

The other Coahoma team got most of its highlights from running back David Davis, who posted touchdown runs of 30 and 50 yards and then returned an interception 60 yards for a third score against Wink's jurior varsity. Travis Hipp provided the Bulldogs other touchdown, breaking loose on a 68yard scoring play.

The Bulldogs will play host to District 3-3A foe Seagraves at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. "We might have been better off taking on Jim Ned's freshmen," Stanton coach Doug Gordon said after watching the Indian junior varsity deal the young Buffs a 36-0 thrashing, despite a strong showing by cornerback and fullback Dusty Allred.

Jim Ned jumped out to a 12-0 halftime lead and then scored three more touchdowns in the third quarter to break the game wide open.

Forsan junior varsity falls to Eden, 24-6

FORSAN — Eden's Bulldog junior varsity proved to be too tough for Forsan's young Buffaloes to handle Thursday night, as they posted a 24-6 victory

Cody Lefever put the Buffs on top with a two-yard touchdown run, only to see Eden tie the game late in the third quar ter to deadlock the score at 6-6.

A nightmarish fourth quarter followed for Forsan, however, as the Bulldogs recovered two Buffs fumbles and capitalized on both. Eden added an insurance touchdown in the closing minutes to cap

The young Buffs will play host to District 2-2A foe Ozona at 6:30 p.m.

Junior high Bearkats power past Robert Lee

GARDEN CITY — Garden City Junior High School's Bearkats played the role of unkind host Thursday night, as they romped to a 32-14 win over Robert Lee's young Steers.

Robert Lopez did most of the damage for the Bearkats, rushing for four touchdowns on bursts of 20, 10, 40 and 15 yards and then capping things with a 40-yard interception return for a touchdown.

Trey Hillger provided a two-point conversion for Garden City, as the Bearkats jumped out to a 20-8 halftime lead, only to see the Steers trim that margin to 20-14 early in the third quarter before Lopez again asserted the home team's dominance

Mets in danger of missing playoffs after another late-season collapse

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the second straight year, a late-season collapse could mean no postseason play for the New York Mets.

The Mets, who held a fourgame lead in the NL wild-card race with 12 games left, have lost eight of nine games to reach the brink of elimination from the playoff race.

Thursday night's 4-3, 11inning loss to the Atlanta Braves at Shea Stadium left the Mets two games behind Houston and Cincinnati for the wild card with three remaining for each team.

To make the postseason for the first time since 1988, the Mets must either sweep Pittsburgh while the Astros or Reds lose at least twice, or win twice and hope Houston or Cincinnati gets swept.

"It's going to be tough," said manager Bobby Valentine, whose team lost the final five games last year to fall one game short of a wild-card playoff. "We are going to need some help and we have to take care of our own business.

Brian Jordan tripled and scored on Ozzie Guillen's sacrifice fly in the 11th as the Braves won for the ninth time in 10 games and clinched home-field throughout the NL playoffs.

"This is the next best thing to winning the World Series," said Atlanta's Chipper Jones, the subject of constant ribbing from Mets' fans. "I told them to go home and put their Yankees stuff on.'

After New York tied the game at 3 in the eighth on Edgardo Alfonzo's 26th homer, the Braves took the lead in the 11th. Shawon Dunston overran a high fly to right by Jordan leading off the inning, turning a routine out into a triple. Rookie Octavio Dotel (8-3). making his fifth career relief appearance, then intentionally walked Andruw Jones. Guillen followed with a fly to shallow center, and Jordan narrowly beat Darryl Hamilton's throw to break the tie. Terry Mulholland (10-8) got the final four outs for the win.

In other National League games, it was Los Angeles 9, San Francisco 4; Philadelphia 2, Chicago 1: Pittsburgh 3. Milwaukee 2; and Arizona 5, San Diego 3.

In American League games, New York wrapped up the AL with Toronto 2; Texas 7, Seattle 0; Chicago 5, Boston 2; Detroit 6, Minnesota 5; and Anaheim 5, Oakland 4.

Dodgers 9, Giants 4

The last baseball game at Candlestick Park drew a host of former Giants greats and 61,389 fans, the largest regular-season crowd in the stadium's history.

After 40 years of tormenting players and fans with swirling winds, frigid temperatures and blankets of fog, the 'Stick closed its baseball career on a balmy, sunny day. Juan Marichal threw out the ceremonial first pitch and Willie Mays tossed out the ballpark's final pitch after the game. The Giants move to $319 million Pacific Bell Park in downtown San Francisco next season, leaving Candlestick which opened on April 12, 1960 to the NFL's 49ers.

Phillies 2, Cubs 1

Mike Lieberthal hit his 31st homer and Robert Person held Sammy Sosa homerless as Philadelphia beat Chicago at Veterans Stadium.

Sosa was 0-for-3 with a walk, leaving him with 62 homers. He trails Mark McGwire by one homer going into the Cubs' season-ending, three-game series against the Cardinals, starting tonight in St. Louis.

Lieberthal's 410-foot solo homer gave the Phillies a 2-1 lead in the fifth. Lieberthal was 3-for-4, raising his average to .301. Person (10-5) allowed one run and three hits in seven Randy Johnson tied Nolan Ryan's major league record for most double-digit strikeout games in a season, fanning 11 in seven innings as Arizona beat San Diego.

Diamondbacks 5, Padres 3

Johnson (17-9) struck out at least 10 batters 23 times this season to tie the record Ryan set with the California Angels in 1973.

Pirates 3, Brewers 2

Kevin Young's solo homer in the sixth inning spoiled Hideo Nomo's 10-strikeout performance as Pittsburgh won in Milwaukee.

Nomo has 161 strikeouts this season, the most by a Milwaukee pitcher since Cal Eldred had 180 in 1993. Nomo (12-8) allowed eight hits and three walks in seven innings.

Young's two-out homer, his third in four games, broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning. Mike Garcia (1-0) pitched one inning in relief of Pete Schourek for his first major league win, and Scott Sauerbeck got the last out for his second save.

"It's not over," second base man Mark McLemore said. "We're very confident. We've still got something to accomplish.

After that, the Rangers will be making their third playoff appearances in the last four years against either the Yankees or Boston. They were knocked out in the first round by the Yankees last year and in 1996, but the Rangers say they've closed that gap.

"This is a better team than last year," Oates said. "We've got more experience, we've got the threat of Rafael Palmeiro's bat in the middle of the lineup, and our bullpen can get us to John Wetteland.'

Texas looks for different results with Kansas State

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas players remember the blowout at Kansas State last season, and now all of the Longhorns are looking for pay-

Well, almost all of them. "Revenge is kind of high school stuff," Texas quarterback Major Applewhite said. "I want to win every game,"

The 15th-ranked Longhorns take on the No. 13 Wildcats in the teams' first meeting since Kansas State's 48-7 victory last

A great deal has changed since then. Texas is favored and Applewhite's confidence is high.

"I don't think Major fears except God," anything Longhorns strong safety Lee Jackson said.

Kansas State and Texas are two of five ranked Big 12 teams in action Saturday. Also, No. 5 Texas A&M is at Texas Tech, No. 6 Nebraska plays Oklahoma State and No. 23 Oklahoma is at Notre Dame. Nebraska, Texas A&M, Kansas State and Oklahoma are undefeated, and Texas is 4-1.

In other Top 10 games, it's No. 1 Florida State at Duke, No. 21 Alabama at No. 3 Florida, No. 11 Purdue at No. 4 Michigan, Auburn at No. 7 Tennessee, No. 8 Virginia Tech at No. 24 Virginia, and LSU at No. 10 Georgia.

Elsewhere in the Top 25, it's Wisconsin at No. 12 Ohio State, Iowa at No. 14 Michigan State, No. 16 Mississippi State at Vanderbilt, No. 17 Marshall at Miami, Ohio, No. 19 East Carolina at Army, No. 20 Arkansas at Kentucky, Tulane at No. 22 Syracuse, and No. 25 Oregon at Washington.

On Thursday night, No. 9 Georgia Tech beat Maryland 49-

Applewhite, who threw for 239 vards and Aexas only touchdown in the fourth quarter that averted a shutout last season, is 11th in the nation in passing efficiency, throwing for 1,492 yards and 10 touchdowns this season, with only one interception.

"Applewhite is playing as well as any quarterback in the country," Kansas State coach Bill Snyder said. "He is as effective and efficient as any that come to my mind. He can do it all. He's very versatile and they can utilize virtually every receiver they have on the field.'

With Ricky Williams gone, Applewhite is the Longhorns' offensive leader. Texas (4-1 overall, 1-0 Big 12) has won four straight and earned its highest ranking since early 1997.

In just his second season with the Longhorns, he is already fourth on Texas' career passing chart with 3,836 yards and third in touchdown passes with 28.

"They were teeing off on me because I was a freshman, just everybody was. Applewhite said of last year's meeting with the Wildcats. "They came after me. I walked away from that game knowing what to improve on."

Applewhite and his teammates certainly face a challenge

Kansas State (3-0, 1-0) is coming off a 35-28 comeback victory over Iowa State, in which itgave up 379 yards of total offense. But the Wildcats have held their opponents to just 391 passing yards in three games this season. Opponents have completed 41.2 percent of their passes.

Kansas State have given up just one passing touchdown this season, ranks fourth in the nation in pass efficiency defense, and has at least one interception in all three of its games.

"Kansas State is still for real," Texas coach Mack Brown said. "They're big, fast, and confi-
