COLUMN LEFT

Frequently in this column we salute a firm or person who has contributed something extra to the community and its welfare.

This week, rather than naming a particular firm or person, we want to express our appreciation to the good citizens who week-in and week-out cooperate with their local paper, The Friona Star, in calling to our attention bits of news and the large number of personal items. In comparing this, your paper, with publications in towns of comparable size, we have been very pleased to note the larger number of news items and personal notes about visits, etc., and we wish to pass the credit to you, our friends, co-workers, and subscribers.

Many of you have recognized by observation and acquaintance with our staff that we do not hesitate to go all out for any enterprise we believe for the betterment of the community. Your hometown paper is the only paper in the whole country that gives a hoot about Friona and its growth. And to those of you who remember your hometown paper first, we extend our sincere thanks.

Together we'll enjoy better living, a better informed citizenry, and a more progressive community - due in large part to this spirit of cooperation.

Voice on phone: "How are you this morning?"

Answer: "All right."

Voice: "Sorry, I must have the wrong number."

CL

Headline writing can be tricky; note how some of our neighboring editors have been thrown:

"John R. Groos reports that his service station has rest rooms approved by the Golf district headquarters. . . ." From the Kyle News.

"Stockdale Gets Two 3,200-ft Wildcats" Floresville Chronicle Journal.

CL

More and more we note how one should be on their good behavior at all times; angels are often entertained unawares in our many activities.

Example: Folks in Kerrville were swamped recently with inquiries from all over the mid-west about tourist facilities. The reason was obscure until it was learned that a few weeks previously a Chicago newspaperman had been ordered by his doctor to take a rest. He slipped into Kerrville unknown and stayed several weeks, returning home feeling in top condition. He wrote an item in his column in the Chicago Tribune telling about the marvelous climate and the friendly folks he had met in Kerrville.

Moral: We each are ambassadors for Friona and the great plains area, as we often have emphasized, even harped on!

CL

Ran into an old army acquaintance of Philippine campaigns the other day, and I immediately remembered his horror of choppy water. We remember this quote:

Sailor: "You aren't getting seasick, are you?"

Tom: "Not exactly, but I'd sure hate to yawn."

Rhea Farm Bureau Will Meet on Saturday Night

The Farm Bureau of the Rhea community will have its regular monthly meeting on Saturday night, March 15, at the Parish house. After the business session, a picture will be shown. Refreshments will be served.

Scattered rains falling over the week-end in the area have failed to alter crop conditions to any extent with the extraordinary high wind and dust of Wednesday and last night following.

The showers were accompanied by temperatures slightly under the seasonal normal. The dust commenced blowing early Wednesday morning, sometimes in gusts exceeding 60 miles per hour. However the wind died down in the late afternoon and forecasts are for slightly higher temperatures and possibility of more moisture.

Parmer County continues to place in the better crop condition sections of the state with dry weather prevailing in every part of Texas. Local underground moisture has held the wheat so far with immediate rains needed for further growth.

More than 75 per cent of Texas cultivated land has been prepared for spring planting, the Santa Fe railway reports, with activity in many cotton and corn areas of the coastal region underway. First cotton was planted in the valley in mid-April. Harvest there has been favorable for all types of the winter vegetable crop.

Oklahoma seems to have been favored most by the recent rains in the wheat belt, though greenbugs have been found in large numbers in parts of that state to muddle the wheat prospects there.

Wheat planted in Texas and Oklahoma on earlier dates generally has made fair to good growth; however, some plants are turning yellow, the cause of which is not certain with some authorities believing the dry weather is to blame and others contending that the condition is brought about by insects and diseases. Parmer County has been relatively free of these blights.

Father of Bill Stewart Died at Prescott, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stewart have returned from Okolona, Arkansas, where they were at the bedside of Mr. Stewart's father, E. N. Stewart, who passed away March 2nd.

Mr. Stewart, 92 years of age, was born at Okolona, living his entire life in that community. His death came while he was in the Cora Donnell Hospital at Prescott, Arkansas. Funeral services were held in the Christian Church at Okolona.

Surviving are five daughters, one son, Bill Stewart of Friona, 24 grandchildren, and 21 great grandchildren.

City is Zoned to Increase Fire Fighting Efficiency

Fire zones have been designated for the City of Friona in the latest effort to streamline the local fire fighting equipment. Seven zones have been set up, and seven siren combinations have been worked out so that both firemen and the public can immediately determine by the siren just what section of town the fire originates.

By this method, should a call be made from zone 32, the siren would blast three times, pause, then blast two times.

First firemen at the station will sound the alarm in the new system. The trucks and all equipment have been moved to the new station on Main Street and the siren has been installed. Some further work is contemplated to lighten the pitch of the siren for long-carrying sound.

LIKE THIS ?

We hope you like the changed appearance of the Star this week. In case you hadn't noticed, new type is used throughout for the body of the news. Technically, we are using a 7 1-2 point Memphis Bold type face set on a ten point slug, replacing the worn 8 point type previously used.

Easier reading should result, and a neater sheet also is evident, we think.

Also we have received new type faces in larger type. The Continental 30 point type used in some headlines in this issue is one of the more really beautiful types. Especially is it appropriate in headings of society articles or for use in some type ads.

MOTHER DIES

Reports were received here yesterday of the death of the mother of Mrs. Ed Boggess of Friona. Details were not accessible at this printing, and a full report will be carried next week.

Editorially Speaking . . .

Why Not Serve on the School Board

Coincidentally or otherwise Public School Week in Texas (observed locally last week) falls at a strategic date -- just a few weeks prior to election of school board members.

When millions of Americans today owe their entire education to the public school system, when that system can be earmarked as a foremost bastion of democratic action, when its success has brought the envy of all opposed to the American way of life, then that system deserves our all-out support -- and certainly this would include the placing on the ballot a number of candidates for trustee positions.

To those genuinely interested in performing service for their community and for the generation to come, we can think of no greater opportunity and responsibility than that afforded as a school board member.

To date no names have been filed for the three vacancies to be filled in the April 5th elections. With March 26th as final filing date, we urge a more-than-full slate of candidate listed with board members.

We hold to the opinion that one need not run only when a drastic change is desired in school operation. What is of greater importance is the awareness of public school functions in this, our own community, and an interest so genuine that you would be glad to serve in a board member capacity for the sake of education for your children, your neighbors' scholastics, and the oncoming generation that will inherit the fruits of our efforts.

A close study of school financial affairs is a first step in good citizenship. In fact all areas of the school operation should be better known -- better publicized. In some instances ignorance of a local school operation is the fault of the officials of the school who, like ourselves, should place more emphasis on public relations. Then again, most often the ignorance of school operation is only our own fault -- because of indifference or a "too-busy" attitude.

There is no greater outlet for community service than cooperation with the schools or assistance through one of the offices on the school board, the Parent-Teacher association, or even as a room parent.

Is it asking too much that a record number of names be placed on the ballot? We predict that several names of local women will be placed on the ballot this year. Good. And there should be just as many fathers interested to the point of placing their names for balloting, too.

Just as it is known in the newspaper profession that the number of classified ads is indicative of the reader interest in any weekly or daily publication, likewise we submit that the number of names on the ballot provide a true gauge of public interest in the election.

Other Editors Say

Another Editor Agrees UN Being Played for Sucker

from The Canyon News

How long will the United Nations be fooled with the promises of the commies and continue to talk peace in Korea when all of us know perfectly well that the commies will never agree to peace.

The latest demand that Russia become a member of the inspection team to determine the comparative strength of the two forces in Korea is a dead give away of the intention of the commies. They know that no self respecting nation would agree to any such plan. Yet the UN officers continue night after night to endure the insults of the commies and to come back for more.

If UN can offer no resistance to Russia for fear of losing its shirt, it is time that we withdraw and fight the war alone. That would be a most disastrous means to take, but perhaps a few bombs on Moscow might convince Stalin & Co. that we mean business. So far as General Eisenhower is concerned, he seems to be having about as much difficulty in organizing Europe as we are having in Asia.

Beef Cattle vs. Dairy Cattle; Texas vs. Missouri Still Talked

from The Panhandle Herald

Texans who have made a lot of money farming and raising livestock are reported to be going to Missouri -- particularly the southwest part of the state -- and purchasing farms and ranches. The ranches would be considered small from the standpoint of a Texan.

Dr. Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary and librarian of the State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia, was in Panhandle recently and said this business expansion of Texans was disturbing the dairy economy of a number of communities.

A well-heeled Texan may go into a community and buy 500 acres of average land. It may be that these acres have been used for years to raise dairy cows, which help to keep up a local milk shed, including a creamery or cheese factory.

These Texans generally are not interested in running a dairy. So the dairy herd is disposed of and beef cattle--largely Herefords--are put on the grass instead.

With thousands of acres of land being changed from dairy to beef cattle, it is evident that milk production would decrease.

But we are inclined to believe this fad will not continue too many years. Once a man gets Texas blood circulating in his system, he is not going to be satisfied with tempo of Missouri life.

The Texan eventually will return to the Lone Star State and the land will be sold to another Missourian, who can follow the dairy business, should he choose.

ness of local enforcement officers and the courts in dealing with crime. It varies among the states, with Texas occupying a position of sorry distinction.

Throughout the world crime varies in inverse proportion to sureness and promptness with which justice is dispensed. But dispensing justice is too often "everybody's business, which is nobody's business." The public must make prompt punishment of crime its business. Neglected too long, organized gangsterism could become a malignant, incurable disease in our public politic.

Gangster Vengeance, Government Corruption Declared on Increase from The Dallas News

The readiness of organized crime to heap vengeance on the heads of those who get in its way is a measure of its confidence in its security before the law. So the several vengeance slayings recently, including the brutal murder of Arnold Schuster in Brooklyn Saturday, have their peculiar significance.

Despite the several congressional investigations and the good work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, organized crime is increasing in this country. One favoring factor is too much corruption in government throughout the country at federal, state and local levels. An even greater factor is the sheer ineffective-

Monday Morning Musings

SCOUTING MERITS OUR SUPPORT

For more than a million and a half American girls, part of growing up is membership in the Girl Scouts -- belonging to a troop, wearing the uniform, going on hikes or to camp, and pledging, "On my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and my country." Her Girl Scout experiences are a vital part of growing up for today's young girl. Over a period of month, or years, she learns a great deal about getting along with other people, about the satisfaction of being useful and learning new things. She learns to be part of a team -- to respect the opinions of others, and to stand up for her own opinions when they seem right and justified.

In the 40 years since Girl Scouting began in the U.S.A., several million girls have profited from this kind of experience. They are better citizens today because of it.

In Friona there are one hundred and six girls in seven troops, with fourteen adult leaders. Whether or not it continues in our town depends on people like you. If you would like to give the girls of our community a chance for fun through wholesome recreation and creative citizenship, volunteer your free time and your interest to the local girl scout council.

This week marks the 40th birthday of Girl Scouting in this country. Give a little of your time as a birthday present to the Girl Scouts.

LET'S CHECK ON OUR OWN BOOKKEEPING

"It couldn't happen here." How often have we heard this phrase from people, who probably like most of us, feel smug in our own situation, ignoring or marking off as fantastic, the distraught circumstances of peoples overseas. Just at this time we are thinking of the economic breakdowns evident in most every country with possibly our one exception. And American-like, we still re deluding our financial assistance wherever the appeal is strong enough or where the administrator believes it "politically expedient."

IT COULD HAPPEN HERE if we continue much longer in our reckless spending and doling policies.

New York City recently had a very popular and affable mayor, Fiorello LaGuardia. His administration was chalked up as a success, yet the greatest city in the United States became almost bankrupt under his administration, a load that has fallen to succeeding administrations who have done little or tried to do little. Economists are predicting an unglorious fiasco in New York City.

Could the whole nation be trailing in its wake? We hope this point is considered by every voter when marking his ballot this year.

OPS IS STANDING PAT

Evidently the Office of Price Stabilization fears someone will get the idea the organization is "on the way out". At least an item was forwarded us this week stating:

"Consumers are assured by the Office of Price Stabilization that the formation of a study committee on decontrols does not mean that OPS is preparing to recommend decontrol of any important segment of the economy."

VETERANS LIABLE ON HOME SALES

Probably the following bit of information is a bit more valuable than most of the releases sent out by the various government agencies; the Veterans Administration sends out a warning that might affect some reader: "Veterans who sell their homes and let the purchasers assume the 4 per cent GI loans remain personally responsible for the payment of the loan."

ELEVATORS ARE GOOD PUBLICITY

We have had a number of requests recently for enlarged photographs of local elevators. Most of these requests come from people in other areas or from local citizens wishing to forward the pictures to distant acquaintances. Certainly the towering white structures have become a landmark or trademark of the high plains and are the most remembered characteristics in the minds of the tourists. We commend the owners who have used the glistening white paint which we understand probably is more for appearance than real protection.

CO-OPERATIVES LEAD IN SOUTHWEST

E. S. Beall, associate executive secretary of the Cooperative Health Federation of America, was a Friona visitor this week, calling at the hospital and at the Star. He works with co-op hospitals throughout the United States. One revelation of his visit to this editor was the fact that there are only about 100 co-op hospitals in the entire nation. Considering the number in the panhandle and south plains, we had supposed the national total to be much greater. Evidently this area was one of the earliest to embrace the co-op plan of hospitalization; in fact he said the first project of that nature was in Oklahoma.

M M M We don't know the real value of this, but a letter received this week points out that the lightning rod was invented in 1752; also that Stanley found Livingston in Ujiji, Africa!

An old English law stated that the truth of a statement made it none the less libelous. In fact, its being true was an "aggravation of the crime."

One of the oldest newspapers currently published in the United States is the Connecticut Courant, founded in Hartford in 1764 by Thomas Green.

The first New England newspaper to be firmly established outside of Boston was the Connecticut Gazette of New Haven, founded in 1755 by James Parker, an associate of Benjamin Franklin.

The first American newspaper outside Boston was the American Weekly Mercury, founded in Philadelphia December 22, 1719, by Andrew Bradford.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Readers often inquire "Is State Secretary Acheson attacked everywhere because he works against small business, or because of partisan politics?"

It's a fair question, but difficult to answer directly because Acheson is a master in evading direct questions.

Therefore, the only way the readers' question can be answered is to state facts, and let conclusions be drawn. Some Washington scholars say: "The Roman Empire had its Brutus, Italy had its Machiavelli, the last Imperial Russian government had its Rasputin."

They then ask "will future historians say the American Republic had its Acheson?" Their meaning is that history is replete with men who while not the head of government, wielded mysterious powers that eventually destroyed the government.

A strong viewpoint, but no stronger than that voiced recently by Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, who states the lack of copper for all business in this country is due directly to a worldwide trust set up by Acheson.

Sen. Ferguson states that American use of copper, is controlled by the International Materials Conference, a world organization set up by Acheson without Congressional authority.

He further stated that while any American copper user could be jailed for paying more than 24 1/2 cents per pound for copper, the U.S. government is giving foreign nations American tax money to buy copper for as much as 50 cents per pound.

The retort is now "Secure for whom . . . free enterprise in the American tradition or for worldwide monopoly?"

It is possible for a man's intentions to be misunderstood. But it seems more than mere coincidence that practically every move Acheson takes tends to build bigger and bigger trusts and monopolies, while American free enterprise suffers. Sen. Ferguson should now find out why he and other Congressmen permit their authority to be usurped.

The Law and You

By Robt. (Bob) Kirk

DO YOU KNOW that one who furnishes labor or material to erect or repair a house or building has a statutory lien against the house or building for the sums due to him?

The Statutes of the State of Texas prescribe that those who furnish labor or materials in the erection or repair of a house or building or improvements to the same shall have a lien against the same, even though there is no express contract for the same. When the labor or material has been furnished, should said person fail to receive his pay for the labor or material, the statutes set out a prescribed manner in which he may secure a lien against said house or building. Certain definite steps are set forth by the Statutes, prescribing how this lien shall be established. Action to establish this lien, must be begun within three months, in some cases, and four months in other cases. If the party entitled to the lien, allows too much time to elapse before taking some action in regard to the same, he loses his lien, and has only an open account for the indebtedness.

The preferable practice in all cases, would be to have a written Materialman and Mechanic's Lien and Note executed by the parties before an ywork is begun, but in the event the same is not done, the statutory lien provides some protection for the laborer and materialman.

O. T. Popes Will Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday with Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar T. Pope will observe their Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday, March 16th, with open house at their farm home 3 miles west of Friona. Friends in the area are invited to attend during the hours 2 until 5 o'clock p. m.

The Popes exchanged their wedding vows on March 16th, 1902, in the Methodist parsonage, at Thomas, Oklahoma. Mrs. Pope, nee Miss Bertha Eaton, lived at Fay, Oklahoma, at the time, and had met her future husband when he was visiting relatives in her vicinity. Their first date included a buggy ride, and she admits that it wasn't exactly love at first sight, although she learned later that Mr. Pope remarked to a friend that night, "Bertha will be Mrs. Pope within two years!"

The couple made their first home in Day County, Oklahoma, where he engaged in farming. In 1904 they moved to Oregon where he worked in a lumber mill, but they returned to the Oklahoma hills in 1906, living in that state until December 26, 1925, when they moved to a farm southeast of the Hub community in Parmer County. They have lived at their present home west of Friona for 21 years.

Five children were born to the union, four of which are still living. They are Coy Pope of Crane, Texas; Alva Pope of Grand Falls, Texas; Mrs. Vivian Talbot of Friona; and Mrs. Velta Strate of Harrisonville, Missouri. Also there are six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, all of whom are expected to attend the Golden Wedding celebration.

$10,000 CONTEST "FOR BETTER WORLD"

"What One Person Can Do" to help make a better world is the basis of a $10,000 contest open to all individuals "regardless of age, profession, race, color or creed."

Purpose of the contest is to "dramatize the vital role the individual can play as a Christopher or Christ-bearer in changing the world for the better." It opens on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 27, and closes Easter Sunday, April 13, according to the Rev. James Keller, director of The Christophers, sponsor of the contest.

Entries should be submitted in letter form ranging from 300 to not more than 1,600 words telling what the writer or someone close to him has done to help make a better world. "Literary style is secondary. Truth, sincerity and real achievement even in an apparent small way are important. The mere listing of facts in a letter could suffice," Father Keller said.

All entries should be addressed to: The Christopher Contest, 18 E. 48th St., New York 17, N. Y.

Prizes range from $100 to $2,000 and, in addition, money paid for any story purchased for commercial use would be turned over to the author.

The Christophers is a Catholic movement that reaches out to all people, Father Keller said. Its purpose is to encourage individuals to enter one of the fields that touch the lives of most people the world over. Each Christopher works as an individual. He takes out no membership, pays no dues and attends no meetings.

WHITEWAY TIRE DESIGN INSPIRES MILADY'S HAT

MILADY'S HAT DESIGNERS, always seeking something new for the Easter Parade, found inspiration in the sensational design of the Whiteway tire recently introduced by The General Tire & Rubber Company. A famous New York creator of hats is now putting the finishing touches on a "Whiteway" bonnet (similar to the one being modeled in this picture). It most likely will be seen in the fabulous New York Easter Parade, which will be televised coast-to-coast.

GOOD HEALTH

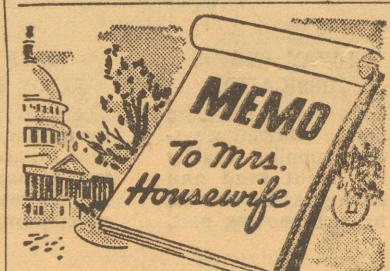

Answer to Question No. 1:
Most skin moles are harmless birthmarks. If, however, any mole or wart shows change in size or color, consult your doctor. He will probably advise removal and examination of the tissue to learn if cancer is present. Moles, if located where clothing irritates them, should be removed as a precaution.

Answer to Question No. 2:
Modern medicine is a vast and complex science. It is impossible for any one doctor to know everything about all the different branches. Different specialists may work together as a team or group so that any one pa-may benefit from their combined knowledge and special skills. Some groups include members of allied professions such as dentists and physical therapists.

Answer to Question No. 3:
Every infant should be vaccinated against smallpox and given inoculation against diphtheria and whooping cough. Repeat before entering school. Children should also be immunized against tetanus upon entering school, when play may result in the puncture-type wounds that could become tetanus infected.

Public Poll

Were you surprised when Senator Kefauver came out with more votes than Truman in the New Hampshire primary?

Mrs. J. T. Gee: Not particularly, for one reason. I think things are in a rather unpredictable state everywhere.

Allen Stewart: No, I wasn't surprised over the outcome.

Mrs. Wesley Hardesty: No, I wasn't because I think he is a good candidate and I felt he had a good chance to win.

Jack Anderson: Yes, I was surprised over the way it turned out. That seems to be a political hotbed up there.

C. A. Turner: No, not a bit. I think Kefauver is a stronger man than Truman.

Dalton Caffey: Not particularly. It seems to me that there is dissatisfaction in the Truman administration all over the country, and I really don't think it was just Kefauver - I think almost anyone could have won over Truman.

THE UMT ISSUE

This letter is being written in the midst of the heated debate on HR 5904, the UMT bill. This debate has included discussions of every subject from the fall of the Roman Empire to the possibility of socialized medicine with numerous side trips on all subjects. The final vote should be taken on the bill by the time this letter reaches you. However, should the bill pass the House, which is extremely doubtful at this time, it will still have a high hurdle in the Senate. Many of the proponents of a sound basic universal program for providing military information, knowledge and know-how to the youths who will see service in the event of another war are opposed to this particular bill. One of the factors that is causing primary concern to all of the southerners is the position of the Defense Department on the segregation issue. Congressman J. B. Williams, of Mississippi, wrote that department for information on the subject. His letter was answered by Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, and I quote to you a portion of her letter concerning the segregation question.

"To give you specific answers to the three questions in your letter, the answer to your first question is that, in accord with present policies, outside the confines of the training installations, military personnel and trainees will be expected to conform to applicable state laws and to observe local practices and customs with regard to social relations with the civilian community. Further, when visitors from the local civilian community are present in our installations, every precaution will be taken that they will not be embarrassed by required deviation from the social customs and practices they expect in their own community. However, on the actual grounds of the training establishment, racial segregation will not be maintained among the trainees. As to your second question, it is not contemplated that racial segregation will be maintained. Trainees will be integrated into mixed racial units. In this possible, follow the normal percentage distribution of racial groups in the population in making assignment to training units. In answer to your third question, in accord with the policies indicated above, the answer is 'No'."

The third question referred to in the last sentence of the above paragraph dealt directly with whether or not segregation would be allowed. Of course such a policy is in direct discord with the traditions of the South and it is not surprising that such a policy, when applied to teen-age boys, is alarming to the representatives of the South and South west.

It is also argued by many that the provisions of the bill concerning medical care and health of the trainees if carried to their possible, if not probable, conclusion, could actually result in a socialized medicine program.

ALASKAN STATEHOOD

The Senate by a vote of 45 to 44 recommitted (which means in effect killed) Senate Bill 50, providing for the statehood of Alaska. The vote on this measure reflected an almost solid front of southern senators against the admission of Alaska. Senator Ke-fauver cast his vote with those favoring the admission of Alaska. Senator Taft cast his vote with those against the admission. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who is heading Eisenhower's campaign, did not vote. The two Texas senators voted with those opposed to the admission of Alaska. I wish I could put in this letter the entire context of the Senate debate, but that is impossible. There is one pertinent point that had great weight. The records reflect that as of 1950 Alaska had a population of 128,643. Had Alaska been admitted as a state, she would have been entitled to two members in the U. S. Senate, which would be composed of 98 members. On a comparison basis, Texas as with over 6,000,000 people would have two senators, while Alaska, with a population of less than that of Potter, Gray and Hutchinson counties, would have the same number of senators. This would hardly be equal representation as far as a Texan is concerned. The party division on this vote was very interesting. Twenty-five southern-led Democrats were joined by twenty Republicans to send the bill back to the committee. The forces for admission of Alaska consisted of twenty Republicans and twenty-four Democrats. The party platforms of 1948 were as follows: Democratic platform: "We urge immediate statehood for Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico." If the vote on the Alaskan issue was any indication, it would appear that the southern democrats didn't agree with either platform.

Three-Act Comedy To Be Given By Modern Study Club

The Modern Study Club is presenting a three-act play on Tuesday, March 18th, at the high school auditorium at 8 p. m. The play is a comedy production, based around some hillbilly characters living in a remote mountain locality who feud and fight and provide laughs from start to finish.

The cast includes; Ma Peppin, who lives up to her name with her peppery talk, played by Ruth Edelman. Emmy Peppin, her daughter who is in love with the son of Pappy Stilby, who is feuding with Ma, played by Melba Miller. Pappy Stilby, old hard-of-hearing mountaineer who only hears what he wants to, played by Tom Jarboe. Luke Stilby, who is alternately in love with Emmy and Lulu, played by Cecil Robbins. Lulu Triffett, who left home to go to the city and sing on the radio and who has returned with big city airs, played by Lorraine Welch. Seddie Triffett, Lulu's sister who has also been singing on the radio in the city and with whom Wash Jeddo, the mountain nitwit, is in love, played by Doris Bogges. Wash Jeddo, the nitwit who has some book learning, complicates the love affairs of Ma Peppin and Luke Stilby by writing matrimonial bureaus for wives and husbands, played by John Parish. Sol Silverstein, manager of Lulu and Seedy, who has come to the mountains to obtain material for new hillbilly songs, played by Earl Hise. Lewis Hebrew who comes to the mountains in answer to Ma's letter to the matrimonial bureau, played by Weldon Dickson. Bridgett O'Flannigan, an Irish lass who comes to the mountains in answer to Pappy Stilby's letter to the bureau, played by Lucille Latta. Rev. Boswell, who is brought to the mountains to marry the couples, played by J. B. Taylor.

Seva Struve is the director of the play. Admission prices are: grade school students, 25 cents; high school students, 50 cents; adults, 75 cents.

Today, wherever you go, you'll find Girl Scouts - in big cities and on farms, in schools and churches, even in hospital and convalescent homes.

A lot of our boys are in the service of our country . . . some in the barracks within our own boundaries and others on far-off and oftentimes lonely outposts of civilization.

Church training has proved a right arm of strength for so many of these boys -- others are accepting the church and its teachings for the first time through their chaplains or from the stark need emphasized by their loneliness.

We urge you to bring your children up in the church, attending the services with them regularly. The churches of Friona extend a warm greeting for you each Sunday. Will you attend?

Private Pilots Will Organize in Civilian Air Force Group

Private pilots and their airplanes in Disaster District 5, including Parmer and 25 other counties, soon will be registered and organized into a standby "civilian air force," ready to go into action in event of disaster, the Texas Aeronautics Commission announced this week.

L. A. Pitt of Amarillo is the newly-named District 5 coordinator, and he will in the near future call county-wide meetings of aviators in his area. At that time a county chief will be recommended by the local plane owners and operators. Files will be set up on every flier and his aircraft, with its type, capacity, equipment, and adaptability for various jobs, such as litter carrying or reconnaissance, listed.

Pitt already has set up for emergency operation a portable generator and light plant which will provide for floodlighting of over 10,000 watts. In addition to this possible emergency use for runway lighting, the generator can furnish power for gasoline pumps, radio and other electrical equipment in case of power failure.

Faculty Took Outsiders 36-31; Boys-Girls Game Ended Without Decision

In the girls and boys game, the boys held a slight lead on the girls when the game ended with all members from each team on the floor in a general tug-of-war.

A bake sale was held between games.

All proceeds from the games will be used to purchase basketball jackets for the girls.

Talk by Dr. Golden Concludes Program

Dr. Floyd Golden, president of the New Mexico University and former Friona teacher and superintendent, gave an inspirational talk at the high school auditorium on Thursday night, climaxing the Public School Week in Friona.

Introducing the speaker was Uncle John White, who was on the school board at the time Dr. Golden was elected superintendent of the Friona schools.

Dr. Golden's talk was mainly on the theme, "Let's live before it's too late." He began his talk by reminiscing about old times here. He told of coming to Friona in 1921 to finish out the school term, and was elected superintendent the following year. He and his wife, who was then the home economics teacher here, were married during the summer vacations and both returned to teach.

He told of the school building burning while he was here, and of several other destructive fires in Friona that year. Four days after the building was burned, the bus barn was converted into classrooms and school continued.

His main theme was the importance of the education of children in the home during the first six years of their lives. He stated that a christian atmosphere in the home plays a big part in the future of each child.

Dr. Golden believes that the school takes the child and straightens out and rounds out the knowledge the child has acquired at home during the first formative years.

Dr. Golden emphasized the fact that teachers might be able to fool adults about the knowledge they possess of subjects, but they can never fool a child.

After his talk, many old friends and acquaintances gathered about to greet him.
