Diaper drive under way here for new triplets

A diaper drive is under way for the triplet sons of Michael and Jennifer Roberts. The three boys — Zachary, Michael, Daniel and Andrew Glen — were born Saturday, Nov. 11, at a Lubbock hospital and came home to Big Spring last week.

Each infant weighs under 6 pounds, so preemie diapers or newborn sizes would be most helpful. The diapers can be dropped off at Covenant Malone and Hogan Clinic in the lobby.

Crossroads Area gets second snowfall

HERALD Staff Report

Crossroads Area residents were greeted with their second snowfall of the winter season Saturday, but a slight warming trend is on its way.

Forecasters with the National Weather Service in Midland said today's skies would be sunny, with a high between 45 and 50 degrees.

A winter storm advisory had been in effect since Friday, but the area saw only the cold side of that until shortly after noon Saturday, when light rain turned to snow. Though the downfall was enough to sprout up snowmen, temperatures just above freezing kept accumulations to just one to two inches in most areas.

Snow also fell across most of West Texas, including Lubbock, where Big Spring fans endured the white stuff and cold to watch the Steers upend Canyon 35-14 in a bi-district playoff game.

The cold and sloop caused no apparent problems early, but the Department of Public Safety office in Midland did issue a travel advisory, urging motorists to use caution Saturday night. Temperatures slid below freezing and headed into the low 20s.

The Dallas-Fort Worth area was also under a winter weather advisory as residents braced for their first shot of pre-Thanksgiving

Howard College celebrates 55 years

Howard College wrapped up Homecoming 2000 with a dinner on Friday where the past, present and future of the college were highlighted.

Several hundred people attended the candlelight event, which celebrated the institution's 55 years of existence.

Included in the guests were members of the first class of Howard College.

"The dream of a college does not come up overnight," said Joe Pickle former editor of the Big Spring Herald.

Pickle discussed the early struggles of the college — noting that classes were first held on Webb Air Force Base — but said its faculty solidly influenced its future.

"Over the years we have been very blessed with the people in our faculty," he said. "They have contributed to the growth of the college."

Pickle mentioned several former graduates and faculty members who continue to support the college.

"I could go on and on naming people who plowed back into the college what they got from it," he said. The college has been ahead of its time in many things, Pickle said, including distance learning, off-campus facilities and establishing the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Ending his speech, Pickle added a few words for his vision for the college's

71 move indoors to participate in Heart Walk

Despite the freezing weather, more than 70 people turned out to participate in the American Heart Walk on Saturday.

CARSON

"We had a great turn out despite the weather," said Kartricia Carson, co-chair of the event, which was sponsored by the Howard County Division Board of the American Heart Association and the "Heart Walk 2000" Committee.

Approximately 71 people gathered at the First Baptist Church Life Center to participate in the 30-minute walk.

"We were expecting close to 100," Carson said. "With the weather, having 71 people come is just great."

The event kicked off with warmup stretches led by Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center employee Leslie Williams.

Led off by the cardiovascular disease survivors wearing red American Heart Association caps, the participants began their walk while Howard College cheerleaders supported them with cheers.

Some of the survivors participating in the walk were Faye Wilson, Claudia Stabeno, Albert Hill and Hilton Witt.

According to Carson, the event raised $2,618.25 from the participants Saturday morning. She expects the parade — the community's 14th such event — include churches, businesses, civic organizations, Scout troops and individuals.

It was announced last week that the parade will also feature some of the Crossroads Area's best award-winning high school bands — Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan. Coahoma joins the parade for the first year.

The process now begins to organize the event, including mapping out a lineup. Last year's parade stretched 24 blocks and included more than 2,500 participants.

The theme for this year's parade is "A Traditional Christmas" and first-place plaques will be awarded in four categories: lighted, school/church, commercial/manufacturing and civic organizations.

As usual, the parade's Santa Claus will be provided by the Herald.

The parade will begin at the corner of the north frontage road of FM 700 and Gregg Street, and will head north to Sixth Street, east to Scurry, north again to Third Street on and into the downtown area for a celebration at Heart of the City Park.

The grand marshal of the parade will be announced the week of the event. Walker said

Holiday recipes leave contest judges impressed

Their mouths watering, stomachs growling, three judges spent the better part of an afternoon this week sifting through nearly 250 recipes in the Big Spring Herald Holiday Recipe Contest.

In the end, 14 recipes were honored in various categories.

The winning recipes, and dozens of others, are printed in the cookbook, "Season's Eatings: Your Holiday Recipe Guide" inserted in today's editions. Look for the prize winners

But the task of choosing the best, judges said, was extremely difficult.

"This just confirms what I've thought," said Sue Haugh, Herald food columnist. "Howard County has some very good cooks living here."

"It was very difficult to select that one that would be the winner, because so many of them you wanted

GOP attacks recounting of votes by hand; court meets again Monday

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

George W. Bush's campaign fiercely attacked the hand-recounting of votes in Florida's overtime presidential election Saturday, depicting a process riddled with human error and Democratic bias. Al Gore's lawyers defended the effort in papers filed with the state Supreme Court.

"I think when the American people learn about these things, they're going to ask themselves, 'What in the name of God is going on here?'" said Montana Gov. Marc Racicot, brought to Austin, Texas, by the Bush campaign to lead the GOP assault. He alleged ballots had been dropped, misfiled and mishandled by exhausted — or pro-Gore — officials.

Eleven days after America voted, the final tally of overseas absentee ballots showed Bush lengthening his lead from an almost invisible 300 votes to

As of late Saturday, Bush clung to a 930-count lead.

OBITUARIES

Mary E. Greenwood

Mary E. Greenwood, 84, of Albuquerque, N.M., formerly of Big Spring, died on Wednesday, Nov. 15, 2000, in an Albuquerque nursing home. Graveside funeral services were at 4 p.m. Friday, Nov. 17, 2000, at Trinity Memorial Park with Rev. Roger Huff, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, officiating.

She was born on Jan. 6, 1916, in Lindsey, Okla., and married Daniel J. Greenwood Jr. on April 19, 1940, in Big Spring, Texas. He preceded her in death in April 1969.

Mrs. Greenwood came to the Big Spring area in the 1920s from Oklahoma. She had worked as a Pinkerton agent at Cosden, then worked in ladies wear sales at Zacks and as a legal secretary for George Thomas. Mrs. Greenwood also worked as an aide at the Big Spring State Hospital before she retired in 1979.

Survivors include two daughters, Glenda Greenwood of Las Cruces, N.M., and Gloria Rasberry of Albuquerque, N.M.; one son, Daniel J. (Rocky) Greenwood III of Encampment, Wyo.; eight grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Friends of the Library, Howard County Library, 312 Scurry St., Big Spring, TX 79720, or the Big Spring Humane Society, P.O. Box 823, Big Spring, TX 79721-0823.

Arrangements were under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

Claude Nichols

Claude Nichols, 74, of Midland, died on Saturday, Nov. 18, 2000, at Medical Center Hospital in Odessa. Graveside service will be at 11 a.m. Monday, Nov. 20, 2000, at Mt. Olive Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

He was born on April 1, 1926, at Knott. He married Dovie Louise Wallace on May 31, 1947, in Midland. Mr. Nichols was involved in farming and ranching in Midland, Martin, Dickens and Crosby counties. He was a member of the Church of Christ for the past 63 years and had served in World War II in the Philippines from 1943 to 1945.

He is survived by his wife, Dovie Nichols of Midland; a daughter, Claudia Chase of Midland; two sons, John Nichols of Girard and Mark Nichols of Midland; 10 grandchildren; three brothers, Barney Nichols and Donald Nichols, both of Knott, and J.P. Nichols of Big Spring; three sisters, Kathrine Grantham of Knott and Inez Sample and Johnnie Mae Rae, both of Big Spring.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, LaDonna Nichols of Adkins.

snow in more than 20 years. The NWS is calling for a warming trend for the early part of the week, with highs Monday in the mid 50s. The temperature could reach the upper 60s by Wednesday, but Crossroads Area residents may not be able to shed their coats long. Another winter storm is expected to arrive about Thanksgiving Day, with the chance of rain or snow again, and highs in the 40s.

to try yourself," said Big Spring Country Club Chef Angelo McCoy. McCoy took copies of several of the submitted recipes back to work to share with his diners.

"There are a lot of old favorites here, but there are a lot of original ones, too," remarked Dana Tarter, Howard County Extension agent. "There is a good variety."

The judges chose Theresa Hodnett's Bacardi Rum Cake as the grand prize winner. McCoy said the recipe would create a moist, flavorful cake sure to please a holiday crowd.

Two honorable mention grand prize winners were named. Martha Myers' Southwest Savory Muffins and Garden City resident Wilma Halfmann's Stuffed Jalapenos.

Named Most Original Recipe was Scripture Cake, turned in by Betty Daily; the recipe used Bible verses to locate its ingredients. Best Holiday Recipe was Cape Cod Chicken, from Mamie Lee Dodds.

Best Quick and Easy Recipe honors went to Hominy Casserole from Jowill Etchison. Best Appetizer was Beef Cheese Ball, submitted by Dr. Mike Mathis.

Best Beverage was Friendship Tea, submitted by Andrea Stinson. Best Bread honors went to Meagan Kothmann's Apple Danish Bread Braid.

Best Cookie/Candy went to Apple Brownies, submitted by Terri Sawyer. Pumpkin Dream Pie was named Best Dessert, submitted by Dorothy Earhart.

Thelma Carlile submitted the recipe named Best Entree. Baked Garlic Chicken. Best Salad was Three-Ring Mold from Ryan Kiefer.

Best Vegetable/Casserole went to Sue Hirt of Garden City, with her Rice, Olives, Chiles and Cheese casserole.

Hodnett will take home the grand prize, the oak jewelry armoire from Allan's Furniture. But each winner earned a prize donated by a local merchant as well, including:

A $50 American Express gift certificate from Cosden Federal Credit Union; dinner for two at KC Steakhouse; a Christmas centerpiece from A Timeless Design; a large cookie jar from Gale's Sweet Shoppe, donated by Energas; a pewter and wood cutting board from Gaze Crystal Kitchen; a utility rollout tray from Bob's Custom Woodwork; a complete makeover, pamper session and Satin Hands Care System from Dene Sheppard Mary Kay Cosmetics; a ladies' Pulsar watch from Chaney's Jewelry; lunch for two from the Byrd House Gallery and Tea Room; a Thanksgiving centerpiece from Faye's Flowers; a month membership, bag and T-shirt from Curves for Women; a manicure and Montage gift set from Melin's Salon; and an electric dart board from Sears.

All winners are urged to contact the Herald, 263-7331, for information about how to claim their prize. Recipes submitted but not printed in the book may be used in later features.

RECOUNT

a still-minuscule 930 out of 6 million votes cast. In court-challenged recounts under way in two counties, Gore had gained by 53 votes, which if they are counted would cut Bush's lead to 877.

There was conflict in the overseas count, too, as the GOP charged Democrats with systematically challenging votes cast by members of the armed forces.

In rebuttal, Gore spokesman Chris Lehane accused Bush of injecting "raw, crass partisan politics into a situation that ought to be guided by the laws of our land."

All sides readied arguments for Monday's hearing before the state Supreme Court. Ruling unanimously on Friday, the justices stopped Secretary of State Katherine Harris from disallowing the hand recounts and certifying Bush the winner, at least until it can consider the issue.

Controversy trumped certainty from one end of the state to the other.

While Republicans charged Democrats with constructing a flawed recount process, Democrats said the GOP was forcing interminable delays.

"We will all be here until Christmas if this continues," said Charles Burton, a member of the Palm Beach

BIG SPRING AROUND THE TOWN

County canvassing board deep into the hand recount of 462,350 ballots.

Passions rose later in the day when Republicans accused officials in Miami-Dade County of planning to take some ballots that can't be counted by machine, determine the voter's intent, then mark new ballots accordingly — pink-colored for identification — that the machines would accept.

"They've gone from counting votes, to looking for votes, to now they're going to manufacturing votes," charged Rep. John Sweeney, R-N.Y., who arrived in Florida during the day.

Mayco Villafana, spokesman for county, said if ballots are contested by either side, "the canvassing board can take that card, replace it with a pink duplicate and anyone can tell that it is a duplicate card and that there is an original."

Up the coast in Palm Beach County, Burton said the recounts were unprecedented.

"I don't think there is anyone in this room who has done this before."

Or anywhere else, for that matter, in a contest that left Bush and Gore dangling and the nation without a president-elect 11 days after the votes were cast. Neither man emerged from Election Day with enough Electoral College votes to claim victory.

And that made Florida, where Bush's brother is governor and where Gore and running mate Joseph Lieberman campaigned energetically, the decisive state.

Gore has pressed for the recounts, in the hope they will allow him to overtake Bush's narrow lead.

By early evening, the vice president had a net gain of 53 votes. Recounts from 219 of 609 precincts in Broward County showed him with a gain of 57 votes, but totals from four of 531 precincts in Palm Beach County showed Bush with a gain of four.

In Miami-Dade, one official said the hand recounting could stretch to the start of December. "If there are no objections, we expect to begin manually counting ballots this coming Monday, and our goal is to complete a counting by Friday, Dec. 1," said David Leahy, supervisor of elections for the county where 654,000 ballots awaited a hand review.

Harris' final tally of overseas absentee ballots showed Bush gaining 630 votes on his rival. She released the figures unceremoniously, a contrast to earlier plans to trumpet the results and certify Bush the winner.

The GOP welcomed the increase in support anyway.

"We are hopeful that once the Florida Supreme Court has heard arguments in this case, the laws of Florida will prevail and the election will be certified," spokeswoman Karen Hughes said.

Final overseas figures from all 67 counties showed Bush picking up 1,380 votes, Gore 750.

An additional 1,420 ballots were challenged and not counted, many because they did not bear postmarks. The ballots had to be postmarked by Nov. 7, Election Day, to count. Republicans accused Democrats of thwarting efforts by members of the armed forces to have their votes counted.

Hughes unleashed the Bush campaign's attack at midday, saying the recounting was "distorting, reinventing and miscounting the true intentions of the voters of Florida."

Racicot went further. He told reporters that in each of three counties, "every questionable ballot is decided by a Democrat-dominated canvassing board."

In addition, he alleged instances in which chad, paper punched out of a ballot, had been taped over the hole that would signify a vote for Bush. He said Bush ballots had been placed in the Gore piles, cited one instance in which an older man had dropped a pile of ballots on the floor, described scenes of exhaustion and confusion.

In their papers filed with the Florida Supreme Court, the Gore lawyers offered a different view.

"Manual recounts are an essential part of the law of Florida" and other states, and have been used successfully to help resolve other elections, they argued.

"The outcome of Florida's presidential election will determine who becomes the next president of the United States." For that reason it is essential, Gore's lawyers continued, "that the voters of Florida, and all of the citizens of our country, have great confidence that the individual declared the winner of the election here actually was the choice of Florida's voters."

There were clear indications that Democrats understood the importance of proceeding promptly.

Bruce Rogow, the attorney for Palm Beach County elections supervisor Theresa LaPore, said former Secretary of State Warren Christopher had telephoned him on Thursday, urging him to advise his client to start the oft-delayed recount immediately.

"I told him no. I told him we'd have to wait," Rogow recalled.

Arboretum project begins

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

Dr. Cheri Sparks, president of Howard College, unveiled a project to turn an area close to the front of the administration building into an arboretum at Friday's Homecoming 2000 dinner.

Designed by architect Phil Furqueron, the area will be a place where students, faculty or the public can gather and visit.

The public will also have a chance to be apart of the project. Sparks announced may purchase inscribed bricks that will make up part of the arboretum.

"This will give families a chance to recognize members or special events," Sparks said.

According to Sparks, the bricks will cost $55 apiece.

Sparks said it is hoped the project will be finished at the same time as the completion of the Auditorium remodeling project.

Those interested in purchasing a brick can call 264-5000 or visit the administration building located in the front of the Howard College campus.

Sisters Gayla Williams and Lila Adkins, both Howard College faculty members, discuss the sheet to purchase bricks for the arboretum project. Williams and Adkins are Howard College alumni and took part in the college's 55th anniversary.

"In 50 years I hope that someone can stand up and say that they have accomplished as much in the next 50 years as we have in the last," he said.

Brooksie Nell Hodges, a member of the initial Howard College class, took the audience on a journey through the first year as a student.

She spoke about the diversity of the students, their accomplishments and the life of a Howard College student in that time.

They were the pioneers in the education field, Hodges said. They were the first class, the first to set the academic standards, she said.

"I challenge everyone — especially the young people — to be selfish and learn all you can learn," she said. "Don't tell me dreams don't come true. Dream dreams and set goals. The future is up to you."

The audience had a chance to view a video reviewing the history of the college, its current-day activities and a look into its future.

Dr. Cheri Sparks, president, spoke lastly about the challenges for the future. Referring to an article Pickle wrote about the college as it neared the first day of class, Sparks said the challenges faced for the college then still exist today.

She said the biggest challenge is for the college to continue to be of maximum use to the community.

The night's activities ended as Sparks inducted the late Dr. P.W. Malone into the college's hall of fame for his dedication and commitment to the college during his lifetime.

OUR VIEWS

Once again
United Way
makes its goal

Once again, you've done it, Howard County! Through your hard work and kind donations, the 13 local agencies assisted through United Way of Big Spring and Howard County funds will be able to provide much-needed services.

At a victory luncheon Friday, campaign organizers announced that the goal of $227,000 was not only reached, but surpassed by more than $2,500. It was the fifth consecutive year that the local United Way has met its goal.

We'd like to commend all of the volunteers who have worked tirelessly, as well as incoming director Cindy Michaelis. A special congratulations and thank you goes to Carroll Jennings, who has served as director for the past six years and seven campaigns.

Finally, our congratulations to each and every individual who donated their time, money or both. By making it possible for these agencies to continue their services, we are all winners.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

I'm tired of hearing recount; the only thing that has become more irritating is the newspaper articles that have been published about the recount and the candidates.

If the public went strictly by the information given to us from the Big Spring media, Gov. Bush is an innocent bystander being pushed around by Vice President Gore.

One article actually had the nerve to call the people in Florida morons because they couldn't fill out a ballot that was used in several districts without any problems.

The article then implied that the only person that has any idea how to use a ballot is a Republican. It wasn't enough to attack the intelligence of the residents of Florida, let's attack the character of the vice president.

Someone once told me if a person perceives something as true, it is true for him or her. Keeping that statement in mind, one person's perception of anything is not fact. The facts are the ballot used by the district in question has never been used before. Fact, the top party representatives are commonly listed as the first and second selection, not first and third.

One fact that seems to have been overlooked is that the recount was conducted due to a Florida state law. The law stipulates that if there are less than 2,000 votes between the top candidate, a recount must be conducted. This law says it all. Vice President Gore seems to be exercising the same rights that Gov. Bush is exercising. The difference is Gore is accused of being a bad loser.

I'm sure by now you've decided that I'm a liberal. I'm not a liberal, I merely believe in facts. The information that I'm giving is not a perception but a fact. Let's look at the condition of the state of Texas.

Texas is rated among one of the highest states for unemployment and homelessness. This is an excellent track record for our illustrious governor.

Gov. Bush tells me that my social security is my money, so if I wish to leave it in the old system that's fine. But if I wish to invest money in the stock market, he would be more than happy to do this for me. If the money is mine, I should be able to say stop deducting social security out of my check and invest my own money.

Gov. Bush says he wants to save our school systems by grading them and if they don't meet the grade, the government will cut the parents a voucher to send their children to a private school. How is that helping the school systems? It seems to be motivating the segregation of our school systems. Public schools should be held accountable, but taking money from the public schools instead of investing in better teachers and improving conditions of the public schools is merely undermining the system and helping private school.

My guess is the only statement about the school system that caught your eye is the suggestion of segregation. Well, just remember segregation does not only address race segregation but financial segregation. A private school is not required by law to accept every applicant. So before you start to bash minorities saying that they're whining about their rights, you better take a good hard look at your own rights.

As much as I do not agree with much of anything that Gov. Bush says, I would never stoop so low as to bash his character or integrity, just his policies. Gov. Bush had the public fooled with the good old boy demeanor. In the state of Texas, good old boys are a dime a dozen.

Both sides want calmer political skies

After the tempest over ballots clears, job No. 1 of the next president, whether George W. Bush or Al Gore, will be to unite a divided nation. "The outcome for the moment is a tie, but the mandate is for bipartisanship," said Republican Jack Kemp. In an atmosphere of animosity, that may prove difficult.

The words of the former Buffalo Bills quarterback, New York congressman and 1996 vice presidential nominee echoes those of leading members of both parties.

Bitterness between Democrats and Republicans has only deepened in the hand-to-hand, ballot-by-ballot recount combat in Florida.

After the 1998-99 impeachment battle, it seemed that partisanship could hardly get worse. But, in many ways, it has.

Yet the next president may have little choice but to reach out to those in the other party. The alternative could be two or even four years of governmental paralysis.

The victor will know that roughly half the nation's voters wanted someone else.

Likewise, about half the membership of the House and the Senate will be from the opposing party. Republicans came out of the elections with the narrowest margin of control in recent history, clinging at best to a 51-49 Senate majority and a 222-211 edge in the House.

"We're going to have even more responsibility to work together to try to get things done constructively," said Sen. James Jeffords, R-Vt.

It may not always be evident from the sharp rhetoric from their lawyers and other advocates, but both candidates have already issued pleas for healing the wounds of one of the nation's most closely fought elections.

Bush: "America has a long tradition of uniting once elections are over."

Gore: "However it comes out, we're going to come behind the winner."

Those in both camps suggest that the winner will have little choice but to include a number of prominent members of the other party in his Cabinet. In the victory speech bound to be delivered one of these days, the winner will have to tread carefully to avoid antagonizing the other side.

And, whether it's Bush or Gore, he'll have to reach out aggressively to mend fences with the loyal opposition in Congress.

Marshall Wittmann, senior fellow for the Hudson Institute, a conservative research organization in Washington, D.C., said: "I think the energy will come from the executive branch. The question will be who the president seeks out to strike deals with."

But Larry Sabato, a University of Virginia political scientist, said the chances of partisan sniping were more, not less.

While there will of necessity be "various degrees of coming together" to win approval of essential legislation, Sabato suggests it will take more time to heal the wounds opened up by the contested election. "It has brought back all the hard feelings from the impeachment and added another layer," he said.

In particular, he cited Saturday's dispute over the rejection of dozens of absentee ballots in Florida from those in the military. In short order, the discarding of those ballots has fanned animosity among the military towards Gore — a distrust that may undermine his ability to serve as commander in chief if elected, Sabato suggested.

Christopher J. Deering, a political science professor at George Washington University, said that if Bush becomes the president, "You'll have a bolstered group of Democrats who will try to block things. That's just more gridlock, not cooperation."

But Senate Democratic Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., said that he, for one, would not look for ways to frustrate a Bush presidency.

"I'm not going into this new Congress with that motivation at all," he said, adding that he would "find ways to reach across the aisle."

Texas Gov. Bush liked to say during the campaign that he saw himself as "a uniter, not a divider," saying he had repeatedly reached out to Democrats in the Texas legislature.

"I think the chances for unity are quite high. Bush has demonstrated a capacity for bipartisan leadership in Texas," said Virginia Gov. Jim Gilmore, a Republican.

"There is a lesson in this and I would simply say that I think this country is totally resilient, totally strong," said former President Bush, the GOP nominee's father.

Election sparks protests, humor online

By D. IAN HOPPER
Guest Columnist

In Florida, the presidential election went online. Online, the protests and humorous jabs have only begun.

Internet sites devoted to what one entrepreneur calls the "Perpetual Election" have sprung up. They hawk "Bush Wins" newspapers and organize demonstrations and revote efforts. Amazon.com even used a mock "butterfly" ballot — like the controversial one in Palm Beach County, Fla. — to peddle books, music and lawn and patio products.

While the stalemate between Republican George W. Bush and Democrat Al Gore drags on in the courts, cyberspace again has moved with speed and ease on the latest American fascination.

Jack Kennedy, a Democrat and circuit court clerk in Wise County, Va., created his own Web site so voters could flood the local court with e-mails demanding a new vote in Palm Beach County, at the heart of the disputed vote count.

His effort was born to "spontaneous outrage that Al Gore would get more votes cast for him and still lose in the state of Florida," Kennedy said.

The site, Revotepalmbeach.com, offers a form that generates an e-mail to the circuit court in Palm Beach County requesting a revote there.

Trustthepeople.com offers blank affidavits for Florida voters to sign if they believed their ballot was confusing.

As of late last week, the site — set up by Democrats.com, which bills itself as "the first online community for America's 100 million Democrats" but is not affiliated with the national party — had collected more than 3,000 affidavits.

Just as activists organized protests in 1999 against the World Trade Organization in Seattle, Countercoup.org is trying to organize "pro-democracy" demonstrations around the country against the Electoral College and vote-counting dispute in Florida.

Some protests organized through the site drew sizable crowds; attendees say there were 400 demonstrators in Boston and about 250 in Washington on Nov.

11. But some smaller cities didn't fare as well. An activist in Eau Claire, Wis., wrote that only five protesters showed up.

A site organized in part by online journalist Declan McCullagh declares itself the "first and only news outlet devoted to the latest information on the first perpetual election the United States has seen." PerpetualElection.com solicits discussion about election developments.

Web entrepreneurs also are cashing in.

On eBay and other sites, enterprising auctioneers are trying to make anywhere from $5 to $20 by selling copies of newspapers that prematurely declared Republican candidate George W. Bush the new president. Newspapers from all over the country are available.

One eBay seller last week tried to sell a picture of the CNN.com home page with a headline reporting Bush the winner. The auction offer has since been removed by eBay for copyright reasons.

Much of the online activity involves Gore supporters. But Republicans have some efforts of their own.

Don Evans, chairman of the Bush campaign, used the huge GOP e-mail list to ask more than 900,000 supporters for donations to underwrite the Republican legal efforts in the Florida recount battle.

There also is plenty of Web humor.

On Taterbrains.com, Elmira, N.Y., cartoonist Mike Collins is selling a T-shirt with a sample "Official Florida Election Ballot" showing a straight line from Bush's name to his punch hole but a mess of squiggly lines leading to the punch holes of other candidates' names.

At online bookseller Amazon.com, spokesman Bill Curry said an employee with a "whimsical brain-storm" created a navigation menu designed like the infamous butterfly ballot.

Instead of Gore, Bush or Reform Party candidate Pat Buchanan, this ballot offered "Books" in the second spot on the left and "Lawn and Patio" in the first spot on the right.

"We're going to do a manual recount and see what the results are," Curry quipped.

The polls must have closed early because the ballot was gone by Wednesday.

Explosion ravages South Dakota high school; two men dead

PLANKINTON, S.D. (AP) — A gas explosion tore apart a school and ignited a fire, killing two men and injuring a third. One of the men died after being trapped for hours under the debris.

"At this point in time, everything is indicating accidental in nature and we're investigating it under those circumstances," said state Fire Marshal Dan Carlson.

He said the explosion was caused by a propane gas leak that was somehow ignited. The blast and fire gutted the original brick school building and heavily damaged a newer addition.

School officials had smelled the gas at about 5:30 p.m. Friday and evacuated wrestlers from the gym, Carlson said.

The explosion happened about two hours later, when only the three men were inside.

"You can see that the entire roof and assembly above the area is gone. We don't know where it is, and there were at least two layers of concrete between where they (the men) were and that roof assembly and it's all gone," Carlson said.

Rescuers on Saturday pulled sheet metal, concrete and lumber from the rubble and passed them down a line of about two dozen firefighters to get to a basement storage room where one man, identified as a school administrator, had been trapped overnight. They last had voice contact with the man late Friday, about three hours after the blast, when he said he was pinned but breathing, Carlson said.

The school housed grades kindergarten through 12, drawing its 190 students from a more than 250-square-mile area, most of it rural.

Schools from other towns have offered to take the students and have offered books, computers and other supplies, but the school board, meeting Saturday, said it plans to rebuild the school and wants to keep students in town in the interim rather than busing them to other schools.

"I think the sooner we get these kids together the better it's going to be," said Gary Kristensen, a board member.

The board canceled classes for the next week.

Texas A&M marks anniversary of deadly collapse of pep rally bonfire

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — More than 25,000 people weathered driving rain Saturday to observe the one-year anniversary of the collapse of a log bonfire that killed 12 Texas A&M students.

"It was a healthy night for our university," said student Ricky Wood. "For some it brought closure.

Students and others huddled under umbrellas on the muddy campus polo fields for a memorial ceremony at 2:42 a.m. — the exact place and time A&M's 59-foot log stack collapsed Nov. 18, 1999.

The log stack, weighing more than two jumbo jets, toppled while it was being assembled for the school's annual pep rally on the eve of its football game against archrival Texas. Besides those killed, 27 were injured.

Family members of each student who died in the accident sat together under umbrellas in rows of seats in a 150-foot circle. Behind each set of seats stood a 5- to 6-foot wood pillar bearing each victim's name and the year they were to graduate.

"I think people got what they needed out of the ceremony. It was very poignant," student Laura Coward said. "To me it was amazing to see so many people stand in the pouring rain to honor those who were killed."

At the start of the 40-minute ceremony, lights on the fields were turned off and a memorial flame atop a platform in the circle's center was lit. A cannon was then fired 12 times.

The flame will be kept lit until 8 p.m. Sunday, to correspond with the time the last victim died.

College Station officials also planned to dedicate a plaque and 12 antique-style lampposts inscribed with the names of the victims at a city park near the university.

Texas A&M President Ray Bowen announced in June that the traditional bonfire would continue, but not until at least 2002 and only with greater school supervision.

President Clinton pushes for changes in nationwide food stamp program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton said Saturday that low-income working families making the transition from welfare should temporarily receive additional food stamps to help cope with "what can be a trying time."

Clinton, in his weekly radio address, said the Agriculture Department this week will act to allow states to provide three-month transitional food stamps for families going from welfare to work.

"Supporting hard-pressed working families is the right policy for America.

It's also a smart thing to do," Clinton said in an address taped during a trip to Vietnam. "It encourages millions of people to take responsibility, to strengthen their families, as well as our economy."

Rule changes will make it easier for food-stamp recipients to own a car that is used for work, give people six months to report income changes and require states to let working families know whether they are still eligible for food stamps.

"If there's a way to keep the transition seamless, then we should do it," said

Ellen Vollinger of the Food Research and Action Center, who praised Clinton's action.

She said three months of benefits will make it less likely that families will get into financial trouble and return to welfare.

"This gives new workers stability in what can be a trying time," Clinton said.

About 62 percent of households now eligible for food stamps, many of them working families, do not get them, according to the Agriculture Department. Participation rates for eligible families vary widely.

Confederate Air Force to change name

MIDLAND (AP) — The Confederate Air Force soon will be operating under a new name that doesn't contain the word "Confederate."

The organization's membership voted Saturday to make the change, saying it has become a public relations problem trying to get booked at air shows, officials said.

For the next 14 months, until January 2002, the organization will operate as the CAF. In the meantime, a committee will begin reviewing suggestions and come up with four recommendations, from which a name will be chosen next July.

Many leaders have expressed concern that the name does not reflect what the organization actually does.

The 9,000 members of the Confederate Air Force maintain about 140 airplanes that flew during World War II, including the B-24 Liberator, the P-38 Lightning and the only B-29 Superfortress still flying. The organization, which flies these planes at air shows across the country, tries to preserve the shrinking number of such warbirds and educate the public about them.

The organization got the name in the 1950s when somebody painted it on the tail of a P-51 Mustang fighter.

Colorado neighbors keeping wary eye on old Army Rocky Mountain Arsenal

DENVER (AP) — When Jeff Kanost bought his home two decades ago, he was intrigued by the idea of having a wildlife refuge in his backyard.

The former Rocky Mountain Arsenal, which bordered his newly acquired property, was being converted into a home for deer, owls, wolves and other wildlife.

But then came a series of unusual earthquakes, followed by disturbing revelations about hazardous chemicals, nerve gas and unexploded weapons — and Kanost's dream of an affordable home in pleasant surroundings evaporated.

determined whether they also contain sarin. While the lethal effects of sarin, used in a terrorist bombing on a Tokyo subway in 1995 that killed 12 people, are well documented, the effects of exposure to small amounts are unknown. The gas is suspected of causing illness among Gulf War veterans.

The first inkling Kanost had of the arsenal's troublesome past came in 1978, soon after he bought his house just off the arsenal's south boundary, when an earthquake rumbled through the region.

Geologists have said that earthquake and more than a thousand others recorded in the Denver area could have been caused by waste liquids injected 2-1/2 miles below the 27-square-mile arsenal by the Army.

Officials have denied any connection.

Dr. Micheal Stephens, Pam and his staff are happy to announce that Dr. Stephens will be continuing to practice family medicine in Big Spring for years to come.

Most recently, cleanup crews at the old Army arsenal and chemical munitions factory found a "bomblet" containing the nerve agent sarin, which kills humans the same way pesticides kill bugs. Gov. Bill Owens has asked for a complete risk assessment.

Officials are testing a process to dispose of the bomblet called "chemical digestion," hoping to dissolve the aluminum casing in a caustic chemical that will also neutralize the nerve agent.

Officials believe the process would reduce the harm if the bomb accidentally exploded during handling and released sarin near Kanost's neighborhood of about 20,000. The bomblet was found about 2-1/2 miles from the nearest populated area and about 10 miles northeast of Denver.

Since the bomblet was discovered, four others have been found in the same area. Investigators have not

Black Patriots monument gets more time and new direction

WASHINGTON (AP) — American sailor James Forten faced a horrible dilemma after his ship was defeated by a British frigate during the Revolutionary War.

Being black, the 15-year-old boy faced being sold into slavery instead of being imprisoned with his shipmates. However, the English captain's son took pity on him and offered to let him flee to a life of luxury in England if he'd only renounce the Americans.

Forten, however, refused to betray his country. "I am a prisoner for the liberties of my country. I never, never shall prove a traitor to her interests," he replied.

Making sure Americans know the stories of Forten and other black Revolutionary War soldiers like Seymour Burr, Caesar Black and the 1st Rhode Island Regiment — who fought for freedom without being guaranteed freedom themselves — is the new mission of the Black Patriots Foundation.

This mission dovetails with its long-standing effort to build a monument to these black patriots to stand between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument on the National Mall, said Mark Gresham, the foundation's president.

"You can have a memorial, but without the education the memorial's worthless," he said.

But there is no memorial to the black soldiers yet, more than a decade after efforts began to raise money for it. And Gresham's foundation has gone through its share of controversy, including at least three presidents since its creation, demands for resignations and a lack of money for the construction of a monument.

To be situated on an acre of land, the Black Patriots memorial would include two inwardly curving and rising walls that form a plaza below ground. The north wall, made of bronze, is to depict men, women and children. The south wall, made of granite, is to carry the etched words of black patriots that symbolizes their aspirations.

It would cost an estimated $10 million and be the nation's second-largest bronze artwork, after the Statue of Liberty.

The foundation was created in 1985 to raise money for the monument, but had collected only $3.5 million by the end of October, Gresham said.

He wants to put together an advisory committee next year to help steer the foundation's efforts, get college students involved and start a public campaign to educate Americans on the contributions of black Revolutionary War soldiers.

With its new focus, Gresham now feels confident that he has the formula to come up with the needed extra $7 million.

Congress last month advanced the 2000 deadline for construction to begin on the memorial to 2005 to give the foundation more time to raise money.

"Our goal is now to raise money and break ground in 2002-03 and have the monument ready by spring 2005 for the 230th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington," Gresham said.

"Without the education, people will say, 'You're building a memorial. So what?'" he said. "We really want people to embrace what we're doing."

But the man who founded the Black Patriots Foundation and helped come up with the idea for a memorial hasn't embraced the current foundation or taken part in its works in a long time. Maurice Barboza was ousted as foundation president in 1992 amid a controversy over fund-raising and has complained for years about the lack of progress by his successors.

"It doesn't matter if they have five more years or 10 more years," Barboza said. "There have been people who have been coming and going at that foundation over the years and there's still no monument."

Barboza called for resignations from the foundation's board back in February because no money was being raised.

He now says the foundation should scale back its plans for the monument. He wants to dump the current monument design by sculptor Ed Dwight for a compromise suggested by artist David Newton that he says will cost as little as $3 million.

"It makes us as a people look less credible to have this tremendous opportunity to build this monument and not be able to do it," said Barboza, who is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution. "But even with all the insanity that has gone on for the last eight years, I still haven't given up seeing this monument go up."

When completed, the Black Patriots Memorial will be the first memorial dedicated solely to the American Revolution on the Mall and likely will be one of the last monuments to be placed there.

Price of Thanksgiving dinner down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's something to be thankful for: A traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner will cost less this year than last, a farm group says.

A dinner for 10 people this year will cost $32.37, down $1.46 from 1999, according to an annual survey by the American Farm Bureau Federation. It is the first time the Thanksgiving dinner price has dropped since 1991, the group said.

The drop reflects a decline in the cost of a wide range of food items, including milk, sweet potatoes, the turkey itself.

"What we are seeing is a fairly large supply of pretty much every commodity produced in this country," said Joe Miller, an economist for the farm group. "We've seen low prices at the farm level for two or three years now," and those declines are now trickling down to grocery shoppers, he added.

Since the group started tracking Thanksgiving dinner costs in 1986, the price has risen $3.63.

This year's survey was based on visits to supermarkets by 121 shoppers in 30 states.

Here's the breakdown for this year's dinner bill:

—A 16-pound turkey, $12.52, down an average of $1.71 from last year.

—Gallon of whole milk, $2.56, down 39 cents.

—Three-pound bag of sweet potatoes, $1.94, down 23 cents.

—Package of cubed stuffing, $2.14, down 16 cents.

—Package of fresh cranberries, $1.54, down 18 cents.

—Can of pumpkin pie mix, $1.54, down 7 cents.

—Frozen green peas, $1.06, down 7 cents.

—Half-pint of whipping cream, $1.11, down 4 cents.

—Package of brown-and-serve rolls, $1.36, down a penny.

—Pound of celery and carrots for relish tray, 75 cents, down 5 cents.

A group of miscellaneous items that includes coffee, onions, eggs and sugar will cost $2.73, 27 cents less than last year.

One item to increase in price this year is a package of pie shells, up 12 cents to $1.54.

Bridgestone announces heavy layoffs

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bridgestone/Firestone Inc. announced Friday it will lay off 1,100 workers at two plants and curtail production at a third because of sluggish tire sales.

Workers at plants in Oklahoma City and LaVergne, Tenn., will be notified in the next couple of weeks of layoffs that will take effect Jan. 21, the company said in a statement.

Meanwhile, the embattled tiremaker's chief financial officer announced his retirement, and the company said it will replace him with the treasurer of its Tokyo-based parent company, Bridgestone Corp.

The 700 workers being laid off in Oklahoma City represent 37 percent of the plant's work force. Another 400 workers are being laid off in LaVergne, or 27 percent of that plant's work force.

Also, a plant in Warren County, Tenn., will shut down for two weeks beginning Jan. 14, but no one will be laid off there, the company said.

Bridgestone/Firestone chief executive officer John T. Lampe said he is optimistic sales will pick up next year, enabling the company to bring back laid off employees.

"We are in a situation where sales of replacement tires have declined for several reasons," he said. "Obviously concerns surrounding the recall of certain Firestone tires is a contributor to this decline. ... However, the entire industry is experiencing a slowdown in sales."

The company said it had already bolstered its tire inventory in anticipation of a strike earlier this year when it began experiencing decreases in sales. The strike was averted when union workers accepted a three-year contract Sept. 16 after difficult negotiations.

It is the second round of layoffs since Nashville-based Bridgestone/Firestone announced in August a recall of 6.5 million tires. The ATX, ATX II and Wilderness AT tires, most of them on Ford Explorers, have been linked to 119 deaths and 500 injuries in the United States.

The company announced Oct. 17 plans to lay off 450, or 25 percent, of its 1,950 workers in Decatur, Ill. In addition, it slowed production at its LaVergne plant, with a full shutdown scheduled for Dec. 14 to Jan. 1. The Oklahoma City plant will follow a similar shutdown schedule.

The retirement announcement by Tetsuo Ando, 59, comes after 40 years with the company.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is accepting applications for 2000 Man and Woman of the Year

Criteria for Selection

The procedure for nominating and selecting the Man and Woman of the Year shall be as follows:

- There must be a nominator who will submit a nomination in writing on a form provided and approved by the selection committee to include the relevant information about the nominee. To prevent the process from being a "popularity contest," the committee will be charged to base their decision on the information provided in the nomination submitted, not on the personal knowledge that they might or might not have of the nominee.
- The nominator shall submit their name, address, and phone number in case the selection committee should need additional information.
- The nominee does not have to be a member of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, but the nominator must be a member.
- The selection will be made on the basis of all around contributions to the community, not just for extraordinary performance in the individual's business or employment. The nominee should have a consistent track record of accomplishments rather than being honored for a single act of merit; although a single contribution or achievement is not ruled out if it is of sufficient importance.
- The term "community" as used above should be taken to relate to the "area" served by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.
- Those currently holding a political office should not be eligible for nomination.

To receive an application, contact Terri Davis, at 263-7641

IN BRIEF

Hawks dealt setback by nation's top team

Defending national champion and No. 1-ranked College of Southern Idaho rolled to a 107-75 win over Howard College's Hawks in the opening game of the College of Southern Idaho Classic on Friday night.

"They took an 11-point lead in the first half and then started the second half with an 18-point run, but the score really wasn't indicative of how we played," Hawks head coach Tommy Collins noted.

Derrick Tarver led the Hawks with 19 points, while Shawn Williams had 15 and Darius Mattear added 13.

The Hawks were scheduled to play Eastern Wyoming in the final game of the classic late Saturday night.

Bulldogettes absorb loss to Robert Lee

Coahoma's Bulldogettes saw their season drop to 0-2 Saturday when they suffered a 49-44 loss to Robert Lee's Lady Steers.

Ice-cold shooting proved to be the Bulldogettes' downfall, as they managed just 20 percent from the field and shot 49 percent from the free throw line.

As a result, Robert Lee was able to take a 13-9 lead after the first quarter.

The Bulldogettes came back to deadlock the score at 23-23 at halftime, but the Lady Steers outscored Coahoma 13-11 in both the third quarter and fourth quarters.

Karen Sterling was the only Coahoma player to score in double figures, finishing the game with 11 points. Kenni Kay Buchanan and Kayla Smith added seven each.

The Bulldogettes travel to Christoval for a 6:30 p.m. tip.

Quarterback Club to meet on Monday

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the Big Spring High School Athletic Training Center's meeting room.

Members will view tapes of Saturday's playoff win over Canyon and discuss this week's upcoming playoff game against El Paso Riverside.

Sanderson makes Sands' playoff run a short one

Sanderson running back Christopher Duarte (20) breaks loose, getting around Sands' Dusty Floyd (25) for a big game during the second half of Friday's six-man bi-district football playoff game.

IMPERIAL — Turnovers are always costly ... especially in playoff games.

Sands' Mustangs learned that all too well Friday night in a 44-34 loss to No. 8-ranked Sanderson's Eagles in six-man bi-district playoff action that was nothing short of heart breaking.

"We knew all along that turnovers would play an awfully important role ... we just didn't want it to be our turnovers," Mustangs head coach Clint Lowry said after trying to console his players following the loss. "But that 4-to-1 difference in turnovers was the difference, there's no question about that."

Indeed. After having entered the halftime break on the short end of a 22-8 score, the Mustangs surprised almost everyone with an effective short passing game — scoring a pair of touchdowns in a 16-second span in the fourth quarter to take a 34-28 lead.

But the Eagles, who'd lost a fumble at their won 23-yard line to set up Sands' go-ahead touchdown, answered with a 45-yard touchdown pass from Richard Montalvo to Eduardo Salmon and tacked on the two-point conversion kick to retake the lead.

Sands seemed ready to retake the lead, as the Mustangs marched back downfield, only to have an interception by Sanderson's Arturo Mendoza end the threat.

The Mustangs got some reprieve, when an illegal clock negated what had appeared to be a Mendoza return for a touchdown.

Sanderson was undeterred, however, and promptly marched 30 yards for the game's final score with 4:30 still showing on the scoreboard.

Sands wasn't through and swiped the ball down the field with quarterback Chance Nichols completing passes to Dusty Floyd and Cesar Martinez, giving themselves a first-and-goal situation at the Sanderson one with more than three minutes remaining.

But the Mustangs' final turnover, a fumble created when Eagles defenders keyed on Cesar Martinez,

Steers too much for Canyon

By JOHN H. WALKER

LUBBOCK — Neither rain, nor sleet, nor the Canyon Eagles could keep Big Spring's Steers from moving on in the Class 4A, Division II playoffs here Saturday afternoon, 35-14.

Big Spring (7-4) now faces El Paso Riverside (8-3) in a 2 p.m. game (3 p.m. Big Spring time) Saturday in Artesia, N.M. Riverside's Rangers routed Fabens 54-20 on Friday.

The Steers mixed a potent ground-game with a surprisingly successful air attack to roll up 341 yards of total offense on the bigger Eagles. Defensively, Big Spring allowed just 198 yards.

"We weren't going to let the weather stop us," explained Big Spring head coach Dwight Butler. "Before we came back out on the field after pregame, we told them it didn't matter if there was a blizzard or not, we were going to throw the ball."

And throw they did. Senior quarterback Jason Choate completed 9 of 10 passes for 94 yards and a key touchdown midway through the fourth quarter.

"We hadn't thrown the ball too well the last couple of weeks, so we really worked on it all week long," Choate said. "The line did a great job of keeping them off of me and the receivers were just outstanding."

Choate said the weather conditions — it began snowing about 10 a.m. and by game time the yard stripes and numbers were barely visible from the stands — had little effect on his ability to throw the football.

Big Spring running back Jason Woodruff (24) breaks into the open and heads to the end zone on a 60-yard touchdown run in the first quarter of the Steers' 35-14 win over Canyon in their Class 4A, Division II bi-district playoff game Saturday afternoon.

"I was a little wet, but the officials did a good job of switching the balls out, so it really didn't affect me."

Canyon jumped to a 7-0 lead, taking the opening kickoff and, marching 82 yards in seven plays. Quarterback Matt Allen scored on a 55-yard run with 8:08 left in the first period.

The Steers answered on their first possession, going 65 yards in three plays to tie the game when Jason Woodruff rumbled 60 yards up the middle with 6:43 left.

The two teams then exchanged punts, but it was Willis Morrison's 60-yard punt that rolled dead on the Canyon five that put Big Spring in position to score the next time it touched the ball.

Canyon moved the ball to its own 19 before defensive pressure by Mike Smith caused Allen to make a bad pitch on a second-and-six play.

Allen, running left on the option, felt Smith closing in from behind and made a bad pitch behind tailback Josh Small. Small fell on the ball, but the 16-yard loss put Canyon on its own three. After allowing just two yards on third down, Big Spring called time out to force Canyon to punt into a brisk north wind on the last play of the first period.

The play worked, as a 30-yard punt gave Big Spring the ball on the Eagles' 29 to start the second quarter.

Choate lost a yard on first down and Woodruff gained five on second before Canyon stuffed Woodruff on third-and-six at the 25.

Facing fourth-and-six, Choate found Woodruff on a swing pass to the left for a 20-yard gain and key first down. Two plays later, Woodruff scored from the one. The conversion pass failed and the score was 13-7 at the 8:43 mark.

"We worked to have those outlets open to keep them from keying on our running game," Choate explained. "We had to have that to make sure we had

Buffaloes roll over Sundown

By RICHARD JACKSON

SEMINOLE — Stanton's Buffaloes didn't show anything unexpected in rolling to a 27-6 win over Sundown's Roughnecks in a Class 2A, Division II bi-district playoff game Friday night.

The Buffs used a strong running attack and a stingy defense in advancing to the second round of the playoffs for a fourth consecutive season.

In fact, the Stanton running game was something unlike the highly-touted Roughnecks defense had seen, as senior tailback Jeremy Hull racked up 238 yards on 17 carries and scored three touchdowns in leading the Buff attack.

The Buffs, who improved to 9-2 with the victory, now advance to the area playoff round where they take on the winner of Saturday's Mason-Ozona game. That game has tentatively been set for Friday night in San Angelo.

But it was Stanton's stingy defense that made its presence known first, stonewalling the Roughnecks on their first possession.

And when Sundown attempted to pass on a third-and-10 situation, Hull stepped up defensively, picking off the ball at the Buffs' 37.

From there, Hull ripped off a 21-yard burst, and then with 8:20 showing on the clock, blasted loose for a 31-yard touchdown.

New Deal issues Coahoma quick exit from playoffs

By CARL GRAHAM

SNYDER — Coahoma's Bulldogs waited 28 years to return to the schoolboy football playoffs, but Friday's Class 2A, Division II bi-district game with New Deal's Lions provided little to enjoy.

New Deal rolled to a 29-6 win, leaving the 'Dogs with a 6-5 mark overall and disappointing a huge fan following that packed its way into Tiger Stadium despite the 30-degree temperature.

Coahoma took the opening kickoff and began a 12-play drive starting at its own 29. Using the running skills of junior fullback Cory Hill, the Bulldogs kept to the ground with the exception of one toss to junior Anthony Herrera that was good for a 26-yard gain.

A quarterback keeper by Chase Ward gave the 'Dogs a first-and-goal situation at the seven and after three tries by Hill, Coahoma had an early 6-0 lead.

The Lions then began a drive of their own — one lasting only six plays. Quarterback Cade Pierce hit to wide receiver Chris Weston to cap the drive and give New Deal a 7-6 lead with 3:42 left in the first quarter.

Coahoma came back with another impressive drive that used up more than 10 minutes of the clock with Hill, Ward and Brandon Wyatt carrying most of the load.

The Bulldogs marched to the Lions' one before being denied on four plays from the New Deal five.

New Deal took possession at its own one, with a little more than five minutes left in the half.

See BULLDOGS, page 10A

Coahoma defender Travis Hipp (23) chases New Deal's Chris Weston (10) in a vain attempt to keep the Lions from chalking up a touchdown. The Bulldogs suffered a 29-6 loss to the Lions in Snyder on Friday night.

Weather, Wildcats prove too much for Colorado City

By EDDIE JOHNSTON
Herald Correspondent

ANDREWS — Colorado City Wolves probably wished they'd stayed at home Saturday, as they endured temperatures that hovered in the mid-30s and an Idalou Wildcats onslaught that provided a 35-0 pounding in their Class 2A, Division I bi-district playoff.

The Wildcats overwhelmed the Wolves on both sides of the ball, gaining 328 yards of total offense while holding the Wolves to a measly 101 yards. The weather and the 'Cats grounded the explosive Colorado City air attack.

Senior quarterback Chase Phariss was harassed all afternoon, as he scrambled to elude persistent Wildcat defenders that ended up with two sacks and three interceptions.

It was a long day for Phariss, who completed only eight of 25 passes for just 92 yards.

However, it was a longer day for the Colorado City backfield as Wolves runners only netted nine yards rushing on 16 attempts.

Colorado City managed to stay close at the half and only trailed 7-0. However, the Wildcats outgained them 180 yards to 60 yards and controlled.

The wheels came off at the start of the third quarter as Colorado City fumbled on the first play from scrimmage at its own 24. It took Idalou only two plays to punch it into the end zone.

After both sides exchanged punts, Colorado City started again from its own 18. Three plays later Phariss was intercepted by linebacker Jonathan Martinez who took it in for the score from the 28 yards out.

After the ensuing kickoff, Colorado City again misfired on its first play, this time when freshman running back Jacobie Russell coughing the ball up.

Idalou took three plays to score and take a 28-0 lead. The touchdown came when Martinez ran 15 yards into the Wolves' secondary and optioned off to running back Robert Garza, who ran the remaining two yards into the end zone.

Garza would score four touchdowns and gain 86 yards rushing on 18 carries.

But the real story for the Wildcats was Martinez.

The 6-foot-1, 221-pounder excelled on both sides of the ball. He had the one interception for a score, but was also 4-of-12 passing for 74 yards and rushed 15 times for 98 yards.

As the Wildcats' kicker, he kept Colorado City pinned on its end of the field. The Wolves never advanced past their 35 in the second second half, in fact.

"He just might be the most complete athlete that we've played against this year," Colorado City head coach Gerald James admitted. "He can do everything, run, pass, and kick. He gets up a head of steam and he's hard to bring down."

Of his team's play, James said, "Our guys played hard, they've been over-achievers all year long. Give Idalou a lot of credit. They shut down our passing game and made us throw short passes and they stopped our running game."

In spite of the wintery conditions, James refused to blame the weather.

"No, the field was great," he said. "We had a hard time catching the ball and Chase never could grip the ball the way that he wanted to. Besides, Idalou wasn't going to give up any big plays. They had some twists up front defensively and kept Chase in the pocket and kept getting pressure on him."

Colorado City ends its season at 9-2 — a marked improvement from the Wolves' final season in Class 3A when they were 1-9 in 1999. Idalou advances to play Sonora.

Lady Dawgs roll to Invitational crown

By VALERIE AVERY
Herald Correspondent

Big Spring's Lady Steers had trouble finding the basket — from the field and the free throw line — as Lubbock Monterey capitalized on Big Spring's shooting woes in a semifinal game of the Howard College Pizza Invitational tournament Friday in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Lady Plainsmen pulled away in the second half for a 57-41 win and the right to face Midland High in Saturday night's championship game. They did not have the same luck against the Lady Dawgs.

Midland High pulled ahead of Monterey in the fourth quarter to pull out a tight 50-47 win in the championship game.

The Lady Dawgs were led by Edera Rogers, who wound up the tournament's MVP. She was joined on the all-tournament team by Laura Koch, Laquori Harris and Jenny Jones.

Others named to the honor squad were Monterey's Kari Jo Simmons, Stephanie Thiel and Ashley Dickerson; Andrews' Mandy Roberts; Big Spring's Melissa Forth; Frenship's Kassie Showalter; Odessa High's Kayla Sutherland; and Midland Lee's Shamera Bryson.

In other Saturday action, Andrews topped Odessa

High 48-36 for a fifth-place finish; Midland Lee squeaked by Odessa Permian 51-43 for seventh place; and Midland Lee bested Lubbock High 62-48.

Big Spring and Frenship opted to forego Saturday's third-place game because of scheduling conflicts with the Steers' and Tigers' Saturday afternoon bi-district football playoff games.

The Lady Steers trailed 21-17 in the second quarter after Chelsea Churchwell intercepted the ball and fed Melissa Flenniken under the basket with 3:03 left in the half. Big Spring could have closed the gap to 20-19 if they had converted their two free throws, but they wouldn't fall.

Forth drained a trey, and Monterey's Thiel hit two of her team-high 17 points in the last minute before half-time. Senior guard Haley Bevers was fouled at the buzzer and went 2-for-2 from the free throw line for a 27-20 half-time advantage.

Big Spring was a miserable 2-for-12 from the charity stripe in the first half and shot a season-low 27 percent in the game.

"We were working hard, but we couldn't get anything to drop," head coach Jimmy Avery said. "We just had one of those nights where we struggled offensively. I was encouraged that we didn't give up."

Class 5A Monterey appeared that it was going to blow out the Lady Steers in the third quarter as the Lady Plainsmen went on a 12-0 run before Flenniken found the basket at the 3:45 mark.

Monterey pushed the lead to 41-22 until reserve Brittany Bryant sparked the Lady Steers with a drive in the lane and two treys to close the gap to 41-30. Monterey closed out the quarter ahead 45-31.

Forth opened the fourth quarter with a basket to cut the gap to 45-33 but that would be the closest the Lady Steers would get as Monterey kept a lead in the double digits until the final buzzer.

Forth led all scorers with 14 points. Bryant was the only other Big Spring player in double digits with 10. Freshman Kim Wrightsil had eight, as only five Big Spring hoopsters accounted for the scoring.

"Monterey had a chance to put us away, but we never let them do it," Avery said. "They're a good team. I wish we could have made it a little closer and I think we could have if we had a better shooting night."

Big Spring returns to action Tuesday against Odessa High at 6 p.m. in Steer Gym. The Steers varsity tips off at 7:30 p.m.

against Lamesa in Steer Gym following the Lady Steers' game with OHS.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Fifth-place Game
ANDREWS 48,

ODESSA HIGH 36

Andrews' Karli Bane scored 14 points and Judy Del Hierro made 10 to push Andrews past Odessa High 48-36 in the fifth place game. Sutherland had 10 points for the Lady Broncos.

Odessa High led 23-22 at halftime, but Andrews outscored Odessa High 12-9 in the third quarter.

Seventh-place Game

MIDLAND LEE 51,

ODESSA PERMIAN 43

Midland Lee was down 31-30 against Odessa Permian, but the Lady Rebels scored 21 points and held Permian to 12 in the 51-43 win. Midland's Neatherlin put in 16 points and Shamera Bryson had 10.

Elbony Johnson had 16 points for Permian in the losing effort.

MIDLAND LEE 62,

LUBBOCK HIGH 48

Midland Lee lead 13-5 after the first quarter and never looked back as they cruised to a 62-48 win over Lubbock High. Bryson and Neatherlin scored 14 and 12 points for Midland Lee.

Red Raiders make OU look unlike No. 1 team

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top-ranked Oklahoma didn't look the part for much of the day against Texas Tech. With the game on the line, that changed.

Led by Josh Heupel, the Sooners drove 71 yards in 12 plays and chewed up more than five minutes of the clock to score the clinching touchdown in a 27-13 victory Saturday.

Heupel was intercepted twice and had a season-low 248 yards passing, but was 7-of-8 for 60 yards on the final drive, including a 15-yard completion on third-and-4 play to set up the touchdown.

The victory gave the Sooners (10-0, 7-0 Big 12) the Big 12 South Division championship. They close out the regular season next week against Oklahoma State, then will play North Division winner Kansas State on Dec. 2 in Kansas City for the conference championship.

Texas Tech (7-5, 3-5) put up a good fight in coach Mike Leach's return to Norman, getting within eight at 21-13 midway through the fourth. But Oklahoma ended any upset hopes with the late drive.

The Red Raiders controlled the clock much of the day, with Kliff Kingsbury completing 41 of 61 passes for 295 yards.

the run."

If there was a moment of offensive disappointment, it had to come on Big Spring's last possession of the first half.

The Steers, starting from their own 12 after forcing a Canyon punt, ran 11 plays and marched to the Eagles 16 before the drive stalled out.

The second half started with Big Spring fumbling the ball away, then getting it back two series later when Morrison intercepted a pass at the Steers' 27.

Woodruff picked up 12 yards on first down before Morrison gained 11 on the next play. The Steers got 15 more yards when Canyon was flagged for a late hit on Morrison.

After a pass to Brandon Mendoza picked up three yards, Choate gained 10 on a quarterback trap to move the ball to the Eagle 24.

On first down, fullback Kyland Wegner took the ball on a trap, stepped past the linebackers, and outran the secondary for a 24-yard touchdown.

Choate connected with Aaron Olague on the two-point conversion to make the score 21-7 with 5:39 left in the third period.

Rather than look as if they on the ropes, the Eagles took the ensuing kickoff and marched 76 yards in 15 plays to pull within 21-14 when Allen scored from the four on the final play of the third quarter.

But the Steers answered again.

Mixing three passes into an 11-play drive, Choate marched the Steers straight down the field. Big Spring converted a third-and-four, as well as a fourth-and-one on the drive.

The Steers scored with Clarence Wilkins lined up on the right side of the formation on third-and-five from the 15. Wilkins ran a look-in pattern and Choate hit him in full stride at about the eight. Wilkins bounced off one defender before dragging another the final five yards into the end zone. Woodruff's kick made it 28-14 with 5:33 left.

The Steers added their final score when Woodruff went in from 12 yards out with 2:34 left in the game.

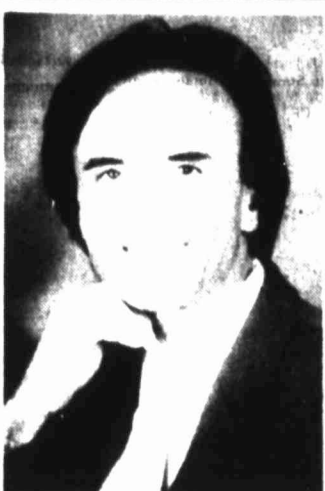

Woodruff had 169 yards on 23 carries to lead all rushers, while Wegner added 44 yards on six carries and Jeremiah Baeza had 23 yards on four totes.

Morrison had three catches for 43 yards while Mendoza had three for 11. Woodruff, Wilkins and Larry Thompson each had a catch apiece.

The Steers' win, coupled with Frenship's 43-36 win over Hereford on Saturday and Andrews' 10-3 decision over Borger Friday night, closed out a bi-district sweep for the District 4-4A teams over those from District 3-4A.

sounded Sands' death knell. "It was just a great play by their defense," Lowry noted. "Cesar's been our go-to guy in situations like that and they were right there, hit him the second Chance gave him the ball. There's not a thing you can do about a situation like that."

In fact, Lowry had nothing but compliments for the Eagles and head coach Vance Jones.

At the game's start, it looked as if the game would be a tit-for-tat affair when the Mustangs took the opening kickoff and needed just two plays to get on the scoreboard.

On the second play from scrimmage Junior Martinez bounced outside and streaked 41 yards for the touchdown.

Sanderson answered, driving 64 yards on 10 plays, Arturo Mendoza getting the final 16 steps and then tacking on the conversion kick for an 8-6 edge.

But the Eagles stopped the Mustangs at the Sanderson 30 on Sands' next possession and extended their lead by driving to a second touchdown, John Benavidez scoring from 13 yards.

Late in the second period before Sands scored on a safety with just more than two minutes remaining in the half.

Following the safety, it appeared as if Sands would have a chance to at least even the score, as they promptly marched to the Sanderson 28 before lightning struck -- Eagles end Richard Montalvo literally stealing the ball from Nichols as he looked for a receiver and returned it to the Sands eight.

Benavidez got his second touchdown with 33 seconds remaining in the half, and Mendoza's kick made it 22-8.

Sands trimmed the lead to 22-14 on its first possession of the third quarter, moving 35 yards on just four plays — a 27-yard burst by Hale Looney setting things up for a one-yard Cesar Martinez burst with 6:07 on the clock.

Sanderson, showing the poise that made them District 8 champions, answered with a 60-yard scoring march, Benavidez again getting loose on the final play for a 33-yard TD burst.

The Mustangs kept pace with a 56-yard drive on their next possession, Cesar Martinez capping the march with a 4-yard TD run.

Sands knotted the score on the first play of the fourth quarter when Nichols hit Floyd with a 22-yard touchdown pass.

ened from that point, however, and the two teams exchanged punts for the remainder of the quarter.

The two defenses continued to hold sway early in the second quarter, even when the Buffs were able to recover a Sundown fumble at the Roughnecks' 14 they found the going difficult and wound up settling for an unsuccessful field goal try.

Late in the first half, the Roughnecks took possession at their own 18 and were immediately in trouble when Jon Cotton sacked the Sundown quarterback and caused a fumble that Clay White scooped up and returned for a touchdown that gave the Buffs a 14-0 halftime lead.

After taking the kickoff to open the second half, the Buffs were back on the scoreboard quickly.

Again it was Hull who did the damage, taking a pitch from quarterback Keith Cook and streaking 70 yards to paydirt to give the Buffs a 21-0 lead with 11:31 remaining in the third quarter.

The Roughnecks tried to answer, driving to the Stanton line before being forced to turn the ball over on downs at the Buffs' two.

Sundown mounted its only successful drive in the fourth quarter, Willis Hogan capping the 58-yard march with a one-yard dive.

Following another exchange of punts by the two teams, Stanton again gave the Roughnecks a taste of Hull. This time the senior star broke over left tackle and scampered 56 yards to cap the scoring.

The Buffs piled up a total of 281 yards overland against a Sundown defense that had allowed a total of just more than 400 yards on the ground during the regular season. White gained 56 yards rushing, allowing him to surpass the 1,000-yard mark.

Volunteers needed for awesome feat

Big Spring State Hospital's volunteer workforce is busily attending to the many needs of our 200-plus patients this holiday season.

Many patients do not have family members nearby who can visit or deliver holiday presents. The Volunteer Services Council ensures that the patients have a joyful Christmas by providing gifts on the morning of Dec. 25.

To carry out this awesome feat, we need plenty of hands and able bodies to perform a variety of tasks. We are busy scheduling patient parties on Dec. 14 for all of our units, and we need cakes, cookies, sandwiches and finger foods.

Assistance is always needed at the parties, so if you can stay that would be helpful to all of us.

We are also seeking a Santa Claus. You don't have to furnish your outfit or a potbelly. We'll fix you up just right.

Some of us are blessed with beautiful voices or enjoy singing. If you're one of those, please help us sing carols to the patients this Christmas season.

Our Carol of Lights is scheduled for Dec. 4 at 6:30 p.m. Volunteers and employees sing Christmas carols as we light the campus buildings with thousands of twinkling bulbs.

If you can assist us in these endeavors, please call us at 268-7536. Your help is needed to make each of these events a success.

Big Spring State Hospital volunteers will participate in Canterbury's Craft Sale, Saturday, Dec. 2 at 9 a.m. If you could work a two-hour shift or donate craft items, please call us at the office. All proceeds will benefit the patient Christmas fund.

The Volunteer Services Council's "Christmas in November Luncheon" was a huge success. Big Spring State Hospital CEO Ed Moughon delivered a very informative speech on the state of the hospital.

A special thank you goes out to volunteers Betty Lee and Ken Moore for providing special holiday music. Also, thanks needs to be extended to Arts & Crafts Chairman Suzanne Markwell and the many other hard-working volunteers who gathered donations and sold goods totaling more than $700 to the Patient Christmas fund.

The lucky winner of the quilt hand-stitched by the Ackerly Baptist Church women was Catherine Williams. Thank you again ladies for putting in all of those long hours to make money for our patients.

The Fashion Shop is in need of men's pants. The shop allows patients to shop for clothing during their hospitalization. Many of our patients arrive without adequate clothing and depend on donations.

We have several new volunteers who have offered to assist us on certain projects. Volunteer Lucy Raymond is volunteering in the reimbursement office; Trey Lancaster is escorting patients to Sunday church services; and Valerie Avery is lending a hand with the birthday cake project.

The State Employees Charitable Campaign, which raises money for various charitable organizations totals $5,972.15. This money was earned through bake sales, golf and bowling

Turkey trepidation? Common sense tips to avoid food-borne illness

Holidays are a time for family, friends, fun and...food poisoning.

Thanksgiving chefs need to be careful when handling and cooking the holiday meal. There are as many as 80 millions cases of food-borne illnesses annually in the United States, resulting in 500,000 deaths each year.

There are many types of bacteria that can invade your Thanksgiving dinner, especially if you leave the food out while waiting for guests to arrive throughout the day, said Gulchin Ergun, M.D. a gastroenterologist at The Methodist Hospital and director of the Reflux Center.

"The turkey is a wonderful place for bacteria to grow," she said. "It's warm and full of nutrients."

How do you know if you have food poisoning? Some bacteria can strike fast, causing symptoms in two hours. Others can attack the next day.

Most cases are mild, but in extreme cases, death can occur from food poisoning, Ergun said. Typical symptoms include watery diarrhea, abdominal cramping, vomiting and nausea.

If these symptoms do occur, Ergun said to wait them out and they will likely go away. But drink plenty of fluids and avoid heavy and spicy foods. If the symptoms persist more than a few days, contact a physician.

Here are some tips from Methodist Health Care System's Institute for Preventive Medicine to help make your holiday bacteria free:

Wash your hands
•Use warm, soapy water

•Wash front and back, up to your wrist, washing between fingers, and under fingernails.

•Wash long enough that you are able to sing your favorite team's fight song.

•Wash hands after handling any raw meat.

•Wash all preparation surfaces like appliances, countertops, cutting boards, and utensils.

•Dry with clean cloth towels or disposable paper towels.

Handling raw meat
•Keep raw meat separate from other foods.

•Store turkey on bottom shelf of refrigerator to prevent juices from dripping on other foods.

•Use two different cutting boards.

•Wash those hands again using hot & soapy water

Temperatures count

•Buy a meat thermometer and insert in inner thigh area near breast, avoiding bone.

•Whole turkey should be cooked to 180 degrees F.

•Refrigerate leftovers at 40 degrees F immediately after serving.

•Do not keep turkey longer than three to four days.

Thawing

•If planning to thaw by refrigerating, it will take a least a day for every four to five pounds. It can remain in the refrigerator one to two days.

•To thaw in cold water, the turkey must be in a leak proof package, completely submerged in water and will take 30 minutes per pound. Make sure to change the water every 30 minutes.

Go to the woods and find a turkey. Put a trap out to catch the turkey. Let a turkey find the trap. Trick the turkey into a sack and carry it home. Cook it on the warm stove in a big pot for five minutes. Cut it up into little bites. Eat it.

By Keith Clifton

Go to the pasture and find a turkey. Shoot it. Cook it outside on a fire for one hour. Take it into the house and cut it up. Eat it.
By Austin Hoelscher

Go to Wal-Mart and find a big turkey. Bring it home with the other food and cook it on the stove in a big pot until it is warm. Cut it up and eat it.
By Cole Schroyer

Go hunt for a turkey out in the wild. Kill it with a gun. Bring it home. Cook it in the oven until it is hot. Cut it up into a bunch of pieces. Eat it with the other food.
By Alyssa Wesley

Find a turkey in the barn. Shoot it. Cook it in the oven for 10 minutes. If it is hot, eat it. If it is not hot, cook it some more. Eat it.
By Casey Hare

Go to the farm and find a turkey. Shoot it with a gun. Pull out the feathers. Cook it in the sun. Eat it.

Gettysburg: Silent tents on an eternal camping ground

On November 19, 1863, President Abraham Lincoln delivered his famous address at the dedication of the national cemetery at Gettysburg.

For many years since that time, classrooms have echoed with the phrases, "government of the people, by the people, and for the people," as students struggled to memorize the famous words.

I always enjoyed teaching the Gettysburg Address. When I taught at Goliad, I often called upon assistant principal Ernie Boyd, a Civil War buff, to talk to the students about the memorable battle.

He did a great job, explaining how bullets of that day "splattered" upon entry, thus necessitating the removal of arms and legs that were beyond repair. He described the three-day struggle, July 1-3, the primitive field hospital conditions, and the stack of arms and legs beside the emergency medical units.

The blood, the heat, the flies--he made it all very real. Boyd, himself a WWII POW, once told me, "I don't believe in glamorizing war."

I always wanted to visit Gettysburg, but I never had the opportunity until last spring when my sister Margie, and her daughter, Teresa, and I spent five wonderful days in Washington, D.C.

One day we rented a car, and with Teresa driving, bravely (and I do mean bravely) edged into the morning traffic of Washington, D.C., and headed for Gettysburg.

It was a rainy morning, but the dogwood was in bloom and the Pennsylvania countryside beautiful. At Gettysburg, we took the 18-mile auto tour, guided by a tape purchased at the visitor center.

The tape, which traces the three-day battle in chronological order, is an excellent recounting of history. It also includes humorous observations of human nature, like the story of Gen. Daniel Sickles.

One the second day of the battle, Sickles' right knee was crushed by a cannonball, and doctors had to amputate his leg. At his request, the leg was saved and today is still on display at the National Museum of Health and Medicine.

After the war Sickles was not above using his crippling wound to advance his political career.

Mark Twain, who knew Sickles well, once wryly observed that if Sickles had to give up his wounded leg or his good one, he would give up his good leg for he had gained immeasurable political mileage from the other.

As a congressman from New York, Sickles was instrumental in starting the Gettysburg Military Park.

Today, many monuments and memorials line the roads of the park. They, along with the arrangements of cannons, interspersed with stone walls and rail fences, are silent reminders of all that took place at Gettysburg.

Probably the most inspiring sight to me was the view from Little Round Top. The panorama below includes Devil's Den, where fighting was so intense that puddles of blood accumulated on the rocks.

At the scene of Pickett's courageous but ill-fated charge up Cemetery Ridge, I was reminded of Mr. Boyd's comment: "I was in the infantry and I would not have wanted to go up that hill."

Twilight was falling when we reached the National Cemetery, where more than 3,500 Union soldiers are buried. So many graves are marked "Unknown".

A placard with these lines of verse honors their memory.

"On fame's eternal camping ground,

Their silent tents are spread.

And glory guards with solemn round

The bivouac of the dead."

Jean Warren writes a monthly column for the Herald.

WEDDINGS

McMillan-Peters

Julie Paige McMillan and Jason Peters, both of Midland, exchanged wedding vows on Nov. 11, 2000, at Primitive Baptist Church in Midland with Minister Troy Berrington officiating. She is the daughter of Bill and Debra Calobreves of Big Spring and Perry McMillan of McKinney and the granddaughter of Valene McMillan of Big Spring.

He is the son of Gary and Chris Peters of Boise, Idaho. Given in marriage by her fathers, Bill and Perry, the bride wore a white satin gown with beaded pearls and sweetheart neckline. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses.

Shawna Wells served as maid of honor and the bridesmaid was Synda Calobreves, sister of the bride.

Flower girl was Hailey McMillan.

Richard Dicarolo served as best man and the groomsmen was Michael Holmes.

A reception was held at the Holiday Inn in Midland with a dinner buffet and dancing.

The wedding cake was a three-tiered cake. The groom's cake was a chocolate cake with chocolate icing.

The bride is a 1995 graduate of Midland Lee High School. She is presently employed by Limited Edition.

The groom is a 1989 graduate of Midland Lee High School. He is employed by Limited Edition.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will make their home in Midland.

University of Texas at San Antonio. The groom is a 1998 Schreiner College graduate and currently is self-employed.

The couple made their home in San Antonio.

IN THE MILITARY

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Neil C. Allen, a 1995 graduate of Sands High School in Ackerly, is currently assigned to the aircraft carrier USS George Washington, which recently assisted in the recovery effort of Gulf Air flight 072.

After the plane crashed on its approach to Bahrain International Airport on Aug. 23, more than 80 Sailors and several boats from the USS George Washington arrived at the scene to help.

They included divers and swimmers from SEAL team two, an explosive ordnance disposal team, search and rescue swimmers from Helicopter Anti-Submarine Warfare Squadron 15 and the ship's medical team.

USS George Washington is halfway through a six-month deployment. Allen visited cities in Turkey and the United Arab Emirates.

During these visits, Sailors participated in the community relations projects and had the opportunity to enjoy the local culture and cuisine.

Air Force Airman Glen E. Glass had graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is the son of William W. and Janet Glass of Stanton.

Air Force Airman Jose A. Carnero has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is the son of Jesse N. and Hilda J. Carnero of Big Spring and a 2000 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Chefs struggle in a field fraught with fat

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — At the nation's top culinary school, indulgence is unavoidable. Students taste-test every sumptuous dish, be it hollandaise sauce, duck-liver pate or creme brulee.

Not surprisingly, keeping lean in a field fraught with cream and pastries is tricky. And increasingly, disciples of professional cooking are loathe to have their bodies betray their business.

"I'm training for marathons, so it's kind of sad to see my belly larger than it used to be," complains Anthony Rabeni, who has attended the Culinary Institute of America since June. "In six weeks, I gained 15 pounds."

Fortunately for Rabeni, the school is taking to heart the physical and mental hazards inherent in professional cooking. Just 500 yards from the pastry kitchens, a $9.8 million recreation center now holds "butt and rut" classes.

Stress management and fitness are required courses for students in the four-year program, whose tuition is as much as $15,400 a year.

The Culinary Institute is not alone in noticing the pitfalls of workplaces filled with souffles and wines. In Providence, R.I., Johnson & Wales also opened a recreation center in the last year on its culinary school campus.

"They used to say never trust a skinny chef," says Jeff Levine, a spokesman for the Culinary Institute. "That's just not true anymore."

The drive for workout facilities came from both students and faculty. Previously, the institute directed exercise-hungry students to the gym at Marist College, six miles away in Poughkeepsie.

In 1986, the school opened St. Andrew's Cafe, a restaurant and classroom featuring four-course meals containing fewer than 1,200 calories.

Students then made clear they expected the highly regarded cooking school to do something for their health as well as the health of diners, says John Campbell, associate dean of student activities and recreation.

School president Ferdinand Metz, who plays tennis and hockey with students, also pushed for activities to counteract 8 a.m. wine tastings.

Now, on six days out of seven, Rabeni, who is 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighs 190 pounds, plays basketball or spends two hours sweating over weight machines. Standing in shorts and T-shirt, he was surrounded on a recent afternoon by 10 men and women waging the same battle on stationary bicycles, treadmills, and weight benches.

The 2-year-old recreation building, which offers a country club view from a hilltop next to the Hudson River, has a 25-yard swimming pool and racquetball courts. The gym is a healthy refuge on a campus where scents of butter and chocolate waft on the air.

Sherrile Tan, a student from the Philippines, said a tightening waistband sent her to the weight machines, but administrators say the tennis courts and spinning classes, with stationary bikes, help combat more than weight gain.

"The food industry has a history of drug and alcohol abuse," Campbell says. "We were just trying to show the healthy side of life."

Professional cooking also has a tradition of brutal working conditions — long hours in broiling heat — and hot-tempered coworkers.

Fritz Sonnenschmidt, the school's culinary dean,

'Yesterday' named top pop song

NEW YORK (AP) — "Yesterday," the wistful Beatles ballad that has been recorded more than 3,000 times by other artists, was chosen the greatest pop song since 1963 by MTV and Rolling Stone magazine.

The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, Michael Jackson and Madonna have two songs each within the top 25 of the 100-song list.

The Rolling Stones' ode to sexual frustration, "I Can't Get No Satisfaction," was second. Another music channel, VH1, named it the greatest song in the rock era in a list earlier this year.

Nirvana's 1991 single, "Smells Like Teen Spirit," which launched rock's grunge era and was the career apex for the late Kurt Cobain, was third.

The list is sure to fire up arguments among music fans. MTV and Rolling Stone arbitrarily used the emergence of The Beatles as a starting point and said their list was based on songs that had the most influence on popular culture, not necessarily the best songs.

That's why Eric Clapton's "Layla" wasn't included but his ballad, "Tears in Heaven" (No. 45), was.

The choice of "Yesterday," which has been covered by Ray Charles, Frank Sinatra, Boyz II Men and many others, was "an automatic," said Tom Calderone, MTV's senior vice president for music programming.

"Every generation knows 'Yesterday,'" Calderone said. While a simple melody, the Paul McCartney-sung tune tells

Prussic acid poisoning to be addressed

Under certain conditions, sorghums are capable of releasing hydrocyanic acid (HCN or prussic acid), which make them potentially dangerous for grazing. HCN is attached to a larger molecule, a cyanogenic glucoside called dhurrin. Dhurrin itself is harmless as it is simply a compound consisting of sugar and a non-sugar molecule. Generally, for this process to occur, the plant has to be damaged as the glucosides and degradative enzymes are compartmentally separated within the plant cells. This damage may occur through the chewing action of an animal, a hard freeze where cell walls are ruptured or through mechanical action such as that caused by a swather and its crimper.

Once ingested by an animal, the HCN is released in the rumen and readily absorbed into the bloodstream. HCN does not prevent oxygen from being transported by hemoglobin but does prevent the body cells from receiving oxygen. Thus, the animal dies from asphyxiation at the cellular level. Animals affected by prussic acid poisoning exhibit a characteristic bright red blood just prior to and during death.

Young plants contain more HCN per unit weight than do older plants. Any stress condition, such as drought or freeze damage, will increase HCN amounts. There is more HCN in the leaves than in the stems—the top-most (younger) leaves contain more HCN than do the

New Big Spring residents open chiropractic office on Lancaster

Dr. James Riley and his wife Callie had no idea where Big Spring was just a few months ago.

"Just after I had graduated from Texas Chiropractic College in Houston we were looking up potential places to open up my own business," said Riley. "The chiropractic web page had an ad that showed that this building and all the equipment were for sale so I got out a map and looked up where it was."

The Rileys recently moved to Big Spring from Comanche to set up business at 1409 Lancaster in the old Chrane Chiropractic Clinic. The transition was made easier by a relative.

"I have an uncle who lives in Andrews and he told me a lot about it and how nice the people were here," Riley said. "He failed to mention that Big Spring and Andrews have been big football rivals for years, though."

Riley graduated in August from the chiropractic school after having attended Tarleton State University in Stephenville for several years. He graduated from Comanche High School in 1992. Riley said he met his wife in the small town of Gustine.

Dr. James Riley looks over paperwork his wife Callie has submitted. Riley operates Riley Chiropractic Health Center, located at 1409 Lancaster.

"I spotted her at a street dance in Gustine," said Riley. "We just seemed to click I guess because we have been married now for a little over three years."

Riley and his wife have no children yet but once they are settled down good that could change.

"I think Big Spring will be a nice place to start a family," said Riley. "I have found the people here to be very friendly and helpful and we really like it here."

Riley's wife takes care of the paperwork part of the business.

Monday through Friday his office hours are 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. and on Saturday he is open from 9 a.m. until noon.

Ryder heralds 20 years with Western Container

HERALD Staff Report

Ryder System, Inc., a global leader in logistics and transportation management solutions, celebrated its 20-year relationship with Western Container Corporation (WCC) at the WCC's transportation department's recent safety awards dinner. WCC manufactures plastic containers for Coca-Cola products.

Ryder provides WCC full service leasing of 44 tractors and 51 trailers. Its fleet delivers plastic bottles from five WCC plants, located in Big Spring and Houston, Benicia and Rancho Cucamonga, Calif., and Hattiesburg, Miss., to Coca-Cola bottlers nationwide.

WCC leverages on-board technology for instant driver communication in its quest for 100 percent on-time delivery to its customer base.

"Ryder is proud of its long-term relationship with Western Container, particularly in the area of safety," said Hermayne Merritt, general manager of Ryder's Albuquerque customer business unit. "Ryder applauds WCC for its outstanding safety record, including nine drivers who have each driven more than one million accident-free miles. Ryder helps WCC stress its safety messages through quarterly driver safety meetings."

"Ryder has grown with WCC through the years," said Robert Ayres, vice president of supply and logistics for WCC. "In 1980, WCC leased one tractor and trailer from Ryder and has grown to need the 44 tractors and 51 trailers it leases today. WCC's growth has been phenomenal. The company has doubled in size in the last five years, and as a result, so has its account with Ryder."

"Due to the reliability of Ryder's equipment and services, WCC boasts a 99 percent on-time record with Coca-Cola," added Ayres. "WCC estimates that our Ryder-leased fleet will travel approximately nine million miles in 2000."

Fortune magazine ranked Ryder as the most admired company in the highway transportation industry in 1997 and 1998 and second-most admired in 1999. In 2000, Ryder received a higher overall rating than its competitors in the Fortune survey. For the third consecutive year, Inbound Logistics magazine recognized Ryder in 2000 as the top third-party logistics provider.

make an appointment," said Riley. "Right now as we are building up our clientele we are usually not that busy but later on walk-ins, unless an emergency, could get harder."

The health center has made applications for most health insurance coverage and should be getting those back within the next month. Riley said he specializes in posture reversal through posture sequencing.

"This is something I have learned through the years from my uncle," said Riley. "What you do is find out which bones need to be moved back into the proper position and it comes in a certain sequence and allows for your posture to correct taking the pressure off the brain stem and the rest of the nerves in the spinal cord. People that have had problems with acid reflux for years have been treated through this method and never have a problem with it anymore after treatment."

Riley welcomes new clients to his business.

"Come in and give us a chance to see if we can help you," said Riley. "We want your business and we will work hard to keep it."

To make an appointment, call Riley Chiropractic Health Center at 263-6185.

Management practices; Taking a proactive approach to managing for HCN poisoning is preferable to waiting for it to "just happen." The following management techniques will help prevent losses related to HCN.
• Do not turn in hungry cattle. Feed some hay first, then turn in cattle in late afternoon.
• Allow plants to reach at least 18 to 24 inches in height before grazing is allowed. This permits some dilution of the HCN.
• Do not graze after frost until all plants are field cured. It is recommended that at least seven days (one week) be allowed after a killing frost.
Generalizing ranking of sorghum types in their potential HCN accumulations.
Sudangrass X Sudangrass Hybrids: fairly low;
Sorghum-Sudangrass Hybrids: high;
Grain types (Varieties and Hybrids): high to very high;
Johnsongrass: generally high.
If you have any questions or would like more information concerning Prussic Acid Poisoning in Livestock, contact the Howard County Extension Office at 264-2236.

WELLS FARGO
The Next Stage

The adult in you will love the fixed rate.
The kid in you will love the no-penalty withdrawal.

OPEN AN ALMOST CD WITH GUARANTEED RATE AND NO PENALTY WITHDRAWAL TODAY

When you open a Wells Fargo Almost CD, you get a guaranteed rate and the flexibility to take money out whenever you want with no penalty. Why? Because it's only an Almost CD, not totally, just almost. The CD part locks in the interest rate so you get a secure investment that won't keep you up at night, even in turbulent times. And the Almost part lets you withdraw whenever you want with no penalty. Sound good? Then stop by and see your Wells Fargo banker and ask for the Almost CD.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Nov. 19:
You have an unusual ability to make what you want happen. Your endurance and strength separate you from others. Use your finances to pursue a goal. Know when to re-evaluate decisions. Others often test your limits. Learn to deal with tactful people. If you are single, popularity comes.

physically. If plans need to be changed, suit yourself. Fill in with something you've always wanted to do. By relaxing and expressing an easy attitude, everything works out anyway. Tonight: Go for what you want.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 Sometimes, knowing where your empire ends and where you no longer have control is instrumental to your well-being. A testy partner might encourage you to play ostrich or become a recluse. Don't deal with finances right now. Tonight: Easy works.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Don't take another's behavior personally. Others clearly need space and are out of sorts. You too might like a little less formality and a little more relaxation. Communication flourishes when you are relaxed. Tonight: Think about what another is saying.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
* Though another tests your limits, you might need to establish better give-and-take with this person. Be understanding about a natural shyness or a need to be reclusive. Join friends for a celebration. Good news surrounds your friendships. Tonight: Kick up your heels.

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS OIL AND GAS DIVISION
DISTRICT OFFICE
DATE OF ISSUANCE: October 31, 2000
Rule 37 Case No. 0226508
NOTICE OF APPLICATION
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE MOBIL PRODUCING TX & NE REG. PO BOX 4368, HOUSTON, TX 77210-4358 has made application for a spacing exception permit under the provisions of Railroad Commission Statute Rule 37 (16 Tex. Admin. Code Section 3.37) Applicant seeks exception to distance between wells to horizontal recompletion Well No. 2312H, Parks Field Unit No. 2, 4,897.60 Acres, SL: Sec 8, Bk, 40T3S, T & P RR Co/H.G. Purcell Survey, TL: Sec 13, Bl. 40T-3-S, T & P RR Co. Survey, SL: A-814, TL: A-279, Parks (Devonian) Field(s), Midland County, being 12.5 miles in a east direction of Odessa, Texas. The location of this well is as follows: SL: 2.150' from the west line and 3.287' from the south line of lease. TL: 750' from the east line and 4.387' from the south line of lease. SL: 750' from the east line and 1.730' from the south line of survey. PPy 2.226' from the west line and 3.157' from the south line of lease. As part of this application, applicant also seeks permits authority in the Wildcat field(s). No rule 37(38) is necessary pursuant to the field rules for this field(s). If completed in the Parks (Devonian) field the well will be a horizontal well. If completed in the Wildcat field the well will be a vertical well. Field rules for the Wildcat field are 467/200, 40 acres. Field rules for the Parks (Devonian) field are 660/120, 160 acres. This well is to be drilled to an approximate depth of 12,400 feet. PURSUANT TO THE TERMS OF Rule 37(h) (2) (A), this application may be granted administratively, if no protest to the application is received. An affected person is entitled to protest this application. Affected persons include owners of record and the operator or leasees of record of adjacent tracts and tracts nearer to the proposed well than the minimum lease line spacing distance. If a hearing is called, the applicant has the burden to prove the need for an exception. A protest should be prepared to establish standing as an affected person, and to appear at the hearing either in person or by qualified representative and protest the application with cross-examination or presentation of a direct case. The rules of evidence are applicable in the hearing. If you have questions regarding this application, please contact the Applicant's representative Michael J. Barrella, Regulatory Analyst, at 713-431-1779. If you have any questions regarding the hearing procedure, please contact the Commission at (512) 463-6999. IF YOU WISH TO REQUEST A HEARING ON THIS APPLICATION, AN INTENT TO APPEAR IN PROTEST MUST BE RECEIVED IN THE RAILROAD COMMISSION'S AUSTIN OFFICE BY December 12, 2000 at 5:00 p.m. IF NO PROTEST IS RECEIVED WITHIN SUCH TIME, THE REQUESTED PERMIT MAY BE GRANTED ADMINISTRATIVELY. 2987 November 12, 19, 26 & December 3, 2000

DEAR ABBY: As a child, I adored my grandparents. I couldn't wait until Sundays when we would go to their house and spend all day with them. My grandparents have now passed on, and I have my own children. I now live in a different state and many miles from my family. When I visit my parents, I leave their home with the feeling they felt our time with them was "bother some." My parents wave my kids out side when they would rather stay inside where their grandparents are. They make comments about my children's behavior, such as "too excited" or "they're hyperactive." My children are NOT hyper. They are excited to see family members they haven't seen all year. I thought having grandchildren was something special. Instead, after they spend a mere two hours with us, I get the impression my parents have had enough. They are not old. They are only in their mid-60s. I am tired of traveling halfway across the United States to visit my family and leaving for home feeling we outstayed our welcome. We stay in a hotel and rent our own car. We are doing all we can to make our visits easy for everyone. I am angry and hope this is published in their local newspaper for them to see. What has happened to grandparents today? At one time, grandchildren were a treasure. It breaks my heart. - DISAPPOINTED DAUGHTER, HOPEDALE, MASS.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Your parents are giving you a message you should heed. Whether your children are hyperactive or simply high-spirited, their antics are too much for their grandparents to cope with. It would be wonderful if your parents lived up to your ideal of how they "should" be. However, at this point, they are not likely to change. Harboring anger will not improve the situation. Keep your family visits as short and sweet as possible. Explain to your exuberant children that their grandparents are no longer used to having children around, so they must be on their very best behavior when visiting. Your parents may bond and enjoy a warm relationship with your children when they are older. Hold a good thought. © 2000 UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE
