Thursday for Loraine Redman

The community is invited to a reception honoring Howard County librarian Loraine Redman on Thursday from 2-5 p.m. at the library.

Redman, who came to the local library seven years ago, has accepted a position in Garland, and her last day of work will be Friday, Jan. 12. She will become assistant director for the central library with the Nicholsson Memorial Library.

Among sponsors for the reception honoring Redman is the volunteer group, Friends of the Library, which is organized to support library programs.

The Community Services Coalition – comprised of 12 influential mental health and mental advocacy groups - wants the 77th Legislature to give the green light to the budget presented by the Texas Department of Mental Health Mental Retardation. The 2002-03 budget would increase community services funding, including additional funds to West Texas Centers for MHMR. West Texas Centers for MHMR serves more than 2,200 people with mental health and mental retardation needs each month in 23 West Texas counties. "We need more funding to continue our current level of services and reach even more people in our area," said West Texas Centers for MHMR CEO Shelley Smith, LMSW. "We know there are so many more people who can benefit from our services. But so often, we're restrained by available funding.

Saturday. But more METCALF than that, the group is looking for some good chili.

Anyone is welcome to cook at the event by paying a $15 entry fee per team; a cook's meeting begins at 9 a.m. at the Harley-Davidson Shop. 908 W. Third.

Teams are limited this year to four members each. Each should cook at least 5 pounds of their favorite chili recipe, but leave the beans at home.

"Actually, people can cook beans, but they need to be on the side," explained Ruel Metcalf, new president of HOG. "No beans in the chili.'

Cooks and chili fanatics from all over West Texas are expected to join the event. Last year's Boss HOG brought in a crowd of about 300; this year, a group of at least 30 HOG members from Amarillo are expected.

"The main factor is the weather," Metcalf said. "If it's cool, that's good chili weather. But we don't want it to be too cold."

People who want to eat chili pay $5 each for all they can eat, or $2.50 for children 12 and under. Serving begins after the judging, which starts at 1 p.m. At least 30 judges will be needed as the top chilis go through several rounds of taste testing.

Live music will be provided by The Marauders from 1 until 5 p.m.

Money raised by the event goes into HOG's bank account for use during sevservice eral projects throughout the year.

"This is the only thing we keep all the profits from," said HOG officer Barry

Dr. Manuel Carrasco and his wife, Rina, enjoy having visitors from out of town.

The seven-year residents of Big Spring often entertain guests, especially family members. But their visitors over the last few days were extra special: Rina's favorite aunt, Venecia Rivas and her husband, Carlos, from the Dominican Republic.

Mrs. Rivas was recently appointed to a post as consul to Nicaragua from the Dominican Republic. A personal friend of the president and first lady, Hipolito and Rosa Mejia, she will start her diplomatic duties next week.

"I like living in different countries," said Mrs. Rivas. who will live in Nicaragua during her service. "I enjoy different cultures. I like get- ment place. Asked what she ting to know people and would like to have a million friends.'

Mr. Rivas is working in Central America in his job as a consultant in the area of natural resources. His wife said her main duties will be to improve and develop the relationship between Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic.

"People from Dominican living in Nicaragua, she will be a liaison for them," explained Dr. Carrasco. "She will serve as a bridge, helping to build the community between them."

Before they arrived in Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Rivas visited New York and Boston. During the last few days, they saw much of the Crossroads area.

"I love it here," Mrs. Rivàs said, adding that she is considering it as a retire-

Dr. Carrasco, who grew up in the Dominican Republic, and his wife visit there at least once a year. They said the Caribbean country, adjacent to Haiti, is a popular tourist destination and deservedly so.

"It is a beautiful country, with beautiful beaches,' Mrs. Carrasco said. Its main industries are tourism, sugar cane and baseball, her husband added, noting that Chicago Cubs slugger Sammy Sosa grew up there.

Mrs. Rivas said she is looking forward to her diplomatic position, but plans to stay in close touch with her family as well.

"We see each other as often as we can." she said of the Carrascos.

Dr. Manuel Carrasco, back right, and his wife, Rena, left

The service and riding club has 55 active members who participate in such projects as the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, Veterans Day activities and an annual celebration of the Harley shop's anniversary. HOG members contribute time and money to such projects locally as the Salvation Army Angel Trees.

Metcalf, who started last month as the president, said the group welcomes new members. They can find out more about HOG the first Thursday of each month, when the regular meeting takes place at the Harley shop.

For now, though, members have chili on their minds.

"This is a neat event because it doesn't take that much work ahead of time," Metcalf said. "The cookers do most of the work. And it's a lot of fun for everybody."

their families sat down for exhaustive conferences and felt as if $265 million in additional funding could go a long way and alleviate many of the issues facing this population."

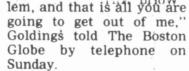

Approximately 23,000 Texans are on waiting lists for assistance from the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. Many of the people with mental illness are not eligible for Medicaid, and those with mental retardation have needs beyond the program. "The coalition felt strong-

The coalition wants lawmakers to replace more. than $35 million lost to the department's shortfall last year so that current services could be continued. About $35 million would expand community mental health services and medications, with a special focus on jail diversion.

Goldings, 64, said he had been hospitalized for psychiatric care, and referred all questions to his lawyer, Steven Brooks, who did not immediately return calls for comment Monday.

Two of Goldings' partners, James B. Cox and Bruce Edmands, said Brooks wrote to their firm to say Goldings retired. is Goldings helped found the firm, Mahoney, Hawkes and Goldings, 40 years ago.

Cox and Edmands told the Globe "a lot of money" from a number of clients remained unaccounted for in the millions of dollars.

Although clients' funds are typically held in accounts maintained by the law firm, Cox said Goldings had set up a separate bank account for his clients' funds. The account is empty, he said.

Cox said he had told local prosecutors about the missing funds and also planned to meet with a representative of the U.S. attorney's office.

He said the first sign of a problem came in mid-November when an outside lawyer reported a client had been unable to retrieve money held by Goldings.

Goldings told the firm in early December that the funds had been deposited abroad at the clients' request, that the money would be returned by later in the month and that the problem involved only three clients.

Escaped convicts: Security among issues most likely to be addressed in review

SAN ANTONIO (AP) -Performance reviews of the how the inmates were able nation's second largest prison system are focusing on lax security in the wake of a breakout by seven heavily armed inmates, accused in a police officer's slaying and the subject of an international manhunt.

In the fifth week of the search for escapees, members of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice were to get a full explanation of the escape. Results of an internal Texas Department of Criminal Justice review were also expected to be released.

But in advance of Thursday's board meeting in Austin, the agency's chairman was already placing some blame for the Connally Unit breakout Dec. 13 near Kenedy.

"The problem at the Connally Unit, I certainly don't believe is systemic," Mac Stringfellow, board chairman, said, "but prudence requires that we take a look at the operation in all our prisons."

In the escape, the inmates took 14 revolvers, a 12-gauge shotgun, a rifle and more than 200 rounds of ammunition after overpowering guards. They later amassed dozens more weapons in a sporting goods store robbery on Christmas Eve during which an Irving police officer was shot to death.

Charles Terrell, a former board chairman, wrote Sunday that Texans have a right to know how inmates in a maximum security facility can steal weapons and drive away in a prison van without being checked.

"Obviously policies and procedures were not followed." Stringfellow said. "If those procedures are followed, an escape cannot occur, but when you get lax, get complacent, this is what can result."

A leaked agency memo described the fugitives' the picnic outside inmates' dining room that preceded their overpowering of a supervisor and guard and the taking of 13 hostages as each returned from their lunches. "Almost a month now after the escape, the questions I asked as a private citizen of Texas ... are still unanswered," Terrell wrote in a letter to the editor of The Dallas Morning News' Sunday editions. "serious incident Α review" expected to be released this week was addressing questions about to mastermind their escape and pull it off.

"A serious incident review is a no holds-barred review that names names and affixes responsibility. It makes recommendations to needed changes if any at the unit, or systemwide, if applicable," TDCJ spokesman Glen Castlebury said.

Meanwhile, Texas law officers continued Monday to sift through 132 tips revived from a nationwide appeal on "America's Most Wanted" program over the weekend. None appeared to provide information that would lead to a quick capture, said Avery Mann, a FOX network program spokesman in Washington, D.C.

But the number of leads was a "high volume for our show," said Mann. "The calls came in from all over. the country. Most of them' were from Texas.'

More than 1,000 leads were received earlier, with some callers reporting they saw the fugitives, but the TDCJ said Monday that they had confirmed no sightings.

Hatch says Bush should pardon Clinton

WASHINGTON (AP) -President-elect Bush should pardon President Clinton, whether indicted or not, to put the scandals of the last eight years behind the nation, says the Republican head of the Senate committee that oversees the federal criminal justice system,

The independent counsel investigating Clinton's conduct in the Monica Lewinsky matter has said a decision about whether to pursue the case against Clinton will come "very shortly" after he leaves office Jan. 20.

"I would pardon him," Sen. Orrin Hatch, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, replied when asked on "Fox News whether Clinton was indicted or not.

"I think it's time to put this to bed. It's time to let President Clinton fade into whatever he's going to fade into, and I just don't see keeping it alive any longer, and I don't think there's a jury in America that is going to convict President Clinton," Hatch said.

"I can't tell Presidentelect Bush what to do and he has every reason not to do that, but I think it would end a problem in America that needs to be ended," he added.

On CNN's "Late Edition," Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., said, ''I don't know what he would be pardoning him

Sunday" if he would do so for, unless the independent counsel brings up charges." A spokesman for the former Texas governor did not return a call seeking comment.

> on Dec. 19. But spokesman Ari Fleischer said the president-elect had noted reports quoting administration officials that Clinton would not seek a pardon from the new president. "We take him at his word," Fleischer added.

At Independent Counsel Robert Ray's request, a federal grand jury in Washington has been hearevidence against ing Clinton.

Based on a report submit-Kenneth Starr, the president was impeached by the House for alleged perjury and obstruction. The Senate acquitted him of obstruction on a 50-50 vote and voted 55-45 against convicting him of perjury. A twothirds majority was necessary for conviction.

Clinton, a lawyer, is facing disbarment proceedings in Arkansas from his sworn testimony in the Paula Jones case, in which he denied having sex with Lewinsky and said he did not recall being alone with her.

The Arkansas Supreme Court Committee on Professional Conduct says Clinton is unfit to practice ted by Ray's predecessor, law because of that testimony.

Settlement reached in woman's suit against Ford

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) on Sunday night. A settlement has been reached in a Texas woman's lawsuit against Ford Motor Co. and Bridgestone/Firestone Inc. for a crippling rollover case, which had been scheduled for jury selection this week. Ford officials today confirmed the CBS News report from Washington. Financial terms of the settlement in Donna Bailey's lawsuit have not been disclosed.

"We are pleased to have resolved this case with Donna Bailey and we extend our sympathies to her and her family," said Susan Krusel, a spokeswoman for Ford in Dearborn, Mich.

She said Ford representatives requested and received the opportunity to meet with Bailey in connection with the settlement to offer their condolences. A repre-

Tuesday. If not for the settlement, Bailey's lawsuit would have been the first involving the highly publicized allegaagainst Ford tions Explorers and Firestone to proceed to trial since a recall of 6.5 million tires.

Mikal C. Watts, a Corpus Christi attorney representing Bailey and her family, and C. Tab Turner, a Little Rock, Ark., lawyer suing the automaker and the tire company, did not return telephone calls Monday from The Associated Press. Bailey and her two chil-

Corpus Christi state district court for more than $100 million.

The August tire recall followed a string of rollover accidents, more than 200 of them fatal, in the United States and several other countries.

Watts told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times in Monday's editions that attorneys for Firestone, Ford and Bailey's family have spent late nights discussing a settlement possibility for the past several davs.

Bailey, who once was a climber rock and weightlifter before her injuries landed her in the rehabilitation center, had said recently that a trial was needed because she wanted "everything to come out.'

Court officials had summoned 100 Nueces County residents to be prospective jurors in the civil trial. Bailey's attorneys had contended that defectively manufactured tires and bad vehicle design were to blame for the wreck.

"The Ford Explorer, on these tires, has rolled over and killed more people than any product in the nation," Watts said. "It is the largest vehicular product liability crisis in the history of this country. There are hundreds of other similarly situated plaintiffs, government safety officials and members of Congress all watching this trial."

But Ford and Firestone representatives had denied the companies were to blame for the crash on U.S. Highway 181 near Poth. Bailey was a passenger in a friend's Ford Explorer during a rock climbing trip to a state park when the wreck occurred after treads on a Firestone tire separated.

Sources familiar with American's plans told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that American Chairman Don Carty will announce the deals Wednesday in New York, where he was scheduled to deliver a speech to the Wings Club, a prestigious gathering of aviation industry officials and Wall Street investors who finance their undertakings. The Star-Telegram and The Dallas Morning News also reported that TWA will file Wednesday for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection the third time it has done so as a precursor of American's takeover. ## Seventeen people injured as propane tanks explode QUENCES, N.M. (AP) - Atruck crashed into a propane tank Sunday, triggering an explosion that sent fireballs a hundred feet into the sky, spread fire to nearby mobile homes and shook buildings miles away. There were no fatalities in the blasts, said police spokesman Officer Willy Kerin. Seventeen people suffered minor injuries.

"We were just very lucky," Kerin said. "We take it for granted, but He was on our side this evening."

The pickup, parked at a gas station, rolled across the street to the Cortez Gas Co. and struck an 18,000-gallon propane tank about 8 p.m. Sunday, State Police spokeswoman Royleen Ross-Weaver said.

The explosion fueled a blast in a second tank holding 2,000 gallons of the flammable gas, police said.

Whether the truck was occupied when it rolled across the street was not known. Police were seeking the vehicle's owner, who apparently left the scene after the blasts.

Kerin said several minutes elapsed from the time the pickup struck the tank and the first blast, and another several minutes elapsed before the second explosion, giving some 200 residents time to flee.

"It was just an instinct to analyst, Julius One Maldutis, said Sunday night that he was "shocked" by American's plans and expects investors to react negatively to the reports, at least until American officials explain the acquisition.

But Vivian Lee, airline analyst at Alliance Capital Management in New York, said she expected American to do something to remain competitive with United, which threatened to secure almost 30 percent of the U.S. market with its planned purchase of US Airways.

To ease antitrust concerns, DC Air would have most of the takeoff and landing slots at Washington's Reagan National Airport now assigned to US Airways.

Of the nation's top airlines, TWA was the only carrier to lose money in $353 million, the 1999 worst financial performance since the airline's second financial reorganization in 1995. It was on pace to do even worse in 2000, despite increasing revenues. Through the first three quarters, TWA lost $115.1 million.

The Post reported that American would purchase all of TWA's assets and keep all 20,000 of the carrier's employees.

The deal would make American, a subsidiary of AMR Corp., a comparable size carrier to the proposed United-US Airways merger. Acquisition of TWA's St.

"This will handle most of the antitrust issues," Darryl Jenkins, a professor at George Washington University told the Post. "This one deal will make the merger of United and US Airways likely.

OUR VIEWS

Care Inn provides good news

e were pleased to learn last week that a verbal agreement has been reached for operation of the Lusk-Sanchez-Lamun Veterans Home in Big Spring. Care Inn Properties Inc. of San Antonio is expected to take over management of the facility within a week to 10 days. It should be open within a month after that.

Care Inn is a small but growing company that currently operates six nursing facilities — four in Texas and two in Arizona.

"We're looking forward to working with the community of Big Spring in serving our veterans," said Charlotte Rogers, the company's vice president of operations.

Rogers said the company relies on "team spirit" and believes strongly in community input. We like that attitude and believe it says something about Care Inn's commitment as well.

The State Veterans Home means a lot to Big Spring. While under construction, the facility provided employment for literally hundreds of workers. And when it opens next month, it will selecting a Cabinet that reflects the diversity of America in terms of race, gender and ethnicity. Moderate Republicans have long urged their party to adopt a big tent, and they're pleased that Bush has delivered on his campaign rhetoric of inclusion. But Pat Robertson and the leaders of the religious right are also smiling, and with good reason. They are the real winners in the Cabinet sweepstakes. Behind the rainbow Bush has presented, the issues that define the GOP's conservative wing are alive and well. Bush promised to represent not just one party, but one nation, yet he has managed to stay true to his conservative base. The moderates that Bush has named inotably New Jersey Governor Whitman to lead the Environmental Protection Agency, are cordoned off in areas where their progressive views are irrelevant and their pro-business inclinations rewarded.

It could be called the Clarence Thomas effect. Former President Bush ensured racial diversity on the Supreme Court by naming Thomas, yet Thomas is more conservative than any number of white men who might have drawn fire for their ideology. Democrats uncomfortable with Thomas' right-wing views admired his personal story of grit and courage, and voted to confirm him despite their misgivings. President-elect Bush has drawn on the experience of his father. His Cabinet nominees are touted for the diversity they bring. His prospective labor secretary, Linda Chavez, is a Hispanic woman who spoke movingly at her introductory press conference of her father, who painted houses, and her mother, who stood long hours working in a department store and restaurant to help support her family. Eight years ago, Republicans ridiculed Bill Clinton for the way he agonized over naming Hispanics, blacks and women to his Cabinet, Clinton's critics dismissed some of the appointees as affirmative action picks, suggesting they were somehow less qualified.

Nobody doubts Chavez's competence; it's her ideology that labor leaders, Hispanic groups and women's groups find troublesome. Republicans are fond of the Martin Luther King Jr. quote that it's the content of one's character that counts, not skin color. But Bush seems to be asking the country to judge him by the surface appearance of his Cabinet, and / not the substantive policies that they represent.

Chavez presents one of the clearest contradictions. Is being the daughter of a Mexican-born father enough to stir grassroots support among Hispanic voters? Or should we listen to the organized groups who point out that Chavez's opposition to affirmative action, her harsh criticism of unions, and her past resistance to an increase in the minimum wage make her unacceptable as the voice of the working family?

Bush hid his party's right-wing advocates during the campaign, staging a convention that bore little resemblance to the makeup of the GOP power structure on Capitol Hill or anywhere else. As minorities, women, and even a gay GOP congressman claimed the stage at the Philadelphia convention, the party's social conservatives muted their objections and rallied behind a brand of conservatism that in many instances they found distasteful.

Bush signaled throughout the campaign that he would not abandon his conservative base, calling Jesus Christ his favorite philosopher and citing conservative Justices Scalia and Thomas as his models. Now he has followed his father's example and advanced diversity except where it counts, in the ideology that shapes the substance and soul of an administration.

Number crunchers offer trove of insight

By RON KAMPERS Guest Columnist

The numbers are in on the 20th century, and the crunchers don't agree on much except this: the future may be brighter than you think, and one of the reasons is the great legacy of the last 100 years: number crunching. The folks who gather and analyze data say that the peculiarly American phenomenon of picking out trends and forecasting their development has enhanced democracy to an immeasurable extent.

"When you set up a constitution that starts with three words, 'We the people,' you better find out how many are there, and what they want," said Ben Wattenberg, one of the authors of "The First Measured Century," an account of the last 100 years viewed with the help of the statistician's s1 rule

The spectacular drop in infant mortality - one in six children to die before their first birthday in 1900, to one in 141 today comes home in a photo of a 1915 Chicago exhibit warning mothers about the perils of alcohol. Out of every 100 mothers who are alcoholics, the exhibit posters warn, between 33 and 72 will lose their children before they turn three. To bring the point home, the posters note the rate among sober mothers: a 24 deaths out of 100, acceptable then and whopping now.

Each author confessed to having preconceptions shaken.

For Wattenberg, who often voices a conservative line on TV, it was the pervasiveness of official racism toward immigrants from the turn of the century until the 1920s. Government officials relied on such questionable data as skull measurements and culturally biased intelligence tests to determine immigration levels, and to allot employment. "The racism was unbelievable," said Wattenberg. "It almost made me a liberal.13

Caplow cited his research in Muncie showing parentchild relations had vastly improved - instead of declined - over the century, a repudiation of "generation gap" worries.

"Almost all the parents interviewed in 1924 had grown up on farms," he said, and when he took over "Middletown" in 1974, most of the parents had undergone wartime experiences. Now, he said, "parents and children overwhelmingly share the same cultural experiences."

Wattenberg, who hosts the PBS series "Think Tank," says looking at numbers raises the level of political debate. "You keep your eye on the numbers, and see what's making sense, but there is always a dynamic and an argument," he said.

Howard College's Grace Gantt (40) prepares to drive the baseline against Wayland Baptist University's junior varsity during a Nov. 1 game. Gantt scored 19 points Sunday in leading the Lady Hawks to an 82-32 win over the Air Force Academy's Lady Falcons in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Ravens upend Tennessee; advance to face Oakland

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Brian Billick and his Baltimore Ravens may not like the Tennessee Titans. But they're not above following the Titans' example from last season — going on the road as a wild-card team to get to the Super Bowl.

"When you go into the lion's den, you don't tiptoe in. You go in screaming like a banshee," Billick said after the Ravens upset the Titans 24-10 Sunday despite getting just 134 yards of offense and having the b. 1 less than 20 minutes.

In a way it was typical of this Baltimore team, which goes to Oakland next Sunday to play for a shot at representing the AFC in the Super Bowl. This is, after all, a team that didn't score a touchdown in five games in October but somehow managed to win two of them because it has the NFL's stingiest defense. It was the leader of that defense, Ray Lewis, who did the job Sunday. Lewis, the league's defensive player of the year, not only led the Ravens with 12 tackles, but got his first career touchdown, grabbing the ball away from Eddie George and racing 50 yards for the score that put the Titans ahead by two TDs.

That came about five minutes after Keith Washington blocked his second field goal of the game. It popped in the air to Anthony Mitchell, a third-string safety and former NFL Europe player, who took it 90 yards untouched to break a 10-10 tie and give the Ravens (14-4), their ninth straight win.

"I can't get over what a good football team this is," said quarterback Trent Dilfer, whose arrival as the starter coincides with the streak

"We just continue to find ways to get the job done and pride ourselves on it. If somebody needs to step up to make a play, they do."

Dilfer had an awful day statistically: 5-of-16 for 117 yards. But 56 of those yards came in the second quarter on a pass to a wide-open Shannon Sharpe, who took the ball to the 1. Jamal Lewis took it in to tie it 7all.

But two Titans had worse days.

One was Dainon Sidney, who got 40 yards in penalties on special teams at critical times in the game.

The other was Al Del Greco, one of the most reliable kickers in NFL history. He had two attempts blocked by Washington and hit the left upright with a 31-yard attempt just before the half.

playoff history that started in 1934 — and Jason Sehorn returned an acrobatic interception for another score, giving the Giants a 17-0 lead.

Donovan McNabb, second in the NFL MVP voting, once again couldn't solve the Giants. In three losses to them this season, the Eagles (12-6) never led.

"He's a great young quarterback, but this defense caused him problems for three games," linebacker Jessie Armstead said. "He spent 12 games killing other teams, but not us.'

McNabb completed 20 of 41 passes for 181 yards, with one interception and one late, meaningless touchdown with less than two minutes left after the Eagles blocked the punt. More importantly, the Giants sacked one of the NFL's best running quarterbacks six times for 41 yards in losses, and he scrambled for just 17 yards.

"If you can make him throw before he's ready, you're going to have some success," said defensive end Michael Strahan, who had two of the sacks.

As coach Jim Fassell explained before the game, "You don't have to try to kill the guy. You have to capture him.'

The Giants (13-4) have and they seem uncertain whether they want to be taken seriously. After all, they are one game from reaching the Super Bowl with nearly everyone taking them for granted.

"We're not trying to please anyone," linebacker Micheal Barrow said "Forget what anyone says, forget how many we have in the Pro Bowl. We just win.'

For the record, the Vikings have seven Pro Bowl Players and the Giants two (Armstead and guard Ron Stone), and despite Barrow's protest, they are likely to be reminded of that during the next week.

"We're just fortunate that everybody plays badly when we play them, because we're not a very good football team," Sehorn said sarcastically.

Sehorn and Dixon made backbreaking plays in the first half for the Giants, who will make their first NFC title game appearance since 1990.

Dixon was barely touched on his 97-yard return of the opening kickoff, with kicker David Akers managing to scrape Dixon's shoulder pads as he ran by

The Giants made it 10-0 on Brad Daluiso's 37-yard field goal on the first play of the second quarter, but both offenses had trouble moving the ball.

Ward returns to action and wins, Hardaway not as lucky

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Charlie Ward's return from injury went much better than Penny Hardaway's.

Ward played for the first time after arthroscopic knee surgery Nov. 26 knocked him out for 21 games and scored seven points in the New York Knicks' 103-87 home victory Sunday night over the Washington Wizards.

New York held an opponent under 100 points for the 28th straight time tying an NBA record — and won its seventh straight.

Hardaway, who missed the first 31 games while recovering from knee surgery, shot 4-for-10 for nine points but the Phoenix Suns lost 108-88 to the Minnesota 'Timberwolves at home.

"I don't think they expected a lot from me, but I expected a lot from myself," said Hardaway, who also had three rebounds and three assists. "When I got out there I was more fatigued than I thought I'd be. ... I look down there and see I played 24 minutes and it felt like

In other NBA games, Toronto 94, Vancouver 120, Denver 94, Charlotte 87; and Los Angeles Clippers 118, Los Angeles Lakers 95. Ward had four assists in 23 minutes and scored five straight points on a 3-pointer and a short pull-up jumper midway through the third quarter that gave the Knicks a 72-55 lead

But with all their recent success, New York coach Jeff Van Gundy still wasn't satisfied.

"I'm being serious, the defense was awful," Van Gundy said. "It's a nice achievement, but one thing you can't do when you win is overlook your slippage, and there has been huge slippage with us defensively.

Phoenix coach Scott Skiles also wasn't too pleased with his team's performance, but he had more glaring areas to point at than Van Gundy.

Minnesota shot 52 percent, a season-high for Phoenix opponents, to break a four-game road losing streak. It was the Timberwolves' first win in Phoenix in five games. Anthony Peeler had a season-high 28 points and a career-high 10 rebounds, and Terrell Brandon had 19 points and six steals for the Timberwolves.

Jason Kidd scored 20 points for Phoenix but committed 10 turnovers. Tony Delk scored 17. Rookie Jake Tsakalidis had his second consecutive 10-point game and had eight rebounds.

Clippers 118, Lakers 95

Lamar Odom scored a season-high 29 points and the Clippers defeated their crosstown rival for the first time in nearly four years.

The Clippers outshot and outrebounded the defending NBA champions to end a 16-game losing streak against their Staples Center roommates. They beat the Lakers for the first time since March 14, 1997, at the Forum.

The Lakers had won three straight and eight of their last nine, but the Clippers shot 56 percent and controlled the boards, 47-33.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, Jan. 9, 2001

You have many options this year, but you could often be torn by opposing points of view. Think through a decision that involves a major relationship. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average: 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) **** You could be pulled in many different directions. You might not exactly be sure about which way to go with a loved one or a family member. Take an important step toward security. Tonight: Make a favorite meal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ***** Keep communication going. You might not always agree with others right now. You might be more detached than many, but events and people in general try to pull you in. Make decisions that are ultimately important for you. Tonight: Catch up on mail

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) *** Use special care with your finances. Others seem to be making demands left and right. Decide just how far you are going to be pushed. Your sixth sense helps you with a financial decision. Tonight: Handle your finances. Pay bills.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)***** The moon makes you today's star. You might not like being the lead actor, but you will need to assume this role for now. Count on your magnetism. Tonight: It's your call.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

*** Move slowly with others. You might be uncomfortable with news. Maintain responsibilities. You see a developing situation a lot differently than others do. Don't try to force your view on others. Tonight: Remember, you don't have to do anything.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ***** Focus on what you want. You could get it when you Syndicate Inc.

Dad's two month visit no vacation for family

least expect it. You might sense a change among your immediate friends. Discussions need to be amiable. Tonight: Togetherness works

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) **** Though a lot might be pulling at you, stay in charge. Don't lose your centering, despite uproar on the home front. Say goodbye to the status quo. Tonight: Work late.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ***** Your strength comes from an overview, not an immediate gut reaction. Keep seeking new reactions. Reach out for someone at a distance. Change might be necessary. Tonight: Openly listen to a partner's point of view.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

***** Listen carefully to another. Build on a relationship. Indulge an associate or partner. Carefully review what is going on with a loved one. Others flock toward you. Tonight: Opt for togetherness. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

***** Defer to others - not that you will have a choice. How you see a situation could change considerably because of new information and your own ingenuity. A child or loved one needs to be included in plans. Tonight: Do something you love.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

***** Reach out for someone and be more nurturing with a child or loved one. Make family an even higher priority. Tonight: Do something you love

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ***** Where others fall flat, you come up with a wonderfully playful idea. Trust what is happening with a child or loved one. Let your sense bf humor come into play in a conversation. Tease another through a bad mood. Tonight: Go for fun.

DEAR, ABBY: My wife I'm out Dad picks up the and I-were turn and raised; phone and proceeds to dis-in the Midwest and now cuss his vacation plans with my clients. As I stated before, he's not a bad person, but frankly, I'm no longer able to enjoy his visits. I dread Dad's visits as the time draws near, and I'm miserable the entire time - counting down to the day he leaves. I wish I didn't feel this way, but

My wife would never admit to her father that his

DEAR HAD ENOUGH

I'm printing your letter, but hoping that your father-in-law sees it and recognizes himself will not be enough.

The solution to your problem lies in you and your wife behaving like adults, stiffening your backbones

and discussing this issue openly with him. If Dad plans to remain longer than two weeks, he really should consider renting a nearby apartment so he can entertain to his heart's content.
