Community comes together in prayer

Paticipants in Thursday's National Day of Prayer event were encouraged by a "coming together" of the community in unity and in a time of giving thanks.

"It was a great celebration and an indication of how prayer works in the community and it was a great gathering of ministers and a great turnout of citizens,' said Big Spring Mayor Russ McEwen. "It's so encouraging to see the citizens of Big Spring turn out for these events and especially when it centers around what prayer means to our community.

More than 150 area residents attended the gathering at the Heart of The City Park for the time of prayer and song that enabled individuals a time in which all faiths could come together

Roger Huff, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, said he was pleased with both the turnout and the oneness of those in attendance.

"I think it was a great turnout," said Huff. "Once again I am pleased with the people that were here today. I think that as we continue to do this and continue to be aware that as a church community we just need to pray and seek God for our country we are going to see some changes in our community. We do have some cracks in our country and in our community but I believe there is. a new day in America and in our church and I am eager to ;reach out and fill some of those cracks up."

Everett Bender, pastor of Christian Training Center and one of the organizers of the event, said he was "The building was built dead center over a canyon,' said Furgueron.

Furgueron said that regardless of the outcome of the lawsuit, decisions have to be made to protect the building.

Fraser disputed the building was built directly over a canvon.

"The engineers have gone back to old photos and taken the canyon and superimposed it over the junior Fraser "Actually about 15 percent is over the canyon, mostly in the east."

Fraser said that according to surveys by the district, the building has shown no movement in several weeks. He said he was on the committee to build the building and wants to make sure the district will not lose the building.

Mike Dawson said he believes the board took correct action and followed the direction of the professionals. He also mentioned the building has not moved in the last several weeks.

Sharp said the junior high is a problem on the minds of many community residents and some "massive mistakes" were made in the construction of the building. "We have to look forward and find solutions to this problem," Sharp said. Sharp said he did not have the solution but wanted to be part of the process. School funding was the subject of some questions with all candidates admitting the school district will have to make some difficult situations.

Loss of population and resulting loss of funding from the state has caused the school board to continue to make cuts in the budget, Fraser said.

The candidates all agreed that an academically strong school district is an integral part of promoting the town to bring back population and business

Another school funding question dealt with the Robin Hood act where chapter 41 schools, considered rich school districts, are required to share some funding to poorer districts.

A lawsuit is currently in the courts filed by some wealthy school districts against the act, an outcome that could impact BSISD funding.

"Big Spring is at 50 percent state funding," Fraser said. "It is right in the middle and (losing funding) would not hurt us as much but it would hurt us.'

Area West Texas schools may have to consider consolidating schools in order to survive if the districts loss more funding, a prospect Fraser said most school district want to Furqueron said school districts in West Texas will suffer due to the loss of funding if the Robinhood act is cut and district administrators will have to make some difficult decision down the road.

Dawson said the state funding formula will be changed in the 2003 state legislation session. Currently the district's funds are made up of about 50 percent state funds, 45 percent local and 5 percent federal funds, Dawson said.

Dallas man suspected of killing daughters has history of family violence

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) -Mary Jean Pearle and John David Battaglia had a rocky and violent relationship even after their marriage soured and long before he was accused of shooting to death their two young daughters.

Pearle, 38, had a protective order against him but lived in fear of what Battaglia might do to them, according to a string of police reports made since their 1999 separation.

In a phone call that foreshadowed the gruesome deaths of 6-year-old Liberty Battaglia and 9-year-old Faith Battaglia, their father last year apologized.

"I'm sorry for whatever may be coming down the ed for the Christmas Day, ing, authorities were road for you," he said in a 1999 assault that left Pearle preparing to ask a judge to taped phone call. "It may be very bad."

The 45-year-old accountant accused in the Wednesday night shooting deaths of his daughters, had a history of domestic violence and was being prosecuted for violating terms of a domestic violence case settlement that barred him from contacting Pearle.

The girls' mother sought the protective order against her ex-husband after a barrage of harassing phone calls and at least one physical assault at her Highland Park home, where she lived with her daughters.

After Battaglia was arrest-bloody and bruised, she told police that her former husband was "on edge and could be capable of anything" and that he had numerous handguns in his possession.

The violence came to a Wednesday night when Pearle was arguing on the phone with Battaglia who was to have taken his daughters to dinner — from her home in the Dallas suburb of Highland Park when she heard five shots.

Pearle heard one of the girls say, "No, Daddy, no, Daddy, no," before she heard gunshots. At the time of the shootrevoke Battaglia's two-year probation for the 1999 assault on his wife, court records show. The request, filed Thursday morning, alleged that Battaglia had violated conditions of the probation. He faced the possibility of a year in jail.

After hearing the gunshots over the phone, Pearle contacted Highland Park police. They called Dallas officers, who broke into Battaglia's Dallas loft apartment and found the girls' bodies, along with numerous handguns, shotguns and rifles. Witnesses told police that Battaglia was seen leaving the complex in a black nightclubs in the Deep marriage. Ellum entertainment district several blocks from the loft spotted a truck that matched the description of Battaglia's vehicle shortly after 1 a.m. Thursday. Battaglia, who had been at a tattoo parlor, returned to the vehicle for cigarettes and was arrested after a short struggle. A loaded pistol was recovered from the vehicle. Officers discovered that Battaglia had just had two tattoos of flowers inked onto his left arm in what they believe symbolized the two girls. Battaglia's right arm already featured their

Search for girl centers on Seguin area

SAN ANTONIO (AP) Texas and Louisiana believe a serial kidnapper may be snatching young girls and hiding them in a shack in South Central Texas. An 11year-old Houston girl is the latest to be reported miss-search centered The Thursday on an area near Seguin. Officers are trying to find a shack that matches the description given by a San Antonio girl and a suburban New Orleans girl who were mysteriously returned to their families after their abductions. "He is picking children of this particular age group that he has focused on, and his violence is increasing as he goes along," San Antonio police Lt. Cozette Fogus said as the search for 11-year-old Leah Henry of Houston con-

Protest set for McVeigh execution

SPENCER, Ind. (AP) a fluorescent-lit barn 40 miles from a federal penitentiary, Glenda Breeden applies paint to 14-foot-tall papier-mache puppets of Uncle Sam and Jesus.

Breeden and dozens of her friends plan to cart the garish puppets to the prison in Terre Haute for use in demonstrations against the May 16 execution of Oklahoma City bomber Timothy McVeigh.

For the first federal execution in nearly four decades, Uncle Sam will wear a banner that reads: "Stop Me Before I Kill Again." A sign on the Jesus puppet will ask: "What Would Jesus Do?"

"It's something visible," Breeden said. "It gets a lot of people's attention."

Similar preparations are happening elsewhere across the country as demonstrators get ready to descend on the U.S. Penitentiary. On execution day, 20 prison buses will transport demonstrators from city parks to the prison grounds.

Tents will be put up on the grassy field outside the prison to shelter demonstrators, and straw bales will provide limited seating. Warden Harley Lappin has met with state and national anti-death penalty groups, explaining detailed rules they must follow.

TO THE EDITOR:

The Permian Basin Square and Round Dance Association recently hosted the Texas State Federation Square and Round Dancers at Conclave 2001. This is one of four state meetings held each year. These meetings bring dancers from all over the state. While they were here, revenue was distributed around our city at restaurants, 100 motel rooms, approximately 25 camping sites and shopping at other businesses. Without the help of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, bringing a meeting of this size to our city would have been very difficult.

We want to thank the Herald, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Dorothy Garret Coliseum, Director Stan Feaster, Best Western Motel, KWES-TV, Channel 9, local merchants for their donation of door prizes and items for goodie bags and RSVP volun-

Our Saturday night dance was special, as Mayor Russ McEwen welcomed everyone to Big Spring, Jackie Henry sang the national anthem and Boy Scout Troop 5 posted the flags.

Some two years ago, we first talked with the CVBC, and they were very excited to bid for a convention of 300. Andrea Earle was very helpful at that time and we were very pleased to work with Andi-Andrews York. These two ladies were very good at their jobs.

Last, but by no means least, our local Big Spring Square Dance Club members pitched in and went to work and supported us.

Middle East peace process is dead t is vain for people to keep saying "Renew the peace talks." The peace process in the Middle East is dead. Kaput. Finished.

People should take Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon at his word. In recent interviews, he has made it clear: There will be no permanent agreement with the Palestinians; all Jewish settlements remain; the Golan Heights and East Jerusalem belong to Israel; and no Palestinian refugees will be allowed to return or be eligible for compensation. Can people not understand plain Hebrew translated into plain English? The peace process is dead. Sharon and a majority of Israelis don't want peace. They want the territory they have, and they want a defeated, despairing and docile Palestinian population living in the Jewish equivalent of Bantustans under a Jewish form of apartheid.

If they wanted peace, they wouldn't have killed 410 Palestinians, wounded more than 20,000 and destroyed God knows how many homes, businesses and orchards.

They would not have continued to expand settlements. They would not have continued to violate the Fourth Geneva Convention and defy some 60-plus United Nations resolutions. They would not have blamed the victims. They would not have used snipers to shoot children throwing stones. The count of dead Palestinian children currently stands at 70. They would not have employed assassins to murder any Palestinian they decided they wanted to kill. So what's going to happen? It's simple: The Palestinians will continue to suffer and die and will continue to try to kill as many Israelis as their limited means permit. What you have is the military occupation by regional superpower of a largely unarmed population. It is similar to the German occupation of Europe in World War II. It's ironic, bitterly so, that it is the Israelis who are analogous to the German army. But Palestinians, like people everywhere and for all time, have the right to resist military occupation by a foreign power. What you are seeing are the final acts of European colonialism being played out in Palestine, which was never Europe's to give away in the first place.

This will go on until Sharon's need for enemies provokes a regional war or until the conscience of individual Americans is aroused. The key to peace

RISING.

Washington, not Jerusalem. It is our government that empowers the Israeli government to defy international law and human decency. Israel's government wouldn't last six months without American backing, and its members know that.

The old canard that the Israelis and Palestinians must settle their differences themselves is just an Israeli-dictated ploy to make sure nobody interferes with their treatment of the Palestinians. It's the same as if the police told a victim of child rape to go work with the rapist.

There can never be negotiations between a strong party and a powerless party. To pretend otherwise is to engage in public deception. For years, Israelis would say that force is the only language the Palestinians understand. Now the Palestinians are saying the same thing about the Israelis. If you love violence, then get a satellite dish, and you can watch the Israelis inflict violence on the Palestinians on Arab television indefinitely.

You might not like this, but the lives of 2 million Palestinians, many of them children, depend on us. Their deaths will be on our conscience.

They do not have the power to stop the Israelis from occupying their land and brutalizing them. Our president and our Congress do. But they are afraid of the Israeli loboy. Therefore, if we do not give the American politicians some backbone by letting them know that Americans are tired of being accessories to Israeli aggression, the Palestinians' misery will be unending.

I TOLP YOU WE

Think about what it is like to be poor in a devastated lar dscape with no hope of relief.

Then think about what it's like to be blinded or paralyzed by an Israeli bullet w th utterly no safety

The Palestinian people do not deserve what is happening to them.

Their plight puts us in the uncomfortable position o' standing either by the innocent victims or by the oppressors.

There is no longer any neutral ground for people with a ounce of morality left in them. One way or another, we will all have to choose. "Never send to know for whom the bell tolls; It tolls for thee," said poet John Donne.

Indeed it does, for with every Palestinian death a little bit of our own souls will die as long as we do nothing, say nothing, think nothing, as if we could hide from our own conscience.

The most damned will be those in Washington who let their own fears and lust for the comfortable position condemn a whole people to a hellish existence when all along they had the power to relieve them with simply a frown and a stern word.

Up in the air without a flight plan nybody who flies has a horror story to tell. Crowded flights, delays and surly behavior are part of today's flight experience. And it's going to get worse. We're just short of 70 million passengers today; by 2010, that number will reach one billion. Any other industry experiencing phenomenal growth would be planning ahead. But the major airlines, the states and localities responsible for building airports, and the federal government that oversees the country's transportation system are sleepwalking through the problem. "It's a dysfunctional family," says Transportation Secretary

Norman Mineta. "Everybody is pointing fingers at one another.' That's not surprising. Doing something about the strained air system requires extraordinary fortitude. It takes an average of 20-25 years to get a new airport constructed, and 7-10 years for a new runway. Mineta was a member of Congress from California in 1981 chairing the House Aviation subcommittee when it recommended two new runways to ease congestion in the Chicago area. The concrete was never poured. In the entire country, Mineta says there is only one new airport on the horizon. The site being explored is 80 miles from Chicago, requires environmental impact studies on cities in three states, and is way in the future, if ever. Some airlines have solved overcrowding by diverting flights from major airports into so-called "reliever airports," typically under-subscribed secondary airports. Southwest flies into Oakland, for example, bypassing the busy San Francisco airport. San Francisco Mayor Willie Brown has been lobbying hard for a new runway, and he told Mineta that he'd name it the "Mineta Runway" if the Transportation Secretary could make it happen quickly

"We're going to start pouring that sucker tomorrow!," Mineta says, laughing and wishing it were that easy. "It requires 40 acres of fill in the San Francisco Bay. That's a big project," he says. "The word 'quickly' becomes relative.

As the only Democrat in President Bush's Cabinet. Mineta is the administration's point man in dealing with the labor unions that are threatening to disrupt travel this spring and summer.

He concedes that he sometimes feels "uncomfortable" in Cabinet meetings because of the conservative direction of the policy discussions, but that so far he has been satisfied with Bush's stance on transportation issues. Mineta combines a low-key manner with an insider's knowledge of the bureaucratic game, having previously served in former President Clinton's Cabinet as Commerce Secretary. When Bush budgeteers cut $331 million for airport improvement programs, Mineta reminded them that President Bush had told him to "keep aviation off the front page." The money was restored Bush is not looking for big and bold ideas for government intervention, but Mineta is moving quietly to ease some of the coming crunch. He wants to relax anti-trust rules so airlines can adjust their schedules to stagger departure and arrival times. He suggests that airlines might offer a 15-percent discount for travel between 11 and 3 to help spread the passenger load, which is at its peak in the morning and late afternoon hours.

Mineta also noticed that the number of weather delays have increased dramatically since 1998, when new technology allowed air traffic controllers to superimpose weather radar on their screens. Mineta suspects that controllers are reluctant to direct a plane toward an area where it might encounter less than desirable weather condi-

Having sat in the jump seat and watched pilots steer around thunderheads, Mineta has asked the FAA "to take a look to see whether we're being too overly cautious.

A piece of friendly political advice: with 80,000 flights a day in the United States, take it from a passenger: There's no such thing as being overly cautious.

Through the Valley

Though I Walk Through the Valley," Vance Havner describes a very difficult time in his life, when his wife became ill and eventually died. They had been married for 33 wonderful years. In his book he is very open about what he went through, his feelings and also his thoughts. It was a difficult time in his life, yet in spite of going through and facing all that heartache, Vance Havner was able to walk through that valley with the help of the Lord Jesus Christ. In the Bible, God's Word, Rev. Havner found many precious promises concerning the Christian and his or her final destination, Heaven. Precious promises that give hope, joy, and peace to the believer in Jesus It is sometimes hard for you and I to realize that life on this earth is just a stepping stone into eternity. We forget that as the apostle Paul wrote, "our citizenship is in Heaven." For the Christian, his or her real home is Heaven. Life does not end for the Christian when they die, the adventure is really just beginning.

I serve a risen Savior. Jesus Christ. He has defeated death and He has conquered the grave. God's Word proclaims that those who trust in Jesus Christ as their Lord and Savior do not have to fear death and the grave. Because Jesus lives, we too shall

One of my favorite scripture passages is in he Gospel of John. There Jesus says, "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son that whoever believes in Him shall not perish, but have everlasting life.' If you believe in, trust in, cling to and rely upon Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior, He is faithful to save and keep you.

Jesus walked with Vance Havner through the valley of sadness and sorrow. There were times he felt alone, but he knew that his Lord was with him. After he wrote the book, Rev. Havner received cards, letters and calls from many people who read his book. They shared with him that the Lord had given them comfort and encouragement through his story for they too were walking through the valley.

Have you been going through a valley? Are you struggling with sadness and sorrow? There is One who wants to help, encourage and love you. His name is Jesus Christ. He cares for you. His Church, the family of God, cares for you too. There are many good churches in our area filled with people who will love you and help you.

Tina Wesson proves to be the final 'Survivor' on hit CBS program

NEW YORK (AP) — She wasn't the most athletic. Nor was she a villain. But Tennessee nurse Tina Wesson is $1 million richer anyway after winning "Survivor: The Australian Outback."

In a grand finale that combined hokey entertainment with old-fashioned suspense Thursday night, Wesson won the television game show by a 4-3 vote over Texan heartthrob Colby Donaldson.

CBS, ultimately, was the biggest winner.

Wesson was described by fellow contestants as both a sweet mother of two and a ruthless schemer. The truth, she said, was that she was a little of both.

"You've got to have balance in life," she said.

Wesson, a last-minute alternate selection to go to Australia, owes her victory to a final miscalculation by Donaldson. After Donaldson won his fifth straight immunity challenge, he had to choose between Wesson and Keith Famie, the Michigan chef, as his final competitor. He sent Famie packing.

Donaldson's consolation prize: $100,000.

"I haven't lost one night of far. It was using her brain.

Colby's Christoval fans disappointed by his loss

CHRISTOVAL (AP) -The luster of Colby teaches Donaldson hasn't faded a bit in his hometown, although he finished second and lost out on the $1 million prize in "Survivor: The Australian Outback."

Residents in this West Texas town are proceeding with plans for a "Colby Donaldson Day," including a special cancellation stamp in his honor. Folks say they hope he visits

"I think Colby's still a survivor, and he's always going to be our celebrity,'

More than 50 people one-fifth of the town's population of 250 - watched the show's finale at Grant's home, where tiki torches burned throughout the evening. The crowd, mostly teen-agers, munched on pizza and a cake decorated with the "Survivor" logo.

Girls squealed when the 27-year-old handsome appeared on the screen, and all chattering stopped when he spoke.

She's a smart woman and I think she deserves it."

Donaldson won the show's final immunity challenge narrowly over Wesson. It was a trivia quiz about fellow "Survivor" contestants. Just as the second "Survivor" wasn't quite the ratings phenomenon it was last summer, the final episode lacked indelible moments like Susan Hawk's "rats and snakes" speech last summer. Wesson also wasn't nearly the polarizing force as original "Survivor" winner Richard Hatch.

Yet the show was still a strong ratings performer, and enabled CBS to become the first TV network to seriously challenge NBC for ratdominance Thursday nights in nearly two decades.

CBS again managed to keep secret the final winner. This time, CBS trusted fewer people, counting the votes in a live portion of Thursday's telecast. Even Wesson didn't know until then she had won.

Back in Knoxville, Wesson's grandparents, uncles, aunts and cousins gathered at a Mexican restaurant with other fans to watch the finale on a bigscreen television.

Wesson's aunt, Woods, said her niece has "the sweetest personality. Her nickname is Sunshine. She has just always had a sunshine disposition. She could make lemons into lemonade.'

Mavericks rally late in fourth to take game five, series

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Often this season, the Utah Jazz built double-digit leads, then got lazy on defense and watched them vanish.

Not surprisingly, it also happened in the NBA playoffs as the Dallas Mavericks rallied from double-digit deficits in all five games and advanced to the second round.

Michael Finley scored 33 points and Calvin Booth hit the go-ahead layup with 9.8 seconds left as the Mavericks beat the Jazz 84-83 Thursday night in the decisive fifth game of the first-round series.

"This is very special to come here in Game 5, in a hostile environment, and win this game," forward Juwan Howard said. "Having poise remarkable comeback."

Remarkable because Dallas, in the playoffs after an 11-year absence, became the sixth team in NBA history to survive the first round after trailing 2-0. The Mavericks open the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinals Saturday at San Antonio. The Jazz ended the regular season in a slide, and it carried over to the postseason. Utah finished 10-11 after building the West's top winning percentage with a 19-6 record in January and February.

The fourth period of Game 5 epitomized Utah's late-season funk.

The Mavericks trailed 46-31 with 1:01 before halftime and 71-57 after the third quarter. Dallas trimmed it to 77-76 with a 15-2 run in the fourth.

"We never stopped fighting," said Dirk Nowitzki, who scored 18 points. "As far behind as we got, we knew from the previous games we see DALLAS, page 2B could come back."

Booth, acquired in a February trade with Washington, got free behind Donyell Marshall and Karl Malone to give the Mavericks then lead for good.

"I never thought I would be a hero. I just wanted to give us a little boost," Booth said.

Steve Nash, scoreless through three periods, hit two 3-pointers in the fourth-quarter burst, the second pulling the Mavericks to 77-76 with 6:17 remaining. He tied it at 79 on another 3-pointer with 4:03 to play.

Spurs preparing for Texas showdown during long break

SAN ANTONIO (AP) -The San Antonio Spurs know it's unlikely they will coast through the postseason like they did two years

The Spurs, who went 15-2 on their way to the NBA title in 1999, found out Thursday night they will play the Dallas Mavericks in the second round, beginning Saturday.

"I don't-think any of us expects the same results we had last time," David Robinson said. "To say you're going to go to the second and third rounds and sweep the teams, that's ridiculous.

'These teams are good," he said.

The Mavs won their last three games against Utah, including Thursday night's 84-83 upset, for a 3-2 series victory. San Antonio wrapped up its opening series against Minnesota 3-1 Monday night.

The Spurs know a little and you have the best bit about what to expect record in the league, and from the Mavericks, who they beat in three of four regular-season games this vear.

Forward Malik Rose called them "the feisty, young, athletic and talented Dallas Mavericks.

Dallas has menacing scorers at point guard (Steve Nash) and small forward (Dirk Nowitzki) - weak defensive positions for San Antonio.

This time around, the Spurs have experience at what it takes to win a championship.

'We can relax a little bit more in the sense that we know we can get there," Robinson said. "That experience makes a big difference, especially once the game starts going and things don't go your way. We've overcome quite a few things. We know we can overcome some of the challenges.

The Spurs expect bigger from things Anderson, playing his first year with the Spurs. Anderson finished his first season with San Antonio averaging 15.5 points, second only to Tim Duncan. The 6-foot-5 guard brought needed athleticism to the team. But then came some problems: four first-quarter turnovers in Game 1 against Minnesota, forgetting to jump on a jump ball in Game 3 and going 0-for-4 from the field in Game 4.

The Spurs still won the series, and now Anderson and others say he's ready for his first appearance in the second round. "He was probably nervous at the beginning of the first round," Spurs coach Gregg Popovich said. "You come in here and play with 35,000 fans in this Alamodome, there's all kinds of expecta tions. "But that wore off after a game or two, and now he's just back to playing.' Actually, Anderson did come back in a big way toward the end of Game 1 making two huge threepoint plays to help San Antonio to an 87-82 victory. In Game 4, when he was hounded by double teams, Anderson led the Spurs with six assists.

"People have put a big emphasis on him because he's been a big scorer for us, so he's just doing now what Tim Duncan does when they decide to doubleteam him," Popovich said. "He played great defense on Anthony Peeler, really set him down.

"He played a great all-

Bulldogs, Bulldogettes set for playoff matchups

In a round about way, excellence is expected from Coahoma's softball and baseball teams. After the regular season, the Bulldogs finished 13-9 in second place in District 3-2A play while the Bulldogettes finished 14-10 after meeting a number of 4A and 5A teams this season.

for today's matchup. They worked tune different areas and work on the proper mechanics of hitting. For the boys they'll face one of the top teams out of District 4-2A.

"Post hits the ball pretty well and they have decent pitching," said coach Brad Hart. "We have been polishing up our defense, making sure we're sharp on the field."

The Bulldogs have a young team with only two seniors, Luke Bowlin and Travis McMillian. But they Post Antelopes and the softball team out with about 15 stations to fine have a scrappy team and Kelby Kemper, who was pulled up from the junior varsity after only three games, has had a nice season for the Bulldogs.

Texas Tech going to Houston HOUSTON (AP) - Texas Houston have agreed to play

Tech athletic director Gerald Myers says one of coach Bob Knight's goals for his team was to play in Houston.

Knight can mark that goal off Dec. 14 when the Red Raiders join Houston, Tulsa and Texas A&M for a basketball doubleheader at the Compaq Center.

Tech will play Houston while Texas A&M plays Tulsa.

"When Bob became our coach, we talked about the basketball schedule and one of the things we both agreed on — we would like to renew some rivalries with Southwest old Conference opponents," Myers told Houston television station KRIV.

Myers said Tech and each other for the next four years. The four-game series will begin in Lubbock in 2002. "We're doing the same thing with TCU and SMU and we wold also like to do the same thing with Rice,' Myers said. Houston coach Ray McCallum played against Knight's Indiana teams when he was at Ball State and then coached against him at Ball State.

McCallum says going against Knight wasn't much fun.

"He beat me. I didn't like that," McCallum said. "When you go against Coach Knight you know you're going against one of the best.'

around game, and that was just as important to us in winning as if he'd gotten 20 points. Other people scored because of what he was doing and moving the ball out there."

Anderson had hardly been double-teamed all year, and wasn't used to it.

"Every time I came off a screen, they were doubleteaming, Kevin Garnett was there, the big guys. I couldn't go past them, so I had to pass," he said. "And the good thing about me is, I made those extra passes.'

And he knows he'll have a lot more chances to score. With 7-footers Duncan and Robinson on his team, Anderson should have open shots and chances to penetrate.

"I definitely have to be aggressive," he said. "Coach is putting the ball in my hands, so I have to do something good with it."

us hanging around for so long, the least I could do was make a couple.' On Utah's final play, Bryon Russell inbounded to John Stockton, who drove and passed to Russell. He missed a 3-pointer with 4.3 seconds to go, but Stockton corralled the rebound and passed to Malone. The Mailman didn't deliver this time, missing an open jumper as time expired.

"We had opportunities," Malone said. "I'm not going to take anything from their win. They did the things needed to win.

When the horn went off, the Mavericks flooded the in celebration. floor Nowitzki sprinted laps around the court while coach Don Nelson pumped his fist and the players hugged. The Jazz suffered their first opening-round loss since 1995 against Houston, and Sloan couldn't explain his team's inability to rebound or defend in the fourth quarter. "It's a pretty bitter pill to swallow when you have people on the floor who should be intelligent enough to make plays and do the fundamental things," Sloan

"I couldn't get that (deal) with any of the others, so it made sense," said Bailey, riding in his 14th Derby.

Ron Anderson, Bailey's agent, added that Talk is Money "is a $1.8 million colt, and we don't know what he can do at 10 miles." Songandaprayer, he said, will have a tough time going the distance, while Blue Grass winner Millennium Wind wasn't really a strong option because Bailey was committed to Hero's Tribute in the same race.

Millennium Wind's train-David Hofmans. replaced Chris McCarron with Laffit Pincay Jr., the 54-year-old Hall of Famer who has won more races than any other rider.

Bailey, the nation's leading rider in earnings, helped break in Congaree last summer at Saratoga, rode Balto Star in his debut at Belmont in September and won aboard Keats in an allowance race Gulfstream in February.

Bob Baffert, who trains Derby favorite Point Given and second Congaree, asked Bailey to ride Congaree in an allowance race at Santa Anita in March. But the jockey was committed to riding in the Bonnie Miss Stakes on the final day of the Gulfstream meet.

So he's here on Talk Is Money, one of five 50-1 choices in the morning line along with Fifty Stars, Arctic Boy, Startac and Jamaican Rum.

Talk Is Money, second in the Federico Tesio Stakes at Pimlico, is a nutty kind of colt who flipped in the gate and ran loose in a parking lot for 20 minutes before one race and threw his rider in another.

Is Bailey worried? "I grew up a cowboy, you know," he said.

Talk Is Money won his first two races and hasn't won since. He was 10th in the Fountain of Youth eighth in the Florida Derby and third in the Flamingo before the Federico Tesio.

Gambling addiction can cause irreparable damage

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell the lady who is "In Love With a Gambler" to RUN and not look back. I was married to a gambler for too many years. There is no way to describe the hell her life will be if she marries the man. He will do anything to gamble -- lie, cheat and steal. He will mortgage the house and max out credit cards she didn't know existed. There will be postoffice boxes in his name and maybe some aliases. Gambling will be his first mistress, the most important thing in his life. Like an alcoholic who will do anything for a drink, he will do anything to shoot dice, play cards or bet on horses.

My experience with addictions has taught me that if there is one addiction. there are at least three others. My ex's other habits were porn, drinking and other women. He hid them well. Gamblers are usually very secretive. And they can be mean when they are losing. Remember, there is a nasty characteristic called greed behind gambling -wanting something for nothing. It will end in heartache.

I beg her to dump that creep and look for a kind, decent man who deserves her love. -- Older and Wiser in Seattle

Dear Older and Wiser: Gambling, like alcoholism, is a disease. For more than 30 years, I've been telling my readers who suffer with this affliction to join Gamblers Anonymous. It's as close as your phone book. Many who took my advice wrote later to say that G.A. was their salva-

Since you are a person who has been there, your words carry a lot of weight. I hope, however, that "In Love With a Gambler" will first try to help her boyfriend with his addiction by joining Gam-Anon, for spouses and friends of gamblers. If that fails, she should unload the guy and call it a day.

wife and I have a beautiful baby boy. We have a great marriage and love our son dearly. When my wife was in labor, things did not go well, and I almost lost her and the baby.

The problem is that my wife is talking about having another child, and the doctors have told her she must have a Cesarean. They said it will make the delivery less risky. However, I am terrified that she will die. She says I am being ridiculous and that she cannot imagine her life without another child.

I want my wife to be happy, but more important, I want her to be healthy. How can I convince her this is too dangerous? --Devoted Husband in California

Dear Devoted Husband: The person who should have the final word is your wife's obstetrician Apparently, she trusts him (or her), and you should, too. Talk with the doctor and get the reassurance you need. You sound like a loving, caring husband, and your wife is one lucky lady. Dear Ann Landers: Please tell physical education teachers in schools that they should select the team members and not allow the team captains to do it. This practice is humiliating, and those who are not athletic are always picked last. This happened to my daughter, who is a fine student but not athletic. She came home in tears, saying, "I was picked last. It was so embarrassing."

These "last-picked" kids need help. Be there for them, Ann. - Newton, N.J.

Dear N.J.: My twin and I were also good students, but we were major klutzes in gym and always got "picked last." I agree the selection process is painful and should be abolished. Gym teachers should be more sensitive to this situation. They would not only be helping these kids feel better, they would also be teaching the other children a lesson in compassion

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.
