College to offer accredited classes in medical, industrial fields

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

In response to community need, Howard College will be offering three accredited classes this semester that provide training for the medical and industrial production fields.

CONWAY

Classes for industrial production technology, medical assistant and surgical/operating room technician programs will be offered during the evening, said Linda Conway, vice president for instruction.

The surgical/operating room technician certificate program is new at the college this year.

"Last year we received a request in Big Spring and a number of requests in San Angelo for this program," Conway noted.

teaches students about surgical policy and procedures in the operating room, preparing the operating room and equipment as well as learning how to cooperate as a member of the surgical team. The Texas Academic Skills Program (TASP) is not a requirement for the course.

Medical assistants are another need to the community, Conway said. Medical assistants work primarily in physician offices, performing duties such as drawing blood, electrocardiography (EKG) tests, clerical work and administering injections.

Howard College has been offering the medical assistant program in its continuing education class but the credit program will allow students to apply for financial aid.

"There are students who have been taking this program as a continuing education course, some who are nearly finished," Conway noted. "We are going to have a bridgeway where those students will receive credit hours for those courses to keep them on target to finish."

Suggested by a focus group from Moore Development for Big Spring Inc., the industrial production technology program has been developed to try to meet the needs of area businesses.

"There is a need for qualified workers in area busi-

Although summer school has ended for the Big Spring Independent School District (BSISD), the Summer Food Service Program will continue for the next two weeks.

"The last day is July 27, so we have two more full weeks of the program," said Joann Smoot, the district's food service director.

"The meals are free for those 18 years of age and under."

The program, funded by the Texas Department of Human Services, offers free lunches at Goliad, Marcy and Bauer Elementary schools from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Parents also have the option of eating a full meal for a price of $2.30.

Menus are posted at the schools, Smoot said, or someone can contact her at 264-3635 to find out that day's meal.

"We serve hot meals," she said.

"We get to serve all the kids' favorites in the summer."

Menu items include chicken nuggets, chicken

Seven-year-old Misty Trevino and her brother, 4-year-old Alec, enjoy a meal courtesy of the Big Spring Independent School District. The district will continue to serve free meals to those 18-years-old or under until July 27. Lunches are served at Goliad, Marcy and Bauer Elementary schools from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

fried steak, pizza, hamburgers and corn dogs. And customers get to have a choice of milk, though Smoot said chocolate milk seems to be the most popular for children.

During summer school, which ended on July 6, the district was serving almost 500 students a day, but that number has dropped to between 250 and 300.

Smoot said it is typical for numbers to drop off after summer school ends but the numbers have fallen more this year.

"We wanted to make sure people have not forgotten about the program," she said.

Schools with a certain amount of students on the free or reduced lunch program during the school year are required to provide a summer food service program.

Although the district does not have to provide free lunches following the close of summer school, Smoot said the district continues the program as a service to the community.

Howard County A&M Club awards scholarships

HERALD Staff Report

The Howard County A&M Club has announced selections for local scholarships, as well as the Sidney Clark Endowed Scholarship for 2001-2002.

Freshman Amanda Meeks, daughter of Ronnie Meeks of Big Spring and Sherry Oliver of Wellborn, is the recipient of the Clark Scholarship. She participated in Key Club, Rhapsody, choir and was a member of FFA and VICA. She also was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students and was awarded the United States National Leadership Merit Award in 2000-2001. She plans on majoring in accounting.

Local club scholarships were awarded to:

- James D. Clements, sophomore, son of Jim and Leslie Clements. He is majoring in general studies.
- Cheryl A. Coates, junior. She is the daughter of Daryl Coates and Cathy New and is majoring in early childhood education.
- Leonard S. Crowell, sophomore. He is the son of Pat Crowell and is majoring in business finance.
- Anthony L. Everett, senior, the son of Bethany

Everett. He is majoring in biochemistry.

• Justin L. Richter, sophomore, the son of Debbie Cochrane. He is majoring in computer engineering.

• Tiffany A. Sayles, daughter of Ronald and Joanne Sayles. She will be a freshman majoring in veterinary medicine.

Chamber to sponsor worker's comp seminar

By HERALD Staff Report

Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a free seminar on workers' compensation Wednesday at the Best Western Motel.

Employers, supervisors and others are invited to the half-day seminar, which will begin with a continental breakfast at 7:30 a.m. The seminar will get under way at 8 and last until noon.

Seminar speakers will describe how safety and loss prevention programs can reduce the number and severity of injuries in the work place.

"This lets the employer know that the injured worker has rights and they need to know about all the dangers," said Virginia Belew, area manager of the Texas Workforce Center.

Those who attend can also learn to understand workers' compensation claims. Speakers will direct seminar-goers through the life of a claim from first report of injury to completion of indemnity benefits while explaining TWCC forms.

Return-to-work programs will include how to reduce lost time, lost productivity and disability mindset. The seminar includes discussion on work status reports and bona fide offer letters.

The seminar will feature information on how to identify and reduce types of fraud. Included will be a discussion of fraud investigations with actual fraud surveillance videos.

"This is well worth it. It (the workshop) is very important for any employer. If they do not know how to handle some of these things mentioned in this workshop it could really hurt them.

We highly recommend this," said Belew. Those who want to attend may register online at www.txfund.com/search/fre eSeminar.shtm. Call 267-1601 for more information.

"When you finish the Certificate I level you will have some skills to go into the workplace," Conway said. "Each level you will learn more skills to take into the work place."

Certificate II offers the student a specialization in one of the following: production, maintenance and repair or quality control and management. This certification level does require taking the TASP test.

The associate degree program also offers specialization in one of the previously stated areas and requires the TASP test.

Registration for returning students begins Aug. 6 and runs until Aug. 9. New student registration will be held on Aug. 13-16 and 20-22. For information about new student registration, contact the admissions office at 264-5022.

Classes begin on Aug. 27.

year. Choosing six winners for our local scholarships was not an easy thing to do," said Mike Niklasch, president of the A&M Club. "All applicants had excellent grades and were all active in extra activities. It seems to get harder each year to narrow the fields down to the six scholarships that we award."

A total of $4,000 was awarded for 2001-2002. The club has started on its next fund-raiser, which will be "The Second Annual Aggie Auction," held at La Posada Restaurant on Aug. 10. The event will start at 6 p.m. with cocktails, followed by the auction at 7 p.m.

show, the open junior lamb show, and the Howard County cotton show.

The fair will also be hosting art contests.

"We'll be holding an art contest, and we'd like all the community's artists to enter," Posey said. "We'll also hold a silent auction to raise money for the art department."

Photography contests will be held at the fair as well. Participants can enter photos of children in the Kids Do the Darndest Things contest while another contest will judge pictures of pets. A Grandparent's Corner will also be available where people can display pictures of their grandchildren.

Adults won't be the only ones participating in the art contests. Jobeth Corwin said there is an annual contest for elementary children to enter.

"This year, we're having a Shoebox Parade contest," she said. "The theme is The Mighty Jungle, so children can bring their jungle projects inside a shoebox to the fair on Aug. 23 or 24 to be entered in the contest."

Corwin said local schools usually encourage children to participate in this contest and often have children complete their projects in class.

"Since school starts only a couple of days before the contest, we encourage children to start working on their projects early and bring them to the fair themselves if need be," Corwin said.

Participants can pick up shoeboxes at Southwestern Crop Insurance located at 601 Scurry if they don't have one available at home.

After successful test, missile defense still faces challenges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The missile defense shield championed by President Bush got a major boost with a successful weekend test, but the plan still must overcome challenges — scientific and political, at home and abroad — if it is to be built by 2004.

The destruction of a mock warhead in space by a missile interceptor launched from Kwajalein Atoll in the Pacific was an important step for the Pentagon's missile defense effort, but must be followed by more successes in more frequent and more realistic tests, officials said.

Russia, meanwhile, renewed its warning that the program would harm global security rather than improve it.

And one domestic skeptic, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, cautioned that "it's not a real-world test yet. And we have a long way to go, and we should continue to pursue it."

The success Saturday night followed two dramatic test failures during the Clinton administration.

"This test is just one on a journey, one stop on a journey," Air Force Lt. Gen. Ronald Kadish, head of missile defense programs, told Pentagon reporters soon after the test. "We will press on to the next test."

That one, scheduled for October, may include some additional complexities, such as extra decoys aboard the target missile. In Saturday's test, just one decoy was used.

The White House said the president was pleased with the test result.

Russian Foreign Ministry spokesman Alexander Yakovenko warned, however, that the missile defense plan "threatens all international treaties in the sphere of nuclear disarmament and nonproliferation."

Bush and Russian President Vladimir Putin are expected to discuss missile defense and existing arms control pacts when they meet next weekend in Italy at a gathering of leaders of the world's industrial powers.

Some congressional Democrats believe the project risks upsetting relations with Russia and China, and has the potential to create a new arms race. Even the United States' closest European allies have declined to support setting aside the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty to make way for Bush's missile defense system.

But congressional supporters were enthusiastic Sunday. "I hope we can convince the Russians what is the truth, which is that we are developing a national missile defense to protect our people, our kids, our grandkids, not against Russian attack but against attack from rogue nations," Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., said on CNN's "Late Edition."

"They're as much potential targets of those kinds of attacks as we are."

Quadruple homicide suspect caught

BELVIDERE, Vt. (AP) — A state trooper's videotaped traffic stop helped nab a man accused of shooting four people in their house, police said.

Douglas Provost, 34, was scheduled to be arraigned Monday on four counts of first-degree murder.

The victims were identified as Jessica Bishop, 18, her father Mitchell Bishop, 46, Derrick Davis, 23, and George Weatherwax, 19, who was a boyfriend of Jessica's.

All four lived in the home where they were found late Friday. Police said several other people also lived there and three had escaped during the shootings.

Provost was stopped by a state trooper a short time after the shooting, but was let go.

However, the trooper made a videotape of the stop with the camera in his cruiser. When shown the video, witnesses identified

Provost as the gunman, police said.

The home is on Route 109 just east of Belvidere Center, a town about 40 miles northeast of Burlington with fewer than 300 people. Police on Sunday continued to gather evidence.

A motive for the killings was unclear.

Provost was "known to family members but was not a friend of the family," state police Capt. Bob White said.

Teenage shack-up may end marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married for three years to a wonderful woman. She has a 17-year-old daughter. I've been told several times that "Michelle" is not my daughter and that my wife will handle all matters of discipline. I have no problem with that, but here's what's going on:

ANN LANDERS

A few months ago, Michelle's 18-year-old boyfriend moved into our home. He is sleeping in Michelle's bedroom. I told my wife it goes against my principles to have some teenage boy living in our home and sharing quarters with her daughter. My wife told me to mind my own business. Well, I feel that this is my business.

My wife says, "If you don't like it, you can move out." I love my wife, but this boy's presence in our home is more than I can tolerate. I'd like your opinion. -- Yuba City, Calif.

Dear Yuba: Were you consulted, or did "the boy" just move in? An 18-year-old moving in and sleeping with your teenage stepdaughter exceeds the limits of good sense — even if they aren't having sex. If not, they soon will be.

Suggest to your wife that she help the boy find other, more suitable housing at once. If she is unwilling to do this, ask her if she will go with you to see a marriage counselor, because yours is in deep trouble.

Dear Ann Landers: My friend, "Alice," is a wonderful, talented, generous person with a good heart. The problem is that every conversation with her inevitably turns to sex. No matter who is in the room, Alice eventually gets quite graphic about her sexual intimacies and difficulties. The woman is too candid about her personal life to suit me.

I find this embarrassing and imagine others do, too. How can I tell this otherwise funny and pleasant woman that refined people simply do not discuss such things in public, especially with strangers? I don't want to hurt her feelings or damage our friendship. Please advise me. -- Her Pal in North Carolina

Dear N.C.: Your friend Alice is looking for attention and has found a sure-fire way to get it. Tell her outright that most people consider sexual activities an intensely personal subject and not appropriate fare for social chitchat. If she fails to get the message, cut her off at the pass, and don't let her get to the second sentence. Interrupt her and change the subject. I don't think you'll have to do this more than once.

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me do the right thing. Last week, two friends came with me to a casino. We entered our names into a drawing, and the winner had to be present in order to claim the money.

As luck would have it, I was in another room and didn't hear my name called, but one of my friends did. He raced through two buildings to find me, yelled over all the noise of the crowd to get my attention, and ran with me to the other room. I didn't realize I had only a few minutes to claim the money. With seconds left, we reached the room, and I won the $5,000 prize.

Here's the problem. I gave my friend $100 for all the trouble he went through to find me, but now everybody is saying I should have given him more. After all, if he didn't race around the casino looking for me, I never would have won. And the next number drawn might have been his. I want to do the right thing, Ann. Is there a specific percentage of the money I should give him? -- Lucky in Marysville, Calif.

Dear Lucky: My office took a vote. The decision: Split the winnings 50-50. Without his diligence, you would have won nothing.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, July 17:

You have many mixed messages around you this year. Stay true to yourself. Work might become unusually demanding and tax you physically and mentally. Study a change in your field, one that might be more suitable to your current personality. You will see the rewards closer to your birthday next year. If you are single, you might find yourself in a relationship in which your partner is not what you first thought. You will meet someone special in spring 2002. If you are attached, you'll need time to mellow out. Help your sweetie to understand you. Also, plan on special trips together. GEMINI understands you too well!

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) *** You easily could be pulled into a tug of war over power, opinions and plans. Stop. Do you really want this? Choose to make all your decisions in a non-reactive manner. Detach and follow your own beat. Someone might give you grief, but you will feel good about your choices. Tonight: Relax to music.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) *** Expenses go way overboard. You might not understand exactly what to do, as a diversity of opinion surrounds you. Don't commit to any solutions until you are good and ready. Deal one on one. Tonight: Do your own thinking.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) *** What might be all right for someone else simply doesn't work for you. You could find a war erupting. It takes grace to stay out of a conflict. Someone finds you difficult, and vice versa. Do something innocuous and uncomplicated. Tonight: Smile and relax.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ** Do as little with others as you can. Put your energy into your work, and let go of stress. As a result, you'll recycle and gain a new perspective while others quibble. Let go of a low-level depression by doing something just for you. Tonight: Vanish as fast as you can!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) **** Zero in on what you want. Others find a lot of reasons to trigger a commotion. Another's rebellion takes a toll on you if you allow it to. Be direct with a child or loved one, but don't expect immediate compliance. Present the bottom line. Tonight: Where your friends are.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ** As pressure builds, even you could explode. You might not be ready for what goes down. In fact, if possible, steer clear, because you also might not want to deal with the problems. Express caring and support for someone close to you. Nurture someone. Tonight: Happy as a cat.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) **** You might think you are going to get one reaction, but you get another. Don't get too upset about what is going on. Many are out of sorts. Be smart: Take a major detour, and do more smiling. Recognize that others are tense as well. Tonight: Swap war stories with friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ** Don't make commitments, particularly financial ones. Mistakes happen way too easily. You could feel cornered. People, including you, are in the mood to contest decisions and ideas. Chill out. Tonight: Make nice with a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ** You mean well, but somehow a key associate or two misread your intentions. Don't lose your temper and push someone away. Remember what ultimately is important to you as well as to others. Accept someone's gesture, even if you don't agree. Tonight: Do something nurturing for yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) *** What you decide about what is going on could be upsetting. Don't make assumptions. Do what you need to do to verify information. Focus on work, efficiency and doing your best. Extend yourself to a coworker or friend. Tonight: Exercise away stress.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) *** You feel as if you must make a choice. Really, it is your call. You might hit a dead end when creatively brainstorming. Someone might be unusually demanding. Give this person space, and be sure to leave reminders about how much you care. Tonight: Do something special for a loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ** Pressure builds to a new level. You can't win right now, especially with a difficult authority figure or boss. Remember your priorities, and don't compromise your integrity. A family member supports you in the most caring way. Be thankful. Tonight: Head on home.

OUR VIEWS

Local children need our help as school nears

Ask any workman ... having the right tools is necessary for the completion of any job. And the same can be said about almost any human endeavor. That is especially true when it comes to education. Not only do children need good teachers, well-equipped classrooms and appropriate textbooks, but they also need the proper school supplies — the pens, pencils, notebooks, paper, crayons and the like that are every student's hand tools.

And that is why the Salvation Army will be holding its Back-To-School program July 23-27 to assist children of needy families with school supplies.

The event, which the Salvation Army has hosted for several years now, helps to ease the strain placed on low-income families as the fall semester begins.

In some instances, families simply don't have the money necessary to clothe and equip children with the supplies they need to begin the school year and that is especially true when there is more than one child.

To help alleviate that problem, the Salvation Army will take applications from those in need of assistance from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day during the program's four-day registration period at the Salvation Army Community Center located at 811 W. Fifth Street.

Supplies will be distributed to families from 9 a.m. until noon on Aug. 13.

The program served 292 children last year and Salvation Army Capt. Russ Keeney said he hopes to provide supplies for 350 to 400 this year.

To make the program work, however, the Salvation Army needs donations of supplies or monetary donations.

Among the items needed are pencils, scissors, crayons, wide-rule note-book paper, bottles of glue and 2-inch notebooks. Also needed are school boxes, pens, zipper bags, pocket folders with brads, erasers, map colors, markers, dividers, manila paper, boxed tissue and construction paper.

We encourage our readers to help in this effort.

Simply put, the cost of not helping a child have the proper school supplies far exceeds the price necessary to purchase them.

The civic courage of days gone by

The vicinity of the Fourth of July is always a good time to remember American heroes. We've had many, though a number of them would cause the politically correct types to turn up their noses, if not gag.

That's OK. The PCers are a minority. Nature is just too kind to create that much stupidity in one generation. She sort of parcels it out. Many of today's PC types are the flotsam of the Sixties or their spoiled brats.

I'd love to see how Andrew Jackson would react to these characters. One fierce look from Old Hickory, and I expect they'd scatter like quail. Andy did not suffer fools at all.

It's probably been a long time since we've had a president who actually killed people with his own hands. Teddy Roosevelt was likely the last one. But when Andy was running for president, his opponents ran full-page ads depicting 14 coffins to denote the people (not counting Indians, of course) that Old Hickory had sent to the retirement village in the sky.

In the days when dueling was common, it was often used for political murders. One such scheme was tried to get rid of Jackson. His foes induced the most famous duelist in the country to insult Jackson's wife. They knew Jackson would challenge the guy, and they figured their man, who had already killed 26 people in duels, would put Jackson in the ground.

Jackson, however, spent the evening before the duel taking the buttons off his coat and sewing them back on, 3 inches lower than normal.

He knew the man would fire the first shot, and so he did. His 50-caliber ball hit Jackson in the chest — 3 inches below his heart. The impact staggered Jackson, and, for a moment, it looked like he would fall.

Then, like a great tree rising from the wind, Jackson straightened up, took careful aim and killed his opponent. Then he collapsed.

When he regained consciousness several hours later, his friend and doctor said, "I don't see how you stayed on your feet after that wound." Jackson looked into his friend's eyes, and I can imagine him smiling as he said, "I'd a-stayed on my feet long enough to kill that (expletive) even if he had shot me in the brain."

Before the Battle of New Orleans, Jackson got wind that the Legislature, fearful that New Orleans would be destroyed in the fighting (Jackson, of course, was greatly outnumbered), was thinking about surrendering. He sent an aide with a simple message: "If you vote to surrender, I will burn your damned city down." Turned out the merchants and politicians were more afraid of Jackson than of the British. Jackson, by the way, slaughtered the British troops, including their general, with his backwoods marksmen and Louisiana pirates.

There's a museum in Scotland that has a whole section on what, to the British, was a catastrophic loss. Jackson's casualties were minimal.

The great tragedy in Jackson's life was that his beloved wife, Rachel, died before he was inaugurated. American history has a lot of great loves — Jackson and his wife, Jefferson Davis and his wife, Varina, to name a few. These women were strong women who make today's feminist harpies look like baby pigeons.

When Jefferson Davis was being held in prison, his wife lit into the commanding general of the prison with such verbal ferocity and force that witnesses said he went pale and took two steps backward.

John and Abigail Adams and James and Dolley Madison are also great love stories involving strong men and strong women.

Another of my heroes is Alexander Stephens, who was, among many offices, vice president of the Confederacy. He was a small, sickly man. He never weighed more than 91 pounds, but he had a brilliant brain and a fierce spirit.

Confronted by a larger man who took umbrage at something Stephens had said about him, the two fought with knives. It wasn't long before the larger man had Stephens flat on his back, with the blade of his knife across Stephens' throat.

"Retract!" the man demanded. "Or I'll cut your (expletive) throat." Stephens replied, "Cut it."

I believe we'd have to search high and low these days to find a politician who would rather die than retract a statement he believed to be the truth. But courage and integrity, even unto death, were once so common in America, they were hardly noticed.

Courage and integrity are still present, of course, but mainly in the military and law enforcement. Civic courage is what is missing, just as Alexander Solzhenitsyn pointed out in his commencement address at Harvard back in the 1970s.

Civic courage is the kind that says no to bullies and demagogues, that pursues the common good even when the polls say people are against it. Civic courage is the kind that remains loyal to subordinates when cowards want to throw them to the mobs. Civic courage defends principles no matter what the personal costs.

One day that, too, will be common again in America, God willing and the creeks don't rise.

Seeing rebirth in Internet advertising

What went wrong with the dot-coms? Some analysts equate the dot-com mania with the Tulip Bubble and other famous irrational boom-and-bust scenarios of history. But there is a difference. Those other situations were either out-and-out frauds, or they were unsupported by rational facts. These theories do not describe the Internet and the dot-com boom-and-bust.

The Internet is for real. It is here to stay. And it has already revolutionized the way we do business and the way we communicate. What it has not done is create wealth in the way we expected. The theory ran that the Internet, like network television, would essentially be free, and it would garner profits from advertising. But the Internet is not television, and Internet advertising — which usually appears as banner ads at the top of Web pages — did not generate commerce comparable to that derived from television ads. Why not? Television is a passive medium; the Internet is an active medium. As a result, television viewers sit glued to their sets and tend not to get up and do something else when an advertisement appears. Hence, they watch. And they buy.

But the Internet requires participation, so when a banner ad pops up, the participant looks upon it as an annoyance and clicks or scrolls to what interests him or her. But the bubble was created because companies selling banner ads claimed they were reaching hundreds of thousands or even millions of viewers, when, in fact, very few of those viewers were viewing, let alone buying, the products being promoted. Then there are the Internet Service Providers (ISPs) who sought to make money by connecting people to the Internet, but the field became very competitive very quickly, and profits were accordingly squeezed. Other companies like Yahoo! built their businesses around search engines. Search engines not only provide the means to find Web sites, but also online magazines, in-house ticketing agencies, and so forth. Now comes word that Yahoo! lost $48.5 million for the last three months because of faltering online advertising revenue. The company announced that it is turning to more subscription-based services. Is that the answer? Online advertising will undoubtedly continue, but with much lower expectations. But subscription services present another problem. Will the public pay? Perhaps it will prove to be akin to cable television. In its infancy, analysts were skeptical that people would pay for cable when commercial television was free. The solution was found in quantity, quality and convenience, and cable television soared.

Already, a number of Internet sites charge a fee for connecting, and they succeed primarily because of need, which usually is business- or investor-related. A company that needs specific, specialized information will pay, but this narrow category does not provide a solution that will entice the general public.

The solution lies in speed. When most Internet users are connected through high-speed systems such as DSL, the mentality will change. Currently, most Internet users are frustrated by delays. It takes time to log on. It takes time to call up a search engine. It takes time to call up selected Web sites. In this environment, advertisements are seen as pure nuisances that simply clog the systems and use up time. Remove the time problem, and you remove the nuisance factor. And when ads are no longer seen as an impediment to speed, a rebirth in Internet advertising will certainly appear.

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will hold a meeting for all parents of football players in the seventh through 12th grades at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Big Spring High School Athletic Training Center's meeting room. All parents are invited to attend and help plan the club's activities for the football programs. For more information, call Jim Clements at 6 p.m. at 267-1069.

Golf tournament set for Saturday

A benefit golf tournament for St. Mary's Episcopal School will be held at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club.

The tourney will be a four-person scramble and entry fees are $75 per player.

Prizes will be awarded to the first, fifth and last place teams. Lunch will be provided.

More information is available by calling Beverly Alford at 263-0203.

Indios softball touney scheduled

The Indios Softball Tournament has returned to Big Spring and will be held Friday, July 27, through Sunday, July 29, at Cotton Mize Field in Comanche Trail Park.

Trophies will be given to the top four teams and windbreakers will be won by the first-place team. The second-place team wins T-shirts while 10 All-Tournament Team members will be honored.

The entry fee is $115 and more information is available by calling 263-3096.

YMCA swim team seeks competitors

The Big Spring YMCA Swim Team is currently competing in long course meets.

Practice sessions are held Monday through Thursday mornings.

To be eligible to compete, youngsters must be able to complete a lap of the YMCA pool.

For more information, call the YMCA at 267-8234.

'Voice of Baylor' dies at age of 83

WACO (AP) — George Stokes, often referred to as the "Voice of Baylor," died Saturday. He was 83.

Stokes announced Bears home football and basketball games for 26 years before turning off his microphone in 1987.

Baylor Chancellor Herbert Reynolds said Stokes was known for his ability to ease the tension of a game by inserting his unique humor.

Stokes was born April 12, 1918, in Paducah. He graduated from Plainview High School and went on to earn a bachelor's degree in voice at West Texas State University in Canyon, a master's degree in speech at Baylor and a doctorate from Northwestern University.

Stokes joined the Baylor faculty in 1952 as director of broadcasting. He later went on to head the university's alumni association and the department of communication.

Hernandez holds on for Giants' 7-6 win over Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP) — The struggling Livan Hernandez got to face one more batter, and he delivered. San Francisco manager Dusty Baker decided not to pull Hernandez after Texas got two men on with two outs in the seventh inning Sunday night. The right-hander responded, and the Giants held on to win 7-6.

Hernandez (7-11) got Mike Lamb to ground into an inning-ending fielder's choice, then Baker turned the game over to the bullpen.

"I've stuck with him in that situation and taken him out in that situation. He had handled Lamb pretty good," Baker said.

Barry Bonds has just one homer in 17 games after finishing 0-for-4. He still has 40 homers in 92 games, the same total Mark McGwire had in 1998 when he hit a record 70.

After allowing the first three Texas batters to get hits and score, Hernandez rebounded to win for the first time since June 22 — a span of four starts — when he threw a complete game at St. Louis.

"Hernandez did a great job for them," Texas manager Jerry Narron said. "He's the kind of guy that steps it up when he gets in trouble. He worked out of some big jams."

Texas led 3-0 after Alex Rodriguez hit a two-run double and scored on a groundout by Ivan Rodriguez in the first. San Francisco got the runs right back when Shawon Dunston hit a three-run homer in the second.

"That was perfect. It was like a new game," said Hernandez, who struck out six while giving up six runs and 10 hits.

Even though Hernandez surrendered the lead again, giving up a solo homer to Alex Rodriguez in the third and a two-run double to Randy Velarde in the fourth, the Giants came back again. And he struck out Rodriguez to end the fourth with two men on base.

Jeff Kent, who had three hits, got a two-run double in the fifth on a low liner through the right side of the infield that pulled the Giants to 6-5.

Bonds, who had walked, had to leap into the air to avoid Kent's hit while running from first base. The ball then got past right fielder Ricky Ledee, who stepped the wrong way when the ball just skimmed past Bonds.

Ramon Martinez, the No. 9 hitter, tied the game with an RBI double off Darren Oliver (7-5), and Calvin Murray provided the game-winning run with an RBI single on the first pitch thrown by reliever Pat Mahomes.

Harvick comes of age with Tropicana victory

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — A week before Dale Earnhardt died in a crash at the Daytona 500, team owner Richard Childress introduced the driver he hoped would succeed Earnhardt to an old friend.

"This guy is the real deal," Childress told the man. "He's got the kind of driving ability to be a big success."

Nobody knew how soon Kevin Harvick would have to prove Childress right.

Now, five months and 17 races later, Harvick is proving his boss knew what he was talking about.

A convincing victory on Sunday in the inaugural Tropicana 400 was the second of Harvick's budding Winston Cup career. He also is leading the Busch Series and appears well on his way to top rookie honors in NASCAR's top stock car series.

Harvick got off to a quick start after replacing Earnhardt in the second race of the season. In just his third Winston Cup start, the slim, engaging 25-year-old earned an emotional victory in Atlanta, beating three-time champion Jeff Gordon in a breathtaking last-lap duel.

Since then, though, despite some good showings and a spot in the top 10 in the standings, there was talk that maybe that win was a little premature.

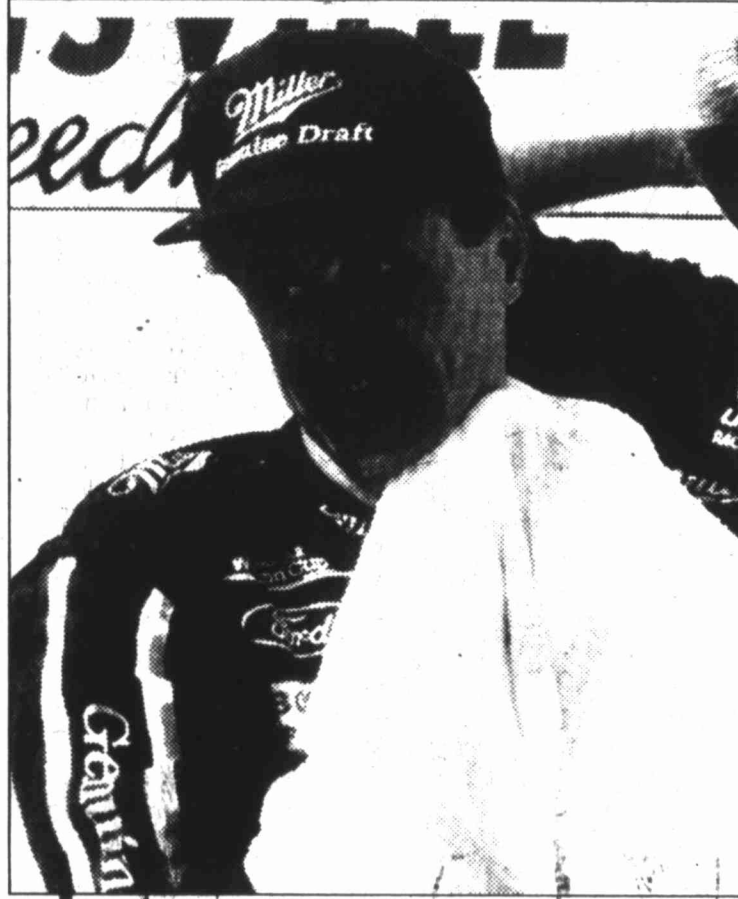

"I think today answers any questions about his driving ability," Childress said Sunday after Harvick held off surprising Robert Pressley for the win.

This win was vindication for Harvick and the rest of his Richard Childress Racing team.

After celebrating for the sellout crowd of 85,000 with some doughnuts and a long, billowing, smoky burnout, Harvick scrambled from his white No. 29 Chevrolet — the car that used to be Earnhardt's black No. 3 — and celebrated with his team.

"This means a lot," Harvick said. "When you're stuck on your first win, everybody says 'He's a flash in the pan.' Well, here's our second win now."

Harvick ran strong throughout Sunday's 267-lap race on the new 1.9-mile, D-shaped tri-oval. He took the lead for good on lap 242, passing Mark Martin.

NASCAR Winston Cup star Rusty Wallace, shown here after winning a race in 1996, was one of those who saw rookie Kevin Harvick roll past him and to victory at the Tropicana 400 on Sunday.

The aftermath of the win in Atlanta was a tribute to Earnhardt. This one was more about Harvick, crew chief Kevin Hamlin and his crew. Still, the intimidator wasn't far from anyone's mind on Sunday.

"Everything we do this year is in memory of Dale Earnhardt," Harvick said. "He is the reason we're racing in both series, and we want to do everything we can for him. I'm sure Dale Earnhardt would be very proud of us right now."

Typically, the racing groove on the new track was narrow, and cars that ventured off that area often paid a price. There were nine caution flags, and two drivers were injured.

Mike Skinner, Harvick's teammate, cut a tire and slammed into the wall at close to 180 mph. He was knocked unconscious for a few moments, but was awake and alert when removed from the car.

Skinner, who also crashed Friday in practice, was limping and was helped to the ambulance by two safety workers. He was transported by ambulance to a hospital, where he was diagnosed with a mild concussion and a fractured left ankle before being treated and released.

Later in the race, Jerry Nadeau, who led several times and appeared to have a good shot at his second win, lost an oil line and Roy "Buckshot" Jones slid through the oil and hit the wall hard.

Jones, who complained of pain in his left knee and took fluids for dehydration on the hot, humid afternoon, was released from the track's infield medical center.

The final caution flag flew on lap 258 when Tony Stewart slowed and was tapped from behind by Sterling Marlin. Stewart, who had been running eighth, spun and hit the wall. He was not injured, but the caution bunched the field for a restart five laps from the end and gave Pressley one last shot at Harvick.

Pressley, whose best previous finish was third place earlier this year in Texas, tried to psyche out Harvick, bumping his rear bumper several times before the green flag came out for the start of lap 263.

Japan's latest sports sensation wins GMO

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Shigeiki Maruyama did a good impression of Ichiro Suzuki.

After hitting a ball into the stands on the final hole of regulation at the Greater Milwaukee Open, Maruyama recovered to join the Seattle Mariners' star as the latest Japanese sports sensation this side of the Pacific.

Maruyama beat Charles Howell III in a playoff in his first trip to Brown Deer Park, becoming the first Japanese player to win a PGA Tour event on the mainland.

He might have won in regulation if not for an errant second shot from the 18th fairway.

Maruyama admitted he was overcome by nerves when he rushed his second shot and it sailed into the stands. After a free drop, he pitched to 15 feet and was 2 feet short on his first putt.

Recounting the shot a half hour later, Maruyama whispered into interpreter Taka Yamamoto's ear, and they had a good laugh.

"It's not baseball, but he still hit one into the stands," Yamamoto relayed.

Maruyama's and Howell's fortunes were reversed when they went back to the par-5 18th tee for the playoff.

Maruyama was over the green in two shots and chipped to 4 feet, but Howell needed four shots to reach the green.

"It's like match play," Yamamoto said. "He likes match play. He was really relaxed."

Maruyama sank his 4-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole after Howell missed a 7-footer for par.

"Shigeiki is a great player," Howell said. "He's probably one of the nicest guys out here. He's always smiling. But now he's obviously got a reason to smile."

So does Howell, the 2000 NCAA champion from Oklahoma State. He won $334,800, by far his biggest check on tour. His season winnings of $736,176 puts him safely in the top 125 to earn his PGA Tour card for next year.

Cubs can only watch McGriff's display of power

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shortly after watching his team struggle to score, Chicago Cubs manager Don Baylor heard the news from Turner Field: Fred McGriff had homered twice in Tampa Bay's win over Atlanta.

"It didn't help us. Good for him," Baylor said. "I hope it's around the corner. We could use his offense, believe me."

But there's no telling when — or if — McGriff will waive his no-trade clause and accept a deal that would move him from the last-place Devil Rays to the NL Central leaders.

"As far as I know, there is no deadline," Baylor said after the Cubs beat Kansas City 2-1 Sunday. "I know Freddy has put a July 31st on it, but I don't think that's realistic."

The Cubs have agreed to send two prospects to Tampa Bay for the 37-year-old first baseman.

McGriff, however, is reluctant to leave his wife, two children and hometown for a chance to maybe make the playoffs for the first time since 1997.

"I'm not answering any questions about Chicago," McGriff said after Tampa Bay's 9-1 victory. "I've got a nice little family. I'm very happy."

In other interleague games, Seattle stopped Arizona 8-0, Philadelphia beat the New York Yankees 9-3, St. Louis defeated Minnesota 5-1, Boston beat Montreal 8-5, Houston downed Cleveland 5-3, Oakland beat Colorado 6-3, Florida topped Baltimore 7-1, San Diego defeated Anaheim 5-1, San Francisco beat Texas 7-6, the New York Mets topped Toronto 6-2, Detroit rallied past Cincinnati 8-5 and the Chicago White Sox beat Milwaukee 3-2.

In the National League, Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh 4-2.

McGriff, who played with the Braves from 1993-97, drew ovations after his 17th and 18th homers of the season. He also hit an RBI single.

Dodgers 4, Pirates 2

The Dodgers thought their biggest problem would be dealing with jet lag. Instead, it's much worse — another injury to Kevin Brown.

The Dodgers' ace right-hander strained a right elbow muscle, ruining what had been a promising start in a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. He flew back to Los Angeles to be examined by team doctors.

Brown is expected to have an MRI test today, with the Dodgers refusing to speculate on the extent of the injury until he sees Dr. Frank Jobe.

However, it seems all but certain Brown (8-4) will go on the disabled list for the third time this season. He began the season on the DL with an Achilles' injury, then was out nearly a month with a sore neck until returning late last month. Despite being hurt, Brown pitched a scoreless fifth inning before leaving the game.

Brown's injury ruined what had been one of the Dodgers' best victories of the season.

They needed 15 innings Saturday to win 8-7 in Oakland, then flew most of the night to Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers didn't need long to fight off their jet lag, jumping to a 2-0 lead in the first on Eric Karros' two-run single. Gary Sheffield reached on a two-out error by third baseman Aramis Ramirez — his 17th of the season — and Green doubled off Jason Schmidt (5-5).

Brown was cruising along with a 4-1 lead when he was hurt, forcing Tracy to go to his bullpen much earlier than he wanted. Dodgers relievers pitched 7.2-3 innings Saturday and have worked 21 1-3 innings in five games.

Cubs 2, Royals 1

Kansas City set a major league record with its 21st straight one-run loss on the road.

The Royals broke the dubious mark set by Pittsburgh, which lost 20 in a row on the road in 1985-86.

Jon Lieber won his sixth consecutive start for Chicago.

Mariners 8, Diamondbacks 0

Aaron Sele pitched a career-best two-hitter and set down 22 straight batters as Seattle shut out Arizona at Safeco Field.

Mike Cameron and John Olerud homered and Scott Podsednik hit a bases-loaded triple in his first major league at-bat. The Mariners moved a season-best 41 games over .500.

Seattle DH Edgar Martinez strained his left quadriceps muscle on a hit-and-run play. He is expected to miss at least a few days.

Phillies 9, Yankees 3

Doug Glanville doubled twice and drove in two runs as Philadelphia beat New York before a sellout crowd of 59,470, the largest at Veterans Stadium since the 1993 opener.

A lot of Yankees fans came to watch the interleague matchup of East division leaders, and they saw catcher Jorge Posada have three passed balls, Mark Wohlers struggle in relief and shortstop Derek Jeter make an error that set up the go-ahead run.

Marlins 7, Orioles 1

Kevin Millar, Charles Johnson and Mike Lowell homered to lead Florida past visiting Baltimore.

Cal Ripken Jr. went 0-for-3 and ended his hitting streak at 15 games.

Mets 6, Blue Jays 2

Mike Piazza homered, doubled and drove in three runs to lead New York over Toronto.
