Redistricting plan leaves local party chairmen optimistic

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Local party chairmen are hesitantly optimistic about the latest state House and Senate redistricting scheme approved July 24. The plan, approved 3-2 by the five-member Legislative Redistricting Board, moves Howard County from Sen. Robert Duncan's (R-Lubbock) 28th Senatorial District to the 31st District of Sen. Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo). Howard County also moved from Rep. David Counts' (D-Knox City) 70th House District to Rep. Pete Laney's (D-Hale Center) 68th District. Howard County Democratic Party Chairman

Robert Hutte expressed regret at being moved out of the district of State Rep. David Counts (D-Knox City). "I regret the fact that we lost our present legislator," he said. "He was good and did a lot for this part of the county. Not having him, I think we can benefit from Pete Laney's position as Speaker of the House." Although some analysts estimate as many as 16 seats in the state House of Representatives could change hands, giving Republicans an 88 to 62 majority, Hutte prefers to remain optimistic. "I question whether the House will become a Republican majority," he said. "I think this next election will show that people are a little more conscious of the issues rather than the political party someone belongs to. I think the public is a little teed off at just voting for a guy because he belongs to a certain party. I think the party who has the platform which appeals to more people is going to win." Dwain Fox, local Republican Party chairman, said he's happy about the structure of Big Spring's new House district. "Looking at the population centers for that district, you have Big Spring and Plainview, and they're about the same size so I

School dress codes revamped

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

The third annual Sales Tax Holiday is set for Friday through Sunday and parents for Big Spring High School students may want to consider the new dress codes changes before purchasing back to school clothes.

RITCHEY

"Before the end of the year, we had a meeting involving parents, students from all classes and faculty about the dress code issue," said Big Spring High School principal Mike Ritchey. "This is what the committee came up with." The new dress codes include:

- The hemline of dresses and skirts will be measured by the width of a $1 bill (or laying the $1 bill horizontally) from the top of the knee to the hem.
- If the dress or skirt has a slit, the slit cannot exceed the length of the $1 bill (or laying the $1 bill vertically) from the top of the knee.
- The strap of the blouse or dress must be the width of a $1 bill.
- Shorts for both boys and girls must reach the top of the knee.

- Shirts and blouses must cover the entire torso at all times.
- For male students, all shirts that can be tucked in must be at all times, including T-shirts, collar button downs and jerseys.
- Pants must be worn at the waist.
- Hair must be kept clean, neat and styled and must be of a natural hair color.

No facial hair is allowed at all; sideburns cannot exceed the bottom of the earlobe.

Students must wear nice shoes or sandals; no flip-flops are allowed.

The width of a $1 bill, which is approximately 2 1/2 inches, will be the "measuring stick" this year.

Sacred Heart festival set Friday, Saturday

By LINDY BARR
Staff Writer

Sacred Heart Catholic Church is getting ready for its annual summer festival.

The festival has been held since the mid 1930s, according to Irene Bustamante, coordinator of the festival.

"I will never forget that one of the much older members of church would tell me about the times when his grandmother would make tamales for the festival.

Back then it was held in a hall called the "Blue Cross" because they were trying to save up enough money to buy a church" said Bustamante.

"Right now we are doing all the last minute preparations to get us ready. Mainly all the work that is going on now is on the booths," said Bustamante.

Booths will open at 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday. There will be a wide variety of fun and games and lots of good food.

According to Bustamante, food booths will feature Mexican dinners, fajitas, tripas, gorditas, Frito pies, corn, shaved ice and more.

In case festival-goers eat too much, members of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, have assured there will be plenty of places to sit down and rest.

Game booths will consist of the ball throw, darts, canes, coke throw, a golf game, a prize walk, ruleta, cake walk, a fish pond, flowers and balloons.

Casa Blanca will also be providing a meal for the festival. It will be a benefit meal for Sacred Heart Catholic Church. The benefit meal will take place in the Parish Hall on Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"This year, we are going to have a local band come and perform for us called Podente. They are a very talented Tex-Mex band," said Bustamante.

Howard College's budget is expected to be $15.6 million in unrestricted funds, including an increase of $1,023,894 in state funding. Restricted funds will be adding in when the board finalizes the total budget at the next board meeting.

The increase in state funding was a result of a 16.6 percent increase in contact hours, Sparks said. A

At 102, Jim Zack celebrates birthdays in three centuries

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Jim Zack has lived in, and celebrated birthdays in, three different centuries.

Zack doesn't have a time machine other than his watch. He turned 102 years old Monday.

Born in Usack Zack in 1899 in Siberia, Zack lived through the close of the 19th century, the whole 20th century and now the beginning of the 21st.

The centenarian celebrated his 102nd birthday at Scenic Mountain Medical Center Monday with his wife of 70 years, Clara, his daughter Susan Lewis and his son-in-law Bob, also known as radio personality Tumbleweed Smith.

Lewis said Zack's health has been wonderful until March, when he was hospitalized for illness.

"It's nothing really," added Clara. "He's just 102. But he's made a lot of progress since he's been here."

Zack immigrated to Canada in 1912 to escape the strict Czarist regime in place in Russia at that time and became a citizen 13 years later. He moved to the New York to find work.

In New York, Zack met Clara.

Jim and Clara moved to Killeen in 1932 during the Great Depression. In Killeen, the couple opened a military store to serve the soldiers at Fort Hood, and managed to build a successful enterprise.

In 1946, Zack bought

"The bottom line is how we dress is a major statement," Ritchey said. "The way we look, our appearance definitely reflects our attitudes and how we want to represent Big Spring."

The third annual Sales Tax Holiday is intended to help parents outfit their children for the new school year. The tax break is not limited to children's school clothes, however.

Consumers may purchase as many tax-exempt items as they wish. Most clothing and footwear priced under $100 will be exempt from sales taxes.

Clothing and footwear used primarily for athletics or protective wear, such as golf cleats or football pads, are not tax exempt. However, athletic clothes that are commonly used as street wear, such as tennis shoes, baseball caps and jogging suits, are eligible.

Accessories, jewelry, watches, handbags, wallets and briefcases are not tax-exempt during the sales tax holiday. Eligible items placed on layaway may be redeemed tax-free during the weekend. Items placed on layaway that weekend can be redeemed tax-free later.

contact hour is an hour a student is in a classroom with an instructor.

Also included in the budget are across-the-board raises for Howard College faculty and employees. Howard College has been trying to raise faculty salaries for the past three years after a survey performed by the Texas Community College Teachers Association showed the college ranked at the bottom in faculty salaries across the state.

Colleges around the state are also raising salaries, Sparks said, which may keep Howard College from reaching its intended goal.

Howard College will hold public hearings on the tax rate and budget before final approval.

In other business, the board accepted the retirement resolutions of two faculty members, Terry Robertson and Dr. Harlen Thornton.

The board approved the Howard County Appraisal District's proposed budget for the coming year. Howard College's part of the budget is $54,950.

Trustees accepted several bids for the SWCID campus including:

• a low bid of $23,552 from Tangent Computers in Burlingame, Calif., for 23 Pentium III computers worth $1,024 each.

• a low bid of $11,427 from MacResources Computers and Service of Bryan for 13 computers worth $879 each.

• a bid of $38,665 from Valpar International Corp. of Tucson, Ariz., for software to be used in the diagnostic lab at SWCID. Valpar is the only company that makes this type of software.

"The Republican party will be the controlling party in the House in the next election cycle," he said. "No, I don't think (redistricting is) simply a political move. I'm sure politics comes into play in certain areas, but when you have 58 to 60 percent of voters statewide voting Republican and you have a Democrat-controlled House, then something's wrong."

Bush to get report on election reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still facing stinging criticism over the way he won last year's contentious election, President Bush makes his first public moves toward improving the nation's voting system today when he receives a long-awaited report from former Presidents Carter and Ford.

Bush planned to embrace the broad principles of reform outlined in the report, if not each specific recommendation. The study calls for restoring voting rights to felons and allowing voters challenged by poll workers to cast provisional ballots anyway. The votes' validity would be determined later.

Bush has been under pressure, particularly by Democrats, to correct problems that arose in last fall's Florida election. Bush was declared the winner 36 days after the voting, following a 5-4 Supreme Court decision that effectively halted a partial recount in Florida.

The president may face even more pressure from Carter, who already has been critical of the administration. Carter and former House GOP Leader Bob Michel are scheduled to present the commission's 100-page report to Bush at the White House. Ford's office said he had a scheduling conflict.

Carter was quoted in an article last week criticizing Bush's positions on missile defense, Alaska oil drilling and global warming and said he has been disappointed in almost everything Bush has done. In a follow-up statement, Carter said he respects Bush despite their honest differences of opinion. The White House refused direct comment on either statement.

Today's report by the 19-member National Commission on Federal Election Reform may also highlight differences between the two men. A summary of the report was obtained by The Associated Press.

Among its recommendations:

—Election Day should be declared a national holiday to "increase the availability of poll workers and suitable polling places." The panel suggests moving the Veterans Day holiday during even-numbered years to the first Tuesday in November. The White House was lukewarm about this proposal, which Republicans believe would help heighten turnout among Democratic-leaning labor groups.

—States should establish statewide systems for voter registration.

—States should allow provisional voting, a suggestion that arose from complaints in Florida that some voters, many of them black, were wrongfully turned away from polls. With provisional ballots, people who don't appear on election rolls but say they are eligible could vote. Election officials would determine later the validity of those ballots.

—Congress should set up a new Election Administration Commission to establish and test voluntary standards for state systems. The standards should include allowing voters to correct errors and ensuring that disabled voters can cast ballots in secret.

—News organizations should refrain from calling presidential elections until 11 p.m. EST. If news organizations were not to comply, the report says Congress should consider enacting legislation.

The 13-recommendation report also opposes doing away with punch card ballots, the voting system that sparked much of the controversy in Florida.

Houston woman indicted in deaths of five children

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman accused of drowning her five children has been indicted by a Harris County grand jury on two counts of capital murder.

Andrea Pia Yates, 37, was indicted Monday on one count of capital murder for the deaths of Noah, 7, and John, 5, and on one count of capital murder of a child under 6 for the death of Mary, 6 months old.

The indictments allege she "knowingly and intentionally" caused the deaths of the children "with a deadly weapon, namely water."

Also killed were Paul, 3, and Luke, 2.

Arraignment is scheduled for Aug. 8 before state District Judge Belinda Hill, whose gag order prevents those involved from discussing the case. Yates remains in the Harris County Jail, where she was taken after police were called to her southeast Houston residence on June 20.

When officers arrived they found the body of the 7-year-old in the bathtub. The bodies of the four younger children, still wet, were under a sheet on a bed.

If convicted, Yates faces the death penalty or life in prison. Harris County District Attorney Chuck Rosenthal has not said whether his office will seek the death penalty.

Shortly after taking the case, defense attorney George Parnham indicated he would enter an innocent plea by reason of insanity on behalf of Yates, who police say confessed to the slayings. He requested a competency hearing for Yates, saying she is deeply depressed and unable to communicate.

$7.5 billion farm bill too much, White House says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is threatening to veto a $7.5 billion farm aid package under consideration in the Senate because it would spend $2 billion more than the administration says is necessary.

The White House issued a statement of administration policy Monday that said $5.5 billion, the amount approved by the House, "is more than adequate."

Over Republican objections, the Agriculture Committee approved the $7.5 billion bill last week, and on Monday the Democrat-controlled Senate decided to bring it to the floor today.

The Senate also was to consider today a $5.5 billion alternative offered by the committee's senior Republican, Richard Lugar, R-Ind. Democrats said the $7.5 billion measure was a fair response to problems on the farm.

"Without the assistance that's in this bill, tens of thousands are in danger or going out of business," said the Agriculture Committee chairman, Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa.

The Agriculture Department estimates net farm income this year at $42.4 billion, $2.8 billion below last year. The 2001 estimate does not include the supplemental assistance the Senate is considering.

In its statement, the White House said "improvements in agricultural markets and stronger livestock and crop prices mean that the need for additional federal assistance continues to diminish."

Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., has said he is determined to send President Bush a final version of the bill by the end of this week, when Congress is scheduled to begin its monthlong August recess. Unless the $5.5 billion in the bill is spent by the time fiscal year 2001 ends Sept. 30, Congress will be unable to provide the money.

The extra $2 billion in the Senate bill would come from the fiscal 2002 budget. Even so, spending it will make it that much harder for Bush and Congress to live within next year's budget without eating into Medicare surpluses, which Democrats and many Republicans in Congress consider politically risky.

Beyond the spending fight, another battle is expected over efforts by northeastern senators to extend the Northeast Dairy Compact. That 1996 law, which expires Sept. 30, lets those states set wholesale milk prices above federal levels. That is bitterly opposed by lawmakers from midwestern dairy states.

The Senate bill contains $5.5 billion for direct payments to grain and cotton farmers, almost $900 million more than the House approved.

In addition, the Senate measure includes $542 million for conservation programs, $150 million for apple growers, $53 million for sugar growers, and $20 million to subsidize some older Americans who shop at farmers markets.

Shopping gets easier with Tax Holiday

Shopping for clothes is never a ho-hum experience. We either love it or hate it. Whether it's an enjoyable experience for you or an excruciating one, the idea of saving money at the same time has to be appealing. That's the case this weekend, when Texas holds its third Sales Tax Holiday.

Simply put, most clothes and shoes will be tax-free at stores across the state Friday through Sunday. The event is designed to help families purchase clothing for school before children head back to the classroom. However, apparel items for adults and infants are also tax-free.

As with everything, there are some restrictions. Each item must be priced under $100 and items such as clothing accessories, jewelry, watches, handbags, wallets and briefcases are not tax exempt.

Nor are school supplies or items to make clothing, such as cloth, buttons, sewing needles, scissors and sewing machines.

Sports items — boots, helmets, skates, pads, golf shoes — are taxed, but you can purchase gym suits, caps, bathing suits, jerseys, sweat-shirts and tennis shoes.

What's more, you can take eligible items out of layaway this weekend and get them tax free, or you can place tax-free items in layaway to pick up later at the lower price.

The state calculates that shoppers saved $37 million in state and city sales tax last year during the Sales Tax Holiday. It is expected that even more people will take advantage this year.

Not all of us enjoy shopping for clothes. But since we have to do it — at least occasionally — it's nice to know we'll be getting a little discount for our discomfort.

YOUR VIEWS

DEAR EDITOR,

On behalf of the Wilderness Camp inmates we would like to say a great big "thank you" to the congregation of the Trinity Baptist Church. They served 158 inmates and 20 officers a great meal of barbecue, potato salad, beans, various salads and a great variety of desserts. They were filled to capacity and very content after this delightful meal. The meal was served in the beautiful fellowship hall of the newly erected Claude Craven's Annex.

Mayor Russ McEwen addressed the group viving them a word of encouragement regarding the work they do around the city and the appreciation for it. They were inspired by Trinity's outstanding trio composed of Steve Moses, Tim & Debbie Dunn's message in songs. Then several of the inmates provides some wonderful gospel songs.

I need churches, businesses, organizations or groups of individuals to feed these inmates. This is done quarterly basis to show our appreciation. Anyone interested should contact me at 263-4607.

Lesson of public education is one of failure

Public education — or, more accurately, compulsory government education — is a failure. It should not cost half a trillion dollars a year to teach people to read and write, especially when even that effort is far from successful.

CHARLEY REESE

Back in the late 1800s, when compulsory government education was still a topic of debate, R.L. Dabney, a great Southern theologian, remarked, "If all you mean by education is teaching people to read and write, then all you will accomplish is to create a mass market for trash literature."

Fairly accurate prediction, I'd say, because America is certainly the largest market in the world for trash literature, trash television and trash movies. Some of the nation's highest-paid heroes are barely literate, a fact that can be verified by listening to almost any sports interview.

I have observed this process of decay since 1955. Certain things have always been constant. The cry is always: Give us more money, and we will do the job. The educational bureaucracy has always been given more money, and it has done a worse, not a better, job. Another constant has been that blame has been placed on everybody but the responsible parties — students and their parents.

Learning, which is what students do — or at least are supposed to do — is a subjective process. A child cannot be force-fed an education. If the desire is not there, if the willingness to work hard is not there — yes, Virginia, learning is hard work — there's not much that teachers can do about it.

Of course, the decay in the system is so pervasive that 60 percent of the college graduates in Massachusetts flunk the teacher-qualification exam. I have no doubt that Massachusetts will react in the typical postmodern way: either abolish the examination or water it down to the point that a moron can pass it.

I personally do not believe compulsory government education can be reformed. I have long advocated that parents get their children out of it if they can find an alternative. I'm well aware that, in a nation with more than 15,000 separate school districts, there are some schools that do a fair job — relatively speaking. Not one, I'm convinced, could stand a comparison with a typical school of 75 years ago.

The system today is a political system and, like everything else in our society, has been strangled by laws, rules and court orders. If you look at the areas where a school-board member could actually make a decision, you find there practically are no areas left. Hence, elected school boards have become, in effect, a cover for a bureaucracy that runs itself without any democratic input whatsoever.

Contributing to the unlikelihood of any serious reform is the disunity in a country that is being destroyed by immigration and by a moronic native population that has been conditioned to despise its own heritage.

Consequently, there is no consensus, even on what education should accomplish. Business wants it to produce docile workers and mindless consumers.

Various fanatics want it to produce cannon fodder for their respective ideological wars. Many parents just want public schools to baby-sit their brats so they can enjoy their soap operas in peace. In the meantime, colleges of education, better called institutions of no learning, are spreading the poison that education should be effortless and under no circumstances should any child have to earn self-esteem.

And, at the same time, in our litigation-mad society, teachers and administrators alike are paralyzed into inaction.

I have a friend, or at least an ex-friend, who is upset at my position on public education. He keeps sending me clips about good teachers. All he is doing is reinforcing my position.

The people in the gigantic educational bureaucracy who have the least influence on the system are the classroom teachers. They know that if they speak about what's wrong with the system, they do so at the jeopardy of their jobs. They either will be fired or be exiled to some educational equivalent of Siberia, and every school district has such a place.

I wish I could just say: Put your children in a private school. Unfortunately, when a culture is poisoned, the poison spreads to all its institutions, both public and private. In other words, not all private schools are any better than the public ones.

In the meantime, don't be fooled by cries for more money or promises of more reforms. Unless you see colleges of education (the source of a lot of nonsense) being shut down, the federal Department of Education being abolished and the compulsory-attendance laws repealed, you will know the reforms are a sham.

There are simply too many people with a vested interest in getting their share of that half-trillion dollars.

They aren't about to change the gravy train, and to hell with what it does to your children.

Rumsfeld determined to do it his way

Many defense experts say it's time for a revolution in how we approach our national security needs. The Cold War has been over for more than a decade, and new threats require new thinking.

JACK ANDERSON

That is the scenario that lured Donald Rumsfeld from his cushy post in private industry to head the Defense Department. Yet, six months after assuming the post, Rumsfeld appears no closer to changing the way we defend ourselves than the day he took office.

This is Rumsfeld's second tour of duty at the Pentagon. His first time around, appointed in the 1970s by President Ford, he was the youngest-ever Defense Secretary. Now in his 60s, he is at a point in his life where he never expected to get another turn at the helm, and he's determined to do it his way. A naturally assertive fellow, he doesn't expect to step aside for anybody. The combination of his overbearing personality and his command-and-control management style has proved deadly in Washington, where subtlety and salesmanship are essential to bring about change.

Rumsfeld wants to move the military away from its two-war strategy, which requires a high degree of readiness and manpower, toward a stealthier, more high-tech strike force with a space-based, antimissile shield as a centerpiece.

Knowledgeable critics worry that Rumsfeld's plan will be used as an excuse to de-fund conventional forces, and the Joint Chiefs, who represent the various military services, are lobbying against any cutbacks that might affect them.

They have enlisted so many powerful members of Congress in their cause that it is said on Capitol Hill, "If the Joint Chiefs prepared the battlefield for war the way they prepared the battlefield to get Rumsfeld, we'd never lose."

Rumsfeld's obsessive focus on an antimissile shield makes many lawmakers uneasy. They see it as the equivalent of another Manhattan Project that, while allegedly defensive in nature, would open the heavens to the arms race.

Setting aside the merits of Rumsfeld's Revolution, the way he has presented his case is puzzling. First, he conducted his review of defense policy with great secrecy, inviting comparisons to how former First Lady Hillary Clinton formulated her failed health-care plan.

Members of Congress complained that he didn't consult them, and there was a report that Rumsfeld privately referred to lawmakers as "hillbillies." He didn't do much better at the Pentagon, where he alienated the Joint Chiefs with his grandiose plans and his cocky, arrogant style.

"He's treating the Pentagon like it's a hostile takeover," says a former Pentagon official.

Change is unsettling, and some of the negative reaction to Rumsfeld is predictable.

Former President Dwight Eisenhower warned in his farewell address about the growing power of the military-industrial complex.

Rumsfeld may be right that the entire defense structure needs an overhaul, but he won't get anywhere if the defense industry bureaucrats, members of Congress and the generals are all on the other side.

Closing unneeded military bases is even proving impossible. The military has 25 percent more bases than it needs, but try closing one, and an armadillo of lawmakers swings into action to prevent it. The military can't afford the three new jet fighter planes being contemplated, but the expectation is that they will be built anyway, though not in enough numbers to make a difference. A Reagan-era defense official predicts the result will be "the worst of both worlds. We won't cancel any of the old weapons, and we'll build more new weapons than we did during the Cold War."

Rumsfeld may spark a revolution, but it may not be the one he intended.

Armstrong's query: how many Tour de France titles?

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four, five, six Tour de France titles. How many can Lance Armstrong win?

"As long as he's healthy and on his game, I don't think anyone can beat him," Sean Petty, director of athletic performance at USA Cycling, said Monday, the day after Armstrong won his third straight championship.

Eddy Merckx of Belgium, who won four of his five in a row, put it even stronger: "He can rewrite the history books."

"Nobody can beat him. He can win six, seven Tours de France. He can win as many Tours as he wants," he told The New York Times.

"Simply unbeatable" was how rival Jan Ullrich described Armstrong when the German conceded defeat with one week remaining.

Tour de France archivist Jacques Augendre said Armstrong could break the record of five titles held by Merckx, Miguel Indurain, Bernard Hinault and Jacques Anquetil. Indurain won five straight.

"He is perfectly in control and he's better prepared than his rivals," Augendre said. "I think he will win more. I wouldn't be surprised if he broke the record."

Armstrong, an Austin, Texas, resident who turns 30 in September, shows no signs of slowing nearly five years after being diagnosed with testicular cancer.

For the immediate future, Armstrong is returning to the United States. He's booked on the "Late Show" with David Letterman on Wednesday. That night, he's also throwing out the first pitch at Yankee Stadium.

Armstrong's dominance, especially after his comeback from cancer, has raised talk in Europe that he might use performance-enhancing drugs.

He has never tested positive for a banned substance and emphatically denies the accusations.

During the Tour, he defended his relationship with an Italian physician, Michele Ferrari, who has been linked to drug use in sports.

That relationship also was questioned by Greg LeMond, the three-time Tour champion and, before Armstrong, the last American winner.

"When Lance won the prologue to the 1999 Tour I was close to tears, but when I heard he was working with Michele Ferrari I was devastated," LeMond told the Guardian, a London newspaper.

"In the light of Lance's relationship with Ferrari, I just don't want to comment on this year's Tour," LeMond was quoted as saying. "This is not sour grapes. I'm just disappointed in Lance."

LeMond couldn't be reached for comment, but his agent, Mary Haigh, confirmed the quotes were accurate.

Armstrong will return to Austin.

Rangers edge Orioles, 6-4

BALTIMORE (AP) — The last time they were in town, the Texas Rangers sat around for an entire day without playing a game.

On their return trip, they enjoyed a quick, productive visit.

Alex Rodriguez singled in two runs in the 11th inning as the Rangers beat Baltimore 6-4 Monday night, their seventh straight win against the Orioles.

The game was a makeup of the July 19 postponement caused by a train derailment near Camden Yards.

The Rangers arrived Monday afternoon and left immediately afterward for New York, where they start a three-game series Tuesday night.

"It's just part of the schedule," Rodriguez said. "I don't think any of us were happy about it. I know they weren't happy about it. But if you're going to do it, you might as well get the win."

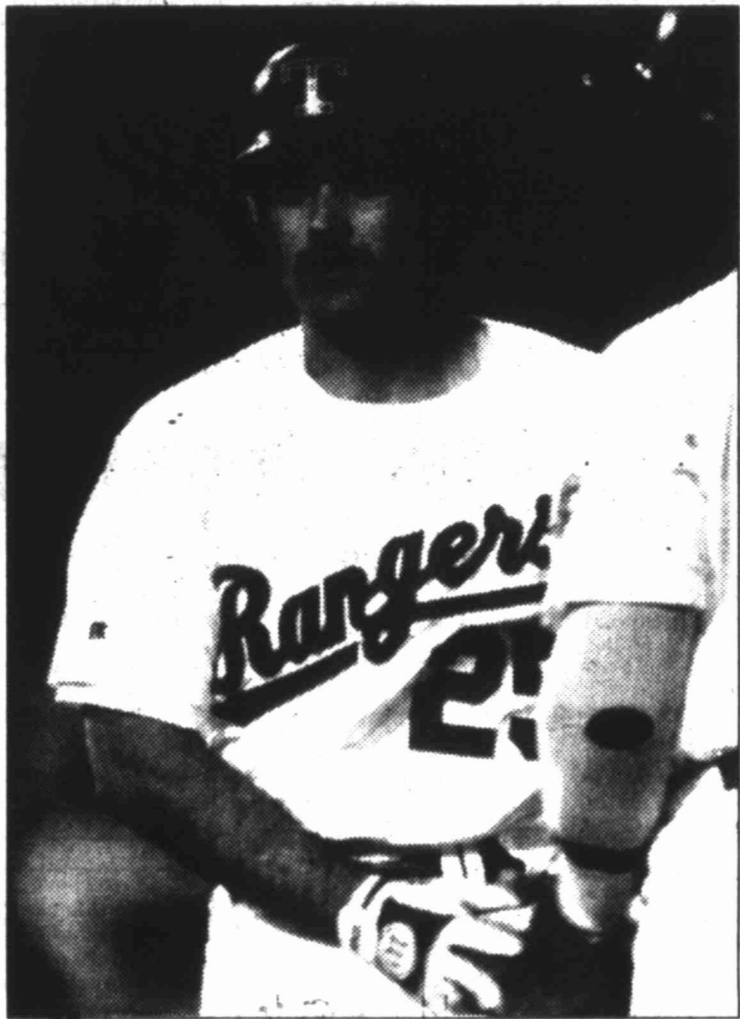

Jeff Conine had three hits and an RBI for the Orioles, who blew a 4-0 lead in their 20th loss in 25 games. Baltimore went 0-7 against Texas after winning the first two games of the series May 25 and 27.

"They're a lot more fundamentally sound now, a lot more relaxed than they were," Orioles manager Mike Hargrove said.

The Rangers have won seven of eight, a streak that includes five victories over the Orioles.

"I guess it's just the way it breaks down," Rodriguez said. "When we've played them, we're playing some of our best baseball of the season. ... If we'd played them earlier in the year, we'd probably have gone 1-6."

Craig Monroe led off the 11th with a walk off Mike Trombley (3-4), took second on a sacrifice and moved to third on a groundout. After Frank Catalanotto was intentionally walked and Rafael Palmeiro enjoyed better times here as he is congratulated by a teammate. Palmeiro made an error Monday in the fifth inning, allowing two Oriole runs to score. The Rangers still took the 6-4 win.

Trombley walked Randy Velarde, Rodriguez came back from an 0-2 count before lining a single to left.

Juan Moreno (2-1) pitched two perfect innings, and Jeff Zimmerman got three outs for his 20th save in 23 chances.

"When we knew we'd be coming here, we got ready to play," Texas catcher Bill Haselman said. "We play so many games that one more game isn't going to really make anybody upset. It's not like we had to go someplace in the Midwest and then go to New York."

The Orioles took a 1-0 lead in the second against Doug Davis on singles by Conine, Cal Ripken and Mike Kinkade. A throwing error by Texas first baseman Rafael Palmeiro led to two unearned runs in the Orioles' three-run fifth.

Texas tied it at 4 in the sixth. Gabe Kapler singled in a run and took third on an RBI double by Ricky Ledee.

Haselman followed with a run-scoring groundout, and Michael Young hit an RBI single off Kinkade's glove in left.

Baltimore starter Sidney Ponson allowed four runs, nine hits and two walks in seven innings, capping a July in which he went 0-1 in five starts.

The right-hander gave up four hits in the first five innings and five in the sixth.

"There are times in everyone's career, especially young pitchers, when they feel too comfortable with the lead," Hargrove said. "I think Sidney relaxed a little bit mentally. It's a lesson that needs to be learned."

Woods, Sorenstam survive golf ordeal

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — The LPGA Tour took advantage of its debut on prime time by airing its new advertising campaign titled, "Positively Amazing." The golf was anything but that, in the mixed-team Battle at Bighorn.

The only amazing thing about this made-for-TV event was that it finally ended.

Hot, blustery winds and brick-hard greens conspired to turn a Monday night mixer at the club into a gruesome display of left-handed shots, putts that rolled off the green and errant drives that wound up in desert shrubs.

When it was over, Tiger Woods and Annika Sorenstam survived the 41/2-hour ordeal in true alternate-shot fashion.

Sorenstam made a 10-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to extend the match, and Woods made another solid recovery that led to a par-saving victory in 19 holes over David Duval and Karrie Webb.

"All the players that I played with are all great players," Woods said. "It was just tough conditions out there. When you play in this type of format under tough conditions, it's really tough to get your rhythm. All of us were struggling."

Duval and Webb finished the 18 holes in 3-over 75, one stroke better than Woods and Sorenstam, who took back-to-back double bogeys early on the back nine.

Duval and Webb hit only five greens in regulation. Neither Webb nor Sorenstam could find the 18th fairway — twice — with the match on the line.

"I didn't play as well as I would have liked, but that's the way it goes," said Sorenstam, a member at Bighorn. "I had a good partner that picked me up."

Woods was far from perfect. The same went for Duval.

They missed their share of fairways, hit suspect chips, ran putts past the hole.

Still, the spotlight was on the women, who played before the largest audience ever.

Woods and Sorenstam split $1.2 million of the $1.7 million purse, but the real measure of success will come later this week when ABC Sports releases its ratings.

Woods vs. Duval two years ago got a 6.9 rating, while Sergio Garcia's victory over Woods last year got a 7.6. Officials were expecting something in that range — if not higher — for the first-of-its-kind match that pitted the best men and women in golf.

"This is one of the biggest days in LPGA history, if not the biggest day, based on the number of eyeballs that are going to be on our product," LPGA commissioner Ty Votaw said before the match.

By the end of the night, Votaw was trying to assess how his players will be perceived.

"Golf gets the blame," he said of the shabby scoring. "That's what is great about alternate shot. The golf wasn't that great down the stretch at the men's U.S. Open, either, and it was pretty entertaining."

Give this two thumbs up for entertainment value.

The golf was another story.

Working against the players was a wicked wind that whipped up about 15 minutes before they headed to the first tee with 5,000 people in tow.

That made everything more difficult, from club selection to where the shots would land, which was compounded by brick-hard greens that sent balls bouncing into the rough or the bunkers.

"It was hot, dusty and we lost," Duval said. "That combination is not good."

The golfers had plenty of birdies and bogeys.

Twins add Reed, Giants get Schmidt as trade deadline nears

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

A recent slump motivated the Minnesota Twins to make a deal before the trade deadline. A four-game sweep of Arizona did the same for the San Francisco Giants.

While many general managers scrambled to make deals before today's trade deadline, others got their shopping done early.

The surprising Twins, knocked out of first place by a post All-Star slump, acquired All-Star pitcher Rick Reed from the New York Mets for outfielder Matt Lawton on Monday night.

The Giants, riding the momentum of a four-game sweep in Arizona, got starter Jason Schmidt and outfielder John Vander Wal from Pittsburgh for outfielder Armando Rios and pitching prospect Ryan Vogelsong.

"We really thought this would give us a great chance to get into the postseason and have success," Giants general manager Brian Sabean said.

Also, San Diego sent left-hander Sterling Hitchcock to the Yankees for two minor leaguers; and Milwaukee traded reliever David Weathers and a minor leaguer to the Chicago Cubs for two prospects.

Other big names could also be on the go before 3 p.m. Central today, including Colorado's Pedro Astacio, Montreal's Ugueth Urbina and Toronto's Shannon Stewart.

Teams can still make trades after the deadline, but players need to pass through waivers first. While that can happen — especially with high-salaried players — general managers have become more aggressive about blocking such deals in recent years.

The most surprising move might have come from the Twins, who had the game's lowest opening-day payroll at $24.35 million.

But after watching his team go from five games up to a half-game behind Cleveland in the American League Central, general manager Terry Ryan got the OK to add Reed and the approximately $19.4 million that remains on his contract that runs through 2003.

"We're looking to stabilize our pitching staff," Ryan said. "We've struggled since the break. We felt like Reed was the best available."

Reed adds a veteran presence for the young team that is battling down the stretch. Reed, who turns 36 on Aug. 16, was 8-6 with a 3.48

ERA for the Mets.

The Twins, who traded for reliever Todd Jones on Saturday, might not be finished dealing. They are also interested in adding Cincinnati outfielder Dmitri Young to replace Lawton.

The defending National League champion Mets, 11 1/2 games behind Atlanta, in the National League East, have begun preparing for next season.

Last week, New York traded relievers Turk Wendell and Dennis Cook to Philadelphia for Bruce Chen, who will replace Reed in the rotation. Lawton provides needed production in the outfield.

After watching the Dodgers add James Baldwin, and the Diamondbacks trade for Albie Lopez, the Giants felt the need to shore up their rotation to compete in the tight National League West. Los Angeles leads Arizona by 11/2 games and San Francisco by four.

The Yankees, leading the American League East by 31/2 games over Boston, didn't want to head into the stretch with rookies Ted Lilly and Randy Keisler in the rotation.

Hitchcock, 2-1 with a 3.32 ERA in three starts back from elbow surgery, will likely take Keisler's spot and provide insurance if Orlando Hernandez isn't healthy by October. The Yankees sent pitcher Brett Jodie and outfielder Darren Blakely to San Diego.

"This upgrades the one area that might be a question mark to some degree with two rookies at the back end of the rotation," GM Brian Cashman said.

The National League Central-leading Cubs added Weathers (3-4, 2.03 ERA) to an already deep bullpen. They also got minor league pitcher Roberto Miniel in exchange for minor league pitcher Ruben Quevedo and minor league outfielder Peter Zoccolillo.

The Red Sox, who were also interested in Hitchcock, might choose to upgrade their bullpen with Urbina or Pittsburgh's Mike Williams.

But with Frank Castillo expected to come off the DL soon, either Rolando Arrojo or Tim Wakefield will shift back to the bullpen. Pedro Martinez also should be back for the stretch run.

"We have the people here to accomplish what we need to accomplish," GM Dan Duquette said. "We just have to get them healthy and back out there."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Wednesday, Aug. 1:

Much goes on behind the scenes this year. You might not choose to share everything with others, especially info on your love life and your finances. Be discreet, and check out others before you become bosom buddies. Select a group of experts that you trust and know well. You'll be unusually focused on your work and day-to-day life.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

* Establish stronger priorities at work. You could be debating how much time you would like to spend at home. Do you have a home office? If you don't, you might evaluate the pros and cons of having one. Some of you also might want to spend less time at home as well. Tonight: Happy at home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

* Your diplomatic skills will peak in the next few weeks. Start practicing putting your best foot forward. Make calls and reach out for others at a distance. Understand how a close friend ticks. Someone warms up considerably. You feel valued, and you are valued. Tonight: Go to a place with great music.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

* Dote on a family member or partner. Express more of your caring through attentive conversations and happy sharings. Others respond to your eye contact and your friendly ways. Stop somewhere at lunchtime, not only to buy a card but to get yourself a treat. Tonight: Indulge a special friend or partner.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

* Venus moves into your sign, adding extra spark and attractiveness. You might notice how many seek you out, not only today but in the next few weeks. Listen to what others offer. Realize just how many special options you really have. Tonight: Follow another's lead.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

* You might be more sensitive than usual. You are likely to overreact. Detach and attempt to gain a different perspective if you find yourself feeling out of sorts. Concentrate on work. Work through stress. Tonight: Do something you want to do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

* Where others might

get stumped, you won't. You also have excellent resources. Share your more vulnerable side with the one who gives you butterflies. A romance could be budding. Tonight: Where your friends are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

* A boss or someone who really cares about you pays you a compliment, if not today, then in the near future. Understand what motivates a family member who sometimes works on providing distraction in your life. Put a halt to irritating behavior. Tonight: Get some extra sleep.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

* Scorpios tend to speak their minds, but how they say what is on their minds makes a huge difference. Be more loving and understanding with those in your life. Work on walking in another's shoes. You might gain a different perspective. Tonight: Talk about a possible trip.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

* An associate or loved one will let you know shortly just how important you are. Go out of your way for another. Balance your budget, and check your finances before running out the door on a spending spree. You'll be happier if you maintain your budget. Tonight: Your treat.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

* You feel as if nothing can stop you. (If you check in with your astrologer, you'll discover you're right.) Others tend to glow while you're paving the way to success and greater popularity. Don't forget that someone special in your life. Tonight: Make another happy!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

* Separating work and play might be close to impossible right now. When a friendship develops into more, you might need to pull back rather than jump in. You'll be happier if you use both your mind and your heart. Tonight: Get a good night's sleep.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

* You know what you want in different areas of your life. Right now, focus on loved ones. Schedule a day outing very soon so family and children can enjoy one another. If you are single, a flirtation could be building into more. Tonight: Go wherever you want with whomever you want.

Biological parent's renewed friendship troubling to daughter

Dear Ann Landers: I am 36 years old and recently met my biological father for the first time. He and my mother divorced before I was born, and they both married other people. My father and I bonded at first sight, and are building a good relationship. We enjoy e-mailing each other often. The problem is: I gave my mother his e-mail address, and now, she is corresponding with him, too. In fact, they chat rather frequently. This bothers me a great deal, although I am not sure why.

Mom insists the relationship is strictly platonic and none of my business. I can't help feeling that something more is going on. I suspect my mother has unresolved feelings toward my father. Am I right to be worried, or am I simply jealous of their newfound friendship? Please give me some advice. I'm troubled by my feelings. — Ambivalent Daughter in Houston

Dear Houston: You say you are troubled by your feelings. Well, that makes two of us. Why do you begrudge your father and mother the pleasure they get from renewing their friendship? I would hope you'd be happy that they have a cordial relationship. Most children of divorced parents would be thrilled if their parents got along well. Your statement that your mother has "unresolved feelings" toward your father indicates you are concerned the e-mail contact will jeopardize their marriages. If that is the case, they will have to deal with it. If you are wise, you will be nonjudgmental and wish them both well.

Gem of the Day (credit the Prairie Rambler): If you want to cut down on the number of relatives who are hanging around, borrow money from the rich ones and lend money to the ones who are poor. You will never see any of them again.

Feeling pressured to have sex? How well-informed are you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet "Sex and the Teenager." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.55.) To find out more about Ann Landers and read her past columns, visit the Creators Syndicate web page at www.creators.com.
