Emergency personnel being offered a free meal

Local fireman's and policeman's stomachs area may be expanding a little lately from numerous free lunches given to our local emergency personnel to show appreciation for the job these people perform for the community.

Furr's restaurant is no exception and is offering a free meal for lunch or dinner to all police officers, firefighters and emergency medical technicians who come dressed in uniform on Thursday.

"The Sept. 11 bombings left our company shocked and wondering how we can help," said Jill Laird, director of marketing at Furr's Restaurant Group. The company is doing two things as a whole, Laird said.

"First we are collecting donations for the Red Cross," Laird said. "At all our 92 food serving units we have collection boxes for the Red Cross."

Secondly, Laird said, the company wants to stop and appreciate the service those emergency

Commissioners provide library patron confidentiality

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Howard County residents can feel free to use the library without fear of persecution.

At their meeting Tuesday morning, county commissioners approved a confidentiality statement for the library which protects information about patrons' reading habits.

"This has not been part of the official library policy in the past, and I decided to go ahead and do that in light of the recent incidents we've been having in New York," Howard County Librarian Hollis McCright said. "They've subpoenaed some of the library records of some of the people involved."

The policy forbids library personnel to reveal information about:

- A patron's name (or whether an individual is a registered borrower or has been a patron).

- A patron's address.
- A patron's phone number.
- The library's circulation records and their contents.
- The library's borrower's records and their contents.
- The number or character of questions asked by patrons.
- The frequency or content of a patron's lawful visits to the library or any other information supplied to the library (or gathered by it).

The statement goes on to say that such information will not be released without a "valid process, order or subpoena."

McCright said she hasn't had any patrons express concerns about their library records.

"I wanted to be proactive rather than reactive," she said.

The librarian said the library carries several controversial books, such as Maya Angelou's "I Know Why The Caged Bird Sings," Harper Lee's "To Kill A Mockingbird" and Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer," that some people might not feel comfortable reading without a guarantee of privacy.

Shelhamer describes New York experience

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

Letters, e-mails and phone calls from home helped support a local fireman as he searched for bodies buried in the rubble left of World Trade Center.

Dusty Shelhamer, a six-year veteran with the Big Spring Fire Department, spoke briefly at the Rotary Club of Big Spring luncheon Tuesday about his experiences in New York.

"I spent 17 days working in the disaster site recovering bodies. This was definitely the hardest time in my life," Shelhamer said.

A member of the National Disaster Medical System (NDMS), Shelhamer was sent to New York on Sept. 19, to assist in the recovery of bodies and has returned to Big Spring for a brief time.

He left for the site a week after the terrorists flew two hijacked planes into the World Trade Center leaving more than 6,000 people unaccounted for.

Shelhamer was the only person from Texas on the team sent in for rescue and recover victims caught under the rubble.

Although the work was tough, he said he received strong support from home.

"Every time I came off work I had a letter or e-mail from home," he said.

Encouraging letters came from people he did not know.

"I would receive mail from Texas with no return

With many of the nation's eyes turned toward the heroic efforts of firefighters in New York, the Big Spring's firefighters got a reminder Tuesday that they are heroes too.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm sent his West Texas Regional Director, Matt Schaefer, to deliver a certificate of appreciation and a flag flown over the U.S. Capitol to the department at Fire Station 1.

"It's Fire Prevention Week and Senator Gramm thought it would be appropriate given the events of last month to come and say 'Thank you,'" Schaefer told the firefighters gathered in the station's garage. "You may never have pulled a

Depression screening scheduled Thursday at Big Spring Mall

By VALERIE AVERY
Herald Correspondent

Free depression screenings for adults, children and parents will be offered by qualified mental health professionals Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Big Spring Mall during National Depression Screening Day.

The event is co-sponsored by Big Spring State Hospital and West Texas Centers for MHMR.

"We had such a huge response last year that we thought it was important to offer these free screenings again," Big Spring State Hospital Director of Psychology Dr. John Pichitino said.

"We found a lot of people suspected they were living with depression but didn't have the means or time to make an appointment to confirm their suspicions."

"They were so thankful that they had an opportunity to speak to someone about their concerns."

Participants will respond to a questionnaire concerning symptoms, review the test results with an attending clinician, and receive a referral if appropriate.

The screening results are for patient-use only and are not a substitute for a psychiatric evaluation, said West Texas Centers for MHMR CEO Shelley Smith.

Depression is the most common form of psychiatric illness, Smith said and is not caused by a personality weakness or character flaw. "There's a belief out there that people who are depressed can just 'snap out of it if they tried hard enough," she said. "That's the farthest thing from the truth."

"Depression has nothing to do with being lazy or weak. It's caused by changes in functioning of the brain. Medication is helpful in treating depression, and so is psychotherapy."

The World Health Organization reports that clinical depression will be the second-most burdensome illness in the world by 2020 and it can affect people of all ages, even children.

One in 10 children and adolescents in the United States develop a mental disorder, however about 20 percent of those children seek treatment. Without treatment, the problems can worsen.

Depression isn't a brief blue mood or a passing sadness that lifts in a few hours or days, Dr. Pichitino said. People who develop depression experience at least five of the symptoms, nearly every day, all day for at least two weeks, according to the National Alliance for Research on Schizophrenia and Depression.

- Persistent depressed mood, including feelings of sadness or emptiness;
- Loss of interest or pleasure in activities or hobbies that were once enjoyed;
- Feelings of hopelessness and pessimism;
- Feelings of guilt, worthlessness, and helplessness;
- Insomnia, early-morning awakening, or oversleeping;
- Loss of appetite accompanied by weight loss or overeating accompanied by weight gain;
- Decreased energy, fatigue, and feeling "slowed down";
- Restlessness and irritability;

City Council OKs consultant for airpark

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

A pair of 6-1 votes highlighted the Big Spring City Council meeting Tuesday night.

In one of the council approved paying $500 for a consultant from the West Coast to take a look at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark. In the other, it approved specifications for new full-sized cruisers for the Big Spring Police Department.

"We have been working with the Airpark Development Board and they have made the recommendation that we spend up to $500 to bring in a consultant," City Manager Gary Fuqua said in explaining the request to contract for a consultant's services.

The consultant is Paul C. McCann of Newport Beach, Calif. McCann's resume shows a strong background in international finance, including heading banks in Korea, Liberia and Singapore.

He has also created corrective surgery and educational development programs among orphans and homeless villagers in Liberia, Korea and Southeast Asia, according to his resume.

The Airpark Development Board hopes McCann will be able to give them some insight into developing a rail containerization facility at the airpark, said chairman Jim Little.

Little added the $500 is simply to pay McCann's food and hotel expenses for a one-day stopover during one of his frequent coast-to-coast flights.

Little said that the Airpark Development Board would prepare a package of information for McCann to study prior to ing him to be a part of the NDMS including Mayor Russ McEwen, Assistant City Manger Emma Bogard, and his boss, Fire Chief Brian Jensen, all whom attended the luncheon.

He also expressed gratitude to the Rev. Roger Huff, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, who spent sometimes hours on the phone talking with Shelhamer after he'd come off a 12-hour shift.

"I have the greatest job in the world," Shelhamer told the crowd. "I am very proud to be a fireman. I am very proud to be from Big Spring."

Shelhamer is scheduled to return to New York at the end of this month and is ready to get back to work.

"The hardest part was leaving (New York). I did not want to leave," he said.

The Rotary Club hosted Big Spring firefighters and policemen on Tuesday, recognizing their contributions to the community.

person from a burning building, but the fact that you're willing to do it is great."

In a written statement, Gramm expressed his appreciation of firefighters' dedication.

"The events of last month remind us again of the selfless heroism of firefighters nationwide, but America's firefighters aren't just a hero on one day, they're a hero every day," he said. "In every city across America, firefighters have made a commitment to help promote fire safety. National Fire Prevention Week is a time to honor those dedicated professionals and volunteers who risk their lives every day to protect our homes, neighborhoods and communities."

Fire Chief Brian Jensen said firefighters love to get recognition for their work. "It's always great to get the recognition," he said. "The guys are out there doing this every day, it kind of catches you off guard to get recognized like this. It's kind of humbling in a way."

Fire Marshal Carl Condray said the certificate would be proudly displayed on the wall in the lobby of Fire Station 1, but he doesn't know what the department will do with the flag. "We've been looking for a flag to fly, but this one is really too special to fly," he said.

the visit. The lone dissenting vote on the measure came from council member Joanna Smoot.

"I just have this knot in my stomach when the Airpark Board comes on our agenda and I don't know why we don't hold off on this until we have an airpark manager. It may be that he will have this expertise," Smoot said. "I know it's not a lot of money but I'm just not for spending any more money out there until we have a manager."

Little responded to Smoot's concern by lamenting the rift between the council and the Airpark Development Board.

"The Airpark Development Board does have a charter to advise the council," he said. "This is something we're putting forward and if we're not going to be able to fund a $500 request for a consultant, I don't know where we're going to go from here."

Concern over the police cruiser specifications arose from wording calling for "2002 production model four-door full-size police special sedan(s)."

Police Chief Lonnie Smith told the council that he has stopped specifying six- or eight-cylinder engines to allow more dealers to bid.

Randy Gee of Bob Brock Ford said the wording practically cuts Ford out of the competition because Ford does not make a police package on a six-cylinder car, just V8s. Full-size police packages from both Chevrolet and Dodge do include the less-expensive six-cylinder engines, allowing them to undercut Ford's bid, Gee said.

The council went ahead and approved the specifications, despite a dissenting vote from Councilwoman Stephanie Horton.

"We keep saying we're going to do bids that accept everybody's specifications and not leave anybody out," she said after the meeting. "Now we're leaving Ford out."

In other business, the council: Ended contract negotiations with City Manager Gary Fuqua after a brief executive session. Fuqua and the council opted to extend his current contract for another year.

Approved amendments to city ordinances requiring cats to be licensed as well as dogs. The amendments also provide higher licensing and redemption fees for animals which haven't been spayed or neutered and adds fees for implanting identification microchips in pets.

Authorized Fuqua to execute a contract for Big Spring's electrical power.

In his eight years as president from 1945 to 1953, Harry S. Truman made some of the most important decisions in U.S. history, particularly in foreign policy matters.

This book contains transcripts of conversations with Harry Truman from taped interviews in 1959.

The probing questions and straight forward answers cover a wide variety of domestic and foreign policy issues ranging from civil rights in the South to using the atomic bomb on Japan.

These interviews reveal Truman's bedrock foundation of deeply held political beliefs as he gives thoughtful answers to queries about major political issues.

In addition, he discusses American presidential history; Congressional leaders such as Sam Rayburn and Lyndon Johnson; Supreme Court Justices; and dozens of other well-known political leaders, including Dwight D. Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson and John F. Kennedy.

In similar fashion, he describes numerous foreign leaders, including Joseph Stalin, Adolf Hitler, Benito Mussolini, Winston

After attacks, New York cabbies hit hard

NEW YORK (AP) — The wife and two daughters cab driver Mohammad Khan left behind in Pakistan have come to count on his monthly check of up to $1,000. This month, there may be no check; Khan can't even pay his own bills.

He and other cab drivers say fewer tourists, restricted roadways and even ethnic bias have caused their incomes to tumble since the World Trade Center attacks.

"Drivers have been impacted at a disastrous level," said Bhairavi Desai, spokeswoman for the New York City Taxi Alliance, which represents more than 3,000 taxi drivers. The Alliance estimates the drivers' income has been cut by at least half since the attacks.

"Generally, all of these service industries — hotels, theaters, airports — have been affected, and taxis are the transportation between these sectors," Desai said.

The Alliance's estimate may be high, but there's no question business for taxi drivers has declined, said Alan Fromberg, spokesman for the New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission, which regulates the city's 40,000 yellow-cab drivers.

A normally profitable section of lower Manhattan — an area 12 blocks by five blocks that includes the financial district — remains blocked off to vehicular traffic. Tunnels and bridges into Manhattan have been restricted, and security checkpoints have slowed

Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek.

Evident as well is his firm loyalty to the United States, his family, his friends and the Democratic Party.

Truman also divulges some of his personal dislikes, particularly of political opponents such as Richard M. Nixon and, for over a decade after 1952, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

However, his personal resentments are more than matched by his fair-minded judgments of former President Herbert Hoover, American farmers, laborers and racial groups.

Show may go on for twice-postponed Emmy Awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The show may go on for the twice-postponed Emmy Awards, and a military base is among the new locations being proposed for the ceremony, award show sources said Tuesday.

CBS and the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences are working on a plan for a ceremony to air before the end of the year, although details remain unsettled, the sources said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

A wide variety of plans are under consideration, including one that would turn the TV ceremony into entertainment for troops at a California military base, the sources said.

It was unclear whether military cooperation had been sought yet.

Other settings such as hotel ballrooms also were being weighed by Emmy organizers.

A taped, packaged version of the ceremony that is traditionally broadcast live was among the ideas floated.

Some in the industry are jittery about taking part in a ceremony at a visible and well-known landmark like the Shrine Auditorium. Officials are looking for a location and format that will allow participants to feel secure, one academy source said. A plan could be announced after the academy's executive committee meets Thursday.

The Emmys were called off Sunday, hours before the Shrine ceremony was to air on CBS, after the United States and Britain launched air attacks on Afghanistan.

The show already been postponed from its original Sept. 16 air date because of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

Network and academy officials declined to comment on the awards' future Tuesday.

Both CBS and the TV academy have much at stake. The network, which has paid a license fee of more than $3 million to the academy for the telecast, stands to lose advertising revenue if a show doesn't air.

The academy relies on the license fee and ticket sales for a substantial portion of its annual budget.

Texas firms speeding ration production for soldiers, hungry

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two Texas food companies are reportedly revving up their factory lines to churn out packaged rations for U.S. soldiers and hungry Afghans.

Officials at San Antonio-based Sterling Foods say they were asked to turn up production of bakery and snack foods to meet an expected increased demand for Meals Ready to Eat, called MREs. The high-energy meals are equipped with a heating element.

The factory is operating around the clock and has added 100 jobs since last month's terrorist attacks. John Likovich, president and chief executive officer, told the San Antonio Express-News for Wednesday's editions.

A Cincinnati-based company called HeaterMeals says it was also asked to speed up production. President Tim Zimmerman said the government gave no reason for the request.

The yellow plastic packets of rations dropped by air to Afghans this week contain a notation that they were made by McAllen-based Rightway Foods, a division of The Wornick Co.

The company, which contracts with the U.S. Department of Defense, won't comment on the rations because of security concerns.

The Humanitarian Daily Ration packets contained peanut butter, strawberry jam, crackers, fruit pastries, and entrees such as beans with tomato sauce, and bean and potato vinaigrette.

The 20-year-old McAllen company has delivered more than 300,000 nonperishable meals to American soldiers, according to The Monitor in McAllen.

Steve Ahlenius, president and chief executive officer of the McAllen Chamber of Commerce, said he thinks the government recently notified the company to beef up production.

A single MRE contains around 3,900 calories and is designed to keep soldiers on the battlefield at full speed. The humanitarian variety has 2,200 calories in a two-meal package and is geared to benefit malnourished or hungry people.

Not living in fear key for all of us

Everything was in place: the troops and weapons within striking distance, the international coalition built, humanitarian aid arranged and ultimatums unheeded. Sunday's military strikes against Afghanistan should have come as no surprise. The Bush administration adequately prepared the world for the justifiable retaliation for Sept. 11's terrorist attacks.

What can ordinary Americans do? Don't let it tear us further apart, pitting ethnic groups and religions against one another. Already too much of that is happening across the country. How will those tensions be aggravated when body bags start coming home?

Allow for dissent. We don't live in a dictatorship or theocracy. Americans have the right, even the duty, to question our political and military leaders.

Support our soldiers. Never again should those willing to die for this country be denounced for policies beyond their control. Don't unnecessarily forfeit civil liberties. Just because our intelligence agencies didn't see the Sept. 11 attack coming, doesn't mean we must now live in a police state.

Don't live in fear. It would be foolish to believe that America will never again suffer a terrorist attack. If we are afraid to live our lives, the terrorists win.

Hold our government accountable for the promises made to supportive countries, especially Islamic ones. If not, we will simply create more countries run by anti-American radicals. And some of them could easily have access to nuclear weapons.

Those who plotted and aided the terrorist attacks should be punished, and the governments that support terrorism organizations should be held accountable. Here's hoping U.S. actions can achieve that, as well as making the world a more desirable place to live.

TO THE EDITOR:

Actions taken by Big Spring City Council affect all residents of Howard County even though we don't have a vote or voice in these matters. We must realize that the success of our county is deeply affected by actions of city fathers. As a resident of Howard County, I see dissension about a number of issues that were created or brought about by the actions of the city council, one of these being the airport manager issue. In my estimation this was simply the straw that broke the camel's back. Naturally, people who are disgruntled about many other happenings would jump on this bandwagon.

I have heard of many instances where the city enacted or implemented existing rules or changes in rules that affected citizens adversely. In many instances, simply the way it was handled was too harsh. As a result, many groups of concerned citizens have banded together with a common goal which is to somehow create a kinder, gentler government. Just to name a few of these issues.

It seems the city is tearing down buildings unnecessarily in it's quest to clean up Big Spring.

It seems the city and county want to destroy all antique and collector car parts and pieces in the quest to "clean-up."

Carpools and garages have become a necessity, not a luxury, in our community. Many people have limited places to put them. It seems to me that we could relax some of our guidelines as to where they can be placed.

It is no wonder the citizens of Big Spring complain about their water. If our city fathers really want to attract new businesses, their first objective should be water.

Streets and drainage are horrible in this town.

Our landfill has been here since before I was born, but there's less access to it than 50 years ago.

Several small businesses, some here for more than 30 years, that are now being told that their stock-in-trade violates city code.

War really waged against fundamentalism

War are not fighting a war on terrorism. Terrorism is the means by which our enemy chooses to wage war against us, but we should not confuse its tactics with the nature of the enemy itself. The enemy has an ideology. It has a command structure. It has troops. And it is clear in its aim — nothing short of the destruction of our civilization.

The enemy is militant Islamic fundamentalism. The command structure is made up of hundreds of mullahs around the world, including some living in this country, who preach death to the infidels. Its troops include not just the thousands of trained terrorists but the millions of others who support the mullahs and finance the terrorists through their donations to radical Islamic groups. To pretend otherwise risks not only our own defeat, but that of the moderate Moslem world as well.

In his 1996 book "The Clash of Civilizations and the Remaking of World Order," Harvard political scientist Samuel P. Huntington presciently described "a quasi war develop(ing) between Islam and the West."

Even before the attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, Huntington noted, "many more Westerners have been killed in this quasi war than were killed in the 'real' war in the Gulf." The direction of Islam as a religion has become increasingly threatening to non-believers, not just in the West but throughout the world. Its threat extends beyond the Middle East to Asia and Africa, even to the United States where some fundamentalist imams spread their hateful doctrines protected by our First Amendment.

Not all, or even most, Moslems are our enemies, certainly. Indeed, the moderate Islamic nations are on the front lines of this war and have been among its first casualties, starting with the Iranian revolution in 1979. Some of the most brutal tactics of the fundamentalists have been used against fellow Muslims in Egypt, Morocco, Afghanistan, and elsewhere. Nonetheless, the response of virtually every moderate Moslem leader to the threat posed by fundamentalists has been to accede to the fundamentalists' interpretation of Islam, and to further the Islamization of all social, cultural and political institutions in their countries. Even Turkey, which since Mustafa Kemal Ataturk's policies of secularization in the 1920s and 1930s has been the most pro-Western Moslem nation, has become more Islamist in the last few years. As Huntington observed, every Moslem country in the world is more Islamist today than it was two decades ago, with the exception of Iran — but only because Iran was the vanguard of the Islamic Revolution.

Despite what our leaders keep telling us, Islam is not inherently a peaceful religion. Unlike Christianity, in whose name wars have been fought but without any Scriptural basis to support those wars to be found in the teachings of Jesus Christ, Islam can find explicit justification for its jihad or "holy war" within its sacred text.

The Koran instructs believers to "slay the idolaters... make war on the leaders of unbelief — for no oaths are binding with them — so that they may desist. Will you not fight against those who have broken their oaths and conspired to banish the Apostle? They were the first to attack you. Do you fear them? Surely God is more deserving of your fear, if you are true believers. Make war on them: God will chastise them at your hands and humble them." The Koran is filled with elaborate instructions on the conduct of war, the methods of executing the infidels, the rewards that will accrue to those martyred in a holy war.

The very nature of fundamentalism is to take these instructions literally. And there is plenty of historical precedent. For nearly 1,000 years, Europe was under nearly constant siege from Islamic invaders, from the first Moors who conquered Spain in 710 to the last Ottoman attack on Vienna in 1683. So long as the trend within the Moslem world today is toward a fundamentalist interpretation of Islam, the West will continue to face a new threat to its survival.

A shortcut from San Francisco?

Mason Kevin Lewis is technical director for the television broadcasts of the Texas Rangers baseball games. He was in San Francisco with the team when the attack on America started on Tuesday morning, Sept. 11.

He arrived there late Sunday night for a game with the Oakland A's on Monday. Kevin's brother B.Z. lives in San Francisco, so the two got to hang out together.

They spent Sunday night in Kevin's hotel room downtown. The next morning they went to scout out some potential wedding sites. B.Z. is getting married next May. After the game Monday night, B.Z. stayed with Kevin again. They left a wake-up call for 8 a.m. Tuesday. The phone rang several times and they didn't bother to pick it up because they thought it was the hotel's wakeup call.

They got up and looked at the clock. It was just 7 a.m. They wondered what was going on. The telephone rang again. It was Jill, Kevin's wife, with the news of the planes crashing into the World Trade Center. They called Margaret, B.Z.'s fiancée, and went to her house. Later Tuesday, B.Z. went to his recording studio to do some work. Kevin walked around the streets of San Francisco. The stores were closed and he saw few people.

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

At 11:30 they boarded the buses again, bound for Seattle. There was another call.

Wait just a moment. All baseball games had been called off for the rest of the week. The team would take a bus back to Dallas. Thirty hours. They headed south toward Los Angeles, traveling through San Jose and Fresno.

The team was riding on three buses. Two for the team, one for the rest of the people. Kevin was riding close to the traveling secretary. What a guy. Somewhere between San Jose and Fresno, he arranged for the team to get on a charter plane at Bakersfield. The team was thrilled.

Kevin expected to see some serious security precautions, but there were none. The buses drove right onto the runway, as they always do, stopped next to the plane and the team got on board. It was luxurious. All the seats were first class seats, all leather. Two abreast on each side. Much better than a bus.

The plane left Bakersfield at 8 p.m. Thursday. Kevin walked into his home at 11:45 p.m. Jill was glad to see him.

Eminent death should bridge bitterness

Dear Ann Landers: My heart is breaking. My sister "Emma" is dying, and I don't know what to do. I'm terribly torn and need some advice. Emma and I were very close growing up, but over the years, we became estranged. She did hard drugs, got involved with some undesirable characters, told lies about family members and blamed us for all her problems.

ANN LANDERS

Two years ago, Emma was diagnosed with HIV. We were supportive and loving, but that wasn't enough. She stopped taking her medication. Now she has full-blown AIDS and is dying. She called yesterday and asked me to visit her. I don't know if I can do it, Ann. I don't want to see this wretched, bitter woman who holds her family responsible for all her troubles. She tells everyone that when she became ill, we turned our backs on her. This is not true.

After all the terrible things she has said about us, how can I take her back? I'm looking to you for guidance. Don't fail me. -- Pittsburgh Heartache

Dear Pittsburgh: You MUST take her back -- not for her sake, but for yours. Your sister is dying. True, she made her own trouble, but that is not the issue now. The woman has a fatal illness, and you should do whatever you can to make her final days easier. Now is no time to be judgmental. Be kind and loving. In the years to come, you will be glad you did.

Dear Ann Landers: For the past six months, I have been worried that my husband is cheating on me. "Jimmy" and I have been married two years, and I never would have doubted him before now.

Here's what happened: Jimmy went down to the basement alone. When I asked him what he was doing down there, he made some lame excuse about looking for his wallet (it was upstairs). I let it drop, but I know he was lying.

I have been sick with worry ever since. I call home often to make sure he is there, and if the line is busy, I am convinced he is talking to another woman. I check the redial buttons on our phones to see who he is calling, and I even go through his pockets for evidence. So far, I have found nothing.

This one lie has undermined my faith in him, and it's making me crazy. Should I hire a private investigator? Yes or no? -- Nervous in Nashville, Tenn.

Dear Nervous: I see no evidence that Jimmy is cheating on you. There's no need to hire a private eye. If he is unfaithful, there soon will be other clues. Cool it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 6 feet 7 inches tall, fairly thin, and all my life I have had to put up with remarks about my height. My mother taught me never to make comments about another person's physical appearance, yet wherever I go, both men and women invariably ask, "How tall are you?" or "How's the weather up there?" If I refuse to answer these inane questions, people badger me or accuse me of being rude.

I'm sure if I were to ask people how much they weigh, they would be shocked. In fact, the only people who don't badger me about my height are those who are overweight, very short or handicapped. They understand.

People think I shouldn't be offended by these questions because being tall is "wonderful." I am extremely self-conscious about my height and do not enjoy drawing attention to it. Please tell your readers to think before popping off with a question about someone's personal appearance. -- H.S. in Dallas, Texas

Dear H.S.: Commenting on a stranger's physical appearance is in the worst possible taste. People who are taller, shorter, fatter or thinner than average are well aware of it. Not mentioning it shows real maturity -- and is deeply appreciated.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son, who will soon be 20 years old, is involved with a 31-year-old woman who has two children. She is married, but he told us she is legally separated. My husband and I were hoping his interest in her would fizzle out, but now they are talking about marriage. We are frantic.

Our son doesn't have a dime and can't even rent a place of his own. He blew every cent he had earned working part time during school, so we paid to send him to college, and also made his truck and insurance payments while he was having a good time. He is now home from college, does not plan to return to his studies, and is working in the family business.

We don't mind that he is living at home, but we don't know how to deal with his relationship with this older woman. I have told him I don't want her here. We are not willing to provide financial help so that he can get his own place -- which, of course, would make it easier for him to continue the relationship.

He has told us we don't understand -- and he is right. We don't. He gets mad when we try to reason with him. How should we handle this? -- A Frantic Mom

Dear Fran: You and your husband have been classic "enablers." Until you learn to say NO, your son will lean on you. Tell him you'll support him if he wants to return to college, but beyond that, he gets nothing. And make it stick. Meanwhile, say no more about the girlfriend. You can't force him to stop seeing her, and the more you object, the more appealing she will be. So, put a lid on it. Mom

Howard Hawks hit the rodeo road again

By JEFF MORRIS
Sports Editor

Tony Sauter has been solid for Greg Kernick and his Howard College rodeo team this season.

For all three weeks of the fall rodeo season, Sauter has been wrestling his way to the top 10 in the steer and calf wrestling event, giving the Hawks his share of points.

Last weekend when the Hawks traveled to Alpine for the third of five events this fall, Sauter had his best showing for Howard. He finished fourth overall after taking fourth in the short-go and fourth in the calf roping events. He made it back to the finals in the steer wrestling again, but finished out of the money according to Howard assistant coach Russell Sperry, who reported that, "This is the third week he has made it back to the sort round." He finished with a 6.1 overall.

In team roping, Trent Cornelius partnered with Eastern New Mexico University's James Gilliland. The pair had a quick 4.7 second ride in the long-go and in the short-go, they finished third with a 5.7 run, leaving them first in the average with a 10.4 for the two-head run.

Ross Ericsson also rode well for Howard's Hawks. He finished fourth in the bareback riding event with a 5.6 second ride. He also finished fourth in the long-go of the saddle-bronc riding.

In the women's events, Howard finally managed to score some points as freshman Renn Rudasill gave the Hawks some highlights with a third-place finish in the long-go of the break-away. She roped a calf in 3.1 seconds for third, just a fraction of a second faster than her sophomore teammate Melody Seely, who finished sixth in the same event with a 3.2 second time.

"That is not much time between third and sixth," Sperry said, "so you can see how hard it is and how close they time these events."

Hawks Glimpse

What: Howard College Rodeo.

When: Thursday to Sunday.

Where: Vernon Regional Junior College, Vernon, Texas.

Results: Details and individual results will be available on the Hawks Hotline at 264-5169.

Seely improved her finish in the second run with a 4.3 in the short-go for third, which left her with a third-place finish with a 7.5 average.

"Overall, this was a pretty successful weekend for our Howard rodeo team," Kernick reported.

No team results from the weekend trip to Sul Ross State University were available. The Hawks return to action Thursday when they travel to Vernon Regional Junior College.

Lady Steers sweep Snyder to force tie

By JEFF MORRIS
Sports Editor

Traci Pierce had a little fun Tuesday night. She did some cheering, some clapping and some smiling as she watched her Big Spring volleyball girls get a critical District 4-4A win, 15-6, 15-8, over Snyder's Lady Tigers.

Snyder coach Patty Grimmert was not near as happy.

After her Lady Tigers suffered a straight-set sweep by Big Spring, falling into at least a two-way tie for third place with the Lady Steers at 7-4, Grimmert avoided reporters and refused comment.

Asked what bright spots she saw for her team Tuesday night, Grimmert said she had no comment before she boarded the team bus for the 40-mile trip back to Snyder.

"I'm not mad at you, I just don't have anything to say about it," Grimmert said as she hurried up the steps and told the driver to get going.

Facing a must win situation to stay alive for post-season play, the Lady Steers started strong and finished with a pair of sophomores combining for a kill that could have killed Snyder's chance for a playoff position and a third-place finish in the District 4-4A standings.

"I don't know if it could have gone any better," Pierce said with a big smile as well wishers offered hugs and handshakes. "All 11 made their mind up that they were not going to lose and they came out and played about as well as we have all year."

After the junior varsity battled back from an 8-2 deficit to win the third game for a three-set win (15-12, 9-15, 15-10), the Lady Steers got going with a 1-0 advantage as sophomore Leina Braxton served the first winner for Big Spring. The Lady Steers never trailed after that as Lindsay Phillips served the Steers to a 5-2 lead before Snyder cut the deficit to 8-6 in the opening game.

With Braxton back in control of the serving, the Steers started another first-game rally, taking an 11-6 lead behind a solid kill by LaKenya Wrightsil and a pair of stops by Courtney Brock before a sideout gave the Tigers an opportunity that didn't last long when Leina Braxton (33 in center) goes up for a kill as her Big Spring teammates Courtney Brock (22) and Sterling Burchett (11) look on, waiting for a rebound during a recent win over Levelland. All three played well for the Lady Steers Tuesday night as Big Spring beat Snyder in straight sets.

Wrightsil slammed a kill between two defenders.

"We had to do it," Wrightsil said after the win. "We came out knowing we had to win and it sure is sweet to beat this bunch from Snyder, especially with a sweep."

After her pair of kills, Brock took over the serving duties and Krystle

Long stepped into the killing role, swatting another Snyder return back in an open zone for a 12-6 Big Spring lead. On the next point, Phillips jumped up for a block that bounced free, giving Wrightsil another slamming opportunity. She took it and made it 13-6 before she and Phillips combined for a block on the next point, making it 14-6 as Brock continued to serve.

Wrightsil needed no help on match point. She skied for another smashing shot, slamming the door on Snyder in the first game.

In the second, it was more of the same as the Lady Steers served inspired volleyball, perhaps their best all season, according to Pierce.

"Kim did an awesome job at the net and Courtney came through with some big blocks and some solid serving," Pierce said. "I can't brag on our hitters enough and that means our setters were doing the job too. We might have played our best ball as a team tonight. Krystle hit the ball well all night and Leina did a great job all over the court. Ka'Rissa Magers made a lot of plays. She and Lindsay were ready on defense. They were tough tonight and Sterling (Burchett) set the ball solid for us all night. We were sharp and played as a team."

After the two teams switched sides, the Lady Steers stayed on a roll in the second game. Wrightsil started where she had left off with a solid kill to start the second match with with a sideout. She then served the first point, again giving her Lady Steers a 1-0 start.

They never looked back, building a 6-0 start before the Lady Tigers managed to make it 7-2. But again the Snyder rally fell short as Shelly Fisk served short, into the net, giving Big Spring another sideout.

Brock served the Steers to an 11-2 lead as Wrightsil and Phillips worked the net and Burchett and Braxton dove for digs.

With a 10-2 lead, Brock helped her serve by rushing to the net for another solid smash that made it 11-2 before Phillips fell into the net, ending the rally with a sideout.

Aaryn Stewart served Snyder to 11-4 before Wrightsil killed another Tigers' rally with a smash. Leticia Martinez made it 11-5 before Braxton came up with a kill, giving Wrightsil another serving opportunity.

She made it 12-5 before Long was called for a net violation. Kallie Billingsley added Snyder's final points before Wrightsil again came to the rescue, ending the three-point rally with another center-court slam.

Brock served out the match as Wrightsil and Phillips combined for the final blocks that gave the Lady Steers a sweep and put them solidly in control of their own playoff destiny.

"In the past, we had to hope for somebody to lose, now we can control our own destiny," Wrightsil said with a big smile.

"This is our biggest win so far because we can calm down now," Braxton added. "We got some breathing room tonight, so I feel like we can win the rest of them now."

Big Spring notes:

Phillips, a sophomore who has made a big impact since she and Magers moved up to the varsity a few weeks ago, said the reason the Lady Steers played so well was because of a different pregame approach.

"Before the game, we were concentrating on the match instead of goofing around," Phillips explained.

"I think we had our heads in the match more because our backs were to the wall. We knew we had to win to stay alive, so I think this is the best we have played as a team all year. Now our goal is to win the rest of our games and be in the playoffs."

Pierce said she was pleased with the team win, but will work on reminding her players that one win will not accomplish the team goal of making the playoffs.

"We definitely played like we needed to, now we need to go get the rest of them," Pierce concluded.

Snyder still must meet Andrews and Lake View, the top two teams in 4-4A who met Tuesday with identical 9-1 records to decide No. 1 and 2. Lake View rallied for a come-from-behind three-set win, 15-6, 14-16, 15-12, breaking the tie at the top of the standings with a 10-1 record while Andrews fell to 9-2 and second spot in the District 4-4A standings.

Currently, Big Spring, Plainview and Snyder are in a three-way tie for third with 7-4 district records.

Plainview still must face Lake View Saturday and Snyder before visiting Big Spring for the Lady Bulldogs final match.

Meanwhile Big Spring finishes with Levelland, Lake View and Plainview.

Bonds' ex-wife wins court ruling

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A California appeals court ruled Tuesday that San Francisco Giants slugger Barry Bonds owes his ex-wife half the value of three homes they owned together.

The appeals court was left to resolve the property dispute after the state Supreme Court ruled last August the couple's prenuptial agreement was valid even though only Bonds had a lawyer present when it was signed.

Bonds' ex-wife, Sun, a Swedish immigrant who met Bonds in Montreal in 1987, had no lawyer when she signed the prenuptial agreement on the eve of their 1988 Las Vegas wedding. In 1999, a state appeals court ruled that it was unlikely a trial court could find the agreement valid. The high court overturned that decision.

Last month, Gov. Gray Davis signed into a law a bill sparked in part by the Bonds prenuptial dispute. The new law bars a court from finding that a premarital agreement was valid unless the affected party was represented by a lawyer or had waived that representation in writing.

When Sun Bonds signed the agreement, Barry Bonds was earning $106,000 a year for the Pittsburgh Pirates. When the couple split up in 1994, after six years of marriage, the outfielder was making $8 million a year with the San Francisco Giants.

Without a prenuptial agreement, Sun Bonds would have been entitled to half her husband's earnings under California's community property law.

In Tuesday's ruling, a three-judge appeals panel agreed with Sun Bonds, saying that Barry Bonds reclassified the parcels as community property when he signed deeds that specified the properties were jointly owned.

She's now entitled to half the value of three homes — in Atherton, Murietta and Pennsylvania, the court said. Her lawyer, Paige Wickland, refused to reveal their value, adding the couple is trying to reach a settlement.

The couple has two children, 10 and 11, and still live in the San Francisco Bay area. Barry Bonds has remarried and has another daughter.

Under an order from San Mateo County Superior Court, he pays his ex-wife $20,000 per month in child support, but stopped paying spousal support at the end of 1998.

Braves beat Astros as Jones homers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Atlanta Braves and Houston Astros were almost mirror images Tuesday. Both had great starting pitching, costly errors by shortstops and closers that served up home runs.

The difference? Come playoff time, the Braves know how to win these type of games and the Astros don't.

Chipper Jones hit a three-run homer off nemesis Billy Wagner, capping a four-run eighth inning against the Houston bullpen as Atlanta pulled out a 7-4 victory in the opener of this first-round NL playoff series.

The Braves eliminated the Astros from the playoffs in 1997 and '99, but had been on the other end lately. They had lost seven straight postseason games, getting swept by St. Louis in the first round last year and by the New York Yankees in the '99 World Series.

"We've always had good pitching and so have they, but the ball bounces our way probably a little more," Atlanta manager Bobby Cox said.

The Astros came in hoping to continue the momentum for a weekend series against the Cardinals, when they won on Friday and Sunday to clinch the Central title for the fourth time in five years.

Instead, they reverted to the type of team that blew a 5-game lead with 12 left and has yet to win a playoff series in six tries. This was the seventh straight playoff game in which they blew a save.

"We've won the first one before and we've lost the first one before, it doesn't matter," Wagner said. "We have nothing to lose because we've never won a series. So why would we be uptight? We just have to go out and play."

Game 2 is Wednesday afternoon. The Astros will give Dave Mlicki his first postseason start two months after he was almost demoted to the bullpen. The Braves will counter with Tom Glavine, who is 9-0 in 11 starts in Houston since June 1991.

Greg Maddux opened the series for Atlanta with a game he and manager Bobby Cox called one of his best ever, but left trailing 3-

2. Brad Ausmus a career .259 hitter who came in batting .400 against Maddux, tied the game at 2 in the fifth by drilling a slider 390 feet into the walkway above the fence in left-center.

The go-ahead run was unearned as shortstop Rey Sanchez's fielding error put on Julio Lugo to lead off the sixth. He scored from third on a slow grounder by Moises Alou that Sanchez had no choice but to throw to first.

"I thought I pitched about as well as I can pitch today, and I still gave up three runs," said Maddux, who allowed four hits, stuck out five and forced double-play grounders to end the third and fourth innings.

He also was helped by Andrew Jones' superb diving catch of a sure leadoff double by Alou in the second.

Houston starter Wade Miller was as good as the four-time Cy Young winner, giving up two runs — on a sacrifice fly and solo homer, both by Brian Jordan — over seven innings.

 www.rjgolf.com

We love it when people say nice things about us.
Golf Digest recently listed Alabama's Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail among the top 50 golf destinations in the world!
 And in its current Places to Play ratings, Golf Digest gave most of the Trail's 21 courses 4 stars—and some even got 4 1/2. Not bad when you consider that 5 stars only go to those once-in-a-lifetime courses. And all of the Trail's courses got top honors for service.
Frequent Flyer Magazine listed us among its top 10 trips in the world and The New York Times called us "...some of the best public golf on earth."
Golf Magazine listed THE SENATOR course at our new Capitol Hill location among its top new courses in the country and THE LEGISLATOR course in the top 25 newcomers. And wait until you see THE JUDGE!

So, we hope you'll understand when, like all good golfers, we like to brag about our scores.
 Call today to book your golf and hotel package and get ready for one of the best golf trips in the world.

You say you didn't notice until it was too late to do anything about it?

Probably, if you aren't checking the Public Notices columns of this newspaper regularly.

Public Notices are required by state law to protect your rights and to help you function more effectively as a citizen. Access to information about what government agencies are doing is what makes the American the most powerful citizen in the world.

The Public Notices give you access to information you need...about plans for major land use changes...about where roads will go...whose land will be condemned...how your tax dollars will be spent...about court actions that could be important to you, or just plain interesting.

Whether you know them as Public Notices or as "the legals", it pays you to check the Public Notice columns in this newspaper each issue. What you don't know might cost you!
