Parade sign up under way now at the Herald

It's time to begin making plans for the Herald's 15th annual Crossroads Community Christmas Parade, which is set for Saturday, Dec. 1.

An entry form is included on Page 5B of today's edition.

The parade will begin at 5:30 p.m. and follow its usual route from the intersection of the north frontage road of FM 700 and Gregg Street to downtown, arriving at the courthouse square in time for the Christmas celebration scheduled at Heart of the City Park.

Parade entries will be judged and plaques awarded to first-place winners in four categories: lighted entries; those sponsored by schools and churches; commercial and manufacturers' entries; and those sponsored by civic organizations.

State hospital to open holiday season with lunch, bazaar

By VALERIE AVERY
Herald Correspondent

Motivational speaker Jeannie Bird will be the keynote speaker Tuesday at Big Spring State Hospital's "Christmas in November Luncheon and Bazaar," which kicks off the holiday season at the state hospital.

RUSSWORM

More than 225 of the hospital's volunteers, who worked more than 11,040 hours this past year, are invited to the luncheon at the Allred building auditorium. The craft bazaar begins at 11 a.m. and lunch will be served at noon.

Reservations are required to attend the luncheon, which is complimentary to volunteers and the public.

Bird will present a one-woman skit "Volunteers Wear Many Different Hats," said Billie Russworm, Big Spring State Hospital director of community relations. "It's a comical little skit with a real message behind it. I've seen her before, and I'm eager for her to come do it."

"It will be a little different; this is total comedy. But it's got a neat hidden message."

Prior to the luncheon, guests will have plenty of time to jump-start their holiday shopping by selecting from a host of items for sale. Volunteers have crafted cloth storybooks, holiday aprons, Christmas stockings, tree skirts and snowmen and Pilgrims fashioned out of small flowerpots.

Highlighting the sale is a chance to win a homemade quilt donated by the women of the Ackerly Baptist Church. This annual giveaway has anchored the luncheon and bazaar for more than 25 years, Russworm said. "It's a multi-colored quilt with cream-colored backing. It's all by hand and it's just one of those cherished items."

Chances are available for $1 or six for $5.

Ticket chances can be purchased at the Community Relations office prior to the raffle, Russworm said.

A "Books Are Fun" fair will be held in conjunction with the luncheon to raise money for Christmas gifts for patients. The book fair will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Books and gifts will be available to the public at up to 70 percent off retail price.

More than 775 cast ballots so far in recall election's early balloting

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

A week before Big Spring citizens head to the polls to decide whether Mayor Russ McEwen will be removed from office, 776 voters had cast early ballots in the recall election.

That total was tallied about 3 p.m. Friday, according to a city spokesperson. There are currently 12,966 people registered to vote in Big Spring, the spokesperson said.

Big Spring residents who are registered voters can vote early on the matter from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at City Secretary Tom Ferguson's office at 310 Nolan; or from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Saturday, election day, at the Big Spring City Council Chambers, 307 E. Fourth St.

Members of the group "Concerned Citizens Council of Big Spring" presented the city council with a petition bearing more than 950 names at the city council meeting Oct. 23. Only 443 names were needed on the petition to force a recall election.

Members of the Concerned Citizens group filed affidavits with Ferguson's office Sept. 28 to receive the blank petitions, claiming McEwen had been derelict in his duty as mayor because of his "insensitive refusal to recognize or consider the citizens' adamant opposition to the $60,000 per year (salary and benefits) position of airpark manager."

The affidavits were filed after a 4-3 vote by the city council approved the new budget which contained the airpark manager's position. A recall election was not sought against any of the three city council members who voted for the budget along with McEwen.

If the vote goes against McEwen, the remainder of the city council will meet to schedule another special election to elect a new mayor, Ferguson said.

McEwen has been mayor since March 2000, when he ran to replace Tim Blackshear. Blackshear was forced to resign when he announced his candidacy for a state office.

Six polling locations to be open Tuesday for amendments election

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Texans go to the polls Tuesday to decide the fate of 19 amendments to the state constitution.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at six locations around Howard County, County Clerk Donna Wright said Friday.

Some 18,592 people are registered to vote in Howard County. However, only 609 voters were cast during the early voting period, which ended Friday.

While there are no local issues on this year's ballot, there are several that will impact Crossroads area residents.

Among the amendments are Proposition 8, which would benefit Big Spring State Hospital and the state park system, and Proposition 7, which would provide for veterans' housing and cemeteries. Proposition 15 would provide additional financing for the construction and reconstruction of state highways while Proposition 19 would provide funds to develop water resources.

Voters in precincts 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111 and 112 will cast their ballots at the North Side Fire Station at North Eighth Street and Main, while those in precincts 202, 203, 204 and 205 will vote at Goliad Middle School, 2000 S. Goliad.

Precinct 207, 407, 408 and 409 voters visit the polls at

Students learn about hardships, sacrifices of war

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

On Friday, members of the Big Spring Vietnam Veteran's Memorial committee and former veterans shared some personal insight of the war to another generation.

"The military and war in general is not like you see on the movies; it isn't fun, but there are some things worth fighting for," said Don Boling, who served in the U.S. Marines as a sergeant from 1971 to 1973.

Vietnam veterans shared their wartime experiences with Big Spring Junior High School seventh and eighth grade students.

"Vietnam was different than wars that came before it because there was no front line or rear line. The whole country was a combat zone," Boling said. "You were subject to get shot or hit by a mortar at any time."

The humid country offered a number of challenges and unusual things to watch out for besides combat.

"One of the first lectures you get was about snakes," Boling said. "It went about like this 'OK there are about 100 different snake of which 99 are poisonous and don't worry about the 100th because it will swallow you whole.'

"The first time I saw a rat over there I thought it was a cat," he continued. "You were afraid to shoot it because you didn't want to make it mad."

Meals were a challenge onto themselves.

"Rations came in lots of things," Boling said. "We had cheese with John Wayne crackers. We called them John Wayne crackers because you had to be that tough to eat them. You could break rocks with them."

Although the veterans taught the students with some humorous stories at times, they let the seventh and eighth graders know war is a very serious situation.

"Regardless of where you are or what you have seen in the movies, war is not fun or pleasant," Boling said. "You are tired, lonesome, scared and your life depends on the guy next to you."

The sacrifices of past veterans allows the United States to be a free country, Boling said.

19. providing for the issuance of additional general obligation bonds by the Texas Water Development Board in an amount not to exceed $2 billion.

Parents requesting help in finding runaway daughter

By ANDREIA MEDLIN

Sixteen-year-old Big Spring High School sophomore Michelle Stokes has been missing since last Wednesday, according to her parents Jim Smith and Sherry Collins.

STOKES

"The last time we saw her was Wednesday morning when she went to school. She didn't come home that evening and we think she is with her friends," said Smith.

"She has been reported as a runaway to the (Big Spring) Police Department. We know she was at school that day but hasn't been going since then and she hasn't been going to work," he adds. Stokes is employed at the Sonic on Gregg Street and has been in contact with her employer, but has not yet contacted her parents.

"She failed a drug test we had her take and although there will be consequences we want her to know that if she would just be honest with us it would make a difference," said Collins.

Stokes, who has been reported as a runaway in the past, has been seen locally and her parents would like her friends to encourage Michelle to come home.

But if she doesn't come home, her mother and stepfather would settle for a phone call. "She can call us from a pay phone so that we can't trace it, we just want her to call and let us know that she is OK," said Collins.

Smith, who is a lieutenant for the Northside Fire Department, says that he worries. "Everytime we get a call about a possible drug overdose or attempted suicide."

Anyone has seen Michelle Stokes or knows of her current location is encouraged to call Detective Lupe Liedeker at the Big Spring Police Department at 264-2550.

veterans who were willing to fight, we are free to make the choices we have today," Boling said. "We can choose to worship where we want or be what we want to be when we grow up. A lot of these people in the world do not have that choice."

"On Veteran's Day remember all the things you get to do," he said.

It's been 10 years since the committee helped create the Vietnam Memorial to remember those who fought and those lost in the war.

Through the years the site has many displays have been added and the site has also had its trouble with vandalism.

The program began several years ago as an opportunity to for the veterans to try to express to the students the significance of the memorial and perhaps deter further vandalism.

According to Boling, since the program started there have been no reports of vandalism at the site. He encouraged the students to remember the purpose of the memorial.

NEWS BRIEFS

Inmate confesses to murders

LEAGUE CITY (AP) — Authorities are awaiting DNA test results to see if a Texas prison inmate who confessed to a series of murders in Fort Bend and Galveston counties committed the crimes.

Mark Stallings, 34, has told investigators he murdered as many as six women, including some whose bodies were found along a stretch of Interstate 45 near League City known as "the killing fields."

He has not been charged with any of the murders as officials corroborate his story.

Stallings, who is serving a life sentence in the Clements Unit in Amarillo for aggravated kidnapping and aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, wrote a letter this past summer to the Fort Bend County Sheriff's Department saying he had information about two murders in the county.

He was brought to the county and led investigators to the areas where the bodies of Benna "Bea" Bowen, 27, and April Eaves, 18, were found.

Bowen was killed in April 1986 while Eaves was murdered in June 1989. Both women were strangled.

While in Fort Bend County, Stallings also told investigators he had information about four other murders in an abandoned oil field in nearby Galveston County.

Austin man finds, returns $100,000

AUSTIN (AP) — Hector Rodriguez said he never considered keeping the $100,000 he found lying under a car seat, tightly bundled in a Wells Fargo pouch.

The Enterprise Rent-A-Car employee was cleaning the car seats Thursday when he came across the money.

"One of the main things I do is vacuum the car," the 33-year-old told the Austin American-Statesman for its Saturday editions. "During that process, I always move the seats."

This time, instead of the usual loose change, food crumbs and dirt, Rodriguez found a lot more.

He immediately took the money to his manager, who called her bosses and then police.

Police said a small business owner had rented the car and accidentally left the cash. Once investigators determined the money and its owner were legitimate, the cash was returned.

Rodriguez said keeping the cash was not something he considered.

"The money wasn't mine," Rodriguez said.

Cyanide found in letter at NJ

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A letter addressed to a New Jersey police department contained "trace amounts" of cyanide that spilled onto two workers at Newark's main post office, authorities said Saturday.

Tests of the powdery white substance determined it was mainly laundry detergent mixed with a small amount of cyanide, said Tony Esposito, a spokesman for the U.S. Postal Inspection Service.

"Based on the small amount of copper cyanide, it did not pose a hazard to anyone unless it had been ingested," Esposito said.

Cyanide is a poisonous chemical and exposure to lower levels may cause breathing difficulties, vomiting and headaches. Exposure to high levels can harm the brain and heart and can be fatal.

The FBI and state police are investigating. Authorities would not identify which police department the letter had been addressed to.

A postal worker spotted the letter, which bore no return address and had the stamp in the lower right hand corner instead of the upper right corner, authorities said.

American Postal Workers Union spokesman Gary Weightman said a night shift supervisor opened the letter Friday, spilling its contents onto himself and a second worker.

Postal inspectors cordoned off the immediate area and called in the fire department's hazardous materials unit.

Florida beachfront in Michelle's path

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — With Hurricane Michelle moving northward in the Caribbean, beachfront communities along Florida's east coast have been preparing for potentially damaging beach erosion.

High winds bent back palm trees lining beaches in South Florida on Friday and heavy storm surge crashed along the coastline, lapping over rock jetties and inviting surfers to challenge the conditions.

Chuck Lanza, emergency operations director for Miami-Dade County, said the potential for erosion was "only going to get worse" during the weekend.

Michelle was expected to pass near or over Cuba today, and then could take an eastward turn and threaten the Florida Keys and then South Florida, according to the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

"I think definitely if the storm was to veer to the east and the counterclockwise circulation would continue, that could cause substantial erosion on the east coast of Florida and storm surges as well," said Bob Dean, a University of Florida professor of coastal and oceanographic engineering.

Beach sand acts as a natural barrier against storm surge and without it, coastal flooding could be a problem as Michelle passes through the region.

Hurricane Michelle continued to strengthen Friday night after pounding Central America with five days of rains that killed 12 people and forced more than 115,000 to flee their homes.

Jamaica issued flood warnings for about half the country. The Cayman Islands issued a tropical storm watch. And Cuba declared a hurricane watch for its western provinces.

The storm was about 220 miles south of the western tip of Cuba and heading north-northwest at 6 mph. Its wind speeds have reached 110 mph.

In South Florida, winds were holding at 25 miles per hour and some beach erosion was already being reported. Carl Fowler, a spokesman for Broward County's emergency management division, said the same conditions were expected to persist through Wednesday.

From his lifeguard stand on Hollywood Beach, Lt. Joe Taylor said the morning's high tide engulfed the beach. Orange flags snapped in the wind, warning of dangerous rip currents. The heavy surf toppled two palm trees and forced guards to move lifeguard stands to higher ground, he said.

During the morning's high tide along Miami Beach's southern tip, about a dozen surfers took on the challenge of the waves.

"It's like a war out there," said surfer Matthew Sharpe.

Court throws out 'three strikes' sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal appeals court Friday threw out a shoplifter's 50-year sentence under California's "three strikes" law as overly harsh — a ruling that could lead to hundreds of challenges from defendants who received near-life terms for petty crimes.

In a 2-1 ruling, a panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Leonardo Andrade's sentence violated the Constitution's ban on cruel and unusual punishment.

It was the first federal court ruling declaring that California's sentencing law, the nation's toughest, could produce unconstitutionally harsh sentences.

Andrade got 50 years in prison for stealing nine videotapes, valued at $153, from a Kmart. The court noted that kidnappers and murderers could receive less time than Andrade, who had a record of several nonviolent, petty crimes.

"The harshness of the sentence appears grossly disproportionate to the gravity of the offense and the culpability of the offender," Circuit Judge Richard A. Paez wrote.

Had Andrade's prior convictions not made him subject to the three strikes law, he would have faced six months at most.

Andrade's lawyer, Erwin Chemerinsky, said the case could have broad implications.

"This especially opens the door to those whose third strike is like my client's: petty theft with a prior," said Chemerinsky, a University of Southern California constitutional law scholar.

Attorney General Bill Lockyer's office, which defended Andrade's sentence before the circuit court, said the state might ask the court to reconsider its ruling.

California voters and lawmakers approved the three-strikes law in 1994 amid public furor over the kidnapping and murder of 12-year-old Polly Klaas. Richard Allen Davis, a repeat offender on parole at the time of the kidnapping, was convicted of the murder and sentenced to death.

Man accused of smuggling song birds

MIAMI (AP) — A man is accused of smuggling 44 birds, including Cuban finches popular as pet song-birds, by strapping them to his body for a charter flight from Havana.

Carlos Rodriguez Avila of Miami was released Thursday on $50,000 bond after he was charged with lying on a customs declaration by denying he was bringing any wildlife into the United States.

Suspicious airport inspectors asked Rodriguez to raise his pant legs and saw something strapped to his legs when he arrived in Miami on Wednesday, officials said. A final count of 44 birds included some Cuban melodious finches.

The species is not endangered in its home range but is easily stressed by capture and smuggling, U.S. Fish and Wildlife agent John Rawls wrote in an affidavit.

Cuban finches are popular as pets for their singing and could easily be sold as pets in South Florida, he said.

An international treaty requires an export permit to remove the birds from Cuba, and U.S. regulations require them to be quarantined on arrival to check for disease.

Males have black faces nearly surrounded by a bright yellow band.

The rest of the body is yellow-green, black and gray. Adults are about 4 inches long.

OUR VIEWS

Let's cheer our bands on to Waco

After having earned top marks at University Interscholastic League Class 4A and Class 2A area competition, bands from Big Spring and Forsan high schools are poised for Monday's state contests in Waco.

The Steer Band earned three Division I ratings at the regional contest and then performed its seven-minute, Latin-themed program of "Echano," "Pefidia" and "Sun Cat" with the same success last weekend at area.

Again, the Steer Band's playing ability drew the highest praise from judges, but the performance has continually been lauded for its energy and blended sound.

While the Steer Band can clearly compete on its talents alone, it clear that a fan following has made a difference in the Big Spring entry's success.

That following includes, of course, a great many parents that are members of the band boosters organization. However, the band has drawn a solid cadre of fans with no family connections.

The 150-member band will step onto the turf at Baylor University's Floyd Casey Stadium for preliminary round competition at 10:15 a.m. Monday under the direction of Drum Majors Chelsea Churchwell and Brandon Herrera. Results of the contest will be given at 3:30 p.m. The finals will be held starting at 7:30 p.m.

Then at 12:56 p.m., the Forsan band, which has now won two consecutive area titles, will make its preliminary round appearance in the Class 2A contest at Waco ISD Stadium.

Forsan's 104 members, under the direction of Drum Majors Krista Shepard and Kristy Paul, will be gunning for a chance to be one of the five Class 2A bands to reach the finals that begin at 8:05 p.m.

Results from both contests will be announced at 9:30 p.m. Monday.

The two bands, as well as the loyal following each has created, are clearly a source of pride for all of us in Big Spring and Howard County. We wish you all the best of luck tomorrow.

Some Christians are good at hating

If Jesus comes to Earth any time soon, he'd better land in China, India, Europe or some place besides the United States. With his turn-the-other-cheek pacifist philosophy, he'd get crucified all over again, only this time by evangelical Christians. The hate mail I get occasionally from Christians is an interesting study in contradiction. They are a bloodthirsty lot. They don't want anybody who says we ought to understand the enemy to enjoy the right of free speech, either. Militant pacifists and hate-filled Christians are really spiritual twins who have lost sight of their original philosophies.

It would be sad indeed if all the American people were so ignorant that they could not comprehend the difference between understanding and condoning. Nobody in his right mind would condone the terrorist acts against the United States. Yet nobody but a fool would go to war with an enemy he or she doesn't understand.

Man's tool of survival is his mind, not his back or his biceps. Since our minds are gifts from God, it's probably sacrilegious not to use them occasionally for something besides reading the funny papers or figuring baseball batting averages.

I personally have no problem with killing Osama bin Laden. I could pull a trigger on him in a nanosecond. I have no problem with overthrowing the Taliban, as long as Americans realize that whatever replaces it will be just about as bad or worse. We have a history of overthrowing governments — or standing aside while somebody else overthrows them and winding up with governments that turn out to be even worse. Despite our power, we're just not very clever at playing what the British called "the great game."

But I will not budge from my firm conviction that if all we do is kill bin Laden and depose the Taliban, then we will be right back where we started, minus a few billions in treasure and with a lot of blood having been shed. I fear the self-righteousness of some Americans, who believe our policies are so good that no one but Satan could possibly find fault with them. They are tainted with racism or religious bigotry.

I don't wish to disillusion anybody, but human beings the world over are basically the same. That means that whether they wear pants or a robe, hats or turbans, whether they speak English or Arabic or Farsi or Urdu, they have the same wonderful brain that we do. They are intelligent. They can think. They can certainly discern their own self-interests. They have basically the same desires as we do — to love and be loved, to have families, to be free from hunger and cold, to be free from coercion.

So, it is plain stupid to believe that anyone is evil and ignorant who thinks we should not have troops in Saudi Arabia, who thinks we should treat the Palestinian-Israeli dispute with fairness, and who thinks we should lift the embargo on Iraq to ease the suffering of the Iraqi people. These people who disagree with our policies are just as smart as we are, and they can recognize an injustice as easily as anyone else.

You will note that all three of these issues are secular matters that have nothing to do with religion. But because they are real issues, they provide fodder for bin Laden and his cohorts. If we changed these policies, we would take the steam out of his propaganda. I'm sure he prays that we won't change them.

And given the outbreak of self-righteousness fanned by television demagogues, we probably won't. If we don't change them, then we can all prepare to live with terrorism for the rest of our lives. And Jesus had better stay in heaven where it's safe.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:
As a citizen of Big Spring and a member of the city council, I am writing this letter to say how embarrassed and ashamed we should all feel being forced to conduct a recall election when our country finds itself in a struggle that could very well lead toward a complete change to our way of life. If we are going to lead people, lead with the truth and not half-truths.

After having seen and read the information flyer that is being passed out to our citizens, I can no longer just stand by without addressing it. Some of the information is correct, such as in the amount of money being raised by the increase in water delivery rates and sanitation rates. This money is to pay for the city's increase in utility costs-electricity and natural gas.

The city, as I explained during two council meetings, is a business that is unlike any other business because the city does not have a profit margin. What business can exist without a profit margin? Yet the city does exist because you are the city. This is what the flyer fails to say.

Is there a reason for leaving this information out? Why mislead our community? As for improving the quality and taste of our water, I can assure you that if the water in Big Spring were not drinkable, the State of Texas, which has final authority in granting the right to provide water to you, would have shut us off a long time ago.

The quality and taste of water is and will continue to depend on the quality of the water that we have to start with.

What we can do is improve the condition of the water that is delivered to you and that is what we began to do with the 2000-2001 budget. It was then that we began the waterline replacement project and the 2001-2002 budget will continue with the program.

If the concern for the quality and taste of water is based on the sample that Rod Taylor of Beacon Homes introduced during a council meeting, let me tell you we did not get the entire story about that sample of water.

What was not mentioned is that the city, at the city's expense, installed a sprinkler system to keep the water circulating so that the water delivered would be clean at Beacon Homes.

Because the water delivered sometimes ran toward the mobile homes, Mr.

Taylor had the city shut the system off. That is why the water he had that day looked so dirty.

Another project in the 2001-2002 budget is to double-seal coat, at the rate of five miles per year, all the dirt streets in the city while continuing to repair and recoat the usual 23 to 25 miles that is done every year.

The position of the airpark manager was approved by a 4-3 vote. As to further show that we do need an airpark manager, the airpark advisory board came before the council during the Oct. 9 meeting to ask for funds to be spent on a consultant from out of state to come in and give them advice on a project.

A number of people who represent the "Concerned Citizen's Council" were present at that meeting and even they failed to realize what the airpark board's request indicated.

We need a person with the professional experience and knowledge that will keep the city council, the airpark advisory board and any other entity who has any question or needs advice about the airport or the airpark from having to go out of town for advice, no matter what the cost.

Most serious charges dropped against protesting firefighters

NEW YORK (AP) — The most serious criminal charges were dropped Saturday against firefighters accused of tangling with police during an angry demonstration against changes in the recovery effort at the World Trade Center site.

Friday's protest underscored the raw emotions of firefighters, hailed by the nation as heroes since Sept. 11. The rally protested a change in city policy that limits the number of Fire Department members who can work at "ground zero" in efforts to recover the remains of people killed in the collapse of the twin towers.

"For us, it's a matter of honor and dignity. As a marine, I learned you don't leave your fallen heroes on the battlefield," said Pat Banken, a union leader.

The new policy restricts the number of firefighters and police officers at the scene to 25 from each department. At times, the number has been as large as 150.

City officials said there were safety and health hazards in having large numbers of firefighters searching through rubble in the midst of cranes and excavation equipment.

The policy, which took effect on Tuesday, also takes sole control of the site out of the hands of the Fire Department. Instead, the site is now jointly overseen by the fire and police departments and the city Department of Design and Construction.

Firefighters fear the new policy will turn the recovery effort into a "full-time construction scoop and dump operation."

"You wouldn't excavate a cemetery or sacred burial ground like that," said Peter Gorman, president of the Uniformed Fire Officers Association.

"Why would you do that with thousands of citizens of this country buried down there?"

Thousands of firefighters have spent time at the site working to recover remains from the still-burning mountain of steel and concrete.

More than 200 of their comrades, along with thousands of civilians and other uniformed officers, are still buried in the rubble. City officials put the total number of missing at 3,897.

"We realize that this is an emotional issue for firefighters and their families," fire department spokesman Frank Gribbon said. "We will continue to search for missing firefighters, police and civilians."

"We will continue to remove any bodies recovered in a respectful and dignified manner."

Ten of the 12 firefighters arrested during Friday's melee were arraigned Saturday morning. Felony charges, including incitement to riot, were dropped, according to Steven Rabinowitz, a union attorney. Remaining charges include criminal trespassing and obstructing governmental administration, he said.

The district attorney's office declined to prosecute the other two people arrested Friday, Rabinowitz said. Messages left with the district attorney's office seeking comment were not immediately returned.

Five police officers were injured during Friday's protest. Fire Commissioner Thomas Von Essen later apologized to the injured officers on behalf of the fire department.

The rally brought to the surface firefighters' long-simmering dissatisfaction with Von Essen. As their rally reached the gates of City Hall on Friday, firefighters called for his resignation, chanting "Tommy must go!" And at a benefit concert two weeks ago, firefighters booed Von Essen when he came on stage.

Two firefighting unions gave Von Essen a vote of no-confidence in April. The unions say Von Essen has not stuck up for the rank-and-file.

"People are very upset, they're very distraught. Maybe these are not the people who have the ability to detach themselves from the situation," Von Essen, a firefighter for more than 20 years and a former union president, said Friday. He did not address calls for his resignation.

Investigators search for clues, check suspicions in anthrax case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Puzzled investigators were conducting a second round of environmental testing in hopes of figuring out how a New York woman was infected with a deadly case of anthrax. Authorities examined suspicious packages and powders, including a letter whose postmark and handwriting raised concerns at the Treasury Department.

One month after the first anthrax case was confirmed, President Bush on Saturday called the anthrax threat "a second wave of terrorist attacks upon our country." He said officials were learning day by day and he urged people to look closely at their mail.

"Anthrax apparently can be transferred from one letter to another," he said in his weekly radio address.

Anthrax testing was under way at 259 postal facilities, mostly on the East Coast. Officials awaited results from 21 post offices where testing was complete.

The biological attack has killed four people and infected 13 others. Concentrated along the East Coast, anthrax has been found in Kansas City, Mo., and Indianapolis.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention sent a team of epidemiologists to Arizona, where the World Series was concluding, a precaution often taken when large crowds are expected.

CDC officials considered a public service campaign to educate Americans about anthrax.

In Alaska, postal officials decided volunteers could answer some 60,000 letters to Santa expected in the tiny town of North Pole — population 1,570 — despite the anthrax scare.

"We're not going to let it spoil their Christmas," said

Nancy Cain Schmitt, Alaska spokeswoman for the Postal Service.

Health authorities, who now believe that a New Jersey accountant was infected through the mail, said postal customers should keep an eye out for symptoms of anthrax. The skin form resembles a spider bite at first; the more serious inhalation anthrax, thought unable to be transmitted through regular mail, looks like flu.

"We've never said the risk of handling the mail is zero. It's minimal but it's not zero," said Lisa Swernarki of the CDC.

Doctors also must be on the look out.

"Maybe you have to think about the possibility of anthrax with all your patients, not just postal staff," Acting Health Commissioner Dr. George T. DiFerdinando said Saturday.

Helicopter crashes in Afghanistan; injured crew members are rescued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon blamed poor weather in Afghanistan for the crash of a U.S. special forces helicopter, injuring four crew members, and the loss of an unmanned spy plane.

The air campaign against al-Qaida terrorists and the ruling Taliban that began Oct. 7 moved forward Saturday. U.S. bombers pounded Taliban front lines north of Kabul, the capital. Marine Harrier jump jets joined the attack for the first time from the amphibious assault ship USS Peleliu.

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld was in Moscow and Tajikistan on Saturday, part of a five-nation trip that also included stops in Uzbekistan, Pakistan and India.

The four crew members were taken out of Afghanistan, although Pentagon spokesman Air Force Maj. Mike Halbig declined to say exactly where. The injuries were not considered life-threatening and the crew was receiving medical care, Halbig said.

Their helicopter crashed at about 1:30 p.m. EST Friday. The injured were rescued by a second helicopter that had accompanied the initial mission. Halbig would not provide details on the mission.

Their mission had been to retrieve a sick soldier, a senior military officer said Saturday. The officer, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said he could not offer any more information.

F-14 Tomcats from the USS Theodore Roosevelt, one of the U.S. aircraft carriers off Pakistan, were sent to destroy the damaged helicopter that crashed.

Such a search-and-destroy mission would only take place if the items on the helicopter were considered extremely sensitive and the U.S. military did not want it to fall into enemy hands.

Special forces teams are helping anti-Taliban rebels with training and tactics and are directing American warplanes to Taliban targets. The United States has troops in Uzbekistan, including members of the Army's 10th Mountain Division.

Rumsfeld said last week that hundreds of special forces teams were "cocked and ready" to infiltrate Afghanistan, but he complained that freezing rain, fog, and heavy fire at a landing area was hampering the effort.

Halbig denied Taliban claims that they shot down the helicopter.

IN BRIEF

Softball booster club to meet on Monday

The Big Spring High School Lady Steers Softball Booster Club will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the BSHS Athletic Training Center. Parents of all BSHS softball players are invited.

New tennis pro planning events

Craig Bobo, who has been hired as director of tennis by the Crossroads Tennis Association, has outlined his plans for developing a rich program for players ages five and older.

Bobo will be offering a variety of activities, ranging from private lessons and clinics to tournaments and league play.

He said he also wants to develop a yearly professional tournament to bring budding stars of the game to Big Spring.

Bobo is currently in the midst of a Junior Tennis Clinic which began Oct. 29 and continues through Dec. 3.

The junior clinic provides $1 lessons for beginners in Grades K-6 from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Mondays.

For more information on any of the programs, call 268-1900.

Deer harvest recommendations

Hunters and landowners are being reminded by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials that the general deer hunting season will begin Saturday and continue through Jan. 6, 2002. The legal hunting season for deer in the previous week's victory over Lubbock Estacado.

Personal bests not enough for Steers runners to challenge

HERALD Staff Report

LUBBOCK — Big Spring's Steers had five runners run in personal bests Saturday morning at the Region I, Class 4A Cross-Country Meet at Mae Simmons Park.

Unfortunately, that wasn't enough to come anywhere near finishing among the top three teams that advanced to the next week's state meet.

Instead, the Steers finished 14 in the field of 23 teams. Grapevine claimed the team championship, finishing 11 points ahead of Canyon's Eagles. District 4-4A champion Frenshich finished third, 51 points off the pace.

Big Spring's showing was led by freshman Daniel Garza, who finished 27th individually with a time of 16:30.1, establishing a new school record for freshmen.

Andy Arguello finished 72nd for the Steers with a 17:25.0 clocking, while Andy Cuellar was 75th with a personal best of 17:28.

Jacob Marquez finished 78th in the field of 171 runners with a personal best time of 17:31.0. Martin DeLosSantos also posted his best time ever, 17:36.0, to finish 83rd in the field, as did Pat Gonzales, who's time of 17:55.0 was good enough to finish 93rd.

Mike Flores rounded out the Steers' showing with a time of 18:28.0, finishing 117th.

"You could say we ran all right, but we were capable of running better," Big Spring coach Randy Britton said following the meet. "Every kid we had up here today was sophomore, with the exception of Daniel, so this is a very young team. Hopefully these kids can see the potential they have to be very good."

In the meet's girls' division, Big Spring freshman Ashley Martinez posted her personal best time of 13:08.0 and finished 50th in a field of 176 runners.

Southlake Carroll's Lady Dragons literally ran away with the team championship, while Canyon Eagles finished second and Hereford's Lady Whitefaces were third.

Steers knock off Snyder

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Big Spring's Steers faltered a bit during Friday night's game against the Snyder Tigers, facing a 14-10 deficit deep into the third quarter.

But, playing with the same determination that they have shown all season long, the Steers retook the lead less than a minute into the fourth period, a lead they wouldn't relinquish.

The Steers' 24-14 win gives Big Spring a 3-6 overall record, and an even 3-3 mark in District 4-4A play.

The key to the victory was Big Spring's flexibility, according to head coach Dwight Butler.

"They dropped enough people back on pass coverage that we could take advantage of the running game," he said. "It became clear very early that we were going to have plenty of running room."

It wasn't without reason that Snyder chose to cover against quarterback Tye Butler's pass potential. The junior passed for more than 200 yards and six touchdowns in the previous week's victory over Lubbock Estacado.

This week, the Tigers managed to limit Butler to four completions on 10

Junior tailback Josh Mathews put in a phenomenal performance, carrying the ball 31 times for 230 rushing yards.

Snyder simply could not find the wherewithal to halt Mathews as he ran 10 times for more than 10 yards, often charging for extra yardage with Tiger defenders hanging from his

Raiders upend Aggies

LUBBOCK (AP) — Kliff Kingsbury passed for 303 yards and Ricky Williams scored the game's lone touchdown as Texas Tech beat No. 24 Texas A&M 12-0 on Saturday.

After the game, Red Raiders fans tore down the goal post on the south end of the field and marched it the length of the field and taunted Aggies fans by putting it into the stands.

Texas Tech (5-3, 3-3 Big 12) shut out the Aggies (7-2, 4-2) for the first time since a 3-0 victory in 1983. The shut out was the Aggies' first since a 24-0 loss to Penn State in the 1999 Alamo Bowl.

Kingsbury was 38-for-46, but was sacked seven times. Texas A&M quarterback Mark Farris was 22-of-31 for 206 yards and an interception as the Aggies rolled up 372 total yards.

A pivotal play in the game came in the fourth quarter while the Aggies were driving. On fourth down, Farris threw a pass for their own 27, a pass from Farris to Terrence Murphy was enough for the first

Coahoma rips Seagraves; set for finale showdown

HERALD Staff Reports

COAHOMA — A 39-8 dismantling of Seagraves' Eagles has Coahoma's Bulldogs just where they want to be — heading into the final week of the regular season with an opportunity to claim their first district championship since 1972.

The 8-1 Bulldogs remained unbeaten in District 3-2A play with the lopsided win and will travel to Colorado City on Friday night for a showdown with the Wolves.

Colorado City, which took a 14-7 win over Plains, also remained unbeaten in 3-2A play.

Seagraves, like so many other Bulldogs opponents this season, simply couldn't stop Cory Hill.

Hill broke loose on the first play of the game and sailed 76 yards for the game's first touchdown and just about a minute later added his second score on a 15-yard burst.

Hill would add another 13-yard TD run in the third quarter and finished the night with 205 yards rushing on 25 carries. All told, the Bulldogs piled up 370 yards overland and had 387 yards of total offense, while limiting the Eagles to just 185 total yards.

The Bulldogs took a 19-0 halftime lead when Travis Hipp scored from 20 yards out.

After Seagraves was able to trim the lead to 19-8 on a 7-yard run by Martin Salazar, Rickey Richters returned the ensuing kickoff deep into Eagles territory, setting up Hill's third touchdown.

David Davis and Kelby Kemper added insurance touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Seagraves dropped to 3-6 overall and 1-3 in district play with the loss.

Stanton 22, Forsan 19

STANTON — Jesse DeLeon bulled two yards into the end zone with 1:28 remaining Friday night to give Stanton's Buffaloes a 22-19 win over Forsan's Buffaloes in the battle for the District 3-2A cellar.

Mustangs clinch District 7 crown with 75-28 win

By HOLLIE GIBBS

Herald Correspondent

ACKERLY — Sands' Mustangs clinched the District 7 six-man football championship Friday night with a 75-28 win over Buena Vista's Longhorns.

The win brings the Mustangs' district record to 4-0 and 6-3 for the season.

"I'm very happy for their winning the district championship and excited that we're heading into the playoffs," Sands head coach Clint Lowry said after his team improved to 6-3 on the season and 4-0 in district play. "I'm so proud of them. They've really worked hard all year and earned every bit."

The Mustangs ran into trouble early in the first quarter when junior quarterback Jeremy Renteria had a pass picked off by Buena Vista's Gary Lopez.

Lopez returned the pick for a touchdown. Junior Tamayo's kick gave Buena Vista an 8-0 lead with 9:11 remaining in the first quarter.

A combination of runs by Sands juniors Nate Looney and Joe Luis Gonzales, and a pass completion to sophomore Julian Mojica set up the first Mustang score. Senior Dusty Floyd capped off the 68-yard drive with an 8-yard and the Mustangs trailed 8-6.

The Mustangs received another wake up call when Buena Vista senior Josh Duckett took the ensuing kickoff for another shocking score, and Buena Vista increased its lead to 16-6 with 6:40 remaining in the first quarter.

On the next Mustang drive, senior Chance Nichols stepped in for Renteria. He completed a 24-yard pass to Floyd for another Mustang touchdown, narrowing the Longhorns' lead to 16-12.

A 39-yard pass completion from Renteria to Floyd on the Mustangs' next possession, gave Sands the lead for the first time, 19-16, with 3:24 left in the first quarter.

"This was the last time we got to play at home. We all wanted to play hard and come home with our third body.

"He's got real strong legs," Butler said. "Legwise, for his size, he's one of the strongest guys on the team. What he does best of all is he has great vision. He runs vertical, up the field."
As usual, Butler praised the offensive line, which was able to open running lanes for Mathews and full-back Kyland Wegner (12 carries for 62 yards) all night.
"You can't give enough credit to the offensive line," he said. "They were extremely good all night long."
Big Spring made its way onto the scoreboard first with a Tye Butler keeper late in the first quarter from the Snyder 9-yard line.
The play was the capstone of an 11-play march following a Snyder punt when the Tigers failed to capitalize on fumble by Mathews which ended the Steers first possession.

With scant seconds left in the first period, Snyder half-back Jammall Pruitt made a stunning 46-yard breakaway TD, tying the game at seven.
On the ensuing kickoff, Big Spring's Clarence Wilkins scrambled back all the way to the Tiger 47, but as the second quarter started, Tye Butler threw his interception.
Four plays later Big Spring regained possession on a Snyder punt, and held the ball for 15 plays, including a 25-yard reception by Wilkins, before settling for a 35-yard field goal from Jordan Cobb.
The ball belonged to Snyder during the rest of the half, except on the last play of the half when Steer safety Wesley Smith picked off a T.J. Jones pass as the clock ran out.
Snyder got the ball first in the second half and kept it for the first 61/2 minutes for a 14-play drive punctuated by a 5-yard Pruitt TD run.

Big Spring responded with a 14-play drive of its own, bridging the end of the third quarter and start of the fourth, ending in a 5-yard TD toss to wide receiver Brandon Mendoza.
Mathews was the workhorse of the drive, however, rushing for 54 of the 75 yards needed for the TD.
A Billy Pena fumble ended Snyder's next drive with the Tigers in scoring position on the Steers' 20 as Big Spring's Jared Phillips came up with the ball.
Thirteen plays later, Mathews put the final TD on the scoreboard.
The touchdown came after the Steers, threatening from the 8-yard line, were penalized twice for illegal procedure. Facing a first-and-goal situation on the Tiger 18, Butler pitched to Mathews, who evaded several would-be tacklers to reach the goal.

Longhorns trample Baylor; top-ranked Hurricanes still winning

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chris Simms passed for 271 yards and two touchdowns to lead No. 5 Texas to a 49-10 victory over Baylor on Saturday.

Cedric Benson added 108 yards rushing and touchdown runs of 3 and 6 yards as Texas (8-1, 5-1) extended Baylor's Big 12 losing streak to 27 games. The Bears, (2-6, 0-6) haven't won a conference game since beating Kansas in October 1998.

Simms connected on scoring passes of 36 and 31 yards to Roy Williams and Sloan Thomas. He also scored on a 1-yard sneak in the first quarter, giving him six touchdowns on the season, one behind Benson for the team lead.

Since throwing four interceptions in a 14-3 loss to Oklahoma a month ago, Simms has accounted for 17 of Texas' last 23 touchdowns with just one interception. Simms is one touchdown pass shy of Major Applewhite's school record of 21 set in 1999 when Applewhite was the Big 12 offensive player of the year.

The crowd of 40,451 was decidedly pro-Texas as Longhorns fans made the 90-mile drive north to Floyd Casey Stadium. Bears fans tore down the goal posts after Baylor's win over Texas in 1997 but there was little chance of that happening again Saturday.

Williams' TD catch gave the Longhorns a 7-0 lead in the first quarter when Simms led him perfectly to the back of the end zone. He bobbed the ball but snared it with both hands just before stepping out of bounds.

Thomas provided another acrobatic catch in the second when he dove to snare Simms' pass and managed to drag both feet in bounds for the TD that put the Longhorns ahead 21-7.

Baylor, ranked last in the Big 12 in total offense and winners of just three league games since the conference started in 1996, started Josh Zachry at quarterback for the first time this season in search of a spark.

Zachry passed for 173 yards and ran 9 yards for a second-quarter touchdown that made it 14-7. But he also threw an interception to Nathan Vasher deep in Baylor territory that set up Texas' last score of the half. The Longhorns struck quickly after the pickoff. Simms hit B.J. Johnson for a 21-yard gain to the Baylor 2 and Brett Robin scored on the next play to make it 28-7.

Benson, who has four consecutive 100-yard games, scored both of his touchdowns in the second half.

Simms completed 15-of-29 passes before leaving the game in the fourth quarter. Applewhite, who threw for 297 yards against Baylor last season to become Texas' career passing leader, came on in mop-up duty and was 2-of-3 for 5 yards and was sacked once.

No. 1 Miami 38, Temple 0

Ken Dorsey threw two touchdown passes, giving him 50 for his career and breaking Miami's all-time record, as the top-ranked Hurricanes beat Temple 38-0 Saturday.

Dorsey entered the game tied with Vinny Testaverde and Steve Walsh, but moved past them with a first-quarter touchdown pass to Kevin Beard.

The Hurricanes (7-0, 4-0 Big East) moved a step closer to playing for the national championship as well. They extended the nation's longest winning streak to 17 games, but have their toughest stretch of the season remaining.

No. 4 Florida 71, Vanderbilt 13

Rex Grossman threw for 306 yards and linebacker Andra Davis scored a touchdown and forced two fumbles Saturday in No. 4 Florida's stunningly easy 71-13 victory over Vanderbilt.

Grossman improved his Heisman Trophy bid by making it 8-for-8 in 300-yard games this season. He hit the mark by halftime for the fourth time.

Earnest Graham and Taylor Jacobs scored two touchdowns apiece, as the Gators (7-1, 5-1 Southeastern Conference) took a 71-0 lead before surrendering two late touchdowns to Vandy's third-string quarterback, Benji Walker.

No. 7 Tennessee 28, Notre Dame 18

Casey Clausen threw a go-ahead touchdown pass in the third quarter and then scored from a yard out with 35 seconds left as No. 7 Tennessee defeated mistake-prone Notre Dame 28-18 on Saturday.

The Irish (3-5) lost a final chance to pull out a win when Carlyle Holiday's pass was intercepted at the Notre Dame 25 with 2:41 left and Tennessee ahead by three points. The Vols (6-1) came right back and Clausen added the clinching score.

No. 3 Oklahoma 58, Tulsa 0

Quentin Griffin scored four touchdowns, Nate Hybl threw for 347 yards in his return to the starting lineup and No. 3 Oklahoma rebounded from its first loss in two seasons by beating Tulsa 58-0 Saturday.

The Sooners (8-1) took a while to get going, failing to find the end zone until midway through the second quarter. But that started a run in which they scored touchdowns on five straight possessions — four of them by Griffin.

The Golden Hurricane (4-7) lost for the seventh straight time.

No. 2 Nebraska 51, Kansas 7

Dahrran Diederick ran for 136 yards and two touchdowns as No. 2 Nebraska romped past Kansas 51-7 Saturday night in possibly Terry Allen's last game as Kansas coach.

A published report said a decision could come as early as Saturday on the embattled Allen, who is 20-33 in five years and increasingly unpopular.

Kansas athletic director Al Bohl said at halftime that no announcement was planned after the game by the Jayhawks (2-6, 1-5 Big 12), who lost to Nebraska for the 33rd year in a row.

The Huskers (10-0, 6-0) failed to score in the first quarter but led 20-0 at half-time before Kansas' first sellout crowd since 1991.

TECH

down. But Murphy fumbled as he was tackled. Tech's Kevin Curtis came up with the ball to end the 11-play drive.

The lone touchdown came with 2 minutes remaining in the fourth quarter when Williams took a pitchout from Kingsbury and ran it in from the 6.

In the first half, Tech held the Aggies to 94 rushing yards and 80 passing yards. As the second quarter drew to a close, Ryan Aycock snuffed out the first serious Aggies scoring threat. On first-and-goal from the Red Raiders 7, Aycock intercepted Farris' pass in the end zone to stop an 11-play drive.

The Red Raiders offensive line had trouble containing a frequent blitz by A&M's defense, and Kingsbury was sacked four times before the half. Williams was held to just 19 yards on 10 carries.

Penalties hurt the Red Raiders in the first half. During each of two possessions, Tech drives were stymied by two penalties. They ended with seven penalties for 55 yard, 40 of those coming in the first half.

Tech's offense enjoyed more success than the Aggies in the first half, sustaining drives of 15, 11 and 10 plays. The latter ended when Robert Treece put the game's first points on the board with a 25-yard field goal at 4:51 in the second quarter.

Tech could have scored earlier when it drove down to the 1-yard line on its second possession of the game and attempted to take it in for a touchdown on fourth down rather than going for an easy field goal.

It was the second time this season that the Red Raiders have toppled a No. 24-ranked team. Texas Tech beat Kansas State 38-19 in early October.

RIDING THE RAILS AGAIN AT DOC HARDY'S

Jack Harrison, a retired Presbyterian minister, and Bobby Hill, former yard master for the Big Spring railroad, hope to provide an educational service to the residents of Big Spring.

Particularly the senior citizens and the local schools.

At the Doc Hardy Memorial Railroad, 121 Main Street, several HO model trains demonstrate the history of the railroad in Big Spring.

"We want to provide demonstrations for the schools and senior citizens' groups to show the history of the railroad in Big Spring," said Harrison.

The display demonstrates the advent of the railroad and its ability to cross great distances, which eventually led to the demise of the stagecoach.

According to Harrison history books tell us that in 1881 the last of the stagecoaches made its way through West Texas and the railroad took over creating much needed convenience for travelers and the eventual transportation of goods and cattle.

Today, trains carrying semi trailers, gas, milk, and automobiles have become a familiar sight to West Texans.

And although transportation by track for most people is has been replaced by the automobile, Harrison believes that Amtrak will someday make its way into West Texas with one of its stops being Big Spring.

Whether you're retired from the railroad, a history buff or just like model trains, there is something for everyone at Doc Hardy's.

The model features a West Texas landscape, a scale model of the first Big Spring train station, roaming buffalo, bridges, and farm scenes.

One of the demonstrations will feature the race between the Texas and Pacific and the Southern Pacific trains to El Paso which was resulted in the Southern Pacific train winning because the men running the T&P train apparently got carried away with the most repellent they were using and got "snookered," said Harrison. "Of course it didn't help that the insect repellent they were using happened to be red-eye whiskey," he adds.

According to Harrison the display has trains that represent three different eras: "the first Texas and Pacific train to come to the station at First and Green Streets in 1881, the conversion to the Union Pacific Railroad that presently travels through Big Spring, and the Amtrak train of the future that will make its stops in Big Spring someday," he said.

Harrison, along with Hill and Leroy Headrick, have lovingly restored the model which was started about eight years ago. And although the huge setup dominates most of the small shop, making the shop friendlier to those in wheelchairs is in the works.

Until then, appointments and arrangements can be made to accommodate those who need help.

"My hours are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., tentatively, and by appointment," he said.

For more information or a demonstration, contact Jack Harrison at 263-6397.

The demonstrations will be free to the public. "But we will accept contributions," he added.

"We have a smaller track for the little kids to play with," he said, while the adults and older children can enjoy the larger, more elaborate display.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony and history demonstration will be held at 2 p.m. Nov. 8, hosted by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and the Big Spring Ambassadors.

The memorial is a project of Big Spring Main Street Inc. with Drew Mouton, attorney, chairman of the board.

Clockwise from top - Justin Rau watches the trains while standing behind one of the many miniature buildings featured in the model.

An Amtrak train makes it way around a bend as Justin Dahmer stands at the switch while watching the train he controls.

These trains are poised for a demonstration that recalls the historic race to El Paso by the Texas and Pacific and the Southern Pacific railroads.

This Mopar train is a treasured addition to the collection.

It was a gift to Jack Harrison by his late son Ron Harrison.

Remembering good times, good songs, and good friends

Jody Nix, whenever we meet, will say to me "Uncle Al, play the second slow pretty one." Then I get a bear hug from him.

This is Jody's way of a special greeting, but he is referring to my old radio days at Big Spring's only Country radio station KHEM in the early 1970s.

Jody was just a button, but he sure does remember Uncle Al.

I would always start off my program with "Boil Them Cabbage Down" or some other fast and furious fiddle tune then I would follow up with what I called my second slow pretty one which would be Patsy Cline, Jim Reeves or Lorreta Lynn.

Jody has never forgotten old Uncle Al and he always lets me know it. It may be in the supermarket, the post office or on the street somewhere.

Then we get into a conversation mostly about these old radio days.

Just the other day, I reminded Jody that I was the disc jockey who discovered the mellow voice of Willie Nelson, long before he became the "Outlaw."

Willie would frequently visit with other notables to do stage shows at our city auditorium and I told Jody that I told my audience that Willie had yet to acquire the recognition that he deserved.

That was back in the early 1960s. Later on Willie did get recognition, but he had to become an outlaw to get it.

I would like to say that Jody Nix is doing something important.

He is keeping alive that great Bob Wills and Hoyle Nix swinging country swing sound

That good old classic, unforgettable stuff that any country music buff knows so well.

Every Saturday night Jody continues that tradition at his Stampede out on Snyder Highway.

It would be well worth your time to visit and enjoy, once again, a classic tradition.

Al Scott writes a regular column for the Herald.

Dangerously good chocolate-chip cookies

AUSTIN — Bruce Springsteen made my chocolate chip cookies famous.

The Boss, to my knowledge, has never tasted one of my cookies.

But his music inspired the ferociously untamed parties at my place in college, when the cookies cured the munchies and resurrected our energy for one more dance.

Somewhere along the way, though, a popularity shift occurred.

The cookies had more groupies than Springsteen. And an edible legend was born.

My chocolate chip cookies are big, gooey and dangerous. They cause panic attacks, withdrawal tremors, stampedes and personality changes. And that's just among my friends. Who knows what happens to those strangers I see at big parties who won't budge from the food table after they discover chocolate chip cookies as big as their hands.

These are the best chocolate chip cookies in the world.

These cookies don't just go to parties. They sail. They camp. They ski. They ride airplanes. They go to concerts. They go to funerals. They go to graduations. They go on road trips. They appear on people's desks as thank-you gifts. They go to faraway mailboxes. And they go Federal Express.

They are too rich, too big and too filling to hoard. They must be shared. That's what makes them special.

Handing out the cookies can be a dangerous mission. It forces me to act like a covert agent. If I don't have enough cookies for everyone in the newsroom, I have to carry a brown paper bag and slip them into awaiting hands as I walk by. I'm not making this up. I need a bodyguard.

People want to clone these cookies. I don't mind if they do. I always give away my recipe when someone asks. "But mine don't come out like yours," they tell me.

I'm not sure why. I'm no food expert. These cookies are not just my signature dish. They are my only dish. Unless a baked potato counts. If I can make these glorious cookies, anyone can.

Be bold and make them big.

It's just a basic cookie recipe I got off a package of chocolate chips back in college.

I added a few ruffles and flourishes over the years, but haven't tinkered with it in two decades. The five key things to remember: Mexican vanilla, equal parts butter and shortening, chill dough overnight, place in huge balls on the cookie sheet and remove from oven long before they look done.

There's one other teeny, tiny thing you should know: I don't eat these cookies.

Would you if you had been baking command-appearance chocolate chip cookies for more than 25 years? I still believe these are the world's best chocolate chip cookies. But I had my fill a decade ago.

The only thing I can't stop eating is the dough. If the Japanese get to eat raw eggs for breakfast every morning, I get to eat my cookie dough. I always have and I always will.

Editor's notes: There is a trend in chocolate chip cookies today to load the dough up with extra chips and nuts. Denise's recipe does not do that. Quite the contrary. She uses only half the amount of chocolate chips called for in the traditional Toll House recipe. But nuts are a must, she says.

So is the Mexican vanilla for flavor. (She's still using the same 10-year-old bottle she got on a trip to Mexico.) The flavoring can be purchased at stores like Fiesta. Mexican vanilla has a rich flavor, and Texans have long used it in cooking, but it must be noted that the Food and Drug Administration does not recommend buying Mexican vanilla because it sometimes contains coumarin, a blood thinner. Coumarin has been prohibited in food in the United States since 1940. Read labels carefully.

Raw-dough eaters rave about this recipe, especially when it is freshly made. And, yeah, they know the food safety experts advise against consuming raw eggs because of possible salmonella contamination. But many healthy adults, whose immune systems are not compromised, choose to take the risk, especially when faced with a batter this good.

Denise's Killer Chocolate Chip Cookies

- 4 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup softened salted butter
- 1 cup Crisco (white) vegetable shortening
- 1 1/2 cups white sugar, sifted
- 1 1/2 cups brown sugar
- 4 eggs
- 2-3 teaspoons Mexican vanilla
- 2 cups semisweet chocolate chips (12 ounce bag Nestle's)
- 2 cups walnut halves or very large pieces

Sift flour, soda and salt together. Put aside.

In large mixing bowl, place butter, shortening, sugars, eggs, vanilla and mix on low until blended, about 30 seconds. Then on high for 3 minutes. Stir flour mixture in by hand with a wooden spoon. When well mixed, alternately add chips and nuts, twice, stirring well after each addition.

Chill dough overnight, covered, in mixing bowl. Then on ungreased cookie sheet (jelly roll pan, not air-cushioned), place scoops of dough, about 1/3-1/2 cup in size, 6 to the pan. Don't ball the scoops tightly or mash them down. Leave them scooped free form.

Bake immediately at 375 degrees in the middle of the oven, only one pan at a time, for 10-12 minutes, until cookies are brown about 1/4-1/2 inch around the edges, but undercooked in center. Carefully transfer to baking rack to cool. Repeat baking with remaining dough, refrigerating bowl of dough between pans. Makes about 2 to 2 1/2 dozen cookies, depending on how much dough you eat.

- 5 key secrets
- 1. Mexican vanilla
- 2. Half butter/half Crisco for shortening
- 3. Chill dough overnight
- 4. Big globs of dough
- 5. Remove way before fully baked

PUC chairman, key lawmakers endorse Jan. 1 deregulation

AUSTIN (AP) — The chairman of the Public Utility Commission said Friday he was confident that electric deregulation will start on schedule Jan. 1, and a key lawmaker added his qualified endorsement.

State Rep. Steve Wolens, one of the authors of the 1999 deregulation law, opened a legislative hearing Friday by saying he wasn't prepared to declare the state ready for competition among electric companies.

Legislators will feel political heat if there are service or billing problems after Jan. 1, he said.

By the end of the hearing, however, Wolens said he was confident deregulation would start on time — but the Dallas Democrat added that he wants to hold one more hearing before then.

PUC Chairman Max Yzaguirre showed no such uncertainty.

"I am highly confident that we will be there to open the market on time Jan. 1," Yzaguirre told the panel, called the Electric Utility Restructuring Legislative Oversight Committee. He noted the PUC has not made a final determination.

Only the Public Utility Commission has the authority to delay deregulation, but lawmakers are likely to influence any decision.

State Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, who helped write the deregulation law, also pushed for the Jan. 1 start. He said a firm date was important to businesses and consumers.

"Hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent preparing this state for Jan. 1, 2002. The Legislature made promises. We should keep our promises," he said.

Sibley said anyone wanting to delay deregulation should find a "fatal flaw," a reason to stop.

Under the law written by Sibley and Wolens, consumers and businesses in most of Texas will pick their electric provider much the way they choose their long-distance phone company.

But delays and glitches have plagued a pilot program designed to test the deregulated power system.

About 90,000 people signed up for the test run, but only 51,000 are receiving power from their new company, according to the Electric Reliability Council of Texas, or ERCOT, which operates the state's main power grid. Another 22,000 will soon receive power from their new company, ERCOT said.

Consumers Union, AARP and other groups asked the PUC last month to delay the start of deregulation, saying the pilot program has experienced computer problems, delays, billing snafus and spikes in wholesale electric prices.

Alberto's cooks up some help for Red Cross

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

The Rodriguez family has turned some good Mexican cooking into big bucks for the American Red Cross.

The family, owners of Alberto's Crystal Cafe, 120 E. Second St., donated $1,219.79 for terrorist attack relief efforts to the Red Cross recently. The figure represents a recent full day's worth of intake by the restaurant, said Sally Rodriguez.

"All my employees, my waitresses donated their tips and my employees donated their time," she said. "We were pretty busy that day."

In fact, nobody at the cafe made a dime Oct. 21. All 20 of the restaurant's family members and employees donated their income to the cause.

"Some that don't even work here," she said. "Some family members even came and helped."

The Red Cross isn't alone in receiving the benefits of the restaurateurs' generosity.

"We've done this before for other benefits, for churches, tornadoes, disasters," Debbie Rodriguez added. "I think we were all taken by what happened (Sept. 11) and we felt like we had to do our part."

The Crystal Cafe will have been open 27 years in December and specializes in good, old-fashioned Mexican food.

"We're known for our wonderful American food," Debbie said.

In fact, the cafe got its start selling both types of cuisine, Sally said.

"We started out with hamburgers and tamales," she said.

Mary Kay Foundation assists victims of domestic abuse

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

For the first time, the Mary Kay Cosmetic Charitable Foundation donated about $225,000 in financial assistance for domestic violence emergency shelters.

According to Dene Sheppard, local Mary Kay senior sales director, the foundation was able to fund one shelter in every state this year and individual consultants under Sheppard's unit did their part in October for Domestic Abuse Awareness month.

The individual consultants donated a percentage of their sales to the charitable foundation last month.

"Every one of the independent consultants participated," Sheppard said. "I was really proud."

Also, consultants distributed flyers that stated national domestic violence statistics and facts with every delivery of a product.

Members of the Dene Sheppard unit assisted with the Victim Services candlelight vigil, providing about 150 candles for participants and volunteered to car hop for donations at the Victim Services fund-raiser at Sonic Drive-In on Oct. 27.

Internet training opportunity slated

Anyone who is interested in attending an internet training for the general public is invited to attend a training sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service on Nov. 13.

The trainings will be held at the Howard County Library computer room. Enter the door on the east side. The program will begin at 6 p.m., and conclude by 9 p.m.

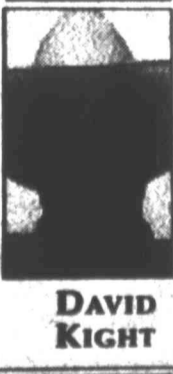

The internet training will focus on how to search, bookmark informative sites and how to purchase items on the internet safely. Other topics such as researching on the internet, child safety access, basics of Web sites, as well as time will be available for any participants to ask any questions concerning the internet. All trainings will be hands-on.

The training will be limited to the first 20 people that register, due to a limited number of computers. Register by calling the County Extension Office at 264-2236 no later than 5 p.m., Nov. 9. The cost will be $10 per person. This cost will cover resource materials for each participant, as well as refreshments.

Again, all participants must be registered by 5 p.m. on Friday by call the Extension office.

Extension programs serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin. The Texas A&M University System, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the County Commissioners Courts of Texas Cooperating.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Janelle Britton has been selected to join Coldwell Banker's International President's Circle, an honor bestowed upon the top 11 percent of the company's more than 72,000 sales associates world wide.

It is the fourth time Britton has been selected for the award. She was recognized at the company's international business conference.

Britton has been an active realtor in Big Spring for 26 years. She was an owner of Sun Country Realtors for 20 years and has been a member of the Coldwell Banker franchise for eight years. She recently sold her business and the Coldwell Banker Franchise to Ellen Phillips Realtors, where she is currently employed.

Signup for the fiscal year 2002 Production Flexibility Contracts (PFC) will continue to Aug. 1, 2002, the Howard County Farm Service Agency has announced.

PFC participants will have an option to request fiscal year 2002 payments as two payments of 50 percent each or one payment equivalent to 100 percent of the total payment.

Producers involved in year-to-year land rental agreements must complete a new contract to earn 2002 PFC payments. Approximately 97 percent of all farms in Howard County fall into this category.

The final date to execute new PFC contracts is Aug. 1, 2002. Failure to provide necessary signatures by that date will render applicable producers ineligible for 2002 PFC payment.

Interested producers should contact the Howard County FSA office at 267-2557 for an appointment.

Edward Jones plans tax seminar Thursday

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

Barbara Brumley, the Edward Jones investment representative in Big Spring, will host a free seminar on taking advantage of the new tax relief act.

"While the media has focused coverage of the tax relief act on income tax rate cuts and rebate checks, other important components of the bill may also impact your investment strategy," Brumley said.

Brumley will hold the seminar on how to take advantage of the tax bill President George W. Bush signed into law on June 7. The seminar will be at her office at 1714 Gregg Street at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

"This will be real informal," she said.

The tax relief act impacts millions of Americans, Brumley said.

"Actually anybody can benefit, from those who have a regular IRA (individual retirement account), a Roth IRA to small businesses," she said.

Brumley said the act provides many tax benefits to individuals, including education-saving incentives, tax rate reductions and increased IRA contribution limits.

Also, increased contribution limits on 401 (k)s and other employer-sponsored retirement plans, increased child tax credit, marriage penalty relief and reduced estate tax rates.

Brumley said the current stock market activity will also be touched upon in the session.

"We will talk a little bit about investing in a bear market," Brumley said.

"The investor needs to be

15th Big Spring Herald Community Christmas Parade

5:30 p.m. • Saturday, Dec. 1, 2001

Parade theme — "A Big Spring Christmas"
Entry deadline — Noon, Friday, Nov. 16

Help us make this Christmas Parade the biggest and best ever! The parade will begin promptly at 5:30 p.m. at the corner of the north frontage road of FM 700 and Gregg Street and will head north, arriving in time for the downtown Christmas celebration.

We hope you will join us this year and help keep Big Spring's Community Christmas Parade the largest in the Southwest.

First-place plaques will be awarded in the following categories:

1. LIGHTED
2. SCHOOL/CHURCH
3. COMMERCIAL/MANUFACTURING
4. CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS

PARADE RULES

1. Parade's official Santa Claus will be provided by the Herald. No other Santa Claus will be permitted in the parade.
2. Floats can not exceed 65 feet long, 8 feet wide or 14 feet high.
3. Vehicles other than antiques must be decorated.
4. Vehicles of a strictly commercial nature will not be permitted.
5. Entries not in line at start of parade will be placed at end of parade and will not compete.
6. Candy may be distributed by elves on foot only. None can be thrown from floats.
7. Mail, fax or hand deliver entry forms to:

PARADE COMMITTEE

American Bar Association, sponsored the PBS special "Break the Silence" program about domestic abuse that aired on Monday.

The Mary Kay Charitable Foundation is solely funded through contributions of the consultants, directors and the founder, Mary Kay herself, Sheppard said.

"All this money comes strictly from us, the consultants world-wide," she said.

"We are really proud," she continued. "This is the first year to do this program. In the past we have only funded cancer research."

"The company has more than 700,000 consultants world-wide and domestic violence has impacted so many of them one way or another, either personally or through a family member," she said.

cautious but can still take advantage because of the market slow down. This is a good time to get in the market."

Refreshment will be served during the event and Brumley encourages those who plan to attend to reserve a seat by calling the office at 263-4707.

"Join us for a cup of coffee and to talk about the new tax laws and about the current market activity," Brumley said.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Nov. 4:
You provide unusual insight and creativity. Express your high energy by taking ideas to their completion. Bosses and associates admire this quality in you. As a result, you'll gain both personally and professionally. Learn to funnel your unique energy constructively, or you frequently could lose your temper. If you are single, romance seems to knock constantly on your door. You need to decide which tasty morsel appeals to you. If you are attached, your relationship becomes much more intense. PISCES often identifies with you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)* Let go of the here and now. It's time to be a child again. Surprises mark your week. Something that has been on the back burner for too long suddenly becomes possible. Tonight: Enjoy a favorite meal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)* You often sell yourself short. Give up this bad habit, and start pleasing yourself. Your cheer will spread far and wide. Bosses and work have been relatively tame for the past few months. Don't count on this pattern continuing. Tonight: Try to get a good night's sleep.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)* News from a distance could give you quite a jolt. Open your mind to new opportunities. Others appreciate your caring and thoughtfulness. Bring friends together late in the day. Tonight: Find your friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)* Stop and buy a pumpkin. Have a cup of hot cider, and chat with a companion. Let responsibilities slide off your shoulders. What has been knotted up financially or emotionally will finally loosen up. Don't hesitate to put extra effort into a partnership.

Tonight: Avoid thinking about work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)* Focus on the very special people in your life. The Lion roars this week, especially if others don't do what you want or expect. Finally, you let someone know how you feel.

Tonight: Talk about your dreams.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)* If you feel frustrated, let another know. Don't carry the burden of suppressed feelings. Deal with someone head-on at work. What comes as a brilliant idea out of the blue deserves to be followed up on. It is in your ballpark. Tonight: Spend time with a partner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)* Others expect the most out of you. You'll meet their demands. Just when you were sure of yourself with a child or loved one, the unpredictable occurs. If you are single, hold on tight.

Tonight: Accept an invitation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)* Express your affection to a child. Everything was under control -- at least, that is what you thought. Information comes forward that forces you to regroup.

Tonight: Play the night away.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)* You don't know how to let someone know how much you care. Make that extra effort to share, even if you feel awkward. Hold on tight. Your creativity is high. You will need every ounce of innovation on your side.

Tonight: Flow with the moment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)* An older relative does need to hear from you. Make plans for dinner together, or go to a favorite museum. Be circumspect with a child or a risk. You could find yourself in muddy waters if you're not careful.

Tonight: Go to an old haunt.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)* Postpone a discussion till later in the day or perhaps for a few days more. Network in the beginning of the week. You could be surprised at what comes up for you midweek. Your spirit is renewed. Your energy soars.

Tonight: Choose a favorite restaurant.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)* How about some one-on-one time with a loved one? Step back when dealing with others. You might hear something that will force you to open up and speak your mind, even if you initially decided to stay mum.

Tonight: Just be yourself.

Elderly residents put in their two cents worth

Dear Ann Landers: We are a group of residents at Oak Hill Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Pawtucket, R.I. At least four days a week we read and comment on your column during our Coffee Hour. We look forward to this little "ritual" and would like to share our latest discussion.

We would like to respond to the letter from "One Sibling," who lived near her parents. Her out-of-town siblings insisted she take over the parents' finances and manage their lives. She said she visits her parents daily and they are perfectly capable of taking care of themselves. We agree that this daughter is doing the right thing. The other siblings should butt out.

Whether we are in our 80s or 90s, we elderly people have the right to make our own decisions. In most cases, we still have a mind that is fairly clear, and our wishes should be respected. If the other siblings feel that "One Sibling" is not doing a good enough job, they should become more involved themselves, instead of quarterbacking from the sidelines and telling that sibling what to do.

We would also like to congratulate "One Sibling" for being compassionate, concerned and involved with her parents on a daily basis. It must be difficult and stressful for her at times, but we appreciate her effort in helping the elderly maintain some measure of dignity. -- The Coffee Club at Oak Hill Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Pawtucket, R.I.

Dear Friends in Pawtucket: I am pleased to learn that you folks are readers of my column. Thanks for letting me know. I have heard from many other residents of nursing homes around the country who tell me they play a game at their weekly

"Ann Landers meetings." They read the letter in the column and invite the resident to speculate on my answer. While some responses are off in the wild blue yonder, others are right on the mark -- like yours. I send best wishes to all my senior readers in nursing homes and retirement centers, and warm thanks for allowing me to spend some time with you.

Dear Ann Landers: A while back, you printed a letter from the parents of a 15-year-old boy who wanted to do nothing but play the guitar all day. I hope it's not too late to respond. Those parents should do everything they can to encourage their son. They should be supportive and arrange to have him perform for professionals who are capable of judging his level of ability.

As a guitarist and record producer, I assure you that the only way to gain the required skill level to be a professional is to practice obsessively from a young age. He may need to pursue a formal training program or gain a degree in music or music education. Talent and persistence are the keys to being a successful musician.

Please urge these parents to help their son learn about the variety of careers available to musicians. Potentially lucrative jobs include live performance, sound reinforcement, television and commercials, film work, record production, talent scouting and record company executive positions.

Training him to become an investment broker when he'd prefer to be a musician will result in an unfulfilling and restless life. They should encourage him to pursue his dreams. He won't starve. If he hasn't gotten anywhere by the age of 25, he still has time to try something else. -- Learned the Hard Way in Arlington, Va.

Dear Arlington: Thanks for a hard-hitting, common sense letter. I hope the young man's parents see your response. It could make a big difference in the life of that aspiring young musician.
