Polls open all day Tuesday for amendments election

HERALD Staff Report

Polls open at 7 a.m. Tuesday in six Howard County locations for an election to determine the fate of 19 proposed amendments to the state constitution.

The polls will remain open until 7 p.m.

Citizens should check their voter registration cards for the precinct number in order to determine the correct voting location. In one change from a previously released list of Land Board to issue bonds polling places, the Howard County clerk's office reported today that those residents within precinct 405 will vote at the Coahoma Community Center instead of the fire station at 11th Street and Birdwell in Big Spring.

Among the amendments are Proposition 8, which supporters contend would benefit Big Spring State Hospital and the state park system, and Proposition 7, would allow the Veterans' for veterans' housing assistance and to use assets to provide for cemeteries for veterans.

Proposition 15 would provide additional financing for the construction and reconstruction of state highways while Proposition19 would provide funds to develop water resources.

There are 18,592 registered voters in Howard County. Some 609 ballots were cast in the early voting period, which ended Friday.

Light display gets $7,000 boost

Committee seeks some extra help

By LYNDEL MOODY

Staff Writer

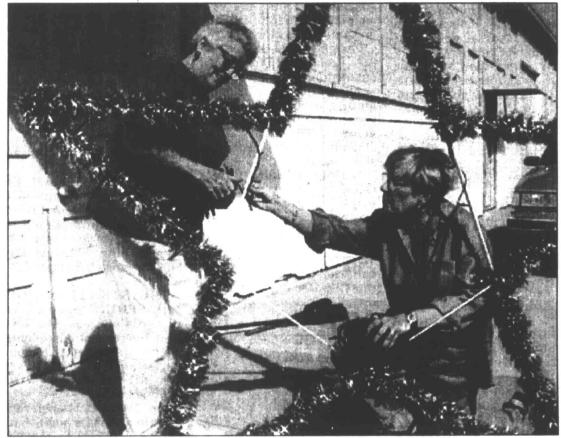

The Comanche Trail Festival of Lights committee will add approximately $7,000 in electrical supply upgrades to the Comanche Trail Park dam area for this year's event.

According to Gloria McDonald, publicity chair for the Festival of Lights, an electrical pole and transformer will be added to the dam area to provide electrical access for the lighted displays. "In the past, it has been difficult and often in some cases impossible to light certain areas due to no power source in that area.' McDonald said.

The committee has continuously upgraded the electrical supply to improve the more than 250,000-light display that decorates the park each Christmas season, she said. Each year's upgrade comes from the donations of those who tour the Festival of Lights event that draws thousands of people to Big Spring,

Pat Simmons, left, and Gloria McDonald, both of the Comanche Trail Festival of Lights, check to make sure the light strings on this display is in working order. The Festival of Lights will be adding approximately $7,000 in electrical upgrades at Comanche Trail

McDonald said.

"This is a gift back to the community," she said. "People from 33 states and several countries visited us last year."

McDonald said the Festival of Lights illuminates the natural beauty of the spring and the park as a whole

"We, in Big Spring, are emulating the tradition of a great European city, which has long used elegant lighting to show off its rich architectural heritage, McDonald said.

Spring, in so doing, further establishes a newborn local tradition to attract regional and state neighbors and tourists to make our city a part of their Christmas seasonal travel destination."

As a tie-in with a water color exhibit on display through the end of this month, the museum will host the class on Saturday from 10:30-11:30 a.m. "We want to do some more educational kinds of things," said curator Beth Purcell. "An art exhibit is educational in itself, but we want to bring more to it."

The class will allow young artists to explore their creative side, said teacher Garon Wennik. All those who participate will make a "faux watercolor" all their own.

"This is a collage medium," explained Wennik.

Children will cut or tear pieces of tissue paper and glue them onto a paper canvas. When they add water using a paintbrush, the tissue paper colors meld, creating a watercolor look. While they're creating a design unique to their vision, these new art-smart youngsters can also look around at the exhibit of paintings by local artists. The Caboose Watercolor

LIGHTS

The event is limited to two weeks this year instead of the month, in order to help ease the burden on volunteers needed for the event.

This year's festival will illuminate the park from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., Dec. 15 through 31. Also, the festival is looking for help from civic orgabusinesses. nizations, church groups and others to take responsibility for setting up, maintaining and taking down a section of lights in the show. The entire display is broken down into about 20 sections, McDonald said, and sections should average between 15,000 and 20,000

"From the inception of the Festival of Lights, we hoped that this event would become an established Big Spring tradition, showing the city's outstanding volunteer spirit and establishing Big Spring to Texas attention while magnifying the unique and natural beauty of the historic spring," McDonald said.

For more information about having a group or business take responsibility for a section of the display or become a sponsor, call Pat Simmons at 263-4607.

not get paid for it," he said. "They do this for the love of music. They love to entertain people and they love music.'

The variety show features all live entertainment.

"We do not use any prerecorded music," Thibeault said. "All the musicians are performing live. There is nothing compared to a live show.'

There will be a change in this year's event.

"We always end up with a gospel finale but this year we plan a patriotic finish,' he said. "It's a sing-along."

Thibeault said the show is just good old fashioned entertainment.

"It's going to be a good, family oriented show. It's very inexpensive entertainment," Thibeault said. 'People go away from the show satisfied."

J. Gordon Lunn, former Odessa/Midland news television meteorologist, will again host the event. Lunn also hosted this year's West Texas Music Revue.

For ticket information, call the Globe Theatre at (915) 332-1586.

"You can be an artist with whatever tools you have on hand," said Wennik.

She said even the younger children will enjoy the chance to express themselves, while keeping their hands busy with some pretty paper and gooey glue

'We want (them) to just have fun and create something," Wennik said, adding that the young artists will be free to use whatever design they wish.

While she will discuss art with the students, and perhaps show some of her own work, she won't try to influence their creations.

"We're all artists, really," she said. "It's just the way we see things. This is about more the experience of creating rather than trying to do something 'artistic.'

Purcell said the museum plans similar educational activities in the future, all aimed at helping the community get more out of the varied displays exhibits.

"This is a way of interpreting the exhibit to a greater extent," she said.

To sign up for the free art class, call the museum at 267-8255. Parents are welcome, too.

U.S. bombing Taliban front lines, sending in more special forces

WASHINGTON (AP) -U.S. aircraft dropped bombs on Taliban front lines close to four key cities in northern Afghanistan, including Mazar-e-Sharif, where the anti-Taliban northern alliance says it has were targeted by U.S. aircraft.

Mazar-e-Sharif was lost by the rebels to the Taliban in 1998. Retaking it would open a major supply route for the northern alliance from Uzbekistan and Tajikistan.

To aid the rebels, more U.S. special forces also have entered Afghanistan in the last few days, Air Force Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"The more teams we get on the ground, the more effectively we'll bring (opposition rebels') power to bear

Myers said.

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said last week he hoped to at least triple the number of special forces troops inside Afghanistan, now believed to number between 100 and 200.

The general commanding operations Afghanistan said their purpose is "to provide an advantage to opposition leaders with whom we share a common objective."

"We synchronize our activities with their activities," Army Gen. Tommy Franks, head of the U.S. Central Command, said on ABC's "This Week.

is weakening but still controls substantial troops that will take time to thin out and conquer, top U.S. commanders said.

"We're setting in for the long haul," Myers said. Through the winter, the United States will supply the rebels with ammunition, food and cold-weather fighting gear, he said. "We think that they have every chance of prevailing."

During a visit to India on Monday, Rumsfeld said that with more U.S. military teams on the ground in Afghanistan to direct aircraft, "the effectiveness of

The Taliban government bombing is improving every day."

He also said he didn't think the operation would take years and that it would be completed in "the least possible time."

Myers said the United States has taken out Taliban air defenses, transportation for resupplying their troops and their communications.

"They have a substantial force left, but at this point that's exactly what we expected," he said.

The generals declined to say whether it would take a major deployment of U.S. ground forces to topple the Taliban. Franks said he

President Bush indicated last week the campaign would not ease during Ramadan. "The enemy won't rest during Ramadan and neither will we," he

OUR VIEWS

Your vote on Tuesday is important uesday is Election Day and if you haven't cast your vote, we encourage you to do so. Polls for the constitutional amendments election will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. throughout Howard County. That's plenty of time to work in a trip to your neighborhood ballot box and make your

In general, constitutional amendments elections don't draw a lot of attention, probably because we tend not to be concerned about things that don't affect us directly and probably because the wording of many amendments is complex and confusing. But there are a number of amendments on the ballot that Howard Countians should be aware of. Among them are Proposition 8, which would benefit Big Spring State Hospital and the state park system, and Proposition 7, which would provide for veterans' housing and cemeteries. Proposition 15 would provide additional financing for the bohstruction and reconstruction of state highways while Proposition 19 would provide funds to develop water resources.

All of those are important to our future and the future of our children and grandchildren.

According to the county clerk's office, there are 18,592 people registered to vote in Howard County. Of them, slightly more than 600 took time to cast a ballot during the early voting period, which ended Friday. That means that almost 18,000 citizens who are eligible to vote haven't.

If you are one of them, we encourage you to take the time to vote. It only takes a few minutes, but the choices you make will be important for years to come.

Consider that in many other countries, citizens don't have the right to cast a ballot. They don't have the freedom to help shape their city. county, state and nation.

You do. Please, go vote.

Speak out against stupid tax cuts don't see how we can call the House "economic stimulus" package anything but warprofiteering. The bill is a disgrace, and the usual suspects from Texas — Tom Delay and Dick Armey hold large responsibility for it. What hap-

The bill provides big tax cuts for big, profitable corporations - IBM, General Motors and General Electric get a'total of $3.27 billion in immediate tax rebate checks. A total of $25 billion in immediate tax rebates goes to large, profitable corporations, according to Citizens for Tax Justice. That's twice as much instant rebates to profitable corporations as the House, by two votes, decided to give the 37 million low-income families who didn't qualify for the original tax rebate.

new tak cuts go to the richest 1 percent of taxpayers, while the only 7 percent goes to the bottom 60 percent, according to the analysis by Tax Justice. Even more eye-popping cuts, relative to size, go to a whole slew of Texas corporations, including TXU, ChevronTexaco, Enron, etc. Dirty work at the crossroads -- or, more accurately, like the refrain of the country song, "Dead skunk in the middle of the road, stinkin' to high heaven."

For those who have forgotten where we started with the tax cuts, the first round, passed in May, was heavily tilted to benefit the rich and, surprise!, did not provide the needed economic stimulus. Even the Democrats' notion of a $300 rebate for "everybody" meant only everybody who made more than about $33,000 a year. That left out a whole lot of somebodies.

The problem is that four out of five Americans pay more in payroll taxes than they do in income taxes, so an income tax cut by definition favors the wealthy. The particularly obnoxious feature of the Republican "economic stimulus package" is that it is aimed at precisely the wrong people. Not only does it, again, unfairly benefit the wealthy, but it leaves out, again, precisely the people who will promptly spend whatever they get, thus actually providing economic stimulus.

This bill contains so many bad ideas, it's hard to count them all. It would repeal the Alternative Minimum Tax, which discourages corporations from looking for tax loopholes and shelters. Reducing the capital gains tax - now there's a dandy. Threefourths of the proceeds from that little sweetheart go the wealthiest 1 percent, and it costs the treasury $10 billion a year.

economic stimulus plan of between $50 billion and $75 billion. This one will cost well over $212 billion. "The largest corporate tax loophole under current law accelerated depreciation would be almost doubled, at an estimated cost of $109 billion over the next three years," says Tax Justice. Incredibly enough, the Senate Republican bill is even more grotesquely skewed to benefit corporations and the wealthy, at a total cost of $220 billion. More than half the proposed Senate cuts would go the richest 1 percent; only 6 percent would go to the bottom 60 percent.

One of the many troubling aspects of the Republican bills is that rather than providing an extension of health insurployed, they propose instead to let states shift

ance benefits for the unem-

money from the federal program designed to provide health insurance for poor children to insurance for the newly unemployed. Bush himself signed off on this proposal. That's just great - let's take money away from poor kids to help those impacted by terrorist attacks. What a great

Of course, the Senate D's are putting together a completely different package. But R's are using an old legislative trick. There is hell's own pressure on the Democrats to cooperate and to compromise these days: No one wants to hear Congress squabble in the middle of a national emergency. This thing will be compromised out, but when you start by putting a ton of weight (or idiot tax cuts) on one side of the see-saw, what happens is you wind up with half of those idiot cuts and none of the useful

At this rate, we're going to look up from the war against terrorism to find both our civil liberties and economic justice long gone. Long term, that's a lot scarier than anthrax.

Speak up, people; speak out. The only way to stop something this big and bad is for the people themselves to put pressure on Congress. This is just as much a matter of patriotism as enlisting in the Marines.

Can we win the war from the air?

n 1921, Italian Brigadier General Giulio Douhet, Benito Mussolini's first Undersecretary of Air, wrote "Command of the Air." in which he theorized that wars could be won from the air alone. He particularly advocated what came to cally called "strategic bombing": the destruction of cities

as a means of forcing a nation to the peace table. So far, the current United States-led campaign against the Taliban regime in Afghanistan appears to be based upon Douhet's theory. The modern model seems to be the United States-led campaign against Serbs in Kosovo, but what is forgotten is that a substantial army was massed at the border, ready to follow up on the air campaign. That combination of airpower and ground-power proved enough for the

The only other war brought to a conclusion through airpower occurred when atomic bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945. Japan quickly sued for peace, but no nation has ever again employed those weapons. Indeed, it could be argued that nuclear power, not air power, ended World War II.

Neither the Kosovo scenario nor the Hîroshima scenario is at play in Afghanistan because we have no large invading army on the Afghan border and because the world knows we are not going to employ nuclear weapons. Further, the Douhet theory is predicated upon an assault against civilians, but the fight in Afghanistan is explicitly not being waged against the Afghan people.

This situation leaves a dilemma between ends and means. During World War II, we waged war on the civilian populations of Germany, Japan and their allies. There were no pronouncements that the war was against Hitler and Hirohito and not against the German and Japanese people, though, in hindsight, there should have been.

So can airpower alone root out an evil regime with such pinpoint precision that little collateral damage (the killing of civilians) results? Or can airpower alone so decimate the Taliban forces that the armies of the Northern Alliance and other Afghan opponents of the Taliban can succeed on the ground? This strategy was attempted at the end of the Vietnam War, when U.S. air forces supported South Vietnamese ground forces to stave off the North Vietnamese Army. That tactic failed primarily because North Vietnam was receiving all the supplies it needed from the Soviet Union. Afghanistan, on the other hand, is isolated, and except for Saddam Hussein, friendless. Supplies are not flowing to the Taliban, so it may be possible to let the anti-Taliban forces carry the burden on the ground. But there is a problem. Will those forces install a government that ends state sponsorship of terrorism. brings equal rights to women, and some form of democracy to the Afghan people? In other words, if we want to win the peace, we need to be on the ground.

Therefore, the United States and allied forces need to be in Kabul, Kandahar and other major cities to ensure a stable transition. This is what we did in Germany and Japan. and the world was the beneficiary. If, instead, we simply view our task in onedimensional terms removing the Taliban, which will lead to removing the terrorists — then we may find ourselves making the same mistake we made the last time U.S. ersonnel were in Afghanistan, when the CIA and U.S. special operations teams assisted the Afghans in their war to end Soviet occupation. When the Soviets left, we left, and the result was Sept. 11th.

End game proves problem for Cowboys in OT

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) The difference between winning and losing for the New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys was playing the end game.

The young Cowboys built a 17point halftime lead, but didn't finish off the Giants. New York coach Jim Fassel didn't hesitate to turn to one of the NFL's great closers -Morten Andersen.

Andersen kicked a 42-yard field goal with 7:48 left in overtime for his 29th career game winner, and the Giants defeated the Cowboys 27-24 on Sunday, snapping a threegame losing streak.

"We call him money, and there is reason for that," Giants defensive end Michael Strahan said of Andersen. "There is reason he has been around 20 years and 300 games. It was fitting for him to win

The Giants (4-4) had to overcome five turnovers, including three by Kerry Collins that either resulted or led to touchdowns for the Cowboys (2-5), to make Andersen's 300th game memorable.

Collins, who saw two interceptions returned for TDs, threw for three touchdowns and passed for 280 yards, including a 33-yard strike to Ike Hilliard that set up the gamewinning kick.

.. "Just get me down there we'll win this thing," Andersen recalled telling Collins. "You have to instill confidence. I can do that being around a long time. I'm not a big rah-rah guy. You show by example.

Before Andersen attempted the kick, Fassel called a time out to make sure nothing went wrong.

While the players waited, Mike the second half, the Cowboys played Murphy, the burly Florham Park police officer who is head of team security, ran on the field at Giants Stadium and smoothed out a spot at the Dallas 32-yard line for Andersen.

It helped bring to an end a very bumpy afternoon for the defending NFC champions.

"We hung in there, that's huge," Collins said. "If you don't have that, you're dead in the water.

The comeback was the best for the Giants since rallying from a 17-0 halftime deficit to defeat San Francisco 21-17 on Dec. 1, 1986. It also allowed New York to remain a half-game behind first-place Philadelphia in the NFC East. The Eagles (4-3) beat Arizona 21-7.

In seeing their chance to get back into the NFC East race slip away in for a pick.

like a team that is rebuilding under Dave Campo. Dallas made few mistakes and capitalized on three turnovers in taking a 24-7 halftime lead. Clint Stoerner, who had a near perfect 149.6 quarterback rating in the half, threw a 16-yard first-quarter touchdown pass to Joey Galloway two plays after Collins was sacked and fumbled. Linebacker Dexter Coakley scored on a 29-yard interception just 47 seconds after that and Mario Edwards returned another interception 71 yards late in the half for what seemed an insurmountable lead.

The Cowboys blew it after losing an early third-quarter touchdown because of an offensive pass interference call against Raghib Ismail

High School Player of the Week

Big Spring running back Josh Mathews (40) breaks into the open and picks up a big gain during the Steers' 24-14 win over Snyder's Tigers Friday night. Mathews rushed for 237 yards on 31 carries, including an 18-yard touchdown burst in the fourth quarter that iced the win, keeping the Steers' playoff hopes alive. Big Spring enters this week's final game of the regular season with Frenship in a five-way tie for third place in District 4-4A along with Andrews, Lubbock Estacado, San Angelo Lake View and Snyder.

Bears stage second straight wild comeback win in OT

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the second straight week, the Chicago Bears' script called for a big rally and an overtime victory.

Mike Brown returned an interception 16 yards Sunday for the winning touchdown - just as he did the previous game - as Chicago beat Cleveland 27-21. The Bears (6-1) won their sixth straight.

Chicago beat the 49ers 37-31 in overtime last Sunday on Brown's 33-yard interception return after trailing by 19 points in the second Bears scored two touchdowns in the final 28 seconds of regulation. James Allen tied it when he caught a 34-yard pass from Shane Matthews that the Browns (4-3) batted into the air.

In other NFL games it was the New York Giants 27, Dallas 24 in overtime; San Francisco 21, Detroit 13; Kansas City 25, San Diego 20; the New York Jets 16, New Orleans 9; Baltimore 13, Pittsburgh 10; Green Bay 21, Tampa Bay 20; Tennessee 28, Jacksonville 24; Washington 27, Seattle

14; Miami 23, Carolina 6;

Trailing 21-7 this time, the Indianapolis 30, Buffalo 14; New England 24, Atlanta 10; Philadelphia 21, and Arizona 7.

Matthews' 9-yard pass to Marty Booker with 28 seconds left preceded Bobby Howard recovering an onside kick at the Browns

In overtime, Tim Couch's pass was tipped by Bryan Robinson, and Brown was there again, carrying the ball to the end zone and all the way out of the stadium.

Cleveland got a fumble return for a TD from Courtney Brown on the second play of the game.

World Series

Last of comebacks belongs to Arizona in 3-2 Game 7 win

PHOENIX (AP) Mariano Rivera was on the mound, the Yankees' clubhouse was being set up for a champagne celebration and the Arizona Diamondbacks were in trouble.

were done," Arizona's Mark Grace said. Yet in a World Series full of late twists, David Dellucci thought there might be one more in Game He said so in the Diamondbacks' Sunday night.

"I looked over at Grace and said, "Man, it's time for us to create our own magic," he said.

Did they ever. Luis Gonzalez blooped an RBI single that capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning off Rivera, and Diamondbacks beat New York 3-2 to win their first championship.

"I wouldn't move on the bench. I wanted to get up and watch for the whole inning, but I was playing the luck seat," Arizona pitcher Curt Schilling said. "It seemed pretty surreal to me, watching this all develop," fellow ace Randy Johnson said.

Schilling and Johnson wound up as co-MVPs, accounting for all four Arizona victories.

The Yankees were only two outs from their fourth straight championship and fifth in six years when it suddenly fell apart. Against the most dominant postseason reliever ever, no less.

Tony Womack tied it with an RBI double and Craig Counsell was hit by a pitch to load the bases with one out. Gonzalez, choking up on the bat for the first time this year, hit a soft single over drawn-in shortstop

Derek Jeter.

"When you're a little kid, you think about the seventh game of the World Series,' Gonzalez said. "It didn't matter how the hit came.' Rivera had saved 23 straight postseason games. "That's baseball," Rivera said. "There's nothing I can do about it.' Arizona's Bob Brenly became the first manager to win the championship in his first year since Ralph Houk did it with the Yankees in 1961. "I felt that we outplayed them." Brenly said.

Diamondbacks outscored New York 37-14 In a stunning comeback, and held the Yankees to a .183 batting average, the lowest ever in a seven-game series.

The home team won every game, just the third time that has ever happened.

The Yankees were trying to become the third team in history to win four titles in a row. The Bronx Bombers did it from 1936-39 and from 1949-53.

"We're obviously disappointed in the result, but not the effort," Yankees manager Joe Torre said.

When the Yankees were close to winning, some people began preparing the clubhouse for a celebration. Owner George Steinbrenner threw them out.

"I'm proud of my team: We played our hearts out. It was a very tough loss. I will be a gracious loser," he said. "We'll be back. Mark that down. We'll be back.

said. New York City Mayor Rudolph Giuliani tried to console Steinbrenner.

"I'm not a good loser," he

"We can't win every year," the Yankees' No. 1 fan said. "They did the city proud, George.

Tech police to probe post-game altercation

LUBBOCK (AP) - Texas the goal posts and what hap-Tech campus police are investigating the scuffle that occurred Saturday between opposing groups of fans, injuring at least one person, after the Red Raiders upset the Texas A&M Aggies 12-0.

Interim Chancellor David Smith called for the probe, Cindy spokeswoman Rugeley said.

"The investigation is about who all was doing what," she said. "One of the key goals is to keep it from happening again."

Already reviews of footage of film from numerous cameras placed around the stadium have enabled campus police to identify some of the people involved.

"They will be reprimanded as university policy allows," Rugeley added. Campus pelice are investipened in the Aggie section at the north end of Jones SBC Stadium.

That was where Gov. Rick Perry's chief of staff, Mike McKinney, suffered a cut above his right eye after he was punched while trying to keep the fan from climbing into the stands. McKinney said he did not see who hit him.

There also were other, more miner confrontations in that section of the stands. In a statement after the game, Gerald Myers, Texas Tech's athletic director, condemned the incident.

"The actions of a group of students (tarnished \an important victory by our football team," Myers said. "This behavior is an embarrassment to the university and will not be condoned by students, alumni or fans of rating the pulling down of Texas Tech."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, Nov. 6:

Use your unusual insight this year. You gain through travel, foreigners, publishing and higher education. Think in more universal terms. Don't get caught up in your own story, but gain new perspectives. Walk in others' shoes. Your ability to identify with others becomes your strong suit.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)* Opportunity touches you on the home front. Maximize another's good news and tell him how happy you are. Tonight: Happy at home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your words mean more to someone than you realize. Carefully review a situation that impacts a key relationship. If you have a problem, you'll also have an opportunity to straighten it out. Make a move. Don't sit back. Tonight: Return all

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)* Your generosity, both emotional and financial, makes waves. Others respond to your inquiries and understand where you come from. Consider the adage that you might need to spend money so you can make money. Design a business plan. Tonight: Take someone out for dinner. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your good will goes far when dealing with those close to you. Investigate new possibilities while others desire to be more open with you. Your personality and insight help others relax. Be careful with someone who might want more from you than you know. Tonight: Whatever you ask

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Follow your instincts, and vou'll know exactly what to do. Close your door and complete your work. Carefully review a situation. Tonight: Maintain a low proffle. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. * Aim for more of what you want. Network and make calls. Rally others to pitch in. Consider yourself the cheerleader of the Zodiac right now. You
