TEACHER OF THE WEEK

Connie Kennedy, Kentwood Elementary teacher, loves to teach math and she doesn't mind stealing a few good teaching ideas along the way to make learning the subject fun.

In fact, that's part of her mission as an educator.

Kennedy is the Big Spring Herald and Big Spring Education Employees Federal Credit Union's Teacher of the Week.

Police investigate rash of Kentwood auto burglaries

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Big Spring police are looking for information about a rash of auto burglaries that occurred in Big Spring's Kentwood neighborhood Sunday morning.

Between about 2 a.m. and 9 a.m. Sunday, four auto burglaries and an incident of criminal mischief to a vehicle occurred in the area. The burglar or burglars reportedly stole items worth more than $3,000 and caused more than $2,000 damage in the spree.

"They happened in the same

"They happened in the same area and basically the same time period," said Big Spring Police Sgt. Roger Sweatt. "They all involved broken windows instead of open-door burglaries, so that's an indicator. It just happened that we lucked out and people actually locked their doors. It just all depends on how you look at it, as to whether it's lucky or unlucky."

The incidents included burglaries:

- In the 1900 block of East 25th Street, burglars reportedly broke the front door window of a 1995 Honda, causing $200 damage before stealing speaker boxes worth $100, jewelry worth $31 and 20 compact discs worth $310.
- In the 2600 block of Cindy Street, burglars reportedly broke the glass in a side window of the a 2000 GMC pickup, causing $300

Elbow's Johnson likes new digs

ELBOW — Although his piercing stare doesn't intimidate professional baseball players on a daily basis, students at Elbow Elementary try to avoid going to Principal Randy Johnson's office.

When word got around Randy Johnson would be serving as principal of the school this summer, some young boys envisioned the Arizona Diamondbacks' hard-throwing pitcher.

"I can pick up a baseball but I'm not as good as him," the 5-foot-11, soft spoken Johnson cracked. "I tell people I'm ugly but I'm not as ugly as him."

A life as a professional baseball player may not have been in Johnson's cards, but he gets to see diamonds every day — his students.

"I'm real excited to be at Forsan," said Johnson, who took over the role of principal in August after he and his wife, LaDonna, moved with their three sons Levi, Seth and Aaron from Monahans. Johnson was serving as the principal of the kindergarten school there.

"I wasn't looking for a change," he said. "Mr. (Wayne) Rotan, the superintendent (Forsan

BSHS yearbook semifinalist in prestigious judging

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

The 2002 Big Spring High School annual proved it's as golden as its theme by being chosen as a semifinalist for a nationwide Taylor Publishing publication.

Less than 10 percent of the more than 8,000 yearbooks the publishing company prints each year are chosen as semifinalists. Entries of up to six spreads from each semifinalist are then selected by the yearbook staff and sent to the company for judging.

The winning individual spreads are featured in the Yearbook Yearbook sent to annual staffs across the nation.

"The Yearbook is the best of the best," said Leland Mallett, BSHS journalism teacher. "They send it around the country. A lot of yearbook (staffs) use it to get ideas — we do."

The BSHS yearbook which was delivered to students during the first week of school, is a compilation of pictures of students, faculty, staff and events, along with articles of news that occurred during the school year.

"The school district turned 100 and we wanted to relate that back so we came up with the theme "The Golden Rule," and we played on that," said 17-year-old Victoria Patterson, a third-year staff member and this year's senior editor.

Last year's high school publication had record sales in advertising, Mallett said.

"We would like to thank our community for being so supportive of our effort," Patterson said.

Howard, Martin counties have local contests

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Area voters have one more chance to make their opinion count in local, state and federal elections. That chance comes Tuesday, when voters in Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties will join voters from around Texas in electing leaders and deciding the fate of a proposed amendment to the state constitution.

Voters in Howard and Martin counties will have the opportunity to decide between candidates in local races.

In Howard County, voters will choose commissioners for Precincts 2 and 4 in the county's only contested local races.

Republican incumbent Jerry Kilgore in Precinct 2 is challenged by Democrat Jerry Crawford. Kilgore, owner of Jerry's Barbershop in the Big Spring Mall, attended local schools and graduated from Howard College. Crawford is a salesman for Quality Truck Tires of Midland and graduated from Midland High School before attending Ryder Technical Institute Retiring 118th District Clerk Glenda Brasel, left, swears in her replacement, Colleen Barton. Barton is running unopposed for the position in the current election, but was sworn in Thursday to finish the last few days of Brasel's term. Prior to taking over as district clerk, Barton was chief deputy district clerk for 15 years and has worked in the 118th District Clerk's office for 22 years.

in Dallas. In Precinct 4, incumbent Gary Simer, a Democrat, faces Republican challenger Roy Don Beauchamp. Simer, owner of the Ponderosa Nursery and Garden Center, attended Borden County High School and several trade schools. Beauchamp, owner of Vision Makers Leisure Products, graduated from Big Spring High School before attending Howard College. Voters will also elect Precinct 2 and 4 commissioners in Martin County as well as a Precinct 2 justice of the peace in that county's contested races. Voters in Precinct 2 will choose between county commissioner candidates Democrat Valentino Sotelo and Republican J.A. Luxton and between justice of the peace candidates Democrat John Castro and Republican Pam McAnally. Precinct 4 voters will choose between commissioner candidates Burt Oaks Jr., a Republican, and Democrat David A. Pribyla. No Glasscock County races are contested. Area voters have been inundated with political advertisements for national and state candidates will see whose ads have been the most effective. National and state races include: • District 19 U.S. senator: John Cornyn (R-San Antonio) vs. Ron Kirk (D-Dallas) for the open seat. • Texas Governor: Rick Perry (R-Point Creek), incumbent, vs. Tony Sanchez (D-Laredo). • Lieutenant governor: David Dewhurst (R-Austin) vs. John Sharp (D-Austin). • Attorney general: Greg Abbot (R-Austin) vs. Kirk Watson (D-Austin). • Comptroller: Carole Keeton Rylander (R-Austin) vs. Marty Akins (D-San Saba). • Land Commissioner:

damage before stealing home electronic equipment worth $200, recordings worth $900 and other items worth $838. • In the 2500 block of Cindy, the burglars reportedly broke a side window of a 1994 Chevrolet pickup, causing $250 damage before stealing a purse or wallet worth $75 and $140 worth of negotiable instruments. • In the 1900 block of East 25th Street, burglars reportedly broke a side window of a 1997 Mitsubishi Montero, causing $200 damage before stealing home electronics worth $150 and other items worth $120. The criminal mischief incident took place in the 2700 block of Rebecca Drive. A white 1995 Ford parked in the area reportedly sustained $1,000 damage. "They might have broken that out and took a look in there and couldn't find anything to steal or didn't find anything worth taking or whatever," Sweatt said. "All that stuff in the same area would make you believe there's a good possibility they (incidents) were all related." Sweatt said car owners need to use a little common sense when they park their vehicles. "On some of this stuff that was taken, it was stuff that was laying out in the front seat or in the front floorboard ... stuff like that," he said. "What we'd advise people to do if they're going to leave their stuff in their car is that they put them out of sight under the seats, or put them in the trunk or something like that. That way, if people look in their cars, they won't see anything valuable and it will make them a little more hesitant to break in." Sweatt also recommends that drivers park as close to their homes as possible. "If they have lights out there, we recommend that they leave those on outside of the house to light their cars," he said. Anyone with information about these incidents should call Crimestoppers at 263-TIPS or 264-TIPS, or the Big Spring Police Department at 264-2550.

David Counts Knows that Pete Laney is A Leader We Can Be Proud Of

Pete Laney and I have worked side by side during my entire service as your State Representative. I know him well, trust him completely and highly recommend him to you.

I have enjoyed serving as your legislator, and while I am not running for re-election in Howard County, I have every confidence in asking you to make Pete Laney your choice for State Representative on Election Day.

As Speaker of the House and as State Representative, Pete Laney has been praised by Republicans and Democrats alike, as well he should be, for his fair leadership and even-handed approach at the Capitol building.

Pete Laney will give our area a strong respected voice in Austin.

OUR VIEWS

Remember to go vote on Tuesday

For one last time, it seems fitting to remind our readers that Tuesday is Election Day across our state and if you haven't cast your vote, we encourage you to do so tomorrow.

There are a number of key statewide races on the ballot, including ones for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, land commissioner, comptroller, ag commissioner and railroad commissioner.

And a great many people have wondered just when it was that the Herald would list its endorsements in those races.

We won't. Simply put, we have become sickened by the negativity of several of those campaigns — especially that for governor. To our way of thinking, any candidate that would allow his staff to mount the kind of campaigns that Gov. Rick Perry and Democratic challenger Tony Sanchez have waged has only his own selfish interest at heart and not ours.

Locally, we have two contested races, both for county commissioner. In Precinct 2, Republican incumbent Jerry Kilgore is facing Democratic challenger Jerry Crawford. In Place 4, incumbent Gary Simer, a Democrat, is challenged by Republican Roy Don Beauchamp.

There are other races of concern to voters in our area as well: the U.S. Senator's seat for District 19 previously held by Phil Gramm where Democrat Ron Kirk faces Republican John Cornyn and the state representative's seat for District 85 with Democratic incumbent James E. "Pete" Laney, the sitting Speaker of the House, facing Republican Judy Strickland.

Obviously, a great deal is at stake tomorrow and we're not about to downplay that importance. We're just not willing to tell you how we think you should vote.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. throughout Howard County. That's plenty of time to work in a trip to your neighborhood ballot box and make your voice heard.

Please, go vote!

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

May our love for you, Lord, create joy during this day.

Amen

How you can develop new, good habits

The famous educator Horace Mann once said, "A habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it every day and at last we cannot break it." There is little question that our habits wield a tremendous influence over our lives and when the day comes that we write the final chapter, they can literally mean the difference between our success or failure. In this column I'd like to share some thoughts and ideas about "habits" and if you aren't happy with some of yours, then hopefully these suggestions will enable you to develop new and better habits that will make you a happier and more successful person.

To illustrate the power of "habits," I would like to share this story which I have had tucked away in my files for some time. It begins this way: "One day a wise old teacher was taking a stroll through a forest and a youthful companion was by his side. The teacher suddenly stopped and took the time to point out four plants that were close at hand. The first plant was a tiny sprout, just coming out of the earth. The second plant had rooted itself quite firmly in the fertile soil. The third plant was a small shrub. The fourth plant had grown into a well developed tree.

At this point, the teacher said to his youthful companion, "Pull up the first plant." The youngster pulled it up quite easily with his fingers. "Now, pull up the second." The young lad obeyed and with slight effort the plant came up, roots and all. "And now, the third." The young lad pulled with one hand and then the other, but it would not come. Then he took both hands and the plant finally yielded to all of his strength.

"And now," said the wise old teacher, "try the fourth." The young lad grasped the trunk of the tree and pulled with all his might, but hardly a leaf moved to acknowledge the best he had to give. At this point, the wise old teacher said, "My son, you have just demonstrated the power that your habits will have over your life." Then the young lad understood the principle he was trying to teach him.

While I'm sure many of you already know this, for the benefit of other readers, let me define the word "habit." A habit is any action that we have performed often enough and long enough so that we repeat the action without having to consciously think about it. When it comes to developing new and better habits, there's one element in the process that is very important to understand. As a general rule we don't break habits, we replace them. When we quit repeatedly doing one thing, something else comes along to fill the void. Psychologists and others in the behavioral sciences have determined that it takes approximately 21 days to form a new habit. Here is how to go about forming a new habit. First, determine the new desired habit and perform the action while it's fresh on your mind, then repeat it as often as possible throughout the day. Make yourself a little note and place it where you will be sure and see it the first thing each morning. Again, repeat the desired habit when it's practical to do so and continue this process as often as possible in the coming days. Do this for 21 consecutive days and it will have become a habit and in the future you will just do it without having to consciously think about it. While it may be too obvious to mention, the key to success is to form "success habits" and it's certainly worth the effort. As the English novelist George Eliot puts it, "A habit is that beneficent harness of routine, which enables silly men to live respectably and happy men to live calmly."

JIM DAVIDSON

Hey, are we feeling more safe yet?

PORTLAND, Ore. — My, what fun we are having this festive fall campaign season. Ads running coast to coast informing us that if the other guy wins the election, pestilence will fall upon the land, weevils will eat the corn, our children will be sacrificed to Baal, and we'll all be afflicted with piles. It makes me miss the warm, positive, upbeat, people-loving candidates of yesteryear. Like Richard Nixon.

Tough times for those of us who are just little rays of sunshine all the damn time. I was trying to think of a single area where the country appears to be headed in the right direction. The economy? Flop. Health care? Disaster. Homeland security? The director of the CIA says we're about to be attacked again. Foreign policy? Even our allies are starting to hate us. The environment? Please. Meanwhile, our only president continues to insist that we need to go bomb Iraq, as he so lucidly explained the other day, "for the sake of peace." We once had a war to end war, but we've never actually tried a war for peace before.

The most disturbing story I've seen lately was about the administration's efforts to pressure the CIA to stop reporting that there is no known connection between Saddam Hussein and al Qaeda, and that Saddam will likely only use any weapons of mass destruction if we attack him. It's never useful to force your intelligence agency to twist the evidence to suit the policy you've already chosen. That way lies disaster.

And I'm bothered by the new Bush doctrine titled the "National Security Strategy of the United States," which declares that the United States can act alone, and "pre-emptively," and "will never again allow its military supremacy to be challenged." As Leslie Gelb, president of the New York-based Council on Foreign Relations said recently in the New York Times, "The issue is not whether we're the strongest nation. We are, in fact, stronger even than the British Empire was at its peak. The issue is what can you accomplish through military power — by being No. 1. And are you using this enormous power in the right way?" In other words, instead of relying on our military might, what we might need is a giant intelligence operation, and consequently, a giant infusion of brains, cash, resources and personnel, particularly Arabic speakers, ASAP for both the CIA and the FBI.

The FBI, of course, falls under the purview of Attorney General John Ashcroft. I regret to report that he is not a widely loved figure in Oregon. People here have voted twice for a Death with Dignity measure, and so the state law permits doctors to help terminally ill patients to end their lives in peace. Ashcroft chose the immediate aftermath of September 11, when he had nothing more important to do, to bust doctors who have legally assisted citizens to end their lives. He also found the time to complete his immortal nine-month investigation of prostitution that culminated in the arrest of 11 hookers in New Orleans. With that kind of focus, I have perfect confidence that Ashcroft will discover any al Qaeda agent trying to slip into this country — especially if she has bare breasts.

And, it's not just the issues. Maybe the Bush gang is less relentlessly focused on elections than on governing. But no. According to the Washington Post, "More than 350 administration appointees, some of whom were told by White House officials that they needed to show their Republican credentials, have taken vacation time and are being flown by the party to House and Senate campaigns in states where control of Congress will be decided. The appointees will organize volunteers, work the phones and go door to door." Now I'm impressed. Clinton only rented out the Lincoln Bedroom and held coffees to hit up contributors.

"President Bush has harnessed the broad resources of the federal government to promote Republicans in next month's elections," the Washington Post reports. "From housing grants in South Dakota and research contracts in Florida to Air Force One rides and photos in the White House driveway, Bush has made Republican success on Nov. 5 a government-wide project."

This bunch is setting new records for chutzpah daily. As we blessedly reach the final stretch of this appalling campaign season, you might want to be wary of any last-minute "scandals" or announcements of investigations, or anything the opponent has no time to refute.

Both parties are already accusing one another of voting fraud, and reports abound of problems with new voting machines, so it looks as though we're in for another of those fabulous post-election seasons. Won't you be glad if it's not really over?

Police investigate scuffle between couples in store

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

An ongoing dispute escalated into a fight between two couples at Wal-Mart over the weekend that resulted in one woman being treated at Scenic Mountain Medical Center. Big Spring Police Sgt. Roger Sweatt said the incident was reported about 9 p.m. Friday.

"Officers were dispatched up to Wal-Mart. It was part of an altercation that occurred several months ago," Sweatt explained.

The altercation involved an argument between the two men.

"These two guys had kind of gotten into an altercation several months ago somewhere else and said some things to each other," Sweatt added. "They hadn't seen each other since, and when they saw each other at Wal-Mart, they kind of fired it up again."

The fight at Wal-Mart began as wrestling between the two men, but really heated up when the men's wives stepped into the fray, Sweatt noted.

"(The men) began to wrestle, they weren't really striking each other," he said. "Then the wives of both of these people got involved, and that's where the assault occurred. One of them went up and tried to pull a guy off her husband and when she did, this guy's wife came up and basically slugged her a couple of times. They got into a fist-fight up there."

One of the women was taken to the hospital, where she was treated for minor bruising and released.

"She had some bruises on her hand and her face, I believe," Sweatt said. "No life-threatening injuries or anything of that kind."

Sweatt added the injured woman is pressing charges, but no arrests have yet been made.

BSISD observes School Breakfast Week

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

A mysterious item to be added to the breakfast and lunch menus of the Big Spring Independent School District will be revealed Wednesday.

JoAnn Smoot, the district's food service director, wouldn't let slip the mystery in a phone interview Friday but hinted the item will fit into the theme "We're Ticked Pink to Serve You."

The announcement is scheduled as part of a week-long celebration of Texas School Breakfast

Week.

"Our focus is to remind parents and students that breakfast is the most important meal of the day," Smoot said. "School breakfast is available to all children to ensure they can begin their day with proper nutrition."

During the week, elementary students will receive treats on their breakfast trays such as stickers or bookmarks; items provided by the districts food vendors.

The Texas School Food Service Association and the Texas Education

Agency's Child Nutrition Programs Division sponsor the annual celebration, which educates children and parents about the school breakfast program.

On average, the Big Spring ISD serves 1,100 breakfast meals a day. School breakfast prices are $1 for students or $3.30 for students who qualify for a reduced-price breakfast.

New 'Tumbleweed Smith' book signing scheduled

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

Tales of East Texas folklore spun through West Texas eyes is the subject of Bob Lewis, better known to some by his Texas radio persona, Tumbleweed Smith, latest publication, "Under the Chinaberry Tree."

"The book is easy to read," Lewis said. "You can read one story a night. It doesn't take long to read."

The Big Spring author will sign copies of his latest work at a wine and cheese reception hosted by the Heritage Museum, 510 Scurry, from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesday.

The title of the book refers to Lewis' own boyhood memories of East Texas.

"I remember when we visited my Aunt Haddy, my mother and her sisters

"Growing up I thought my mother's family was very backward. I didn't realize until I was in college how smart they had to be to live like that."

An East Texas farm where milk was kept cool in the water well and where young boys washed their dirty hands in a washing bowls.

"Growing up I thought my mother's family was very backward," said the Central Texas native. "I didn't realize until I was in college how smart they had to be to live like that."

The book is a collection of Lewis' articles, stories and research through the years and is published by Eakin Press. Copies of the book, priced $22.95, are available at the Heritage Museum, www.eakinpress.com or by calling Lewis directly at 263-3815.

Lewis will also be at Barns and Noble in Midland at 7 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 6, for a meet the author night.

AARP slates 55 Alive program

HERALD Staff Report

The Spring City Senior Center and American Association of Retired Persons have scheduled a 55 Alive Driver Safety Program course later this month.

The course is set from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 21-22. The time includes a break for lunch.

The course was developed as a refresher course for drivers age 50 and older. It will be taught by a trained volunteer. In addition to reviewing the rules of the road, the course will teach how to compensate for age-related declines in physical and perceptual ability.

Those who attend both days will receive a certificate good for an automobile insurance discount.

There is a $10 fee for materials. Class size is limited to 35.

To enroll, go by the Senior Center or call 267-1628.

Blood drive set Wednesday in Coahoma

HERALD Staff Report

The United Blood Services Bloodmobile will be in Coahoma from 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Town & Country convenience store. Donors must be at least 17, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good health. They must also bring a list of all medications they are presently taking and be prepared to show identification.

To make an appointment, call Russ Mullins at 394-4277. Appointments are not necessary, but they do speed up the process.

The blood drive is sponsored by Coahoma Lions Club.

A Message from the mother of our Governor Rick Perry

From the Desk of Amelia Perry

Dear Texas House District 85 Voter:

Since you have to elect a new Representative, due to redistricting, this year, please let me introduce to you my friend, Judy Strickland from Plainview, Texas.

Judy is a fine Christian lady. She is a proud conservative leader, being an elected member of the Texas State Board of Education.

She can and will work with my son, Gov. Rick Perry to further enhance our public schools; both "with teachers" and "for children."

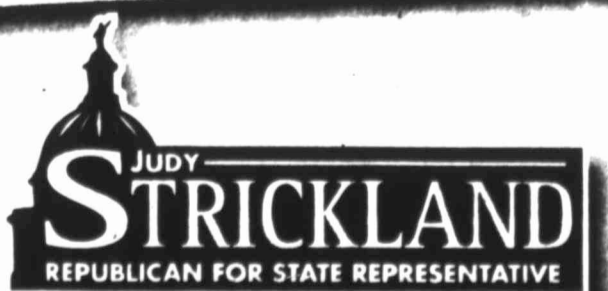

Your part of Texas, in fact, all of Texas will be in better hands if you can send this kind of new representation to Austin.

I am proud to put her name before you and she will be honored and humbled to receive your vote.

Make sure your voice is heard! Please vote for Judy Strickland for State Representative Tuesday, November 5th.

Putting Children First,
Sincerely,

Amelia Perry

Miami's out, Oklahoma climbs to No. 1 in AP poll

A shaky win by Miami against one of the worst teams in the country became a big loss Sunday — the Hurricanes are out as No. 1.

Oklahoma replaced Miami as the top team in The Associated Press poll, ending the Hurricanes' run of 21 consecutive polls at No. 1.

Miami improved to 8-0 with a 42-17 win over Rutgers (1-8), but trailed by three points entering the fourth quarter. Oklahoma moved to 8-0 with a dominating 27-11 win over Colorado (6-3).

Miami takes over the No. 2 spot formerly held by Oklahoma.

The defending national champion Hurricanes easily retained their No. 1 spot in the USA Today/ESPN coaches poll. The split No. 1s, plus Saturday losses by four unbeaten teams, could create a shake-up in the Bowl Championship Series standings.

The BCS rankings will keep Oklahoma first, but it's too close to call for second between Miami and Ohio State (10-0), which jumped from No. 6 to No. 3 in the AP poll. The top two teams in the final BCS standings on Dec. 8 play for a national title on Jan. 3.

Oklahoma, the 2000 national champions, moved ahead of the defending national champion Hurricanes by 14 points in the AP panel.

The Sooners, a co-No. 1 with Miami in the first regular-season poll, received 42 first-place votes and 1,818 points, to Miami's 32 first-place votes and 1,804 points. Oklahoma picked up 28 first place-votes from a week ago — 27 from Miami and one from Notre Dame, which fell to No. 9 after a 14-7 loss to Boston College.

Winning and falling from No.

1 doesn't happened often, but it occurred last year — to Miami. After No. 1 Miami defeated Troy State 38-7 and Florida beat No. 18 LSU 44-15, the Gators moved to the top spot but lost the next week.

Ohio State was the biggest beneficiary of first losses by Virginia Tech, Notre Dame and Georgia, ranked 3-4-5, respectively, last week.

The Bulldogs (8-1) fell two spots to No. 7 after a 20-13 loss to Florida; the Hokies (8-1) dropped five spots to No. 8 after a 28-21 loss to Pittsburgh; and the Fighting Irish (8-1) also tumbled five places, to No. 9.

Four teams remain unbeaten — the top three of Oklahoma, Miami and Ohio State and No. 21 Bowling Green.

Texas, a 27-24 winner over Nebraska, moved up three places to No. 4, followed by Washington State, Iowa, Georgia, Virginia Tech, Notre Dame and Southern California.

North Carolina State (9-1) lost to Georgia Tech 24-17 and dropped four spots to No. 14.

Minnesota and Tennessee fell out of the Top 25. This week's newcomers are Pittsburgh at No. 22 and Florida at No. 23.

Big Spring senior Ka'Rissa Magers drills a spike past Randall's Julie Hamilton during the Lady Steers' bi-district playoff win Saturday in Lubbock. The win was Big Spring's first playoff victory since 1977 when Mager's aunt, Rose Magers-Powell, led the BSMS team to the state tournament. Big Spring will face El Paso High in Odessa Tuesday night in the Area round.

Playoffs puts Lady Steers' basketball debut on hold

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

Gary Miller was all set to make his preseason debut as the Big Spring Lady Steers' head coach Tuesday night. Then something a little more important came up and forced him to cancel the scrimmage planned for Tuesday against Coahoma, Odessa Permian and Borden Co.

The situation that stuffed the Lady Steers' debut? Volleyball.

"We're not going to hold the scrimmage," said Big Spring athletic director Dwight Butler Monday morning. "We feel like we need to go and support our girls."

Butler said the three other schools may still scrimmage at another site.

The Big Spring volleyball girls are scheduled to make their next appearance in the state high school playoffs tomorrow night, beginning at 6 p.m. at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa. The Lady Steers notched their first playoff win since 1977 Saturday when they defeated 10th-ranked Canyon Randall, 15-10, 18-16, in Lubbock.

With the win over Randall, Big Spring earned the right to advance to the Area round of the playoffs where they will face El Paso High.

The win also marked the first time Big Spring had won a playoff game since 1977 when former Olympian Rose Magers led the team to the Class 5A state tournament. Big Spring has made the playoffs only twice since then.

Baylor fires Steele after loss to Tech

WACO (AP) — Baylor football coach Kevin Steele, whose team has won only one Big 12 game in his four seasons, was fired Sunday.

The firing comes a day after Baylor's 62-11 loss to Texas Tech, a defeat that ran his record to 9-33, 1-28 in the conference. Baylor is 3-6, 1-4 in the Big 12 this year.

"I am disappointed that we were not able to meet the demands placed upon the Baylor football program in the time allowed," Steele said in a news release.

"It is with regret that I announce this move," Baylor athletic director Tom Stanton said in the release, in which he credited Steele with several improvements, including discipline, academics and recruiting.

Baylor media relations director Scott Stricklin said Stanton and Steele would have no additional comment Sunday.

Stanton said the school will begin the search for a successor over the next few weeks and wouldn't have comment on the coaching situation until after the season.

Steele, hired before the 1999 season, has been feeling heat from alumni following several embarrassing losses.

A week after Baylor's 70-22 season-opening loss at California, a small plane flew over the Bears' stadium dragging banners with messages directed at Stanton and Steele. One read, "Tom Stanton — Thou Shalt Not Steele."

Other Baylor losses this year include 23-0 to New Mexico, 41-0 to Texas A&M, 34-0 to Colorado and 44-10 to Kansas State.

Since the 35-32 win over Kansas on Oct. 5 to break their 29-game Big 12 losing streak, the Bears were outscored 181-21 in four defeats.

Steele, who wasn't available for comment Sunday, acknowledged the pressure before the loss to Cal.

"You can do all the rebuilding and coaching and recruiting that you want, but there's some simple truths in coaching," Steele said. "At some point as a football coach, you've got to win."

The program was in bad shape when Steele arrived.

Dave Roberts briefly preceded Steele, going 4-18 in two seasons. His 1998 team got the Big 12 skid started by losing its final five conference games. During the streak, the Bears lost by an average of 29 points, with 21 losses by at least 20 points.

The Bears' last winning season was a 7-4 finish in 1995, and their last bowl was a 10-3 loss to Washington State in the Alamo Bowl after the 1994 season.

Before coming to Baylor, Steele was an up-and-coming defensive assistant as linebackers coach with the NFL's Carolina Panthers.

In 1999, he gained national attention when cameras captured Panthers linebacker Kevin Greene attacking him in a sideline fight.

Before Steele's four-year stint with Carolina, he spent six years as linebackers coach at Nebraska. During that time, the Cornhuskers went 60-11, appeared in six bowl games and won a national title.

Steele also was an assistant at Tennessee, Oklahoma State and New Mexico State.

Steele was a linebacker at Tennessee in 1978 and 1979, then got his coaching career started as a graduate assistant under Volunteers coach Johnny Majors.

Some Baylor students said they were surprised by the move, but others were encouraged.

"It's been a long time coming. He should have been fired a long time ago," said Janelle Williams, a junior from Dallas.

"Something needed to be done," said Todd Latham, a

Legally blind Runyon is top U.S. woman at NYC Marathon

NEW YORK (AP) — Bringing her fluid strides and noted determination to a 26.2-mile race for the first time, Marla Runyan, a legally blind runner finished first among U.S. women and fifth overall behind winner Joyce Chepchumba of Kenya.

With temperatures in the 40s and a slight headwind, Boston Marathon champion Rodgers Rop overcame pain in his side to finish in 2 hours, 8 minutes, 7 seconds, helping Kenya gain its first sweep of the men's and women's titles.

Christopher Cheboiboch (2:08:17) — also second in Boston — and Laban Kipkemboi (2:08:39) gave Kenya the first 1-2-3 men's finish for a country since 1975, when the United States did it.

Rop became the fourth man to win at Boston and New York in the same year. His only other marathon was New York last year, when he had muscle cramps and finished third behind Tesfaye Jifar.

Lyubov Denisova of Russia was second in the women's race. Olivera Jevtic of Yugoslavia was third despite cutting her elbows and knees in a fall.
