Election Day

Voters go to polls to decide county, state, federal races

By ROGER CLINE

Staff Writer
After today, no more political ads — for a while, at least. Today's the big day, election day, when

Texans will go to the polls to choose between local, state and national candidates. Voters will also register their opin-

Several empty voting booths illustrate a slow start for election day this morning at the Big Spring High School library. Election Judge Paul Pryor said the polling site had accepted only about 60 votes between opening at 7 a.m. and 10 a.m. Polling places remain open until 7 p.m. See Page 3 for a list of locations. HERALD photo/Roger Cline

TEACHER OF THE WEEK

Connie Kennedy, Kentwood Elementary third grade teacher, observes as Autumn Alton, left, Kelsey Weir and Bryson Overton work with modules during a math lesson. Finding ways to make learning math simple and fun has been Kennedy's mission during her 23-year career.

Nominator

Meet Mrs. Kennedy. She is my teacher at Kentwood Elementary. She is really nice to me. I was new to Kentwood. Mrs. Kennedy cheered me up. When my dog, Daisy, chewed my library book, Mrs. Kennedy just smiled. When I burned my pinkie on my mom's curling iron, Mrs. Kennedy doctored it and put a Band-Aid on it. I think she really loves us because she always reminds us to wear our seat belts.

She should be teacher of the week. She is the best.

Kennedy makes learning math fun

By LYNDEL MOODY

Staff Writer
Connie Kennedy, Kentwood Elementary third grade teacher, loves to teach math and doesn't mind stealing a few good ideas to make learning the subject fun.

In fact, that's part of her mission as an educator. "I love to teach math,"

"It's a very worthwhile profession in my eyes, right up there with doctors, lawyers and CEOs. We are the ones who teach them before they become the successes that they are."

Connie Kennedy,
Teacher of the Week

Kennedy said. "When I was growing up it was very hard. I was determined when I became a teacher to find a easy way to teach math."

Education has changed over the years to include more hands-on methods for schooling young children in the art of manipulating numbers, Kennedy said. From wooden modules to M&M candy, Kennedy uses all sorts of tactics to instruct her third-graders in the

New chamber committee will focus on cultural affairs; now identifying ethnic groups

By ROGER CLINE

Staff Writer
A new Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce committee is calling all ethnic groups.

The newly-formed Cultural Affairs Committee, headed up by chamber Vice President for Cultural Affairs Raul Marquez, has undertaken the task of identifying Big Spring's ethnic cultures and diversity and promoting ethnic cultural events in the area.

"We already identified the African American, Hispanic, we know we've got some Irish and some Germans, and also some American Indians," Marquez said. "So we're identifying those groups and we'll be trying to identify some more groups and come up with some numbers."

Marquez said he plans to further promote ethnic and cultural events through the chamber.

"We already identified the African American, Hispanic, we know we've got some Irish and some Germans, and also some American Indians."

Raul Marquez,
Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce VP for Cultural Affairs

Marquez said he was able to come up with 12 cultural festivals held throughout the year, including Martin Luther King Day, Black History Month, Juneteenth, the Lakeview Reunion, Cinco de Mayo, Jamaica Fiestas at three area churches, the Amigos Del Barrio

Relay

2003 kickoff rally slated this evening

Special to the Herald

It's time again to get ready another Relay for Life.

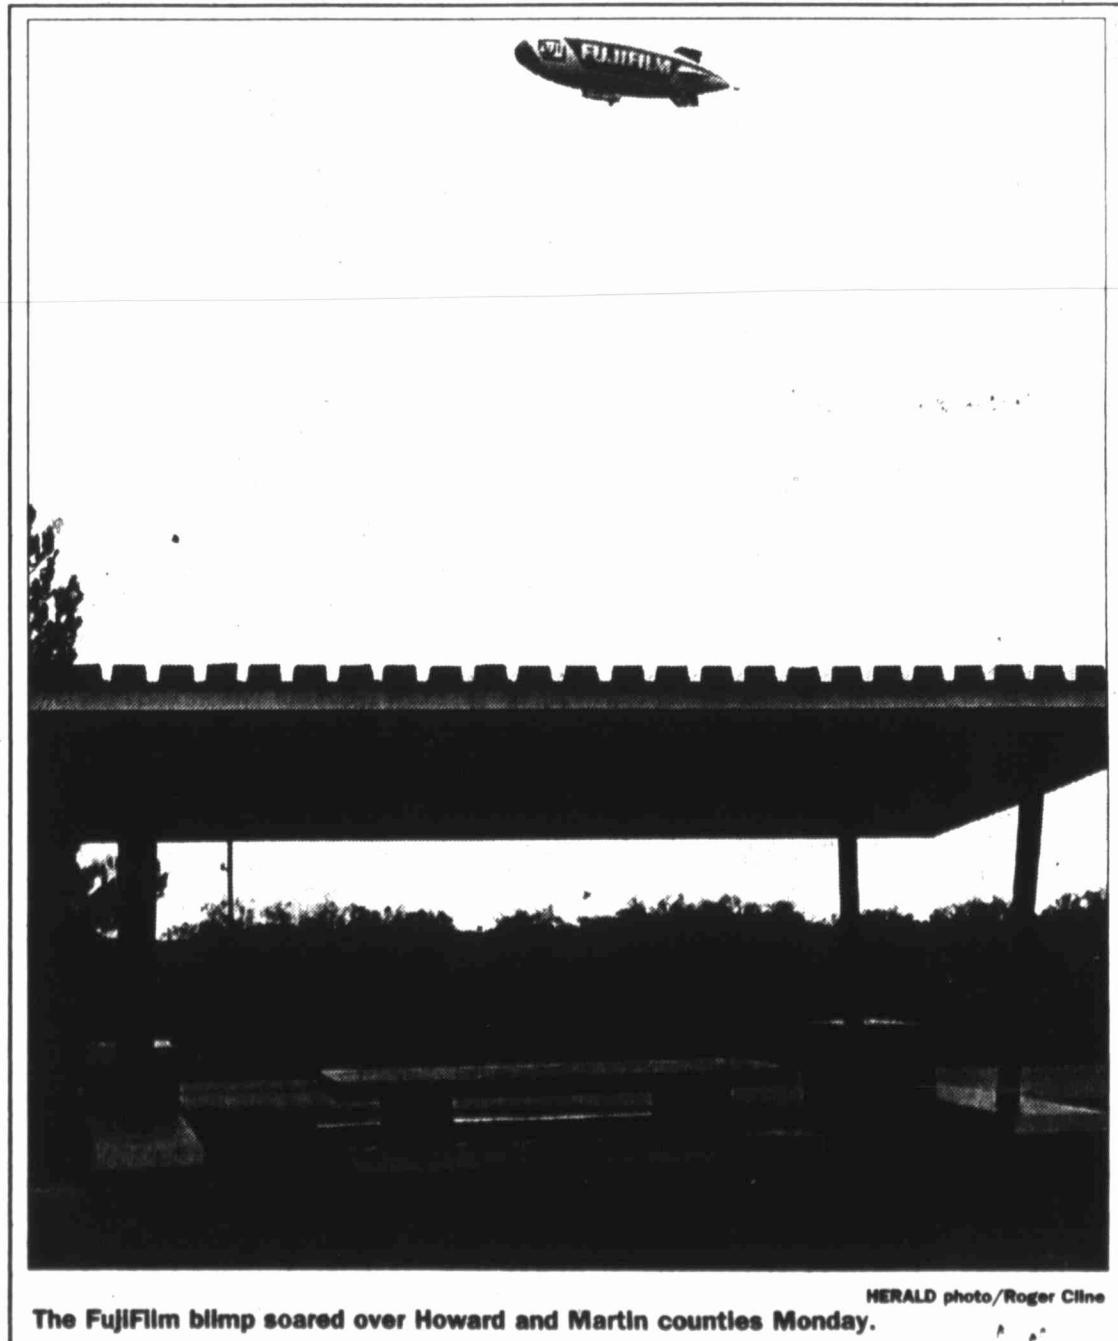

Past participants, supporters and organizers will gather for a rally from 6 p.m. until 7 p.m. at First United Methodist Church Garrett Hall, 400 Scurry. Everyone is invited.

It's the official start of the American Cancer Society Howard-Glasscock Unit 2003 Relay for Life.

Relay kickoff rally, 6 p.m., First United Methodist Church Garrett Hall, 400 Scurry.

Howard-Glasscock Chapter, takes place the second weekend in May each year. The event packs Blankenship Field at Big Spring High School with participants of all ages, who take turns walking around the track for pledged donations. When not circling the track, they join in games and contests and enjoy entertainment and food.

Milton Isaiah Jr.

Funeral service for Milton Isaiah Jr., 73, of San Antonio, formerly of Big Spring, was Friday, Nov. 1, 2002, at St. Paul United Methodist Church in San Antonio. Burial was held at Fort Sam Houston Military Cemetery in San Antonio.

Mr. Milton died on Thursday, Oct. 24.

Born on May 28, 1929, in St. Louis, he was a U.S. Air Force veteran. He served 21 years in the military retiring with the rank of staff sergeant.

He then was employed at Cosden Company, Tiger Air Charter and Haliburton Services in Big Spring and as a civil service employee at Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock.

He attended Howard College and earned a business management degree in 1948 from Wayland Baptist University.

In 1979, he was ordained a deacon at Mt. Bethel Baptist and in 1986 was licensed to preach by Lyons Chapel Baptist Church in Lubbock.

Survivors include two daughters, Cheryl Ann Isaiah of St. Louis and Areath Deandra Kitson of Newark, Del.; step-daughters, Susan Gooden and Deborah Hurrington, both of San Antonio; three step-sons, Randy Hurrington and Edward Hurrington, both of Big Spring, and Andre Hurrington of Albuquerque, N.M.; and several grandchildren.

Winona Gabrel Hicks Fincher

Funeral service for Winona Gabrel Hicks Fincher, 72, of Odessa will be 4 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 5, 2002, in the Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home Chapel in Odessa with the Rev. Raymond Bugg officiating. Interment will be at Sunset Memorial Gardens in Odessa.

Mrs. Fincher died Sunday, Nov. 3, 2002, at her home.

She was born on Feb. 19, 1930, in Old Glory, Texas, and moved to Odessa in 1936 from Rule. She was a retired cashier and a Baptist.

Survivors include her son, Brad Hicks of Big Spring; two daughters and sons-in-law, Debbie and Mike Pitkin of Andrews and Brenda and Larry Abalos of Odessa; three brothers, A.M. "Slim" Gabrel and wife, Lorena, of Odessa, Pug Gabrel and wife, Helen, of Granbury and Burl Dean Gabrel of Alamogordo, N.M.; sisters Ina Mae Johns of Odessa and Imo Jean Fuller of Alamogordo, N.M.; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and numerous nieces, nephews and cousins.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Joseph F. Fincher; a son, Blake Hicks; and a sister, Margie Hogan.

The family requests memorials be made to Odyssey Hospice or Meals On Wheels.

VOTE

ions on a proposed state constitutional amendment allowing county commissioners to limit constable's offices in their counties.

Polls are open until 7 this evening.

Voters in Howard and Martin counties have the opportunity to decide between candidates in local races — Glasscock County has no contested races this time.

In Howard County, voters will choose commissioners for Precincts 2 and 4 in the county's only contested local races.

Republican incumbent Jerry Kilgore in Precinct 2 is challenged by Democrat Jerry Crawford. Kilgore, owner of Jerry's Barbershop in the Big Spring Mall, attended local schools and graduated from Howard College. Crawford is a salesman for Quality Truck Tires of Midland and graduated from Midland High School before attending Ryder Technical Institute in Dallas.

In Precinct 4, incumbent Gary Simer, a Democrat, faces Republican challenger Roy Don Beauchamp. Simer, owner of the Ponderosa Nursery and Garden Center, attended Borden County High School and several trade schools. Beauchamp, owner of Vision Makers Leisure Products, graduated from Big Spring High School before attending Howard College.

Voters will also elect Precinct 2 and 4 commissioners in Martin County as well as a Precinct 2 justice of the peace in that county's contested races.

Voters in Precinct 2 will choose between county commissioner candidates

Democrat Valentino Sotelo and Republican J.A. Luxton and between justice of the peace candidates Democrat John Castro and Republican Pam McAnally. Precinct 4 voters will choose between commissioner candidates Burt Oaks Jr., a Republican, and Democrat David A. Pribyla.

National and state races include:

- District 19 U.S. senator: John Cornyn (R-San Antonio) vs. Ron Kirk (D-Dallas) for the open seat.

- Texas Governor: Rick Perry (R-Point Creek), incumbent, vs. Tony Sanchez (D-Laredo).

- Lieutenant governor: David Dewhurst (R-Austin) vs. John Sharp (D-Austin).

- Attorney general: Greg Abbot (R-Austin) vs. Kirk Watson (D-Austin).

- Comptroller: Carole Keeton Rylander (R-Austin) vs. Marty Akins (D-San Saba).

- Land Commissioner: Jerry Patterson (R-Austin) vs. David Bernsen (D-Beaumont).

- Agriculture Commissioner: Susan Combs (R-Austin) vs. Tom Ramsay (D-Mount Vernon).

- Railroad Commissioner: Michael L. Williams (R-Austin) vs. Sherry Boyles (D-Quitman).

The proposed amendment would give county commissioners the ability to regulate constables' posts within their counties by declaring them dormant if they lie vacant for at least seven years in a row.

The item on the ballot reads: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the commissioners court of a county to declare the office of constable in a precinct to be dormant if the office has not been filled by election or appointment for a lengthy period and providing a procedure for the reinstatement of the office. (FOR/AGAINST)"

She's always looking for ways to simplify the subject.

"I'll steal ideas from excellent teachers, especially if they are ideas that make teaching math easier," she said.

Kennedy has taught 14 years of her 23-year education career in the Big Spring Independent School District. That's a feat, considering that her husband Jay is the defensive coordinator for the Big Spring High School football team.

"We love it here," she said. "We are fortunate to be here 14 years. You don't find that very often with coaches."

While growing up in Wolforth, Kennedy's father served as the elementary school principal, so education seemed a natural fit.

"I love children and enjoy teaching school," she said. "It's a very worthwhile profession in my eyes, right up there with doctors, lawyers and CEOs. We are the ones who teach them before they become the successes that they are."

Kennedy expects high standards from her students.

"I want them to reach their highest level," she said.

Each day, Kennedy pushes her students to reach a little farther, but it is her innate kindness that had the biggest impact this year for one young boy making the

HOW TO NOMINATE

The Big Spring Herald and the Big Spring Education Federal Credit Union congratulate Connie Kennedy as the Teacher of the Week.

If you want to earn your favorite teacher a quick $25 in cash, send your nomination for Teacher of the Week to the Herald at 710 Scurry St., by e-mail at newsdesk@crcom.net or jmoseley@crcom.net

Nominations can be mailed to P.O. Box. 1431, Big Spring 79720.

- Nominees must be currently teaching in Howard County.

- Anyone who attended a school in Howard County may submit a nomination.

- Students can nominate their former or current teacher.

Draw, write, e-mail, scrawl (must be legible), on a piece of paper, the back of your mom's grocery list or even write a song about your favorite teacher. Creativity counts. Focus on how the teacher impacted you while in his or her class.

transition from private to public school.

"I was new to Kentwood," wrote Toby Rodgers in his nomination letter. "Mrs. Kennedy cheered me up. When my dog, Daisy, chewed my library book, Mrs. Kennedy just smiled. When I burned my pinkie on my mom's curling iron, Mrs. Kennedy doctored it and put a Band-Aid on it."

"She should be teacher of the week. She is the best."

OUR VIEWS

Let's kick off Relay 2003 in style tonight

Relay in November? Now you know why the Howard-Glasscock Unit was tops in Texas and sixth nationally last year. Our Relay for Life organizers don't mess around.

Tonight is the annual kickoff rally for the 2003 American Cancer Society Relay for Life and you are invited. It begins at 6 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church's Garrett Hall, 400 Scurry. Those attending will celebrate the successful 2002 event and get started on 2003.

For those not familiar with Relay for Life, it's a 24-hour fund-raiser set locally at Blankenship Field. Various teams — there were 82 of them last year — spend the day and night taking laps around the track, camping out, enjoying food and entertainment. There's friendly competition and lots of fellowship.

Last year's event raised $163,533 in the fight against cancer — the best, per capita, of any city in the state.

Tonight's rally is the time for team captains to pick up information packets, ask any questions and get ideas on how to hold fund-raisers. Of course, the fund-raising began as soon as the last Relay ended. But that's the way it is with the Howard-Glasscock Unit.

Tonight, the kickoff crowd will hear from some of last year's Relay participants, including a team captain and a cancer survivor. They'll explain the importance of the event and how it impacts the community and individuals.

If you haven't been a part of Relay before, this is a good opportunity to learn more about it.

So when is the 2003 Relay for Life? Not until the second weekend in May. But when you're number one, it's never too early to get started.

Time we got rid of political correctness

At the close of the War Between the States, President Abraham Lincoln visited the abandoned Confederate capital of Richmond, Va. He asked an Army band to play "Dixie," remarking that it had always been one of his favorite tunes.

CHARLEY REESE

Question: If Abraham Lincoln could enjoy "Dixie" played by a Yankee Army band in the immediate aftermath of a bloody war, why can't high-school or college bands play the tune in the year 2002?

"Dixie," after all, was just a show tune, and the lyrics have nothing to do with the war or with any of the issues that caused the war. When I was growing up, bands played "Dixie" all the time, usually followed by "Battle Hymn of the Republic." That was kind of a musical way of saying the war is over and let's get on with it.

The current spasm of political correctness began sometime in the 1980s. "Dixie" is banned, children are suspended or expelled for wearing Confederate symbols, there are fights about Confederate monuments, buildings are being renamed, and the National Park Service is trying to rewrite all its scripts so visitors to battle sites will get a dose of propaganda that the war was all and only about slavery.

Sorry, but it wasn't, though that was certainly an issue for some people on both sides. The rewriting of history to convert it into propaganda in the service of a current political cause is the issue that should concern us. We should take our history straight and factual, not filtered by ideology or some scheme to get reparations for slavery — which, by the way, is one of the silliest con games ever heard of. They want people who never owned a slave and whose ancestors freed the slaves to pay reparations to people who never were slaves. But that's what happens when you have too many lawyers and too many academics cluttering up a country. We Southerners don't wish to fight the war again, but we also don't want another Reconstruction. The first one was bad enough. We don't want our children brainwashed into believing their Southern ancestors were slobbering retards, which is the current Hollywood stereotype of most Southerners. We don't want them given a false picture of the war and the issues that led up to it.

Part of the political-correctness problem is just the dumbing down of Americans. Most of them are so ignorant of history that you can tell them anything and they will believe it — but even worse, they really don't care. Another part of the problem of political correctness is that Congress, through the years, has created 1,001 grounds for minorities to sue.

The only people who can't claim discrimination as a basis for a lawsuit are straight white males.

True discrimination should, of course, be dealt with, but wearing a Confederate lapel pin or holding a gathering in an old cemetery for a memorial service has nothing to do with discrimination — or with racism, for that matter. If Confederate symbols offend some people, so what.

There are lots of things in our society today that I find offensive, but one's subjective feelings are not proper grounds for government intervention. Whatever happened to the good old American values of live and let live and mind your own business?

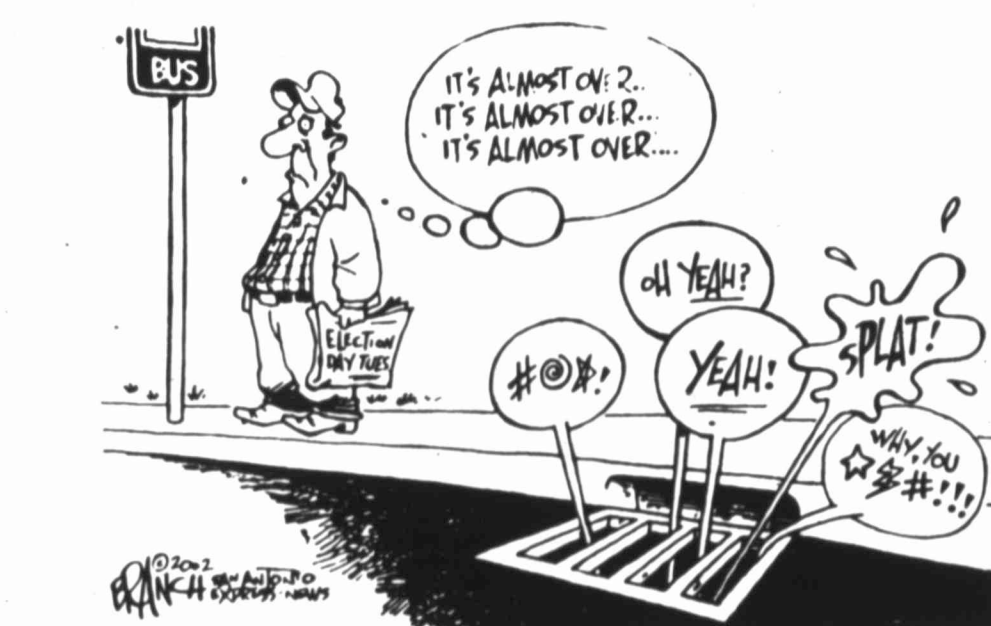

The final part of the political-correctness problem is plain old cowardice. Nobody is more cowardly than academics and educators, except perhaps the media and politicians. They are the very ones who should be leading the fight for free discussion of all ideas, but in fact they are leading the charge to stifle free speech.

They are terrified someone will shout "racist" or "anti-Semite" or "homophobe," and so, logically, special pleaders use these tactics to intimidate them. Reading some solid history books and developing some backbone would do wonders for this country and spell the end of political correctness.

Our copyright laws are up for sale

Today, friends can exchange clips of music they like, or pass around videotapes of "The Sopranos." Teachers can download a picture of Mickey Mouse off the Internet to use in a class on cartooning. Teenagers playing with their CD collection can "burn" a CD compilation of their favorite songs to play at a party. Parents who spot their child on a local TV sports broadcast can make a digital recording of that clip, attach it to an e-mail message, and send it to the proud grandparents across America. But soon these wondrous applications of new technology may all be illegal.

According to consumer advocates like the Electronic Frontier Foundation, such commonplace uses of computer technology known as "fair use" because they are not done for commercial purposes would be effectively banned under the Consumer Broadband and Digital Television Promotion Act, sponsored by Senator Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.), chair of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Indeed, if lobbyists for Disney, News Corp., AOL Time Warner, and the rest of Hollywood get their way, soon you won't be allowed to buy, sell, create or distribute any "digital media device" — from MP3 players to cell phones, fax machines, digital cameras and personal computers — unless it includes government-mandated hardware and software that would prevent the unauthorized display or reproduction of copyrighted works. New digital televisions would all be hardwired to recognize programs marked by a "broadcast flag," which would insure that they could not be copied. New PCs would have controls built into their hard-drives to allow files to be labeled as "unmovable" so they couldn't be backed up or moved to another machine.

Complementary legislation drafted by Reps. Howard Coble (R-N.C.) and Howard Berman (D-Calif.) would change the copyright code to make most distribution of copies obtained by "fair use" illegal unless the owner has the written permission of the copyright holder. Berman has also authored a separate bill that would give copyright owners the extraordinary power to hack the PC of anyone they suspect of sharing their material without permission, without legal liability for damage they may inflict on innocent parties.

To top things off, at the urging of Senator Hollings, House Energy and Commerce Chairman Billy Tauzin (R-La.) and ranking member John Dingell (D-Mich.), the Federal Communications Commission voted this August to mandate the use of "broadcast flags" on digital TV broadcasts, and to require TV manufacturers to have digital tuners on all sets by 2007 — regardless of the price increase this may impose on consumers. Legislation currently being drafted by Tauzin and Dingell goes even further — requiring TV stations to stop broadcasting their current analog signals by the end of 2006, which would spell the end of TV reception for anyone without cable or digital service.

As a group, Hollings, Coble, Berman, Tauzin and Dingell are so cozy with Hollywood they ought to have their own sitcom.

According to the Center for Responsive Politics, Hollings has received more than $308,000 from the entertainment industry in the last six years, including almost $45,000 from AOL Time Warner, more than $30,000 from News Corp., and more than $24,000 from Disney. Over his lifetime in Congress, he's raked in more than $600,000 from the movie, music and TV industries, the sixth highest among all Senators.

Collectively, Berman, Dingell, Tauzin and Coble have raked in an astounding $1.6 million from the industry, and rank, respectively, at numbers 1, 3, 9 and 19 lifetime among all House members in terms of the largesse they've received from the entertainment industry.

While the $300 billion high-tech sector outweighs the $50 billion entertainment business in economic terms, the TV/movies/music lobby has a much larger investment in Washington. It has given $52.5 million to members of Congress since 1989, compared to $30.1 million from high-tech, according to the Center for Responsive Politics. And even though computer companies have stepped up their giving in recent years, Hollywood is still out-pacing Silicon Valley in the current election cycle: $5.3 million to $4.3 million.

Some high-tech advocates of a more open information system have started a "GeekPAC" to combat these forces. Better idea-support a system re-boot and help create a Clean Money/Clean Elections option for candidates to run with full public financing, so that such policy decisions can be made without regard for who has the fattest wallet.

Nick Nyhart is executive director of Public Campaign, a Washington, D.C.-based non-partisan, non-profit organization devoted to comprehensive campaign finance reform.

A Big Spring High School student was arrested on assault charges Monday after a fight sent a second student to the hospital with minor injuries.

The female students, whose names are being withheld because they are juveniles, have both been placed on three-day out-of-school suspension from the high school, said principal Mike Ritchey.

The injured student was treated and released at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, while the other was arrested on class A misdemeanor charges of assault.

Ritchey said the school takes fights very seriously and makes a point of calling the police in such cases.

"Absolutely we do. We just feel like fighting is a disruption to the real reason why students come to school. We certainly don't need any disruptions with that kind of conduct," he said. "It's going to happen. I don't think you can avoid it. It happened when I went to school, but we certainly didn't condone fighting then and that still stands for today. That's a district-wide policy."

Disorderly conduct citations are usually issued by the police in fighting cases, he said.

Fighting is generally not a big problem at the school, he added.

"It happens, but it's not a big problem," he said. "If it was a big problem, we would look at other consequences, but partnering with the police department and the municipal court, when they have to go address that citation plus the three-day suspension, that's a pretty good deterrent."

Howard College to offer grant-writing workshop over next two Thursdays

Howard College is offering two free grant-writing workshops to help assist area community-based organizations apply for a $500 state mini-grant.

The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board has made 30 mini-grants available to community-based organizations in the region that will participate in a statewide educational awareness campaign.

"We're hoping to see all 30 of these grants go to organizations within our service area," said Ann Duncan, director of enrollment management at Howard College.

To help facilitate the process, the college is offering personal assistance in filling out the grant application.

"We're partnering with our community-based organization to try to get the word out to apply for this," Duncan said. "The criteria for the grants is as broad as an organization may dream. The primary goal of the program is to make parents and children aware of higher education opportunities in Texas."

The first workshop is set for 3 p.m. Thursday at the college's Student Union Building, 1001 Birdwell Lane. The second is scheduled for the same meeting place at 6

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS"

are they just "religion shoppers?"

In many areas, especially West Texas, you find very few "native-born" Episcopalians. Often, they're folks who shopped around till they found a church that satisfied some longing for something missing in their own religious experience.

Maybe that's why the Episcopal Church, along with its reputation for peculiarities, has long been known as sort of a "thinking-man's religion." It embraces so many members who made up their own minds...then stopped shopping.

They lay no claims to having the "only religion" or even he right one. It's just the one that's right for them.

Again, the Hawks laughed. Who laughed more — the players or the youths — is arguable, Jans said. "I think from watching the body language of our guys, they've enjoyed this. I think our kids probably got more out of it than the younger guys. Most of them can probably look out there and remember the people who mentored them and feel like they're doing something that will make a difference in a life."

Maushae Byles agreed. "This was a lot of fun ... a great experience," said the 6-foot-5 sophomore from Racine, Wis. "This is something we should do more often. It was fun to be with the kids."

Jans said the skills camp was just one of several special events the Hawks hoped to do this year. One thing he would like for his players to get the chance to do is visit area schools.

STATE

Continued from Page 6 ners, including Garden City's Allison Jansa and Stanton's Jeremy Saenz finished in the top 10 in their respective races and will enter this weekend's race as state title contenders. Jansa qualified for her third straight state meet with a solid run in Lubbock. She completed the girls' Class A two-mile course in a time of 12 minutes, 46.9 seconds and finished sixth. Jansa's time was only 11 seconds off the winning pace set by Lefors' Rachel Stubbs. The Garden City junior was 26th at state a year ago. Saenz will be making his second trip to the state meet. He earned his first trip back to Round Rock since 2000 by finishing eighth in the Region I-2A race with a mark of 17:09.9. His run led Stanton to 20th in the standings. Saenz was a member of the Buffaloes' cross country team that went to the state meet two years ago. Top-ranked Iraan won the boys' and girls' titles.

America's Great Treasures

Our Public Lands

From Pelican Island, Fla., to Yosemite National Park in California, public lands belong to all of us. These lands make up almost one-third of all the land in the United States. That is 600 million acres!

Public lands include:

- city and state parks you play in.
  - greenways you walk and run on.
  - national monuments that remind us of famous people or events.
  - national forests to fish and hike in.
  - national parks you can explore and camp in.
  - national seashores to swim and play in.
  - national wildlife refuges where you can watch protected birds and animals.
  - military bases that protect our country.
- We all need to be aware and care for our public lands.

Mountains and more mountains rise up before a family hiking in Yellowstone, our first national park.

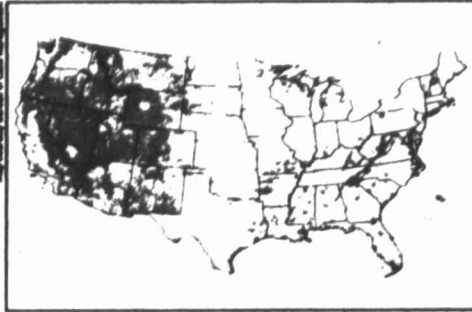

Presidents and Congress, and state and local governments, set aside public lands.

National parks are just one kind of public land.

Yellowstone National Park, in parts of Wyoming, Montana and Idaho, was the world's first national park. Congress created it in 1872.

The park holds many natural wonders. Thousands of hot springs and geysers, including the famous Old Faithful geyser, bubble and spray there.

Grizzly bears, wolves, and herds of buffalo and elk make Yellowstone their home.

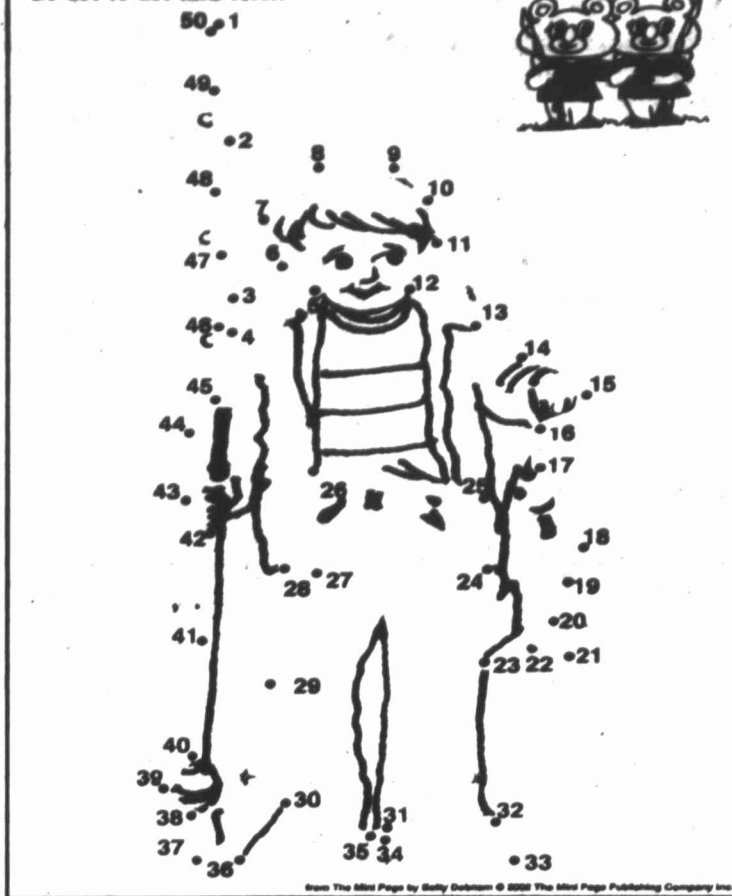

The map above shows some of the public lands managed by the Bureau of Land Management, the National Park Service, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Forest Service. Most of our public lands are in the western part of our country and in Alaska.

Getting our public lands

We got our public lands in many ways. The United States:

- won some land in wars.
- signed treaties with other countries to get more lands.
- bought land. For example, in 1801 President Thomas Jefferson bought land from France in the Louisiana Purchase.

Go dot to dot and color.

Rookie Cookie's Recipe
Chicken Joes

You'll need:

- 1/4 onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cups chicken, cooked and shredded
- 1 can chicken gumbo soup
- 1/2 cup ketchup
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 teaspoon mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 4 hamburger buns, split and toasted

What to do:

1. Cook onion in butter or margarine in a skillet over medium heat for 5 minutes. Stir often.
2. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and lower heat to low. Cook 30 minutes. Stir every 5 minutes.
3. Serve over hamburger buns. Serves 4.

Kids! You're Invited to the White House

A Kid's Guide to the White House is a terrific behind-the-scenes look at a very special house.

Written with the cooperation of the White House Historical Association, the book is full of fun information, photos (some in full color) and puzzles that kids of all ages will enjoy.

Gas Goodsport's Report
Supersport: Daunte Culpepper

Height: 6-4 Birthdate: 1-28-77
Weight: 260 College: Central Florida
Minnesota Vikings quarterback Daunte Culpepper is one of the best passers among the pros. Last year he set a team record by having the most games in a row with more than 100 yards in passing. His total yards for the season were 2,612. He threw for 14 touchdowns and ran for another five. Daunte joined the team in 1999. His best year was 2000, when he threw for 3,937 yards. He grew up in Ocala, Fla., and was a star football player in high school. He also played basketball and baseball and was a weightlifter. He studied secondary education in college. He lives in Orlando, Fla., in the off-season, where he likes to play golf. His cousin, Kenny Clark, also plays for the Vikings.

Meet Billy Gilman

Country singer Billy Gilman was only 11 when he had his first hit song, "One Voice." Since then he has had a big singing career. He is now 14. He grew up in Hope Valley, R.I., and began singing when he was 5. Billy has three cats, a dog and a hamster. Some of his favorite singers are Tim McGraw, the Dixie Chicks and the Backstreet Boys. His favorite food is sirloin steak. In his free time, he likes in-line skating, fishing, working on his computer and playing computer games. He hopes to continue to perform as he grows up and would like to be in a Broadway show or movie. He would also like to build a recording studio.

MIGHTY FUNNY'S Mini Jokes

All the following jokes have something in common. Can you guess the common theme or category?

- Sally: Why are saddles so difficult to get along with?
Sam: They tend to stirrup trouble!
- Harry: Why did the mare scold her colt?
Helene: For misbehaving!
- Tom: How can you tell when your horse is being polite?
Teresa: When you get to a fence, he lets you go over first!

Public Lands We Love

Visitors to the Grand Canyon admire the colors of its walls.

A great canyon

Grand Canyon National Park is in Arizona. It stretches for 277 miles. It is from 1 mile to 18 miles wide.

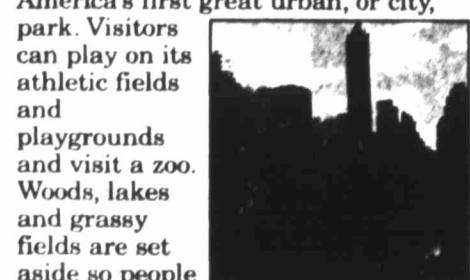

The park offers a safe place for wildlife, such as bighorn sheep, mountain lions and 300 kinds of birds. It has fossils and rocks that date back 2 billion years.

Over millions of years, the Colorado River cut through layers of rock to make the canyon, which is up to 1 mile deep.

The red and brown colors of the canyon light up when hit by the sun. It is a big attraction for tourists.

Keeping nature in the city

Central Park in New York City was America's first great urban, or city,

Parks like Central Park in New York City help to keep a small part of the outdoors alive inside the city.

Preserving our tallest living monuments

An important group of redwoods is protected on Park Service land called the Muir Woods National Monument in California. These redwoods have never been cut. A wealthy citizen, William Kent, bought the land to protect the trees. He gave it to the United States. Muir Woods is one of the most popular in the Park Service. Visitors come to see and learn more about these beautiful trees.

Reserving a refuge for birds

Pelican Island is a part of the public lands controlled by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

More than 30 kinds of birds have a place to roost, feed and nest on Pelican Island, Fla. President Theodore Roosevelt made the tiny island our first national wildlife refuge.

Pelican

Protecting our lands

Wild horses and burros are found in the western part of our country. These horses graze on land managed by the Bureau of Land Management.

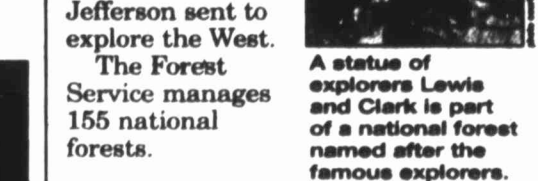

The Bureau of Land Management manages public lands that make up about one-eighth of our country. These lands are located in 12 western states, including Alaska.

Uses for these lands include: mining for minerals, grazing for livestock, outdoor recreation, wildlife conservation, and preservation of historical sites and trails.

Protecting our forests

National forests are another type of public land. Lewis and Clark National Forest is in Montana. The name honors the explorers whom President Thomas Jefferson sent to explore the West.

The Forest Service manages 155 national forests.

A statue of explorers Lewis and Clark is part of a national forest named after the famous explorers.

To do: Look through your newspaper for any stories about public lands. Next week, The Mini Page celebrates Thanksgiving with a story about the first harvest feast.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR
HAPPY BIRTHDAY for
Tuesday, Nov. 5, 2002:

You might not always have all the facts this year. It often appears that others leave out key information. Rather than being confused, ask. You will have unusual charisma and desirability. Others will want to please, help and/or support you. Just ask for what you need. Use care with real estate investments. What might look good, very well could be a problem. If you are single, a relationship will star on the horizon. You could meet someone very special next fall. In the meantime, you certainly will enjoy yourself. If attached, your relationship will draw much more of what you desire after August. You will be much more in sync with each other. SAGITTARIUS helps you make money.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)*** Continue your playful attitude. Consider options that surround a friendship. Sometimes this person could be a bit disruptive, but on the other hand, you find him or her exciting. Screen your calls if you really want to accomplish more. Tonight: Where your friends are.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)**** Others seek you out, perhaps interrupting a key project. To be honest, on some level you welcome the distraction. You might want to beg off the project for a while. Know what you are doing, and you will succeed. A partner pitches in. Tonight: Togetherness works.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)**** Realize your objectives when dealing with co-workers and/or your daily life. When you decide that a situation is getting confusing, it really is. Know when to back away from a decision and when to make one. Follow your instincts right now. Tonight: Keep smiling.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)**** Others test your solution-finding skills, which, fortunately, are unusually high. A partner or associate would really like your feedback and help. Understand more by asking questions. If you find matters more confusing than ever, step back. Tonight: Do what seems important.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)**** Recognize when enough is enough. Go for a change of pace, if you would like. Others delight in your changeable nature, and probably will join in. Confirm key meetings and appointments right now. Listen to others and what they share. Tonight: Let your libido do the talking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)**** Keep your mind and door open to others. You might find associates, projects and even simple daily matters confusing, at best. Relax and enjoy some unusual news or a conversation. A lunch break could go a lot longer than the norm. Tonight: Head on home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)**** Realize what might be needed in order to make a point with a child or loved one. You find a situation that involves this person and something he or she wants is confusing. Don't let anyone entice you into taking a risk. Tonight: Join a pal at your haunt.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)**** Your positive mood could throw someone close into a bit of a tizzy. You might be interested in the hows and whys of this situation, but you cannot seem to get clarity. Worry about yourself right now. This, too, will pass! Tonight: Pick up the tab.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ** You might not understand all that is occurring around you. It also might not be all that important. Use your strong powers of observation. The information you gather proves useful soon enough. Tonight: Others greet you as if you're a long-lost stranger.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)*** Keep your head clear, even when the facts seem confusing. You will make your way through a problem and resolve it most successfully if you don't push. Avoid deadlines right now. Take your sweet time. A meeting demonstrates others' quandaries, as well. Tonight: Do your thing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)**** Take charge at work. Clear your desk or help others organize themselves. Perhaps you are more instrumental than you realize. You might not be sure what you want from a specific person and/or meeting. Flow with the energy. Tonight: Find your friends.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)**** Your perspective illuminates others. As a result, you confirm a hunch. You don't necessarily anticipate that others will agree. Go with your instincts, especially when talking to someone in charge. A discussion helps you understand. Tonight: A must appearance.

Lifestyle differences cause major problems

Dear Prudence: My wife and I, both in our mid-20s, have been married now for a little over a year. There are no kids. We have a lifestyle difference that is of major concern to my wife. She is a vegetarian, and I am not.

Before we married, we agreed we would not give each other a hard time based on dietary preferences. I am happy with the vegetarian wife I married and would not try to change her. A couple months after we were married, however, my wife attended an animal rights activist conference and was "enlightened." Since the conference, she feels she cannot achieve her goals in life being married to someone who eats animal products.

She has stated that she needs to be married to someone who has the same views about animals and who is willing to organize rallies and speak to the public about her cause. I love my wife dearly and told her

I support her in what she is doing; however, I don't feel comfortable joining her. She tells me that my respect and support for her aren't good enough. She is getting more radical as time progresses.

This issue has created such friction in our marriage that she has asked for a divorce on a few occasions. She has apologized to me that her views have become so radical and says she still loves me but states that the animals are more important than our marriage. Is this marriage salvageable? Thank you so much. — Disturbed life is better when it's real life. — Prudie, realistically

Dear Prudence: I have been seeing my boss (a married man) for about two months. I know it is wrong to be involved with someone like him, but when we're together, it feels so right. He is constantly telling me he misses me when we don't see each other, and he tells me I make him happy. Every time we're alone, we end up kissing, hugging, making out... and twice we actually made love. I really love him, but I'm confused as to whether he feels the same or if he's just in it because it is a sexual thing to him. I get the impression I'm more or less a sex object.

I've been thinking about breaking it off, but I'm unsure about it because I want to figure out what it is that we have — a loving relationship or a sexual one. — Confused

Dear Con: He's maaarried. But you knew that, so we'll just concentrate on your actual question. Because all your get-togethers are, literally, get-togethers, suggest a movie one night, and see what he says. As to Prudie's opinion about whether you are more or less a sex object, Prudie's answer would be "More." — Prudie, directly

We're Always There

Dear Prudence: I've been at my current job for over two years. During that time, I've become good friends with one of my co-workers, and I think I've fallen in love with him. I'm pretty sure he doesn't feel the same way, as he is currently pining over someone else. I know the logical thing to do is forget him; however, all my attempts to do so have failed. I think about him all the time. I even dream about him.

We truly enjoy each other's company, so I don't want us to stop being friends. But I'm afraid if I keep this up, I might become a stalker or something. Please let me know how I can start moving on with my life. — Concerned in Cleveland

Dear Con: You seem to know the words but not the music. The rational part of you realizes the romantic interest is not returned, but you say you can't tear yourself away. It would be in your best interest to get the upper hand on what sounds like an obsession in the making. Probably the best way to do this would be to talk it out with a behavioral or cognitive therapist.

With a little good karma (and who knows... maybe an antidepressant), you will become strong enough not to weave fantasies where no encouragement exists. Real

This Date in History. Text: Today is Tuesday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 2002. There are 56 days left in the year. This is Election Day. Today's Highlight in History: On Nov. 5, 1605, the "Gunpowder Plot" failed as Guy Fawkes was seized before he could blow up the English Parliament. On this date: In 1911, Calbraith P. Rodgers arrived in Pasadena, Calif., completing the first transcontinental airplane trip in 49 days. In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected president, defeating Progressive Republican Theodore Roosevelt and incumbent Republican William Howard Taft. In 1940, President Roosevelt won an unprecedented third term in office as he defeated Republican challenger Wendell L. Willkie. In 1944, British official Lord Moyne was assassinated in Cairo, Egypt, by the Zionist Stern gang. In 1946, Republicans captured control of both the Senate and the House in midterm elections. In 1968, Richard M. Nixon won the presidency, defeating Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and third-party candidate George C. Wallace. In 1974, Ella T. Grasso was elected governor of Connecticut, the first woman to win a gubernatorial office without succeeding her husband. In 1990, Rabbi Meir Kahane, the Brooklyn-born Israeli extremist, was shot to death at a New York hotel. (Egyptian native El Sayyed Nosair was convicted of the slaying in federal court.) In 1996, voters returned President Clinton to the White House for a second term but kept Congress in Republican control. Five years ago: The House overwhelmingly approved a bill calling for the most far-reaching changes at the Internal Revenue Service in 45 years. One year ago: Enrique Bolanos defeated former Sandinista leader Daniel Ortega in Nicaragua's presidential election. Hurricane Michelle swept past the Bahamas with 85 mph winds, flooding houses and cutting power. Roy Boulting, who with his twin brother, John, produced some of postwar Britain's most enduring films, died in Eynsham, England, at the age of 87. Birthdays: Musician Myron Floren ("The Lawrence Welk Show") is 83. Singer-songwriter Ike Turner is 71. Actor Chris Robinson is 64. Actress Elke Sommer is 62.

GASOLINE ALLEY comic strip. Panel 1: A man asks, "UNCLE WAIT! YOUR CLOTHES ARE MESSED UP AND DIRTY!" Panel 2: A man replies, "I GUESS THEY GOT THAT WAY WHEN I FELL DOWN!" Panel 3: A man asks, "WHAT HAPPENED?" Panel 4: A man replies, "IT WAS DARK - I FELL IN A HOLE!"

SNUFFY SMITH comic strip. Panel 1: A man says, "I DONE MY PATRIOTIC DUTY!!" Panel 2: A man asks, "WHO'D YA VOTE FER?" Panel 3: A man replies, "THAR ALL RASCALS, LUKEY, I DIDN'T VOTE FER 'EM!!" Panel 4: A man says, "I VOTED AG'INST 'EM!!"
