TxDOT grant will allow airpark to 'leave the lights on'

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Big Spring is going to put a $640,000 light in the window for night pilots, funded by a Texas Department of Transportation Aviation grant.

The lights, to be installed at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, will include a new approach lighting system and runway and taxiway lights, said Airpark Manager Jim Little.

The contract with F&W Electrical Contractors Inc. of Floresville was approved on first reading at the Big Spring City Council meeting Tuesday evening. When the council approves the second reading of the resolution, work should start "within a very brief period of time," Little said.

"According to the document I have, it's going to be a fairly quick start time after they approve it," he said.

People driving past the airpark at night should be able to tell a difference in the lighting system, Little added.

"They'll be able to tell a difference because we won't have the tall poles with the lights on them that are very familiar. They've been there since the base closed," he said.

Neel hired as junior high principal

Trustees handle routine business

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent School District trustees approved the promotion of Ben Neel to serve as the principal of the Big Spring Junior High School.

"I'm very grateful that two former players of mine both made the motion and seconded it," said a grinning Neel Thursday night following the board of trustees meeting.

Neel, a 37-year veteran with the Big Spring Independent School District, has served as the interim principal after Rey Villarreal left the position to become the district's assistant superintendent.

Neel received a 220-day contract at a yearly salary of $66,106.

Just a month after his marriage to Bonnie, Neel began his career in education as a coach and teacher in the Big Spring district. They now have three grown children, Ben, Brad and Melissa.

he accepted the assistant principal's position at the junior high.

Perez receives state award for 'Shattered Dreams' efforts

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

Linda Perez, Victim Services volunteer coordinator, received a statewide commendation Wednesday by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission for her dedication to "Shattered Dreams," a teen-age anti-drinking and driving program.

"I was surprised and very grateful to James for nominating me and having faith in me," Perez said. "This should be an overall team award. We have a wonderful team as you can tell by the overall success of the program."

In a brief, impromptu ceremony, TABC Agent James White presented the commendation to the surprised of Perez, who was leading a meeting with area law enforcement and Big Spring school officials.

Perez is the first person from Howard County to receive the Bert Ford

Visitors get good look at end result of state hospital volunteers' hard work

By VALERIE AVERY

Special to the Herald
Big Spring State Hospital volunteers got a close-up look Thursday at the end result of hours spent crafting seasonal gifts, working on Valentine's Day and Denim and Diamonds fundraisers, and selling clothing for as little as a quarter at the resale shop.

For more than three years, the 100-plus members of the Volunteer Services Council put away more than $48,000 that funded three construction projects benefiting the patients at Big Spring State Hospital.

Following their festive Fall Luncheon and Crafts Bazaar, hospital tour guides provided rides in state vans and golf carts to two new courtyards and a brand-new walking track in which the Volunteer Services Council graciously provided funding.

"One of the volunteers told her husband she was going to be late because she wanted to see what they had spent their money on," Director of Community Relations Billie Russworm said and Phil Furqueron were among the thousands of students Neel has coached.

In other business, trustees heard the review by the Texas Education Agency's Department of Quality, Compliance and Accountability Reviews Division of School Governance, EEO and Complaints Management about equal educational opportunities for students assigned to campuses that enroll in 66 percent or more minority students in the district.

"We had a very good review," said Villarreal. "They found one concern that the growth of minority teachers had not kept pace with the growth of minority student population."

"The report found that we had been making good faith efforts in that area and suggested that we attempt to recruit at universities and colleges with a heavy minority population."

Villarreal also reported that enrollment district wide has decreased by 27 students from last year but the trend of heavily declining enrollment in the elementary area has seemed to equalize for now.

During the financial reports section, trustee Mike Dawson queried Superintendent Murray Murphy about when the district could expect money from the Big Spring Junior High lawsuit settlement agreement.

Big Spring attorney Ben Bancroft, who was co-counsel for BSISD in the lawsuit, said he believes the money should be sent to the district by next week.

Trustees also:

- Tabled consideration of joining the Government Finance Officers' Association Distinguished Budget Presentation Award program. Trustee Kent Sharp requested the district to participate in the program that requires producing the district's financial documents to the programs' format. Noting Sharp's absence, trustees decided to revisit the issue after time to review the program and to hear Sharp's opinion.
- Awarded certificates from the Texas Education Agency to the principals of Big Spring High School, Kentwood, Marcy, Moss and Washington elementaries for earning recognized status and for Bauer Elementary for earning exemplary status.
- Approved the resignation of Kathryn Lane, sixth grade Gollad Intermediate School math teacher, and the hire of Michelle Marbeiter, who will replace Lane in the position.

Ford who promoted a spirit of cooperation during his tenure, 1936-1947.

Certificates of commendations are given throughout the year to people and agencies who have shown exceptional cooperation with state commission.

Perez has coordinated the "Shattered Dreams" program for the past two years in Howard County. The program developed by the TABC is aimed at teaching teens the consequences of drinking and driving by staging a mock drunk driving accident.

The program involves coordination of area law enforcement, school officials, students and their parents, who must keep their participation quiet until the actual day of staging.

The day-long event includes filming the crash, the hospital scenes, jail scenes, death notification to the parents and a trial which takes place on the high school campus.

Following the day's activity, participating students attend an overnight retreat.

Perez said the overall success of the programs is a result of the dedication and hard work of everyone involved.

"Our team is totally dedicated — that's why it works — and not just the team, but the whole community is dedicated," Perez said.

laughingly. "The fact that the courtyards and the walking tracks can be used day-to-day helps the volunteers make commitments to these types of projects."

Every few years, hospital CEO Ed Moughon presents a list of long-range hospital needs to the volunteers. Since state funding is used only for life-safety issues, such as replacing heating and air conditioning, the hospital must look elsewhere for the little extras to improve patient care, said W.C. Earnst, assistant superintendent.

Patients use courtyards outside their units multiple times each day, as evidenced by the more than dozen basking in the warm sunshine Thursday afternoon during the tour. The walking track is important for encouraging exercise in many of the patients who are depressed, said Jaime Sotelo, assistant director of activity therapies.

The three projects were completed during the past year under the direction of Volunteer Jay Jarmes and the 48 members of the hospital's maintenance department, Earnst said. Very little was contracted out saving on the overall cost of the three projects.

"We would not have been able to complete these projects without the abilities of our maintenance staff," Earnst said. "We would have had to do it in little pieces without them doing the manual labor. I appreciate them because they are always eager to do a new project."

And the volunteers enjoyed seeing the long hours toiling away on many projects pay off for structural additions that the patients can use for a long time.

"They saw that what they do does make a difference in patient recovery," Russworm said.

"The people landing from the north will be able to have a lighting system, and the same thing would apply from the south end of the runway," he said. "If they're having to land on that end because of the weather."

Little said the new taxiway lighting will help pilots unfamiliar with the airport's layout.

"They won't be lost in the darkness," he said. "They'll have new signs as well directing them to the taxiways and the terminal and that kind of thing."

Little said F&W should be able to have the job completed within about 5 months of the start date.

TXDoT originally authorized a $1.1 million grant for the project. City Manager Gary Fuqua said the city is working with TXDoT Aviation to see what other improvements could be made to the airport that would fit into the grant.

"Things we're going to look at since the bid came in so well is continuing with our lighting towards our T-hangars and some of that work," he said. "The main thing is we want to utilize that to enhance the project as much as we can."

A SMALL PRAYER

By K. Rae Anderson

Dear Lord, our faith in you can help us create a happier and healthier life. Let us start new today. Amen

Staying true to those who taught you

I believe it to be one of life's great truths that there is no group of people quite so wonderful as those who were seniors when you were a freshman. This applies to both high school and college. Didn't you notice that the juniors who became seniors when you were a sophomore were just not quite as... suave, fascinating, dangerous, original as the seniors before them?

MOLLY IVINS

The same thing is true of the world of work. I belong to a peripatetic profession; most of us move on fairly frequently. I was exceptionally lucky with my first group of professional "seniors" at the Minneapolis Tribune — now folded in with what used to be our competition, the Star, to make the "Strib" of today.

True, I had worked for the Houston Chronicle before going to Minneapolis, and that was enough to convince me that Hildy Johnson of The Front Page was alive and well and that "my chosen field of endeavor," as Mel Mencher used to say, was deliciously sprinkled with outlaws and rascals. But the Tribune was my first "grown-up" job, and it was the first time I worked with a group of bright people trying to put out a first-rate newspaper. (At the old Chronk, our editor was given to solemnly informing us that our mission in life was "not to rock the boat.")

In Minneapolis — which would be the best city in the country except it needs to be shut down for six months of the year because it's too cold — I encountered a group of professional journalists who, bless their hearts, never thought of themselves as anything more pretentious than "newspapermen." The "seniors" of my first job have been croaking right and left lately, and when word came that Stu Baird, our beloved city editor, was gone, it seemed past time for a tribute.

Can anyone remember Stu Baird not laughing? He couldn't have laughed all the time — it only seems that way. He was bald even when I worked for him 30 years ago. I can remember many a tense huddle at the desk: "Here's the story, take you 15 minutes to get there, 40 to deadline, file 500 words, go!"

But mostly I remember Stu's laughter ringing through the newsroom about anything and everything: about Holbrook's love life, about the time a truckful of photochemicals plunged off a bridge into a river and he decided to wait and see what developed, about the fact that John Addington on the copy desk could recite all 71 counties of Wisconsin in alphabetical order, about the time we ran the headline "Area Bears Watching," about all the insanity and folly and sheer stubborn Midwesternness of Minnesota. Long before anyone had heard of Garrison Keillor, Stu Baird knew that Minnesota was bone-deep funny and wonderfully endearing.

He also relished the sheer oddity of the people who worked with him. Newspaperpeople are not necessarily, or even often, your seriously normal human beans. That was fine by Stu. He positively cherished our assorted lunacies — would even boast about them. If a particularly peculiar citizen had a redeeming social value, Stu would always point it out, and if there was a good excuse for unseemly behavior — "You'd be that grumpy too-if you were married to his wife" — it was always given due recognition. And when there was no excuse for perfectly dreadful people, Stu would just roar over stories of how wretched they were.

Baird left the Tribune, as newspaper people used to do in those days, to go into public relations so he could afford to send his kids to college. His successor at the city desk was Frank Premack, as relentless and driven as Baird was loose and easygoing.

I must have had a thousand fights with Premack, but he was a good newsman. There are a million good reasons why busting your rear on every story for a medium-size daily in a not-terribly-important market is not strictly necessary, and Premack never believed a single one of them. What a ruthless, driving force for excellence that man was — it's a mercy I didn't shoot him. It took me a long, long time to realize how much I learned from him.

Premack was balanced by Dick Cunningham, a rare and gentle soul, perhaps the greatest humanist I ever met around a city desk. I'm still not sure how these things are strictly measured — and I know most people never associate this with newspaper-folk — but Cunningham may have been the best Christian I ever knew. It gave him some remarkable insights into what news really is.

The Sunday late shift used to knock off at midnight — no bars open — and repair to Bob Crabb's house to play chess. At the beginning of World War II, Crabb was working for some long-since-defunct news service in the Philippines, was caught by the Japanese and spent the war in a concentration camp. He occasionally referred to it, but it was not until I later read the histories of those camps that I had any grasp of what he had been through.

We would play chess until 3 or 4 a.m., often until dawn, five or six games going at once. We developed a sort of running patter, referring to the pieces by elaborate formal titles. "Aha! I have seized your Noble Knight upon his Prancing Steed with my Humble Peasant here. Take that!" Those who were between games would gather to give strategic advice to those locked in close matches.

Shortly before his own death, I received a note from Cunningham with a copy of Crabb's obituary enclosed. Cunningham's note, a reference to those long-ago chess matches, said simply: "Remember: Always seize the long diagonal!"

Chess is a complicated game — you can spend a lifetime studying it — but it's nowhere near as complicated as life.

If there is a long diagonal in this world, I suspect it has to do with staying clear and staying true to those who have taught so much and given so generously to you.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

The officers of Student Council would like to say "thank you" for the great coverage in the Herald during our 38th homecoming celebration at Big Spring High School. We do appreciate the pictures and articles that were printed.

Thank you from each of us for the continued support of the Big Spring Herald.

Also on behalf of the Big Spring High School Student Council, and the student body, we would like to make a "public thank you" to the city of Big Spring for its support in our annual homecoming bonfire.

The bonfire that was held on Thursday night of homecoming week at the compost site was a great success thanks to the following persons: Todd Darden, director of public works; Jesse Baker, streets director; Armando Gill, solid waste superintendent;

Perry Hall, compost facility supervisor; Jackie Hill, landfill foreman; Lynn Wallace and Frank Chapman, Terry Fryar, Mike Gonzales, Junior Rodriguez, Chad Averette, Jeromaine Gonzales, James Wilkerson, Terry Jenkins and the TDCJ staff and support squads.

We also say "thank you" to the staff from the Big Spring Fire Department for their presence at the bonfire.

Our sincere "thanks" also goes to the Big Spring Police Department and the officers who were in attendance at the homecoming parade on Friday. We were especially privileged to have the Police Honor Guard unit lead the parade. We appreciate each of the officers who helped during the parade, and Chief of Police Lonnie Smith for allowing us to hold the parade.

We believe the community of Big Spring needs to know how our city works with our school to help make our homecoming activities possible.

B.S.H.S. STUDENT COUNCIL

TO THE EDITOR:

Last weekend, Nov. 1-3, we drove to Big Spring to attend my wife's Big Spring High School Class of '44 reunion. It rained all night. Saturday morning, we left the Great Western Motel to attend the first reunion function of the day. It was still raining. The car windows were fogged. I lowered the windows to clear the fog. One window stuck in the down position. Bad news! What to do?

We decided to cross the highway to Denny's to inquire about the possibility of finding a repair shop to fix the window. By luck, a Good Samaritan, Ray Waight, proprietor of Big Spring Collision Center, was having his breakfast. The manager of Denny's, another Good Samaritan, introduced us to Waight. I explained our problem and he graciously volunteered to fix the window. We followed him to his shop which was normally closed on Saturdays. He spent about an hour and a half of his time fixing the window, and reminiscing with my wife and me about Big Spring. He wouldn't accept any payment for his services, even though we insisted.

Ray Waight is a living example of West Texas' friendliness and Big Spring's hospitality. He helped turn our trip into a most enjoyable experience, and a more memorable Class of '44 reunion for my wife.

CHURCH NEWS

First United Methodist Church

Dr. Dave Ring continues "The ABC's & D's of Stewardship" on Sunday at First United Methodist Church. The final sermon in this series on stewardship is "D is for Donation" based on the scripture text from Luke 6:20-38.

On this Commitment Sunday, members will be asked to commit themselves to the financial support of the church's ministries for the year 2003.

Worship services are at 8:30 a.m. and 10:50 a.m. Sunday School classes are available for all ages from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. Following the late service, the church's youth will host Thanksgiving Dinner.

Monday is the last day for youth to sign up for the ski trip. Please be sure to contact Courtney Johnson to make reservation.

Rehearsals for the Living Christmas Tree continue Saturday, Nov. 9, from 9 a.m. to noon, in Garrett Hall. Anyone interested in singing in this special program should contact Jim Wright or come to rehearsal in Garrett Hall.

The final Saturday rehearsal for Living Christmas Tree is Nov. 23 from 9 a.m. to noon. Rehearsals continue Monday through Friday, Dec. 2-6.

The featured Sunday School class this week is the Couples Class. This class for mostly older, and some middle-aged couples, as well as some widowed is a friendly, dedicated, and forward-looking class. The class works on an in-depth Bible study for six months and then spends time discussing varied topics and opportunities for Christian service. The class meets in Room 103.

First United Methodist Church is located at 400 Scurry. For more information on any of the church's programs, call the church office at 267-6394.

Midway Baptist Church

Midway Baptist Church will be holding a dedication service for the new Family Center on Sunday. It will also be "High Attendance Day" for our Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. Worship service will begin at 11 a.m., followed by a potluck Thanksgiving meal at noon in the new Fellowship Hall. Special music, testimonies and the dedication service will follow the meal. We invite everyone to join us in this celebration. We are excited about what God has provided.

In December of 1998 the ground work started on the new facilities. The shell of the building was erected in 1999. The members of the church completed the eight rooms of the new Sunday School wing in early summer of 2000. By the fall of 2001 there was enough money for the members to start work on the fellowship hall.

As work continued the money kept coming in, and as each part was completed, there would be enough to start on something else. It was exciting to see how God provided money and the talents needed to complete all of the building.

We invite you to come and visit with us at Midway Baptist Church, 6200 S. Service Road, just past the Midway Exit.

East Side Baptist

Sunday you are welcome to join our celebration of Jesus. The sermon is "Easy Things Are Not Always The Right Things."

The trio "3N1" will be singing.

Our family service begins at 10:45 a.m. You will surely find something that will bless your heart. Come join us.

We are making preparations for our fifth "Children's Christmas Craft Fair." This annual event has proven to be one of our most rewarding. We use simple Christmas crafts to teach the boys and girls the real meaning of Christmas. We put on a play during the time with the theme of Christmas brought to life. You are invited to be a part of these events on Dec. 7, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., children ages 5-12. Please call 267-1915, 267-1845 or 264-0506. To secure a place for your children.

The Goliad Junior

Classics is a youth civic organization sponsored by the Big Spring Women's Club for sixth-grade girls at Goliad Intermediate School.

This year we had a special donation provided by the 1948 Hyperion Club. We used this money for eight scholarships for girls who would otherwise be unable to join. At this time, we have 84 girls. Each girl must maintain a passing average in all subjects and portray good behavior at all times. Dues are $12 per member, which includes a T-shirt to be worn to school each Thursday and at any special time that they are acting as representatives of the Junior Classics.

We are involved in many activities throughout the year.

In October, we sponsor a coat drive. The students and staff at Goliad bring coats and we present them to the Salvation Army.

The Junior Classics and Goliad Cavaliers have a competition in November to see who can bring the most canned food, and the food is presented to the Salvation Army. We have a float in the Christmas parade and select angels from the angel trees.

Sands, Borden Co. in familiar territory

By TOMMY WELLS

The Sand Mustangs and Borden Co. Coyotes are no stranger to the state playoffs. In fact, both have been among the elite programs in the state for much of the past 15 years.

Both will get a chance to prove they're still among the best six-man teams in the United States tonight when they take to the field for their respective playoff matchups. Sands will open the playoffs with a first round matchup with Fort Davis. Borden Co. will face state-ranked Sanderson.

The Mustangs, who have advanced to the state quarterfinals four times since 1992, are one of the winningest six-man teams in the state over the past 10 years.

This year, Sands posted a 9-1 record during the regular season and nailed down the District 5 championship. The Mustangs' only loss was a 50-40 setback in Week 3 of the year against Sanderson. Since that loss, the Mustangs have out scored their last seven opponents by a staggering 338-70 clip.

Much of the Mustangs' success centers around the rushing ability of running back Nate Looney. The SHS senior has rushed for more than 1,300 yards this season and Both Fort Davis and Sands beat Balmorhea and Klondike this fall.

Borden Co., the 1996 state champion, draws one of the hottest teams in Texas in the first round. Sanderson enters tonight's showdown sporting the second-highest scoring offense in the state and a defense to match.

Lady Steers hold Wolves scoreless for three quarters

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

The Big Spring Junior High School Lady Steers seventh grade B team put on a defensive clinic Thursday night in the opening round of the Lady Steer' B Team Tournament. Big Spring held Colorado City scoreless in the final three quarters and rolled to an easy 37-1 victory.

With the win, the Lady Steers advanced to the tournament semifinal round to meet Andrews. The two will square off Saturday at 9 a.m. in the BSJHS gym to determine which will advance to the finals.

Big Spring, 1-1 on the year, put the game on ice in the first period. The BSJHS girls posted a 12-1 run in the initial six minutes of the game and never looked back.

They added an 11-0 spree in the second quarter and took a commanding 23-1 lead into the start of the second half.

The Lady Steers outscored Colorado City by a 14-0 margin in the second half to seal the win.

Clarissa Carrisalez led Big Spring in the contest. She scored a team-high 10 points and collected five steals.

Renita Cotton, who recorded a team-leading six steals, Bree Feaster and Amber Simer all scored six points and collected four rebounds.

Midland Greenwood defeated the Colorado City No. 2 team, 22-9, in the other seventh grade first-round game. The win sends the Lady Rangers into a semifinal showdown with Seminole, which drew a first-round bye.

Lady Steers set to play in Lee tournament

The Big Spring Lady Steers will be one of several local teams in action tonight in basketball. The Lady Steers, 0-1, will compete in the Midland Lee Tournament tonight.

Joining the Lady Steers in action will be girls teams from Sands, Forsan and Stanton. The Lady Mustangs, 1-0, will travel to Loop while Stanton's girls will travel to Ira. The Forsan Lady Buffaloes will host Roby beginning at 4 p.m.

The Big Spring Steers will show a different look this weekend against the Canyon Randall Raiders, according to head coach Dwight Butler. The change is designed to help the Steers overcome a big size disadvantage in the Division II bi-district playoff game.

Steers hoping new defensive scheme will allow them to offset Raiders' size

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

Heading into their first playoff game in two years, Big Spring head coach knows exactly what to expect from the Canyon Randall Raiders tonight when the two step onto the Lowery Field turf: Pressure.

And plenty of it. "They will bring the heat from the edge, I can assure you," said Butler, who has guided the Steers to a playoff berth in five of the last six seasons. "They're going to come at us with everything they have."

The reason Butler knows the Raiders' approach is simple. It's the same approach his Steers will have to take if they want to survive the first round of the Class 4A Division II playoffs.

"We know two things about tonight," said Butler. "We're going to have to throw the ball, No. 1 and if we're going to play with them we've got to stop the run. We're going to have to do some things we haven't done in the past and take some chances."

That, for the Steers, means a new defensive scheme that will send players from different angles and packages than teams have seen.

"Man for man, we probably don't match up with their offense. Now, I'm not talking about heart-wise and desire because we can stack up with anybody there, I talking about size. They're just big."

The Raiders' offensive line is a massive unit that resembled Frenship in that they will own a district advantage. The Randall offensive line averaged approximately 280 pounds per man — meaning they will outweigh the Steers' defensive front by about 30 pounds per position.

"What we have is quickness and we're going to have to try and use that to stop them. We've put together a game plan using that quickness that, hopefully, will look like controlled chaos."

The plan, according to Butler is to try and rattle the Raider offensive plan by sending defenders from different angles and packages from what the Steers normally employ.

"It could give us an advantage in that we haven't done anything like this before," he said. "If we do the things we're capable of, we could have a chance."

One of Butler's biggest concerns — and his defense's main objec-

LaTasha Davis scored 15 points and Brittani Colbert added 13 points Thursday night and led the Howard College Lady Hawks to a 95-45 victory in the opener of the 2002 South Plains Classic in Levelland.

With the win, the Lady Hawks improved to 4-1 for the year and earned a spot opposite Eastern Oklahoma in the SPC semifinals. Eastern Oklahoma is ranked No.

12 in the nation. The teams are slated to tip-off beginning at 2 p.m.

Howard College put Lubbock Christian early. The Lady Hawks, who had every player figure into the scoring, roasted the LCU defense in the first 20 minutes by pounding out a 50-24 clip.

Howard College had four players score into double figures. Joining Davis and Colbert in double-digits were Chanel Ross with 11 and Desire Bostice with 10.

Tide rolls No. 3 Sooners in season-opener, 68-62

NEW YORK (AP) — Mo Williams scored 25 points and No. 8 Alabama beat No. 3 Oklahoma 68-62 Thursday night in the season's first matchup of Top Ten teams. Both schools had four starters back from teams that won their conference tournaments last season and Oklahoma was coming off an appearance in the Final Four. It looked like the season opener for both, especially Oklahoma, which didn't get its offense going until the game's final two minutes. Kenny Walker added 14 points for Alabama and preseason All-America Erwin Dudley had 12 points and eight rebounds. But it was Williams, a sophomore guard, who came up big when the Sooners made their late run. Ebi Ere had 24 points for Oklahoma, while Hollis Price had all but four of his 19 in the second half. The Crimson Tide opened the second half with a 10-0 run that gave them a 43-25 lead with 15:24 left in the game. Oklahoma went 5:24 without scoring to start the half, missing six shots and committing three turnovers. OU is one of three Big 12 teams ranked in the Top 5 in the preseason.

Colorado can clinch Big 12 North crown with win

DALLAS (AP) — The Colorado Buffaloes won't have to wait until the last weekend of the regular season to find out if they get into the Big 12 championship game. They just have to win Saturday. No. 17 Colorado (7-3, 5-1 Big 12) clinches the North division title and a spot in the Dec. 7 championship game with a win at home this weekend over Iowa State (7-4, 4-3), which has struggled since a 6-1 start. "Right now, we are in control of our own destiny. We know we have a lot of work ahead of us," said Buffaloes coach Gary Barnett. "This is a good challenge that we have worked hard to get to."

The South division is far from settled after Texas A&M's 30-26 upset last weekend over Oklahoma, which dropped the Sooners out of the No. 1 spots in the Bowl Championship Series standings. In other Big 12 games Saturday, No. 4 Oklahoma (8-1, 4-1) plays at Baylor (3-7, 1-5); also ranked No. 4 Texas (9-1, 5-1) goes to Texas Tech (7-4, 4-2); No. 11 Kansas State (8-2, 4-2) is home against Nebraska (7-4, 3-3); Missouri (4-6, 1-5) is at Texas A&M (6-4, 3-3); and Kansas (2-9, 0-7) is home against Oklahoma State (4-5, 2-3). Iowa State (7-4, 4-3) has gone from its first Top 10 ranking ever to losing three of four games, including losses of 49-3 to Oklahoma and 58-7 last weekend to Kansas State. The Cyclones are playing their Big 12 finale. Colorado, meanwhile, has won six of its last seven games, the only loss being to Oklahoma. Last year, Colorado didn't clinch the North division title until its 62-36 win over Nebraska in the final game of the regular season. The Buffs' only game after Saturday is the day after Thanksgiving against the Cornhuskers. Oklahoma should have no problem bouncing back against Baylor. Baylor is coming off its fourth shutout loss of the season, 41-0 at Texas, and in its series against Oklahoma has lost all 11 games, the last three by an average of 37 points. The Sooners are five-touchdown favorites. Texas has won four straight games since its loss to Oklahoma. That has kept the Longhorns in contention for the South title and a possible BCS bowl, but they can't afford to slip up at Texas Tech. Red Raiders quarterback Kliff Kingsbury leads the Big 12 in passing with 362 yards per game and 35 touchdowns. He's spread the ball around to 20 different receivers and even threw a pass to himself when a ball got deflected off a player and came back to him. Reggie McNeal took over as the A&M starter after coming off the bench to throw for 191 yards and four touchdowns and run for 89 yards against Oklahoma. Missouri's Brad Smith is just 95 rushing yards shy of becoming only the second player in Division I-A history to throw for 2,000 yards and rush for 1,000 yards in the same season. Kansas State and Nebraska play for the 81st straight time in an 86-game series that the Cornhuskers have dominated by a 72-12-2 margin. This is the last chance this year for Kansas to get a Big 12 victory, as the Jayhawks play their conference finale against Oklahoma State.

Greer played in a career-low 51 games last season, after playing just 62 games in 2001 and 105 in 2000. He had averaged 146 games a year from 1995-99. With rehabilitation, the Rangers are hoping Greer can return in 2004.

Rangers' Greer will miss 2003 season

ARLINGTON (AP) — Texas outfielder Rusty Greer knows he will miss the 2003 season after four off-season operations, but he doesn't believe it means the end of his career. Greer is scheduled to undergo rotator cuff surgery Wednesday. He also faces surgery in the upcoming months to clean torn cartilage from his right knee, surgery on his right hip and a ligament transplant in his left elbow that alone requires at least a year of recovery. "For me, I've had enough time to mentally accept that I have to have this surgery and miss next season and it will be a long haul to get better," Greer said Thursday. "If everything goes right and goes well, I should get better and be able to play tives — will be stopping the Raider ground game. Randall has three backs, including tailbacks Kiel Anderson and Anoe Sisomsouk and fullback Chris Hilleary, who have rushed for more than 500 yards this fall.

Anderson is the team's top rusher, despite missing several games due to a dislocated hip he suffered in the Raiders' only loss, a 32-21 setback to Pampa. For the year, Anderson has racked up 621 yards on 87 carries.

Last week against Dumas, Anderson rushed for 120 yards in the Raiders' 40-10 win.

Sisomsouk, a speedy 5-foot, 128-pounder, has rushed for 524 yards this year. Hilleary has gained 563 yards and scored 11 times.

Big Spring and Randall have faired roughly the same against their three common opponents in Hereford, Plainview and Lubbock Estacado. The Steers defeated Hereford, 35-20, and claimed wifs of 34-29 over Plainview and 47-12 over Estacado. The Raiders beat Hereford 36-19; downed Estacado 41-26 and defeated Plainview 40-14.

The Steers aren't unfamiliar with the Raiders. The two teams have faced each other twice before in the playoffs, meeting in 1997 — Randall's last trip to the postseason — in the Division II regional semifinals and in 1994 in the Area round. Canyon won both meetings.

Paced by quarterback Ty Means, the Eagles have rolled up 612 points this year.

Means, the son of former Melrose, NM, head coach Dale Means, has completed 40 of 66 passing attempts for 759 yards and 17 touchdowns — 602 of those yards have come from Dayton Scott, a speedy receiver who has scored 11 times this fall. Means has thrown just one interception.

The Eagles have a two-headed rushing attack keyed by Hays Roberts and Andy Martinez. Roberts has rushed for 756 yards and 19 scores. Martinez has rolled up 664 yards and 17 TDs.

Defensively, Sanderson is led by linebacker Paul Green and ends Eric Sanchez and Andre Anaya. Sanchez and Green have both recorded more than 80 tackles this year. Anaya has recovered seven fumbles.

The Coyotes, the District 5 runner-up, will be led into the game by running backs T.J. Sharp and Derrick Rodriguez. Sharp rushed for 1,242 yards and 19 touchdowns this year on just 119 attempts. Rodriguez gained 660 yards and nine TDs on 73 attempts.

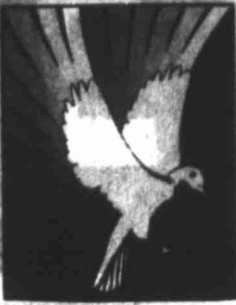

Defensively, the Coyotes have a trio of solid players, including Sharp (112 tackles) and end Andy Lozano (105) and Raul Rodriguez (103). Brionne Jackson keys the BCHS offense at quarterback. This fall, he has completed 35-of-82 attempts for 528 yards and eight TDs.
