"We have some beautiful iron works over here," she said. "We have a gentleman who has made iron crosses, barbecue pits, wall sconces, a variety of metal works. We have handmade wood planters with silk flower arrangement in them."

The annual event draws about 300 to 500 people on average to the retirement home, located at 1700 Lancaster St.

"If you want a unique gift for Christmas, Canterbury is the place to come," Edwards said.

The Heritage Museum's new exhibit, "Cozy Christmas Past," aims at celebrating the warm feelings of the holiday season by remembering Christmases of the past.

"We have lots of little displays of all types of toys," said museum Curator Tammy Schrecengost.

"We have a Magic Chef Oven from the 1940s. We have a Dale Evans and Roy Rogers tea set. Several of the display items come from the Terrazas collection. And from the Ed Fisher collection, we have his first fire truck that's from the Big Spring man pleads guilty to robbing area postal office

By ROGER CLINE

Staff Writer

A Big Spring man suspected of several robberies in Big Spring and Odessa pleaded guilty in federal court Tuesday to robbing a postal facility.

William Edmond Gossett, 26, appeared before U.S. Magistrate Judge L. Stuart Platt Tuesday and admitted that he used a 9mm semi-automatic pistol to rob Petal Pushers florist in Odessa on June 18. Petal Pushers also serves as a contract post office, and part of the money stolen in the incident was post office money.

Gossett faces a possible term of seven years in federal prison on the charge of "using a

Thanks to a donation, the Big Spring Rotary Club will be able to mount new brackets on the poles that line Gregg Street and continue a patriotic tradition.

New regulations would have kept the club from mounting the 100 U.S. flags that decorate the street on special occasions.

With help from Wal-Mart manager and Rotarian Daryl Holley, Wal-Mart donated $750 to help pay for new brackets and their placement.

"We are in the process of cutting the metal for brackets," said Tony Medelin, Rotary community service chair. "Southwest Steel has donated the metal and the inmates at Cornell Corrections are welding the brackets."

The brackets currently being used are placed at 10 feet high, a potential problem for large vehicles like semi-trailers, and many of the brackets are welded to the poles.

The new holders will come with a metal strip to allow for

Craddick says he's misunderstood

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Tom Craddick, who's poised to become the next Texas House speaker, said Tuesday that allegations that he pushed legislation to qualify his then-lobbyist daughter for state health insurance are false.

Sheila Beckett, executive director of the Employees Retirement System of Texas, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that Craddick initiated a 1997 rule that allows children of state employees to continue receiving state insurance until they marry, no matter how old they are.

"I was assuming he was concerned about the continuing insurance coverage for his daughter," Beckett said.

But Craddick, R-Midland, told The Associated Press in an interview Tuesday that he never spoke with Beckett or the bill's sponsor about it.

"I had nothing to do with that. Period," Craddick said.

Mexican inmates make goods for Texas

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — Prison officials in northern Mexico say their inmates are manufacturing furniture bound for Texas — despite U.S. laws that ban the importation of goods made with prison labor.

And they'd like to contract with more American companies to produce all kinds of goods. One official said prison shops would even label their products to hide their origin.

Prison officials in Mexico's northern states are pointing to inmate workshops as a way to stem the loss of business as foreign-owned assembly plants abandon the border zone in search of cheaper labor in Asia. Convicts already do work for Mexican companies.

But prison labor is strongly criticized around the globe on the grounds it undercuts unions, steals jobs from law-abiding workers and poses risks of human rights abuses. Many countries, like the United States, bar imports of products made by prisoners.

American al-Qaida can be killed by CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — American citizens working for al-Qaida overseas can legally be targeted and killed by the CIA under President Bush's rules for the war on terrorism, U.S. officials say.

The authority to kill U.S. citizens is granted under a secret finding signed by the president after the Sept. 11 attacks that directs the CIA to covertly attack al-Qaida anywhere in the world. The authority makes no exception for Americans, so permission to strike them is understood rather than specifically described, officials said.

These officials said the authority will be used only when other options are unavailable. Military-like strikes will take place only when law enforcement and internal security efforts by allied foreign countries fail, the officials said.

Gossett was arrested in Big Spring by local police June 20 as part of an inter-agency effort with the Ector County Sheriff's Office.

Gossett is also suspected of robbing the Spanish Shield Liquor Store in Odessa and the North Side Laundry and Lone Star Pawn Shop in Big Spring.

In the first robbery of the four on May 19, clerks at the laundry said two black men, both 15 to 17 years old, entered the store and demanded money. One clerk was beaten and slightly injured in the robbery in which about $250 cash was reportedly taken.

Lone Star Pawn Shop in the 1600 block of Marcy in Big Spring was robbed about 10:30 a.m. June 10. According to reports, he was armed with a knife, and stole about 10 handguns, including a $5,000 blue Colt ACP Commemorative. Also taken were a shotgun, miscellaneous jewelry and about $1,100 in cash.

Petal Pushers, located in the 1100 block of West University in Odessa, was robbed at about 5 p.m. June 16. The suspect reportedly stole money from two cash registers at the store.

The Spanish Shield robbery occurred at about 9 p.m. June 19. The clerk also said that the robber wielded a small black semi-automatic handgun, and stole cash and several bottles of Crown Royal whiskey.

The case was investigated by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the Big Spring Police Department, the Odessa Police Department and the Odessa County Sheriff's Office.

Neugebauer said he has an idea what area residents want and don't want from government.

"You don't want taxes and regulations that harm families and individuals and you want to permanently eliminate the death tax," he said. "You don't want a government that attacks traditional family values. You want education decisions to be made in your communities, in the school districts and at the state level. You don't want a lot of mandates from Washington D.C. You want a government that honors its commitments to our senior citizens, to our veterans and to our disabled Americans. You want a government that understands the importance of the commodities that are produced in this area and in this region. And you want a strong national defense, and now we want a strong homeland defense."

Neugebauer is president and CEO of the Lubbock Land Company, a residential and commercial land development company, which he founded in 1987. In 1992, he was elected to the Lubbock City Council and served as mayor from 1994 to 1996. In his city government capacity, he worked to save Reese Air Force Base from closure.

Currently, Neugebauer serves as chairman of the policy advisory committee for the Metropolitan Planning Organization. He graduated from Texas Tech University in 1972 with a bachelor of business administration degree in accounting.

Other people who have announced candidacy for the position include State Rep. Carl Isett of Lubbock, former Lubbock County Judge Don McBeath, former Lubbock County Court-at-Law Judge Will Dodson and businessmen Bobby Burns of Midland and Bob Barnes of Odessa.

A number of potential candidates from Lubbock, Midland and Odessa have also expressed interest in the job, but the only other person to officially file his candidacy is Libertarian Larry Johnson, who lost the seat to Combest by a wide margin in November's general election.

Doll auction and luncheon is set for Thursday

Thursday brings an opportunity to purchase some unique gifts and help a charitable cause at the same time — all while having some fun and enjoying a good meal.

It's the Salvation Army doll festival auction, scheduled for noon at First United Methodist Church's Garrett Hall. Nineteen dolls will be auctioned.

If you haven't seen any of these dolls, we promise you'll be impressed. Each year, individuals and groups volunteer to take one or more dolls and dress them up in various costumes at their own time and expense.

The creativity shown by those dressing the dolls is amazing. Many costumes are intricate, with accessories down to the final detail. They range from casual dress to formal, and everything in between.

Funds raised from the auction go to purchase gifts for needy children at Christmastime. You can help in that worthwhile endeavor by participating in the auction.

The auction is the important part of Thursday's event, of course, but those who attend are also promised a great meal and an equally great price.

The luncheon is $5 in advance and $6 at the door and will feature pot roast, baked potatoes, green beans, salad and tea, as well as cake for dessert. For more information or to purchase advance tickets, call 267-8239.

We hope you will take time to attend Thursday's auction. It's set during most peoples' lunch hour to make it more convenient.

Come and enjoy the fun and help brighten the eyes and smiles of some of our community's children this Christmas season.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

Dear Lord, thank you for washing away our sins and giving us a fresh start. Amen

Deforming the efforts to control drugs

The War on Drugs is ripping up the Constitution, endangering American liberty and encouraging law enforcement officers to act like bandits. The unpleasant ramifications of the War on Drugs are too numerous for one column, but the area of asset forfeiture deserves special consideration.

MOLLY IVINS

— On Oct. 2, 1992, a team of officers from the Los Angeles police, the Park Service, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Forest Service, the California National Guard and the California Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement staged a raid on the home of Donald Scott, a 61-year-old rancher, near Malibu. Armed with high-powered weapons, flak jackets, a battering ram and a presumably legal search warrant, they kicked in the door and rushed through the house. Scott's wife began screaming; he went to her side with a gun and was shot to death before her eyes.

The officers found no marijuana plants, other drugs or paraphernalia. It turned out that Scott was bitterly opposed to all drug use.

According to The Nation

magazine, a subsequent investigation revealed that there was no credible evidence of marijuana cultivation on Scott's ranch, that the Sheriff's Department had knowingly sought the search warrant on legally insufficient information, and that much of the information supporting the warrant was false, while exculpatory evidence was withheld from the judge. As they invaded the property, the officers — with two forfeiture specialists in tow — had a property appraisal of Scott's $5 million ranch and instructions to seize the ranch if 14 marijuana plants were found.

— In a much-noted case, a Detroit woman had her car seized after her husband was found using it to dally with a prostitute. The Supreme Court upheld the forfeiture, even though the woman was clearly not involved in her husband's illegal activity.

— A 72-year-old grandmother in Washington, D.C., lost her home after letting a nephew, who was suspected of drug dealing, stay there overnight.

— The owner of an air-charter business in Las Vegas lost his livelihood when he unknowingly chartered a plane to a drug dealer.

— Several years ago, NBC's "Dateline" did a prize-winning expose of the practice of Louisiana sheriff's deputies stopping motorists with little or no cause and seizing cars and cash under the state's forfeiture laws. The deputies started a slush fund with the money. According to "Dateline," deputies used the fund to pay for a ski trip, pizza and doughnuts; thousands of dollars were unaccounted for.

According to the Wisconsin State Journal, all this started in 1984, when Congress passed the Comprehensive Crime Control Act, which allowed drug money and "drug-related assets" to be funneled into the police agencies that seize them. Between 1985 and 1991, the Justice Department collected more than $1.5 billion in illegal assets; in the next five years, it almost doubled this intake, according to a report by The Nation. Local law enforcement agencies fight to "federalize" their drug busts because if a U.S. attorney "adopts" a forfeiture, 80 percent of the assets are returned to local police, whereas under many state laws, forfeited assets go to school funds, libraries, drug education or other programs. According to The Nation, some small-town police forces have increased their budgets by a factor of five or more through seizing assets.

This is also deforming the efforts to control drugs; police forces can get far more money by busting small-time marijuana buyers in reverse stings (where the cops sell drugs to unsuspecting customers) and then seizing their assets than they can by, say, going after major methamphetamine dealers who work on street corners.

This entire practice is rapidly becoming worse and worse, causing more and more injustice, police lawlessness and distorted law enforcement priorities. This is one of those times when the right and the left can unite in opposition to government abuse. The American Civil Liberties Union and the National Rifle Association have opposed these practices. Rep. Barney Frank, the liberal Democrat, and Rep. Bob Barr, the conservative Republican, both support reform. The Wall Street Journal is as concerned as The Nation. Surely the property-rights people, who seem to consider the Endangered Species Act a threat to liberty, would like to join the ACLU on this one.

The political problem is that we have created a monster. Law enforcement just loves asset-forfeiture laws; agencies have practically become self-financing through these abuses. And when the coppers of the nation stand in unison and say, "We need this for law 'n' order," mighty few politicians are willing to go against them. (Envision the ads in their re-election campaigns: "My opponent sided with the drug dealers and against the police officers of our fair state.")

The only way to get the politicians to undo what they have done is to build public pressure to stop this outrageous practice. Take pen in hand ...

A true Christmas story

She walked with a limp. The tired old lady had three offspring, two daughters and a son. The son had not been home for twenty years. He was a cab driver in a large city.

Her three children had fought each other for most of their lives. While they were growing up, the older daughter and the son ganged up on the younger girl. They locked her in closets, told her she was adopted and would seldom let her hang out with them.

One day the older daughter was talking to her mother and asked her what she wanted for Christmas. "I'd just love to have my three children here in my house for Christmas dinner and not be fussing," the mother replied.

One day the son, while driving his cab, saw a woman walking with a limp, crossing the street in front of his cab. She had trouble getting up on the curb, so he got out and helped her. He stood beside his cab and watched her walk slowly and surely painfully down the sidewalk. His eyes followed her for a long while, long enough for traffic to back up behind him. Some irate drivers let him know what they thought about him just standing there in the middle of the street. Several horns honked.

He watched her until she disappeared. He remembers seeing her, then not seeing her. She just vanished. Faded out of sight. He got back in his cab and drove straight to his mother's house, 200 miles away. It was Christmas Eve. He got home to find his two sisters there along with his mother, who was ailing. The meal was a success.

The three children hugged each other, talked about the past, laughed with their mother and had a good time. There was no fussing. The son gave his mother his telephone number. After the dinner, the three returned to their homes.

The next day the mother died. One of the sisters found the brother's telephone number and he was able to get home to help his sisters bury their mother.

The son said he thought the woman who limped across the street in front of his cab was an angel.

The three are no longer estranged. They call each other frequently and talk in loving terms about their mother and growing up together. They joke about some of the childhood pranks.

And the brother remembers that angel.

Fast paced thrillers to good, gentle reads featured at library

If you like fast paced political thrillers, then I feel sure you will like "The Price of Power" by James W. Huston. The sequel to "Balance of Power" interweaves three plots: the court-martial of Admiral Ray Billings for disobeying the president's orders to ignore a congressional Letter of Marque and Reprisal, the attempted impeachment of President Manchester on the grounds of being unfit for office because of his pacifist Mennonite beliefs, and the deployment of SEALs to deal with further terrorist acts by the Indonesian who calls himself George Washington.

The legal intrigues are much the strongest elements of the book, and Jim Dillon and Molly Vaughan, the champions of Admiral Billings, are much the most interesting characters in it. Huston is a former Top Gun and lawyer and lives in Southern California. The Library does not have the first book "Balance of Power," but does have "Shadows of Power" and "Fallout" by the same author.

Published in 2000, "True at First Light" is Ernest Hemingway's final posthumous work. Edited by son Patrick, the book bears the rather awkward designation "a fictional memoir" and arrives under a cloud of controversial editing and patching — but all of that ends up being beside the point. Though this account of a 1953 safari in Kenya lacks the resolution and clarity of the best Hemingway it remains true to how he lived and wrote.

In "True at First Light," the glory days of the "great white hunters" are over and the Mau Mau rebellion is violently dislodging European farmers from Kenya's arable lands. But to the African gun bearers, drivers and game scouts who run his safari in the shadow of Mount Kilimanjaro, Hemingway remains a lordly figure — almost a god. This is the story of his last safari, and as usual with Hemingway, atmosphere and attitude are far more important than plot. There are roughly written accounts and occasional lapses into self-indulgent posturing. Nevertheless, it remains quintessentially Hemingway.

Where is Howard Cosell when you need him? He certainly isn't on NFL Today or those puerile ESPN sport shows. Who we — sorry my diatribe against asinine television sports writers got out of hand! Dan Jenkins, author of "Semi-Tough," and "Dead Solid Perfect" has been one of my favorite authors. "You Gotta Play Hurt" (sounds like something Spike Dykes would say), is Jenkins's farewell salute to big-time sports writing. It is a tell-all novel that deflates the hype around each and every event, from the Olympics to the Kentucky Derby to Wimbledon.

One of Jenkins's enduring creations, Jim Tom is seemingly the author's alter ego, aging rancorously and sparing no one in his writing. He's fighting a hopeless rear-guard action against journalism's overall decline into Time-Warner-like synergistic mediocrity, juggling three ex-wives and a wastrel son, and dealing with two younger, lovely, sports-talking, worshipful writers who are both in love with his decaying carcass.

It is pretty raunchy in places, but golly, it is funny.

Margaritaville may not appear on a map, but it does exist — at least in the brilliantly creative, sometimes slightly skewed imagination of Jimmy Buffett. "Tales from Margaritaville" (813.54 BUFF J) is a collection of short stories (some purely fiction, some based in truth) so vividly packed with restless dreamers, wild wanderers, and pure gypsy souls that just reading it is an adventure. Travel along with a cowboy named Tully Mars, as he heads from Heartache, Wyoming, to Graceland, and relive the autobiographical odyssey of a third-generation sailor and first-rate musical outlaw. Several of the stories I could see being optioned for a film. How about it, Jimmy?

Garrison Keillor is well known on National Public Radio for his stories from Lake Wobegone. In his second book, "We Are Still Married" (813.54 KEL G) he tells stories of loves fumbled and lost; life in the Indiana National Guard; and the perils of fame, death and traveling with teenagers.

A good, gentle read that will make you think about your own family life and how good it can be.

Robert Penn Warren is perhaps more well known for his fiction than for his poetry. Born in Guthrie, Kentucky, in 1905, he attended Vanderbilt University and performed graduate work at Yale and at Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar. He has been prolific with his writings while also having a career as a professor of English. In "New and Selected Poems, 1923-1985" (811.52 W255) you find a fine collection of his poetry from early in his writing career all the way through to his adulthood.

Do you need some authentic Texas writing for your out of state relatives? Or how about for yourself? On Tuesday, Dec. 17, from 2 until 4, Tumbleweed Smith will be at the Library with his new book "Under the Chinaberry Tree."

Please come and buy one and of course, he will be glad to personalize each copy sold.

It's time for new voices in Washington. Yours!

Dear Fellow West Texans,

You the people are the single reason our government exists. I want to earn your vote to represent you in the United States House of Representatives from the 19th District.

My priorities are a strong national defense, a growing economy, outstanding educational institutions, lower taxes, affordable medical care of the highest quality, and an increase in personal retirement income for all Americans.

- I believe the first priority of our federal government is to protect its citizens, our borders, and our national interests. I served as a major in the United States Air Force. I understand the politics, economics, and military capabilities of other nations and how they affect our national security and economy.

- My wife Jane and I operate my ancestral family farm. I understand agriculture and business. I understand energy production, including the oil and gas industry. Too many laws and bureaucratic regulations and special interest groups have hurt our economy, and I will seek relief from them.

- I will continue my efforts to bring high technology industries to West Texas and to accelerate the building of the Ports-to-Plains highway system. Jane and I have assisted in bringing the Vatican 2002 Exhibition to Lubbock, and I serve as the Liaison to the Vatican Exhibition Foundation.

- I understand the importance of education. I was the first in six generations of my family to proceed beyond an eighth grade education. I have been on the faculties of the University of Illinois, the University of Texas, the University of California, Tulane University, and the Texas Tech School of Medicine. I have helped to develop a program of international education for the kindergarten through 12th grade students of our region. I have taught eye surgery in India, Ghana, Japan, and Western Europe. During my travels, I have talked with political, military, agricultural, and industrial leaders, in addition to medical and scientific leaders.

- The enormous tax burden on the typical American family forces both parents to work. Permanent tax reduction is needed.

- Medical care in the United States is second to none. Canadians and people from other countries worldwide come at their own expense to the United States for medical care. However, excessive government laws and bureaucratic regulations, special interest groups, and unwarranted lawsuits have escalated our medical costs, including the cost of prescription drugs, beyond the ability of many Americans to pay. We cannot wait until the wheels fall off our medical system. I understand the problems and have the courage to address them, and I will work with others to solve these problems.

- Social Security payments are too low. If Social Security taxes were deposited in United States Treasury securities instead of being spent by the politicians, Social Security payments would more than double.

Fourteen years ago my wife Jane and I decided to live in West Texas. We stayed because of the values, integrity, and self-reliance of the West Texas people. These are the values that I will take to Washington.

You can expect me to be a voice for our entire district and for each of you. You can expect me to have an open door for you and to have your questions answered and your concerns addressed. You will hear from me on a regular basis. You will have scheduled meetings with me in your home area of our district.

You will receive factual information and honest answers from me. I will work hard for you. I will be fully accountable to you.

Thank you for your support and for your prayers. God bless you, and God bless America.

Hawks climb to No. 12 in NJCAA national rankings

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

The Howard College Hawks are finding their 12-0 start is turning more than a few heads as they head into December. The team climbed into the top 15 nationally in the latest junior college poll.

The Hawks, who dispatched Hill College Monday night to remain unbeaten, are currently rated No. 12 in the National Junior College Athletic Association's men's Division I poll. They had entered the poll last week at No. 16.

"Right now, we're just trying to focus on winning games," said Hawks head coach Chris Jans prior to his team's 87-70 win over Hill in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Currently, the Hawks are the second-highest rated Texas team in the poll. Lon Morris College is rated No. 2 overall with an 11-0 record. Lon Morris is located in Jacksonville, just east of Dallas.

Okaloosa-Walton Community College debuted as the NJCAA's new No. 1 team when the poll was published on Tuesday. The Niceville, Fla., squad collected 10 of the 16 first-place votes cast.

Barton Co. Community College fell from the top spot following a loss last week. Barton Co., now 11-1 overall, fell to fourth in the rankings. Dixie State College of Utah also felt the sting of defeat, falling from third overall to No. 8.

Following Okaloosa-Walton Community College in the standings are Lon Morris and Southeastern Community College, which moved up two spots to No. 3 after improving to 10-0.

Barton County, which is located in Great Bend, Kan., and Southeastern Illinois

Community College round out the NJCAA top five, while College of Southern Idaho (10-0), Schoolcraft College (12-0), Dixie State (10-1), Sheridan College (10-0) and Three Rivers Community College (8-1) finished the top 10.

Jackson State Community College (8-0) and Howard College just missed the Top 10. Howard racked up 24 points in the poll — seven fewer than Three Rivers.

Lady Steers stuff Lamesa

Braxton sinks six 3-pointers in 57-42 victory

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

Leina Braxton scored a game-high 28 points and helped lead the Big Spring Lady Steers to a rousing 57-42 victory over the Lamesa Lady Tors Tuesday night.

With the win, the Lady Steers improved to 4-1 on the year and head into Thursday's opening round of the Concho River Invitational riding the crest of a three-game win streak.

Braxton powered the Lady Steers' win from the outside. She sank a season-high six 3-pointers in the second half to spark a 35-24 run that all but buried Lamesa.

Neither team managed to get its offensive game untracked in the early minutes of the non-district matchup. The Lady Steers outscored the Lady Tors by a slim 9-6 clip in the first period.

Lamesa, despite six points from LaKenya Wrightsil, cut Big Spring's lead to four, at 22-18, at the half with a 13-12 run in the second.

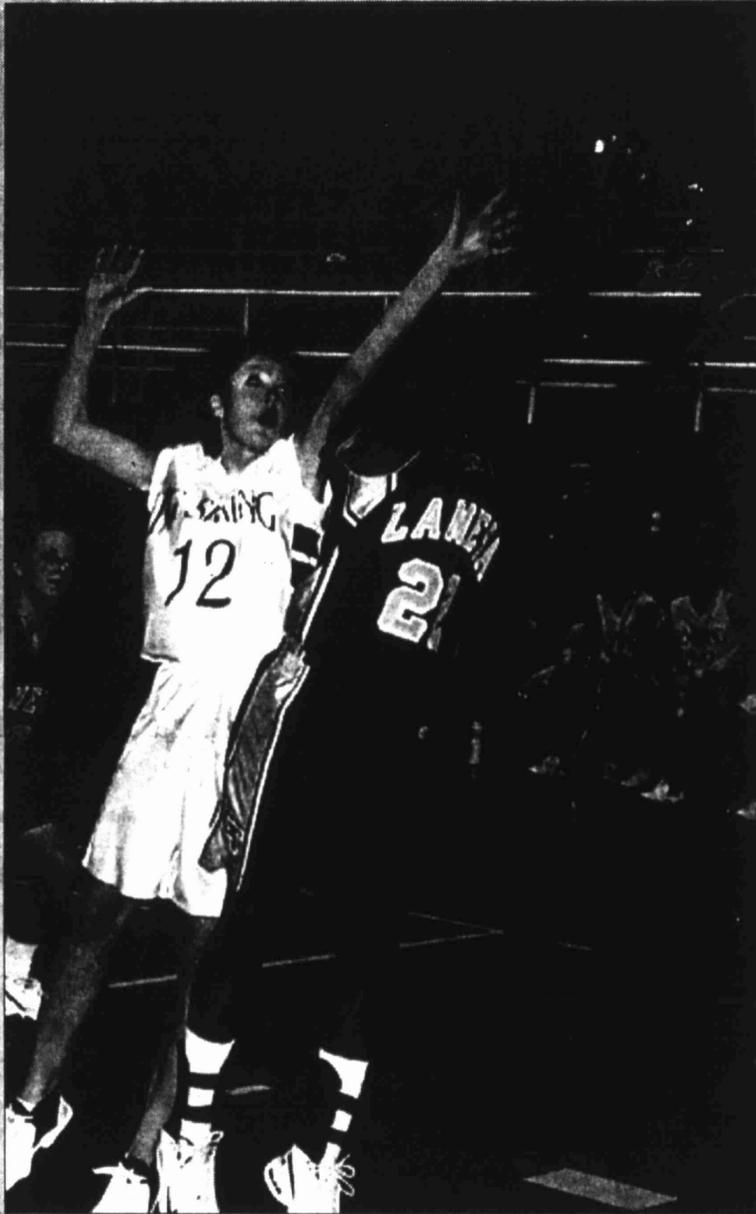

Lamesa pulled to within 22-22 early in the third before Braxton slammed the door. She sank back-to-back 3-pointers within a 37-second span to ignite a 10-0 BSHS run. Braxton, who finished the third quarter with 11 of her team-high total, scored eight of the Lady Steers' points in the run. Krystle Long added the only other points, sinking a 6-foot jumper from the baseline.

Big Spring, which sank 12 of its 20 free throw attempts, reeled off an 18-9 run in the third and took a 40-27 lead into the fourth quarter.

Braxton didn't ease up any in the final eight minutes. She pushed home three more 3-point shots in the fourth and helped the BSHS girls fend off a 15-point surge from Lamesa, which connected on just 19 of 34 free throws.

Wrightsil also hit double figures offensively, finishing with 11 points. Alex Watkins, who hit on three of five attempts from the free throw line in the fourth, chalked up nine.

Long contributed four points, Courtney Brock and Lindsay Phillips added three and two, respectively.

Big Spring's Shannon Higgins battles a Lamesa player for a loose ball during the third quarter of the Lady Steers' 57-42 win Tuesday night in the Steer Gym. The win improved Big Spring to 4-1 on the season.

Lamesa extends JV's slump to six

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

Free throws were anything but free for the Big Spring Lady Steers junior varsity Tuesday night.

Big Spring made just 11 of 28 attempts from the charity stripe and watched on as the Lamesa Lady Tors scored a 17-9 run in the fourth quarter Tuesday and rolled to a 47-41 come-from-behind win.

With the setback, the Lady Steers fell to 0-6.

Big Spring held its own early in the contest. The Lady Steers, anchored by a 3-point shot from Heather Vassar, managed to battle to an 11-11 draw at the end of the first quarter.

Lamesa, which sank just 18-of-45 free throws, posted a slim 13-12 advantage in the second and led the Lady Tors to a 24-23 halftime cushion.

Esha Ward took the smiles of the Lamesa faces in the third, however. She poured in six of her team-high 14 points in the frame and helped Big Spring run to a 32-30 lead at the start of the fourth quarter.

Cycelye Tuitt also scored for the Lady Steers in the third, pumping in three of her nine points.

Ashley Hodge also turned in a solid effort, scoring seven points. Vassar finished with five while Jessi Tipton and Jeaneane Richard added four and two, respectively.

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes pounded out a 13-0 run to open up the game and never looked back Tuesday night against the Water Valley Wildcats.

The Buffaloes, en route to a lop-sided 90-24 win in front of a vocal home crowd, had five players reach double-digits and had every member of the team to hit the score sheet.

Brent Huff, who had a game high 19 points on 8-of-12 shooting performance from the floor, Forsan exploded early. The Buffs rushed out to a 31-6 lead after one period.

Matt Ellis hit two 3-pointers en route to his 13 points. Ryan Sayles and Wes Longorio scored 11 each.

Trey Kuykendall, Josh Helmstetler and "Auggy" Hilario keyed the FHS defense. The trio came up with 12 steals.

The Buffalo trio also aided Forsan offensively, scoring 24 points. Helmstetler led the three in scoring with 10. Kuykendall added eight while Hilario chipped in six.

Brandon Burleson also contributed four points in the victory.

With the win, FHS moves to 5-1 on the season. They will return to action tomorrow at 11 am when they meet Post in the first round of the Borden Co. Coyote Christmas Tournament.

Earlier in the night, the Forsan JV team rolled to a 46-11 win over Water Valley.

Leading the Buffalo stampede were Johnathan Wright and Ben Bryman with 12 and eight points, respectively. Travis Rose and Jeremy Bedwell contributed six points apiece while Clay Vickers tallied five.

Clay Kuykendall and Michael Paradez sparked the defense coming up with five steals apiece.

The Forsan Lady Buffaloes also came away with a win, claiming a 51-38 victory over WVHS.

Cassi Graves lead the Lady Buffs in scoring with 13 points. Krista Gamble and Audra Bailey both hit 3-pointers while contributing six and seven points, respectively.

Misty McGuire also aided the FHS effort, scoring eight. Cynthia Becerra, Codye Burt, Ledawn Burt and Staci Borel all finished with four points, while Jaclyn Hise, Ashley Pierce, and Lyndsey Allen contributed valuable minutes off the bench.

The Forsan JV girls game went into overtime before Water Valley earned a 27-25 win.

Stephanie Whetsel scored six points while Shiloh Sanders poured in five. Lacy Eggleston, Kalea Robbins and Haylea Belew each scored four and Kimmy Berry pushed in two in the contest.

Cory Mulkey poured in 20 points and Sam Tindol added 15 more Tuesday night and helped carry the Coahoma bulldogs to a 66-40 win over the Borden County Coyotes.

With the win, the Bulldogs posted their second win over Borden Co. in the last 14 days. They also improved to 4-2 on the year.

Coahoma, which had three players finish in double figures, took complete control in the first quarter. The Bulldogs outscored Borden Co. by a staggering 21-6 clip in the first eight minutes and never looked back.

The Coyotes, who fell to 2-2 overall, rallied back a bit in the second. Talin Pepper sparked a 21-17 run that sent the Coyotes into the half trailing by a 38-27 margin.

Pepper finished the game with a team-high 11 points.

Coahoma, which is scheduled to meet Seminole JV in the first round of the Coahoma Invitational Basketball Tournament Thursday evening, sealed the win with a 28-13 spree in the second half.

Toby Jackson finished the game with 11 points.

Horoscope

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Wednesday, Dec. 4, 2002:

Count on this year being significant. A solar eclipse today spells a change in how you express yourself professionally. You will be encouraged to be more authentic. What occurs will help you mold your lifestyle to your explicit needs. You will be given the gifts of detachment and understanding to help you wade through any clouds on the horizon. Many will decide to go back to school for more training in their fields, adding to job possibilities. Know that because of your strong personality and unusual insight, you'll gain. If you are single, you will meet someone who really could have a stunning impact on your life and your perspective. Be open to possibilities. If you are attached, your relationship will develop if you share more of your internal conflicts. Don't let a rift become a huge crevice. SAGITTARIUS could be unpredictable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  A strange happening might stop you in your tracks. Someone you count on could reveal a completely different side in the next few weeks. Use your creativity to fill in the gaps, where some information might be obscure. Tonight: Put on a favorite piece of music.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  You might count on a partner or associate way too much, as the next few weeks could reveal. You have the know-how and energy to get through a problem. Start by listing your emotional and professional assets. See how much you have to offer! Tonight: Accept a fun invitation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  Clearly, others reveal a lot about who they are and where they are coming from. You might need and/or want to step back to get a clearer view of the big picture. Reach out to others. Refuse to stand on ceremony. Tonight: Go along with others' plans.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Don't count on funds that might not have arrived just yet. Meanwhile, a work-related project could be up for some changes. Understand that ultimately, your success will be ensured by the tightening up of plans. Tonight: Chat and relax.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  You could be a little off, as Jupiter goes retrograde in your sign today. Relax and see what comes up. Perhaps something you didn't anticipate will come forward. Even if it seems like a problem, it could ultimately prevent a bigger problem. Use your creativity. Tonight: Be imaginative.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  You might sense a change in the wind. You could be most uncomfortable with developments. Just relax and remain secure. You have much more talent and ability than you might be aware of. Speak directly with family or a roommate. Tonight: You don't have to go far.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  Your efforts do count, as you shall see. Friends seek you out. One person who might have been very secure suddenly seems less steady. Be sensitive to this person's request. Could you perhaps have been callous or taken someone for granted? Tonight: Make amends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Financial matters shift in the next few weeks. You gain a different perspective, as a result. You might want to put in some overtime as protection. Discussions revolving around funds shed light on other ideas. Don't take what is happening personally. Tonight: Pay bills.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  You might be off-kilter. Recognize this change rather than making assumptions. Your creativity and ability to detach help you through any problem. Curb your fiery intensity rather than jumping into the middle of a fire, so to speak. Tonight: Visit with a favorite person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Don't take a partnership for granted. You might find someone close to be a bit touchy or unpredictable in the near future. You could discover that a friend or loved one needs extra care. Think through how you spend your time. Tonight: Do something for yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  Though many might not be able to handle unpredictability, it is certainly your specialty. Friends could reverse their tracks, forging a new trail. Understand that someone might suddenly realize what he or she has done. Tonight: Whatever would make you happy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  A boss could become difficult. Step out in a new direction. Decide what you need in order to make you feel good. If you have too much work dropping in your lap, say so. Others need to hear more about your needs. Listen to what someone says, but know that you don't have to accept what you hear. Tonight: A must appearance.

Brother shouldn't have to pay for sister's party

Dear Annie: My parents recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, and my two sisters planned a party for them. They chose the date, location, food, decorations and guest list. I received an invitation, just like everyone else. I rearranged my work schedule, had the children take time off from school and drove 150 miles to attend the party. I also bought a gift for my parents, something I thought would be memorable and personal. When I told my sister how nice the party was, she replied, "Glad you enjoyed it. You'll be getting a bill." Am I obligated to pay this bill? My children said I should throw it in the garbage. I barely make enough to pay my own expenses. I certainly don't have the money for a party in which I had no involvement. — Left Out in North Carolina

Dear Left Out: Since you were not told in advance that you were expected to contribute, nor did you have any say in deciding how much to spend, you are under no obligation to pay the bill. Don't wait until it arrives in the mail. Phone your sisters, and tell them you already gave a gift to your parents. Let them know the party was lovely, but you assumed you were a guest, not one of the hosts. If they thought otherwise, they should have notified you ahead of time and asked if you were interested in participating.

AT THE TABLE:

When winter's chill arrives, it's nice to come home to soup

Nothing makes a house seem more like a home than delicious aromas coming from the kitchen. And nothing will bring family members to the dinner table more quickly.

For many busy families, dinner, not breakfast, has become the most important meal of the day. With the fast pace of life, time spent together at the table, or cooking in the kitchen, may be the only opportunity for married couples or parents and children to spend time with one another.

The problem is, with everyone so busy, who has time to cook? We all want meals that are healthy and great-tasting yet are easy and quick to prepare. But coming up with menus that meet these criteria can be challenging at best.

One great solution is soup. What better way for everyone to thaw out together after a long day than with a nice bowl of soup. But how do you get around the need to spend hours simmering broth and chopping vegetables? Simmer Soups, a line of all natural soup mixes made by Fantastic Foods, is one great option. Not only are the soups easy to prepare (just add water and simmer for 15 to 20 minutes), they are healthy and delicious. All flavors are completely vegetarian, low-fat and have a lower sodium content than most other soup mixes.

"It is the only major brand that is vegetarian and all natural," says Pauline Berry, marketing director at Fantastic Foods.

"There are no artificial ingredients or colors. When you read the label, you don't need a dictionary to understand what all the ingredients are," she adds.

Unlike many other instant soups, Simmer Soups mixes don't taste like a can. They manage to deliver a home-cooked taste and nutritional value at the same time.

"They taste like you spent all day making it, it's something you can feel good about serving to your family," says Berry.

So don't worry about having enough time to cook. Slow down and enjoy some family time over a nice bowl of soup and conversation with the ones you love!

Open Apricot Tart

Luscious dessert for the holidays without the guilt

The holidays are fast approaching and many of us will be hosting family and friends for celebratory feasts. Thoughts of all the delicious treats we will be serving — sugar cookies, sweet potato pie, stuffing and glazed ham — dance like visions of sugarplums in our heads. However, the dream is cut short by the mere thought of the "10 holiday pounds" that many of us acquire each winter.

Shortening or butter, which contain saturated fat, is the key ingredient that makes these tempting treats so rich and delicious. It's not an option to cut this out if you want your pie crust to be flaky and moist, or your sugar cookies to melt in your mouth.

But what about the long-term health risks of consuming fat laden goodies? The fat in foods contains a mixture of saturated, monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fatty acids.

Most products used for baking such as shortening, margarine and butter also contain a form of fat called trans fatty acids that have been shown to elevate blood levels of "bad" cholesterol.

Trans fatty acids or trans fats are created when vegetable oils are put through a hydrogenation process to make them solid or more stable. Trans fats are typically used in products such as commercially made, shelf-stable cookies and crackers, and are also found in most commercial shortening and margarine. When searching for trans fats in a product, the key ingredient to look for on the ingredient label is partially or fully hydrogenated oil.

According to the FDA, research suggests that those who eat high amounts of trans fatty acids are at greater risk for cardiovascular heart disease, the number one killer in the United States. The FDA is in the process of mandating trans fat labeling to help consumers easily recognize ingredients that may cause heart disease.

So how can you have your cake and eat it too? Don't give up the richness of holiday desserts. Instead of leaving out the shortening, shop for products that are trans fat free (look for the statement on they invite your crazy questions.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS"

If you attend any church on some regular basis, this invitation is not for you. But if Sunday mornings give you the "blahs," maybe the Episcopal faith offers something you've been missing. It is a bit different...and very personal.

You might enjoy learning the reasons behind some of the Episcopal ways of doing things. There'll never be a better opportunity than the next Inquirers' Class at the church near you. No one twists your arm to "join" anything, that's strictly up to you...only after you've heard the full story and both your head and heart say "Go!"

You'll find a group of people there who share your own feelings and doubts. Great time to join in asking that "Crazy Episcopal minister" some crazy questions.

Who knows? He may surprise you with some very sane answers...instead of "pie in the sky."

the label).
A good source for healthy holiday baking staples is Spectrum Organic Products. They make an organic shortening produced from organic palm oil that is trans fat free, cholesterol free and contains less saturated fat than butter. They also offer the only organic margarine available.

The following pie dough recipe, can be used for any dessert that calls for piecrust. It is tender, flaky, delicious and healthy.

Flaky Piecrust
Makes enough for a deep dish 10-inch pie or 10-inch open tart

- 2 cups organic unbleached, all purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon sea salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 cup trans fat free Spectrum Naturals Organic Shortening, chilled 1 hour in the refrigerator
- 6 to 7 tablespoons ice cold water

Measure the flour, salt, and baking powder into the bowl of a food processor fitted with a metal blade. Cover and pulse 5 times. Scoop out about 15 little pieces of the cold Spectrum Organic Shortening and scatter over the flour. Cover and pulse about 10 times until the mixture looks like coarse corn meal. Sprinkle cold water evenly over the mixture, cover and pulse 8 to 10 times until the mixture comes together. Open and squeeze the dough between your fingers; if it holds together it's ready. If it is too dry and crumbles, add another tablespoon of cold water, cover and pulse another 2 to 3 times.

Remove the dough from the processor and fold it over 2 to 3 times, kneading. Form into a 6 inch disc and wrap in plastic wrap. Refrigerate at least one hour until firm, or overnight.

Before rolling, temper at room temperature about 20 minutes, until it softens slightly. Dust a countertop lightly with flour. Unwrap the dough. Using a rolling pin lightly dusted with flour, whack the dough several times first in a horizontal, then in a vertical direction to form a circle. Then, roll the dough, adding a bit more flour if the dough sticks. Try not to add too much flour, or the dough will be dry.

For more information about Spectrum Organic Products, organic shortening and other organic and healthy, natural products go to www.spectrumorganic.com.

Open Apricot Tart
This easy-to-prepare tart will make a lovely presentation at your next dinner party. Serve it alone or with a scoop of your favorite frozen dessert. Mascarpone is a rich Italian cream cheese found in the supermarket cheese section.

Makes a 10-inch tart.
1 recipe for 10-inch deep dish piecrust dough
5 tablespoons mascarpone cheese

1/2 cup apricot preserves
1 organic egg, lightly beaten

1 teaspoon organic granulated cane sugar
Spectrum Canola Spray Oil

Roll out the crust dough on a lightly floured counter to form a 12-inch circle. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees. Spray a cookie sheet with Spectrum Canola Spray Oil. Carefully transfer the pie dough circle to the prepared cookie sheet. Using a rubber spatula, spread the mascarpone evenly over the inner 10-inches of the circle, leaving a 2-inch border; then spread the apricot preserves evenly over the mascarpone, leaving a 2-inch border around the preserves. Carefully lift the surrounding pie dough over the preserves, folding the dough as you lift. Don't worry about it being perfectly round, a free-form shape gives it an attractive, rustic appearance. Brush the beaten egg onto the crust that surrounds the preserves. Take care not to allow the egg to drip. Sprinkle the sugar evenly over the crust. Bake in the center of the preheated oven for about 25 minutes, until the crust is golden brown.

Maple Mascarpone Stuffed Pears

This elegant dessert will be a huge hit for your holiday entertaining.

- Serves 4
- 1/2 cup mascarpone cheese
- 3 tablespoons organic pure maple syrup
- 2 cups white grape juice
- 1/4 cup Spectrum Naturals Organic Golden Balsamic Vinegar

1 cinnamon stick
4 ripe Bartlett pears
Combine the mascarpone with one tablespoon of the maple syrup. Stir well to combine. Set aside. Measure the white grape juice, the remaining 2 tablespoons of maple syrup, and the vinegar into a pot deep and large enough to fit 4 pears upright. Add the cinnamon stick. Stir to combine. Cover and bring to a boil over high heat.

Meanwhile, peel the pears, then using a corer, core out the center seeds and stem. When the pot reaches a boil, stir in one tablespoon of the Mascarpone. Carefully lower each pear into the boiling liquid. Lower the heat to medium, cover and cook at a medium boil, using a spoon to occasionally baste the pears with the cooking liquid, for about 10 minutes, until fork tender.
