Iraqi forces surrender in north's biggest city

An Iraqi boy walks along with U.S. soldiers in Baghdad, raising his hands in victory.

The Associated Press

An entire army corps surrendered Friday in northern Iraq's largest city, leaving Saddam Hussein's hometown of Tikrit as the last major holdout of his regime.

The top U.S. commander, Gen. Tommy Franks, told his troops, "The Saddam regime has ended."

Mosul fell without bloodshed. American special forces and their Kurdish allies arrived in convoy of trucks and SUVs after accepting the surrender of the Iraqi army's 5th Corps commander.

Looting and celebrations spread quickly. Some people grabbed wads of bills from the Central Bank; others shot out car windows and stole ambulances from Mosul's general hospital.

Brig. Gen. Vincent Brooks of U.S. Central Command said the surrendering 5th Corps soldiers would be allowed to return home.

Brooks, at a news briefing, also discussed the list that has been compiled of 55 key regime leaders.

'Pioneers of Medicine' exhibit rekindles some fond memories

By LYNDEL MOODY

Peering at the collection of old-fashioned medical equipment on display at the Heritage Museum brought forth fond childhood memories for Marie Hall.

"I recall as a very young child, my mother and I would go with my father (Dr. Granville T. Hall) when he made calls in the country," she said. "I can still recall seeing the kerosene lamps. We would pull up toward the house and I could still see the silhouettes in the doorways. I have very distinct memories of making a country call with my father."

Hall was one of around 70 people attending the opening for the museum.

News Editor In the Upper Room. Simon the Zealot will be there; James the Lessor, too. The public is invited Sunday to "The Living Last Supper" at the First United Methodist Church in Big Spring. Admission is free and the production will begin at 7 p.m. "It's important, I think, for the entire community," said Loryne Colette, who, along with her husband, Lee, is directing the production. "It's important for us to remember the reason for the season. We talk about that at Christmas time, but it's also important at Easter." A cast of 15 will portray The Last Supper. "It's a 'living' Last Supper and we've made a few changes. This is a play where they (the apostles and Jesus) gather as friends. You get to see how they might have felt at that time," said Colette.

The cast includes Raul Marquez as Jesus, Mark Allen as James the Lessor, Allen Welch as Andrew, Richard Steel as Peter, Josh Townsend as Phillip, Dusty Choate as Nathaniel, Murray Murphy as John, Del Brewer as James, Jim Clements as Simon the Zealot, James Baker as Thaddaeus, Scott Van Pelt as Thomas, Danny Wright as Matthew, John Plaia as Judas, Hans Vogel as the host and Patty Choate as the host's wife. The production staff includes Tammy Allen, Doub Lykken and Josh and Justin Plaia.

um's new exhibit "Pioneers of Medicine, the First 65 Years." The exhibit includes donated medical equipment from the 1880s to the 1940s, old-fashioned medical bags and photographs of some of Big Spring's pioneer doctors.

"It is superbly put together and takes me back a few years also," said Hall.

Also attending the event was long-time Big Spring doctor Louis Worthy. Her father, Dr. M.H. Bennett, and Dr. Hall partnered together to build what would become Hall Bennett Memorial Hospital.

"It's wonderful," Worthy said of the display.

Dr. Nell Sanders, the last survivor of the physicians honored in the museum's tribute to pioneer doctors, was on hand. Dr. Sanders started the Medial Arts Hospital vocational school of nursing program in the 1950s.

Hall said the museum did an outstanding job with the display.

"It is a real plus for the museum," Hall said. "It certainly credits the curator and the staff here to able to put this exhibit together and they have done it beautifully."

Admission of the museum is $2 for adults and a $1 for children, students and senior citizens. The museum, 510 Scurry, is open daily from Tuesday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The theme for this weekend's convention is "Be Rich In Fine Works."

The theme for this convention is 'Be Rich in Fine Works.'

"In the scripture, the Apostle Paul was writing to Timothy and he told him that some members of any church will be rich materially," Gamboa said. "So Paul was telling Timothy, 'Now tell these people that are rich that they need to be rich in fine works, not just monetarily.' To use their money and possessions to advance what the Bible calls 'kingdom interests,' or interests related to God's kingdom."

Bowen will speak on the subject "Fine Works In This Time of Harvest" and "Continue In Fine Works and Reap Jehovah's Blessings," while other speakers will address the topics "Fine Works Bring Great Gain," "Let Your Fine Works Glorify Jehovah" and "Commending Youths For Fine Works In Praising Jehovah."

Fernando Doreste, circuit overseer for the 22 local congregations, will also present a message at the event. His topic will be "Rich From God's Standpoint."

The public is welcomed to attend the convention, which will be conducted in Spanish.

Gamboa added that a two-day convention will be held next week in English.

"We finally got, myself and others, the English circuit to come here to Big Spring," he said. "We'll be here on April 12, and they'll be here on April 19 to have a two-day convention. They expect 1,900 for that convention. So that's two big ones coming up."

OUR VIEWS

We salute:

Each week, the Herald salutes individuals and groups from our community and area who have been recognized for special achievements or accomplishments.

We recognize these special people for working to help make our region a better place to live, work and play

This week we salute:

• SUE WILLIAMS, Goliad Intermediate School sixth grade math instructor, who was named Teacher of the Week.

• TRASH-OFF VOLUNTEERS AND COORDINATORS. Thank you for helping our community look great!

• COWBOYS AND COWGIRLS, who put on the very entertaining Forsan Kindergarten Rodeo, and to all of the organizers and "fans."

• ALON USA REFINERY on its open house for the ground tire rubber plant and on its commitment to Big Spring and West Texas.

• THE 160 OR SO FOLKS who took time out of their busy schedules to promote the Crossroads and this community during Wednesday's trek to the state capital.

Is there an individual or organization in our community that you feel should be saluted? If so, please send us their name and why you think they should be recognized. We must have your name and telephone number and you must provide it in writing.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

I've been hearing on CNN and other media sources about a disturbing trend in New York City. The reports state that as of the end of March, bars, bowling alleys, pool halls, restaurants and most other indoor establishments will be required to prohibit smoking. Business owners could face fines and even loss of their business licenses for violations.

I just wonder how a New York City soldier will feel after he survives the war, returns to his hometown and wants to go out on the town and light up with his friends and family. He helped make Iraq free. At least he can feel good about that.

At least we don't live there. Here in West Texas we can still choose the smoking section in a few places.

Our returning freedom fighters instead will be told by some city employees that they can't park their own car on their own front yard without a permit.

Don't complain about it though, just shut up and pay your taxes.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

Dear Lord, today may we all pray for the soldiers who are on duty during this conflict. May you bless and protect each one of them.
Amen

Purses, skirts and little girls

"Hey mister, this is the ladies' department."

It took me a few seconds to find where the voice was coming from. It was a little girl, about six years old, half hidden behind a rack of blouses.

"Hi," I said. "This is stuff for ladies. Women. The men's department is over there," she said, pointing across the aisle.

"I know," I said, trying to force a smile. "It's okay. I'm waiting on my wife."

"Well, they've got women's underthings here," she said defiantly.

She stared at me a moment, then breathed a heavy sigh, as if I were a hopeless case, and scooted off.

As soon as she was gone, I wheeled the shopping basket over to the shoe department, grabbed a pair of white sneakers and pretended to be studying them.

She had wrecked me. This little girl had destroyed in 30 seconds what it took 20 years for me to be able to do - enter the forbidden zone of women's lingerie without feeling, well, uneasy.

Call it what you will, I just don't feel comfortable in a women's wear department. And I'm not alone.

I know men who have never walked between two rows of women's undergarments in their lives. Wouldn't consider it. Get 'em in a car in the middle of a downpour and they'll ignore those Warning Low Water signs just to save a couple of blocks. But put 'em near a counter of panties and they'll make a four-row detour every time.

Wouldn't want anyone thinking they were hanging around in the women's underwear department. Somebody might get the wrong idea.

I was still holding on to the shoes when I glanced at the basket and remembered why I had been in the women's department in the first place. I was watching my wife's purse for her while she was trying on a skirt.

BILL

It's the "hold-my-purse-I'll-be-right-back" thing, something women do to humiliate men. We're aware of it. Most of the time we can see it coming and make a quick dash to sporting goods.

This time she jabbed her purse in my arms, said something about trying on a skirt and was gone before I could protest.

Now, I spotted her coming out of the changing room with the skirt.

"Psst. Hey. Psst," I whispered loudly. "Over here. I'm over here."

"What? Why didn't you wait for me over there?" she said, walking over.

"Here, take that back," I said, motioning to her purse.

"What's wrong?"

"What's wrong is it's your purse, not mine, and I'm not going to have people think I have a purse," I said.

"That's ridiculous," she said, dropping the skirt into the basket.

"People know you're just holding it for me. Now come over here and wait. I'll just be a second. I want to find a matching blouse."

"No, I'm going to stay over here and look at shoes. I get nervous standing over there. There aren't any other men over there.

Somebody might misunderstand."

"Well, if that bothers you," she began as she walked off, "What will they think when they see you holding that pair of women's shoes?"

I looked down and Eaagghhh! What I thought were tennis shoes were actually a pair of white ladies' pumps. Okay. Okay. Maybe no one was watching.

Nervously, I looked around. Behind me stood the little girl.

"Those are ladies' shoes," she quipped. "Momma," she said to a large woman who was staring directly at me, "he's playing with ladies' shoes."

I looked down in the cart at my wife's purse, the skirt and at the white pumps in my hands.

"For my wife. They're for my wife," I managed weakly. "Oh," the lady said, and she rocked her head back and forth as if she understood.

I started to explain. "I was looking..."

"He was looking at panties earlier, Momma," the little girl snapped.

Slowly the color went out of the woman's cheeks and she changed expression. "It's okay, baby," she said, grabbing the little girl's hand. "Let's just go, quickly now. Let's just leave the man alone."

I knew she was going to get the manager. I could picture the scene. Over the loudspeaker would come an announcement; "ATTENTION SHOPPERS! BE ON THE LOOKOUT FOR A MAN WITH A SKIRT, CARRYING A PURSE AND A PAIR OF WHITE PUMPS. HE MAY BE HEADED TOWARD LINGERIE."

A manhunt throughout the store. "There he is! There's the pervert!" I couldn't stand it anymore. I pitched the white pumps in the direction of the shoe rack and took off, almost running over a woman employee who was folding clothes in the aisle.

"My wife, she's in the dressing room," I said, shoving the purse into the startled clerk's arms.

"This is hers. It is not mine. I don't have a purse. I don't like to play with women's shoes and I don't hang around in ladies' underwear. I mean, I don't hang around in women's wear. In the women's department."

"Oh, Lord, lady, just give her the purse and tell her I'm waiting in the car!"

Guys, take my word for it. Don't let 'em break you. Don't hold their purses, and for goodness sake, stay out of ladies' wear. The department, I mean.

Well, the clothes, too.

There is still hope for the evil

Matthew 12:38: "Then some of the scribes and Pharisees answered, saying, 'Teacher, we want to see a sign from You.'"

39: But He answered and said to them, 'An evil and adulterous generation seeks after a sign, and no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah.'

40: 'For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.'

41: 'The men of Nineveh will rise up in the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and indeed a greater than Jonah is here.'

Certainly our attention has been drawn recently to that location which represents the "Cradle of Civilization." In the southern Persian Gulf, the Garden of Eden (with mention of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers), Ur of the Chaldees (Abram's native land), and Babylon (from the tower of Babel, to Nebbuchadnezer, to Saddam) were all historic landmarks. Further to the north, ancient Nineveh stood as a symbol of ancient power.

In the prophet Jonah's day, history reveals an extremely cruel and inhumane regime there. Ninevite warriors were known for their torturous methods displayed against their enemies. Stories were told of captives buried alive to the neck, with their tongues impaled to the ground (Our president tells the account of a modern Iraqi dissenter being staked to the ground in a public market, having his tongue cut out, and then left to die).

As you re-read the short prophetic book of Jonah, try to understand his fearful dilemma in light for today's circumstances. To this God we serve, just who is "worth" saving? Certainly, Jonah believed the Ninevites had already crossed the line. To God, however, there was still hope for this godless city. When faced with certain destruction, the hearts of stone melted like butter. They suddenly became so serious about their relationship with the God of Israel that they ceased eating and drinking, and commanded that their animals do likewise. The scripture says in Jonah 3:10: "Then God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God relented from the disaster that He had said He would bring upon them, and He did not do it."

Now comes the hard part. Matthew 12:41 indicates that even the evil Ninevites were more willing to change their life patterns than the more religious Israelites, and would stand in "the Judgment" against them. How might that same principle apply to spiritual America? We are blessed to live in a nation that upholds high moral values in comparison to other modern civilizations. When we measure ourselves against our enemies, and most allies, we do pretty well (I've been blessed to see our medical treatment of Iraqi soldiers!). But, I'm not sure we would rather be right with God than eat, or play, or change our lifestyle. With no need for further explanation or revision, God's word says clearly, "If My people, who are called by My Name; will humble themselves, and pray, and seek My Face, and turn from their wicked ways; Then will I hear from heaven, forgive their sins, and heal their land." (II Chronicles 7:14).

Recent statistics indicate that America is moving increasingly away from God. Repent means "to change directions." My prayer for Big Spring is that we would hear the call of God, and return to Him with all our might. When God called Nineveh to repent, they did so immediately.

If you have forgotten the practice of weekly worship, I invite you to join our celebration of the Resurrected Lord Jesus Christ on Sunday. The change of direction will do you good.

Some may already have been killed, Brooks said; a deck of cards with names and photos are being distributed to coalition soldiers to help them identify those still at large.

Saddam's fate remains unknown, and Brooks said the coalition was focusing its efforts on the entire regime.

"There will also be attacks against key decision makers to kill or capture them," Brooks said. "There will be more in the coming days."

In Baghdad, where regime control collapsed Wednesday, U.S. troops were trying to curb looting that continued unabated for a third straight day. In parts of the capital, Marines were starting to enforce a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

The looters' latest targets included Baghdad's nursing college and engineering college. The Education Ministry and the Industry Ministry were looted and set on fire. In some cases, entire families searched together for plunder.

"Tell the Americans to stop the killing and the looting," pleaded one Baghdad woman, Jabryah Aziz, 41. "We can't live like this much longer, with Muslims looting other Muslims." But Brooks said American troops have no plans to serve as police.

Some Baghdad residents took the law into their own hands, setting up roadblocks to confiscate stolen goods and beat up looters.

Before dawn Friday, U.S. warplanes fired six satellite-guided bombs at an intelligence building in Ramadi, 60 miles west of Baghdad, believing that Saddam's half brother, Barzan Ibrahim al-Tikriti, was inside. U.S. commanders said they were still assessing damage and casualties from the strike.

U.S. Army soldiers of B. Company, 2/325 Airborne Infantry Regiment, move out for an operation in the city of As Samawa.

Al-Takriti, a former head of the secret police, was a close adviser to Saddam and allegedly helped hide millions of dollars abroad while serving as ambassador to Switzerland.

The fall of Mosul, a city of more than 600,000, came a day after U.S. and Kurdish forces took Kirkuk, the other major city in the north. Both cities have economic links to nearby oil fields that have been secured virtually intact.

Capt. Frank Thorp, a U.S. Central Command spokesman, welcomed the surrender of the 5th Corps. "They have made the very wise choice of living for the future of Iraq instead of dying for this Iraqi regime," he said.

South of Kirkuk, thousands of young Iraqi soldiers walked toward Baghdad, making their way home after abandoning their positions. The unarmed men wore civilian clothes and carried little or nothing; some said it might take seven days to reach their home towns in the south.

One man told CNN that his military superiors, before vanishing several days ago, had confiscated the soldiers' documents in an attempt to keep them from deserting.

The rapid U.S.-Kurdish advance in the north brought the front to within 60 miles of Tikrit, where some of Saddam's remaining backers are believed to be taking refuge. Coalition aircraft have been striking Republican Guard positions in Tikrit, and roadblocks have been erected to prevent Iraqi leaders from reaching the city to wage a last stand.

U.S. special operations forces also have set up roadblocks along routes to Syria, searching for fleeing members of Saddam's regime and for fighters or equipment coming in from Syria, according to U.S. military officials.

Even in areas of Iraq controlled by the U.S.-led coalition, dangers remained. In Baghdad, four Marines and a medical corpsman were wounded late Thursday when a man strapped with explosives approached a checkpoint and blew himself up.

On Friday, at another checkpoint, a Marine opened fire on a car that did not stop.

Biggio sets NL mark for homers in win

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati pitcher Danny Graves would rather not have anything to do with this record.

Graves gave up Craig Biggio's National League-record 31st leadoff homer in the Houston Astros' 4-2 victory over the Reds on Thursday night.

Biggio broke Bobby Bonds' NL record. Rickey Henderson holds the major league mark with 80 leadoff home runs.

"I knew I was close last year, but that is nothing you set your goals on," Biggio said. "But it is pretty good company with Bobby Bonds. It's a good feeling."

Jerome Robertson (1-1) pitched seven strong innings for his first career victory. He allowed just two hits while striking out eight and walking three. He retired the last 11 batters he faced.

"He's not a kid who panics," Astros manager Jimmy Williams said. "He has very good mound presence. Certainly, I think (catcher Gregg) Zaun helped him."

Graves (0-2) allowed four runs — three earned — and seven hits in 5 2-3 innings.

Octavio Dotel struck out the side in order in the eighth inning and Billy Wagner finished for his third save.

"We had the right guy out there in the ninth," Williams said. "Billy Wagner has done an outstanding job since I've been here and I know he was like that before I got here. He pitched two days in a row and his velocity was up there, so he had to feel good."

After Biggio's leadoff homer, Jeff Kent added an RBI double and Richard Hidalgo hit an RBI single in the inning to make it 3-0.

Sean Casey's RBI single drove in Aaron Boone in the fourth inning for Cincinnati's first run.

Zaun added an RBI single in the fifth for Houston.

Big Spring sophomore Amisha Vanderbilt earned a berth in the Region I-4A meet Thursday in the shot put. Sparked by a 1-2 finish by Cierra Butler and Vanderbilt, the Lady Steers currently sit in second place in the District 4-4A Track Meet standings. The meet, which is being held at Angelo State University, concludes today.

Lady Steers can clinch playoff berth

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Lady Steers can take all the mystery out of the playoff scenario this evening with a win over the Frenship Lady Tigers.

With a victory tonight, the Lady Steers can become the second District 4-4A team to clinch a playoff berth. District-leading Andrews locked up a spot in the post-season last week.

The Lady Steers, 17-6-1 overall, head into this evening's 7 p.m. showdown with Frenship sitting in second place in the 4-4A standings with a 6-1 record. Andrews, by virtue of a 3-1 win over Big Spring on April 1, leads the district race.

Frenship is currently third at 4-3.

The Lady Steers will be looking for another strong outing from Alex Watkins. The last time the BSHS girls faced Frenship Watkins spearheaded a 9-1 rout by striking out 10 batters and hurling her second no-hitter of the year.

The BSHS junior varsity begins play at 5 p.m.

Lady Steers begin quest for 4-4A track title

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

SAN ANGELO — All season long Big Spring High School girls track coach Jay Kennedy has told his team that Levelland and Lubbock Estacado were the biggest obstacles in their path to a district championship.

The Lady Steers found out just how true Kennedy's prediction was Thursday afternoon after the first day of the District 4-4A Track Meet. Big Spring stood in second place behind Levelland in the overall team standings after the first five events.

By an oh-so-slim margin. Levelland, powered by a win by Kayla Gerstenberger in the high jump, holds a one point lead, at 39-38, heading into this morning's running finals at Angelo State University. Estacado is a distant third at 27.

Big Spring got off to a strong start in the event when Cierra Butler and Amisha Vanderbilt posed a 1-2 finish in the shot put. Butler won the event for the second time in as many weeks with a throw of 40 feet, 3 1/4 inches. Vanderbilt, a rising sophomore, recorded a throw of 39 feet. See DISTRICT, Page 8

BSHS look to end its 5-game losing streak this afternoon

The Big Spring Steers will try and break out of the slump they are mired in this afternoon when they face Frenship.

The Steers enter the game having dropped their last five outings, including a tough 12-3 decision last week to San Angelo Lake View on Tuesday. Overall, Big Spring is 3-15-1 and winless over the first half of its 2003 in District 4-4A slate.

In Frenship, the Steers will be facing one of the top teams in the District 4-4A group. The Tigers currently lead the loop race with a 5-0 record.

The two teams will begin play at 4:30 p.m. KBST will broadcast the game live.

Everett's HR helps Rangers avoid sweep

ARLINGTON (AP) — The Oakland Athletics let a chance to sweep the Texas Rangers slip away.

The Rangers beat the Athletics 5-4 on Thursday, rallying from a four-run deficit behind homers by Carl Everett and Mark Teixeira.

Leading 4-3, the A's were in position to break the game open in the sixth when they loaded the bases with nobody out, but they failed to score.

Francisco Cordero (1-1) threw a hitless eighth for the victory, and Ugueth Urbina pitched the ninth for his third save to help the Rangers stop a three-game losing streak despite issuing 11 walks.

Four Rangers relievers combined to allow two hits over 5 1-3 shutout innings.

With the game tied at 4, Everett led off the eighth with a solo homer off reliever Chad Bradford.

Scott Hatteberg had three doubles and reached base five times, and Dye homered for the Athletics, who had their nine-game winning streak against the Rangers snapped.

feet, 2 inches.

By finishing first and second, Butler — a state qualifier last year — and Vanderbilt earned automatic berths in the upcoming Region I-4A meet.

Ashley Smith completed Big Spring's impressive outing in the shot put by finishing sixth. The Lady Steers scored a total of half of their 38 team points in the event.

Ka'Rissa Magers also earned a spot in the upcoming regional meet by taking second in the girls' long jump. She posted a jump of 18 feet, 2 1/4 inches and finished second to Estacado's Shatoya Hill.

BSHS sophomore Airianne Brown and Raegan Ritchey placed 6th and 13th in the long jump competition. Brown leaped 16-10 1/4, while Ritchey posted an effort of 15-5 1/2.

Carmen Lewis just missed qualifying for the regional meet in the high jump. She finished third in the event despite tying Levelland's Chelsea Blackshear silver medal-winning height at 5 foot, 3 inches. Blackshear advances to the regional meet in Abilene via a few number of missed tries at the height.

Brittany Ramey was 13th overall in the high jump standings.

Tasha Rios finished ninth in the 3,200-meter run.

PARIS - The futuristic sci-fi sequel "The Matrix: Reloaded" will premiere at the Cannes Film Festival in May, where its filmmakers and stars will walk down the red carpet.

The second film in the "Matrix" thriller trilogy, "Reloaded" will be shown out of competition on May 15, the second day of the festival, which runs until May 25. That's the same day the film will be released worldwide.

Actors Keanu Reeves, Laurence Fishburne and Carrie-Anne Moss reprise their roles from "The Matrix," the 1999 powerhouse action film.

Jada Pinkett Smith joins the cast for the second edition, which, like the first, was written and directed

Tyler, who plays the elf Arwen in the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy, has also appeared in such films as "Armageddon," "Inventing the Abbotts" and "That Thing You Do!"

British-born Langdon also plays the bass for Spacehog, which formed in the mid-1990s.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Liv Tyler has added another rock musician to her life.

The daughter of Aerosmith lead singer Steven Tyler married Royston Langdon, lead singer of the band Spacehog, in a private ceremony at a villa in the Caribbean on March 25,
