Home cooking school will return to Big Spring

By THOMAS JENKINS

Staff Writer

Home cooking doesn't just exist at mom's house. It's coming to the Crossroads area in the form of the nationally renowned Taste of Home Cooking School.

The school, which is just part of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's Crossroads Cuisine and Business Expo slated for Oct. 21, is led by economist Tamra Duncan and will be making its third appearance in Big Spring.

Chamber Director Debbye ValVerde said the class, which will be taught by Duncan, will feature a number of dishes taken from the pages of the Taste of Home Cooking magazine, as well as door prizes anyone would appreciate.

"It's a two-hour show with an intermission," said ValVerde. "We'll be giving away door prizes before the show, during intermission and after the show. HEB is once again our big, local sponsor and it will be helping us with the groceries that will be used during the show and will be giving away bags of groceries. They'll also have a booth for people to check out."

Duncan is one of 13 demonstrators that host the cooking school promotions in communities from coast to coast. Based in Greendale, Wis., the cooking schools are associated with Taste of Home, the world's

Debates

Congressional hopefuls will discuss issues twice this week

By THOMAS JENKINS

Staff Writer

While presidential candidates close out their debates Wednesday in Arizona, Congressional District 19 candidates will begin their turn at the podium this week in Lubbock and Abilene.

Incumbent District 17 Congressman Charles Stenholm, D-Abilene; incumbent District 19 Congressman Randy Neugebauer, R-Lubbock; and Libertarian candidate Dr. Richard Peterson will engage in the first of two debates Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Texas Tech University's Allen Theater in Lubbock.

The hour-long debates are being coordinated by the Lubbock and Abilene Chambers of Commerce and are co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters, the Texas Tech University Student Government Association and McMurry University.

The second debate between the three candidates will be Thursday in Abilene at McMurry University's Radford Auditorium beginning at 6 p.m., and is sponsored by the Abilene Chamber of Commerce.

Questions for the candidates will be provided by a panel, which on Thursday will include Big Spring Herald Managing Editor John Moseley. Each candidate will be allowed an opening and closing statement.

Unlike the presidential and vice presidential debates, however, there is a chance that Howard County voters and others living "fringe" areas of the district will not get to see the debate televised.

Organizers say they are still finalizing details for live television and radio

Martin County Library needs help to renovate new building

By KENDRA WISS

Wall to wall, floor to ceiling, stacks and stacks of books. The scene at the Martin County Library is that of books overflowing.

The building across the street from the White Motor Company has been purchased and preparations are being made to renovate the 6,000 square foot facility.

"The building was purchased about two years ago but it needs some renovations. The previous owner pulled out the satellite dish and left holes in the ceiling that will now require a major repair," said Librarian Kaye Smith.

"We've hired an architect to assess the situation and help us to make renovation plans."

Now operating a building with 1,100 square feet, the library doesn't have the room they would like to have.

"We have never had room for a children's reading program. We are looking forward to having an area so people can read stories to our county's children," said

Sessions counts on conservative record

DALLAS (AP) — His opponent says he's on the fringe and Republican Pete Sessions doesn't necessarily disagree.

He calls himself one of the most conservative members of Congress and he's even been known to oppose President Bush — he voted against the No Child Left Behind Act — if it means staying true to his conservative principles.

"I am on the extreme," Sessions explains, "where it relates to government efficiency, jobs in this country and for effectiveness of government and good things for the taxpayer."

He says he voted against Bush's bipartisan education act because school boards in his district asked him to.

While many of his colleagues flirt with the middle, Sessions stays faithful to the right. It's a strategy he hopes will draw Dallas-area voters in his newly created District 32, even as veteran Democratic U.S. Rep. Martin Frost tries to lure them away.

Sessions — a former Southwestern Bell executive and son of former FBI director William Sessions — has the upper hand in the race. Republicans in off-year redistricting designed it for a Republican to win.

Prison farms may become obsolete

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas criminal justice officials dealing with a shrinking budget and a growing prison population are conducting a test to see if getting meals from an outside company can save money.

The decision could affect the prison farm system and its Buffalo Ranch in Burleson County, Texas Department of Criminal Justice officials said.

State-owned prison farms have historically provided much of the food for TDCJ's 150,000 inmates.

However, in a yearlong test under way at the 1,166-bed Hamilton Unit in Bryan, food-industry giant Aramark is providing meals at a daily cost of $2.43 per prisoner, TDCJ spokesman Mike Viesca said in Sunday's editions of the Houston Chronicle.

That's 17 cents per inmate less than the TDCJ currently spends to feed an offender, even though the prison system has, in addition to Buffalo Ranch, another 139,000 acres of farms and ranches across the state.

Officials say if that 17-cent difference could be multiplied by the state's estimated 150,000 convicts, systemwide savings would top $9 million a year.

In Enron barge trial, it's the defense's turn

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Enron Corp. finance chief Andrew Fastow and the man who replaced him when he was forced out are among roughly 50 potential witnesses for the defense phase of the fraud and conspiracy trial regarding the energy company's alleged sham sale of several barges to Merrill Lynch & Co. at the end of 1999.

Prosecutors rested their case conditionally last week, with the issue of whether entire transcripts or excerpts of a defendant's grand jury testimony to be presented to jurors awaiting the judge's ruling. Once that is decided, the defense phase is expected to begin today.

However, the presence of Fastow and Jeff McMahon, as well as the six defendants themselves, on the combined defense witness list doesn't mean they'll testify. Prosecutors summoned 14 of more than 30 potential witnesses on their list.

Fastow became the government's most high-profile cooperating witness when he pleaded guilty to two counts of conspiracy in January.

He is expected to be a key witness.

AP Poll:

Bush's allies also facing doubts from their citizens about terrorism

By WILL LESTER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON

President Bush isn't the only world leader facing doubts about his handling of the war on terror. People in Australia, Italy and Britain also harbor reservations about how well their nation's leaders are holding terrorists at bay.

Prime ministers Tony Blair of Britain and John Howard of Australia and Premier Silvio Berlusconi of Italy all get low marks from their people for their handling of the war on terrorism, according to Associated Press-Ipsos polling in their countries.

All three leaders happen to be staunch allies of the U.S.-led war in Iraq. Leaders of several countries that opposed the Iraq war get strong ratings on handling terrorism.

The political leaders who joined the Iraq war coalition have faced pressure related to their stance on Iraq.

Howard won re-election Saturday despite criticism in Australia of his support of the Iraq war. The public was evenly divided on Howard's handling of terrorism, but he apparently was helped by Australia's strong economy.

Bush faces election in early November in a campaign that is increasingly centered on Iraq, with public doubts about the effects of the Iraq war on the terrorism fight.

Blair is likely to face election in the spring, and the poll found only one-third approve of his government's handling of the war on terror. The Friday announcement of the beheading in Iraq of British hostage Kenneth Bigley is likely to increase pressure on Blair.

Berlusconi has seen fears of terrorism increase sharply since last winter — from seven in 10 worried about terrorism in February to almost nine in 10 now. Just over one-third of Italians approve of the government's handling of terrorism. Two Italian women taken hostage in Iraq were freed last month, and an Iraqi who lived in Italy was executed by kidnappers in Iraq early this month. Berlusconi has pledged to lead the country until the end of his term in 2006.

In contrast, the leaders of Canada, France, Germany, Mexico and Spain all get high marks for their handling of terrorism — with a majority in each country saying they approve, according to polls conducted for the AP by Ipsos, an international polling firm.

French President Jacques Chirac, German Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder, Mexican President Vicente Fox and Spanish Prime Minister Jose Luis Rodriguez Zapatero have all stated their opposition to the U.S.-led war in Iraq. Canada didn't send troops to Iraq.

The leaders' position on the Iraq war is only one of many factors that could affect public perception of their handling of terrorism.

But the poll found growing concern since February in those countries that the Iraq war has increased the terror threat.

And people in most of the countries have grown increasingly concerned about the terrorist threat since last winter, the AP-Ipsos polling found.

"The proportion of people worried by the terrorist threat has increased in most of the countries ... since February," said Gilles Corman, research director at Ipsos-Inra of Belgium, who surveyed public opinion trends across Europe. "People feel more and more insecure."

About three-fourths or more of the people in Britain, France, Italy and Spain think the war in Iraq has increased the threat of terrorism. Even in the United States, the number who feel that way increased from more than a third in February to more than half now.

"In the context of the presidential campaign in the United States, this is undeniably a blow for George W. Bush, since it shows that a majority of Americans don't agree with the main justification for his policy in Iraq," Corman said.

In Canada, Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Mexico and Spain, a majority thought last winter that the Iraq war was increasing the threat of terrorism. That number has increased in each of the countries. Australians were not polled in the AP-Ipsos project last winter.

Fears of terrorism increased in seven of the eight countries polled in the winter and this fall.

Only in Germany did those worries ease a bit this year. Terrorism fears were high early this year after the terrorist killing of 14 German tourists in 2002 at a Tunisian resort.

most popular cooking magazine.

This season, Duncan will demonstrate ways to spice up everyday meals with various seasonings. She will introduce several new grocery products and offer unique serving techniques, as well as demonstrate 12 featured recipes.

ValVerde said the Expo not only represents a tremendous opportunity for area restaurants and retailers to show off their products, but for area cooking enthusiasts to pick up a few new tricks — not to mention some great freebies and prizes.

"Admission for the audience will be $7, and with that you'll get to sample whatever the participating restaurants have to offer and of course the goodie bag," said ValVerde. "The bags will be full of coupons from national sponsors as well as local businesses. You also get a copy of the Taste of Home Cooking magazine, which will feature all of the dishes they will be preparing during the classes. That way you'll be able to follow along with the recipe in the magazine while they are cooking.

"For Chamber members the booths are $40," she added. "For non-members it's $80. We're also encouraging all of the businesses that get a booth to include a coupon or a sample in the goodie bags which will be given to everyone in attendance during the show."

"The Taste of Home Cooking School has been in Big Spring two times in the past," she noted. "The last time was during the program we had scheduled for Sept. 11, 2001. Of course, that had to be canceled and rescheduled, and due to the rescheduling, we didn't have the attendance that we had hoped for."

Despite the lax attendance at previous Taste of Home Cooking schools, ValVerde said the organization decided to give Big Spring another shot.

"The Taste of Home Cooking people decided to give Big Spring another shot, and we're looking to see if our attendance will grow this time around," she said. "We won't be competing with Midland and Odessa, both of which have the school annually, and we feel like we'll have a good turnout."

ValVerde said the Chamber is going all out for the Expo, using the same setup they used during the 2004 Health Fair.

Silver Wings Ball promises great entertainment

For folks who like variety in their entertainment, there's probably no better event than the Silver Wings Ball. Add the fact that those who attend will be helping preserve aviation history, and this weekend's annual extravaganza promises to be a ball to remember.

Consider:

- Dine. A catered, gourmet meal will be served up by Murray's and the Frenchman — wonderful entrees with succulent vegetables and a fabulous dessert.
- Dance. Austin's High Island Hoopcats play a variety of music that will have everyone on their feet.
- Laugh. Nationally known comedian Michael Joiner will have the crowd in stitches.
- Relax. Valet parking will make it easy and add a formal touch while a cash bar allows attendees any opportunity to indulge in beverages of their choice.
- Get involved. A Search for Silver drawing offers a bunch of excellent prizes, including a four-night cruise on the Mississippi Queen.

The ball will be held Saturday night, beginning at 6:30 in the senior center — which originally served as the Officers Club for Webb Air Force Base. Tickets for all of this are just $50 per person.

Funds raised from the Silver Wings Ball go to the Hangar 25 Air Museum, who preserves aviation history, both locally and nationally.

If it's an all-around good time you're looking for, consider the Silver Wings Ball this Saturday night. It's not too late if you make reservations quickly. Do so by calling the Hangar 25 office at 264-1999. This is one event you don't want to miss.

Tough talk meets tough cookie

The contrast could not be clearer. One side proposed a war and waged it. Yes, President Bush has been slow to correct mistakes made in the course of the war — not that Vice President Dick Cheney would admit as much in Tuesday's debate in Ohio. Still, the administration has shown the resolve to win the war in Iraq and the war on terrorism. Cheney was right to assert that voters should know that re-electing this ticket is the only way they can be sure America won't cut and run.

DEBRA SAUNDERS

The other side voted to authorize the war and then was quick to pounce on every mistake or shortcoming in the war effort — even shortcomings Sens. John Kerry and John Edwards cannot possibly overcome.

Take the Kerry/Edwards claim that the U.S.-led coalition in Iraq is not a legitimate coalition. During the debate, moderator Gwen Ifill asked Edwards how Kerry could bring more countries into the coalition. Edwards said a Kerry administration would have more "credibility," as if that would bring troops to Iraq. Yeah, sure.

Or as Cheney chided, "You demean the sacrifice of our allies and you say it's the 'wrong war, wrong place, wrong time.' And oh, by the way, send troops."

Democrats may nod their heads when Kerry and Edwards claim they will bring more countries into the coalition, but surely, they know that won't happen. The most Americans should expect is that France and Germany would approve of Kerry, and maybe give him a pat on the head.

But troops? Why would France or Germany send troops to the "wrong war"? Referring to a promise by Kerry that America wouldn't go to war without passing a "global test," Ifill asked Edwards: "What is a global test if it's not a global veto?"

Edwards bristled at the suggestion that Kerry's "global test" actually means a "global veto." After all, Edwards said, Kerry said no country would have veto power over U.S. security. So it's a test, but not a test.

If Kerry and Edwards were in charge in 2002, would Saddam Hussein still be in power? Ifill asked. Edwards said he and Kerry voted for the war resolution because "Saddam Hussein needed to be confronted."

Confronted how? Why, according to Edwards, "The right way," that is, after U.N. weapons inspections — which were stymied. So insert what you want to believe here.

Edwards was more convincing when he confronted Cheney's association with Halliburton, the Houston-based company that has major Defense Department contracts in Iraq. Edwards failed to establish that Cheney has done anything improper, but he didn't have to. It's unseemly, undignified and bad politics for a sitting vice president to collect a golden-parachute stipend while in office.

"People are going to be turned off by the way in which Cheney failed to directly respond to the questions (about Halliburton) that were posed to him," noted Roger Salazar, who was Edwards' spokesman during the primary. If voters weren't turned off by Cheney's demeanor, they should be turned off by this seedy arrangement.

Cheney also stumbled when he claimed to have not met Edwards before the debate — although the fact that they met twice doesn't exactly speak volumes for Edwards' presence on Capitol Hill.

Otherwise, Cheney carried the day when he dismissed the hawkish (at least this week) position of Kerry/Edwards as "a little tough talk in the midst of a campaign."

Cheney referred to Kerry's and Edwards' vote against $87 billion in funding for the war in Iraq and noted, "I couldn't figure out why that happened initially." But then, Cheney said he noticed that Howard Dean was running well on his anti-war rhetoric. The kicker: "Now, if they couldn't stand up to the (political) pressures that Howard Dean represented, how can we expect them to stand up to al Qaeda?" And: "These are two individuals who have been for the war when the headlines were good and against it when their poll ratings were bad."

So you see the contrast. One ticket is committed to winning the war and staying the course in good times and bad.

The other ticket is committed to winning the election and thus talks about sending more troops one week, then withdrawing troops the next. It promotes a beefed-up international coalition it can't deliver. It berates the Bushies for doing things — going after Saddam Hussein before catching Osama bin Laden — that Kerry failed to protest when he voted for the resolution.

The choice is clear: commitment or opportunism.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

I write this letter as a response to the Kerry Bush debate in which all favor was given to Kerry as having precedence over the event. It seems to me that after reading the transcripts, I found that Kerry wants to expose Bush as a fraud, but fraudulent is as fraudulent does.

Kerry attacks the war on terrorism because he tries to categorize Osama Bin Laden as the only threat. But let's face it, when we think like that we are only putting a bandaid on a problem and not solving the real issue at hand. Talk about fraud.

Kerry then is quick to point out that he will "singlehandedly" fix the war on terrorism, however, his casual alliance to the UN's procedures concerning this matter gives evidence that he is a policy and paper politician trying to fight a war from a desk. This is the same kind of thinking that brought defeat in North Korea and Vietnam.

Kerry's vehement attacks on homeland security are everything short of a good argument. His convictions and values seem to sway with the popular consensus of the moment.

I truly believe that Kerry should remember President Abraham Lincoln's saying, "You can please all of the people some of the time, some of the people all of the time but you cant please all of the people all of the time." Convictions should not sway with the popular opinions.

Kerry just has a problem on focusing on one man and not the problem at hand. We need to work together with the president who has proposed a vision for our country and give his plan time to reveal itself. After all, Rome was not built in a day.

TO THE EDITOR:

John Kerry will be a puppet for Mrs. Kerry (she has the money — $500 million-plus), John Edwards (he has the ambition) and Ted Kennedy (he wants the power). Teresa's money kept Kerry in the race. She is not the kind of First Lady most Americans want — she has a foul mouth, calls people scum bags, thinks child victims of Florida hurricanes should go naked, doesn't care enough for her husband to use his name, she thinks she's sexy, changed parties when Kerry decided to run and got her money from her deceased Republican husband.

Kerry's supporters include George Soros, one of the wealthiest people in the world, who wants to legalize drugs. He and Teresa, neither born in the U.S. want to buy the White House. Also Michael Moore and Whoopi Goldberg, who compared her body part to President Bush. Kerry says they represent Americans.

Of the speakers at convention, three of them had suspicious deaths around them, one said he invented the Internet and Ron Reagan, a self-proclaimed atheist, demeaned his father and now uses his famous name to bash Bush.

The world hated us before Bush or 9-11 would not have happened. Clinton let Bin Laden escape. His focus was elsewhere.

France, China, Russia were receiving money from Saddam in the oil for food scam. Mr. Rich, pardoned by Clinton, is involved. Saddam paid suicide bombers, shot at American planes and tried to kill an American president. Can you imagine the outrage if Clinton had been his target?

Read the book John Kerry doesn't want you to read — the one with the American flag upside down on the cover.

The Kerry you see now is the same Kerry who tossed his medals during Vietnam.

TO THE EDITOR:

In response to Mr. Rheinscheild's letter in Sunday's paper, here is a list of things that you have to believe to vote for John Kerry in the November election:

1. That Hitler was a menace to society and should have stopped at all costs, but Sadam Hussein was just a misunderstood and benevolent leader trying to protect his country from the imperialist Americans.
2. That President Bush wanted Iraq's oil so bad that he would risk American lives and billions of dollars to get it rather than just take the billions of dollars and buy it.
3. That an unborn baby is just a tissue mass with no rights, but an unborn monkey is a precious resource that deserves constitutionally guaranteed rights.
4. That a conservative's SUV that runs on gas will ruin the environment, but a liberal's electric car will save it. How do you think that electricity is generated?
5. That the white man was wrong for defeating the Comanche and taking his land, but the Comanche was justified in taking the land from the indigenous people that were here when the Comanche arrived.

6. That as man he has no right to tell the woman not to murder his baby, but she has every right to make him pay child support if she decides to keep the baby.

7. That providing condoms to teens does not encourage sex, but allowing me to have a gun encourages murder.

8. That a redneck with a pistol is more dangerous than a Saudi with a box cutter.

9. That copulation between Adam and Steve is as sacred as a marriage between Adam and Eve.

10. That minorities are so inferior they cannot succeed without a liberal's handout.

11. That President Clinton committing high crimes and misdemeanors while violating a citizen's constitutional rights is not as bad as President Bush relying on bad intelligence from the CIA.

12. That Al Qaeda only became a threat when Bush was elected. The first world trade center attack, the attack on the Cole and the embassy attacks are figments of the imagination of the vast right wing conspiracy.

13. Freedom of speech and religion only apply to those who think exactly as you do.

14. A tree is more important than a person.

15. That your actions don't matter and you don't have to take responsibility for your life. You can do whatever you want because the government should take care of all your needs.

16. That capitalism is bad and socialism is good.

17. That poverty isn't relative. That a "poor" person in America is the same as a poor person in China.

18. That we don't have the "fattest" (best fed) and healthiest "poor" people in the world.

19. That hard work does not make a difference. If someone has wealth it is not because he worked for it, it is because he stole it.

20. It is all right to make up lies about someone just because you don't agree with them politically.

21. That what George Bush has done for in keeping the terrorist off our soil since 9-11-2001 is not more important than what Kerry fabricated and lied about in Vietnam.

22. That it is better to fight the terrorist on our soil rather than in Iraq or Afghanistan.

Women are playing odds on hormones

By ANA VECIANA SUAREZ
Knight Ridder Newspapers

MIAMI — When the hot flashes and the sleepless nights became too unbearable, Patti Gardner's doctor put her on hormone replacement therapy. The Weston-based actress thought it was the best thing for menopause. Then, two years ago, the nation's largest study of women on prescription hormone pills was abruptly stopped because of perceived risks of heart attack, stroke and breast cancer. Gardner panicked. She decided to take herself off the pills.

"I was miserable," recalls Gardner, 49. "I had hot flashes during the day and night sweats at night. I wasn't getting much sleep."

After much discussion with her gynecologist, she went back on hormones. Then off. And now on again, trying different dosages and different products before settling on Prempro, a popular hormone supplement. She explains it this way: "I'm not thrilled to be on hormones, but there is such a thing as quality of life. It's all about balancing the risks and the benefits."

Gardner is among the thousands of menopausal women who, quietly and without much fanfare, have returned to hormone replacement therapy after first abandoning it in droves. For them, the quality of life today outweighs the risks raised when the Women's Health Initiative Study was halted.

Now, careful consideration by individual gynecologists and recently published studies indicate that hormone replacement therapy is not the boogeyman some made it out to be two summers ago. In fact, HRT, as it is commonly known, is still being recommended by many doctors after considering a woman's personal health history and her family's health history for heart disease, stroke and breast cancer. The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists issued new guidelines saying it is inappropriate to withdraw HRT from women suffering miserable menopause symptoms. It remains a favored treatment for younger women whose menstruation stopped no more than a decade ago.

For older women, the picture is not so clear. Researchers suspect that hormones contribute to illness and death if started later in life, around age 60, and many years

Patti Gardner, of Weston, Fla., tried to quit hormone replacement therapy when news came out about medical side effects. She went back on hormones after discussions with her gynecologist.

after menopause. This summer, the Journal of General Internal Medicine published a review of studies of HRT involving about 27,000 women. Researchers concluded that women who had started on hormones before age 60 were 39 percent less likely to die over the course of study than their peers who didn't take hormones. An earlier Nurses Health Study that followed more than 120,000 women found that those who had taken hormones within two years of menopause were less likely to die during the study than those who didn't.

"It's not one size fits all," explains Dr. Paul Gluck, a gynecologist at Baptist Hospital in Kendall, Fla. "You cannot have a blanket statement that says all women should not be on hormones. You have to look at each one individually."

Why does age matter so much? Researchers say a typical woman's arteries are free of the fatty deposits that are the first steps toward a heart attack until her last period, around age 51. After that, women can develop dangerous deposits in their arteries and, by their mid-60s, begin having heart attacks at nearly the same rate as men.

The Women's Health Initiative study, which involved 16,608 women ages 50 to 79, showed that older women who were already headed for possible heart attacks and strokes increased their risks on hormones. Alarmed, the organizers, including top officials from the National Institutes of Health, abruptly halted the WHI study. Sales of Prempro, the hormone pill the study tested, plummeted by 60 percent that first year. Some gynecologists say half of their patients wanted off HRT.

Maria Elena de Yarza, a teacher, was one of them. She had been prescribed hormones five years earlier, when the night sweats were so unbearable she wasn't getting any sleep. But when she read about the sudden halt to the WHI study, she reconsidered.

"I was very concerned," says de Yarza, now 52. "When I had started, we had discussed the risks, but I hadn't thought it was such a big deal."

She quit cold turkey. Fortunately, none of the symptoms — night sweats and hot flashes, namely — resurfaced.

Researchers and gynecologists in the trenches now say the WHI study had a built-in age bias. WHI patients' average age was 63. Some of the women were started on hormones long after the onset of menopause, a practice not recommended by doctors.

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists recommends hormones be used only at the lowest effective dose for the shortest period of time. Leo Twigg, associate dean for women's health at the University of Miami's Medical School, says he regularly re-evaluates his patients to see if their dosage needs to be altered or discontinued.

Twigg discusses his patients' health and family histories at length. A history of breast cancer or heart disease in a woman or her close family, for instance, would not make her a good candidate for certain kinds of hormone replacement. It also depends on how severe her symptoms are.

Gynecologists agree that an informed patient makes the best decision.

Gauging the good health of the public

This Oct. 15, the Texas Lyceum Association will host a public conference in Houston to discuss "Health Care: A Right or Privilege."

As Commissioner of State Health Services, I have been invited to join these 96 state civic leaders as they meet to grapple with this question. While an intriguing title for the conference, I believe the issue is a broader one.

DR. EDUARDO J. SANCHEZ

The question we need to ask is about health, not just health care. How we can make good health more widespread, more abundant in Texas?

When we talk about "health care" we usually mean "medical care." Certainly, we all want to see access for those who need medical care. However, any strategy based solely on making the current model of medical care more widely available won't solve all of the problems we confront.

The United States has the most expensive health care system in the world, costing more than $5,000 a person; yet we rank 47th among nations in life expectancy.

Business Week has reported increases in health care costs of 49 percent in the last four years. A 12 percent increase is expected next year.

When we combine spiraling price hikes with the reality of an aging population, we project even higher medical costs in the future because we spend the most medical dollars on people during their last three years of life.

Consider also the increase in obesity. People are mistaken if they think all this talk about obesity is a conspiracy by the diet industry or a product of hype. Medical science tells us that the longer a person is obese, the greater the health risks. An obese male who doesn't exercise reduces his life expectancy by about 20 years.

Neither smoking nor problem drinking have nearly so dramatic an impact.

Today, more than 60 percent of Texas adults are overweight or obese, as are 35 percent of our state's youngsters.

Not only has the number of overweight children tripled in a single generation, children are now being treated for what once was an adult disease. When I went to medical school, Type 2 diabetes was called "adult onset diabetes." Now pediatricians report that children as young as 6 years are being diagnosed with Type 2 diabetes.

Doctors can play an important role by counseling overweight or obese patients. But the medical establishment is only part of the solution to the obesity epidemic and the challenge of improving the public's overall health.

How, then, do we gauge the public's overall health? One simple way is to look at mortality rates. Life expectancy in 1900 was 47 years. One hundred years later, life expectancy reached 77 years.

In that single century, we increased life expectancy by 30 years. Of those three decades of added life, we can directly attribute 25 years to public health measures. But public health spending represents only 3 percent of our overall health-care investment.

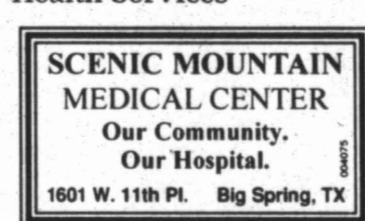

Good health results from a combination of medical care and good public health measures. Simple, familiar public health steps save many lives. Wash your hands, get your child immunized, use insect repellent with DEET. All solid public health messages. Assuring that the public has safe food and water are essential public health duties.

Efforts to reduce tobacco use, discourage excessive alcohol consumption and promote exercise and healthy eating also are public health initiatives that directly affect today's leading causes of death — heart disease, stroke, cancer and diabetes. These diseases are heavily affected by individual lifestyle choices.

I am not suggesting that the solution to today's health care challenges fall entirely on individuals. But neither should we think that the key to improved health depends entirely on medical care. Building healthy communities requires more than the involvement of policy makers or medical care providers; it requires the active participation of everyone who intends to enjoy good health.

Eduardo J. Sanchez, M.D., M.P.H. is commissioner of the Texas Department of State Health Services

Harriers take second, seventh at Odessa meet

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

Four top-20 finishes was not enough to capture a win at the Odessa Invitational Saturday as Big Spring's boys cross country team took second overall at UTPB Park, trailing host Odessa High by just three points.

The Lady Steers team finished seventh out of nine teams.

Sophomore Michael

Rodriguez led the Steers with a four place finish. He crossed the line in 16:20.

Daniel Leos took 10th overall with a time of 17:09, while Jessie Sanchez crossed the line in 14th place after recording a time of 17:19. The final top-20 runner was Zack Dawson, who crossed the line in 17:31 and took 20th overall.

The final two Big Spring scorers — Chris Salazar and Chris Martinez — finished 27th and 30th, respectively. Salazar ran a 17:51, while Martinez crossed the line in 18:02.

Mistie Aguilar led all Big Spring girls with a top-20 finish. She crossed the line in 13:56. Lorissa Rodriguez and Tasha Rios took 26th and 29th, respectively, while freshman Esther Tobar came across in 33rd with a time of 14:37.

Priscilla Bustamante rounded out the girls scoring with a 48th place finish.

The junior varsity boys team was led by eighth-grader Jordan Valle and Dylan Yarbrough, who took seventh and eighth, respectively.

Big Spring will run a triangular meet against San Angelo Central and district rival Lake View this Friday at Birdwell Park.

Also, the Steers' meet at Midland Oct. 23 has changed locations.

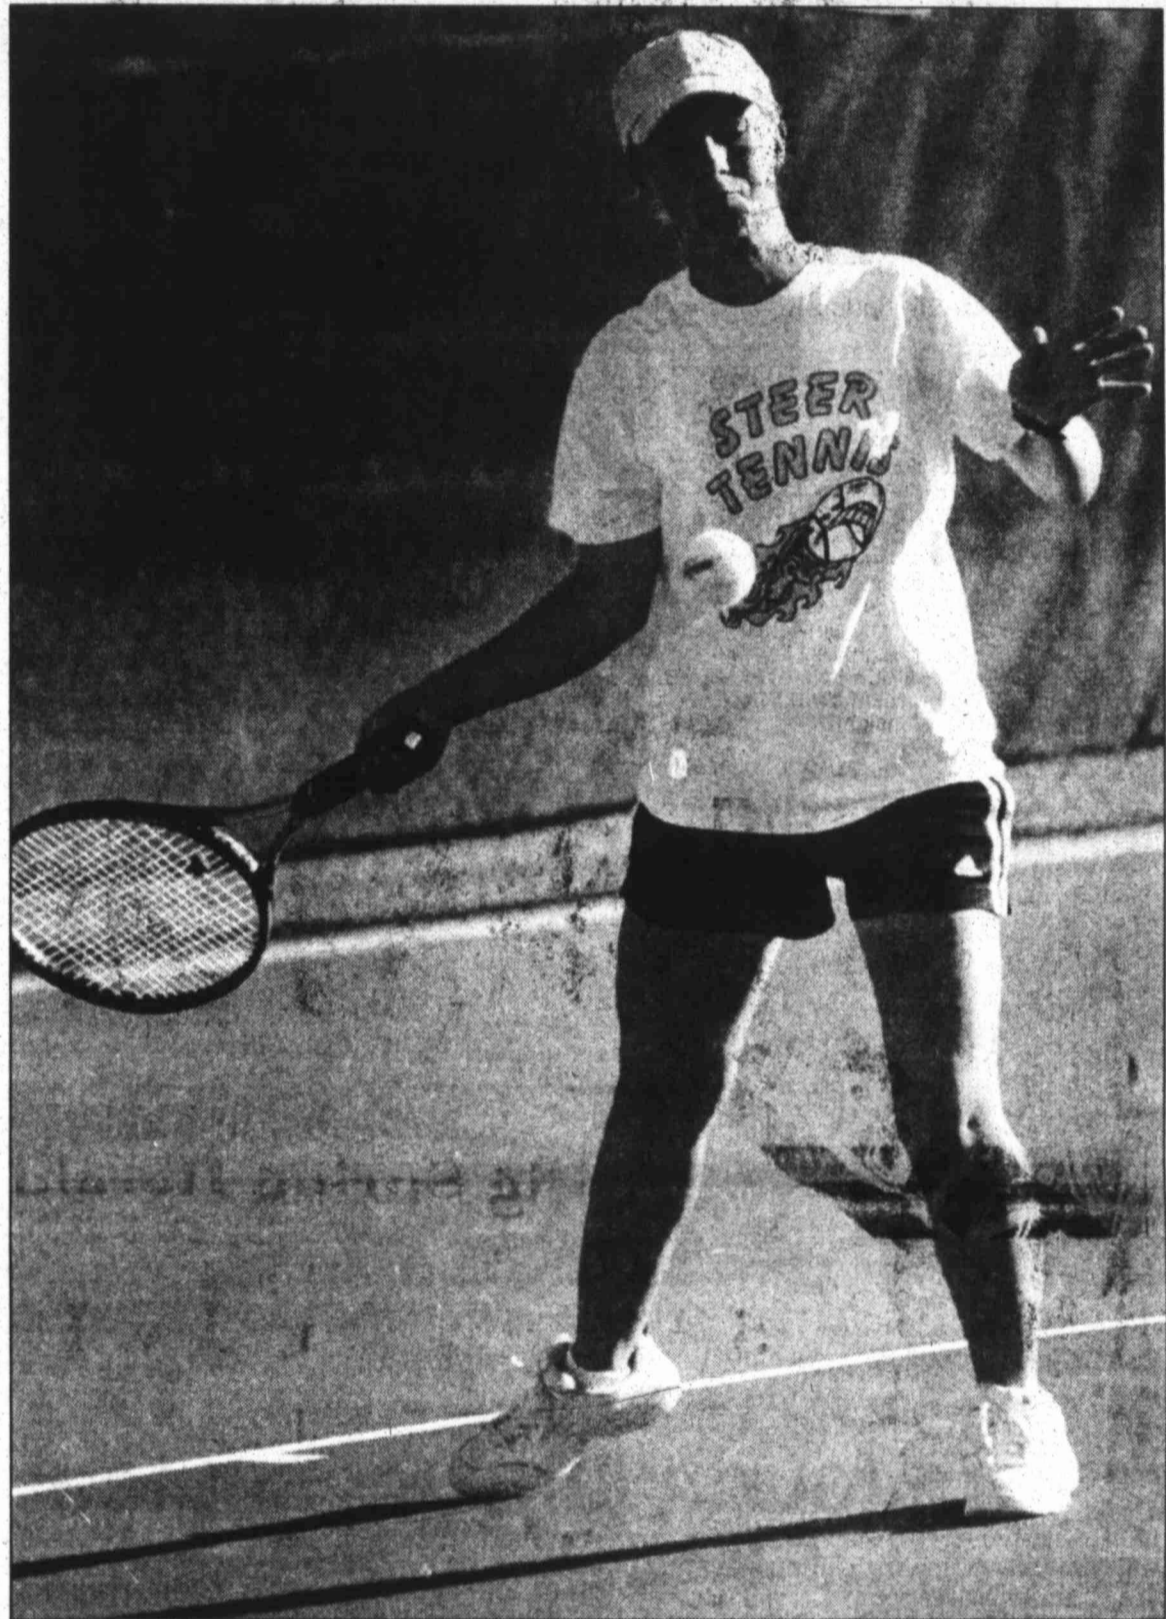

The meet will now be in Lubbock.

Tennis team earns two 19-0 victories

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

Two unusual scores Saturday helped Big Spring's tennis team inch a little closer to a trip to regionals at the end of the month as Big Spring recorded 19-0 victories against both Lubbock Estacado and Plainview.

"I was very pleased with our efforts," said head coach Sarah Corse. "Winning two matches by shut out scores is very hard to come by."

"I asked them to play hard and perform, but I never expected that."

Now, if Big Spring can defeat rival Andrews on the road next Saturday, they will advance to regionals Oct. 30.

The Steers used 12 forfeit matches to defeat Estacado in a regular scheduled match at Comanche Trail Park, but were not really tested in the matches that were played.

Of the seven matches in the game, five of them were straight set shut out wins. Seniors Alex Gariepy and Jessica Rodriguez, junior Natasha Neighbors and sophomore Reinhilde Robinson won all of their singles matches 6-0/6-0. Gariepy and Robinson also won their doubles match by the same score.

Sophomore Roshan

Shroff was the only boys singles member needed in this match and he won easily, 6-1/6-2. The freshmen team of Ryan Gonzales and Allison Ward also recorded a win in mixed doubles, 6-2/6-2.

Lubbock Estacado fields only a team of five players.

Perhaps the biggest surprise Saturday came when the Steers also shut out district rival Plainview, 19-0. This match was postponed earlier in the year due to rain and finished Saturday in Big Spring.

"It is so hard to win without losing a match," said Corse, "but the kids grabbed the bulls by the horns and got it done for us."

Senior Matt Islas and sophomore Bryan Juan had already closed out their match before play was stop originally. They won their match 6-2/6-0. Gonzales and Ward recorded the first win Saturday in mixed doubles as they won by default. And every other doubles team won in straight sets.

On the girls side, Rodriguez and Veronica Villarreal won 6-3/6-3, Gariepy and Robinson won 7-6/6-2 and Neighbors and Jordan won 6-2/6-3.

Spikers start slow, finish strong with arch rival Andrews

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

The Big Spring volleyball squad took a big step toward a Class 4A playoff berth Saturday afternoon after defeating District 4-4A rival Andrews at the Steer Gym in four games.

After dropping the first game to the Mustangs, the Lady Steers battled back to earn the 27-29/25-20/25-21/25-22 victory. The victory was the Lady Steers' 20th of the season. They are now 5-2 in the district with three matches to play.

The Lady Steers showed a little bit of a homecoming hangover in game one. The Mustangs got off to a fast start and lead 7-1 early on. After a Big Spring timeout, the Lady Steers still could many consecutive points and never trailed by less than four points until they cut the margin to 20-17 on a kill by junior Carmen Lewis. Big Spring then followed that point up with two straight points off a combo block and a Lewis kill, which cut the Andrews lead to one. Back-to-back kills by Lewis a few plays later would again cut the margin to one at 22-21.

The game was nip and tuck from there as both teams traded points before Andrews turned in two consecutive points to win by two.

Big Spring got things rolling in game two and took an early 10-7, which triggered an Andrews timeout. The Lady Steers largest lead of game two was six points at 15-9 and 18-12. The final game two victory margin was 25-20.

The Lady Steers trailed only once in game three as seniors Sarah Scott and Shannon Higgins and juniors Raegan Ritchey sparked their team with some big plays. Scott recorded three kills and an ace in the game, while Higgins took part in two kills and an ace, as well. Ritchey and Chesworth turned in two kills apiece and Lewis threw in one for good measure. The team's largest game three lead was five points as the Lady Steers led 13-8 and 14-9 before taking the game 25-21.

Coahoma harriers take 7th

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

The Coahoma cross country team placed sixth of out 14 in Saturday's Abilene Christian University Invitational after placing six girl's in the top-50.

Stephen Ewing, who runs on the boy's varsity team, competed with runners from seven other schools, as well, and took home 14th overall.

The girls were led by Sini Laurikala and Monica Morelion's 24th and 29th place finishes, respectively. Sarah Bartlett, Britnee Nix, Chelesea Gonzales and Callie Paige all finished in the top-50, as well. Bartlett, Nix, Gonzales and Paige took home 45th, 47th, 49th and 50th, respectively.

The Bulldogettes scored 166 points in sixth place. Jim Ned won the meet after scoring 37 points. Holliday and Eula took second and third, respectively, while Hamlin edged out Stamford for fourth.

Big Spring swimmers succeed in Lubbock

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

With 12 top-10 finishes Saturday, the Big Spring swimming team placed seventh out of 26 teams in Lubbock during the Lubbock Relay Invitational.

"The team did an awesome job," said head coach Casey Pacheco.

Rivals Andrews and Abilene Wylie finished 11th and 12th, respectively and only one district competitor defeated the Steers. Big Spring scored 188 points, while Andrews and Wylie recorded 149 and 126 points, respectively. The meet was scored guys and girls combined.

Big Spring took home one second, one third, four fourths, two fifths, one sixth and two seventh place finishes.

The team's best finish came in mixed 200 yard T-shirt relay. The Steers took second in 2:28.99, while the third place finish came in the girls 300 yard medley relay.

The boys played just as well, too.

Seniors "big" Nick Paredez and "little" Nick Rivera had to come back in their match, but won 7-5/6-4. Senior Jason Vela and Shroff won their match 6-3/6-0.

The boys won easily in singles competition, as well. Shroff — like every other singles player — won his match in straight sets 6-3/6-2, while Rivera and Paredez won 6-3/6-1 and 6-0/6-1, respectively.

The boys closed out the day with Vela winning 7-5/6-2, Juan winning 6-3/6-2 and Islas winning 6-0/6-0.

The girls team won four straight set singles matches and won two other three-setters.

Villarreal didn't need much time to dispose of her singles opponent as she won in straight sets 6-0/6-1.

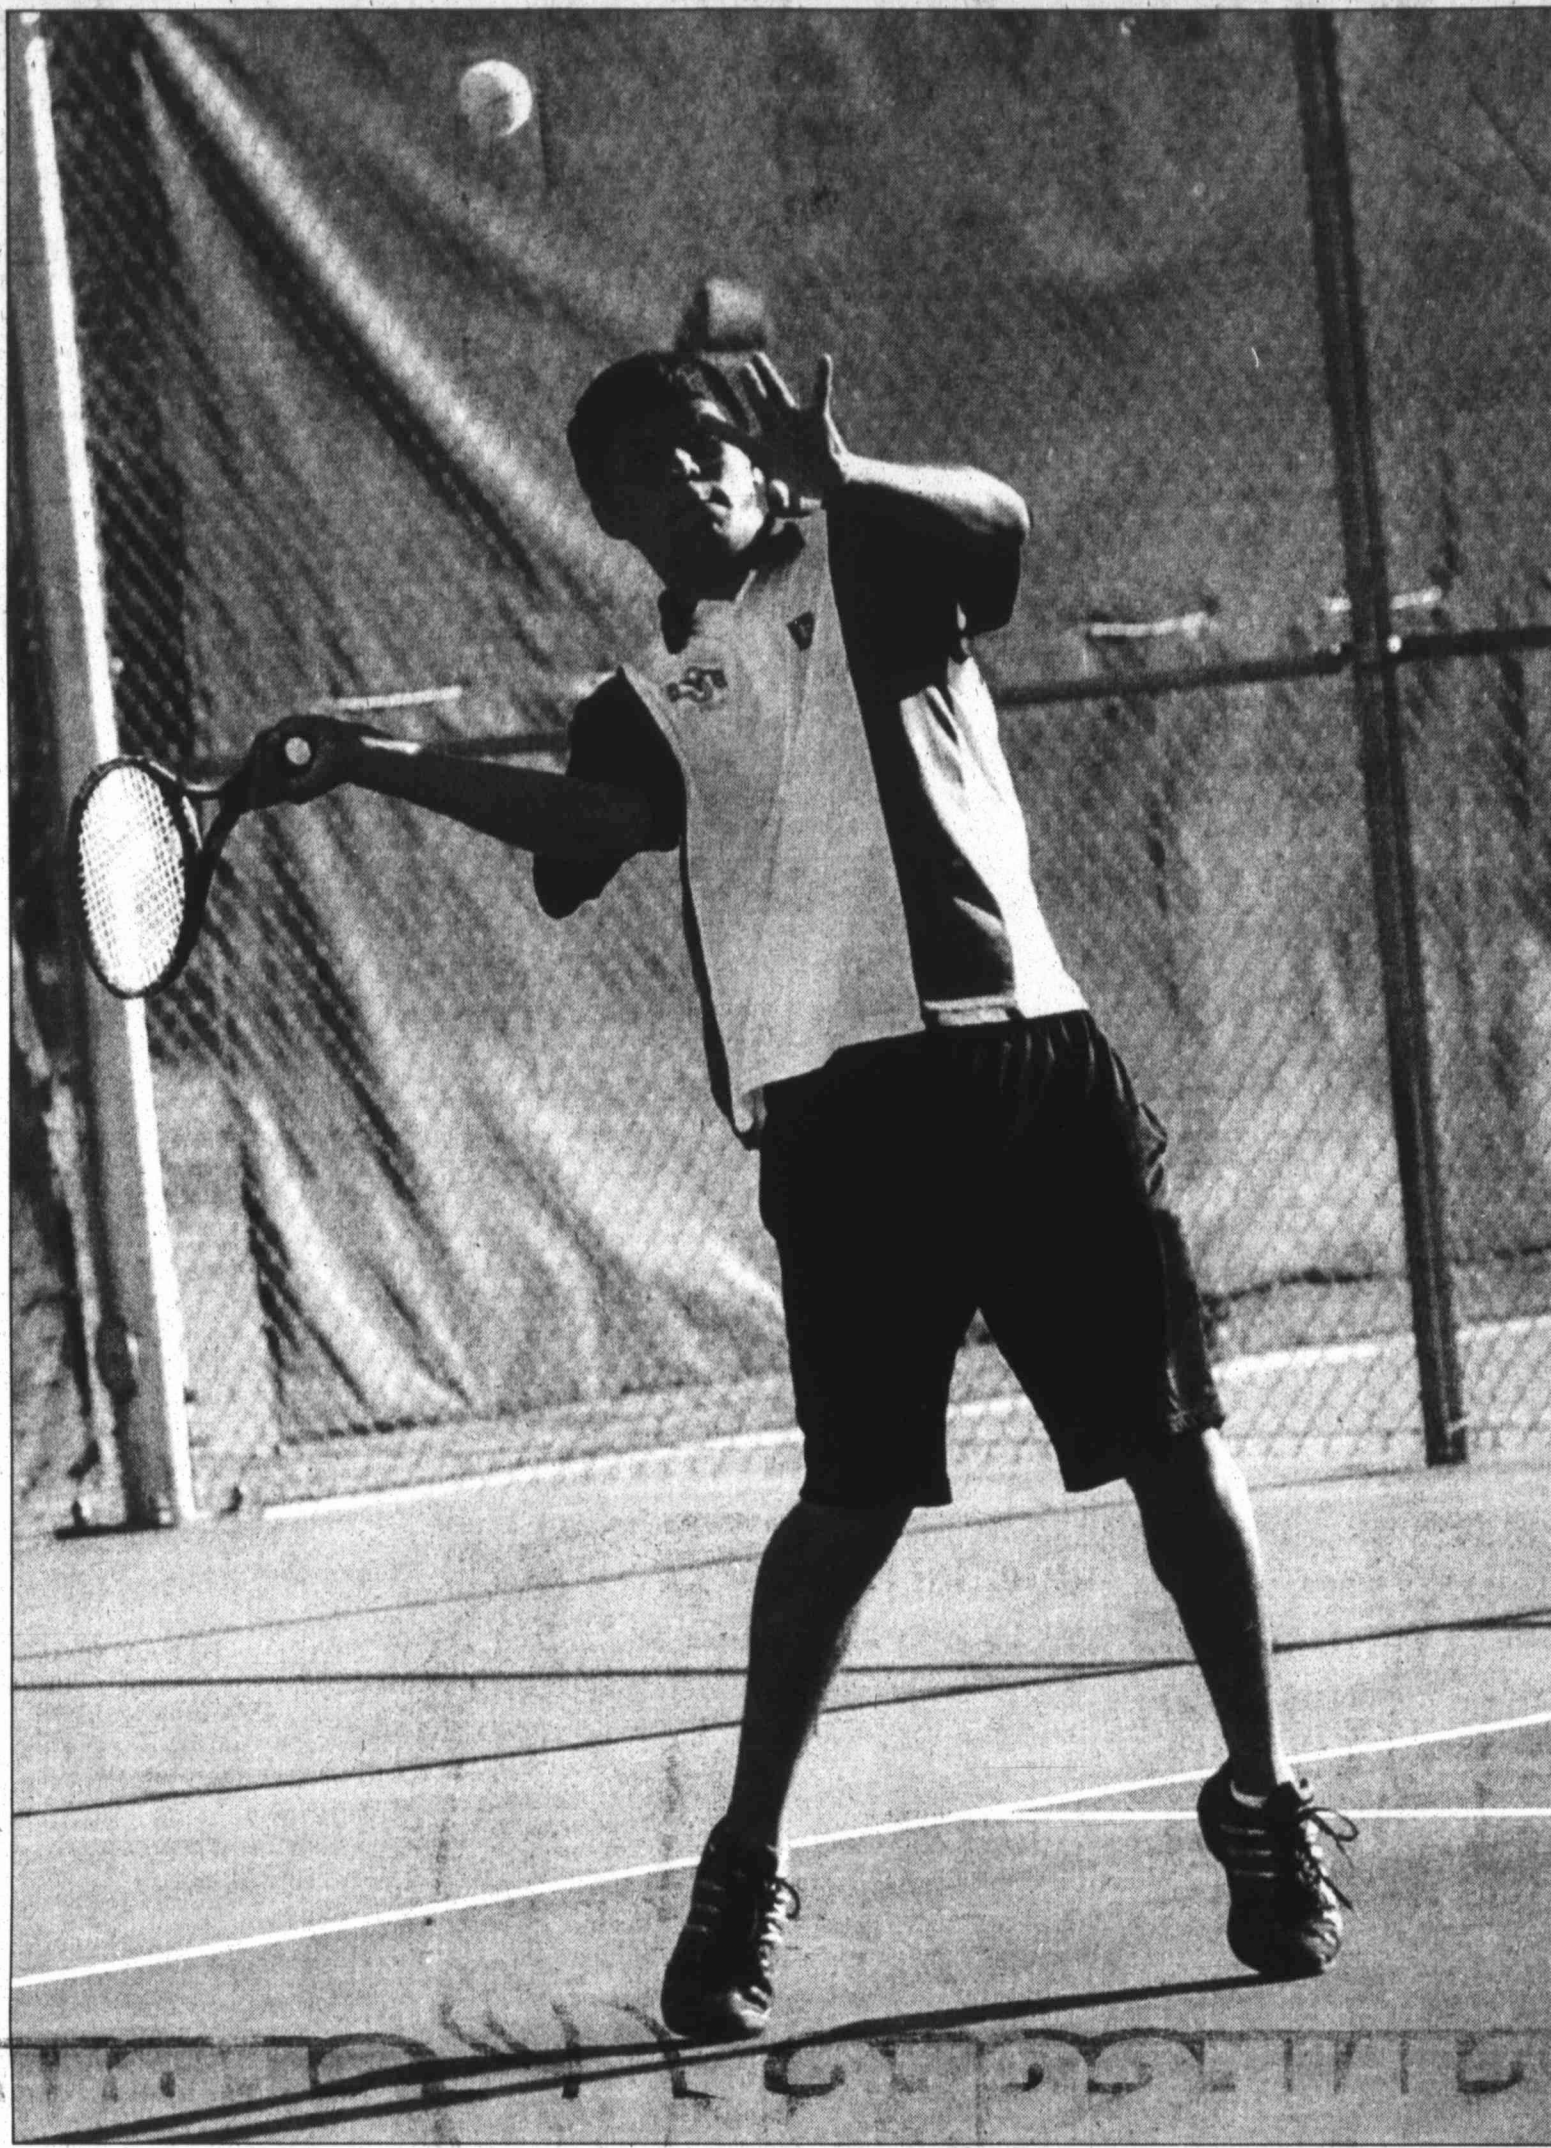

Robinson needed a tiebreaker in her first set, but won fairly easily 7-6/6-2. Neighbors and Jordan also won in straight sets, winning 6-3/6-3 and 6-1/6-0, respectively.

The No. 2 and No. 3 players — Gariepy and Rodriguez — won, but needed three sets to do it. Gariepy dropped the first set 7-5, but came back to take the final two 6-3/4, while Rodriguez won a strange match 6-0/1-6/6-4.

"It was an exciting day for us," said Corse. "We had a bunch of parents there and a lot of ex-students came back to town to watch, as well."

Big Spring (9-6 and 3-1) will travel to Andrews Saturday with hopes of securing a spot at regionals.

"We will advance to regionals if we play like we did Saturday," said Corse. "I think the team now believes they can win."

Big Spring senior Nick Paredez zones in on the ball before returning it over the net in his singles match against Plainview Saturday at Figure 7 Tennis Center inside Comanche Trail Park. The Steers defeated rivals Plainview and Lubbock Estacado by identical 19-0 scores.

finish came in the boys 200 yard breaststroke relay. The team crossed in 2:24.80. The other three fourth place finishes came during the boys 200 yard backstroke relay, the boys 400 yard freestyle relay and the girls 400 yard freestyle relay.

The first fifth place finish was recorded in the boys 200 yard freestyle relay. The team crossed the finish line in 1:44.74. The other fifth place finish came in a girls inner-tube relay race.

Big Spring's next swim will take place Thursday at the Big Spring YMCA. The meet is Andrews' home meet. The Steers' annual invitational will take place Oct. 22 and 23.

Coahoma JV loses at home to C-City

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

The Coahoma junior varsity football team fell short Thursday against rival Colorado City, 30-16. The Wolves were helped by four second half touchdowns, including the only two scores of the fourth quarter.

The Wolves opened the game's scoring in the first quarter on a run from scrimmage.

The extra-point was no good, however, and Colorado City led 6-0.

Coahoma got on the board in the second quarter on a one-yard run by Dakota Teaff.

Then Stephen Ewing added the two-point conversion on a run to put the Bulldogs up 8-6, which carried into half-time.

Colorado City grabbed the lead back in the third quarter with back-to-back touchdowns runs.

The Wolves were unable to get either extra point, but led 18-8 at that point.

The Bulldogs cut the lead to two points near the end of the third quarter after Ryan Kennedy scored on a 52-yard run. Ewing's pass to Jason Gonzales on the two-point conversion made the score 18-16 in favor of the Wolves.

Colorado City added two touchdowns in the final frame.

Coahoma will travel to Anson next Thursday.

The Coahoma varsity team will try to get its first district win of the season Friday at home against Anson.

Forsan eighth-graders earn fourth straight shutout

By TROY HYDE

Sports Editor

The Forsan junior high football teams each recorded wins Thursday over the seventh- and eighth-grade Bronte Shorthorns.

Forsan's seventh-grade team won 14-0, while the eighth-grade keeps its winning streak alive with a 42-0 shutout win.

It was the eighth-grade team's fifth straight win and fourth consecutive shutout.

"The guys played great team defense and both teams did an outstanding job," said Forsan junior high coach Brad Batla.

In the seventh-grade game, Jake Moore and Ryan Flores scored one touchdown apiece behind great blocking from Aaron Johnson, Travis Ellison, Zack Spears, Jordan Grisham, and Josh Hatfield.

The Forsan eighth-grade team (5-0) got two touchdowns apiece from Jace Sandridge and Vince Penick.

The Buffaloes also scored on a kick-off return by Jeremy Frietag and on a 20-yard pass completion from Jeremy Robbins to Chance Pool.

The Buffaloes defense forced a fumble and got an interception by Clay Lockhart, as well.

Both the seventh and eighth-grade teams take on Roscoe next week.

New York scores 20 second half points, knocks off Dallas

By JAIME ARON

AP Sports Writer

IRVING — Bill Parcells knew the game was getting away from the Dallas Cowboys. Yet he thought one jolt could put them back in control.

So with Dallas down only six points and more than 10 minutes left, he made a huge gamble: Going for it on fourth-and-1 from the Cowboys' 43.

Oops. The New York Giants expected a pass and perfectly defended a short throw to fullback Darian Barnes, helping them build on their momentum — and the lead.

A field goal on the ensuing drive sent the Giants to a 26-10 victory, ending Dallas' modest two-game winning streak and giving the Cowboys a tough early season loss to a division foe.

"This is definitely a game that hurts," safety Tony Dixon said. "And it will for a while."

Parcells blamed himself for the fourth-down failure, as well as a miss on fourth-and-inches from the New York 5 in the first quarter.

However, he noted that he wouldn't have had to try creating momentum if Dallas (2-2) had played better — like not committing 11 penalties or squandering a 2-minute drill before halftime with a fumble that led to a field goal for the Giants.

"We're just stupid," Parcells said. "We're just dumb."

The Cowboys regained their running game, but lost their passing attack. The defense went from doing a nice job early on Tiki Barber to seeing him pull off a key 58-yard run and a back-breaking 55-yard reception.

Barber finished with 122 yards rushing and the first rushing TD against Dallas in 28 quarters. Steve Christie added four field goals, sending New York (4-1) to its fourth straight win, matching its season total from last season.

New York coach Tom Coughlin spent three years working for Parcells. His knowledge of his former boss may have paid off there as his defense spread the field instead of packing the middle, as it did on the first try — a run, like the Giants were expecting.

"It's almost an insult to our defense when guys go for it on fourth down," New York defensive end Michael Strahan said.

Christie capped the ensuing possession with a 26-yarder, making him 4-for-4 after an ugly three-miss performance the previous week.

Barber put the game away on the next drive, first with his long reception on third-and-10, then with his TD run.

and trailing 3-1 early on in the deciding fourth game, the Lady Steers were able to close out the match and earn the three games to one match victory with a 25-22 game four win.

Big Spring's final regular season home match will take place Tuesday at the Steer Gym.

The team will play rival Frenship and honor the seniors before the match begins at 7:15.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY JOYCE JILLSON This Columbus Day, the moon is in Virgo, the sign of taking care of what you've got. Instead of celebrating the spirit of exploration that Columbus represents, our minds are on domestic issues. Taking care of home and hearth are the key to happiness. This requires a bit of elbow grease, by the way. Don't be afraid to jump in and help.

JOYCE JILLSON

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The best way to show your might is by remaining flexible. Particularly in regard to group activities, a willingness to cooperate and reach a workable compromise serves you better than obstinacy. Gentle persistence wins the day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). When the going gets rough and people start to butt heads, remember that the only power any of us really has is the power to relinquish control. Knowing that you can walk away from the table gives you tremendous leverage.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Don't believe your eyes. Your insecurities may be keeping you from seeing the truth of the situation. In fact, things may be opposite to how they appear. Just because the numbers add up doesn't mean the figures are right.

CANCER (June 22-July

22). The essence of knowledge lies in emotion, not thought. It's not often that your intuition about a person or situation leads you astray, and others rely on your wisdom for guidance. You, too, should believe your higher sense.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Struggle serves a purpose in your life. Without it, you would never fully realize your potential and do the work you're meant to do in this world. The most amazing breakthrough may come when you're at your lowest point.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You're your own worst critic, Virgo. Nothing you do ever seems to meet your high standards of perfection. Would you be this hard on your friends? Practice being kind to yourself. Practice forgiveness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). If you're feeling a void in your life, fill it with meaning. Make it your mission to leave this world a better place than it was when you arrived. You don't need to win the Nobel Prize. Just think about what it is you do best, and then, do it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Be careful what you say. The walls have ears, and speaking badly of someone could land you in some seriously hot water. Resist the urge to join in when your co-workers bash the boss — there may be a mole in your midst.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). There are very few things you really need in life, and there are a great many people in the world who do not have even these. If you're reading this, you are more fortunate than most of the people in the world. Be grateful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). If you find yourself detaching and pulling back from a person or situation, ask yourself what you're afraid of. Is it emotional intimacy you fear? Yes, it's risky being emotionally present. But the rewards are well worth it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). When you have a sense of purpose and place, everything around you seems to shift. Suddenly, so-called coincidences take on new meaning, and good things flow toward you. Life feels effortless.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Maybe you don't have the answers because you're asking the wrong questions. Your tired old ways of thinking no longer apply. Throw out your rulebooks. Forget everything you think you know. Focus on what you feel.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "Fifteen years ago, I had breast augmentation surgery. I am 45 years old and in a very serious relationship. My significant other has no idea that I have implants. I didn't go overboard with them, and there is no scarring that shows. I made the decision for all the right reasons and also feel that they do not define who I am. I wanted to know your thoughts on whether this is something I need to or should share with my significant other."

Anyone who truly loves you isn't going to care whether or not you had your breasts done. On the other hand, there are certain signs that might be hurt that you didn't trust them with the information — namely Scorpio, Virgo and Pisces. If you think there's any way that your Scorpio, Virgo or Pisces would find out, maybe through an old friend of yours with a bad sense of social grace or a family member with a big mouth, then it's better to prevent upset by mentioning the surgery yourself. Other than that, I see no reason why you should feel obligated to tell anyone unless you really want to.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Fiddler Martie Maguire is a Dixie Chick with Libran style. When her innovative all-girl trio first came on the country-music scene, it was unheard of for the women of country music to dress in cutting-edge fashion. But Maguire was instrumental in bringing sophisticated city glamour to her rootsy art form. Leave it to a Libra to mold the aesthetic sensibility of a genre known for its traditional sartorial rules.

Annie's Mailbox: Advice for those in need

Dear Annie: My husband and I have a bad situation with our 17-year-old daughter, "Tandy." Twice in the last few months, Tandy has come home drunk after attending parties. My husband and I think the drinking started at the end of her freshman year. Until then, Tandy was a good student. Now she rarely gets above a C.

Tandy has her driver's license, so she can tell me she is going one place and end up at another. After the last episode of drinking, we grounded her and suspended driving privileges for two months, so she is not allowed to leave the house except for school. She had to give up her after-school sport because neither her father nor I can drive her back and forth.

Now that she is homebound, Tandy cries that she is going to lose all her friends and that everyone thinks we're rotten parents because we keep such close tabs on her. I don't believe it. She says she hates me and limits her side of our conversations to monosyllabic responses.

My husband and I don't trust Tandy. She has lied to us more than we could ever have imagined. I know we must stand firm with our punishment, but we are afraid that we could lose Tandy forever. We are seeking family counseling but want to know what else we should be doing. — Trying To Be a Good Parent

Dear Trying: Family counseling is a good start, and yes, your punishment is fair and you should stick to it. It's hardly unusual for teenagers to lash out against their parents, but that doesn't mean you should cave. Tandy is testing your resolve.

The most important thing is to approach any discipline with love and concern instead of anger and disappointment.

their doctor. Here's another:

KATHY MITCHELL MARCY SUGAR

Tandy needs to see in your eyes, and hear in your voice, that she is precious to you, and that is why you care so much.

Dear Annie: A patient of mine sent me your column on statin medications and memory loss. Many people who take statins are in an age group in which memory loss is common. Although muscle aches are a known and sometimes serious side effect of statins, these medications are not known to cause dementia, and in fact are being looked at as a possible treatment for it.

As a physician, I see hundreds of people whose high levels of cholesterol make them a target for heart attacks or strokes. Many of these people either refuse to take statin medication or stop taking it because they fear possible side effects. Please get out of the medical business. — Doc in Connecticut

Dear Doc: Part of the purpose of this column is to educate. The vast majority of those with high cholesterol benefit enormously from statins, and there is no question that they save lives. But when readers ask about credible studies linking statin use to muscle and joint pain and memory loss in a small minority of patients, we feel an obligation to print the information. They can then discuss any concerns with might come back in the middle, so we often end up not doing anything.

It really bothers me that I feel such pressure from Cara's keen hearing that I need to hide out. My husband and I both are saddened that our lives are not what they could be at this stage in the game. I have talked to Cara about it, and she insists she doesn't want to stop us from enjoying ourselves. Nonetheless, I am frozen and cannot seem to shake it off. What do we do? — Under a Cloud

Dear Under a Cloud: The best solution would be if Cara found her own living arrangements, and you should encourage this. You also might consider installing some soundproofing material on your walls so Cara stops eavesdropping on your love life. Until then, put out a "Do Not Disturb" sign or wrap your husband's tie on the entrance doorknob, and tell Cara it means she should run some errands for a couple of hours. Otherwise, you may have to send her to graduate school.
