CISD trustees reject reimbursement plea by student's father

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Coahoma school trustees capped a routine meeting Thursday night by declining a parent's request for reimbursement following a theft of animals at the district's agriculture barn.

The barn, which is operated by the Coahoma Future Farmers of America, has been subjected to recent vandalism, according to one of the parents, Patrick Buske.

Buske addressed trustees in October concerning the theft of animals he was keeping at the FFA barn north of Coahoma. During the past four years, Buske said goats kept at the barns have been either vandalized or stolen. Recently, two of his children's goats were taken from the barn, he added.

Prior to Thursday's meeting, however, Superintendent Jerry Johnson said he did not believe the district to be liable in the matter.

"It's not mandatory for people to keep their ani-

Howard College President Dr. Cheryl Sparks speaks during Thursday ceremonies marking the 60th anniversary of the creation of the Howard County Junior College District. The college unveiled a new arboretum and carillon to mark the occasion.

60th anniversary time for reflection

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

The 60th anniversary of the creation of the Howard County Junior College District was as much a time for reflection as celebration.

A crowd of about 100 gathered in front of the college administration building Thursday morning to mark the anniversary with the dedication of an arboretum and a carillon.

College President Dr. Cheryl Sparks, noting that the Big Spring campus has grown from an enrollment of little more than 100 to its current 2,731, credited the college's growth to the vision of its founders.

"It's really hard to believe that the Howard County Junior College District has been in existence for 60 years," she said. "I'm amazed by the vision and courage of those who created the district. Now, 60 years later, we are standing here and celebrating that vision."

"In a way, they are handing it off to us," Sparks added. "Maybe, someday

CAMPING FOR TURKEYS

PITCAIRN, Pa. (AP) — A pastor who had been camping on his church roof came down after collecting more than 500 turkeys for needy families.

Pastor David Martin of the Pitcairn Assembly of God had said he would camp on the roof in a tent until he collected the birds. He began Monday and had collected 255 turkeys as of noon Wednesday. Someone promised him more than 100 turkeys which, along with other donations, surpassed his goal of 500.

"I wanted to bless the community," he said. "And you figure if you do something a little strange, people will show up, and they did."

BATTLE OF BANDS SET

The Permian Basin Chapter Cossacks will host its annual Battle of the Bands Saturday, joined with a chili and brisket cookoff.

The event, which is expected to begin at noon Saturday, is a fund-raiser for the Cossack's "Bykes for Tykes" Christmas program.

Admission is $10 per person. However, the equivalent of $10 in non-perishable food items or a new, unwrapped toy will also be accepted.

For more information or to enter one of the three competitions, contact Chapter Vice President Mike Lindsey at 432-517-0368.

Texas briefs

Charges against Los Lonely Boys drummer dismissed

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Los Lonely Boys drummer Ringo Garza had misdemeanor drug possession charges dismissed after his wife said marijuana found in their West Texas home belonged only to her, prosecutors said.

Lenora Garza, 25, was fined $2,000 and credited with time served after she pleaded guilty Wednesday to a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana.

The same charge against her husband was dismissed because she claimed sole ownership of a container housing less than two ounces of the drug, Tom Green County Attorney Chris Taylor said.

"It's a misdemeanor marijuana case — in some circles, that's a badge of achievement," defense attorney Dick DeGuerin said. "I don't mean to be flippant, but I don't think it's a terrible thing."

Ringo Garza, 23, and his wife were arrested in January after their home was searched by police.

The arrest was the drummer's second for possession of marijuana. He pleaded no contest to a similar charge in 2003.

Two men indicted in 1983 KFC murders

HENDERSON (AP) — More than two decades after the slayings of five people abducted from a Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant in Kilgore, two men were indicted on capital murder charges.

Darnell Hartsfield, 44, and Romeo Pinkerton, 47, both of Tyler, were indicted Thursday by a Rusk County grand jury on five counts each. Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott, whose office is prosecuting the case, said he has not decided whether to seek the death penalty.

Their indictments are the culmination of a years-long investigation. Several law enforcement agencies investigated through the years. Authorities re-examined evidence in recent years, using DNA and other technology that was unavailable two decades ago, and uncovered new evidence, Abbott said.

Among those who worked on the case was James Stroud, a childhood friend and later a pallbearer in the funeral of one of the victims, 20-year-old David Maxwell.

During his time as Rusk County Sheriff, Stroud hired retired FBI agent George Kiemy part-time after meeting him in 1998.

He and Kiemy gathered evidence and statements in the case and pieced them together. One crucial moment came when the case was presented before the Sheriff's Association of Texas, Stroud told the Longview News-Journal.

"We learned of available technology to assist us," he said, "and that's what led us to take a different direction in the case."

Abbott said he did not know if anyone else is a suspect but that the investigation remains open.

Maxwell, 20; Joey Johnson, 20; Monty Landers, 19;

Mary Tyler, 37, and Opie Hughes, 38, were found in an oil field with gunshot wounds to the head in September 1983.

Minister's wife charged with soliciting minor

BURNET (AP) — A youth minister's wife has been accused of posing as a teenage girl for months and sending dozens of letters to a 15-year-old in which she asked him to have sex, authorities said.

Investigators say Amanda White, 27, had phone sex with the teen, left him bras, underwear, condoms and personal lubricant.

White was charged Nov. 9 with criminal solicitation of a minor, a third-degree felony.

Police say the teenage boy discovered the admirer he knew as Mandy was White, the wife of the youth minister at Victory Baptist Church in Burnet and a mother. He told his mother, who contacted authorities, said Burnet police Capt. Paul Nelson.

Officers found 50 to 75 handwritten letters and cards that White wrote to the boy, according to the affidavit. They were written during the summer, Nelson said.

The teenager said he would go to White's home to pick up letters he thought his admirer had left for him. He told police that Mandy called frequently and that he thought they were going to meet for sex, the affidavit said.

White told investigators she started writing the teenager for fun after seeing a photo of him on a friend's cell phone.

BUDGET

such as Medicaid, food stamps and student loan subsidies. Republicans said reining in such programs whose costs spiral upward each year automatically is the first step to restoring fiscal discipline.

"This unchecked spending is growing faster than our economy, faster than inflation, and far beyond our means to sustain it," said Budget Committee Chairman Jim Nussle, R-Iowa.

In passing the bill, Republicans buffed up their party's budget-cutting credentials as they try to reduce a deficit swelled by spending on the Iraq war and Hurricane Katrina. Democrats countered that a companion tax bill that could advance as early as Friday would more than eat up the savings.

The budget plan squeaked through after an all-day search by Hastert, Blunt and others to round up votes from reluctant moderates and other lawmakers uneasy with the bill.

House leaders now face arduous talks with the Senate, which passed a much more modest plan earlier this month. Negotiators face difficult negotiations over Arctic drilling, Medicaid and student loans, among other issues.

Fourteen Republicans voted "no," including several who had harshly condemned the bill in the days leading up to the vote.

To win House approval, Hastert ordered modest concessions on plans to limit eligibility for food stamps and require the poorest Medicaid patients to pay more for their care. He ordered killed a provision to deny free school lunches to about 40,000 children whose parents would lose their food stamps.

The biggest concession came Thursday evening with inclusion of language to permit food stamp recipients making the transition from welfare to work to continue to be able to receive non-cash benefits for child care, transportation and housing without losing their nutrition benefits.

The bill drew unanimous opposition from Democrats, who objected to both cuts in programs for the poor and the fact that the deficit-reduction bill would increase the deficit when combined with a tax bill slated for a vote later that would extend tax cuts on capital gains and dividend income due to expire at the end of 2008.

The overall bill would cut the deficit through a combination of new revenues from auctioning television airwaves to wireless companies and myriad cuts to entitlement programs like Medicaid.

The earlier concession to moderates involved leaving co-payments for the poorest Medicaid beneficiaries at $3 instead of raising them to $5. A provision denying Medicaid nursing home benefits to people with home equity of $500,000 or more was modified by raising the equity standard to $750,000 or more.

Those changes came on top of concessions last week when Republican leaders, to appease moderates in their party, dropped provisions to open ANWR to oil drilling and to allow states to lift a moratorium on oil drilling off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Despite the changes, the core of the five-year, $50 billion deficit-reduction bill remains intact. The liberal-leaning Center on Budget and Policy Priorities estimated that the last minute changes only eased the cuts aimed at the poor by 2 percent from the original version.

On Medicaid, the bill would generate almost $12 billion in savings through new cost-sharing burdens on beneficiaries and by letting states scale back coverage. It also would tighten rules designed to limit the ability of elderly people to shed assets to qualify for nursing home care. The bill also reduces pharmacy profit margins and encourages pharmacies to issue generic drugs.

On student loans, provisions to increase interest rates and fees paid by student and parent borrowers would contribute up to $14.3 billion in savings.

The deficit-reduction bill is the first effort in eight years to take on the automatic growth of mandatory programs like Medicaid, which make up about 55 percent of the budget. By comparison, the annual appropriations bills fund about one-third of the budget.

someone will be standing here celebrating our contributions."

Sparks gave special thanks to four individuals or organizations she said were instrumental in the district's founding: Dr.

P.W. Malone, who served as a trustee for more than 50 years, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Big Spring Independent School District and the Big Spring Herald, particularly long-time editor Joe Pickle.

Howard County voters authorized the creation of Howard County Junior College and elected the college's first board of trustees Nov. 17, 1945. At that time, they also approved a $200,000 bond issue to finance early land purchases and construction.

The first classes were held Sept. 30, 1946, at the site of the old Big Spring

Bombardier School, with 12 faculty members and 128 students enrolled.

The college moved to its current location on the east side of Big Spring in 1951, and has enjoyed steady growth since then, currently enrolling 2,784 students.

Over the years, Howard College has enrolled more than 293,000 students, Sparks said.

The district also has expanded, now supporting four campuses — in Big Spring, San Angelo, Lamesa and the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf — and a service area of 13 West Texas counties.

missing, parents can present the disc to police, who can access it immediately and send it nationwide through the Amber Alert system.

"With the Amber Alert program ... if we can get fingerprints and photographs, it lessens the chance of that child being gone forever," said Wayne Jones, BSPD crime scene specialist. "We've got a much better chance of finding these children with this information on hand."

The program, which is funded solely through the membership dues from the Citizen's Police Academy, has grown over the last several years, according to Jones.

As for the fingerprinting and photographs, Jones said it's an excellent opportunity for parents to help protect their children and show them they are loved.

"All I need is a parent or a guardian to sign a release to do the fingerprints," said Jones. "I have to have a release to do the fingerprints on these young people. It can be a grandmother, mother, father, or grandfather to sign for them. Bring your sons, daughters, nieces, or nephews, because this is an excellent time for these people to bring the children in their lives in to show how much they care for them."

Jones said they expect between 150 to 200 children to be added to the program.

Sky's is located at 1513 East FM 700.

OUR VIEWS

We salute:

Each week, the Herald salutes individuals and groups from our community and area who have been recognized for special achievements or accomplishments.

We recognize these special people for working to help make our region a better place to live, work and play

This week we salute:

• Bill Crocker, who was re-elected to the Ports to Plains Corridor Coalition board of directors this month.

• Our nation's veterans, for service to their country; the groups, organizations and public schools that took the time to offer programs recognizing our service men and women on Veterans Day; and to all those who attended the programs or paused for a thankful prayer.

• Howard College, for hosting its annual College Fair. This activity helps area high school students with selecting an institution of higher learning as well as area junior college students in choosing a place to further their education.

• The many people who organized and participated in Tuesday's reception honoring Hurricane Katrina survivors and the multitude of local volunteers who assisted in making them comfortable here.

• Howard College, again, this time on the start of the institution's 60th anniversary. What is planned as a year-long celebration began Thursday with an arboretum dedication program.

• Buck Turner, honored as the Hangar 25 Air Museum's Veteran of the Month for November. Congratulations, Buck!

Is there an individual or organization in our community that you feel should be saluted? If so, please send us their name and why you think they should be recognized. We must have your name and telephone number and you must provide it in writing.

HOW TO CONTACT US

The Herald is always interested in our readers' opinions. In order that we might better serve your needs, we offer several ways in which you may contact us:

- In person at 710 Scurry St.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

You, Lord, want to help us if we'll just let You.

Amen

Who's harming America's image?

Democrat honchos, while forever complaining that President Bush has hurt America's image in the world, have themselves been engaged in a systematic campaign to slander President Bush, particularly over foreign policy, consequently undermining America's image in the world.

Indeed, if you wanted to discredit America in the eyes of other nations, how would you go about doing it? Would you:

Constantly wring your hands over our alleged torture of terrorist detainees, likening certain mildly tough and infrequently implemented interrogation techniques to the worst kinds of torture practiced in history?

Falsely accuse high administration officials of virtually authorizing certain renegade military personnel of employing clearly unapproved interrogation methods?

Unconscionably accuse the Bush administration of lying about Saddam Hussein's weapons of mass destruction to deceive the public into support for the war? (Sorry for repeating this one, but its egregiousness requires that it be on every list, no matter how often.)

Ludicrously accuse the Bush administration of attacking Iraq for the purpose of exploiting Middle Eastern oil?

Lambaste the administration for "unilaterally" attacking Iraq, though, in fact, many other nations were on board and we earnestly tried to recruit others, including those whose intelligence agencies agreed that Saddam had WMD stockpiles — not to mention that some of them had been bought off by Saddam?

Downplay any good news coming out of Iraq, especially concerning the Iraqi people's steady march toward constitutional autonomy?

Also downplay just how brutal Saddam's regime was and sometimes even imply Iraq is worse off now than under Saddam?

Portray the terrorist anarchists sabotaging the Iraqis' drive for freedom as insurgents, freedom fighters or revolutionaries: those with different, yet morally equivalent ideas on Iraq's governance?

Promote the convenient canard that our preemptively motivated military action against Iraq has caused otherwise peacefully inclined Islamic radicals to hate us? (France, anyone?)

Speciously argue the Wilson/Plame debacle besmirches the entire administration even though the very Scooter Libby indictment you cite as validation for your charge is a precise refutation of it?

Cite that same Libby indictment, which is bereft of evidence implicating anyone in the administration of violating any crimes pertaining to national security, as a compelling reason for President Bush to "clean house"?

Depict the United States as the singular demon on the world stage for refusing to sign on to the Kyoto Protocol even though its essential premises are highly suspect and it could wreck our economy and severely compromise our sovereignty?

Suggest, directly or indirectly, that the United States is responsible for "widespread" feelings of ill will around the globe against it?

With respect to this last point I refer you to a recent episode of "Hannity and Colmes" involving anti-American protests in Argentina accompanying the president's recent visit there for the Summit of the Americas. Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez egged on the protestors by denouncing President Bush as "Mr. Danger," and the United States as "the evil empire."

Guest Susan Estrich, anticipating that guest Ann Coulter might partially blame American liberals for the protest, said, "I don't know a single soul who's protesting down there. I don't think that we (liberals) are responsible for them. You can't blame us for what's going on down there."

Then, amazingly, Estrich turned right around and said, "I do think that one of the issues they're protesting about is the War in Iraq, and I do think the president is vulnerable, obviously, because Karl Rove is still under investigation. He's refusing to comment about that. He's refusing to say anything about the fact that Scooter Libby is pleading in court now. And, you know the more we hear the more it becomes clear that we were lied to about the basis for this war, and at some point there's going to have to be some reckoning here, and I think we would be in a stronger position if the president would be more forthcoming on that."

In other words, Susan, perhaps the violent protests in Argentina against us are our "reckoning" for President Bush's "lies" to get us into war and refusal to be forthcoming?

If this weren't such a familiar routine it would be jaw-dropping. Liberals have become so used to defaming President Bush, it apparently doesn't occur to them that they are doing much more to harm America's image than President Bush.

How can we possibly expect other nations — even our allies (who one would reasonably assume not to be as loyal as our own opposition party) — to hold us in high esteem while that opposition party daily proclaims that our president is an uncompassionate, dishonest, Machiavellian, imperialist, racist, oil-thieving, unilateralist, sadistic, torturing cowboy hell-bent on alienating peaceful Muslims the world over?

Bush tax cuts just haven't worked

One of our better political commentators, Tom Tomorrow, has boiled down our entire current political debate to one question: "Are they stupid, or are they lying?" This seems to me pretty much how it goes, each side reduced to accusing the other of living in an alternate reality.

When it comes to many actions of the Republican Congress, there is now a substantial track record of results. The evidence is in.

For five years now, the Republicans have promised us that business tax cuts would strengthen the economy, create new jobs, spur growth, foster investment, and bring beer and skittles for everyone. Over five fiscal years, the tax cuts have had a direct cost to the treasury of $860 billion — with interest, $929 billion.

Lee Price of the Economic Policy Institute points out: "The fact that all major economic indicators are higher today than in early 2001 does not mean the tax cuts have been beneficial. Since the Great Depression, the resilient U.S. economy has always had gains over such four-year periods. The appropriate question to ask is: How well has the economy performed compared to similar periods in the past? If the last four years of tax cuts had worked as promised, the economy should have done better than in previous cycles, when taxes were either not cut or cut much less." We all down for that?

Unfortunately, the EPI concludes, "By virtually every measure, the economy has performed worse in this business cycle than was typical of past ones, including that of the 1990s, which saw major tax increases."

In 2001, the economy entered a recession not long before the first Bush tax cuts — what the economists call a "shallow recession" (why don't they ever talk to the people whose unemployment insurance ran out?). The economy has been in an expansionist phase since November 2001. EPI found an annual growth rate of wage and salary income of 1.3 percent, below all six previous cycles and nearly 2 percentage points below their average 3.2 percent growth.

As for the cuts supposed to spur investment: "Business investment in structures, equipment and software (so-called 'non-residential investment') was only 3.6 percent higher in the second quarter of 2005 than it had been in the first quarter of 2001. That is less than half of the 8.2 percent growth found in the worst of the six prior cycles, and but one-eighth of the 27.5 percent growth rate in the strongest prior cycle."

The EPI study goes on to provide charts, bells and whistles measuring all this six ways from Sunday. The series of major tax cuts enacted in the past four years has not strengthened the economy. Every broad measure — GDP, jobs, personal income and business investment — has fared worse over the period than in previous cycles, contrary to Republican predictions. It turns out the one tax cut that really did help snap the recession early was that middle-class tax rebate the Democrats stuck into the Bush bill.

OK, bad news. So, what did happen to all that money from tax cuts that was supposed to go into investment? It didn't go into higher wages — that's the factor that accounts for the generally dismal public perception of this economy. People don't see their income going up. Well, shareholders got more. Executives continued to get staggering pay packages. The increases range from obscene to excessive. I'll say this for America's corporate executives, they certainly weren't cowed by the Enron, Tyco, etc., scandals. There were a lot of stock buy-backs and acquisitions, but not much investment that creates jobs.

Well, I'm sorry it didn't work out the way the Republicans thought it would — that's why many argued against such cuts in the first place. The question now is, why do it again? Why give the oil industry more tax breaks? Why do they keep doing it? Is it ideology, or is it stupidity?

Corporate tax revenues are now at historic low levels as a share of federal revenue, going back to the 1930s. That means individuals have a much larger share of the total tax burden.

One of my favorite happy horse-poop tax cuts was the six-month, one-time special "ally-ally-in-free" on foreign profits. Passed in 2004, this monumentally stupid piece of corporate pork (laughingly named the Incentive to Reinvest Foreign Earnings in the United States and part of the also laughingly named American Jobs Creation Act of 2004) was a special favor to drug and high-tech companies (read, big campaign contributions) who had been storing their profits offshore. Then-Sen. John Breaux said at the time, "The company that left Louisiana is going to pay a 5 percent tax on the widgets they make overseas, and the company that stayed in Louisiana is going to pay a 35 percent tax. If that isn't an incentive to leave, I don't know what is."

The Republicans specifically rejected an amendment to that break that would have required the companies to invest the money. So did all those foreign profits flow home and get invested in new plants and create lots of jobs? No. But sales of corporate jets are up.

Previously pro-war Democrat tearfully calls for quick U.S. withdrawal from Iraq

By LIZ SIDOTI

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Raising the temperature in Congress over U.S. policy in Iraq, a pro-military Democrat who once voted to back the war now says it is time to bring the troops home.

"Our troops have become the primary target of the insurgency," Rep. John Murtha said Thursday. "They are united against U.S. forces and we have become a catalyst for violence. The war in Iraq is not going as advertised. It is a flawed policy wrapped in illusion."

As a Vietnam veteran and top Democrat on the House Appropriations defense subcommittee with close ties to many military officers, the 30-year Pennsylvania lawmaker carries more credibility with his colleagues on the issue than a number of other Democrats who have opposed the war from the start.

"Our military has accomplished its mission and done its duty," Murtha told reporters at news conference with a half-dozen American flags arrayed behind him.

"It's time to bring them home," he said.

Referring to President Bush, Murtha said, "I resent the fact, on Veterans Day, he criticized Democrats for criticizing them."

Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa., ranking member on the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, called Thursday for the immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Iraq.

with Asian leaders, the White House praised Murtha's military service and devotion to the troops on Friday but portrayed his proposal as a surrender to terrorists in Iraq.

"We have nothing but respect for Congressman Murtha's service to his country," White House communications director Nicolle Wallace said Friday on NBC's "Today" show.

"And I think he spoke from the heart yesterday. We happen to have a real serious policy disagreement with him."

Rep. Sam Johnson, R-Texas, a 29-year Air Force veteran who was a prisoner of war in Vietnam for nearly seven years, called Murtha's position unconscionable and irresponsible. "We've got to support our troops to the hilt and see this mission through," he said.

"They want us to retreat. They want us to wave the white flag of surrender to the terrorists of the world," said House

Speaker Dennis Hastert, R-Ill.

The GOP-controlled Senate on Tuesday defeated a Democratic push for Bush to lay out a timetable for withdrawal. Spotlighting mushrooming questions from both parties about the war, though, the chamber then approved a statement that 2006 should be a significant year in which conditions are created for the phased withdrawal of U.S. forces.

Murtha estimated that all U.S. troops could be pulled out within six months. He introduced a resolution Thursday that would force the president to call back the military, but it was unclear when, or if, either GOP-run chamber of Congress would vote on it.

On the Senate floor Thursday, Minority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., called on Bush and the White House to stop what he called an orchestrated attack campaign.

"It's a weak, spineless display of politics at a time of war," said Reid, who spoke while Bush was in Asia.

With a Bronze Star and two Purple Hearts, Murtha retired from the Marine Corps reserves as a colonel in 1990 after 37 years as a Marine, only a few years longer than he's been in Congress. Elected in 1974, Murtha has become known as an authority on national security whose advice was sought out by Republican and Democratic administrations alike.

Authorities capture remaining fugitive who escaped from prison

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — The second of two inmates who escaped from an Iowa prison was caught Friday in southern Missouri, officials said.

Robert Joseph Legendre, 27, was captured in Steele, Mo., officials said. On Thursday, Martin Moon, 34, had been caught near Chester, Ill.

The men scaled a wall at the Iowa State Penitentiary in Fort Madison on Monday.

Few details of Legendre's capture were immediately available.

"He is in custody with officials in southern Missouri, that's all we know right now," said Jim Saunders, spokesman for the Iowa Department of Public Safety.

Moon, a convicted murderer, was returned to Iowa later Thursday, said Fred Scaletta, an Iowa prisons spokesman. He made an initial appearance Friday in a courtroom inside the prison, charged with escape, and a public defender was appointed to represent him.

Legendre was convicted in Nevada in the kidnapping and attempted murder of a Las Vegas cabbie and was transferred to Iowa last year. He was serving two sentences of 15 years to life. Moon was convicted of murder in 2000 for shooting his roommate during a drug deal in 1990 and was serving a life sentence.

Authorities said the two used the homemade hook along with a rope fashioned from upholstery materials taken from the prison furniture shop. They went over an unguarded section of wall late Monday and got around a wire that is supposed to activate an alarm when touched.

Based on Moon's account, police had said they believed the pair immediately split. The towns where the two men were caught are about 125 miles apart.

Police in Randolph County, Ill., discovered Moon after officials at Illinois' Menard State Penitentiary called to report a car parked nearby. When an officer stopped to run on a check on its license plates, Moon drove off, but crashed into a fence. Moon then tried to run away before being caught by a police dog.

Man and woman dead after shooting

AMARILLO (AP) — Authorities were investigating a shooting that left a man and a woman dead late Thursday at an Amarillo home.

Police responded to the home around 9:30 p.m. after receiving a report of gunfire.

Two people, whose names were not disclosed, were found dead, said Justice of the Peace Haven Dysart.

"I thought it was backfire, but apparently not," neighbor Jerry Flores said. "I heard bang, bang."

TOPS No. TX 21

Fourteen members of Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS) No. TX 21 met Monday in the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, 306 W. Third.

Leader Hughetta Roberts called the meeting to order and voiced the opening prayer.

Both TOPS and Keep Off Pounds Sensibly (KOPS) pledges were recited and then members joined in singing the fellowship song.

Wanda Lee read "While There is Time;" Duffy Yancey read "He's Only a Boy;" Alex Sechelski read "Keep on Trying;" and Martha Christy read a chuckle, "Hanky Panky."

Of the nine TOPS present, Duffy Yancey was best loser and of the five KOPS present, the best loser was Gladys Russell. Each one received the weekly award and a certificate. The club had a net loss of 14 pounds for the week.

Bertran presented three awards. Shirley Jenkins was given a charm for having a loss for five consecutive weeks. Bertran and Carol Smith each received charms for having a loss for four consecutive weeks.

Roberts read a letter from coordinator Cindy Moore with information she needs after she took over the area of Mona Spencer, who recently retired.

Pat Aaron presented a new contest which started at the meeting. The contest is named "Filling the Feathers and Gain Your Success."

The contest encourages drinking water, exercise, keeping a food chart and staying for meetings. The contest runs through Dec. 19.

Yancy presented the program for the evening, "Cantaloupe, Sweet Fruit for Circulation."

For more information about TOPS, call 1-800-392-8677 or locally 263-0391 or 263-1758.

Keep Big Spring Beautiful

Keep Big Spring Beautiful met Monday at the Spanish Inn. The invocation was voiced by Pat Simmons and President Jan Hansen noted two new members, Tim Green and Margarita Durand-Hollis.

An award certificate was presented to Barbara Brumley for her great efforts writing the newsletter and e-mails. T-shirts may be ordered through Hansen.

Charlene Ragan reported that the 2006 officer nominees are Barbara Brumley, president; Katherine Wiseman, vice-president; Cindy Lopez, secretary; and Jan Foresyth, treasurer.

No other nominations were made from the floor so a vote will be taken at the December meeting.

Sub-committee reports include beautification, tree planting efforts and landscaping of the Comanche Trail Dam. The education group is sponsoring a poster contest to celebrate Arbor Day. Area fifth-graders will be involved in this project. They hope to plant trees on school campuses. The litter skit has been invited to return to two schools.

Public Awareness chairman Katherine Wiseman invited the public to view the new Web site at www.keepbigspringbeautiful.com

Fund-raising elaborated on the planned improvements for the courthouse square. Brenda Concienne showed sketches of the benches and stonework to be done. Financing is going well.

Pat Simmons said that on Make a Difference Day, 85 people participated and lunch was provided by Scenic Mountain Hospital. Comanche Flats workers won both door prizes.

Club members voted to adopt-a-spot for the Festival of Lights in December.

Debbie Wegman will coordinate this project. Perry Hall reported that the E-waste collection was a huge success.

Captain Elisha Mack Chapter, NSDAR

The Captain Elisha Mack Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Nov. 12, 2005, at 11:30 a.m. at the Big Spring Country Club with Regent Katie Lara presiding. Hostesses were Mary Schuelke and Heather Schafer.

Decorations were in a patriotic theme with flag decorations on the table and placemats.

There were 13 members and two guests present. Members present were Sherrie Key, Fern Alexander, Sue Ann Damron, Dottie Brittan, June Reid, Schafer, Luci Gabehart, Mary Skalicky, Sara Tipton, Lara, Carol Scott, Schuelke and Janie Harrison. Guests were Kristen Schafer and Amanda Schafer, both of San Angelo.

The program was given by Schuelke, wife of Jim Schuelke, a Vietnam veteran. She read excerpts from letters he sent her from Viet Nam while he served in the Army in 1968.

There was a slide show accompanying the presentation made from pictures taken by Jim during his tour of duty. He was an infantryman in the 1st Americal Division 52nd Battalion, Company A. He landed in Vietnam during the Tet Offensive of 1968.

She lived in Big Spring during that time with her mother, Dorothy Thornton.

A business meeting followed the program.

Anyone interested in more information about the DAR and how to become a member may contact Damron, registrar at 432-393-5790 or Schuelke, secretary at 432-353-4337.

VFW plans childrens' Christmas party

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2013 will hold a Christmas party Dec. 10 for children of Howard County service members currently serving anywhere overseas.

The party will be held from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. and will feature Santa Claus and gifts for all children. The post is located at 500 Driver Road. Anyone having any questions should call Post Commander David Leonard at 393-5667.

"This is our way of giving a little something back," said Leonard. "We don't have a list of those serving overseas who have children so if you know anyone who is serving, please help us get the word out about this."

For more information, call the center at 267-8783 or Nancy Patrick at 263-6211.

A Pastor's Message

The Power Of One

We live in a society that tells us that it's all about "ME."

We see billboards that tell us, "Have it your way." "We do it all for you," or "Obey your thirst."

Everything in our modern society reinforces that we are the masters of our own destiny and we must seize the moment.

All of this makes sense. The only way something is going to get done is if "I" do it myself. The only problem with that statement is it directly opposes what God tells us in His word.

In Genesis 2:24 God says, "For this reason a man shall leave his father and his mother and be joined to his wife; and they shall become one flesh (NLT)." This scripture pertains to our physical family here on earth.

However, there is a greater family that you will have long after your physical family passes away, and that is your spiritual family.

In Romans 12:5 the church is referred to as the body of Christ. "So we, being many, are one body in Christ and individually members of one another (NKJV)."

We were not created to be alone. God designed us to be a part of a body of believers.

At the end of our lives we will not be taking houses, cars, boats, or any earthly possessions with us. The only things we will take to heaven with us are the people we have touched with the Good News of God's love for us.

In Deuteronomy 32:30, we are told that one person can conquer 1,000, but if you put two people together they can conquer 10,000.

This is what we call synergy.

When you choose to join forces with someone else, you are not just doubly strong, you are 10 times stronger.

When you are connected to the body of Christ and have others gathered around you in support, your trying time will be 10 times easier to walk through.

When you are sick, you have 10 times the support to pray with you. You see, when you are connected to the body of Christ, you are 10 times more blessed.

Not only are you 10 times more blessed being connected to others, you also can get 10 times more accomplished.

Just recently our church took on an endeavor to begin to bring life into the north end of Main Street in downtown Big Spring.

My limited thinking said, maybe we can paint a small building. What I didn't expect was the exponential power of one, or in other words, the power of bringing people together in unity.

As I presented this project to the church others began to say, "I can get flowers donated," and "our small group can paint the light posts," and "If you have the manpower, I have parking lot stripping equipment."

What was supposed to be a little project turned into more than 100 people giving of their time and resources to make a difference.

As "one" body, we were able to accomplish 10 times more than what we could have done individually. This is the power of "one."

What would happen if this concept swept through our community? What if we all had the power of "one" in our lives?

What could we accomplish?

No, the greater question is, "What could we not accomplish?"

"I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me" (Phil. 4:13 KNJV).

North Birdwell Lane United Methodist Celebrating 40 years of service

North Birdwell Lane United Methodist celebrates its 40th anniversary Sunday beginning at 9:30 a.m.

In 1965, on the Sunday following Thanksgiving, the congregation of North Birdwell Lane United Methodist Church met for the first time in its present location at 2702 N. Birdwell Lane. The members of Park Methodist moved into the newly constructed building and began a new era in its history.

In celebration of 40 years, a special worship service offering a brief history of the church will be presented and charter members will be recognized. Anyone who has been a member of the church since 1965, or any time after that, is invited to attend and be recognized.

The Rev. Joel Miller's message for Sunday will be based on the faithful servants' returning to God and the wonderful gifts He has given.

The message will be based on scripture of the talents given to trusted servants and their use of these talents.

Over the years God has blessed the church in many ways by allowing it to remain an active and useful part of the community. The church sponsors many mission projects to reach as many people as possible with God's love.

Such projects include offering sack lunches to those who need assistance while traveling through the community and giving Bibles to anyone who needs either English or Spanish versions.

Ongoing missions such as community suppers and vacation Bible school continue to help in the church's mission to spread the message of God's love and the importance of being in fellowship with others.

Worship service will begin at 9:30 a.m. followed by Sunday school for all ages at 10:30 a.m. Sunday evening worship is at 5 p.m. For more information about the church, call 267-4082.

Bagpipes, drums to be featured at St. Andrew's Day Celebration

St. Mary's Episcopal Church presents its fourth annual St. Andrew's Day Celebration at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The celebration is an Evensong service which contains many different types of music from Scotland and the British Isles.

At 6:35 p.m., pre-prelude music is set in the courtyard by the Thorn and Thistle Pipe Band of Midland.

The prelude begins at 6:50 p.m. and will feature Mary Frances Malone in a harp solo, music for bass ensemble directed by Rocky Harris and Scottish airs for violin and piano performed by Gloria Steelman and Darryl Knapp of Midland.

Darryl Knapp serves as organist and Dr. Keith Graumann is the choral conductor.

St. Mary's Parish Choir is joined by the Choir of St. Nicholas Episcopal Church in Midland along with friends of the choir from Big Spring, Stanton and Midland.

Highlights of the service include choral anthems, the procession of the pipes and drums, congregational hymns accompanied by brass and organ, two medleys of tunes for pipes and drums and the congregational singing of national songs and anthems from the United States, England, Wales and Scotland.

Flags from each country will be displayed by the Acolytes of St. Mary's during the singing of the national songs.

Special guest musicians for the music festival are Pipe Major Thomas Campbell, bagpipes; Colin Chalmers, bagpipes; Patrick McLaurin, bagpipes; and George Tobey, drums.

Campbell is featured in a pipe solo and George Tobey is featured in a drum solo in addition to the two pipe and drum medleys. "Amazing Grace," Highland Cathedral," The Mason's Apron," and "Scotland the Brave," are among the tunes played by the pipes and drums.

A reception featuring authentic Scottish fare is hosted by the women of St. Mary's immediately following the service.

There is no admission for this event and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The wearing of Scottish attire is encouraged.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church is located at 10th and Goliad streets in Big Spring.

Canned food drive offers photos with Santa

Star Tek has a canned food drive to benefit the Salvation Army scheduled for 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. Dec. 17.

Bring two cans of food and get a free photo with Santa Claus.

Star Tek is located in the College Park Shopping Center, Birdwell Lane and East Fourth Street.

IN BRIEF

Hughey shines for UTPB at McMurry

ABILENE — Former Big Spring swimmer Jessica Hughey helped her UTPB swim team to a victory against McMurry Nov. 5. Hughey took first in the 200 Individual Medley and also captured a third place finish in the 100 backstroke.

Basketball officials needed for new year

Basketball officials are needed for the 2005-2006 basketball season involving junior high, freshman and junior varsity games in Coahoma, Forsan, Garden City and Sterling City.

If interested in officiating, contact Adam or Mandi Rodriguez at 263-8731 (after 6 p.m.), 517-0300 or 816-1963.

Sign ups for YMCA basketball underway

Registration for the Big Spring YMCA youth basketball league is taking place now until Dec. 3. The league is for boys and girls ages 5-12. Some 13-year-olds may play depending on their date of birth.

Practices are scheduled to begin Dec. 19. Kids who played last season may play on the same team from last year.

All games are scheduled to be played Saturdays beginning Jan. 7.

For more information, contact the YMCA at 267-8234.

Flag football tourney benefit announced

A flag football tournament to benefit Temple Belen A/G has been announced for Saturday at 10 a.m.

For more information, contact Chris Enriquez at 432-213-0697, 264-0924 or 816-6115.

Holmes to undergo testing to decide future in football

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Priest Holmes says he'll undergo two more tests on his neck and spine and then decide whether to resume his record-setting NFL career next year.

In his first public comments since going on injured reserve, the three-time Pro Bowl running back also disputed a report he had a lump on his spine.

Holmes went on injured reserve on Nov. 9 with head and neck trauma. He said there will be more tests in the next few months, and he hopes to return to football.

Bay signs extension with Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jason Bay, coming off two of the best career-starting seasons in Pittsburgh Pirates history, agreed to an $18.25 million, four-year contract.

Bay hit .306 with 32 homers, 101 RBIs, 110 runs scored, 21 stolen bases and a .402 on-base percentage.

Howard women get win in WJCAC opening round

By TROY HYDE

Sports Editor
HOBBS, N.M. — The start of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference preseason tournament started Thursday night and the Howard women's basketball team showed the rest of the league what they might be capable of this season.

The Hawks took on

Clarendon in the opening round of the tournament and knocked off their rival, 64-48, despite playing without two starters at the end of the game.

"It's nice to know we won the game by 16 and have the ability to play much better," said assistant coach Eric Rodewald.

Howard (2-5) played with the lead for much of the game, but didn't put away Clarendon until the final five minutes. It was a 10 point game with 5:42 to play before Howard finished the contest on a 17-11 run.

"It was a nice team effort in the final six minutes," said Rodewald. "We weathered the storm without two starters in the game."

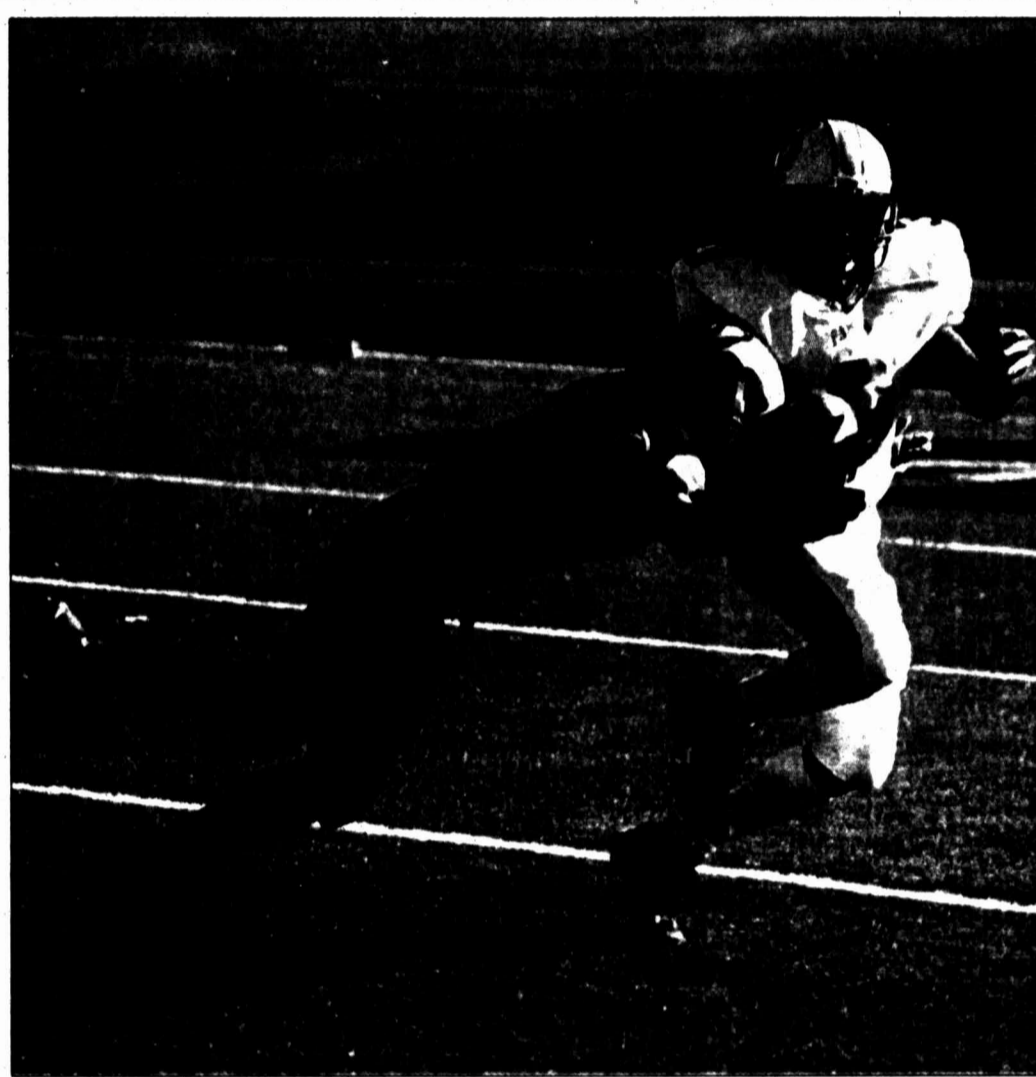

Latoya Fairley, the Hawks' leading scorer through the first seven games, fouled out with just under six minutes to go in the game and finished with just nine points. Chanel Jones-Delas finished with 14 points and three 3-pointers, but had to leave the game midway through the second half after suffering chest pains. She was taken to the hospital after the game and is questionable for today's second round game against South Plains.

The Hawks led at half-time 26-19 and led by 10 points for much of the second half.

"Except for the final four minutes in the first half, the team played really good defense," said Rodewald. "We had a chance to put them away before halftime, but they scored 10 points in the

Spurs fight off late surge from Rockets

By The Associated Press

• NBA Roundup

Tracy McGrady made some key shots as the Houston Rockets were rallying from a 20-point deficit in the fourth quarter. The San Antonio Spurs answered back each time.

Tim Duncan had 19 points and nine rebounds, and Tony Parker added 17 points, helping the Spurs hold off the Rockets 86-80 on Thursday night.

"We just have to make sure that we don't make mistakes in the fourth quarter like we did tonight," Parker said.

After Juwan Howard's layup cut Houston's deficit to 64-52 with 2:58 left in the third quarter, San Antonio scored the next eight points to stretch their lead to 20. Robert Horry scored the last six points of the run, capped by a pair of free throws for a 72-52 lead with 11:19 remaining.

However, the Rockets scored six straight points to cut the deficit to 14 on David Wesley's jumper with 9:43 left, and McGrady's first 3-pointer made it 75-66 with just over 5 minutes remaining.

Horry followed with a 3 that pushed the Spurs' lead back to 12 with 3:50 left. Just 41 seconds later, McGrady's second 3 pulled the Rockets within 78-71.

"(McGrady) scares me from the time I get up in the morning until the game ends," Spurs coach Gregg Popovich said. "He's done it game after game after game. ... He's confident. He single-handedly brought them back."

In the only other games, it was: Minnesota 109, Washington 98; and Dallas 87, Atlanta 78.

After Parker's jumper gave San Antonio a nine-point lead, McGrady's three-point play cut it to six with 2:24 remaining. Manu Ginobili, who had 15 points and four steals, and Parker each hit two free throws to push the Spurs' lead to 84-74 with 1:46 left.

Houston didn't get closer than seven until Luther Head's 3 with 15 seconds remaining finished the scoring.

"I'm just happy we got a win," said Horry, who had 16 points.

McGrady led Houston with a game-high 27 points and 12 rebounds, but was held to 0-7 shooting in the first half. Yao

Ming had 19 points, but just one in the second half.

San Antonio, which shot 46 percent compared to Houston's 38.9 percent, dominated on defense and inside, scoring 52 points in the paint.

"They are just better than us right now," Rockets coach Jeff Van Gundy said. "There are some things we need to do better to get to that level they are at right now. ... They just dominated us going to the basket tonight. They drove by us at will and pick and rolled us to death."

McGrady credited the Spurs' Bruce Bowen, who guarded him most of the night, in helping stop the surge.

"Facing a guy like Bruce Bowen, you just have to try to block everything out and concentrate on the moment," McGrady said. "That's a tough night of work. He's one of the premier defenders in this league and on a fresh night, he's going to make your night miserable."

Mavericks 87, Hawks 78

Josh Howard had 25 points and five blocked shots, and Dirk Nowitzki added 20 points and 13 rebounds, helping host Dallas extend Atlanta's season-opening losing streak to eight games.

Keith Van Horn added 14 points for the Mavericks, who improved to 3-0 at home and 6-2 overall.

Zaza Pachulia led the Hawks with 21 points and 12 rebounds. Atlanta and the Toronto Raptors are the league's only winless teams — both at 0-8.

Timberwolves 109, Wizards 98

Kevin Garnett had 25 points, 13 rebounds and nine assists, and Richie Frahm hit key shots in the fourth quarter, as Minnesota beat visiting Washington to snap a two-game losing streak.

Wally Szczerbiak scored 17 points, and Frahm and Troy Hudson added 16. Six Timberwolves players scored in double figures.

Gilbert Arenas had 33 points and Caron Butler added 15 for Washington, which has lost two straight. The Wizards had five players in double figures.

Syracuse routs Knight, Texas Tech

• Fast start leads to easy win for Orange against Red Raiders

By JIM O'CONNELL

AP Basketball Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — You would think Jim Boheim would want to sit around and enjoy talking about his team winning by 35 points.

"This game is a game you just forget about," the Syracuse coach said after the 16th-ranked Orange used a big run in each half to run away to an 81-46 victory over Texas Tech on Thursday night in the semifinals of the 2K Sports College Hoop Classic.

"When a team can't put the ball in the basket against you, it is just a matter of time before a game is out of control," he said. "We try to make this a complicated game but even my 5-year-old knows that you just have to put the ball in the basket. We are nowhere that good and they are nowhere that bad."

Texas Tech really struggled putting the ball in the basket. The Red Raiders missed their first 12 shots and 16 of their first 17 in falling behind 20-4.

"Sometimes there is a turning point in a game," Texas Tech coach Bob Knight said. "This game was over in the first five minutes."

The defending champion Orange (3-0) will play Florida in the championship game Friday night at Madison Square Garden. The Gators advanced with a 77-72 victory over No. 19 Wake Forest in the other semifinal.

The matchup of two of the winningest coaches in college basketball history was never much of a game. Boheim got his 706th career win and improved his record against Knight to 4-1, although Knight's lone win was in the 1987 national championship game when he was with Indiana. Knight has 856 victories.

Gerry McNamara had 12 points and nine assists for Syracuse, which had six players with at least eight points.

"We expect that," he said of the balanced scoring. "All the guys have to step up and they did tonight."

Demetris Nichols hit a 3-pointer just before the halftime buzzer to give Syracuse a 34-22 lead.

Dior Lowhorn scored to bring Texas Tech (2-1) within 42-28 with 17:08 to play, then the Orange went on a 21-3 run to take a 63-31 lead with 9:13 to go.

In that span, the Red Raiders committed eight turnovers against the 2-3 zone and Knight called two timeouts and there was also a TV timeout. None of the talking on the bench helped. Syracuse

Big 12 says farewell to KSU's Snyder

DALLAS (AP) — Farewell, Bill Snyder.

Snyder, who took Kansas State from the depths of college football to 11 straight bowl games before last season, coaches his final game for the Wildcats (4-6, 1-6 Big 12) on Saturday against Missouri at the stadium that will be renamed Bill Snyder Family Stadium.

After 17 seasons at Kansas State, the architect of the "Miracle in Manhattan" isn't sure how difficult it will be to leave coaching behind. He announced his retirement Tuesday.

"I've never retired before so it's going to be a unique experience," the 66-year-old Snyder said. "I don't know how I'll deal with it. I really don't know. I'm going to find out. ... I'm retiring to my family."

While the final game for K-State will be about sentimentality, Missouri (6-4, 4-3) still has a chance to win the Big 12 North, if the Tigers ruin Snyder's final game and they get a lot of help the weekend after Thanksgiving.

In the only other Big 12 games Saturday, Oklahoma (6-3, 5-1) goes for its fifth straight victory when the Sooners play at No. 21 Texas Tech (8-2, 5-2); and Oklahoma State (4-5, 1-5) has to win at Baylor (4-6, 1-6) to keep its slim bowl hopes alive.

Kansas State has gone 8-14, including a Fiesta Bowl loss, since winning the Big 12 championship game in 2003, which was its third appearance in the title game. The Wildcats got off to a 4-1 start this year, but fell out of bowl contention by losing their last five games.

final three minutes of the first half."

Sophomore Jennifer Pena led the Hawks with 15 points.

"Jennifer led the team down the stretch," said Rodewald. "She provided good leadership when we needed it." Freshman Sara Rondeau had her shooting touch working as she scored 12 points and hit three 3-pointers. Freshman Tomisha Martin added six points.

Howard will take on South Plains today at 5 p.m. MST. South Plains defeated Frank Phillips in the opening round, 65-52.

"We are going to have our hands full with Dominic Seals, who is South Plains' best player at 6-2," said Rodewald.

Rodewald said a key to the game will be Fairley's ability to stay out of foul trouble.

RONDEAU

"We need to have her on the floor against Seals," said Rodewald. The Howard women are guaranteed no worse than fourth place in the tournament with the first round win.

led by as many as 39 points - 75-36 with 5:15 left.

"Our defense was good and active tonight," said Boehem, who celebrated his 61st birthday. "It boiled down to they couldn't make any shots and it just got away from them."

Knight's worst loss in his four-plus seasons at Texas Tech was 99-50 to Kansas on March 9, 2002, his first season there.

"Syracuse is really good," Knight said. "They play the zone, as I have said, the best I have ever seen. I don't think our kids could elevate themselves in their own thinking to how good a team they were going to be playing."

"We just have a lot of work we have to do and a lot of figuring out we have to do to come up with something to be competitive."

Nichols and Eric Devendorf each had 11 points for the Orange, while Louie McCroskey had 10. Syracuse shot 51.6 percent from the field (33-for-64), including 8-for-25 from 3-point range.

The Orange were a combined 7-for-35 from beyond the arc in their first two games with McN. mara going 1-for-14. He was 3-for-7 against Texas Tech.

"I should have hit 70 percent tonight I felt so good," McNamara said. "I'm not worried. I know they're going in eventually."

Lowhorn had 11 points for the Red Raiders, who finished 17-for-59 from the field (28.8 percent) and committed 18 turnovers, 11 in the second half.

Boehem was impressed with Florida.

"I think Florida is better than I have seen them in a long time," he said. "That is why we play in these tournaments. These tournaments are great early in the year to get a feel for things."

BIRDIES AND BOGEYS

We will

Given that she'll be on summer break, Michelle Wie will try to qualify next year for the 2006 British Open. The regional qualifier in the United States is June 26 at the Congressional Country Club in Bethesda, Md. Wie and four other women can skip the first stage of qualifying and go directly to the regionals because of their finish in last year's Women's British Open Championship.

WIE

This will be the first year that women are allowed to play in the Open. It's a big step forward from the old days when it wasn't uncommon in Great Britain for a sign over the pro shop door to read, "No dogs or women allowed."

Speak up!

A few weeks ago, Michelle Wie was robbed. Not by the Samsung World Championship tournament officials who correctly disqualified her for taking an incorrect drop. Nor by Sports Illustrated writer Michael Bamberger, although I'll give him a double bogey for waiting until the next day to turn her in.

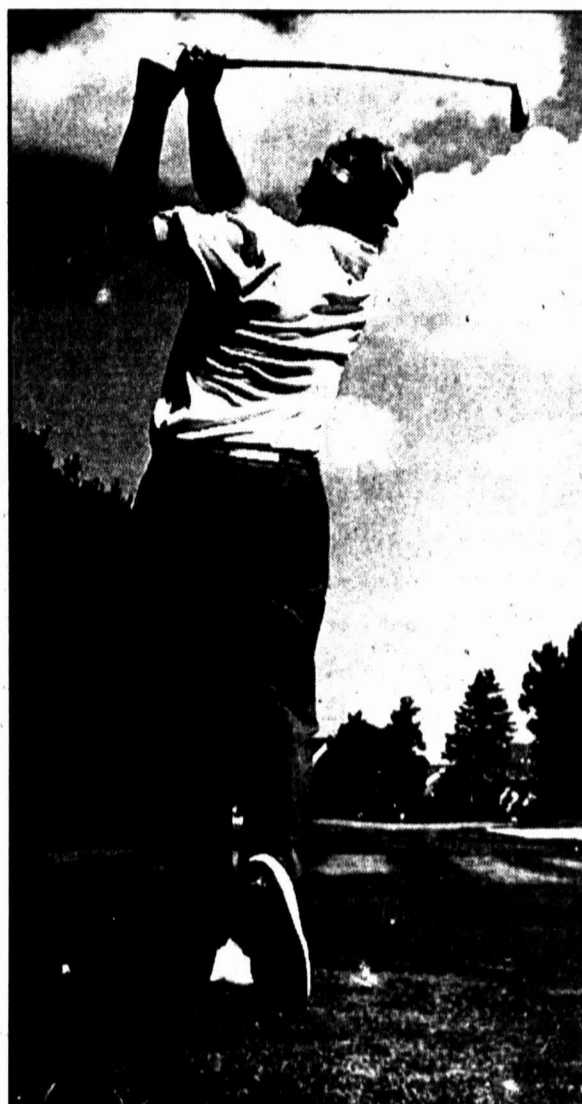

The real stick-up man was her caddie, whose job it is to keep an eagle eye on the young Wie in exactly this kind of situation.

One reason a writer like Bamberger caught the rules infraction is that he's not your average spectator. In a former life, he was a tour caddy, and the good ones learn to automatically watch out for their player.

Remember that if all a player needed was a tote, he or she could rent a llama and keep the 10 percent caddie fee. But a looper at this level plays a much larger role than a beast of burden. And if there's one situation when he earns his keep, it's the drop.

Show up, keep up, but as a caddie, don't shut up when you're the only person who can give a 16-year-old advice during tournament play. Maybe Wie's caddy should check to see if Jean Van de Velde needs a caddy — now that would be a good fit.

IT'S GOOD FOR YOUR GAME

PGA Tour pro Tommy Armour III finishes his swing turned a perfect 90 degrees from his starting position.

TOUR PURE:

The pro turn

This series examines the characteristics that separate the tour player from the average amateur golfer. If you add these characteristics to your game, each in its turn, you'll be "Tour Pure" too.

To paraphrase political pundits, in golf, "It's the turn, lad-die" (not the economy, stupid), that is the most important aspect of a tour swing. It's the one thing that is always present in one form or another, manifesting itself from address to the top, through the ball and into the finish.

Case in point is Tommy Armour III, great-grandson of Tommy Armour, who was dubbed the Silver Scott for his elegance in appearance, his wonderful ball striking and his keen teaching eye.

Tommy III has the Armour flair, wearing $1,000 slacks and looking good doing it. He also looks good doing the "Tour Pure turn" in the photos below.

Although his setup and finish are perfect, I would like you to steer away from focusing on their component parts, such as knee flex, arm-hang or balance. Focus instead on this one requirement, golf becomes a game of arcs. It's the reason your clubs are made as they are; it's the reason your ball and the hole are orbs. And arcs are the reason your swing must be rotational.

ABOUT THE WRITER

Dr. T.J. Tomasi is director of instruction at Lyman Orchards Golf Club in Middlefield, Conn. To ask him a question about golf, e-mail him at: TJInsider@aol.com.

There are no straight lines in the golf swing, and if your body or some portion of it, is not turning, you'll find yourself stranded somewhere on an arc that you should be rotating on. Rotate your arms and shoulders correctly but not your hips, and the ball shoots to the left; rotate your hips as you should but foul your arm rotation, and you're to the right.

The permutations are many. Even golf's maestro, Tiger Woods, needs a sextant and a compass to find his ball when he fails to heed the law of the arcs.

Life is all about timing, and so is great golf. Chuck Hogan, coach to many tour players and a wise man, believes that most golfers make the golf swing too complicated — they worry, then they hurry. To Chuck, the golf swing can be summed up as "two turns with a swish in the middle," a concept that has helped many a golfer play "golf" rather than "golf swing."

the photos in their entirety.

The major difference between Armour's two positions, the difference that smacks you right in the eye, is that in the first photo, the front of Armour's body points at the ball, while in the second photo, it points at the target. Basically, he's turned 90 degrees from address to the finish.

Of course, he's also turned 90 degrees to the top of his swing, which emphasizes the fact that in the tour swing, there is a lot of turning or rotation going on. This only makes good sense because by rule, golfers must stand to the side of the ball.

Since all things in golf stem from

GOLF SPOKEN HERE

"PULLING OFF THE SOCK"

It means that you've decided to hit a fairway metal, so you are taking the headcover (sock) off.

GOLF BY THE NUMBERS

3 for 19

The number of strokes that Tiger Woods was under par on the 19 fairways that he missed after 36 holes of the season-ending PGA Tour Championship.

WOODS

Translated, that means he hit it in the junk 19 times and was 3 under par on those 19 holes. This is more than scrambling; this is mystical. If he had played in Colonial days at the Salem Open, he would have been burned at the stake (after he was presented with the trophy, of course).

7,445

The new length in yards that Augusta National will play in the 2006 Masters next April. That's an increase of 155 yards over last year's course length of 7,290 yards.

THE GOLF DOCTOR

Wait for the green light

A flagstick that is set behind a bunker or a water hazard just a short distance from the edge of the green is said to be "tucked." When the pin is tucked, the smart player, depending on his strengths and weaknesses, aims to the middle or safe side of the green.

A good way to identify the type of pin you're dealing with is to label it in your mind by color:

Red Light = don't go for it
Green Light = go for it
Yellow Light = proceed with caution
Here's how it works: Evaluate the location of the pin based on the conditions. If a pin is protected by two conditions, such as a bunker with a strong side wind that could blow your ball toward the bunker, then it's a red-light pin, and you should not aim at the flag.

If the pin is protected by only one condition, such as a bunker, then you can aim closer to it, but proceed with caution by giving yourself about a 10- to 15-foot margin of error on the safe side of the pin (the side the bunker is not on).

When there is no trouble surrounding the pin, or the pin is in the middle of the green, go right at this green-light situation.

Obviously, pin accessibility depends on your talent level, so to make your traffic-light system work, you need a realistic catalog of your strengths and weaknesses.

DON'T MISS IT

Worth a thousand words

Anthony Ravielli is the most famous illustrator in the history of golf, and a fascinating collection of his best drawings has been compiled in the book "Classic Golf Instruction" by Christopher Obetz (Rizzoli, $39.95).

Ravielli is best known for his work on Ben Hogan's book "Five Lessons," in which he drew perhaps the most visually striking golf image ever: a plane made of glass from the ball through Hogan's neck with the message, "Swing so you don't break the pane of glass."

Obetz found these gems in an antique store in New York City, then added top teacher commentary (David Leadbetter, Hap Haney, Rick Smith and more) to each illustration.

TEERING OFF

Playing smart means playing better golf

You can actually win a few more matches and save some shots in medal play solely by thinking better. How? Here are two commonsense tips, both of which are easily understood, but not always adhered to in the heat of play.

When your opponent is in trouble, the main goal is to get the ball on the green with the least risk. In this regard, two risks you should never assume are (1) aiming where a straight ball will hurt you, and (2) laying up long.

The first thing you should do to reduce the risk factor is make sure you don't aim so that if you hit it straight you'll end up in trouble. Say you're the biggest slicer in the world. If your opponent is in the bunkers, and there is water on the left, do not aim at the water assuming the ball is going to slice back — even if you've been slicing all day. If you do, there's a good chance Murphy's Law will kick in, and you'll hit your first perfectly straight ball of the year.

The second aspect of reducing risk is playing smart layup shots. How many times has this happened to you? Your opponent is in the bushes, and you decide you're going to lay up short of the hazard near the green. You figure you have 180 yards to the edge of the hazard and that's a 5-iron for you, so you take your 6-iron and make a nice, smooth swing. But because you make an unhurried swing instead of your usual "sign of Zorro" slash, the ball flies perfectly — and it's a career 6-iron directly into the hazard.

Always remember that in a layup situation, 1 foot too long does you only harm. Ten yards short of the hazard is safe; 20 yards short is even safer. When you're laying up, always assume that you're going to hit a perfect shot, even though you rarely do.

Also take care to factor roll into the equation when you're laying up short of a hazard. Plan to have the ball finish (not land) 10 to 20 yards short of the hazard. And don't forget about the slope of the ground near the hazard. Typically, the ground approaching a water hazard slants toward the hazard, which means the ball is going to run more.

"Every time I ask you what you're working on, you tell me something different. I've been working on the same thing for 10 years and I'm just now getting good at it."

— Vijay Singh to Paul Azinger

ASK THE PRO

Q: Where I live, it gets hot in the summertime, and I go through a lot of golf gloves. I was wondering what would happen if I didn't wear a glove. — Kristi from Fort Myers, Fla.

A: I think it's a good idea to wear a golf glove, but I know you can go through a bunch of them when it's hot. Plus, when you put them in your golf bag full of perspiration, they come out the next day looking like something you wouldn't care to put your hand in again.

But here's some good news for you: If you know what you're doing, you can extend the life of your gloves and make them almost like new.

Put bleach in some warm water and submerge the glove, letting it soak with an occasional rubbing until it comes clean. Then rinse in cold water. Although it will not be the same white as it was when new, it will be greatly improved.

Next, squeeze out excess water, and slip the glove on your hand to reshape it, remove it and then let it air dry. If you have the time, place it on your hand several times as it dries to make sure it keeps its shape.

Annie's Mailbox : Advice for those in need

Dear Annie: I recently reconnected with someone I had not seen in over three years. "Bev" is a friend of my sister's and someone whom I find very attractive. She also is a genuinely nice person, and I know that she thinks highly of me as well.

I would love to ask her out, but she has a boyfriend. Bev's friends and family do not like this guy. Three months ago, when the boyfriend moved 3,000 miles away, everyone expected them to break up, but it hasn't happened.

I value Bev's friendship and would like it to be more, but I'm not sure how to proceed. How do I let her know I am interested without coming off like a complete snake for stepping on her boyfriend? — Smitten and Confused

Dear Smitten: Well, don't act like a snake. Bev is in a committed relationship, regardless of the distance and how her family feels about the guy. She will continue to think highly of you if you are respectful of that.

When you speak to Bev,

KATHY MITCHELL

be friendly, but casual. If you wish to ask her to join you for coffee because you happen to be in her neck of the woods, that's OK, but under no circumstances should you ask her out or imply any interest other than friendship. This way she will think of you as a great guy whose company she enjoys, and if she and Mr. Distant should break up, you will be in her thoughts. If they stay together, you will still be on good terms and have nothing to be ashamed of.

Dear Annie: My husband and I have been married for 35 so-so years. "Vince" is diabetic and about 100 pounds overweight. At night, he snores, breathes heavily, turns over and coughs repeatedly. He gets up several times to use the bathroom, and sometimes he leaves to watch TV or read in another room. He also uses a breathing machine, and takes it off every time he gets up, so that makes some noise. Not to mention, in the wee hours, while I am sleeping, Vince might turn the light on, touch me or start talking to resolve an issue. Obviously, all this keeps me awake.

I have unsuccessfully tried earplugs and pillows over my head, so a few months ago, I started sleeping in our second bedroom. This is a source of huge sadness for Vince, but I am in heaven. I still crawl into bed with him at night, and return first thing in the morning, because I know it is important to him.

Vince is putting pressure on me to come back and sleep all night in the bed with him. He has said that I'm not nurturing and kind. Can you help? — Need ZZZs

Dear Need ZZZs: Vince sounds like a control freak. He keeps you from getting any sleep, often on purpose, and even though you try to spend time with him in the bedroom, he refuses to let you leave so you can rest. He wants you to stick around so he can torture you. Get some counseling and find out why Vince is harboring so much passive-aggressive hostility toward you.

Dear Annie: Thanks for publishing the letter from "Gaga-Googoo," whose co-worker talked in baby talk. I have a friend who does this, particularly with new acquaintances — people she meets in elevators, waitstaff, cashiers, you name it. Not only is it insulting to everyone's intelligence, it is embarrassing.

Some friends and I finally called a psychologist who said the reason these people resort to baby talk is because they want unconditional approval. Most of them come from broken homes and unconsciously seek to replace the bond that was left unfulfilled. It's all about love and approval. — Robert

Dear Robert: A great number of the things we do are about love and approval. Thank you for the insight.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

For the past few weeks, the Scorpio sun has been rooting for us to connect the dots on the mystery we call everyday life. Under the Cancer moon, such a connection could finally click. It's no coincidence that we've landed where we are with a particular cast of characters around us. Ask yourself what your current situation says about you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). In matters of the heart, you will be teaching others to respect you. Hold fast to your priorities. Let nothing shake you from what you consider to be important.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The planets align to plump up your confidence! You'll enjoy satisfying results from a kind of sales pitch — of course, regardless of what you think you're selling, you're always selling yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). People need you, but you need you, too! Fortify your boundaries, especially around your most precious commodity — your time. No one can take advantage of your time without first obtaining your permission.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Interruptions are more seductive when you're not sure where you're going. Take the time to plan into your future. What is urgent is likely not to be of consequence to your big picture. Think before you react.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Conventional thinking is that you are either on task or you are off task, on purpose or off purpose. You're living a very unconventional life, though, and managing it in a more intuitive way. Trust yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). What was once valuable to you has now become "so yesterday." This is a sign of your evolution! Simplify your life by removing that which has lost appeal. One person's clutter is another person's thrill.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Your interaction with others can be draining. Don't withhold your opinion or morph into what's expected. You're not running for office. (Unless, of course, you are running for office.) People adore the real you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You arrive on the scene with one intention — to solve problems. It's what sets you apart from the others who are there to showboat or feel important. Tonight, you're way too attractive. Loved ones will be jealous!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Take calculated risks. You can pull off maneuvers that amaze even yourself. A Cancer or a Leo will be a reference — you don't have to reinvent the wheel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You get a chance to test out your street savvy. Figure people out. Find the path of least resistance. That's not such a bad path to take when you're in a hurry to get somewhere, like you are today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're not as talkative as usual, but some feelings are beyond words. Your quiet determination impresses others. You'll finally be able to cooperate with someone without compromising your vision.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You have influence. Use it wisely. Persuade others to do only what is in their best interest, even if it doesn't seem best for you in the short term. When you do this, synchronistic events make your way easier.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST

Scorpio solar energy simmers below the surface. Don't let stillness and quiet fool you. It could be an indicator of mad passion! ARIES: Loved ones know when you're holding back on your feelings — rush forward. TAURUS: Do what's necessary to reignite the fire that once was. GEMINI: You're so compelling that loved ones will do anything for your love. Don't abuse your power. CANCER: Security and romance are so interlinked — there's no point in pursuing someone who can't provide both of them. LEO: You perceive the thick emotional climate as cumbersome and so will escape to your glamorous fantasies. VIRGO: You have goals for everything, including your relationships. One is reached this weekend. LIBRA: Set up a formal date. Old-fashioned courtship seems new and novel. SCORPIO: The right love amplifies your strengths and downplays your weaknesses. SAGITTARIUS: When you separate your finances from a loved one's, the relationship returns to its previous passionate state. CAPRICORN: The last thing you think is going to happen in your love life is the first thing that does. AQUARIUS: You're attracted to that totally flawed individual. PISCES: The one who can stand alone is a better partner than the one who is lost without you.
