$20,000 Monthly Pay Roll Under County Relief

RED CROSS TO HAVE ANNUAL ROLL DRIVE

At a meeting of a steering committee for the revival of Red Cross Chapter in its work in Coryell County at the Texas Power and Light Co. offices Thursday morning, M. B. Sasse was named Roll call chairman for this year. He states that he hopes that the Roll call receipts will enable the local chapter to engage a nurse and do extensive and much needed relief work in the county.

In an explanation of the distribution of the funds received he said that only fifty cents out of each membership leaves Gatesville and that the remainder will be used to administer to the needy sick and feed undernourished bodies; thus if you give $5.00 to the Roll call, $4.50 will be used locally.

He requested that an appeal be made to all clubs and organizations that they make room for a speaker in the cause. Churches, schools and clubs are requested to ask for a speaker.

The annual roll call will begin on November 27th.

Little Theater Is to Present First Play in District Courtroom

When Stephen Bellamy and Susan Ives go on trial for the murder of Margot Bellamy Friday evening, November 24th at 7:45 o'clock in the District courtroom, Coryell County play-goers will have the opportunity of witnessing the first play of its kind ever produced in this vicinity, in "The Bellamy Trial", a highly dramatic presentation, produced by a cast of sixteen experienced and capable actors, all local people.

The Gatesville Little Theater, under the direction of Ayres Compton, selected "The Bellamy Trial" for the first play of the season by virtue of the unique exposition of this baffling plot, and all those who love mystery, the Little Theater promises an evening filled with thrills and laughter. The clashes between the lawyers, the feelings of the witnesses, the tragic fear of the defendants are all contributing causes for the thrills which will spread through the audience in the presentation of the play.

In The District Courtroom

Through the generosity of County Judge Rob't W. Brown and the Commissioners Court, the Little Theater will be able to bring this stirring drama to its audience in an actual courtroom setting which is ideal for this particular play. Farewell Gathering For Departing Methodist Pastors Wed. Evening

The members of the Methodist Church assembled at seven-thirty Wednesday evening in the church auditorium for a program and social hour, honoring and bidding Godspeed to its departing pastor and presiding elder and their families. Mr. Frank Williams presided in the auditorium where an appropriate program was rendered. Mrs. Emmitt Stewart and Mr. Scott Gunn sang a duet and an anthem was sung by the choir. Mrs. W. B. Landrum of Fort Worth gave the address of the evening. She used "Ships" as her subject, discussing the various ships that enter into life—workmanship and worship, leadership and fellowship, friendship and fellowship, kinship and Kingship. This spiritual and beautiful message was followed by short talks expressing appreciation of Bro. and Mrs. Ward and Bro. and Mrs. Langston by representatives of the different departments of the church. Miss Pauline Haney spoke for the Young People's Department, Mr. Lee Colwick gave the sentiment of the Sunday School and Mrs. Arthur Schlemmer expressed the love and appreciation that the Woman's Missionary Society holds for Mrs. Leake Ayres paid a tribute from the church and presented gifts to Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Langston to remind them in the days to come of their many friends in Gatesville.

After the program Mrs. C. E. Alvis invited those present to the basement for a social hour. The room was beautifully decorated in autumn leaves and large baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and lighted by the soft glow of tall tapers. Large white cakes, on which four lighted candles representing the four years Bro. and Mrs. Ward and Bro. and Mrs. Langston have been here, centered six small tables. In the middle of the room was a large table bearing a tiered cake which Bro. Ward was asked to cut. Around this table the honor guests and the officials of the church were gathered. Refreshments of cream and cake were served in buffet manner. All joined in singing "Blessed Be the Tie that Binds" as farewells were given to these beloved preachers and their families.

HORNETS REST FOR MCGREGOR TURKEY GAME

By Brack Curry.

Coach Maurice Ewing's Hornets will probably remain idle over the week end. Negotiations are proceeding for a game with Lorena, but nothing has materialized as yet. The team is in much better condition than at the Hamilton game last Friday.

The team was defeated last week by Hamilton with a score of 53 to 0. The local squad was greatly outweighted, but the boys put up a splendid fight. The Hornets received and on the first play Hamilton intercepted a lateral pass and scored. They failed to make the point and the score stood 6 to 0. They scored two more times in this quarter and covered the goals, to make the score 20 to 0. In the second quarter, the Hornets played on even terms with the Bulldogs, and held them scoreless. In the third quarter Hamilton scored on two passes, making the score 27 to 0. The Bulldogs ran wild in the fourth quarter, scoring 26 points to the Hornets 0. The final score was 53 to 0.

Captain Paul Hinson, playing with an injured leg, and Clarence Bauman did splendid work at the guard positions; when the Hornets launched their aerial attack in the second quarter, Joe Powell was the outstanding receiver; Baker, Weaver, Bonds, and McDowell, linemen, all played excellent games. McClarty was outstanding in backfield.

Buckner Orphans Home Car to Be Packed for Shipment Next Monday

For a great many years the Baptist people of this county have been shipping supplies to the Buckner Orphan's Home at Thanksgiving time but it was not until 1929 that a move was made to send a full car of articles to the home.

In 1929 the Women's Missionary Union under the able leadership of Mrs. Dan E. Graves and Mrs. O. G. Gilder presented such a move for the approval of the Leon River Association at its annual session convened with the Coryell Baptist Church. The move received a hearty approval of the body and, through the noble efforts of these two ladies and other workers in the various churches of the county, the first full car was packed for the Thanksgiving season of 1930.

This move has been an annual affair since that time and on next Monday (November 20) the 4th the car will be loaded at Gatesville in connection with the Worker's Meeting at the First Baptist Church here.

The three cars which have been sent thus far are very conservatively estimated as being worth $2,400.00. It is believed that the car this year will be even more valuable than past cars.

The women of the Gatesville Church have already made more than 350 garments and canned a beef for this year. These items along with gifts from individuals and merchants will bring Gatesville's donation to a sizeable amount. Something like thirty churches of this county will also make worthy contributions. The car will consist of food, feed stuffs, eggs, poultry, clothing, bed clothing, canned goods, a live stock and anything that is usable. The home is especially in need of livestock which can be slaughtered for meat as it has cold storage space enough to hold a year's supply of meat.

Articles brought to Gatesville prior to next Monday may be left at the Marvel Milling Co.

The Cotton Belt Railroad has graciously carried the car to the home free of charge each year and will do so again this year.

H. Bauman and Son To Open New Store at Hamilton This Week

H. Bauman and Son, prominent local grocers, have added another store to their ownership. A deal was consummated recently whereby that firm takes over the ownership of the Kash and Karry Grocery of Hamilton. The store is being remodelled and refurnished inside and will reopen under the name of Bauman Cash Grocery.

H. Bauman and son first opened a grocery business in Gatesville on West Leon Street later the firm moved to the cross-roads just across Mill Branch on the State road. The store at this place was flooded and as a result the store building on North Lutterloh Avenue was erected. So successful was this firm at its new location that another store, which is now located on West Leon street, was added. The firm continued to prosper and now another branch has been added.

The firm prospered, in spite of depression, under the able management of Mr. E. Price Bauman, who acted as negotiator in the recent acquisition.

A local man will be sent to Hamilton to manage the new store but the News is not authorized to divulge the name of this young man.

The News joins a host of local people in wishing for this enterprising firm all success in this new endeavor.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carlton and son, Tommie Lee, and Pattie Ruth Stewart, spent Monday in Waco.

BAPTISTS END 100 YEARS OF TEXAS WORK

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Morton returned last week from the Baptist General Convention which met in Fort Worth and which closed one hundred years of organized work in Texas. In discussing the convention from the pulpit of the First Baptist Church Sunday morning Rev. Morton said:

"The Baptists of Texas closed last week in Fort Worth their first one hundred years of organized church life in Texas. One hundred years ago Texas was under the rule of Mexico and Baptists were not allowed to organize a Baptist church here, so Rev. Daniel A. Parker, a Baptist minister organized a Baptist church of seventeen members and moved it in a body to Texas. It is noteworthy that this church has never had but seven pastors. The Baptists have grown from this one church of seventeen members to 3004 white Baptist churches in Texas with 3000 preachers and 550,000 members. They now have 1500 W. M. S., 2000 B. Y. P. U., 2500 Sunday Schools, 6 hospitals, 8 colleges and one Seminary with 6000 students, a Baptist paper with the largest circulation of any religious journal in the state, and the largest known orphans home.

"Several thousand people were in the auditorium to hear the Centennial Message by Dr. George Truett of Dallas. The members of the Gatesville church and the Baptist of our association join the Baptists in the move for a united Baptist brotherhood in Texas and with the Baptists of the South in placing Baptist Missionaries in every country in all the world."

G. F. Brown, 66, prominent pioneer farmer of the Ewing Community died Monday at the Baptist Hospital in Waco. Remains were returned to Gatesville in the Scott Funeral car. Funeral services were held at the Masonic Cemetery here Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Rev. Joe Sprott and Rev. J. W. Dunn officiating.

Mr. Brown was born in the Ewing community in this county on January 14, 1855. His entire life has been spent within five miles of the place where he was born. He was married to Miss Viola Clary in 1890. He united with the Church of Christ at Ruth about 40 years ago and has been a faithful member of that church for all of the intervening years. For the last several years he has been the leader of the congregation of that church.

All who have ever known or had dealings with him love and respect him for the upstanding stalwart, honest, good man that he was. The community in which he lived and the county at large has lost as Heaven has gained.

He is survived by three sons, Frank, Turk and Juber, all of Gatesville. Three brothers, W. L. Brown of Ewing, Dr. Reb Brown of Gatesville, and R. J. Brown of Gatesville. One half-brother, Charlie Brown of Ewing. Four half-sisters, Mrs. John Holt of Ewing, Mrs. Elie Edwards of Flat, Mrs. Millard Powell of Ewing and Mrs. John Mounce of Gatesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Slone and daughter, Mary Jane, and Mrs. Arthur Matthews spent Sunday and Monday in San Antonio with Mr. and Mrs. G. B. McCombs.

Mr. Matthews, who has been visiting there for the past few weeks, returned home with them.

Federal Relief Work will be started December 1st on six projects in Coryell County. These projects are to be road work and each will aggregate an expenditure of $5,000. Thus the total cost of the six projects will amount to $30,000. This figures 12,000 working days to be carried out through the winter months. All six of the projects will be started at the same time and will run concurrently. They will be distributed over the county in an attempt to place work in the places where the relief roll is heaviest. It is not known yet whether the work will be done on highways or on lateral roads. The work will be under the direct supervision of the State Highway Department.

Lateral Work Wanted.

County Judge Robert W. Brown advised a representative of the News that he had requested that the work be done on lateral roads. His reason for asking this is that right of ways on state highways are not permanent and will likely be changed in the course of the next few months while the lateral roads will not be changed and then, too, there is a need for much work on lateral roads.

Judge Brown's suggestion was that the six projects be distributed as follows:

- One at Copperas Cove.
- One at Turnersville.
- One at Coryell City.
- One in the southwest part of the county.
- One in the eastern part of the county.
- One in the western part of the county.

Other Relief Work.

Something like 250 men went to work Thursday on relief projects in the four commissioners beats of the county. These men will work 30 hours per week at 30 cents per hour.

In a statement to a representative of the News Fred G. Prewitt, County Administrator, stated that others will be added to this list as fast as it is possible. Every effort is being made local workers are laboring night and day and as fast as work is approved in the Austin office other men will be added.

Mr. Prewitt stated that all applications are thoroughly investigated and proven worthy before work is given. "Evasion and hiding facts will not work and one who tries to cover up will be cut entirely out of all benefits under the relief program."

Mr. Prewitt estimated that when the program is in full swing and all men are at work the payroll will be upward of $20,000.00 monthly.

A CIRCULATING LIBRARY FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The schools of Coryell County are to have a circulating library. The library will consist of fiction, technical and subject research books graduated according to the advancement of the pupil readers. They will range in scope from nursery rhymes and fairy stories for the primary pupil to the classics for the high school grades.

For several years it has been a requirement of the State Department of Education that all schools which receive state aid must expand $10 each year for books for each teacher. This system will continue in force to schools which have gotten state aid heretofore with the exception of the fact that these books under new rulings, must be deposited with the County Superintendent and be checked out as needed. The state department has made a new provision for libraries and that is that schools which have never received state aid may receive state aid on libraries by expending some of their own money for books. When such a school agrees to buy $10 per teacher worth of books the state will spend a like amount for books for that school. These books must also be left on deposit with the County Superintendent. Thus a nucleus for a county library is formed.

In the past much money has been wasted on school libraries for the simple reason that they are checked out of the libraries and never returned. These books which have accumulated with the exception of reference books will be brought to the County Superintendent's office and be placed in the county library. The money expended on books each year will add to the aggregate total and provide a larger scope and selection of books for each school. Added to these sources is the extension loan library of the University of Texas which will loan the library more than 50 books at a time for a period of six months.

The nucleus will be 2,500 usable books thus the schools which have heretofore had no more than 100 books to choose from will have more than two thousand to choose from. The system will be what is known as the circulating system for instance a school principal will go to the library and draw out enough books for the reading requirements of all departments of his school for a stated time, at the end of that time he will check those books in at the library and draw a like number of books and so on. Only the schools which are participating in the plan will be permitted to draw out books.

It is anticipated that during the summer months a plan may be worked out where by any individual in the county may have access to the library by paying a library fee which will be expended for new books. As the bulk of the library will be works of fiction this plan will appeal to many book lovers of the county.

Grand Opera of the most pretentious nature is offered for December 8th and 9th at the San Antonio Auditorium, when the Russian Grand Opera Company will present "LE COQ D'OR" with music by Rimsky-Korsakoff on Friday evening, and Boris Godunoff by Modest Moussorgsky on Saturday evening. The Russian Grand Opera Company is being brought to San Antonio by Col. W. G. Higgins, President of the S. W. Texas Music Association, Inc. Information may be secured at the offices of the Music Association, 1107 Broadway, San Antonio, Texas.

An astonishing announcement in connection with the coming of Russian Opera is the fact that Two Dollars will be the top price for this engagement, an unheard of price for real grand opera. It is the opinion of Col. Higgins that the finest opera given at minimum prices of One to Two Dollars will attract huge crowds to San Antonio. The large capacity of the Auditorium in that City makes it possible to attempt great productions on a low scale.

The Russian Opera Company has for several years been affording American audiences an opportunity to hear the rich operatic treasures of the country it represents. Connoisseurs of Russian music and the public at large have welcomed the formation of this unusual company, with its all Russian cast and chorus, and its brilliantly executed and highly original scenery and costumes, all of which come from the hands of Russian designers and craftsmen now residing in this country.

Heading the company of 125 as founder and director is Max Panteleff, who supplements his producing activities with appearances in the leading baritone roles of the operas presented. The conductor of the company is Eugene Plotnikoff, and the scenery was designed by Yasha Anchutina and Vladimir Ivanov.

The two operas to be presented in San Antonio are sung entirely in Russian and produced exactly as originally intended by the composers. Mail orders accompanied by self-addressed stamped envelope with remittance will be filled in order of receipt, if addressed to S. W. Texas Music Association, Inc., 1107 Broadway, San Antonio, Texas.

News Article on Oil Is Favorably Commented By New York Reader

85 Bronx River Road
Yonkers, New York
November, 8, 1933

Mr. Ayres Compton,
Gatesville, Texas.
Dear Mr. Compton;

I have just finished reading the November 3rd issue of the Coryell County News and was very pleased with the article "Texas' Debt to the Oil Industry". Every statement in the article is very true.

There is nothing more desolate looking than an exhausted oil field unless it is a farm that has been allowed to wash away leaving barren rocks and a little worthless soil. The debt is even greater than indicated by the title. We owe more than just the oil industry. We should conserve our crude supply for future generations, self preservation, and as a defensive measure in case of war.

Well, the above will be sufficient for oil. Winnie Pearl sends her best wishes and I certainly hope you are enjoying the best. Yours very truly, —A. L. Brodie.

We are pleased to have a response to any article at any time and especially do we appreciate this response from Mr. Brodie. Local people will remember that Mrs. Brodie was the former Winnie Pearl Farmer.

FINDS BOTTLE OLD BEER IN BOTTOM OF WELL

When cleaning out a shallow well on his farm just south of the city limits of Killeen early in the week, R. Shortis found a bottle of what looked to be beer and smelled like beer when the rusty top came off. Going to Will Douglas, former owner of the farm, about the find Mr. Shortis was told of Douglas having lost a bottle of beer in the well twenty-five years ago. The writer is not informed as to how and why the bottle of beer was thus lost. With apologies to Ripley, Mr. Shortis says that the contents of the bottle "smelled" perfectly good.

1. Cotton Seed is a costly Substitute for Cottonseed Meal, Hulls and Grain.
2. It takes approximately 3 pounds of Cotton Seed to furnish as much digestible crude protein as is furnished by 1 pound of cotton seed meal.
3. There is a loss of 5 per cent trash and motes in one ton of cotton seed and a loss of 7 per cent in the linters that have no feeding value, and in addition to above 12 per cent at least 8 per cent more oil is in the seed than can be properly utilized by the cattle, this makes a total loss of 400 pounds in every ton of cotton seed you feed.

LET THE AUDITORIUM PAY

We are at the threshold of a very likely realization. A dream, that has for many years prevailed in the minds of many local citizens, looms now as an actuality.

With the welcomed news that came last week the hearts of those same anticipating citizens are filled with expectancy, and although disappointment could follow it is not likely. The State Board of Public Works has approved the plans for the $30,000.00 municipal building in Gatesville, and the same plans will be sent to Washington authorities for final approval or rejection.

In the event that the proposed municipal building will be built, Gatesville and Coryell County will see the erection of a structure that will do justice to any municipality several times the size of Gatesville, composed of a suite of offices for city officials, fire station, calaboose, public library, and an up to date auditorium, capable of seating more than a thousand people.

The city hall project was probably the child idea of M. W. Lowrey, Gatesville's present mayor, born in his own mind, and developed by his own endeavors, with the assistance of an able council and other city officials.

The usual criticism has already crept into the proposed project as should have been suspected. Allowances were probably made for this. The main point of criticism being that such an undertaking will throw the city into heavy indebtedness and the only resources that may be relied upon will be taxation imposed upon the property holders of Gatesville.

It is the contention of this newspaper that with the proper management and the return to normal conditions generally, the $30,000.00 municipal building can be made to share its part of the burden by a self sustaining route. We will grant that the entire investment and the obligations involved cannot be met within a few years, nor is it possible for the building itself to be completely self-sustaining, but the auditorium alone will prove an asset and not a liability.

Our plan is simple, yet we believe it to be complete and workable, as follows: The appointment of an auditorium manager (a non-paying position) whose duties it will be to secure for benefit of local residents high class cultured entertainment, lyceum and chataquah courses, individual artists, reputable lecturers, and various other features of entertainment. The manager will act in the capacity of business manager, attending to all matters of finance that involve the use of the city auditorium. He will act on a committee of two or four other people, men and women, and it will be the duty of this committee to approve and obtain the right kind of entertainment for the people of this vicinity. There are many capable men and women who would be willing to serve, and who are familiar with the most popular kinds of entertainment and the manner in which such entertainment should be promoted.

This brief outline is merely a suggestion on the part of the News, and furthermore it is our candid belief that other similar plans should prove equally workable.

Other similar enterprises have proven resourceful. A city auditorium in Gatesville can do likewise.

THE OVERTON ELECTION INVESTIGATORS

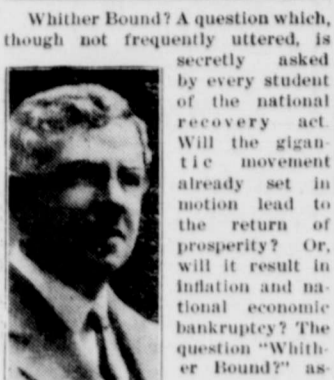

John G. Holland, Senate investigator who has been looking into Louisiana election affairs for the past year, took the lid off in a report to a Senate Investigation hearing at New Orleans Monday. "Covering Up", "Yellow", and "Rat" were some of the adjectives used in his verbal explosion. The "Yellow" referred to Senator Tom Connally who is chairman of the investigating committee. The "Rat" refers to Senator Long of Louisiana. The "Covering Up" is an allegation that the committee is covering up crooked work in connection with the election of Senator John H. Overton of Louisiana.

The conduct of Louisiana elections under the Long regime has been a stench in the nostrils of the nation. He has been accused of buying elections, bribing election judges and intimidation. He is accused of having so elected his contemporary Senator from Louisiana. And that's what the investigation is all about.

Investigator Holland is the man who amassed the evidence in the Teapot Dome scandal and for that reason we believe that he would not make such assertions as he has unless there was some evidence to back up his statements. He has complained that the investigating committee has refused to consider, read or hear his evidence. It occurs to us that, if he is paid to investigate the matter, the inquisitors at least owe him a hearing. He even goes so far as to insinuate that Long is responsible for the death of Senator Howell, former chairman of the investigators.

We don't believe that Senator Connally is yellow. He was not present at the meeting in New Orleans but is on his way to that place. We have enough confidence in the Senator to believe that he will see justice done, and crookedness righted if there be any crookedness.

Not Coercion but Co-Operation

By
LEONARD A. BARRETT

Whither Bound? A question which, though not frequently uttered, is secretly asked by every student of the national recovery act. Will the gigantic movement already set in motion lead to the return of prosperity? Or, will it result in inflation and national economic bankruptcy? The question "Whither Bound?" assumes the answer can only come from the government itself. Popular opinion seems to hold the government responsible whichever way the wind blows. An attitude of this sort clearly indicates the superficiality of much of the present-day thinking.

It is so easy to pass on to some other person or to some organization the responsibility which rightly belongs to us. Let it be frankly admitted that the responsibility for the return of prosperity does not rest primarily with the government. No amount of legislation can bring about an economic recovery any more than it can create a permanent peace. All the government can do is to set in motion certain forces intended to create a recovered prosperity. A physician prescribes to the best of his ability the medicine intended to restore the patient's health, but he cannot compel his patient to take the medicine. The fundamental spirit of democracy forbids the slightest act of coercion on the part of the government.

No person by coercion can ever be made moral. The moral imperatives do not by force enter the sanctuary of the human will. True, the choice of the wrong motive may result in a serious penalty, but the fact remains, we are left free to choose for ourselves between the moral alternatives in life.

It is not coercion but co-operation that will speed the return of prosperity. The responsibility for the success of the national recovery act rests upon every citizen in every state, city and hamlet in this country. There is no possible substitute for the spirit of mutual co-operation. If every citizen does his part the return of prosperity is reasonably assured. If that responsibility is shifted to some other seat of authority other than the individual conscience, the present efforts of the government are fraught with serious danger and in the minds of many expert economists are doomed to chaos and national disaster. Not coercion but co-operation is the soul of the national recovery act.

Government Speeds Home Building

A recent announcement from Washington is that Presidential pressure has been applied to expedite plans for reopening banks, liberalizing credit and to make possible the building of low-cost homes.

Here is the prelude to a revival of major dimensions in the construction industry. For three or four years there has been a virtual lack of residential building. Accompanying it has been an abnormally high rate of depreciation on existing homes, due to poor maintenance. And the result is that the nation is short many thousands of homes.

The person who waits a few months or a year before building and repairing, is going to be confronted by a tremendous advance in costs. He's going to pay many dollars for what a few dollars will buy now. That is true of every phase of building—from the purchase of the land the house is to stand on, to the finishing of its walls. It is true of even minor repairs and additions. New roofs and steps, repainting, modernizing and repairing heating plants, renovating electric wiring, and everything else.

The "buy now" movement that is underway at present is very different from sporadic movements of the past which adopted the same slogan. This one is based on fact, not fancy—on the knowledge that recovery is actually underway, that residential construction is a tremendous influence in speeding it up, and that the era of bankrupt prices is definitely waning. Every citizen who can should "get in at the bottom"—and the opportunity won't be present much longer.

Librarians who have wished for cast-iron covers to protect the books in their charge will be interested to find that copper sheeting is actually found suitable for covers subjected to hard usage.

WORLD FOREIGN COMMENT

France is again at the crossroads. Her trade is declining, the budget is unbalanced, and the country is in constant dread of a war with Germany. It is evident that she will default on her December 15 debt installment of approximately $22,000,000, while the British have made a token payment of $7,500,000. However, France has just completed fortifications on the Rhine at a total cost of $100,000,000, showing her ability to produce cash when necessary. A monetary crisis is impending and a series of cabinets, a fact which seems imminent, will not help the general condition of the country. France has shown that she is not willing when able to fulfill her obligations, and, like Japan, will not cooperate with the other nations in disarming. The future of France seems bleak indeed, fifteen years after the Armistice.

Chancellor Hitler of Germany seems to be provoking trouble and strife all around. Arab anti-Jewish riots in the Holy Land have been caused by the influx since January, 1933, of 50,000 German Jews, caused by the program of anti-Semitism in Germany. Thirty have been killed and about 200 wounded because of the rioting, which lasted over a period of three days. The Arabs, who constitute 73 per cent of the population, are right in not wanting to be dislodged from their homes. On the other hand, the Jews, who have been chased out of Germany, find it hard to accustom themselves to alien populations in the European countries.

Great Britain and Japan have been almost at swords' points over the question of the textile trade with India, due to the fact that Japan has been cutting into British trade with that country. The Japanese, nominally an agricultural people, have increased their industrial output by leaps and bounds in the last year. Great Britain and the United States can testify to this, as they have suffered a great loss of their Oriental trade. The British lost their supremacy in Asiatic trade and in Asiatic waters by forming an alliance in 1902 with Japan. Japan intends to dominate Britain's South Sea possessions and Britain will probably have to fight, along with the United States and Russia, to maintain the status quo in the Orient.

Old Man Trouble seems to have settled permanently in the island of Cuba. Recent outbreaks against the government of President Grau by A B C secret society members has caused the establishment of a state of war in Havana and surrounding territory. At the latest reports 150 had been killed and 1000 taken prisoners. Summer Welles, American ambassador to Cuba, has repeatedly advised the State Department against recognition of the present government. Wells' pride was hurt because de Cespedes, the man to whom he gave the presidency, was forced to resign. Peace is again disturbed by his obstinacy in refusing to recognize the existing government. Cuba needs and must have peace at any cost. Revolution will not settle the internal problems which must be solved in the near future. Summer Welles and the States Department are wrong.

We think Premier Mussolini reserves a space in any column. He is constantly in the lime-light of European politics. By placing a guarantee on corporate bonds, he took more power over Italian industry. He is separating the big concerns, and is going to rigidly control all industries. Previously he had reorganized the majority of the posts himself, he obtained complete control over the army, navy, air force and government corporations. We admire him for his ability to organize and control the Italian nation.

The Balkan states of south-eastern Europe have signified their readiness to reach an accord about armament, debts, and other questions which threaten the peace of their territories. The Cooperation of Tomorrow

In a recent issue, the Dairy-men's League News commented on future farm cooperators—the children of the parents who belong to the Dairy-men's League, all of whom are learning some of the simple, yet fundamental, rules of cooperation.

It would be an excellent idea if all farmers and others interested in cooperation made an attempt to develop an understanding of it in the minds and hearts of the producers of tomorrow. A generation raised almost from infancy with a belief in cooperative principles, and with constant opportunity to watch them evolve and win success, should make incalculable future agricultural progress.

This is an especially interesting supposition in the light of present agricultural conditions. It is said that much of the difficulty experienced by the Department of Agriculture in raising the farm income is due to the fact that too many farmers are still disorganized, and it is a long and arduous task to bring them together on a common footing. The cooperatives are making valiant drives they are succeeding. But they to enlist more numbers now—and would have succeeded in a much shorter period had the farmer of today been schooled in cooperation by his forebears.

Stronger cooperatives, better supported—that is the ideal now. And along with it, there should be plans for assuring the fullest flowering of the cooperative scheme through preparing farm children to take their place in organized agriculture.

Synopsis

CHAPTER I—Business taking him to Denver, Geoffrey Eudaly, young chemical engineer, takes up his residence with his mother's girlhood friends. They seem a happy, carefree family. Captain Cary, "Miss Nona" Aylesbury, the captain's daughter; Cary, thoughtless though likable youngster; little Tenny Montague, motherless, who lives with the Carys—and Cynthia.

CHAPTER II—Geoff finds himself very much "at home," though Cynthia puzzles him. She is, apparently, against the wishes of her family, running a "gift shop," and astonishes Geoff by the suggestion that he pay board money, to her, unknown to her mother. He agrees, though much mystified.

CHAPTER III—Cary's specialty seems to be securing and losing jobs, coupled with financial extravagance, which Cynthia openly resents. Geoff becomes prejudiced against the girl for her seeming penuriousness.

CHAPTER IV

Odd and Ends.

Geoff had never visited the gift shop though he knew, of course, where it was. When he happened to find himself in its neighborhood during his lunch hour one day, he yielded to an impulse of curiosity and hunted it up. Cynthia, he knew, would not be in. This was her day out at this time.

It was a tiny place, little more than a wedge between two more pretentious shops. There was the usual collection of chains, pins, small lacquer trays, candlesticks, powder boxes, gift boxes of fine tea, traveling clocks—all the ornamental litter with which he was so familiar.

But in the rear of the shop was something that interested him: two comfortable chairs were pulled up to a long table on which lay various magazines. A low bookcase overflowed with volumes whose titles brought a look of surprise to Geoff. There was late fiction—that was to be expected; but there was also a modest collection of technical books, several of which Geoff had sought for in vain in the book shops. Toward one of these he stretched out his hand eagerly.

Fifteen minutes later some one spoke to him. From the fact that she wore no hat and seemed to be entirely at home, Geoff judged that this was the "dish-faced" Elsie Dunsmore.

"How do you do?" she said pleasantly. "I think you're a stranger to the Odds and Ends. I hope you've found something that interests you."

"I have indeed!" He held up the book. "May I ask how you happen to have a book like this in your stock?"

"Miss Aylesbury chose it. You see, that's why we have these chairs, this case of books; so that shoppers like yourself may drop in for a few minutes to read and rest. Miss Aylesbury tries to cater to all tastes. You'll see there are books on architecture, on gardening, on mining, on child welfare."

Geoff nodded. His thoughts were busy with a certain morning when he had told at the breakfast table of his unavailing search for this particular book. Why had Cynthia not mentioned she had it in the shop? Was it because she resented his disapproval of her business? Or had she—Geoff would have liked to believe this but somehow he couldn't—had she known where to buy it and done so because he had spoken of it?

Both explanations afforded little satisfaction to the tall young man who stood gripping the volume and staring vacantly at Cynthia's clerk. He came out of his trance presently, restored the book to its place and went forward resignedly to justify his presence by a purchase. Elsie was busy, he was glad to see; too busy to wait on him. That spoke well for the business of the shop.

"Are you always as busy as this?" he asked when she was free to attend to him. She shook her head. "It's the final spurt of the tourist season. People on their way home stop in to buy souvenirs. I'm just a clerk here. C. C. owns the shop."

"Cynthia Cary Aylesbury. We used to call her C. C. in high school."

"You're a schoolmate of hers, then?"

"Oh, yes. I even planned to go East to college with her but things happened and I couldn't; and poor Cynthia had to come home herself in her junior year."

"Had to? I thought she came because she was tired of it!"

Elsie looked belligerent. "Cynthia never gives things up because she's tired! If she did, she'd give this store up in a hurry. The way that girl works—"

She caught her self up abruptly, realizing how free she had been discussing her employer with a stranger.

"That's all right," Geoff reassured her. "I'm a friend of her mother. Tell me more about the shop. If you don't mind, I'm deeply interested."

"Why, you see, Cynthia wanted to do something when she came back from college. So she started the Odds and Ends. She had a little money left her by her father—she put it all into this shop. At first she did everything herself; had her lunch brought in, went without dinner until after she'd closed up. Then business picked up and pretty soon she asked me if I wouldn't like to help her. You bet I did, too," said Elsie with convincing simplicity.

"There isn't much I wouldn't do for Cynthia, if it comes to that." "So the shop really pays for itself?"

She gave him an odd look. "It has to," she said briefly. "If you know Cynthia you know it's a live-or-die proposition with her. She doesn't go into anything lightly."

"I should say not!" Geoff declared. "We've got to make enough," she chattered on, "to see us through the dull season that comes between the tourist trade and the Christmas sales. November is a total loss as far as gift shops are concerned. Her eyes traveled to a banjo clock that ticked on the wall. "Cynthia'll be back any minute now, and she'll tell you anything you want to know about the shop."

Geoff said guiltily that he couldn't wait; selected a particularly hideous and expensive "desk set" and escaped with it before Cynthia's return. His purchase gave him some little trouble before he finally prevailed on a waitress at the cafe where he ate his lunch to accept it.

His visit to the shop had cleared up one thing that was beginning to trouble him. A dim idea that the family might be in some manner dependent upon the profits from the Odds and Ends had haunted him for several days. But several things contradicted that theory. Every month, for example, Captain Cary slit a certain gray envelope and extracted a check.

"Royalties from a little patent of mine," he always said with open pride. Sometimes he handed it to his daughter and bade her buy herself "something pretty" with it; sometimes he tucked it away in his wallet.

Then, too, Miss Nona sometimes carelessly referred to her husband's "estate." That word meant to Geoff the large holdings which had come to his mother and himself from his father. There was no evidence of want in the house where he lived. Miss Nona wore the prettiest of clothes, the food was abundant if somewhat plain, Cary's light-hearted indifference to his jobs did not indicate financial stress.

But still, Geoff told himself, that might be the explanation of Cynthia's penuriousness. He almost hoped it was. He hated to think of a girl so young being so grasping. But after his talk with Elsie he was more than ever convinced that ambition combined with a stubborn determination to have her own way was the motive back of Cynthia's appropriation of Tenny's board money and his own.

"You're a throwback," his mother had told him more than once. "I know in your heart you disapprove of the modern woman, especially a woman in business. Your idea of the woman's whole duty is making herself attractive to her man."

Geoff had laughed but he knew that there was some truth in what she said.

Miss Nona came very near to being his ideal of womanhood. She was so gentle, so sweet, so sympathetic. She was feminine to her fingertips, with all the little arts and graces of a bygone generation.

Miss Nona listened with flattering attention to what he said of his laboratory work, though he knew the chemical terms were so much Greek to her. She was everything he had longed for and missed in his mother, in short; and the contrast between her and Cynthia increased his antagonism toward the girl.

"Darn it! Why can't she be like Miss Nona?" he fretted. "She gives me a pain with her checking up everything poor little Tenny does, her cross-questioning of Cary, even her implied rebukes to her mother! Fall in love with her—I'd soon—sooner!—grow sentimental over the marble lady in the garden! She may be hard, but at least she's ornamental."

Almost every Sunday Geoff spent the day in the mountains. Miss Nona and the Captain often went with him if the destination was not too high or the ride too long. Tenny would come if Cynthia would; but Cynthia wouldn't. She pleaded fatigue from her long week, or accounts to be gone over. So it was with a sense of real triumph that Geoff prevailed upon her one October morning to drive with them all to Red Rock lake.

"We'll pack a basket," Cynthia said, entering into the plan with an enthusiasm which astounded its promoter. "There's chicken—Marguerite can fry it and we'll pack it in the thermos basket so it will stay hot. We'll build a fire and make coffee just for the outdoorsiness of it."

Tenny capered about the room with joy and Miss Nona beamed at her daughter.

"Like to drive?" Geoff asked Cynthia as they went down the steps together.

To his surprise she took the seat behind the wheel and presently they were bowling smoothly along. Cynthia had discarded her hat, and the tendrils of hair curled about her forehead endearingly. Geoff marveled at the change in her. She was gay, youthful, charming. She had dropped her weariness, her hint of hostility toward him, her air of worry, like a cloak.

Geoff was suddenly in wild spirits. It seemed to him that never was there so congenial a party as his.

What a dinner that was! Marguerite's fried chicken was crisp and hot; her buttered rolls melted in their mouths.

"Why do we have to go down?" Tenny asked wistfully. "Why don't we just send Cary and Geoff back for some blankets and things and stay up here all the time?"

"By this time tomorrow night there may be three feet of snow right where you're sitting," Cynthia told her. "I don't remember another October as warm as this up here."

"Something else has thawed out for Geoff's benefit," Cary said significantly. "Your manner toward him, my dear sister!"

"Don't you like Geoff, Cynthia?" Tenny wanted to know.

She laughed, flushed a little. "I like everybody today! Oh, you can't think what it's like to exchange the stale air in the shop for the play breezes up here! I like Tenny—I want to stay for ever!"

After dinner Geoff and Cynthia, with Tenny darting ahead of them, completed the circuit of the lake. Geoff remembered that walk for a long time. Somehow they strayed on to the subject of Tenny, and Cynthia talked to him freely about the child.

"She was a delicate little thing when she first came to us. Even now we have to watch her carefully."

"She seems sound as a dollar now," he answered.

"Oh, she is! Except that she mustn't have any more colds. That's why," she realized that for the first time she was offering an explanation of one of the things he had disliked in her—"why I'm so strict with her about her cod liver oil and her sweater and all. Tenny respects authority."

"Is that why she adores you?" he asked her with a touch of irony.

She hesitated. "Do I seem to you specially authoritative? I suppose I do." Suddenly she turned to him. "Geoff, perhaps I'm not quite as hard as you think I am! At any rate, Tenny has to be handled very carefully. She's lived in so many places, she's had so many ups and downs that she had acquired a rather terrible distrust of people when she came to us."

"She needed your mother's petting," he said.

Cynthia smiled. "Miss Nona's strong point is petting. You come in for a good share of it."

"And, like Tenny, I thrive on it," he replied somewhat aggressively. "As I've told you, my parents were abroad during most of my childhood and I know what Tenny went through at boarding school."

"It must have been hard for your mother," Cynthia commented, "being pulled between her duty to you and to her husband. I—I know this will add to your belief in my hardness—I'm glad she was the sort of woman who put her husband first! There's something so magnificent about that sort of love."

She said wistfully. "Something so royal in a marriage which allows nothing—not even children—to disturb it."

Geoff was silent through sheer astonishment. Cynthia's words gave him too a new vision of his mother. For the first time he was able to think of her as a wife as well as a somewhat casual mother.

It was nearly sunset before they turned the car downward and began the long descent from mountain heights to the city below. Geoff had a feeling of extraordinary satisfaction over the day. Cynthia's mind to him heretofore had been like a long corridor in which door after door stood, all closed. Today she had opened several of them and given him fascinating peeps at the rooms within.

A HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION PAYS

By common usage, any education beyond the years of high school is called "higher" education.

But were it not for the efficient work done in the high schools very few if any would ever succeed in the schools of higher learning. We should, therefore, feel proud of the work done in our high schools. They really lay the solid foundation on which to build.

In a well ordered high school, every boy and girl seems to be going somewhere. Full of enthusiasm and energy—they are on their way.

If they could keep up this direct effort, keep driving ahead right on through life, they would all get somewhere.

There is one branch of higher education in which the earnest endeavor of the students is maintained. We refer to business training institutions. Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration is an outstanding example.

Boys and girls have to keep looking steadfastly ahead—they have to keep earnestly striving—or they cannot stay at Tyler, because schools like Tyler are selling results that are measured in dollars and cents for their students. When they fail to deliver results they do not survive.

How young people have been getting results for the last thirty years at Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration—actual results that are measured by greater earning capacities—is interestingly told in a booklet entitled "Achieving Success in Business", which is mailed free upon request by the school at Tyler. We suggest that our readers write for a free copy, addressing Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration, Tyler, Texas. Just fill out the coupon below.

Texas Dairymen Will Be Affected by Plan Presented By A. A. A.

College Station—The small Texas dairyman who produces milk or cream for creamery, ice cream manufacturer or cheese factory will be affected by the plan of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to work out regional codes for manufacturers of butter, cheese and ice cream.

It was nearly sunset before they turned the car downward and began the long descent from mountain heights to the city below. Geoff had a feeling of extraordinary satisfaction over the day. Cynthia's mind to him heretofore had been like a long corridor in which door after door stood, all closed. Today she had opened several of them and given him fascinating peeps at the rooms within.

Thus far relief to dairymen has been confined to producers around cities. Mr. Eudaly explains, but the Administration aims to aid all dairymen as rapidly as plans can be made and put into operation.

Back in Texas to explain the new milk contract to producers and distributors of all cities where milk agreements have been submitted, Mr. Eudaly has been requested to hold meetings at Beaumont, Houston, Galveston, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, San Angelo, Fort Worth and El Paso. A meeting was held in Dallas October 27th.

"The milk contract being adopted by producers and distributors all over the United States recognizes milk as a public utility on which prices to producers, retailers and consumers may be set," says Mr. Eudaly. "When 51 per cent of the producers and distributors, representing at least 70 per cent of Class 1 and Class 2 milk produced and consumed in an area sign contracts and come to an agreement on prices, the agreement is forwarded to Washington for approval. When approved a local hearing is held by a lawyer, economist and member of the National Consumers' Council, all sent by the secretary of Agriculture."

"When finally approved the agreement becomes binding on every producer and distributor within the area defined, and a local milk board is elected to arbitrate any difference that might arise during the year the agreement is in effect. Two of the board members represent producers, two represent distributors. The idea is to treat everybody justly," Mr. Eudaly says.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow
Extension Service Editor
A. & M. College

Cotton and corn crops grew this season where there were ditches two years ago on the farm of Dave Link in Milam county. He terraced 75 acres at that time and the county agent is helping him terrace more this fall.

A three-year average of 25 bushels of wheat per acre due to sowing state certified turkey red wheat is the record of Dietz Brothers in Runnels county. The county average has been 18 bushels per acre, the county agent states.

After selling 1986 fryers this season, Everett Dickard of Fairview 4-H club in Harrison county has completed a new poultry house which he hopes will make it possible for him to sell 100 fryers per week next year. He has 7 sections in the house and plans to put 100 chicks in each section in successive weeks.

A cotton oil mill at Rotan is financing the purchase of baby beehives for 29 Fisher county 4-H club boys who will feed them for show and sale at Sweetwater next spring.

For a total cost of $34, J. N. Swain, Somervell county cane demonstrator, has made and sold 200 gallons of syrup from one acre planted to certified honey drip seed. The syrup sold for 50 cents per gallon.

McCulloch county turkey growers are planning to sell turkey eggs for hatching purposes to Northern growers through the county cooperative association next spring. This is a new industry now in its third year. Last year 120 members received $5500 for 60,000 turkey eggs, the agent reports.

Nacogdoches—A birthday dinner for her husband costing only 89 cents did not mean that Mrs. Barcie Lester, farm food supply demonstrator of Smith's Chapel Home Demonstration Club in Nacogdoches county, did not celebrate this anniversary with a good dinner, but instead it meant that the balanced-budgeted food supplies that have been worked out in that home this year need only to be supplemented with such staples as coffee, sugar, spices and rice in order to set forth an excellent meal at any time. The dinner, which was served to 16 people, consisted of chicken, rice, gravy, green butter beans, sweet potatoes, hot biscuit, butter, plum jelly, pepper relish, coconut custard pie and coffee.

Cameron—Native shrubs for use in yard improvement are being studied with enthusiasm by the home demonstration club women of Milam county this fall, according to the report of Miss Bertha Fae Strange, home demonstration agent. The clubs are arranging for expeditions into the woods of their own and adjoining counties to observe the condition of such plants and shrubs at this season and to learn to identify the desired ones when the time comes for transplanting them. December has been appointed a month for special effort in the improvement not only of private yards but the grounds around community buildings. The vitex, privet, tamarix roses, Japanese quince and bridal wreath rooted in the cutting beds made last spring will be transplanted to permanent places in the yards of the 23 special yard demonstrations 11 of whom have made complete planting plans for the improvement of their premises.

Gilmer—Making a profit of $1178.90 on her four years of 4-H club work has encouraged Ruth Cain of Indian Rock community in Upshur county to enroll as a contestant for one of the three college scholarships annually awarded Texas 4-H club girls. Poultry, gardening, clothing, food preservation, and home improvement were the demonstrations carried on by Ruth during her four years work and her profit was $2.86 the first year, $39.60 the second year, $319.90 the third and $816.54 the fourth.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of every individual. National and International Affairs Inseparable From Local Welfare.

It is now expected that the New Year will see the approval of all the industrial codes. That will mean that the National Recovery Administration has completed its first great task. At this writing, 59 codes, covering the basic industries, have been approved. One-hundred-thirty-seven are being revised. Forty-seven are scheduled for early hearings. By the time this is read the retail code, which was one of the most difficult, will have been approved unless an unlocked-for problem crops up. Most interesting feature of this code is that it will eliminate selling at less than inventory cost, a practice which has been prevalent, especially among large stores, which advertise "leader" at less than cost in the hope that customers buying them will buy other goods on which a profit is made. Very small stores, in towns of bottom-bracket population, will be immune to code provisions.

One important N R A problem is going to be the attitude of the press. Here's where the recovery administration made a possibly far-reaching mistake. When General Johnson excluded two reporters from his conference, because he didn't like what they had been writing about N R A, he was doing the unprecedented. Then he put his foot in deeper advocating a licensing system for papers, and just about every metropolitan editor in the country ran for his typewriter. On top of that, an N R A representative in the South called on the editor of a medium-sized paper, told him if he didn't stop making unfriendly comment on N R A labor provisions, he'd find himself in trouble. The editor spoke up in his paper and found the whole press, including the most zealous supporters of the Roosevelt program, behind him. This threatened press censorship is vitally important, and sparks are going to fly when it really comes to a head.

General belief is that Mr. Roosevelt is heartily in favor of a free press—that his mistake is in not holding tight enough rein on some of his assistants.

One fine afternoon back in 1913 an obscure prince was shot in the equally obscure city of Sarajevo. To most of the world the event simply meant one more scarehead and nothing more. Then armies began mobilizing. Lights burned late in chancelleries. The British Navy set for maneuvers several weeks ahead of the normal time. And the greatest war in history was underway.

Matters are not especially different in Europe now. Hitler's withdrawal of Germany from the League of Nations and the disarmament conference, has sent the greatest scare since those 1913 days through premiers and emperors, congresses and parliaments. The Hitler position is that the Versailles treaty is unbearable—that the refusal to meet Germany on an equal basis so far as armaments, especially, are concerned, thrusts the blame onto the other powers and that whatever happens will be their fault. Position of the other powers is more vague than that, and more confused. But they definitely fear Germany. Theoretically she has no army, save a small Reichswehr made up of picked men in for long terms. Practically, she has a great army, consisting of Hitler's brown shirts, which, under command of schooled Reichswehr officers, is powerful indeed. Her great lack is the weapons of offense—artillery, tanks, planes.

Texas is farmer owned, and most of the useful hardwoods in the rest of the State are farmer or rancher owned. Small farm sawmill enterprises offer one way these owners may make some extra dollars," he concludes.

Final decision may be left to France, which has most at stake, is most afraid. Many European statesmen believe it is time to declare a preventative war on Germany, crush her absolutely and unseat Hitler, before she has time to prepare. Smaller countries are alarmed—barricades are rising on the Swiss frontier, and her small, but first-class army received increased appropriations, went into harsh training. There is a link of nations around Germany of which but one, France, is great—the others, however, by cumulative action, could make it very unpleasant for Hitler.

So far as the United States is concerned, these events are of only economic importance. Roosevelt policy will doubtless be to keep hands off—even in case of war, to pursue complete and dispassionate neutrality. It's Europe's affair—and the fires are burning faster daily.

Speaking of fires, the U. S. has one of its own. It's consuming the prairie country. Not a literal blaze, it is in the minds and hearts of farmers, who believe the A A has failed to aid them; have watched their purchasing power, in many instances, go sharply down while other prices went sharply up. The Administration is frankly worried as the farm strike movement grows, takes in more farmers, more kinds of products, more states. Milo Reno, who can be both a fire eater and a fire maker, came into sight again with his Farm Holiday Association, told his followers to buy nothing, sell nothing, pay no taxes and no debts, until selling price at least reached cost price. Two governors expressed themselves as being in sympathy with farmers' strike.

Whole future of the Administration farm program is at stake and strongest efforts will be given to bringing order from chaos.

We Can't Have Both

The greatest obstacle business is struggling against now is taxation. And taxation, as a result, is the principal barrier in the way of achieving the fullest success for the recovery plans that are now in operation.

No business can spend money it hasn't got. No business can put more men on its pay rolls when it is having a hard time bringing in enough revenue to meet existing demands. No business can expand with profitless balance—sheets.

It's a moot point as to how great an influence taxation was in prolonging and deepening depression. But it was, to say the least, considerable. When the national income touched the lowest point in decades, the cost of government loomed like Everest out of the plains of Tibet.

To regain governmental economy, it is not necessary to curtail or damage necessary governmental functions—it simply means that the waste, inefficiency and duplication of effort that is actually harmful to legitimate governmental work, must be eliminated. In some cases a start has been made, and the taxpayers have been saved millions—as in the post office department, which is breaking even for the first time in many years. But the work has barely begun.

Reasonable taxation is the friend of recovery, of employment and higher wage scales, and individual and corporate prosperity.

Roosters on roller skates, next?

With everything "going mechanical" on the farm these days, one wonders if soon there won't be roosters on roller skates. Trucks, tractors, windmills, pumps, incubators, electric lighting plants—each of them needs some special fuel or some special lubricant. To aid you in keeping track of these needs Sinclair has developed a Call-me-by-postcard Service free to farmers. We supply you with postcards requiring no postage on which is printed a list of the principal Sinclair products. Opposite each item is a space for noting down the number of pounds or gallons you require. As your supply runs low you simply set down the amount required, sign your name and drop the postcard in the mail. The mail carrier and we do the rest. May we call and leave a supply of cards?

We sell Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oils, Sinclair Tractor Oils, Sinclair Gasolines, Sinclair Super-Flame Kerosene, Sinclair Cup and Sinclair Axle Greases, Sinclair P. D. insect spray.

Interesting School News From Over the County

Pearl School News

Editorial

When it comes to taking care of school property, some students think of school property as unimportant or insignificant. We should think of public property as our own property. School property belongs to each and every student. If we break or destroy anything it destroys everyone's property and it not only injures everyone else but ourselves. School property is provided for us by the State Department of Education but when we think of it, we pay a certain percent of it ourselves. We should appreciate our property because the community has worked so hard to attain a school of importance. Property is ours to use but not ours to destroy.
