TWO COUNTRY HOMES DESTROYED BY FIRE

The Paul Alford home, a mile and a half northwest of Gatesville, was destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon. The entire inventory of household goods was also consumed by the flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Alford were in Gatesville at the time of the fire and no account could be made of the origin of the conflagration.

The dwelling and household goods were covered by insurance.

The Joe Smith home at Levita was totally destroyed by fire Monday morning about 8 o'clock. The structure was a two story frame dwelling and was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith and Mrs. Joe Ater. It was not known whether the house or the furnishings were covered by insurance.

Two Demonstration Clubs Are Added to Coryell County List

FLAT, TOPSEY ENROLL

Two home demonstration clubs were organized last week, one at Flat and the other at Topsey, according to County Demonstrator Miss Gladys Martin.

The Flat club elected Mrs. Huckaby president, Mrs. Leonard Lam vice-president, Miss Gladys Harper secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Dock Brazzil council delegate. Mrs. Leonard Lam was elected pantry demonstrator and Miss Gladys Harper clothing demonstrator.

The Topsey club elected Mrs. Albert Cowan president, Mrs. Victor Frazee vice-president, Mrs. Charlie Adams secretary-treasurer, Miss Clara Vardiman reporter, Mrs. Howard Simpson council delegate.

Pantry Demonstration Notes

Mrs. A. J. Williamson, pantry demonstrator for the Pidcoke Club, has planned her canning budget for the year based on the requirements of her family. The budget includes; 150 containers of leafy or green vegetables, 100 containers starchy vegetables, 150 containers fruit, 125 containers tomatoes and tomato juice, 52 containers preserves and jellies, 52 containers pickles and relishes, 50 containers meat and 50 containers of miscellaneous foods.

One of the goals of every home demonstrator club member is to plan a canning budget, then fill it as nearly as possible.

G. G. Ricketts Cops Golf Title and Cup In Annual Tourney

JONES WINS 2ND FLIGHT

The Gatesville Golf Club annual tournament which began July 4, terminated Sunday afternoon, with the final round.

E. L. Stewart, who for the past two years has held the championship cup lost his trophy to G. G. Ricketts. The two favorites were pitted together in the first round and Ricketts defeated the title holder, 1 up. Stewart came through the consolation in the first flight by winning from Fred Prewitt and Dr. J. H. Hamilton, after Hamilton had defeated C. C. Sadler 1 up on twenty holes.

In the first flight brackets Ricketts defeated Stewart 1 up; McCreary defeated Prewitt, 5-3; W. Stewart defeated Sadler, 3-2; Dickie defeated Hamilton, 4-3. In the second round Ricketts defeated McCreary, 1 up; Dickie defeated W. Stewart, 4-3. In the final round Ricketts defeated Dickie, 1 up, to win the flight and club championship.

Second Flight

In the first round Caruth won from Hallman, 1 up; Miller won from Wharton, 7-6; Cooper beat Anderson, 3-2; Jones beat Chamlee, 5-3. In the second round Caruth won from Miller, 1 up; Jones won over Cooper, and in the final round Jones defeated Caruth for the second flight championship.

Dutch Chamlee won the second flight consolation. Dr. J. H. Hamilton won the driving contest in a heated round with E. L. Stewart. Each shot the same yardage with three ball and a fourth was necessary to break the tie.

Saturday Crowd Hears Tom Reese, Candidate For District Attorney

NATIVE OF COMANCHE

A good crowd gathered on the lawn in the shade of the courthouse Saturday afternoon to hear the message of Tom Reese, of Comanche, who spoke in the interest of his own candidacy for district attorney.

Mr. Reese reviewed his record in public office by pointing out that he had served for six years in the office of county attorney, having first being elected in 1924.

The candidate spoke principally of his firm conviction for law enforcement and referred his listeners to his past record as evidence of this fact.

Mr. Reese carries the endorsement of some of the leading jurists of Comanche county.

Federal Highway 84 Formerly State 7 to Pass Through G'ville

People of Gatesville and Coryell County interested in highway matters pertinent to this section will be pleased to learn that Highway 7 has been designated federal highway 84, according to a story which appeared in Sunday's edition of the Waco News-Tribune, a part of which is reprinted, as follows:

Waco is on the route of another federal highway, following Engineer Gilchrist's attendance at a meeting in Chicago last month of the executive committee, American Association of State Highway Officials. He succeeded in having state highway seven designated federal highway 84, as an extension of the road which runs from Tuscaloosa, Ala., west. It enters Texas via Logansport, coming through Timpson, Rusk, Palestine and Mexia to Waco, and from this city it goes west through Gatesville, Goldthwaite and Brownwood to Santa Anna, where it intersects federal highway 87, a route going from Port Lavaca to the Canadian border in Montana.

Improvement of the road later may make it an important federal route.

CORN NEAR ARNETT GROWS MINUS RAIN

F. H. Rattan, who lives in the vicinity of Arnett, shouldn't worry about rain.

Last Saturday Mr. Rattan brought four ears of corn to Gatesville, one of white corn and three of yellow. The ears averaged about seventeen inches long, especially healthy for this time of year and considering the fact that little rain has fallen on the crop.

Mr. Rattan stated that the white corn was planted April 4, and has not had any rain since the day it was planted. He has about twenty-five acres of this remarkably good-looking white and yellow corn.

CORYELL CITY CLUB TO GIVE PIE SUPPER

The Coryell City Club will sponsor a pie and cake supper with ice cream and cold drinks tonight, July 10, at the school auditorium.

A program of good music and other interesting numbers will be rendered.

The general public is cordially invited to attend and especially the county and district candidates.

The proceeds from the supper will be used to defray the expenses of rebuilding the tabernacle.

Will Be Included In Federal Aid Program

Coryell County is included in the secondary drouth relief list of Texas counties, according to recent word from Washington, and will be entitled to greatly reduced freight rates on livestock feed and the shipment of livestock.

Ninety-nine counties of the nation were added to the list eligible for various forms of relief under the federal drouth relief program, Saturday.

The farm administration said cattle bought in the drouth belt total 764,791 head. The stock, fattened and slaughtered for distribution to the needy—at the same time taking a load from sorely-pressed farmers—came from 67,939 farms in Arizona, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Central Texas counties added to the secondary list were: Bastrop, Bell, Bosque, Brazos, Burleson, Burnet, Caldwell, Comanche, Coryell, Falls, Hamilton, Lampasas, Somervell, Travis.

Musical Program Is Rendered by Orphans At Methodist Church

SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

The pews of the First Methodist Church were practically filled last Sunday evening by those who turned out to hear the program rendered by a group of some twenty young people from the Orphanage at Waco.

The Glee Club and Orchestra, under the capable direction of Mrs. Brantley presented a most entertaining musical program including readings by two of the younger members of the group.

The personnel was composed of girls of ages ranging from four years to seventeen years.

The party from the Methodist Orphanage was accompanied to Gatesville by Superintendent and Mrs. Hubert Johnson and their daughter, Marie, and two other members of the Orphanage faculty.

A reception and supper was given the visitors shortly before their appearance at the church.

EDITORIALS IN BRIEF

From the looks of some of the political tactics being pursued by many of our present-day candidates one would think that a code of ethics and fair competition would be entirely fitting for the political industry. In and around Gatesville we have noticed posters of two candidates for the same office tacked on the same telegraph pole. This is all right; in fact, there wouldn't be enough poles in Coryell County for a single poster on each one. But the questionable thing about it is that one is tacked slightly over the bottom of the upper one, just enough so to cover the name of the other candidate. There are a lot of tricks to politics this paper knows nothing about but it seems that the one just mentioned is about the crudest we have heard of in a long time.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Superintendent Frank L. William's idea for the forthcoming tennis tournament is a highly commendable one. There is nothing especially significant about getting a group of children and adults together for a few days of sporting competition but there is an ideal thought connected with the scheme. The promotion of tennis enthusiasm among school children and the provision of an outlet for summer restlessness for the youngsters is a creditable enterprise.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

A special session of the state legislature will convene on or about September 10, according to word from the Governor. Before it was a settled fact that a special session would be called the Governor received much criticism from the ranks of candidates who feared the session would convene before the second primary. However, the Governor was tactful and broadminded enough to stay the session date until after the fireworks. The alarming drouth situation and the demand for oil control will be the problems of the special session, two matters which we must admit need immediate attention.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

One of the most interesting experiments in this section of the country was the recent purchase of 4,573,800,000 gallons of water. The purchase was made by the Gulf Coast Water Company, of Bay City, from Brown County (Brownwood) for $10,000. The water was released from Lake Brownwood and delivered to the purchasers by the Colorado river. Although it is estimated that 50% of the water will be lost on the twelve-day journey the price was cheap—4,574 gallons for 1c. It is no wonder now that people are praying for rain where they heretofore prayed for manna.

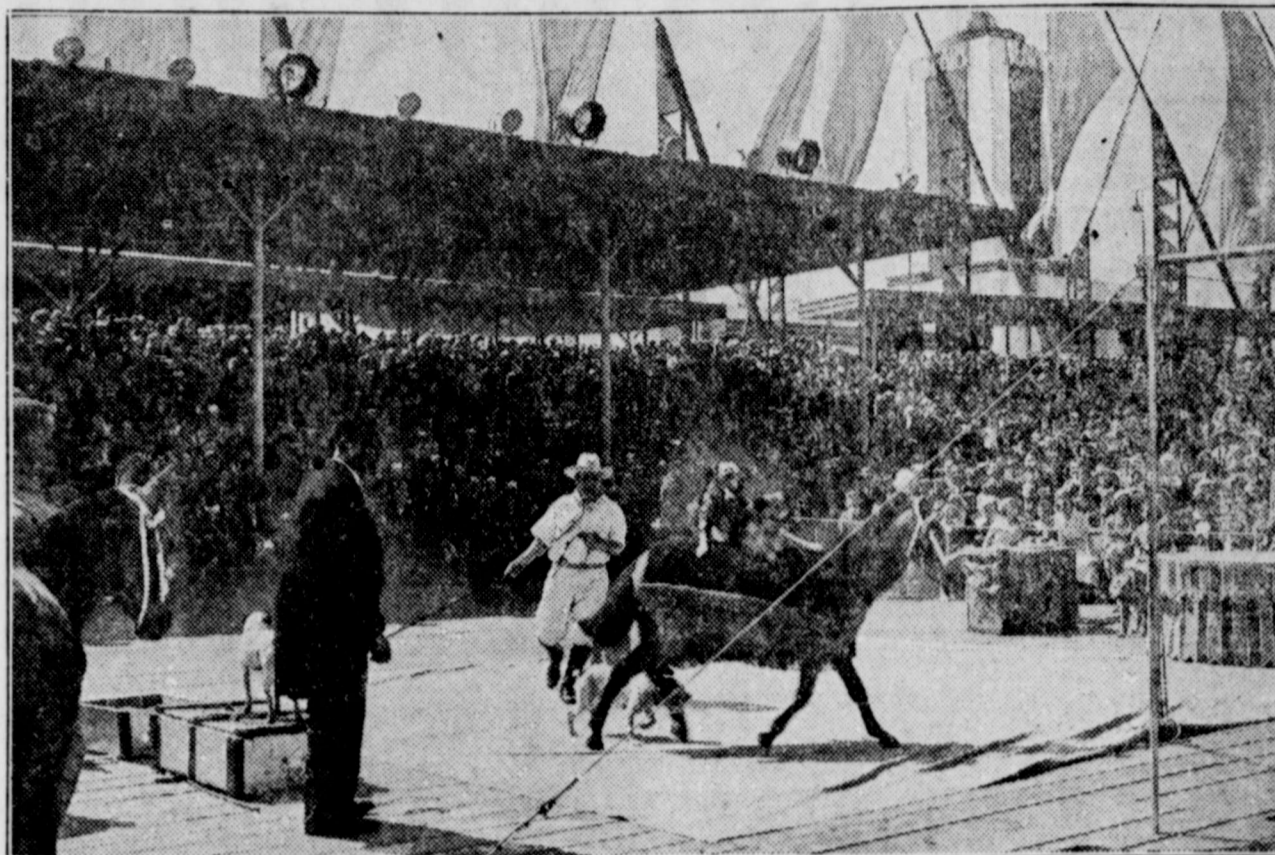

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

When a merchant can feel that there is an advantage in advertising when farmers are crying for rain and other merchants all around him are saying, "No rain—no advertising," he must have confidence in the newspaper and faith in its readers. It cost him money to advertise. Support him with your patronage.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

The News is not positive as to the stand of either of the candidates for State Representative from this district, although we understand that both favor the Centennial. This newspaper not only recommends but strongly urges that the voters insist upon the candidates committing themselves to support the Texas Centennial.

Daily Thousands See Fair's Free Circus

One of the principal differences between the 1933 Chicago World's Fair and the present one is that the new one has many more free entertainment projects. The one shown here is the Lagoon theater, where a circus and other shows are presented daily before an amphitheater seating 10,000.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

WITH THE SPECTATOR

Editor's Note.—This column is published by the News as a news feature because of the interesting comments of this writer upon politics. The views expressed are those of the writer and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial opinions of this newspaper.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES have been filed for the first period, been filed for the first period, most in the Senatorial campaign. Edgar Witt in the gubernatorial race, and Clyde E. Smith in the Attorney General's race. Senator Connally has received the greatest amount of receipts or "gifts" in the Senatorial race. Allred in the gubernatorial race, and Walter Woodward in the Attorney General's race. Expenses for all the candidates totaled $28,675.

THE GUBERNATORIAL candidates are basing their campaigns on widely varying subjects. Allred is largely anti-incorporation. Hunter is stressing reforms for the people. McDonald is for labor reforms. Maury Hughes is running on a more or less "economy in the State government" platform. Small is for strict law enforcement. Witt urges unemployment relief and a reduction of taxes. Nowhere are any of the candidates stressing liquor as the chief question in the campaign. In other words, each of the six major gubernatorial candidates think differently as to the problems confronting the people of Texas today.

WHAT do the gubernatorial aspirants say about the present pardon system of Texas. James V. Allred asks that the State Board of Pardons be given supreme authority in granting clemencies and pardons and that the members of the Board be appointed—one by the Governor, one by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and one by the Chief Justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals. Clint Small advocates the same measure but wants the Pardon Board to consist of the Attorney General, one appointee of the Supreme Court and one appointee of the Governor. Maury Hughes has put himself squarely on an anti-crime platform, stating publicly: "The wholesale grating of pardons and pardons has brought our laws into disrepute and encouraged the commission of crime in Texas." Hughes advocates the adoption of the system followed by the Federal Government in grating clemencies. Tom Hunter wants a pardoning board appointed by the Governor. Edgar Witt says "It is going to be a cold day in August when they get a pardon from me," meaning the hardened criminals.

A BARRAGE of verbal denunciations is being thrown against LON A. SMITH, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission and candidates for re-election, by his four opponents.

W. GREGORY HATCHER of Dallas, former State Treasurer, is running under the platform "Follow the Law." In the 1930 and '32 elections Hatcher polled 175,000 and 230,000 votes respectively for the office but was defeated both times in the second election.

H. O. JOHNSON of Houston advocates rigid enforcement of the proration laws by the commission. In the election of 1930 Johnson polled over 100,000 votes in the Commissioner's race.

JAMES L. McNEES of Dallas would reduce Texas utility rates and protect the independent oil men if elected. McNees is a Dallas attorney.

JOHN PUNDT of Dallas favors the creation of a separate oil and gas commission and a reduction of railroad rates.

LON SMITH is basing his campaign solely on his record in office.

SOFTBALL SYMPTOMS

By TEDDY

The Bachelors came from behind to defeat the Methodists gang Thursday night 7 to 6. Both teams have shown much improvement at the bat as well as in the field. These teams will have give the other teams some good playing before this division is over.

The Fire Boys had no trouble defeating Gartman's crew Thursday night 12 to 5. Gartman's gang had no trouble connecting with the pellet, but the Fireman managed to let in fall in a "well" several times during the game. The Firemen, who have been weakened by Dr. Ray's absence, played one of their best games of th season.

The games that were scheduler for Friday, July 6, and were rained out, will be played Tuesday (tonight). I am asking that all games that are rained out be played as quick as possible in order that the Team Standing be kept straight.

—MY—DOPE—

Wednesday — Arnold's crew will defeat the Methodists. The Methodists gang will be no set-up for any team.

Gartman's crew will defeat the Bachelors. They will have no "snap" in defeating this team.

"You'll Buy Here and Save"

There were only two large gaming tables, one of which was in use. "Make it six-handed. Come an' set in, Wall," said Hays. "Friendly little game of draw. Sky limit."

Wall laughed. "I couldn't play penny ante."

"Wal, I'll stake you."

"No, thanks. I'd rather watch." No sooner had they seated themselves than the man Hays had called Stud strode up.

"Am I bein' left out of this on purpose?" he demanded, and evidently he addressed Hays.

"Lincoln got up the game," replied Hays, coolly.

"You ask my friends to set in, an' not me."

"Wal, if you're so keen about it, why set in with us," went on Hays, fingering a deck of cards. "But if you want to know bad, I'm not stuck on playin' with you."

"Mean that to insult me?" Stud queried, sharply, his right hand rising to the lapel of his open vest. If Wall had not observed the bulge of two guns inside this vest he would have divined from Stud's action that there was one at least.

"Not at all," replied Hays, leaning back in his chair. That significant movement of Stud's had not been lost upon him. A little cold glint appeared in his pale eyes. "Reckon you're too slick a poker player for Hank Hays. I want a run for my money."

"Slick, eh? Wal, I don't mind bein' called that. It's a compliment. I've yet to see the gambler who wouldn't be slick if he could. But when you ask my pards to play an' not me—their's different."

"Set in, Stud," rejoined Hays civilly, as he began to shuffle the cards. "I feel lucky tonight. Last time you had it all your way."

The game began then with Happy Jack and Wall looking on. A player made rather a pointed move and remark anent Wall's standing behind him.

"Shore I'll change seats with you," replied Hays, obligingly, but it was plain he felt irritated.

"Never mind, Hays," interposed Wall, deliberately. "The gentleman evidently fears I'll tip off his cards. So I'll stand behind you, if I may."

CHAPTER II

FROM the very first deal Hays was lucky. Morley stayed about even. Brad Lincoln lost more than he won. The giant Montana was a close, wary gambler, playing only when he had good cards. Stud was undoubtedly a player who required the stimulation and zest of opposition. But he could not wait for luck to change. He had to be in every hand. Moreover, he was not adept enough with the cards to deal himself a good hand when his turn came. He grew so sullen that Wall left off watching and returned to the fireside.

But presently he had cause to attend more keenly than ever to this card game. The drift of conversation wore toward an inevitable fight. These men were vicious characters. Wall knew that life out here was raw. There was no law except that of the six shooter.

While he bent a more penetrating gaze upon Stud, to whom his attention gravitated, Wall saw him perform a trick with the cards that was pretty clever, and could not have been discerned except from Wall's position.

Nevertheless, fickle fortune most certainly had picked on Stud. He bet this hand to the limit of his cash, and then, such was his confidence, he borrowed. Still he could not force Hays to call. He fell from elation to consternation, then to doubt, from doubt to dismay, and from this to a gathering impotent rage, all of which proved how poor a gambler he was. When at last he rasped out: "Wal, I call! Here's mine."

He slammed down an ace full. Hays had drawn three cards.

"Stud, I hate to show you this hand," drawled Hays.

"Yes, you do! Lay it down. I called you."

Whereupon Hays gently spread out four ten spots, and then with greedy hands raked in the stakes. Stud stared with burning eyes. "Three-card draw! . . . You come in with a pair of tens?"

"Nope. I held up one ten an' the ace," replied Hays, nonchalantly. "I had a hunch, Stud."

"You'd steal coppers off a dead man's eyes."

"Haw! Haw!" bawled the victorious gamester. But he was the only one of the six players who seemed to see anything funny in the situation. That dawned upon him. "Stud, I was takin' that crack of yours humorous."

"Was you?" snapped Stud. "Shore I was," retorted Hays, with congealing voice.

"Wal, I didn't mean it humorous," Stud retorted.

"Ahuh. Come to look at you I see you ain't feelin' gay. Suppose you say just what you did mean."

"I meant what I said." "Shore, I'm not so awful thick. But apply that crack to this here card game an' my playin'."

"Hays, you palmed them three ten-spots," declared Stud hotly.

Then there was quick action and the rasp of scraping chairs, and the tumbling over of a box seat. Stud and Hays were left alone at the table.

"You're a liar!" hissed Hays, suddenly black in the face.

Here Jim Wall thought it was time to intervene. He read the glint in Stud's eyes. Hays was at a disadvantage, so far as drawing a gun was concerned. And Wall saw that Stud could and would kill him.

"Hold on there," called Wall, in a voice that made both men freeze.

Hays did not turn to Wall, but he spoke. "Pard, lay off. I can handle this feller."

"Take care, stranger," warned Stud, who appeared to be able to watch both Hays and Wall at once. They were, however, almost in line. "This ain't any of your mix."

"I just wanted to tell Hays I saw you slip an ace from the bottom of the deck," said Wall. He might as well have told of Hays' irregularities.

"Wot! He filled his ace full thet way?" roared Hays.

"He most certainly did."

"All right let it go at that," replied Stud, deadly cold. "If you can say honest that you haven't pulled any tricks—go for your gun. Otherwise keep your shirt on."

This unexpected sally exemplified the peculiar conception of honor among thieves. It silenced Hays. The little gambler knew his man and shifted his deadly intent to a more doubtful issue.

"Jim Wall, eh?" he queried insolently.

"At your service," retorted Wall. He divined the workings of the little gambler's mind. Stud needed to have more time, for the thing that made decision hard to reach was the quality of this stranger. His motive was more deadly than his will, or his power to execute. All this Jim Wall knew. It was the difference between the two men.

"I'm admittin' I cheated," said Stud harshly. "But I ain't standin' to be tipped off by a stranger."

"Well, what're you going to do about it?" asked Wall, while the spectators of the drama almost held their breath.

Stud's lean, dark, little hands lifted quivering from the table.

"Don't draw!" yelled Wall. "The man doesn't live who can sit at a table and beat me to a draw."

"H—I—you say," panted Stud. But that ringing taunt had cut the force of his purpose.

"You've got a gun in each inside vest pocket," said Wall, contemptuously.

The gambler let his hands relax and slide off the table.

Stud shuffled to his feet, malignant and beaten for the moment.

"Hays, you an' me are even," he said gruffly. "But I'll meet your new pard some other time and then there'll be a show-down."

"Shore, Stud. No hard feelin's on my side," drawled Hays.

The little gambler stalked to the bar, drank and left the saloon.

Hank Hays turned round.

"Jim, thet feller did have two guns inside his vest. I never saw them, till you gave it away. He—would have killed me."

"I think he would, Hays," returned Wall. "You were sitting bad for action."

"Right you are, Jim, and I'm much obliged to you. I'd like to know somethin'."

"What's that?"

"Did you bluff him?"

"Hardly. I had him figured. It was a pretty good bet he wouldn't try to draw. But if he had made a move—"

"Ahuh. It'd been all day with him. . . . This gambler Stud has a name out here for bein' swift on the draw. He's killed—"

"Bah!" cut in Wall, good-humoredly. "Men who can handle guns don't pack them that way."

Presently they bade Red good night and went outside.

"Where you sleepin'?" asked Hays.

"Left my pack in the stall out back with my horse. What do we do tomorrow?"

"I was thinkin' of thet. We'll shake the dust of Green River. I reckon tomorrow we'd better stock up on everythin' an' hit the trail for the Henrys."

"Suits me," replied Wall.

"Wal, then, good night. Breakfast here early," concluded Hays.

A red sunrise greeted Wall upon his awakening. When, a little later, he presented himself at the back of Red's house for breakfast he was to find Hays, Happy Jack and Brad Lincoln ahead of him.

They had breakfast. "Brad, you fetch your pack horses round back," ordered the leader, when they got outside. "Happy, you get yourself a hoss. Then meet us at the store quick as you can get there. . . . Jim, you come with me."

"Hays, I'm in need of some things," said Wall.

Hays drew out a handful of bills and pressed them upon Wall.

"Shore. Buy what outfit you need an' don't forget a lot of shells," replied Hays. "If I don't miss my guess we'll have a smoky summer. Haw! Haw! . . . Here's the store."

Half an hour later the four men, driving five packed horses and two unpacked, rode off behind the town across the flat toward the west. Coming to a road, Hays led on that for a mile or so, and then branched off on a seldom-used trail.

Toward sunset they drew down to the center of a vast swale, where the green intensified, and the eye of the range rider could see the influence of water.

Hays halted for camp at a swampy sedge plot where water oozed out and grass was thick enough to hold the horses.

"Aha! Good to be out again, boys," said Hays, heartily. "Throw saddles an' packs. Turn the hosses loose. Happy, you're elected cook. Rest of us rustle something to burn."

Jim rambled far afield to collect an armload of dead stalks of cactus, grease-wood, sunflower; and dusk was mantling the desert when he got back to camp. Happy Jack was whistling about a little fire; Hays knelt before a pan of dough, which he was kneading; Lincoln was busy at some camp chore.

"Wall, I don't like store bread," Hays was saying. "Give me sourdough biscuits. . . . How about you, Jim?"

"Me, too. And I'd like some cake," replied Jim, dropping his load.

"Cake! Wal, listen to our new hand. Jack, can you bake cake?"

"Sure. We got flour an' sugar an' milk. Did you fetch some eggs?"

"Haw! Haw! . . . Thet reminds me, though. We'll get eggs over at Star ranch. None of you ever seen such a ranch. Why, fellers, Herick's bought every durn' hoss, burro, sow, steer, chicken in the whole country."

"So you said before," returned Lincoln. "I'm sure curious to see this Englisher. Must have more money than brains."

"He hasn't got any sense. But Lordy, the money he's spent!"

Lovely Hospitality Honors Bride.

One of the most charming and outstanding courtesies last week was a miscellaneous shower and party given at the C. E. Alvis home complimenting Mrs. Louie Powell, formerly Miss Annette Connor.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. O. G. Gilder and Mrs. Francis Powell, after which they assembled in the living room and other parts of the spacious home.

The dining room was most attractive with floral decorations of crepe myrtle basketed and vased, and the beautiful dining table centered with a miniature bride and groom dressed in pink and white under a pink parasol. The table was laid with normandy lace covered over pink satin and decorated with queen's wreath and ferns. Four large lighted pink tapers gave a soft glow to the setting. Ice cream and cake were served from the table, assisted by Mrs. Kit Bridges, Mrs. Clyde Bailey and Mrs. M. W. Lowrey. Favors, which were dainty bridal bouquets, were given to each guest by Mrs. Fred Smith and Miss Lorene Moon.

Following the refreshment course Mrs. Reid Powell presented each guest with a pink sheet of paper asking them to write a line of advice to the bride. After the sheets were completed they were backed with a label of blue bearing the inscription, "Blue Monday Hints," and presented to the bride.

Following this feature, little Miss Sammie Beth Williams, frocked in a pink tulle dress, and Bill Dickie, dressed in a suit of white satin, entered with a large blue laundry basket filled with gifts which they presented to the bride, telling her it was the Monday Morning washing.

Mrs. Powell received about two hundred gifts including those from people who were unable to attend.

All of her children except one, Miss Bess Holmes, who is attending college at San Marcos, were present for the dinner. Those present for the delightful affair were Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Holmes and daughter, Mary Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Holland Holmes and son, Jerry, of Fort Worth, Mrs. S. C. Rose of Austin and Mrs. Bob Brown.

Callers during the day were Mesdames A. T. Rogers, Juliet Ford, John Schley, O. G. Gilder, M. L. McDowell, A. D. Honeycut, Joyce Ryan, Bird Hair, John Reesing and J. R. McClellan; Misses Frances Reesing and Ruby Weedie and Messrs

Bob Brown, Jim Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Brown.

Mrs. Holmes was the recipient of many and useful gifts as well as a number of beautiful cards. Mrs. W. A. White, who was not present also remembered Mrs. Holmes.

Bettie Holmes, as she is affectionately called by those who know her best, has been almost totally paralyzed for about five years and has been confined to her bed for most of that time. Her only diversions are her radio and the visits from friends.

Turner-Busby

Miss Lillian Turner and Mr. Earl Busby were united in marriage in a quiet ceremony performed by Rev. C. E. Herford, Baptist pastor in Waco, last June 10.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Turner of this city. She was reared in Gatesville and is a graduate of the Public Schools here.

The bride groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Busby, who recently moved here, graduated from Waco High School, and is now employed at Meeks' Cafe.

The many friends of this young couple wish for them much success and happiness in their future life together.

Gallantry of Young Man Leads to Death

A gesture of gallantry on the part of a well dressed young Presbyterian Theological student, Elmer Ellsworth Kinzie, of Austin, who read a book of Kipling's poems as he rode through Temple on the ill-fated Greyhound bus which burned near Lancaster Tuesday night cost the young man his life but saved the life of Mrs. W. D. Townley of Sherman who was returning to her home after a visit in Lampasas.

The young man offered to exchanged seats with Mrs. Townley soon after the bus passed through Waco so that she could sit on the shady side of the bus. He took the sunny side and gave Mrs. Townley a position where later the bus driver was able to pull her from the burning vehicle first.

Mrs. Townley said that between Temple and Waco the bus had to stop several times and the driver looked under the hood. At Waco the bus was filled with gasoline. Near Lancaster the driver was attempting to make up lost time, Mrs. Townley said.

A tire exploded with a dull thud. The driver fought hard to handle the huge machine and almost kept it in the road. Then it hit the side of the bridge, Mrs. Townley related.

Bob Downs, known to many in Temple, was driver of the huge bus which became an inferno of death. He risked his life to save 10 of the passengers. —Temple Telegram.

Rep. Huddleston's July Fourth Speech Reminiscent of Past

"July 4th brings to our minds the history of the founding of our great Democratic Government and our great Nation. Our fore-fathers declared and fought for a government the purposes of which was and is to serve humanity. They declared for equal rights to all and special privileges to none. Ours is a government for the masses and not for any special class.

"Office holders should remember their great principles and should not listen to high paid lobbyist but listen to the people who elect them. Public office is a public trust.

"If elected to the Legislature for a second term I promise that I will serve the people to the best of my ability and will at all times be pleased to have help because this is their government the same as mine. We should all work together for the best interest of our state and her people."

A HUNT for remains of dinosaurs, the weirdest and most terrifying form of life ever produced by Nature on land, is being staged this summer in the "Bad Lands" and Black Hills of northwestern United States. The search will be conducted by the American Museum-Sinclair Dinosaur Expedition under the leadership of Dr. E. H. Cope, Curator of Fossil Reptiles, American Museum of Natural History, New York. The funds are provided by the Sinclair Refining Company.

Tracking the dinosaurs to their last resting places by airplane is a novel feature of this expedition. Observers high up in a plane can identify by color the peculiar geological formations in which fossil dinosaurs are usually found. Having located these spots, the scientists can make later excavations with promise of immediate discovery of dinosaur skeletons.

There is reason to believe that new types of dinosaurs hitherto unknown, may be found. In fact one of the purposes of the expedition is to excavate two giant skeletons already located and thought to be different from the remains of any known dinosaur. These two fantastic brutes are estimated to have been 50 feet in length and to have lived 120,000,000 years ago when Nature was mellowing the crudes from which motor oils are refined today.

The expedition may unearth other monsters equally strange and of the greatest interest to science. As expedition headquarters, Dr. Brown has selected Cloverly Post Office, 25 miles north-east of Graybull, Wyoming.

SURE CINCH ON RACE OF BELL SHERIFF

Here's a sure tip on who'll be elected sheriff this year. It will be a candidate who rode a horse in the Belton parade.

The above statement is not based on any special ability to prognosticate on the political race. It is just common sense, for all three candidates rode horses in the parade—and what's more all were of the paint variety.—Temple Telegram
