

Execution of Bankhead Law Pending Arrival of Exemption Applications

PRESS TO CARRY DETAILS

By D. W. Sherrill
County Agent

Farmers wishing information concerning application of the Bankhead Law should keep in close touch with local newspapers as to the procedure adopted in Coryell county. Application forms for farm allotments of tax exempt cotton have not arrived to date.

When these forms arrive the papers will carry notice of same; community committeemen and county committeemen who assisted in signing up adjustment contracts will take applications for tax exemption at an established headquarters for their particular territory served. Complete details will be announced later so that it is unnecessary for farmers to worry about this until the necessary forms arrive and announcement is made. No deadline date for signing these applications has been made as yet.

Deadline will be set at a later date. Applications for Bankhead Allotment must be made for every farm that grows an acre of cotton. If there is no application made to cover a farm before the deadline date there will be no second opportunity to secure tax exempt certificates for that farm and tax must then be paid on all cotton sold from that farm. So it is the duty of farmers after the program starts to inform their neighbors that application must be made if they expect to sell

Relief Chiselers Will Be Prosecuted, Warns Administrator Prewitt

RELIEF ROLLS ARE CHECKED

"Chiselers," persons who claim to be destitute and seek aid from the State and National relief offices when they are able to care for themselves, will not be tolerated, Fred G. Prewitt, local administrator for the Texas Relief Commission, said. This is not only his statement, but advice from headquarters.

Government surveys show that many persons in various counties over the state are making false statements in order to get aid from the relief agencies. Persons who sign papers stating that they need aid when they are able to care for themselves, will be considered as "chiselers" and will be prosecuted, Mr. Prewitt stated.

No "chiseling" has been reported in Coryell County, but a careful check is being made of the rolls, it was announced.

This offense is punishable by fine and imprisonment, and people should think twice before letting themselves be guilty.

When a fellow takes a trip of any consequences these days he is entitled to some consideration and that goes for Joe Baker, and his Arkansas travels, missed 'round the square during his absence. ## Dr. A. G. Livingston Warrants Interest of People to Come First

CANDIDATE FOR REP.

DR. A. G. LIVINGSTON

Upon the insistence of the many friends made in Hamilton and Coryell counties during my time as Chairman of Hamilton County Board of Welfare and Relief and my ten years residence in Hamilton county, I announced as candidate for Representative from the 94th District.

A man who fails to carefully consider, and who hesitates for political reasons to vote for the best interests of the masses, and not for a class, is simply delaying the President's Recovery Program, and is working a hardship upon citizens and taxpayers. Many of our representatives have, what are called in Austin, advisors, and fail to think for themselves, as our Congressional records will show. Some from the farm districts did vote against the interests of the farmers, fearing, evidently defeat at the next election for political reasons. This statement can be verified from the reports of the last regular and called sessions at Austin. If there ever was a time in history when we need the help of our representatives, it was and is during the time of depression.

We usually see our representatives only when they are asking for the vote of the people to return them to Austin. It is well for the voters of the dis-

Cattlemen Will Meet To Discuss Livestock Situation in Coryell

TO REQUISITION RELIEF

Due to the fact that Coryell County is on the secondary drouth relief list and further due to the extremely large surpluses of cattle in Coryell County and to the short feed crops, pasturage, and shortage of water supply and since many counties are securing the benefit from the government cattle buying program it has been suggested by many stockmen to the County Agent that a request be made to secure this cattle buying program for Coryell county.

A meeting of and for stockmen will be held Saturday morning, July 14, 10:00 A. M. at the Court House for the purpose of studying the live stock situation and making requisition to proper authorities for any relief thought necessary and to get the stockmen's point of view for any future program of the government as it relates to the cattle and livestock business.

Golf Club Ladder to Provide Rivalry for Individual Members

POSITIONS TO BE POSTED

Plans have been completed for "ladder" competition at the Gatesville Golf Club among individual members. The following rules have been adopted, according to Ben Sellers:

All members' names will be posted on the ladder in the order of their standing at the end of the recent tournament. Members who did not participate will be listed according to playing scores under rules of play.

Each man has the right to challenge the man above him for his position on the ladder. If the challenged does not play within one week he forfeits his position.

When a player is defeated he must play the man below him before he can challenge the man above him. If player is defeated by the man he challenged he must play the man below before he can again challenge the same man. No player is forced to play more than one challenge match each week.

All contests are for nine holes. In case of tie, play must continue until the tie is broken.

When tournaments are to be played players will be grouped into flights according to their standing on the ladder. All ladder and club rules must be respected—no exceptions.

Duty of Grand Jury To Investigate Two Murders, Says Cross

JUDGE CHARGES JURY

The July Term of the District Court of Coryell County began on Monday, July 9th., with the empanelling of the grand jury, composed of the following men: H. J. Dewald, E. G. Beerwinkle, R. O. Poston, Henry Autrey, C. M. McGeehe, E. G. Hardie, John McKinney, Theo. Johnson, E. R. Norman, Tom Perryman, Guy Draper and Guy Grantham. Tom Perryman was named foreman by the court, whose charge, in part, was as follows:

"You are a special investigating committee that we call the Grand Jury, and you have the duty to go into the various crimes and violations of the law that you may find to have occurred in this county, and to investigate those matters, and such as you think need to be presented into court, to do so," said Judge R. B. Cross in his charge to the Grand Jury.

In commenting on the oath taken by the Grand Jurors Judge Cross said that in investigating crime the oath provided for secrecy because secrecy is a safe-guard in the investigation of crime.

"The Grand Jury system has been a part of our system in England and America for more than eight hundred years. It came when our ancestors wrested from English Kings the rights under the Magna Charter. No government on earth has ever found a better system to investigate and try those charged with the commission of crime than our jury system.

"I have studied the oath and the wisdom that is in it, and

2,000 Cotton Tags For Old Cotton Now On Hand For Owners

McCOY, GOV'T. TAGGER

On Wednesday 2,000 cotton tags for old cotton were received by D. W. Sherrill, County Agent. These tags will be placed immediately upon each bale of old cotton for which tax exempt applications have been made.

Tax exemption applications for old cotton have been made to date including only 1719 bales of old cotton. It is thought that there must be a few more bales of old cotton in Coryell County and it is thought that some holders of old cotton may have neglected to make applications for tax exemption tags. Any farmers who have old cotton on hand are urged to get in touch with the County Agent of they wish to sell tax exempt.

Mr. B. E. McCoy assumed his duties as County Cotton Tagger yesterday under his appointment from Washington.

EDITORIALS IN BRIEF

Harry Flentge, candidate for District Attorney, is making a strong bid for election to that office, despite the fact that he is opposed on the ticket by one from each of the other counties in the district. We understand that Mr. Flentge carries with him in his campaign the endorsement of the Coryell County lawyers. This is quite a recommendation within itself since this county and the county-seat city have never been known as dyed-in-the-wool local talent supporters, as is the case in other sections. Mr. Flentge's platform calls for an impartial investigation of all offenses; the right of the District Attorney, upon request, to give the grand jury his opinion on cases that will not support a conviction; like treatment to every offender who faces the Bar of Justice, and protection of the innocent as well as prosecution of the guilty. It is the understanding of this newspaper that the matter of residence has been linked with the campaign. It is our opinion that the matter of residence should not be made an issue but on the other hand the election to office of any candidate should rest upon the qualification of the candidate, and may the best qualified be placed in office.

The enormous quantity of water which recently left its old home in Brownwood Lake arrived to quench the thirst of the parched rice fields of southeast Texas Tuesday after tumbling down a river bed for 500 miles. It is estimated that at least 80 per cent of the crop will be saved by the relief water. One hundred and two farmers of Wharton and Matagorda counties will be benefited by the experimental supply of water. No great invention was necessary to do this wonderful job of irrigation. It was an idea conceived by someone probably without any great amount of engineering technic to his credit, yet think of the great good that will be done to drouth stricken crops by this experiment. The only catch is that it may mean a dry lake for Brownwood.

Conclusions reached by experts of the AAA prove that farm buying power on the average throughout the United States has been increased 25 per cent during the first nine months in which benefit payments have been distributed through the provisions of the federal Agricultural adjustment program than in the corresponding period of the previous year. Prices farmers receive for their products compared with the cost of commodities they buy, was the primary factor in the study of comparative conditions. It's a hard matter for the farmers of this vicinity to realize the consistency of such a statement. It's hard for them to realize that their purchasing power has grown beyond the cost of merchandise, and about the only way they will be convinced is to see the day when they will have some change to rattle in their pockets and get over the day when it's a matter of "swap-out" with the farmer getting the little end of the bargain.

Information is that the Republican Party has accepted the Brain Trust idea and will probably organize a similar board among their own ranks. Possibly their will be the Re-Gain Trust.

Despite the need for rain throughout the country, Mississippi preferred to remain "dry" in Tuesday's election.

So tremendous were the eager throngs on the first Children's day of the Chicago World's Fair, May 31, officials had to order the gates thrown open free to prevent crushing. This joyful mob was trying to get through the turnstiles at the main entrance at 11 a. m. Despite the fact that the crowd of approximately 100,000 smashed all records, there was not a serious accident reported on the grounds.

STUMPIN' THE STATE WITH THE SPECTATOR

Editor's Note.—This column is published by the News as a news feature because of the interesting comments of this writer upon politics. The views expressed are those of the writer and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial opinions of this newspaper.

FOUR SENATORS, one State Representative, and an attorney-at-law are seeking the Lieutenant Governorship of Texas. The Senators are Benjamin F. Berkeley of Alpine, John W. Hornsby of Austin, Joe Moore of Greenville, and Walter Woodul of Houston; R. M. Johnson of Palestine is the Representative, and Hon. James P. Rogers, candidate for the office in 1936 is the attorney of Houston.

Johnson and Rogers will break a long established precedent if either are elected to the office. For many years it has been the custom in Texas to choose the Lieutenant Governor from the State Senate. Edgar Witt, the present Lieutenant Governor, served twelve years in the senate before being elected its presiding officer. Lynch Davidson, Barry Miller, and likewise others served long terms before being elected.

JOSEPH W. BAILEY continues to stress jobless relief in his campaign for United States Senator. No greater problem ever confronted the people of our nation. The coming Congress will have to take steps to permanently remedy the economic condition of the country. Surely something must be done for the 11,000,000 jobless and homeless people in America.

Regardless of Congressman Bailey's stand on other questions, he should be commended for attacking this serious problem.

A CANDIDATE for office certainly has to "watch his step" because his mistakes are going to be "dug up" and brought before the people sooner or later. For instance, Senator Connally has been saying that he stayed in Washington "until the last gavel fell," attending to the people's interest. Now opponent Joe Bailey Jr., in order to counteract this statement, early in May says that Senator Connally neglected his duties in Congress and came to Texas in April, 1928, to campaign against Senator Mayfield. So, both candidates will probably by mutual agreement omit these statements from their future speeches.

ONE QUESTION that was hardly touched upon in any previous campaign may prove the determining factor in the forthcoming gubernatorial election. That is the issue of old age pensions. Old age pensions are becoming a live issue over the entire country, probably because the past four years have quickened thought to the rigors and hazards of suffering and illness for those who have arrived at three score or more without visible means of support. Maury Hughes and C. C. McDonald are foremost among the candidates for Governor in advocating pensions for the old.

MOST of the gubernatorial candidates have a campaign slogan, "battle cry," or whatever you want to call it. Jimmie Allred's is "A New Deal from a Ned Deck," Maury Hughes' is "A Ned Deal for Texas," Tom Hunter's is "For a Texas, Recovery," McDonald, Small, and Witt have not asked their publicity managers to invent one as yet.

Was appointed a member of the Supreme Court Commission by the Governor in 1929.

In 1930 the law was changed making the Commission appointive by the Supreme Court, and under this law he was reappointed for a six-year term.

His experience as a lawyer and his services as a judge peculiarly fit him for a Justice of the Court. He seeks promotion.

MEN DON DRESSES TO DELIGHT BALL FANS

The men were "ladies for an hour" when the Methodists played the Fireboys under the lights here last Saturday night. The members of each team were arrayed in men's apparel even to a generous coat of paint and varnish. The boys demeaned themselves with a (dis)graceful noise.

The members of the teams were named by the spectators as follows: Senia Hair, Johnye Rodgers, Bertha Laxson, Josephine Powell, Mary Shepherd, Frankie Williams, Mattie Jones, Hazel Ament, Daisy Culberson, Katherine Jones, Petra Patterson, Audra Laxson, Nellie Kirkpatrick, Roberta (Kiltie) Miller, Louise Newmann and Rolla Bone.

Mattie Jones was recognized as winner for timidity.

Bertha Laxson was dubbed Fanny because of her action at the bat.

Audra Laxson won distinction for her ventilated rompers.

Daisy Culberson was perhaps the belle of the ball 'game'.

No one seems to know what the score was. The Firemen are ashamed of it and the Methodists couldn't keep track of their runs.

Hodges Family Holds Reunion After Span Of Twenty-five Years

On Wednesday, July 4th, the Hodges family celebrated the holiday with a family reunion at Jonesboro. It is a long established custom of this family to meet and celebrate this holiday together, but this was an unusually happy occasion because it brought together two brothers, Gene Hodges of Gatesville and Sim Hodges of Turkey, Texas, and their sister, Mrs. Bob Painter of White Hall community and half sister, Mrs. R. P. Williams of that community. This was the first time these brothers and sisters had all been together in twenty-five years.

The morning was most enjoyably passed in swimming and games, followed by a very touching sermon by Uncle Sim Hodges. After the sermon a number of old hymns were sung, among them a special song, that beautiful old hymn, "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be," sung by Misses Happy and Minnie Hodges. Both the sermon and singing were greatly enjoyed by all.

After the religious services, a bountiful dinner was served, in picnic style, under some beautiful elms. After everyone had eaten all they possibly could, the afternoon was spent in conversation, more games and swimming, another song service, and then a watermelon feast at which, believe it or not, everyone present got all the melon they wanted, and then some.

Late in the afternoon the good times had to end and everyone said good bye, hoping that all would be permitted to take a part in many more happy reunions to come.

At this reunion there were three generations represented among the sixty-five that gathered to enjoy the day. Among those present were: Sim Hodges and daughters, Happy and Minnie; Mrs. Bob Painter, R. E. Painter and daughter, Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. D. L. McCallister and daughter, Moselle; Mr. and Mrs. Oad Painter and two children, Masters Wes and James Nichols; Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams and two daughters; Mr. Wayne Williams; Mrs. Joyce Tutstone and son, Farrell; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Shepherd and son, Ira; W. T. Anderson; Miss Ruby Faye Hale; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Comer and family; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hodges and Louis, Mary and Clyde; Mr. and Mrs. George Hodges and Lula Francis and George Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hodges and sons, Frances and W. J.; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Smith and sons, Claudie and Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller and sons, Aubrey, Cavitt and Wendell; Mr. and Mrs. John Hodges and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Hodges and daughters, Jewel and Jo; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hodges.

Contributed by one present.

Texas farmers and ranchers sold 21,320 cutter cows for an average of about $5 per head above market quotations, and 9439 unemployed persons were given wages of $12 per week. An average of about 3000 people were employed steadily for 26 days.

World Famed Play "Wonder Bar," to Open Here Soon

Out-doing all previous sensational combinations of stars and spectacles, First National's long awaited international musical drama, "Wonder Bar," will be shown for the first time locally at the Regal Theatre on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Kay Francis plays the leading feminine role opposite Al Jolson, who portrays the proprietor of the "Wonder Bar." Ricardo Cortez and Dolores Del Rio have the coveted parts of the two dancers, while Dick Powell and Henry Kolker have the roles of the American composer-orchestra leader and the husband of Kay Francis, respectively. Hal LeRoy, the sensational Broadway player, plays the role of himself in a thrilling dance sequence.

Guy Kibbee and Hugh Herbert play the two American tourists with Ruth Donnelly and Louise Fazenda as their wives, in important comedy and character roles. Robert Barrat has the part of the army officer, who drives his auto over a cliff and unconsciously covers up a murder. Fifi d'Orsay and Merna Kennedy will be seen as two flirtatious hostesses in the fashionable Parisian night club.

As "Wonderbar," this unique musical proved an international sensation a few years ago. It played for months in all Europe's capitals and was brought to this country as a stage starring vehicle for Al Jolson. He took it on the road after a season in New York and no production since "The Miracle" has been so generally and so generously welcomed. A few months ago First National acquired the screen rights to the production and proceeded at once to make extensive plans for its presentation as the greatest film spectacle of modern times.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Jim Wall, young cowpuncher from Wyoming, in the early days of the cattle industry, seeks a new field in Utah. He meets Hank Hays, who admits to being a robber, and tells Wall he is working for an Englishman named Herrick, who has located a big ranch in the mountains. Herrick has employed a small army of rustlers and gun-fighters, and Hays and others are plotting to steal their employer's cattle and money. Hays wants Wall to throw in with the rustlers.

Jim sat down to rest and listen. "Queer deal—a rich Englishman hirin' men like us to run his outfit," pondered Lincoln, in a puzzled tone. "I don't understand it."

"Well, who does? I can't, that's shore. But it's a fact, an' we're goin' to be so rich pronto that we'll jest about kill each other."

"More truth than fun in that, Hank, old boy, an' don't you forget it," rejoined Lincoln. "How do you aim to get rich?"

"Shore, I've no idee. That'll all come. I've got the step on Heeseeman an' his pards."

"He'll be aimin' at precisely the same deal as you."

"Shore. We'll have to kill Heeseeman an' Progar, soon or later. I'd like it sooner."

"I don't like the deal," concluded Lincoln, forcibly.

Presently they sat to their meal, and ate almost in silence. Darkness settled down. One by one they sought their beds, and Wall was the last.

Dawn found them up and doing. Wall fetched in some of the horses; Lincoln the others. By sunrise they were on the trail, which about mid-afternoon led down through high gravel banks to a wide stream bed, dry except in the middle of the sandy waste.

"This here's the Muddy," announced Hays for Jim's benefit. "Bad enough when the water's up. But nothin' to the Dirty Devil. Nothin' at all."

"What's the Dirty Devil?" asked Jim.

"It's a river an' it's well named, you can gamble on that. We'll cross it tomorrow some time."

Next camp was on higher ground above the Muddy. Here Hays and Lincoln renewed their argument about the Herrick ranch deal. It proved what Wall had divined—this Brad Lincoln was shrewd, cold, doubtful and aggressive. Hays was not distinguished for any cleverness. He was merely an unscrupulous robber. These men were going to clash. That was inevitable, Jim calculated.

Early the next day Jim Wall had reason to be curious about the Dirty Devil river, for the descent into the chutes of the desert to reach it was a most remarkable one. The tracks Hays was following failed and he got lost in a labyrinthine maze of deep washes impossible to climb, and seemingly impossible to escape from.

Lincoln got off his horse and went down the canyon, evidently searching for a place to climb up to the rim above. He returned in an assertive manner and, mounting, called for the others to follow.

"I hear the river an' I'm makin' for it," said Lincoln.

Jim had heard a faint, low murmur which had puzzled him, and which he had not recognized. They all followed Lincoln. Eventually he led them into a narrow, high-walled canyon where ran the Dirty Devil. The water was muddy, but as it was shallow the riders forded it without more mishap than a wetting.

Still they were lost. There was nothing now... out work up a side canyon. Hays led them to a camp-site that never could have been expected there.

"Fellers, I'll bet you somethin'," he said, before dismounting. "There's a roost down in that country where never in Gawd's world could anybody find us."

"Hh! An' when they did it'd be only our bleached bones," scoffed Lincoln.

There never had been any love lost between these two men, Jim conjectured.

After supper Jim strolled away from camp, down to where the canyon opened upon a nothingness of space and blackness and depth. The hour hung suspended between dusk and night. He felt an overpowering sense of the immensity of this region of mountain, gorge, plain and butte.

While Jim Wall meditated there in the gathering darkness he was visited by an inexplicable reluctance to go on with this adventure.

CHAPTER III

NEXT morning they got a late start. Nevertheless Hays assured Jim that they would reach Star ranch towards evening.

They rode on side by side. The trail led into a wider one, coming around from the northeast. Jim did not miss fresh hoof tracks, and Hays was not far behind in discovering them.

"Woods full of riders," he muttered.

"How long have you been gone, Hays?" inquired Jim.

"From Star ranch? Let's see. Must be a couple of weeks. Too long, by gosh! Herrick sent me to Grand Junction. An' on the way back I circled. That's how I happened to make Green River."

"Did you expect to meet Happy Jack and Lincoln there?"

"Shore. An' some more of my outfit. But I guess you'll more'n make up for the other fellers."

"Hope I don't disappoint you," said Jim, dryly.

"Well, you haven't so far. Only I'd feel better, Jim, if you'd come clean with who you air an' what you air."

"Hays, I didn't ask you to take me on."

"Shore, you're right. Reckon I figured everybody knew Hank Hays. Why, there's a town down here named after me, Hankville."

"A town? No one would think it."

"Wal, it ain't much to brag on. A few cabins, the first of which I threw up with my father years ago. In his later years he was a prospector. We lived here for years. I trapped fur up here in the mountains. In fact I got to know the whole country except that Black Dragon canyon, an' that hellhole of the Dirty Devil. . . . My old man was shot by rustlers."

"I gathered you'd no use for rustlers. . . . Well, then, Hays, how'd you fall into your present line of business?"

"Haw! Haw! Present line. That's a good one. Now, Jim, what do you reckon that line is?"

"You seem to be versatile, Hays. But if I was to judge I'd say you relieved people of surplus cash."

"Very nice put, Jim. I'd hate to be a low-down thief. . . . Jim, I was an honest man once, not so long ago. It was a woman who made me what I am today. That's why I'm cold on women."

"Were you ever married?" went on Jim, stirred a little by the other's crude pathos.

"That was the h—l of it," replied Hays, and he seemed to lose desire to confide further.

They rode into the zone of the foothills, with ever-increasing evidence of fertility. But Jim's view had been restricted for several hours, permitting only occasional glimpses up the gray-back slopes of the Henrys and none at all of the low country.

Therefore Jim was scarcely prepared to come round a corner and out into the open. Stunned by the magnificence of the scene he would have halted Bay on the spot, but he espied Hays waiting for him ahead.

"Wal, pard, this here is Utah," said Hays, as Jim came up, and his voice held a note of pride. "Round the corner here you can see Herrick's valley an' ranch. It's a bit of rich land thirty miles long an' half as wide, narrowin' like a wedge. Now let's ride on, Jim, an' have a look at it."

Across the mouth of Herrick's gray-green valley, which opened under the escarpment from which Jim gazed, extended vast level green and black lines of range, one above the other, each projecting farther out into that blue abyss.

"Down in there somewhere this Hank Hays will find his robbers' roost," soliloquized Jim, and turned his horse again into the trail.

Before late afternoon of that day Jim Wall had seen as many cattle dotting a verdant grass, watered valley as ever he had viewed in the great herds driven up from Texas to Abilene and Dodge, or on the Wind River Range of Wyoming. A rough estimate exceeded ten thousand head.

Herrick had selected as a site for his home what was undoubtedly the most picturesque point in the valley, if not one that had the most utility for the conducting of a ranch business. Ten miles down from the head of the valley a pine-wooded bench, almost reaching the dignity of a promontory, projected from the great slope of the mountain. Here where the pines straggled down stood the long, low cabin of peeled logs, yellow in the sunlight. Below, on the flat, extended the numerous barns, sheds, corrals.

Somewhat apart from both the corrals and outbuildings on the flat stood a new log cabin, hurriedly built, with chinks still unfiled. The roof extended out on three sides over wide porches, where Wall observed three or four beds, a number of saddles and other riders' paraphernalia. The rear of the cabin backed against the rocks. Jim understood that Hays had thrown up this abode, rather than dwell too close to the other employees of Herrick. From the front porch one could drop a stone into the brook, or fish for trout. The pines trooped down on the edge of the brook.

Naturally no single place in all that valley could have been utterly devoid of the charm and beauty nature had lavished there, but this situation was ideal for riders. Hays even had a private corral. As Jim rode up to this habitation his quick eye caught sight of curious, still-eyed men on the porch.

"Wal, here we air," announced Hays. "An' if you don't like it you're shore hard to please. Finest of water, beef, lamb, venison, bear meat. Butter for our biscuits. An' best of all—not very much work. Haw! Haw!"

"Where do we bunk?" asked Jim, presently.

"On the porch. I took to the attic myself."

"If you don't mind, I'll keep my pack inside, but sleep out under the pines," responded Wall.

When at length Jim carried his effects up on the porch Hays spoke up: "Jim, here's the rest of my outfit. . . . Fellers, scrape acquaintance with Jim Wall, late of Wyoming."

That was all the introduction Hays volunteered. Jim replied: "Howdy," and left a return of their hard scrutiny until some other time.

Hays went at once into low-voiced conference with these four men. Happy Jack hauled up the supplies. Brad Lincoln occupied himself with his pack. Jim brought his own outfit to a far corner of the porch. Then he strolled among the pines seeking a satisfactory nook to unroll his bed.

Jim, from long habit, generated by a decided need of vigilance, preferred to sleep in coverts like a rabbit, or any other animal that required protection.

At length he found a niche between two rocks, one of which was shelving, where pine needles furnished a soft mat underneath and the murmur of the brook just faintly reached him. Jim would not throw his bed where the noise of rushing water, or anything else, might preclude the service of his keen ears. There was no step on his trail now, but he instinctively distrusted Lincoln, and would undoubtedly distrust one or more of these other men.

Hays exemplified the fact of honor among thieves. Jim had come to that conviction. This robber might turn out big in some ways. But could even he be trusted? Jim resolved to take no chances.

HENS GET BUSY IN FAIR EGG CONTEST

Chicago.—The World's Fair egg laying contest, which created such wide-spread comment among poultry keepers last year, is being repeated at the poultry industry's unit near the south end of the Exposition.

Of especial interest this year is the showing of beautiful bantams, turkeys, pheasants, pigeons and waterfowl. There are two spacious buildings devoted to practical demonstrations of poultry equipment.

Four distinct varieties of milch goats will be exhibited in conjunction with the poultry.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow
Extension Service Editor

So successful was the huge beef canning program for relief purposes last winter in Texas that the Extension Service has been asked to help national relief leaders work out the same program for the entire drouth area in the United States. Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent, has been helping with details in Washington. The re-opened canning plant in Amarillo is to be visited by workers from other states for guidance.

Each worker in the relief canning turned out an average of 40 cans of beef per day. Labor cost per day was $2, material cost per person $4.50, and value of output $8.44 per person per day. The net gain or saving to the public was about $1.94 per person per day.

Menard—Two hours after a fine rain the middles of a contoured field were still full of water on the 60-acre hillside field of Henry Jarvis, a farmer in Menard county. In another field in which the rows were laid off the long way as usual the water ran off immediately.

Mr. Jarvis had contour lines run on one of his fields this year and laid off his rows by the lines which made each row exactly level. A rather new piece of land with a vertical slope of 3 feet to the 100 feet had been particularly hard to grow a good crop on because the type of soil there caused hard rains to run off immediately, but the level rows held the water that fell on each row, even on the sloping land.

Mr. Jarvis did not like the crooked rows advocated by the Extension Service, but now he says: "The way those rows hold water has changed me, and I am ready to start building terraces as soon as this crop is off the land."

Edna—As a direct result of the heavy infestation of the screw worm flies last season and a great deal of damage to cattle that resulted, the farmers and ranchers of the section of Jackson county lying between Carancahu Bay and Lavaca Bay are cooperating with the county agent in trapping the flies that lay the eggs from which the screw worms are hatched. The traps used in the campaign are made from galvanized iron, and copper screen is used in order to keep it from rusting out. The traps are re-baited about every ten days with old meat almost covered with water into which a small portion of nicotine sulphate has been added to preserve the bait.

Throckmorton—Calves allowed access to a creep feeder each brought a $7 gain over calves in an adjoining pasture which were not allowed access to the feeder on the farm of E. W. Ewing of Throckmorton county last year. The feeder was placed in the pasture near water on May 5, 1933. Sixteen calves were started on this system and in November when the calves were sold they weighed 625 lbs., which was 125 pounds more than the calves in the adjoining pasture not allowed access to the feeder. They brought 1 1/2 cents more per pound.

have thought of the care and thought our forefather had when they framed it. There is nothing you could add to it and make it more binding, and there isn't a word you could leave out, without detracting from its meaning.

"In this county we are blessed with a splendid character of citizenship. We are fortunate in being so far removed from the centers of population as not to be very much affected by crime and vice and the underworld. But we are not perfect, and I dare say you will find in this county some violations of the law that need to be presented in this court.

"I am sorry to say that the investigations made by those in charge of the department of justice of the United States reveal that we have annually three thousand kidnappings in the United States, an average of one hundred thousand assaults every year, an average of forty thousand burglaries every year, an average in the United States of fifty thousand robberies. We have every year twelve thousand five hundred murders.

"Now, my friends, that is a severe indictment against an honorable, honest, and liberty loving people. Statistics were given showing the cost of crime in the United States to be much greater than the cost of maintaining all the educational institutions of the country, as well as the army and navy and other departments of the government; that the cost of crime in the United States every year was more than thirteen billion dollars, and that this money was wasted and never goes back into the channels of trade; and that in Texas the annual toll of crime in the way of money amounts to more than a hundred million dollars in every year.

"Those murders I speak of, five hundred of them occur in the Lone Star State of Texas every year, and I am sorry to say that you will have two murders to investigate in this county during the deliberations of this grand jury.

"We ought to clean up our own community. American civilization ought not to raise, ought not to have an atmosphere in which there could live and dwell a Hamilton, a Dillinger, a Barrow, and a Bonnie Parker. If we ever get back to the ways of our forefathers, from which we have departed, we will have to use every effort and influence at our command to see that each community is brought back to the ways of good citizenship."

German Bethel Baptist Church

Someone has written: "Some of the biggest fools I know are always cramming themselves with knowledge, but they never think. When they get a few minutes leisure they grab a book and go to reading. In other words, they are always eating intellectually, but never digesting their knowledge or assimilating it."

Elizabeth Barrett Browning says: "We err by reading too much and out of proportion to what we think. I should be wiser, I am persuaded, if I had not read half as much; should have had stronger and better exercised faculties, and should stand higher in my own appreciation."

Very few in this hustle-bustle age are guilty of reading too many books. From the pen of Carlyle we get this: "After all manner of professors have done their best for us, the place we are to get knowledge is in books. The true university of these days is a collection of books."

But few of us have a library or access to a library, but each of us has a volume of 66 books within a single binding—the Book of books. How much do we read it? Is your Bible a neglected book? It would surprise you to see how much you could read if you read 10 verses each morning before breakfast while the family is seated at the table and then repeat that at the supper table—and don't neglect your prayers.

Next Sunday we shall worship again at the usual hour and the usual place, the Lord willing. No change has been made in time. Young and old as well as German and English speaking Americans are being considered. We shall serve you with food for your soul. For a menu (bill of fare) we use the Book of books. Choose ye this day.

W. H. Buening, Pastor.

any cotton without tax. In order for every cotton producer to have a fair chance it will take complete cooperation upon the part of all land owners and tenants.

Allotments of tax exempt certificates will be made to each farm for which there has been an adjustment contract made to cover the identical farm unit as per each contract. Non-signers who apply for tax exemption certificates must report on their application the exact record of cotton acreage and production for the particular farm for each year since 1928 inclusive. Non-signers should have this record in proper form and available when he comes to the community committeemen to make out application. Contract signers and non-signers will be allotted tax-exempt certificates on the same basis under the Bankhead Law.

Monday, July 16.

Gartman vs. Methodists, Fire Boys vs. Arnold.

SOFTBALL SYMPTOMS

By TEDDY

Monday night the Firemen downed the Bachelors 12 to 5. The Bachelors have a good hurler in Baldrige, but their fielding isn't so "hot".

Gartman's gang came from behind to nose out the Baptists Monday night 6 to 5. Both of these teams have great softball ability and use it.

I got more comment on the game played Wednesday night between Arnold's crew and the Methodists than any game this season. There were three tallies made and three men got hits. It was enjoyed greatly by the spectators. Arnold's gang came from behind to defeat the Methodists 2 to 1.

The Bachelors fell before Gartman's hard hitting crew 13 to 5 Wednesday night. With the Jones Boys these Bachelors will have the other teams hustling before this division is over.

—MY—DOPE—

Today—The Fire Boys will defeat the Methodists, but they haven't got it on ice until the last ball has been thrown.

The Baptists will defeat Arnold's crew with little trouble.

Monday—Gartman's gang will defeat the Methodists crew, but will have to hustle.

The Fire Boys will defeat Arnold gang, but it will not be a snap.

The games that were rained out Friday night, July 6, will be played Tuesday night, July 17.

I have been appointed by the softball managers of the league to settle all controversies that might arise. They tell me, "my word is law." What do you think? (With no salary.)

trict to investigate their record while down there before voting. About all we have gotten in the last few years are promises of what I will do. President Hoover made the same appeal to the voters of the United States, and was defeated by the largest majority known on a second term vote.

The people sounded their voice when they voted for the bond issue for the relief of the needy brought about by the depression. The regular and called sessions of the past legislature spent thousands of the people's money arguing over something already demanded by the voters, because about fifteen men in Austin tell representatives how and when to vote. Energy, courage, and intelligence sent to Austin, should result in the counties getting a better deal on what they need. A representative who simply sits, votes, and draws ten dollars a day of the taxpayers money, failing to get to the floor to speak and fight for the needs and rights of his people, does very little, if any good for the rural districts or the town people either. The people are doing their part, as a whole, to bring us out of the period of depression; let our representatives do likewise.

Let each citizen vote to send a representative to Austin who he feels will get on the job and work and vote for the interests of the district. The newspapers will publish accounts of the work he does. They will give splendid, fair publicity to all work done during these trying times.

As one who feels he knows much of the needs of the districts and willing to work and fight for them, I ask your vote. Dr. A. G. Livingston.

VOTE FOR EARL HUDDLESTON FOR REPRESENTATIVE Second Term

As a member of the Legislature during the one term served, worked and voted for an honest and economical administration of our State Government.

Did not listen to the voice of the paid lobbyist, but sought to know the will of the people of his District, and to represent every person at all times.

Stayed on the job and worked while the Legislature was in session. Sponsored resolutions the effect of which would require members to stay in Austin and attend to the people's business and work for the taxpayers instead of going over the State on pleasure trips.

Promises the same kind of service if elected your Representative to a second term. Your vote and influence are solicited and will be appreciated.
