

C. E. Alvis Is Elected New C. of C. President For the Ensuing Year

HOLD OPEN-AIR MEETING

"Whether the incentive might have been the water-melon supper or the open air meeting, it matters not, but the fact that such a good crowd has turned out is highly pleasing," stated L. S. Holmes, president of the Chamber of Commerce in his opening remarks Tuesday evening at a meeting of that organization.

The Chamber of Commerce held its July meeting at the City Park after members had been summonsed for a business meeting to be followed by a water-melon supper. It is estimated that more than fifty members attended the session which began at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening.

C. E. Alvis was named president of the local Chamber of Commerce according to a report of the nominating committee read by L. K. Thomson, chairman. The election of Alvis was made unanimously by the membership present. Vice-presidents elected were Morton Scott, Byron Leaird Jr., and D. I. Glass. Besides the vice-presidents other directors elected were L. S. Holmes, W. C. Guggolz, Leake Ayres, Edgar Franks, Ayres Compton, L.K. Thomson, Floyd Zeigler, Pat Holt, Jim McClellan, C. E. Alvis Jr., and Rob't W. Brown.

Following the election of Mr. Alvis to the chair he addressed the membership in a highly optimistic manner, pointing out the potential advantages of

Buying of Cattle in Coryell Under Relief Program Ready to Go

APPLICATIONS ON HAND

The cattle appraiser for Coryell County in the immediate cattle buying program of the government has been named and is ready to take charge of his work. The veterinarian who is named by the government as inspector will be here the early part of next week, as advised by Dr. H. L. Darby, chief of inspectors for Texas, over telephone to the County Agent yesterday morning.

Forms for receiving cattle producers applications were mimeographed yesterday and will be ready for receiving applications in the County Agent's office today, Friday July 20. Mr. Tom V. Freeman will act as secretary for the cattle buying program and will take applications from cattle owners who desire to sell their cattle under the terms of the government agreement.

It is urged that all stockmen make application if they desire to do at all by the middle of next week so that the cattle may be located in the different sections of the county by the time the inspector arrives, which should be approximately next Wednesday. No limit as to the number of head of cattle that an individual may sell has been made to date. Individuals may use their own judgement as to how many they wish to offer.

Producers who have liens or mortgages on their cattle should bring the lien holders with them to apply as they must sign a loan with the producer agreeing to the sale. Producers and lien holders will also have to be accessible when the appraisal and inspection is made so that they might accept or reject such appraisal. However, there will be no second opportunity to sell

Friends of Hughes to Welcome Candidate's Coming to Gatesville

LARGE TURNOUT EXPECTED

Maury Hughes, state democratic chairman and prominent Dallas attorney, who is seeking the democratic nomination for Governor of Texas, will speak at the courthouse in Gatesville this morning (Friday) at 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. Hughes was scheduled to speak in Temple Wednesday night but in view of the fact that his opponent, James V. Allred, had already made a speaking engagement at the same hour in Temple, Mr. Hughes addressed the voters of Belton.

Mr. Hughes spoke in Groesbeck Thursday night, before coming to Gatesville.

The popular candidate has many friends in Gatesville, many of whom were his close friends during the World War.

'round the square

By
The Snooper

Has anyone seen or heard a stray voice; Mary Lou Cariton lost hers Wednesday somewhere 'round the square it is thought. Rumors are that Joe Wyatt, of Dallas, would like to find a location in Gatesville in the vicinity of 611 South 14th Street. I didn't think it of you Joe Sasse, but you have my congratulations upon embarking on the sea of matrimony. The commissioners must have moved to the middle of Main Street; Dick Payne called the meeting to order there the other morning. Dr. Haynes denies that he is trying to wear the big breeches, but says they will be all right after they are washed.

Gatesville Is Scene of Mishaps for Two Who Narrowly Escape Serious Injuries

Father Saves Son From Drowning in City Pool

Little Jimmie Stephenson, 18-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stephenson, was rescued from drowning by his father early Wednesday morning, when a matter of seconds might have spelled fatality.

Mr. Stephenson, who has been in the employ of the Highway Department here, went to the City Swimming pool with his two children, Bety Lane and Jimmie. The father was watching his young daughter from the bank of the pool when the baby boy, playing nearby, fell into the water.

Mr. Stephenson did not see the little fellow as he went down but once as he turned to see after him he missed the baby. A second or so later he saw him coming up in the water. He did not know how many times he had previously gone down.

Mr. Stephenson immediately rescued the son from the water and gave him artificial respiration until normal breathing was restored. The baby has survived the shock and is out of danger.

Local Mechanic Victim Of Gasoline Explosion

Bennie Newton, local mechanic, narrowly escaped what might have proved a most severe accident late Wednesday afternoon when he was burned with gasoline on both arms and his left limb.

Newton was cleaning the motor of a car at the rear of D. D. McCoy's garage. He was using gasoline at the time and the supposition is that he must have struck a live wire with the steel cleaning-brush, igniting the gasoline.

According to late information Newton is resting, the burns

Flames Raze Residence In Business Section of Town Thurs. Morning

HOUSEHOLD GOODS LOST

A trash fire was responsible for the destruction of a residence on the corner of Waco and 10th Streets shortly before eleven o'clock Thursday morning.

The frame dwelling belonged to Claude Byrom, and was occupied by (Uncle) Knox Brazzil. Mrs. Brazzil and a niece were at home when the fire broke out. All of the household goods were destroyed in the flames.

Miss Brazzil had been burning some trash in the backyard and before the pile had burned down stiff breezes from the south blew some of the burning trash underneath the house it is supposed.

Mrs. R. A. Thompson, a neighbor, turned in the alarm and by the time the fire department arrived flames had covered the house. The dwelling was covered by insurance.

Cotton Measuring to Begin Here Monday Says County Agent

MEASURING SCHOOL TODAY

A meeting of all Community Committeemen has been called for today by the County Agent to attend school for land measuring.

Committeemen will begin measuring Monday morning, July 23. One committeeman to his respective district will measure the actual cotton acreage on the farms under the terms of the 1934-35 contract. Each farmer will assist and the producer is urged to be present at the time and sign the compliance papers, in order to quickly secure Coryell's second payment. One hundred per cent cooperation from the producers is expected since the program has been asked for by the farmers themselves.

The committeemen should so line up the farms in order so that the farmers may know when to expect them to measure their land and be at home in order to expediate the work.

EDITORIALS IN BRIEF

Apparently the News was misinformed concerning the endorsement of Tom Love of one of the gubernatorial candidates. It had been stated that Mr. Love came out openly for Maury Hughes, but from later reports it seems that Love is a supporter of Clint Small for Governor. The News makes this correction upon good faith. It was also upon good faith that this newspaper reported in the last issue that Tom Love was a supporter of Mr. Hughes, which it so happens is not so.

Last Tuesday evening marked the beginning of a new year for the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce, the tenth year of its operation. The nominating committee chose to name C. E. Alvis as president of the organization for the ensuing year. Mr. Alvis is a highly capable leader who comes as near representing the business interests of Coryell County as any individual citizen in this section. Mr. Alvis is also in position to realize the needs of the community and foresee the opportunities of civic development in Gatesville. The ensuing year can be made one of the biggest years in expansion and progress in all the history of Coryell County. The Chamber of Commerce is confronted with more than a one man job, however. It will be interesting to follow the activities of the Chamber this year.

Local people who have been laboring under the impression that a statesman who leaves headquarters after the adjournment of Congress to engage in a political campaign leaves his influence at Washington have a wonderful opportunity to change their minds. A telegram addressed to County Judge Rob't W. Brown from the secretary of Senator Tom Connally stating that Coryell County had been placed on the primary drought relief is evidence enough to make us realize that the Senator from this section has the interest of his people constantly with him. Such consideration on the part of the Senator merits the support of those who are affected by the relief measure.

It is impossible for any small town newspaper to give its readers the news coverage they deserve without the cooperation of the residenceship and when the News gets such appreciated cooperation we cannot pass up the opportunity of saying so. The telegram referred to in the above paragraph was received by Judge Brown a few minutes before this newspaper had gone to press Monday afternoon and it was only through the interest of the County Judge that we were able to put into print the welcomed news of drought relief for the benefit of the News readers. Our gratitude to Judge Brown for such a favor is superlative.

Congressman O. H. Cross, as readers will also note from Tuesday's issue of the News was instrumental in urging the placement of Coryell on the list of primary drought relief counties. Mr. Cross is running for reelection to Congress from this district. Although Mr. Cross' campaign time has been limited since the adjournment of Congress has made a strenuous effort to cover the territory on his speaking tour. He will speak in Gatesville Saturday—the last Saturday before election. The voters of this section should not miss the opportunity to hear the distinguished Congressman.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

WITH THE SPECTATOR

Editor's Note.—This column is published by the News as a news feature because of the interesting comments of this writer upon politics. The views expressed are those of the writer and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial opinions of this newspaper.

AS THE ELECTION draws near more and more is being said concerning the stands of the gubernatorial candidates on the liquor question. Tuesday we promised to answer this question for the benefit of our readers. And here are the answers to a question, reading "How do you stand on the liquor question?" sent to the seven candidates for Governor. Here are the official replies:

JAMES V. ALLRED: "I favor submitting to the voters the question of repealing the prohibition amendment to the Constitution. I expect to vote against repeal, if the question is submitted."

MAURY HUGHES: "I favor repeal both of the constitutional amendment and of the Dean act. However, I am against the return of the open saloon and would regulate the traffic with a bond and license system."

TOM F. HUNTER: "I am in favor of submitting the question of repeal to the voters. If and when the sale of liquor is permitted, I would make sure that the open saloon and its attendant evils do not return."

C. C. McDONALD: "I favor both submission and repeal. In the event of repeal, I would strictly regulate the liquor traffic which would forever make impossible a return of the many evils of the open saloon."

EDWARD K. RUSSELL: "I am opposed to both submission and repeal."

CLINT SMALL: "I favor both submission and repeal. If that were done, I would favor sane and practical local option laws."

EDGAR WITT: "I am for submission and adoption of a repeal amendment, and thereafter of leaving regulation of the liquor traffic to the counties."

And that's their official statements, released to the press. They all wrote that they wanted to be quoted as favoring the above. You notice that all of them are against the return of the open saloon, or rather all of them that are for repeal. The main object in printing the stands of the candidates on this question was to clarify the rather jumbled opinions of the voters as to how the candidates stand. In other words, some candidates and some voters are saying that various gubernatorial candidates are running dry in English territory and wet in foreign counties. But now, we hope you all understand clearly what they favor as far as this question is concerned.

NOTES

Mrs. W. W. Turner, leader of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and prominent in women's work throughout the state, has taken charge of the organization of Bailey-for-Senator Women's Clubs. Maury Hughes will make fifty speeches in the next two weeks. Former Senator Tom Love of Dallas has announced he is supporting Small for Governor. 549 "Honorable" are seeking 165 State Legislative seats this year.

EMULATE ALARM CLOCK

Johnson City, Tenn.—It may be in violation of the alarm clock code, but private taxi owners in the mountainous sections near here each day honk their horns as they drive to the end of their routes, then turn back and pick up the awakened passengers for rides to nearby factories. A honk in front of each regular passenger's home does the trick, obviating the necessity for alarm clocks.

Gatesville Youth Accorded High Honors in London Music Circles

(It is always a pleasure to the News to give credit to former men and women of Coryell County who have reached attainment in the nation and world. At this particular time it gives the News great pleasure to reprint herewith a story which recently appeared in the Waco News-Tribune concerning Lytle Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Powell of Gatesville.)

Lytle Powell, brilliant Baylor music graduate of 1933, now studying in London with the famous teacher of piano, Tobias Matthay, was presented in two noteworthy recitals there recently, according to word received by Baylor school of music.

On Tuesday, July 3, he played in Wigmore hall, London, as one of a group of advanced students of the Matthay school, and on July 10 he appeared on a presentation of artists at Queen's hall, at which time awards were made by a noted pianist, Myra Hess.

Limited to First Talent

Appearance on such presentations always is limited to outstanding talent and it is an especial honor for a first-year student to be invited to participate. Powell has been the recipient of several such honors during the year, being the "Senior Silver Medalist" of the school for 1934, another honor rarely accorded to first-year students. He has also been favored with unusual courtesies from Tobias Matthay himself, who, because of his advanced ears and the delicate condition of his health, does not teach regularly at his school but sees occasionally only a few students in whom he is particularly interested. On a number of occasions Powell has been the guest of Matthay at his private estate, receiving personal introduction from the famed pedagogue. The bulk of his piano study he is doing with Vivian Langrish, chief assistant to Mr. Matthay in the piano school.

In Seeking a Certificate

Powell is completing work for his "teacher's diploma" from the Matthay school, which will entitle him to a certificate, which in turn will admit him to the big final examinations to be held by Mr. Matthay in the fall, for which Powell will spend the summer in preparation.

Powell expresses himself as being delighted with his course of study in the English school, pointing out that their courses in aural training, applied harmony and other practical musical subjects are particularly strong in detail of scientific approach. The lecture courses on music appreciation, teaching methods, and related subjects are exceptionally satisfactory, Powell writes.

Mr. and Mrs. Powell, who was the former Miss Ruth Roberts, also a pianist of more than average ability from Baylor university, with their infant son, Billy, expect to remain in London throughout the coming year.

Mike Coleman Thanks Voters for Courtesy During His Campaign

To the Voters of Coryell County: I wish to take this opportunity to thank the people of Coryell County for the courtesy that they have shown me during my campaign for County Superintendent. I have not been able to meet all the voters of the county, but I hope that you will consider this a personal solicitation of your vote and influence.

To you who do not know of my character and qualifications for filling this office I take pleasure in referring you to my neighbors who have known me from boyhood. I am willing to leave the verdict with them.

I believe that my experience and training have given me first hand information concerning the many rural problems that confront our rural schools. I received my elementary education in the rural schools of this county; my Bachelor of Science degree from the North Texas State Teachers College; and have completed more hours of graduate work in the University of Texas and in the University of Colorado than are required for my Masters Degree. I have had much experience in school administration which will enable me to render efficient service as supervisor of the rural schools of our county.

My teaching experience ranges from the principalship of rural schools in Coryell and adjoining counties to the principalship of a twelve year accredited high school under the North Central Association, and I believe that this experience has given me a broad view of your school problems.

I am a young man interested in advancing in the educational world and I am seeking the County Superintendent's office with this view in mind. I have never before asked the people for a public office and I am doing so under the belief that the only way a man can advance in any profession is by rendering superior service. I believe that with my educational attainments and my experience in solving the many problems that have confronted me in dealing with the public and in making my way in the world since a mere boy will enable me to render efficient service as your County Superintendent.

My conception of education is that it is a preparation for service. I fully believe that if the future citizenship of this county is to be prosperous and happy we must provide equal educational opportunities for all of our boys and girls regardless of their financial status.

There is a crying need for efficient men in so many occupations, that the school has been required to fashion its instruction and alter its methods to comply with these demands. The world demands knowledge, skill, and performance of important acts, character that shows itself in influence, habits and ideals.

If elected your County Superintendent I shall foster a school program which will build sturdy citizens of tomorrow.

Sincerely yours,

M. J. (Mike) Coleman.

As pre-nuptial music, Mrs. Luther Ward, cousin of the bride, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," accompanied by Miss Margaret Peterson, also a cousin of the bride. Miss Peterson, too, played Morel's "Norwegian Cradle Song," as a processional and as the ceremony was being solemnized.

Tennis Tourney Gets Down to Semi-Finals; Interest Going High

ONLY FAVORITES REMAIN

Ambitious local tennis stars are dropping out fast in the City Tournament which began here last week, with few left in the running.

The highest interest has centered around the singles courts with the four leading contestants ready to go into the semi-finals. In one of the quarter-final rounds the most colorful match of the tournament took place between Jim Hix and Pete Patterson, the former winning after a thrilling first set, 9-7 and a second set, 6-2. Hix will now meet Kirkpatrick, 1934 high school champion, who succeeded in defeating H. Franks, 6-2, 6-4. Jack Bone, who won a default and a bye to place him in the semi-finals, will meet the winner of the D. Franks and C. L. Thompson match.

Hix and D. Franks won from Alvis and Baldrige Wednesday, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, which entitles them to meet Kirkpatrick and Culberson for the doubles championship.

In the women's division, Mary Ella Schloeman will meet Mamie

From the Notebook of Miss Martin, H-D Ag't.

At a cost of fifteen cents Mrs. C. E. Cox, pantry demonstrator of the Pearl Home Demonstration club, has a new recipe file in which to place her tested recipes. Two chalk boxes were used in making the file; one being cut on a slant for the lower part and the other cut to fit it and used for the lid. Hinges and a fastener were placed on the box and it was varnished. Recipe cards 4 by 6 inches costing fifteen cents, just fit into the box and divided with cakes, pies, etc. written on them separate the different kinds of recipes.

Sue Halbrook, who won from Mrs. C. L. Thompson, Wednesday, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

In the youngsters' division Steve Lindley won from John Post, 9-7, 1-6, 6-3, and will meet Duncan Kirkpatrick for the championship of that group. Kirkpatrick and Lindley won the doubles title by defeating McClellan and Post, 6-2, 6-4.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Jim Wall, young cowpuncher from Wyoming, in the early days of the cattle industry, seeks a new field in Utah. He meets Hank Hays, who admits to being a robber, and tells Wall he is working for an Englishman named Herrick, who has located a big ranch in the mountains. Herrick has employed a small army of rustlers and gun-fighters, and Hays and others are plotting to steal their employer's cattle and money. Hays wants Wall to throw in with the rustlers.

CHAPTER II.—At the little settlement of Green River, Hays gets into an argument with a gambler called Stud, over a poker game. Wall saves Hank's life by bluffing the gambler out of shooting. With Hays and two other rustlers, Happy Jack and Lincoln, Jim Wall starts out for Herrick's ranch. In camp, the first night out, Jim regrets the step he has taken, but it is too late to turn back.

Jeff Bridges boomed out: "Why, Smoky, of course, or Brad."

"Nope," said Hays, shaking his head. "With all thet's due Smoky an' Brad I wouldn't choose either. Jim, here, is the man for that job."

"Mebbe we could drive off six or eight thousand head of stock before Heeseeman ever found out," put in Smoky. "What's the sense of fightin' it out till we have to?"

The suggestion found instant favor on all sides.

"But we don't want Heeseeman trailin' us," expostulated Hays.

"You mean after we pull the deal?" queried Brad, incredulously. "Shore I mean after. I don't just like the idee, fellers," replied Hays, evasively.

Jim Wall, studying the robber leader closely, imagined that Hays was not exposing all the details of his plot.

"Let's put my idee to a vote," said Smoky.

When this suggestion was solemnly complied with, making use of the deck of cards, it was found that Slocum had won.

"So far, so good," said Hays, as if relieved. "Now let's see. . . Smoky, tomorrow you take your gang, includin' Brad, an' quit. Pack a slew of grub an' grain, an' hide out below. Cache what you don't need. I'll go to Grand Junction for new hands. See? But all I'll come back with will be instructions for you to follow. Then you can go drivin'."

"Good. An' how about the cash?"

"Wal, them buyers won't pay me in advance, you can gamble on that. But they'll pay you. Just divide with your outfit an' save our share."

"Short an' sweet. I like it more all the time," declared Smoky.

Jim thought of something: "Men, has it occurred to you that you can't drive cattle up this road and through the ranch?"

"Shore. No need. It'd be a seventy-mile drive if we came this way. But we'll drive round by Limestone, an' up the other valley road. About the same distance to Grand."

The conference ended. Hays turned to the open fire, and seeking a seat in the shadow by the chimney, he pondered. It was Jim's opinion that the chief had vastly more on his mind than he had divulged. Lincoln gave him a suspicious stare. The others seemed eminently pleased with the outlook, though no move was said in Jim's hearing. They joked and smoked.

Jim bade them good night and went out. His last glimpse of Hays was thought-provoking. Lighting another cigar, Jim strolled up and down the porch, revolving in mind the conference.

Was it possible that this lantern-eyed robber had evil intentions toward Herrick's sister? Jim scouted the suspicion.

"Hang the rest part of it, anyhow," he muttered, flinging his half-smoked cigar into the noisy brook. Why did a woman have to come along to upset the best-laid plans of men?

The next morning brought somber faces and action. Five of Hays' outfit rode away with six of the pack horses and most of the supplies. Hays watched them until they disappeared among the cedars. "Wal, now I'll brace the boss," he said.

"What excuse will you give him?" asked Jim.

"Anythin' would do to tell Herrick. But Heeseeman will see through me. I'm afeared."

"Very well. You tell Herrick that your outfit split over me. Tell him how queer that brand of gunman is—how he instinctively hates the real gunman. And that Slocum and Lincoln made you choose between them and me."

"Ahuh. Sort of so the idee will get to Heeseeman's ears that in a pinch with guns I'd rather have you backin' me than them?"

"Exactly."

Not long afterward Hays returned to the cabin jubilant. "You'd never guess, Jim. That Englisher laughed like the very devil. An' he ordered me to ride off after some desperadoes who're not afraid of Jim Wall."

"Ha! Ha! But Heeseeman won't get a laugh out of it."

"Shoot the lights out of him," said Hays fiercely. "Wal, I'm off for Grand. Happy, pack me a snack of grub."

"How long will it take you to ride over?"

"Eight hours, I reckon. An' I'll be back tomorrow night."

After Hays had gone Jim settled himself to pass the hours away.

He half expected a visit from Herrick, but the morning dragged by without any sign of anyone. About mid-afternoon, however, six riders appeared coming down the lane along the bench. The sight made Jim start. How often had he seen the like—a compact little company of riders, dark-garbed, riding dark horses! It was tremendously suggestive to a man of his experience.

He reached inside the door and, drawing out his rifle, advanced to the front of the porch.

CHAPTER IV

WHEN the group of riders reached the point where the lane crossed the brook, just out of pistol range, they halted, and one, evidently the leader, came on to the bridge.

"Hi, thar," he yelled, reining his horse.

"Hi, yourself," shouted back Jim. The man, who, of course, Jim took to be Heeseeman, walked his horse half the intervening distance and stopped again.

At this juncture Happy Jack emerged from the cabin and carelessly propped a rifle against the wall.

"Who's callin'?" he boomed.

"I don't know," replied Jim.

"I'm Bill Heeseeman, an' I come to talk," called the visitor.

"Friendly talk?" queried Jim.

"Wal, if it ain't you'll be to blame."

"Come right over."

Jim leaned his rifle against the rail and stood aside. Heeseeman did not look up as he mounted the steps.

"Mind if I set down?" he asked.

"Make yourself at home," replied Jim.

"Air you Wall?"

"Yes, that's my name. And this is Happy Jack, another of Hays' outfit."

Heeseeman nodded to Jack, who replied with a civil "Howdy," and went back into the cabin. Then Heeseeman leaned against the wall and treated Jim to a frank, shrewd gaze.

"You're Hays' right-hand man, just late from Wyoming?"

"Last is correct, anyhow."

"Do you know him?" queried Heeseeman, in lower voice.

"Perhaps not so well as you," replied Jim, who suddenly reminded himself that he knew Hays but slightly.

"I'm goin' to tell you somethin'. If you wasn't new to Utah I'd save myself this trouble. An' you're goin' to believe what I tell you."

"Why will I?"

"Because it's true."

No argument could gainsay that; moreover, the man had truth in his blue slits of eyes and in his voice.

"Did Hays tell you I was a rustler?"

"I think he mentioned it."

"Did he tell you we was pards once? . . . Thet he double-crossed me?"

"No."

"Wal, I'll let it go at thet," returned Heeseeman coolly. "Much obliged for lettin' me come up. An' if you get curious just ride over to see me."

He rose, stretched his long length, and walked off the porch to mount his horse, leaving Jim about as surprised as he had ever been. Happy Jack came out in time to see him join his comrades and ride back with them toward the corrals.

"Short visit. Glad it was. What'd he want?"

"Darn' if I savvy, altogether. Didn't you hear any of our talk?"

"No, I reckoned the less I heard the better. Then Hank couldn't razz me. But I had a hunch of what he was up to."

They had supper, after which Jack smoked and talked, while Jim listened. Evidently Happy Jack had taken a liking to him. Jim went to bed early, not because he was sleepy, but to keep from calling on that fellow Heeseeman.

There had been no hesitation about Hank Hays declaring himself in regard to Heeseeman. Callous, contemptuous, Hays had indicated the desirability of riding the range of Heeseeman. But Heeseeman had been subtle.

Unquestionably his motive had been to undermine Hays in Jim's regard. And a few questions and an assertion or two had had their effect. Jim made the reservation that he had not accepted Hays on anything but face value. Still the robber had gradually built up a character of intent force, cunning, and strength. These had crashed, though there was no good reason for that. Jim had not accepted Hays' word for anything.

Hays was not a square partner! This stuck in Jim's craw.

Why this seemed true puzzled Jim. Heeseeman had simply verified a forming but still disputed suspicion in Jim's mind—that Hank Hays had evil designs upon Herrick's sister. Heeseeman and Hays had probably known for weeks that this English girl was expected to arrive.

Suppose he had! What business was that of Jim's? None, except that he now formed one of Hays' band and as such had a right to question activities. Rustling cattle, at least in a moderate way, was almost a legitimate business. Ranchers, since the early days of the cattle drives from Texas, had accepted their common losses. It had been only big steals that roused them to ire and action, to make outlaws out of rustlers. Nevertheless, it was extremely doubtful, out here in the wilds of Utah, that even a wholesale steal would be agitating. To abduct a girl, however, might throw western interest upon the perpetrators. Hays' object assuredly was to collect ransom.

Still that had not been Heeseeman's intimation, nor had it been Jim's original suspicion. He gave it up in disgust. Time would tell. But he did not feel further inclined to call upon Heeseeman. He would stick to Hays, awaiting developments.

The ensuing day passed uneventfully. No one of Smoky's outfit showed up, nor did Hays return. Jim waited for Herrick to give him orders, which were not forthcoming. The rancher was chasing jack-rabbits and coyotes with the hounds.

Next morning Jim made it a point to ride over to the barns. The rancher came down in a queer con-time. The . . . coat took Jim's eye. A motley pack of hounds and sheep dogs was new to Jim, as he had not seen or heard any dogs about the ranch. Jim was invited to ride along with Herrick and the several cowboys. They went by Heeseeman's camp, which was vacant. Jim was to learn that the rancher had put the Heeseeman outfit to work on the cutting and peeling of logs up on the slope, preparatory to the erection of a new barn.

TO THE VOTERS OF CORYELL COUNTY, TEXAS

In these closing days of my campaign for re-election to the office of County Clerk, I take this method of publicly expressing my appreciation of the many nice things that you have done for me in the past; and my thanks to you for the many courtesies which you have shown me in this campaign.

I have not made as close a personal campaign as I would like to have made; but that was due in part to the fact that I am not able to get around as rapidly as others and because of the fact that in the past several months, by staying close to my office, I have had the opportunity to repay in a small way, some of the favors which you have shown me in electing me your Clerk. By this I mean to say, in the past several years of depression, the values of our farm lands and all other property have greatly depreciated; and we all know that the farmers and others have been busy trying to refinance their loans, so as to protect and save whatever little equity they might still have in their properties. Our President and Congress have come to their aid, and I thought it was as little as I could do to help all those who desired information from the public records to be in my office to render this free service, to the end that they might get their matters adjusted as quickly as possible and have a breathing spell. While I do not own any land or real estate whatsoever, except a twenty dollar lot in the village of Pyote, which probably has been blown away in a west Texas sand storm by this time; nevertheless, I know the troubles that our landowners have had, and I have tried to stay close to shore and help them wherever I could. My mother is a widow, to whom my deceased father left some farm lands heavily encumbered and mortgaged and, like all the rest of the farmers, there hasn't been enough made on these properties in the past several years to pay taxes, insurance and interest, much less paying off the debts against such property, and it has been all I could do to help her save what little equity she has in these properties. You have made it possible for me to do this by electing me your County Clerk and with your assistance in re-electing me to this office, I may be able to keep these mortgages and debts paid as they accrue and thereby save what little she has worked so hard for.

In conclusion let me again express to you how much I will appreciate your vote and influence; how much it means to me at this time; and to assure you that I will cheerfully abide by your decision and always hold in grateful remembrance the many kindnesses that I have received at your hands.

Sincerely,

C. P. MOUNCE

RE-ELECT

LON A. SMITH
Second Full Term
RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

To the People of Coryell County:
In the closing hours of the political campaign I want to urge my friends and the people of this section to Texas that they do not forget Hon. Lon A. Smith in his campaign for reelection to a second full term to Railway Commission. Mr. Smith is a real servant of the people, having at all times their best interest at heart. We learned this about him when he made such a splendid record as State Comptroller, and especially do we old ex-Confederate soldiers and wives remember his untiring efforts in our behalf. He signed the order reducing the gas rates in Texas and if this order stands it will greatly aid the consumers of gas in over 200 towns in Texas. Mr. Smith is courteous and obliging and he is a man who stands for and with the masses of the people and can always be relied upon to labor in their behalf. He is experienced and much able to now handle the complicated matters that come before the Commission than any untried and inexperienced man would be. I urge my friends to rally to his support and I know he will greatly appreciate it.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jennie Ayres,
(Widow of Confederate soldier)

Barbara Stawcyk in "Gambling Lady" Is Coming to the Regal

Barbara Stawcyk has been given an entirely different role from any which she has portrayed, in the new Warner Bros. production of "Gambling Lady," which comes to the Regal Theatre on Saturday for a 3-day run, in that her character part is both a glamorous and a sympathetic one.

In the majority of pictures she has portrayed hard and somewhat loose women such as she did in "Baby Face," "Ladies They Talk About," "Illicit" and "Ten Cents a Dance." In these she made a success by her sheer power of characterization, rather than by winning sympathy for the part.

In "Ever In My Heart," while there was nothing of the play lady about her, she was placed in drab surroundings as also in "The Purchase Price." These were supreme characterizations but lacked the glamor of her present role. In "Gambling Lady" she is a gambler, but the squarest, straightest shooting poker player that ever shuffled the pasteboards.

Not only is she on the level in cards but in the game of love and life. She can take it on the chin and does, by sacrificing her love for her husband in order to save him from the charge of murder when he gets into a mess with another woman.

As the gambling lady she plays only in the fashionable right clubs frequented by millionaire men-about-town and in the brilliant Casino of Monte Carlo. Later, wedded to a wealthy society man, she is seen in the palaces of the upper world, although she is never adverse to taking a fling at the ponies or putting some society beauty over the hurdles for her jewels or what have you.

Miss Stawcyk is supported by two leading men, Joel McCrea in the role of a society man and Pat O'Brien, as a race horse gambler, both of whom are in love with her. Claire Dodd is the other woman, a homewrecker who makes a play for Barbara's husband.

The picture is based on the thrilling story by Doris Malloy which is climaxed by a murder for which McCrea is arrested, and which he can not explain without bringing dishonor on a woman. The story also reveals the grip on city life of the gambling syndicates and the methods they employ to take cash from the suckers.

Others in the cast include C. Audrey Smith, Phillip Reed, Philip Faversham, Robert Elliot, Willard Robertson, Arthur Vinton and Ferdinand Gottschalk. Archie Mayo directed the picture.

Housewife of Past Is Household Manager of Today, Facts Reveal

The housewife of the past is the household manager of today. Research, improved equipment and general education in domestic science have elevated the modern woman to the point where she is the actual directing head of a business enterprise—the American home.

This is the opinion of Morton Scott, dealer for Frigidaire products. Mr. Scott emphasizes the fact that Frigidaire has played an important part in the development of the science of effective home management and operation.

"The 'kitchen planned' interior of the Frigidaire '34 makes housework easy for the 1934 Household Manager. Everything has been arranged for convenience in the home. There is a place exactly suited for every size and kind of food item at the temperature best suited.

"Automatic release for ice trays is a feature that was developed with the idea of easing the work of the housewife. Just a touch of the finger, and the tray slides out no matter how tightly it may be frozen in the freezer compartment.

Meats may be stored in the frozen storage compartment and as thoroughly refrigerated as if in the huge cold storage rooms at the packing plant.

"Shelves on Frigidaire '34 super and de luxe models are adjustable, another convenience for the benefit of the household manager. These are designed so they may be taken out, or moved up and down. If room is needed to store a watermelon or a turkey, it is a simple matter for the users of one of these refrigerators.

"The sliding utility basket, found in practically all models, is a real time and space saver. It slides in and out and has partitions which are adjustable to accommodate eggs and other small articles.

"The hydrater is a feature that not only is convenient but a money-saver as well, for vegetables and fruits may be kept as fresh and crisp as when purchased.

"Not the last among the improvement designed for the modern household manager is the finger-tip cold control of nine freezing speeds found on the super, master and de luxe series models. With these models, the preparation of even the most difficult-to-freeze delicacies becomes a pleasure. Simply by turning the pointer to 'cooler' the dessert is frozen quickly and smoothly."

TO THE VOTERS OF CORYELL COUNTY

As the time is drawing near for the citizens of our county to elect officers, I am taking this method of asking each and every one to give me due consideration for the office of Sheriff, and if you believe me worthy I certainly will appreciate your support. I have tried to see each and every one since I started my campaign, but it is impossible to see them all and the ones I have failed to see I want them to know I would certainly appreciate their support. And if elected I will do all in my power to make the very best officer that I possibly can.

I feel like with my long experience and my desire to make good I could make at least an average sheriff. It has been my policy in the past to be kind and considerate to the one that happened to get into trouble and if elected I will continue to do the same.

I want to thank my many friends for their interest they have been taking in my behalf throughout the county, and if elected I will do all in my power to give no one cause to regret supporting me.

Gratefully yours,

E. B. McMordie

German Bethel Baptist Church

"And the spirit of the bride say, come;
And let him that heareth say, come;
And let him that is thirst, come,
And whosoever will, let him take the water of Life freely.

The voice of the spirit is the voice of God and the voice of the bride (church) is also the voice of God; both the spirit and the bride are God's messengers, they cannot speak independently, but as they are directed by the Heavenly Father. Think on these things. Does the church really permit God to speak through her? "Water of Life," is used as an emblem to set forth Divine grace. Water is purifying, fertilizing, medi-

nal. So is grace. To partake more and more of God's gifts of grace is the believers privilege. Let him never say: "It is enough."

Service next Lord's day will be as usual. Sunday school at 10 a. m., with classes for German and English speaking Americans. Preaching service 11 a. m. when the German language will be used as a special privilege for our fathers and mothers. BYPU at 7:15 and preaching service at 8:15. In the evening services the English language will be used.

We invite you to worship with us.

Joe White Points to Experience as Deputy Among Qualifications

To the voters of Coryell County: I have served several years as deputy sheriff in Coryell county, Texas, under the late W. W. Hollingsworth.

For the past 12 months I have been first deputy sheriff, making my home at the jail, and attending to much of the business of the sheriff's office in person.

W. W. Hollingsworth was my friend, and workin' under him did not desire to run against him, and therefore did not announce for the office until several days after his death.

Announcing late and feeling that the duties of the office came first, it has been impossible for me to see all the voters in this county.

I therefore take this method of soliciting your support. I feel that the experience that I have had while serving as deputy sheriff will better qualify me to carry on the work as sheriff. Any favors shown me will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully,

Joe White.

MAE IS NICE GIRL

Aberdeen, Scotland, July 15.—Mae West is a regular church goer and the general public has "got her all wrong," Canon J. F. Michell, pastor of Hollywood's Little Church Around the Corner, said here today.

"People have Miss West all wrong," the canon, visiting his birthplace here, said. "She is one of the regular worshippers at my church and is among those quite numerous film stars who have never tasted intoxicating liquor."

"DON'T YOU EVER RUN OUT OF ICE CUBES?"

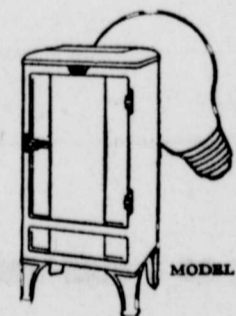

"YOU MUST BE THINKING OF OLD-FASHIONED ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS..."

Ours is a Frigidaire '34"

Big, husky ice cubes—120 of them at one freezing, in the model shown above. But that's only one reason why everyone is talking about the Frigidaire '34.

To begin with, it has automatic ice tray release . . . the trays slide from the freezer at a finger touch! And automatic defrosting . . . it turns itself on when defrosting is completed! Then, there are models with Lifetime Porcelain inside and out . . . double Hydrator capacity . . . much greater food space . . . the Sliding Utility Basket . . . the Frigidaire Servashelf . . . interior lighting . . . extra space for tall bottles . . . and—come in, won't you? . . . That, really, is the best way to see just what's happened in electric refrigeration; to learn just why people are proudly saying, "Ours is a Frigidaire '34."

SOFTBALL SYMPTOMS

By TEDDY

Gartman's crew downed the Methodists Monday night 15 to 1. This game was close, more so than the scores indicate. Gartman's gang is not doing as well as they were the first division, but still have a tight infield.

Arnold crew came from behind Monday night to give the Firemen a 16 to 10 licking.

Arnold has recruited some good players in Dickie, Miles, and the Burt boys. These boys are from out of the city, and show much interest in the game. Luck to you Bob with these new players.

The Baptists won by forfeit from the Methodists Tuesday night 9 to 0. These Methodists have a good team, if they could arrive at the Fair Grounds on time they would make the other teams hustle. They held Arnold's crew to only 3 hits in a game recently played.

The Baptists downed the Bachelors Wednesday night 9 to 4. The Bachelors played a good game, but the churchmen proved to be much stronger than last division. They are on their way to the top of the league, and how!

Arnold's crew nosed out Gartman's bunch Wednesday night 8 to 4. Sasse and Ricketts both pitched their poorest game of the season. Arnold has the most dependable team of the six this division and are still improving.

—MY—DOPE—

Today—The Baptists will defeat the Firemen by a few runs.

The Bachelors will defeat the Methodists. I dope this game this way because I do not think the Methodists will have enough out to play.

Monday—The Firemen will meet defeat by a few runs from Gartman's bunch.

Arnold will defeat the Bachelors.
