

Cattle Buying Program Starts Today

The cattle buying program, a part of the federal drought relief, begins in Coryell county today, according to word from the office of D. W. Sherrill, county agent.

More than 8,000 head of cattle, representing 600 applications of Coryell county livestock owners will be offered to the government today for compensation which the federal authorities are offering the stock owners throughout the drought area.

The appraiser and veterinarian arrived in Gatesville Thursday morning. He spent the rest of the day in conference with local agricultural and livestock authorities making final arrangements preparatory to the appraisal work.

With the immense number of cattle signed up it is to be clearly understood that much time will be necessary to compete the appraisal and inspection, probably six weeks. Owners will be notified a day in advance so they might pen their stock for inspection. The cooperation and patience of the stock owners is urgently requested.

VOICES HIS APPRECIATION

To the Voters of Commissioner's Precinct No. 1.

Dear Friends:

As the election day draws near, I wish to thank you for your co-operation with me as your Commissioner and servant for the past three and one-half years. And having been honored by you with this office, I have endeavored to do my duties fairly and impartially towards all and will continue to do so should you select me again as your Commissioner for the next two years.

During the past three and one-half years, I feel that I have become efficiently acquainted with the problems of this office and how to render the best service to the Tax Payers, and I want to aid in carrying out the great relief program of our county in my beat.

I believe that the only promise an officer should make is the promise to abide by the law himself, and to carry out the business affairs of his office in an economical manner.

BARN IS DESTROYED BY FIRE THURSDAY

Flames of unknown origin destroyed barn belonging to O. P. Lauder milk in the northwest part of Gatesville about ten o'clock Thursday morning.

The barn was also being used for an auto shed, the automobile however was moved from the shed when the fire was first discovered.

According to the owner, the major part of the loss beside the barn consisted of twenty-seven bales of alfalfa feed which had been stored there a short time previous. It is thought that conflagration might have originated in the feed.

Cotton Meeting Called For Sat. Fourth on Account of Elect'n Day

TO DISCUSS BANKHEAD ACT

The mass meeting of cotton producers called for Saturday of this week has been postponed to Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, August 4, according to an announcement from the county agent's office. The fact that tomorrow is election day is the cause of the postponement.

Land measuring is underway and with the splendid cooperation, the farmers it is hoped that certificates of compliance contracts will be completed the latter part of next week.

The list of school districts and committeemen will be published again, naming the place where each will be located to receive Bankhead applications. In a recent interview, County agent D. W. Sherrill emphasized the fact that committeemen will handle the program and not the county agent's office.

It is hoped that applications from farmers can begin by August 6. This will be definitely decided at the meeting Saturday week.

Absentee landlords will have certificates mailed to them to be signed in order that they might secure as quickly as possible the second payment on cotton contracts. Cards have been mailed to these individual contract holders. As others come in cards will be sent the other signers.

ONLY ANNOUNCEMENTS APPEAR ON NEWS' FRONT PAGE

During the past two weeks many candidates have requested front page position for their political advertisements. The News has made it a policy to place all advertising on the inside pages with the exception of each candidate's formal announcement. Some candidates did not make an announcement at the beginning of the campaign and their statements are appearing now. We are giving this information so that all candidates might understand why some advertising appears on the front page—it is the candidate's announcement in each case.

Voting Figures Seem To Increase but Voters Continue to Keep Quiet

4,500 IS LATEST ESTIMATE

As time for the election draws nearer local politicians increase their estimates on the number of votes that may be polled in Coryell County it seems. Suppositions are now that as many as 4,500 votes may be expected from the thirty-three voting boxes in this county, with maximum strength running as high as 4,700.

The consensus of opinion is that there will be in the proximity of 450 "over and under age" votes cast. An unusually large number of first-time voters may be expected, it is believed.

What is responsible for the quiet manner in which politics are being talked is a question. Candidates seem to remain in the dark as to how votes will be cast as voters insist upon remaining silent on the subject, not even discussing their opinions with friends. Such action is rather strange as compared with former election chatter.

According to information from the county clerk's office the absentee voting in this county may reach 200 before Saturday, having passed the 100 mark last Saturday. The fact that the absentee voting is stronger this year than usual may mean that the final count will be larger.

NOTICE: Any erroneous reflection upon the character or standing of any person or firm appearing in its columns will be gladly and promptly corrected upon calling the attention of the management to the article in question.

We are afraid there will be a number of heartbroken individuals about Sunday morning. We do not refer solely to the candidates themselves but to their families and close friends as well. We know of several instances where the political aspirants have staked practically their entire financial possessions and have borrowed money from their friends to make the race. Their defeat will closely resemble a catastrophe. However, we admire their nerve. They must have self-confidence or they wouldn't be willing to make such a sacrifice.

Many readers of this paper have observed from time to time the column on the editorial page, "Stumpin' the State," which deals with glancing politics in Texas. The writer's name has not been made public heretofore, but we feel that the author of such a popular feature should have recognition. In case you don't know him, meet Brack Curry, a Gatesville boy, who has contributed "Stumpin' the State." Although Brack is just a youngster, a high school student, he is well posted on politics and the News challenges any adult in this vicinity who can discuss more intelligently politics than Brack Curry. Let's give the young writer a big hand.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Local school officials have reached that breath-holding climax which comes naturally in the process of any project where finances are involved. The Gatesville Board of Education is waiting on the City Council to make up its mind what will be done in regard to the prospective school gymnasium. It probably took the Council a long time to reach a decision on the park improvement work but once the councilmen reached a verdict a complete performance was enacted. If that is any indication and the city officials decide to see the gym erected, the school and citizenry may expect to have a gymnasium that will do credit to any town several times the size of Gatesville.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

"I will think, talk, write Texas Centennial in 1936. This is to be my celebration. In its achievements I may give free play to my patriotic love for Texas' historic past; my confidence in its glories that are to be." That is the pledge which has been adopted by the Centennial Commission, and one which every loyal Texan can well afford to adopt if he or she would make the coming birthday party an event long to be remembered by the state and states.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Fortunately for Gatesville, our city has not suffered the same plight that befell Brownwood when the large quantity of water was released from Lake Brownwood for use in the east Texas rice fields and the flood gates jammed, causing a greater loss of water from the supply than had been planned. A new well on city property has just been completed that will provide an unlimited supply for the swimming pool. We are wondering if the waste water from the pool could not be utilized to clean the city pavement. Could this water be pumped into the old water wagon and turned loose into the dirt-filled gutters along the paved streets of our town? We can't help but believe that a little washing-up would greatly improve the looks of our local streets.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

If everything we hear about all the state candidates is true we shudder to think what kind of government we are going to have.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

WITH THE SPECTATOR

Editor's Note.—This column is published by the News as a news feature because of the interesting comments of this writer upon politics. The views expressed are those of the writer and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial opinions of this newspaper.

YOUR CORRESPONDENT has been writing this column for several weeks now and this is the last before the July Primary, only two days from now. Naturally, we have formed conclusions as to the strength of the gubernatorial candidates after studying the political situation in the state and county for several months, watching closely the straw vote polls conducted by newspapers and individuals, talking with innumerable voters and political "strategists," and having the good fortune of being able to confer at all times with the shrewd political observer in this section of the state.

Of course, we're not saying we can answer the often repeated question "What two candidates will enter the run-off?" But we have a "hunch" that Jimmie Allred and Charlie McDonald will occupy the coveted position of run-off contenders. Our "hunch" is that Jimmie will lead the ticket of six candidates with about 300,000 votes, gleaned from all sections of the state. McDonald will capture the dyed-in-the-wool Ferguson vote which will amount to something like 275,000 votes in the first primary. Clint Small will get about 140,000 votes in West Texas and 60,000 elsewhere to give him third place with 200,000 votes. Of course, there could be a big swing-over election day from one candidate to another which would upset political dope everywhere. Tom Hunter is being hard pressed for fourth place by Maury Hughes, who has made great gains the last few weeks.

Hunter will poll anywhere from 150,000 to 175,000 votes, although his boom of recent weeks appears to have subsided. Hughes will run fifth with 100,000 votes, and Witt will be last or sixth with 75,000 votes. Witt will carry McLennan county by a 6 to 1 majority and will probably carry several counties in his home senatorial district but that will be as far as he will go.

Now don't misunderstand these interpretations, dear readers. We're not trying to boost any one candidate and are doing our best not to underestimate the strength of any of the contenders. We don't claim to be any political wizard or anything like that. As we said above, developments during the last two days of the campaign may change the lineup and antiquate these opinions. But we're just trying to see how "near we can come," and thought our calculations might interest you in some small measure.

Now for Coryell county. We've done our best to analyze conditions here as it is always of interest to know how your "home county" will vote. We have a hunch that C. C. McDonald will lead the other candidates with Jimmie Allred running a close second. We estimate McDonald receiving 1650 votes with Allred conceded a good 1,500. It will probably be a close race between Tom Hunter and Maury Hughes for third place. Hunter polled 1300 votes here in the 1932 election but that may be regarded as a protest against Governor Sterling and Mrs. Ferguson. Hughes made a "hit" with his audience here last Friday when he spoke to a crowd that stood in the beam of sun for an hour and a half. Hughes total should read 450 votes, while Hunter will not exceed 400. Clint Small has a silent vote in the county which should reach 300 votes or more. Witt, regardless of the proximity of his home town to the county, will probably run sixth here with something like 200 votes.

Those gardeners who invested a dollar in tile for subirrigation last spring are now reaping dividends in vegetables, writes the King county farm demonstration agent from the heart of the drought territory. Gyp water makes no difference he states and cites the garden of Mr. Charles Deaton as evidence.

Terracing, grasshopper poisoning, and some work with wool divided time with the cotton contracts in McLennan county in June according to the report of R. S. Miller. Terraces have proven drought worthy also—and yields are showing up better on terraced lands every

Dick Powell With Ginger Rogers New Film Lovers Team

A brand new romantic team comes to the screen in the persons of Dick Powell and Ginger Rogers who appear as screen lovers in "Twenty Million Sweethearts" the First National picture which opens at the Regal Theatre beginning Sunday.

No more popular couple could appear together than these two, who are said to be not only admirably suited to each other temperamentally and physically, but to work in perfect harmony. Both have won their spurs as popular screen players as well as singers of exceptional ability.

Powell rose to screen fame from an orchestra leader through such pictures as "42nd Street," "Footlight Parade," "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Wonder Bar" and others.

Ginger, the titian haired beauty, first made her hit on the musical comedy stage and later in pictures, including the musicals of "Gold Diggers of 1933" and "42nd Street."

Powell and Ginger have appeared together before, in "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933," but Ginger did not have the romantic lead opposite Dick in these pictures. In both of these pictures Dick was teamed with Ruby Keeler.

Now in "Twenty Million Sweethearts" it is Dick and Ginger, with Pat O'Brien playing the straight comedy lead. The picture, which is based on the story by Paul Finder Moss and Jerry Wald, is a combination of comedy, romance, drama and rare musical numbers. There are many catchy airs, written by the ace song writing team of Harry Warren and Al Dubin, who have written the lyrics and music for other Warren Bros. First National specials.

One song, "I'll String Along With You," sung first by Powell alone and then by Powell and Ginger is said to be of unusual merits with catchy words as well as music.

There are several specialty numbers in the picture in addition to the songs rendered by Powell and Ginger. These include music by Ted Fio Rito and his band, songs by the Four Mills Bros. and imitations of famous Radio Rogues.

The story, a romance of the radio, was dramatized for the screen by Warren Duff and Harry Sauber and directed by Ray Enright.

A Final Word to the Voters from George R. Hodges

I had hoped to visit every home and see each voter in Precinct One personally but I know that there are many whom I have missed in spite of my efforts, but whether I have seen you or not I will greatly appreciate your support.

I am 41 years of age and was born and reared in Precinct One.

While I certainly hold no ill will toward anyone for supporting an opponent I wish to sincerely thank my friends for their help and encouragement in this campaign.

I assure each and every voter in Precinct One that I will deeply appreciate anything you do for me and should I be elected I will try to repay you by making you the best Constable possible.

Sincerely yours,

GEORGE R. HODGES

A Letter from Mrs. Hollingsworth

TO THE VOTERS:

At the request of friends I now make public my reasons for supporting JOE WHITE in the present campaign for the office of Sheriff of Coryell Co. FIRST, I know that he would have been my husband's choice.

SECOND, His years of service as deputy at Copperas Cove have qualified him for the place.

THIRD, His two years as chief deputy here have proven his ability to cope with any situation. He has proven himself to be fair and considerate toward the accused and at the same time firm in the pursuit of his duty.

FOURTH, Our association with him here has proven beyond doubt that his character is above reproach in every respect.

I shall consider any favor shown him as a personal favor to myself.

Sincerely,

MRS. W. W. HOLLINGSWORTH

TO THE VOTERS And Citizens of Commissioners Beat No. 2, Coryell County

I take this method of calling to your attention the financial condition that I found our Beat in on January 1st of 1933, and also how it stands today. On January 1, 1933, I found the Beat without any funds whatsoever on hand and with an indebtedness of $6,434.74 standing against it. On January the first 1934 this debt had been reduced to the amount of $3270.00 with a cash balance on hand of $732.42 and on top of this I have bought and paid for $1295.20 worth of equipment to work with on the road.

Since January the first 1934 the indebtedness has been reduced to $159.00 which is all that our Beat now owes and on June the 11th the record shows a cash balance of $4191.55.

I am giving you this for your information and because I feel like you are entitled to know what I am doing as this money belongs to the people and not to me. I would be glad if you would examine the record and see whether I am giving you a correct statement or not. If you find that I am then if you feel like my efforts would justify me serving you for a second term I certainly would appreciate your vote and influence in the coming election, and I promise, if elected, to serve you faithfully and impartially to the best of my ability.

SOFTBALL SYMPTOMS

By TEDDY

The Firemen defeated Gartman's crew Monday night 7 to 2. Alvis pitched his greatest game of the season, allowing only two hits. Gartman's gang has plenty of softball ability, but fail to "think" fast enough when in a "tight."

Arnold's bunch nosed out the Bachelors Monday night 8 to 4. This was a thrilling ball game, either team only got a few hits. These Bachelors have a good team, but why do they have to "blow-up" one inning out of every game?

The Baptists gave the Methodist team a bad licking of 14 to 1 Wednesday night. This Baptist team is still in their winning streak, and will be hard to stop, but when they do "blow-up" they will be a team of the past as far as winning this second division is concerned. Get prepared Blanton your day is coming.

The Firemen downed the Bachelors Wednesday night 11 to 5. The Bachelors had their usual "luck" but played a good game.

Managers Meet

At a meeting of the local softball managers held Tuesday, the following motions were made and passed on.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Graham and is a member of one of the county's best families. He is an energetic and enterprising young farmer and stands high in the estimation of all those who are acquainted with him.

game that was later played between his crew and the Bachelors.

No player can transfer from the original Methodist team. If he quits playing with the new Methodist team he can not play with any other team in the league.

If a ball is thrown over first base and is in the field of play a runner is allowed to take as many bases as he wants, providing he can make them.

If a ball hits a spectator or any obstruction a runner is allowed to take one base if he can make it.

The motion was made to have three umpires. It was agreed on that this be left up to the managers of the two teams that play that night.

—MY—DOPE—

Today—The Baptists will continue in their winning streak by defeating Gartman's crew by a few runs.

Arnold's bunch will give the Methodists team another bad licking.

Monday—Gartman's gang will defeat the Bachelors by a few runs.

THE STORY

CHAPTER II.—At the little settlement of Green River, Hays gets into an argument with a gambler called Stud, over a poker game. Wall saves Hank's life by bluffing the gambler out of shooting. With Hays and two other rustlers, Happy Jack and Lincoln, Jim Wall starts out for Herrick's ranch. In camp, the first night out, Jim regrets the step he has taken, but it is too late to turn back.

CHAPTER III.—The four men arrive at the ranch. Herrick announces that his sister, Helen, is coming to the ranch. Hays unfolds his plan for getting possession of the 12,000 head of live stock on the Herrick ranch. He and his lieutenants ride away to drive off the first bunch of cattle. Jim remains behind to shoot it out, if necessary, with Heese-man, Hays' rival among the cattle rustlers. Jim sees a dust cloud, which he is certain denotes the arrival of Heese-man and his gang. He stands with rifle ready.

After breakfast he went out and found a boy to shine his high-top boots and brush his dark, worn suit and his black sombrero. Presently, then, he encountered Barnes. "Howdy, boy. Did you have a nice time home?"

"Gee, I did," grinned the cowboy. "You sure look bright this morning."

"Wal, you look kinda splik an' span yourself, Jim," drawled Barnes. "Funny how the idea of a gurl gets a feller."

"Funny? You mean terrible, my friend. A woman is as terrible as an army approaching with banners."

"Gosh, who'd ever dreamed you had seen the inside of a Bible?" exclaimed the cowboy.

"It's funny, though, how I happened to remember that. Now, Barnes, listen. This Miss Herrick might take me for an honest, decent fellow like you. But if I let that pass I'd be sailing under false colors. I don't do that. And as I can't very well tell her myself you must."

"Tell her what?" queried Barnes, with a puzzled grin.

"You know. . . . The kind of a man I am."

"I sort of like you myself. So if you want me to tell her anythin' you must say what."

"Well then, tell her about Herrick hiring all the desperadoes in Utah, and that I'm one of them. Make me out worse than Hays and Heese-man thrown together."

"Shore. That's easy. But what's the idea, Jim?"

"I wasn't always an outcast. . . . And I think it'd hurt me less if this girl was scared and repelled. If she took me for a real westerner, you know, and talked and laughed—well, I'd go get powerfully drunk and probably shoot up Star ranch. So you fix it for me, will you, Barnes?"

"Shore, I'll fix it," replied Barnes, with a sly glance at Jim. "You give me a chanst when the stage rolls up. She's due now. I'll run down an' drive the buckboard up."

But the stage did not show up for an hour—a long, nervous dragging one for Jim Wall. Grand Junction was no different from other western points remote from civilization—everybody turned out to see the stage come in. It was a gala occasion for the youngsters, of whom there was a surprising number. The women onlookers, Jim observed, rather hung in the background.

The four-horse stage came rolling up in a cloud of dust. The driver, a grizzled old frontiersman, brought it to a stop with a fine flourish, and bawled out: "Grand Junction! Half hour fer lunch."

There were six passengers, two of them feminine. The last to leave the stage was a tall, veiled young woman, her lithe and erect figure encased in a long linen coat. She carried a small satchel. Expectantly she looked around. Jim stepped before her, baring his head.

"Are you Miss Herrick?" "Oh!—Yes," she exclaimed in relief.

"Your brother sent us to meet you," went on Jim, indicating Barnes, who stood to one side.

"He did not come!" The full, rich voice, with its foreign intonation, struck pleasantly upon Jim's ear.

"No. There's much work at Star ranch. But it's perfectly all right, Miss Herrick. We will drive you safely over before dark."

Jim could not see clearly through the tan veil, but he discerned well enough that big eyes studied him.

"Didn't he send a letter or anything? How am I to know you men are employed by my brother?"

"I'm afraid you'll have to take my word," replied Jim, gravely. "But, Barnes, here, can prove his identity. He lives in Grand Junction, and of course there are responsible people who will vouch for him."

"Miss, the boss did send word," spoke up Barnes, touching his hat, and stepping closer he added in a lower tone: "He told me last night you was to fetch what come by Wells-Fargo."

"Then it is all right," she replied, heartily relieved. "My luggage is inside, on top and tied on behind. The name is on every piece. Helen Herrick."

"I'll attend to the baggage, Miss Herrick," rejoined Jim. "Meanwhile Barnes will show you where to eat. It might rest you to walk a little. We have an eight-hour drive."

"Thank you. I've been riding steadily for two weeks and I'm stiff."

Whereupon Jim set about collecting the pieces of baggage marked "Herrick." It appeared that the stage had been loaded down with them. Nineteen in all! Manifestly Miss Herrick had come to stay. To find room for all of them in the buckboard was going to be a task. He set about this methodically, his mind at once busy and absent. By packing carefully under the seats and on them, too, Jim got the bags all in. He went to the store and bought rope to tie some of them on securely. "Wonder what she looks like," he thought. He had felt vaguely uncomfortable when she looked him over through that veil. His task completed, Jim stood beside the restless horses, waiting. And it seemed he was waiting for he knew not what.

Presently Barnes returned, wearing an excited grin. His eyes were important.

"Jim, I fixed it. I shore gave her an earful," he said.

"Did you? Much obliged, cowboy."

"She took off that coat an' veil. Lordy! Utah never seen the likes of her. Red lips, pink cheeks, hair like gold, an' eyes like violets! Jim, for a minnit I went plumb back on my gurl!—But shucks, that's crazy. She asked me to set at table. I did. She's just as nice an' free as Herrick. It was while we was eatin' that I had the chanst to tell her about the notorious Jim Wall. Mebbe I didn't spread it on. An' she looked—gee, such eyes! She said, 'So Bernie Herrick sent a desperado to be my escort? How perfectly rippin'!—Honest, Jim, that's what she said. So I shet up pronto."

"Have you double-crossed me?" queried Jim, suspicious of this boy. "You were to make me out low-down."

"Jim, honest to Gawd, if that gurl ain't scared to death of you she's a new one on me," declared Barnes. But there was fun and evasion in his keen, hazel eyes. Somehow he had failed to follow instructions.

"I'll go in the Chink's here and get a bite to eat. You watch the horses."

Upon his return Jim espied Miss

Herrick emerging from the yard of Mrs. Bowe's lodging house. She carried the linen coat on her arm, and without it did not appear so tall. She had a wonderful step, a free, swinging, graceful stride, expressive of health and vitality. She did not look slender, as in the long ulster, but superb, broad of shoulder. She wore a half-length coat over her brown dress. It had a collar of dark fur which presented vivid contrast to her exquisite complexion. The veil was tucked back and now permitted sight of a wave of shining, golden hair. At a little distance her eyes looked like great, dark holes set in white. But as she approached Jim saw that they were violet in hue, warm, beautiful, fearless.

"Are we ready to go?" she asked, gayly.

"Yes, if you have seen the Fargo people," replied Jim.

"I have it in my satchel," she returned, indicating the half-hidden receptacle under her linen coat.

Jim tried to interest himself in that satchel, because he was in league with robbers, but it did not work. Suddenly he had a murderous desire to kill Hays. This girl—for she appeared a girl in vivid freshness of youth—seemed not in the least frightened, absolutely free from revulsion. Indeed she was regarding him with undisguised interest and delight.

"Mr. Jim Wall, you're not in the least what my brother's letters have led me to believe," she said.

"Letters!—Why Herrick has not had time to write about me," exclaimed Jim, incredulously. "It takes long for a stage letter to go. . . . I've been at Star ranch only a few days."

"Oh, he did not write about you, individually," she laughed. "But from his letters about bandits and desperadoes I had evolved a rather frightful conception."

"Thank you, Miss Herrick," he replied gravely. "Don't trust appearances on our western border. . . . Will you get up? We must be going."

RE-ELECT

LON A. SMITH Second Full Term RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

To the People of Coryell County: In the closing hours of the political campaign I want to urge my friends and the people of this section to Texas that they do not forget Hon. Lon A. Smith in his campaign for reelection to a second full term to Railway Commission. Mr. Smith is a real servant of the people, having at all times their best interest at heart. We learned this about him when he made such a splendid record as State Comptroller, and especially do we old ex-Confederate soldiers and wives remember his untiring efforts in our behalf. He signed the order reducing the gas rates in Texas and if this order stands it will greatly aid the consumers of gas in over 200 towns in Texas. Mr. Smith is courteous and obliging and he is a man who stands for and with the masses of the people and can always be relied upon to labor in their behalf. He is experienced and much able to now handle the complicated matters that come before the Commission than any untried and inexperienced man would be. I urge my friends to rally to his support and I know he will greatly appreciate it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Jennie Ayres, (Widow of Confederate soldier) (Political Adv.) 53-3tp

A Word to the Voters

FROM

MARVIN E. FLETCHER

In closing my campaign for the office of county clerk, I take this method of soliciting the vote and influence of those I have been unable to see personally.

I am 33 years of age, have a wife and two children, was born and reared in Coryell county and have spent most of my life here.

My opponent has served sixteen years in this office, (6 years as deputy and 10 years as clerk). I have never asked for or held a public office, but believe that my nine years of experience in general office work has fully qualified me to keep accounts and records of the county.

I wish to express my thanks for the many favors shown me, and will appreciate a good word to your friends in my behalf, and if elected, I promise an efficient courteous administrator.

Respectfully,

IN MEMORY OF CICERO H. GRAVES

In the quiet evening hour of June 12, 1934, the soul of Cicero H. Graves returned to the Master whom he had loved and served since August 1895. Mr. Graves was born March 23, 1881, in the Coryell Church community, where he spent all but 17 years of his life, these being spent in Carlton, Hamilton county, Texas.

Mr. Graves and Miss Stella Humphries were united in marriage in 1905. To this happy union were born seven children; five boys and two girls, all of whom, that are old enough, love and serve the Master whom their father loved so well.

Although Mr. Graves had been in failing health for some three years, his last illness was but of a short duration of two weeks. No wife, no family of sons and daughters, no brothers and sisters could have been more faithful than were his. Every effort was put forth to render medical aid and to restore his health, but all was in vain. Having made peace with his Lord when only a lad, he was ready when the summons, "The Master is come and calleth for thee, come to him!"

There are no words that can be written or spoken to ease the ache in the loved ones' hearts throughout the weeks to come. The greatest comfort and consolation that can be theirs will be in trying to walk in the footsteps of that man whom they were privileged to call husband, father and brother. He was an honest man, a good neighbor, a faithful christian and a true husband and father. He left his strong sons, lovely daughters and devoted wife a rich heritage—that of a name which is above reproach and without blemish. His worth was attested by the fact that such a great throng of friends came to lay a flower, shed a tear and pay tribute to this noble man of God.

Together with his immediate family, five brothers and four sisters survive Mr. Graves, as well as scores of relatives and friends. The brothers are Bethel, Fairy; Doc and Tom, Pidcoke; Wade, Coryell Church, and Bob of the State of Wyoming. The sisters are Mrs. Nettie Gibson, Carlton; Mrs. Della Cox, Pock-ney; Mrs. Bettie Nance, Waco; and Mrs. Ellen Ward, McGregor.

Judge Cross' Final Word Is Expressive Of His Appreciation

I wish to thank the people of the fifty-second judicial district for their many courtesies, expressions of confidence and words of encouragement given me during the one year that it has been my privilege to serve you as District Judge.

I have endeavored to conduct your court with business and dispatch and to keep the office upon the same high plane that it had been kept by the many able lawyers who have served before me. It is with a feeling of pride but without any desire to appear boastful, that I render to you a brief account of my services as a trial judge. During the year that I have served as district judge the higher courts have passed upon nine cases that I have tried and all of the nine have been affirmed. Thus far I have not had a single reversal. During the four years I served as County Judge, out of all the cases appealed I only had one reversal. This makes five years as a trial judge with only one reversal. I mention this for the purpose of showing whether I merit your support on the basis of qualifications.

It is being urged that it is the law of custom to elect a district judge from among the lawyers who have served as district attorneys. Let us examine past history and see. The following district judges who have served in three counties of this district were never district attorneys: Conner, Bell, Straughn, Oxford and Lindsey. The following district attorneys were never district judge: Daniels, George, A. R. Eidson, McMillan, Callaway, Johnson and Shipman. It is true that Arnold, McClellan and Eidson were all district attorneys before their election to the judgeship. However, it is my opinion that they were elected because they were all able criminal and civil lawyers and men of broad experience rather than simply because they once held the district attorneyship. Certainly each of them could point to one civil jury contested case they had tried in the district court and each of them could name at least one case that they had served as defense counsel in the criminal court. Their experience as lawyers was not limited solely to experience as prosecutors. At least, there is no custom or precedent in the history of the district where a man who has served only one year has been kicked out just in order to make way for a man who had been district attorney.

Again, I am criticised because the lawyers of the district recommended my appointment. Their endorsement came voluntarily. It was not my only indorsement, for about one hundred of my neighbors and friends, doctors, bankers, laborers, farmers and business men joined in that indorsement. I want to say that I have not had a single lawyer in the district to improperly approach me about any matter; I have found all of them high class gentlemen and I appreciate their confidence and friendship. I have no favorites among them but have striven to give all a fair deal.

I entered this race on January 1st with a feeling of good will and friendship for all and with malice toward none. I have chosen not to deal in personalities or in slanderous whisperings. I believe Kipling's advice "that when being lied about don't deal in lies," is good advice. My fight has been in the open—in the clear white light of the unclouded day, and I today close the campaign in the same spirit in which I entered it. I shall indeed gratefully remember your support.

Sincerely,
R. B. CROSS.

Votes of farmers who realize the logic of his platform will put Maury Hughes into the run-off in the Governor's race, his friends declare. Speaking Saturday night in San Angelo, Mr. Hughes declared that "agriculture was saved from bankruptcy by the farm policies of our President."

Mr. Hughes, in his campaign, has declared himself strongly for the President's policies, and has insisted that the President "needs behind him Governors and legislators of unselfishness and courage who will help him to bring about a complete recovery."

"When Franklin D. Roosevelt took office," he said, "cotton, oats and wheat were selling at less than the cost of production. Cotton has more than doubled in price. Oats have jumped from 15 to 40 cents per bushel. Wheat brought 25 cents and now sells for three times that amount."

"Not only has his farm policy brought higher prices, but Texas farmers have been paid $75,000,000 in his crop reduction campaign."

"If I am elected Governor, I shall champion any piece of constitutional legislation proposed which will guarantee to the farmer the cost of production and a profit."

"Under the new deal, the wealth of this nation is to be redistributed. In that process, it must go to the grass roots, because the agricultural industry is the backbone of our economic life."
