SOIL EROSION CAMP TO BE LOCATED IN COUNTY

LOCAL BANKER BECOMES STATE BANK COM'SNR

Appointment of Irvin McCreary, vice-president of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Company of Gatesville to be State Banking Commissioner, was announced in a press release yesterday to the Associated Press and other news agencies. Mr. McCreary succeeds E. C. Brand.

Irvin McCreary is a native of this county, having been born near Pidcoke and spent most of his life in Gatesville. He is a graduate of Gatesville high school, and has filled every position in the bank up to vice-presidency with efficiency and competence.

Having been in the banking business for 19 years, Mr. McCreary had already won state recognition by being elected to membership of the Executive Committee of the Texas Bankers' Association and was elected also as Treasurer of the same organization.

Mr. McCreary has a large acquaintance among the foremost bankers of the state, and has a reputation as a capable, honest, and well qualified banker, to effectually, and with fairness, serve the bankers of the Lone Star State as its Banking Commissioner.

It is certainly not remiss at this time to extend congratulations to one who has made himself known so favorably with his co-workers in the financial affairs of the State, and to state that this position of Banking Commissioner is one of the most important appointive positions made by the Governor of Texas.

Mr. McCreary will assume his duties September 1st.

Mr. McCreary is married and has one daughter, Raye Virginia.

GOFF'S COMEDIANS SHOWING HERE ALL THIS WEEK

This is the first appearance of the Goff shows before a Gatesville audience, and they come with good reports from other towns where they have shown.

They are recommended as one of the better class tent players, and their first presentation last night bears out the claim.

Mr. Goff says he does not have the largest tent show but that his actors, musicians and specialty numbers are among the best to be found on the road. The show is racy and

Will Formally Break Ground on New Baptist Structure Wednesday

Workmen started Thursday morning cleaning away the debris and stowing material left after the wrecking crew finished tearing down the old Baptist church in preparation for the actual construction which begins tomorrow, May 15.

Approximately 25 men including the contractor, Mr. C. C. Ramsey, were on hand, hauling, removing old foundations and moving trees. Mr. Ramsey staked off the building site and will store or stack all usable material.

Mrs. Katherine Bond has her little granddaughter, Nevalyn Dawn Bobo with her for an extended visit.

not allowed to drag and dull the interest filled with something interesting.

Last night's performance "Breaking into Society," played appreciatively but not to a full house, showed conclusively that Goff's Comedians are not over advertised, and that their shows are going to prove very popular in Gatesville.

Tonight, the presentation is "City Wives and Country Relatives," a Toby Comedy show, according to Mr. Goff himself who, with the remainder of the cast acquires themselves very favorably in every performance.

Sonda, the Mentalist, an NBC performer in the west, created considerably interest by his uncanny mental feats.

NBC and CBS Artist Is Here Visiting Parents; May Give Concert Here

Murray Kendrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kendrick and native of Gatesville, has just returned from New York where he has been variously connected with the big broadcasting chains, NBC and CBS, besides doing concert work and as church soloist.

Mr. Kendrick, graduate of Gatesville High School, and also a student of Austin College and a graduate in business administration at the University of Texas, has changed his routine of a business man to become one of the entertainers on the air waves.

Being a soloist for the Austin College and University of Texas Glee Clubs, Mr. Kendrick became interested in singing and began the study of voice under Ethel Rader of Kidd-Key College.

As alternate representative of the Texas District in the 1929 Atwater-Kent national auditions, Mr. Kendrick began his colorful musical career. In 1930 he began training with Oscar Seagle, the world-famous baritone and teacher at Mr. Seagle's summer Music Colony at Schroom Lake, New York. During the past five years he has studied with Mr. Seagle, both in New York City and at his summer home and has acted as Mr. Seagle's private secretary for several years.

Various concerts by Mr. Kendrick were given in northern New York and Vermont at several famous summer resorts.

Outstanding in his work have been his appearances in various radio programs including the NBC and CBS and with five other New York stations including WOR of Newark and WGY of Schenectady. During the past year he has sung on the holiday broadcast of NBC (Continued bottom of next col.)

Pursuant to message addressed to Judge Robert Brown at Gatesville from Hon. O. H. Cross, Congressman of this district at Washington, Coryell county is to have a soil erosion camp located here soon.

The telegram reads as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
May 11, 1935.

JUDGE ROBERT BROWN,
GATESVILLE, TEXAS.

RETEL DEPARTMENT ADVISES CORYELL COUNTY WILL BE GIVEN SOIL EROSION CAMP BUT EXACT LOCATION WILL NOT BE DETERMINED FOR TWO OR THREE WEEKS STOP WILL ADVISE YOU WHEN IN RECEIPT OF DECISION BY DEPARTMENT.

O. H. CROSS.

In this camp, it is estimated approximately 250 men will be housed and used in soil conservation, and the department at Washington was wired the cooperation of farmers and citizens alike.

This camp is primarily for the farmers, since all the work or practically all will be done in soil erosion work in preventing farms from washing and being cut up by the water. They have proved very popular with the farmers wherever opened up.

This climaxes work began approximately two years ago by various committees and the Chamber of Commerce of Gatesville. These camps are located for two work periods of six months each, depending on the available work.

One day last week a Chamber of Commerce committee composed of C. E. Alvis, President; Judge R. W. Brown, Pat Holt, D. W. Sherrill, Byron Leard, and Fred Prewitt made a trip to Temple, and thru an introduction by F. A. Thomson of that city were able to see Dr. H. F. Geib, Regional Director of the CCC camps including the one at Neff Park. Nothing was accomplished, however, and the wire to Judge Brown came as a surprise since they were informed at Temple that nothing could be done thru Dr. Geib about the camp.

The local camp will be under the supervision of Regional Director, L. T. Merrill of Tyler in whose district this part of the county is, and also Robert Fechner, Director of Soil Erosion Camps and the Emergency Conservation Work.

Mr. Kendrick has been engaged as soloist in several of the better known churches in New York, including the Church of the Ascension, in which more music of quality is used than any church in the city.

Thousands Gather to Honor Mothers at Mother Neff State Park Last Sunday

A great throng, estimated at more than 10,000, gathered at Mother Neff Park Sunday to honor the Mothers of our land in an elaborate ceremony, in which Gov. Allred was the principal speaker.

It was probably the most elaborate and the largest observance of Mother's day held in Texas. They came from all over this part of the state to hear Gov. James V. Allred make a Mother's day address, and to witness other ceremonies of the day, including the breaking of ground for a clubhouse in the park.

All afternoon people crowded into the OCC camp grounds near the park and into the park itself. The crowd was so large that it overflowed temporary seats placed outside the pavilion, and it was almost impossible to get within hearing distance of the speakers.

The program was the first Mothers' day celebration in the park, and it is hoped to make the affair an annual one, according to President Pat Neff of Baylor, who sponsored the program. Neff furnished a large part of the show at the park and directed the entire program.

Tribute was paid to mothers by Governor Allred in his address. He extolled mothers' virtues and said that mother love is the golden chord that binds the earth to God. The Baylor band played, both at the CCC camp and at the park; the Keys quadruplets of Baylor and their mother were on hand and presented on the program; Governor Allred's parents were presented; several state officials, including Chief L. G. Phares of the state highway patrol; an airplane from Randolph field, San Antonio flew over the crowd several times, taking pictures, and finally landed for a short time; moving pictures of the band and

TO HOME OWNERS!

Under provisions of The National Housing Act we are authorized by Crosley Refrigerator Company to offer HOME OWNERS Shelvador refrigerators on a 3-year payment plan with nothing down. Did you ever hear of a proposition so liberal?

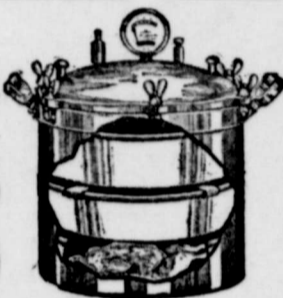

Here is the way it works: Take, for instance our Shelvador No. 60 pictured in this ad. It will cost you including all carrying charges $183.97 and you have 3 years to pay for it at $5.11 per month. We will deliver it as soon as the application is approved and you will not have to pay anything until the first of June or July or 30 days after the contract is approved. We will also make you a liberal allowance on your old refrigerator. To those not wishing to use the above plan we are prepared to finance it ourselves on small monthly payments. This illustration represents the Shelvador mentioned above. It is a large roomy box, full 6 cubic feet with 13.5 feet of shelf space. Has 3 trays and a large double tray for deserts, etc.

Every box is serviced free for 12 months. All parts are standard. Quality and size considered I do not believe you can find a better value in a refrigerator.

The County Baseball League started Saturday, and will continue through June 16. Games are being played on Saturdays and Sundays. Managers are not sending in the results of games as they should. Managers are requested to phone or bring in game results on Monday morning and they will appear in Tuesday's edition. I have to figure the Team Standing according to the report I get, however, if there is an error appearing in the standing of the teams it may be contested.

Last Thursday spring football practice terminated with a game between eligible men for this year and played ineligible for the coming season. The seniors won 13 to 0. Coach Ewing had very little to say about the game but did impress upon the writer the boys had shown a little fight.

We notice from a recent dispatch that Mart High School closed their spring football training with a game recently between eligible men for this year and ineligible men. The seniors also won this game by 13-0. The ex-Panthers, who won the regional last year, showed much better form in this contest than in any game played last fall.

The Softball League is due increase in interest after a rest of a few nights. Thursday night the Firemen won to Copperas Cove and played that aggregation, and lost 14-12.

The Games scheduled for Friday night, May 2, were played last night, and the games scheduled for tonight will be played as usual. The Firemen meet the Independents in the first game tonight. The Firemen will win from the Independent crew as usual. In the second game the Bachelors play the Oilers. The Conoco team, with Blanton and Wiggins back in the line-up, are due to improve, not to mention the fact that Buster Cummings, local high school youth, has been improving and has become an asset to the Oilers. It's either team's game, but the Bachelors have the upper edge.

There is no Softball team standing in this issue, because the standing is the same as was in the Friday edition.

The games that were not played Monday night, May 10, will probably be played Wednesday night.

According to reports we have, the following results of games played Saturday and Sunday between teams in the County Baseball League:

Pidcoke 2, Plainview 0; Jonesboro 17, Ireland 4; Turnersville 8, State 2; Liberty 11, Levita 7; Osage 16, Hubbard 10; Mound 15, Purlmela 3.

Following is the standing of teams in the League which will appear regularly in the Tuesday edition. The schedule will appear in every Friday's edition.

Galveston—Planting of truck crops in Galveston county for cooperative car lot shipment is well advanced, according to county agricultural agent J. C. Yeary, with Bolivar Peninsula planting 500 acres in watermelons, 200 acres in cantaloupes, 20 acres in cucumbers; and Galveston Island planting 100 acres in cantaloupes, 30 in cucumbers, and 50 in watermelons. The Mainland has planted 80 acres in cucumbers, 50 in cantaloupes, and 50 in tomatoes.

We haven't gotten familiar with the different barbers in the league nor the strength of the different teams, but hope to, and give you a brief summary of each game.

TEAM STANDING

Saturday Division
Team	won	lost	per.
Pidcoke	1	0	1.000

SPRING FOOTBALL TRAINING CLOSURES WITH GAME

The ineligibles of the spring squad defeated the eligibles Thursday afternoon in a practice game which winds up football activities until September.

Weight and expedience were against the boys who will represent Gatesville Hi next year, but the boys fought gamely and gained about as much yardage as the ineligibles.

The eligible backfield was weak on both the offensive and defensive, but little could be expected of the boys carrying the ball when the forward wall held. The line really showed up better than the backfield, however. The eligible backfield consisted of Hair at quarter, Albert Dickie and Zack Fore at the halfback positions, and Bydom at full. Hair as usual was the sparkplug of the backfield, doing the punting and most of the passing and running. Sonny kicked eleven times for an average of 28 yards. Zack Fore looked good in the eligible backfield, getting loose for 15 yards at one time.

One of the prospects the Hornets have for next year is Nathan McDonald, 165-pound end who can take and give four quarters. Dickie showed his usual grit and determination in line plunging but had little interference. Chapman at guard looked good, as did Myers and Weaver.

On the ineligible side, Bauman called signals with M. H. Shepherd, Roy Scott, and McLarty at the other backfield positions. Shepherd was the mainstay of the ineligibles' offense, intercepting passes and making several long gains of 15 and 20 yards. Jack Thornton, 160 pounds, six feet six inches, played a good game.

The lineups: Ineligibles—le, Hinesley; ft, C. Shepherd; lg, Bradford; c, G. Dickie; rg, Cummings; rt, Chamlee; re, Thornton; q, Bouman; lh, M. H. Shepherd; rh, Scott; f, McLarty.

Eligibles—le, McDonald; lt, Myers; lg, Chapman; c, Culberson; rg, Weaver; rt, Wicker; re, Turner; q, Haid; lh, Albert Dickie; rh, Fore, f, J. C. Byrom.

TO VOTE ON PROHIBITION REPEAL AUGUST 24TH.

Repeal of state prohibition was submitted to a double vote of the people recently by the Texas Legislature for the first popular ballot on state dry laws in 16 years, says an American Press release from Austin. Thundering majorities in both houses roared out approval of a compromise submission plan drafted by a conference committee for a double election on amending the Constitution. Efforts to delay and reject the submission plan quickly were beaten down.

Electors would ballot August 24 on repeal with the Legislature empowered to regulate the liquor traffic. Saloons would be banned and a state monopoly would be optional.

The question of a mandatory state monopoly would be submitted at the general election in November, 1936. Under it, sale of liquor for private profit or in broken packages for consumption on the premises of sale would be prohibited, except for medicinal, mechanical or scientific purposes.

A favorable vote of the people on either repeal plan would wipe out constitutional prohibition, but prohibition could not be returned by a dry majority against the monopoly plan in the second election in 1936.

Local option would be provided by both plans. Counties would revert to the wet or dry status as of the effective date of prohibition in 1919. Likewise, the local option status of counties concerning the sale of 3.2 beer, legalized in 1933 would not be changed.

Adoption of the report of both houses constituted final legislative action. Governor Allred, a prohibitionist who urged submission, may approve it but he does not have the power to veto it.

ALLRED APPOINTS NEFF TO CENTENNIAL BOARD

Pat M. Neff, Baylor University president at Waco, was appointed a member of the new centennial commission by Governor Allred Wednesday.

Neff was Allred's first appointment to the new governing board created by the centennial appropriation bill.

LOCAL BOY WANTS CHANGE IN BROADCAST

We quote in part an article pertaining to Loyd Neil Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kirkpatrick of Gatesville, taken from the Waxahachie Daily Light, which will be of interest to local citizens.

"Advocating that the British system for radio broadcast be adopted in this country in order to raise the moral, economic and political level of the nation, Neil Kirkpatrick, Gatesville, debating student in Trinity University, was the speaker before Rotary at Bedford's Thursday.

"Young Mr. Kirkpatrick, who made quite a hit with both the Rotarians and his debating instructor, Prof. Allan Mote of Trinity, explained that in the United Kingdom a tax of $2.40 is made on all radio sets to cover the cost of broadcasts and administration and that no advertising is allowed and all programs are carefully censored.

"Installation of such a system in this country," he said, "would have a very beneficial effect on the younger people of the nation and be very pleasing indeed to the elders. America needs to turn its thoughts to higher things and rule out the questionable programs which go out over the air into millions of homes where parents are trying to rear children for honorable and useful lives."

"He explained in detail the British and American system and cited the chief points of difference between the two, advocating that the radio be taken from under the domination of commercial interests."

"BLACK AND GOLD" TITLE OF ANNUAL BY TYPING CLASSES

"Black and Gold" is the title of the very neat mimeographed annual or year book issued by the typing classes of the high school.

Under the management of the staff including Harold Goolsby, Merle Hopson, James Webb, Esther McCutchen, Mona Draper, Ray Byrom, Winnie Belle Davis, A. C. Bates, Jr., Doris Lawrence, Vivian Andrew, Jack West and Norman Painter, besides showing that a lot of work has been expended. This book covers every activity in school, classes, calendar, feature pages, sports, dramatics, choral club, band, home economics and humor pages galore. All in all, this is really something, and the information we have is there are no copies available, and we had to borrow this one from Brack Curry to review it. We compliment the typewriting classes and those associated with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Hestilow of Waco spent the week end here with relatives and friends.

CHAINED

Lots of us have been "Chained" this and last week. Joan Crawford appeared in a picture by this name, but our luck was not in "pictures." This is "Chain Letter Week," so to speak.

They begin, these letters, with dime ones, two-bit ones and dollar ones. Several other varieties have appeared including the "Twenty-Seven" Club and others.

Like miniature golf, and a myriad others, such as Yo-Yo's and Mah Jong, these fads and crazes are with us always. They're a mint for some, and a pain for others.

This chain letter business is the mover of dimes that have never moved before. People all over the state and nation are falling for the racket or fad, and it seems not one gets hurt. They can either send them or not, whichever way they look at it, and it has certainly furnished conversation and a lot of pleasure to many of us, and the expense is low.

Threats have been made by various agencies to stop this movement, but so far nothing definite has been done, and we believe the fad will eventually wear itself out aborning, like every other fad of this sort.

All in all, we don't see any harm in a novelty as this is and as there is nothing compulsory about it, we see no reason why any one else should object. Of course, in any fad of this sort someone is going to take advantage of it, but in the main, it is certainly run more above board and in the open than many so called legalized schemes, such as bettig on the horses, and many others.

Therefore, viewing this from all angles, we think there are benefits in this "chain letter" business to all of us.

THE WAR DEBTS AND THE BONUS

The immediate future of the movement for payment in cash of the veterans' bonus holds some interest—the Patman bill, which provides for issuance of greening possibilities. The President will undoubtedly veto backs to pay the veterans. If the Senate should then sustain the veto, there is a likelihood that the Vinson bill will be enacted. This bill makes no effort to answer the question where the money is to come from. If the President should then veto the Vinson bill on the ground that no satisfactory method of raising the funds are provided, an attempt might be made to authorize the settlement of the war debts for an amount sufficient to cover full bonus payment.

The amount involved in the full and immediate payment of the bonus would range from about $1,750,000,000, to $2,350,000,000.

The total war debts owed to the United States on March 1 were more than six times that figure, namely $12,200,000,000. It is generally agreed that the indebtedness will have to be reduced if any substantial part of it is going to be repaid.

One proposal is that the United States should ask only for the return of money actually advanced, forgive all interest payments, past and future, and credit all payments already made, both for principal and for interest, against the principal. The actual advances by the United States amounted to $10,300,000,000. The total repayments on all accounts up to March 1, 1935, were $2,700,000,000. The difference is seven billion six hundred thousand dollars—almost four times the amount involved in immediate payment of the bonus in full.

Of the three principal debtors, Great Britain, France and Italy, the first named has repaid sums amounting to 47 per cent of the original advances. France's repayments are but 14 per cent, and Italy's 6 per cent.

The situation thus holds out the prospect of an interesting showdown revealing whether or not our debtors actually intend to pay anything.—Fort Worth Star-Tele.

CHAPTER III

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Chick Thompson owns a puppet show in a carnival. His wife dies in childbirth, and he takes care of the child, Poochy. His wife's father, desirous of getting the child, obtains a court order to get the baby, but Chick steals Poochy from the hospital. He is forced to break up his act, fearing the police. Chick takes Fingers, his aid, with him, but leaves behind Daisy, the girl who has always secretly loved him. Five years later Chick returns to the carnival as Doc Crawford.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

In another moment Daisy had her arms around Chick. "Gee, Chick," she murmured.

Chick spoke throatily. "How are you, kid?" He held her out at arm's length. "Here—lemme get a look at you. You look swell."

"I—I missed you, Chick."

There was a tug on Chick's trouser leg. He grinned. "Meet Poochy!"

"Poochy!" Daisy's eyes were wide. "Look how big he is." She bent down. "Hello, darling."

Poochy stared timidly.

"Come on!" said Chick. "Say hello to the lady."

"Lo, Lady."

"Aw, that's sweet!" Daisy crushed the child to her. "Gee, Chick, he's wonderful!"

By now the rest of the carnival troupe had gathered around. It was a happy homecoming. Chick was back!

When things had quieted down a bit, Mac asked, "Where you been all this time, Chick?"

"Hidin' out in a small town. Got a job—managin' a movie house. Fingers had a good job, too."

Fingers grimaced. "Yeah—swell! I was the janitor."

"The manager," Chick was grinning. "I tried him out in the box of-Daisy was feeding Poochy, with Fingers watching enviously—envious of Daisy—when The Woman came in.

"I'm looking," said The Woman, "for a man by the name of Chick Thompson."

"Chick Thompson?" said Fingers. "Why, yeah—I—"

But Daisy cut in quickly. "I can tell you something about Chick Thompson."

"Really? Is he here?"

"No, but—if there's anything—"

"Know where I can find him?" asked The Woman.

Maybe, I hear from him once in a while."

Poochy pulled on Daisy's skirt.

"Lady! Lady!"

Daisy lifted him into her arms.

"Yes, darling."

"Your baby?" asked the woman.

"Uh-huh. What do you want of Chick Thompson?"

"I'm from the Children's Society." Fear showed on both Daisy's and Fingers' faces. "Oh, I see," said Daisy.

"There's been a complaint—"

"Complaint?" Daisy was wary.

"I think the child's grandfather registered a complaint." She fished in her purse. "Yes—here it is. A Mr. Lawson. Now, if you'll be good enough—anything you can tell me about—"

"We haven't seen Chick Thompson in two years," said Daisy.

Fingers wanted to be helpful. "It's more'n that, Daisy. I was only sayin' this morning: 'Wonder where Chick Thompson is?' I said."

"He stole the child out of a county hospital," said The Woman. "Against a court order, too."

"Yeah, I know. They tried to take his kid away from him," said Daisy.

"Of course, we're not interested in that particularly. That's up to the police. We're only concerned rice—but the receipts started fallin' down somethin' awful."

Fingers was genuinely peeved. "I don't know what he got sore about! All I did was take out expenses. Takes a lot of money to raise a kid."

"Now, remember, folks," warned Chick, "if any investigators come around askin' questions, you don't know anything about Chick Thompson or the kid, see?"

Everybody agreed willingly. Chick Thompson had been lost in the shuffle. Long live Doc Crawford! Daisy, of course, rejoined Chick's act and Chick showed her all the new puppets and the new routine. Then they got to talking about Poochy.

"Darn kid keeps me awake half the night. I keep thinkin' I hear him cryin'."

"You shouldn't worry so," said Daisy. "You should get your sleep."

Chick sighed. "Can't help it. Not since the time he had the convulsions."

"Convulsions!"

"I'll never forget it, Daisy. His face went all purple. I thought sure I was gonna lose him."

"Gee, Chick—"

"He snapped out of it, though. I stuck him in a warm bath quick and put ice packs on his head. Worked on him over an hour."

"How'd you know about that?"

"I remembered readin' it once. In one of those baby books." He took a deep puff on his cigarette. "Education sure is a great thing." The smoke curled towards the ceiling.

"The thought of losin' him did things to me that night. Funny thing, isn't it? A little mugg like that. They crawl inside of you, Daisy."

"I know, Chick," Daisy murmured.

"I hope he don't turn out like me."

Daisy sat down beside Chick. "You're swell, darling."

"I mean, to be a carnival mugg. Like you and me. That's all we are, Daisy—muggs. We're hard and tough. I don't want him to grow up like that. When it's all over what's a carnival guy like me got? Nothin'—keep jumpin' from place to place—never make friends. Real friends, I mean—nobody cares what happens to you. Whether you come or go—or nothin'."

"I care about you, Chick. I'm your friend—your real friend." Daisy looked up into Chick's eyes, her own eyes aglow with the love that burned in them.

Chick stood abruptly and patted her shoulder. "You're okay, kid."

in the child's welfare. We understand he's being brought up under very unsatisfactory conditions. Constantly neglected, and—"

"That's a lie!" shouted Fingers forgetting himself.

The Woman looked up, surprised.

Daisy tried to cover up. "He means, Chick isn't the kind of a person who would neglect his kid."

"Perhaps not. But in these environments, after all, the life you carnival people lead is hardly the right sort of influence for a—"

Daisy was resentful. "This baby's all right."

The Woman was pleasant enough. "Oh, well, this lovely baby has a mother's care. That's all the Children's Society asks. If Chick Thompson's child had a mother like you, I dare say we'd scarcely bother about the whole thing."

"Thanks."

"As a matter of fact, I doubt whether we'd have even a right to annoy him." She started to leave.

"Do you think there's a chance of Thompson showing up here?"

"Not a chance in a million!" snapped Fingers.

"Hey, Daisy!" It was Chick. "What're you doin' there, standin' around gabbin'? I thought you were gonna feed him."

Daisy straightened. "Oh, hello Joe. This lady is from the Children's Society, Joe."

"Oh, yeah?"

Daisy spoke quickly. "She's lookin' for Chick Thompson and his kid. Know where he is?"

"How would I know? That guy never meant nothin' to me. Come on—we gotta put a show on."

"Wanna go bye-bye, Daddy" Poochy again.

The Woman was quite startled. "Your husband?"

"Oh—yes," said Daisy. "Yes, of course. My husband, Joe Crawford—Doc Crawford."

"Well, I'll be going. Thank you very much. There'll be other investigators around—from time to time I'd be very careful if I were you Mr. Crawford."

And The Woman was gone.

The following morning found Chick pacing the room agitatedly. Daisy watched him, hands on hips.

"I wish you'd stop worryin'. If any other investigators come around we'll stall them."

"Yeah," snapped Chick, "the way we stalled the last one. She was on to us all the time."

"I was doing fine—until you stuck your nose in."

Chick turned suddenly. "By the way, where'd you get that husband stuff?"

DUSTING COVERS
 —OF—
TEXAS HISTORY

"In the sacred cause of right, justice and humanity, it is no time to calculate cold policy and expediency—let us then do something for Texas!" The appealing editorial in the New Orleans Commercial Bulletin of April 4, 1836, expressed the sentiment of Louisiana citizens. With their neighboring State at war, they felt that it was only their rightful duty to go to aid them, and it was through the assistance of the New Orleans "Greys" that the Texans were able to have a good sized group of volunteers and helpers, though many of them did arrive almost too late for actual fighting.

Ever since June, 1835, when General Felix Huston made a spirited and elegant harangue, describing in a manner exceedingly touching, the wrongs and sufferings of people of Texas, people of the United States had made attempts to help with food, clothing, and ammunition. Travis appealed earnestly from the Alamo for aid, but word reached New Orleans too late. "Still Texas is not enslaved," the Bulletin said, "and the very spirit which burned in the breasts of San Antonio's defenders is kindled in the hearts of every tenant of the wood cabin and throughout the wide extent of Texas." Thus the New Orleans Greys were organized, and sent to Texas.

Stephen F. Austin had made many friends for Texas on his various trips to New Orleans and Louisiana. His friendship and kindness was repaid by the volunteers. They hoped to find the war only a temporary clash, and were confident that Texans would be triumphant in a few weeks. Taking as their motto the Texas slogan of "Texas, and Liberty!" they thoroughly sympathized and understood the Texan cause.

In the hundred years that have passed since those troublous days of battle, great changes have taken place. The Louisiana Advertiser said: Texas holds out a great field for the adventurous and enterprising population of our States, and soon all its vast prairies will be covered with the habitation of the thrifty and the industrious, and all its vast resources will become gradually developed under the fostering care of a government administered by judicious and enlightened men."

Because it has gradually developed to be what it is today, Texas will celebrate its hundredth anniversary with fitting commemorations in 1936, noting the passing of the hundred years which have fulfilled all hopes.

Centennial Bill Approved. Federal Aid Asked. Patman Bill Passed. Rural Electrification.

Governor James V. Allred last week signed the bill appropriating $3,000,000 (million) for the Texas Centennial celebration next year, commemorating the One Hundredth anniversary of Texas Independence. The Governor told the Legislature in plain language it has its concern and not his to provide the money and meet the deficit incurred by the appropriation of the money, and also protested the move to adjourn last Saturday, May 11, but without avail.

Senator Tom Connally and Rep. Fritz G. Lanham of Fort Worth will introduce identical measures in Congress this week authorizing an appropriation of $3,000,000 (millions) for Federal participation in the Centennial next year. The Senator's decision to raise the amount of Federal money to be asked followed receipt of many protests from Texas against the $1,000,000 (million) appropriation originally contemplated and announced by World Comment in Friday's issue of the News. -1,500,000 is considered the maximum Congress will appropriate.

THE SENATE last week did the expected in scrapping the Administration-sponsored Harrison "compromise" bonus bill and passing the Patman inflationary bonus bill calling for payment of the $2,250,000,000 debt to veterans in printing press money. Administration leaders warned that a certain presidential veto awaited the bill at the White House, but it passed by a substantial majority. The vote against the Harrison "compromise" plan was 54 to 30—a plan Harrison said the President would sign. The Patman bill was chosen in preference to the Vinson bill by a vote of 52 to 35. Senator Sheppard of Texas voted for the Patman bill and Senator Connally against it.

President Roosevelt unalterably opposed to the bill because of the inflation attended by its passage, is in a difficult position because of the forces rallying public support for the bonus bill. Senator Borah, Huey Long, and Father Charles E. Coughlin are urging the Nation to deluge the capitol with telegrams urging enactment of the bill. Hundreds of telegrams and letters are pouring into the White House and Senate offices demanding support of the bill and protesting the veto by the President.

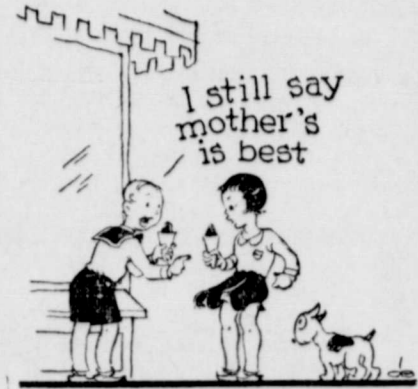

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has created a Rural Electrification Administration form the $4,000,000,000 (billions) work-relief fund to initiate and supervise a program of approved projects with respect to the generation, transportation and distribution of electric energy in rural areas. $50,000,000 have been set aside for the new project. Details of how a farmer might benefit from the program are lacking. Morris Cooke, acting head of the REA, will deliver a radio speech Saturday explaining the benefits to be derived from the program.

SUCCESS ASSURED

DO YOU know that the very best assurance of success with home-made ice cream is—a box of marshmallows in the pantry? Not so long as they stay in the pantry, of course; they have to get into the ice cream before they can be responsible for its superior texture. And when they do get into it, thereby ousting the sugar, they turn it from an ordinary ice cream into a marlow. Which is a "can't fail" dessert.

You can't get a crystalline, disappointing product when you make a marlow. You may use a mechanical refrigerator, or an ice cream freezer, without the bothersome agitating usually called for, or simply pack it in a tightly sealed covered mold, in an ice-salt pack. Seal the mold with adhesive tape.

About those marshmallows—you really can keep them on the pantry shelf, with no danger of their drying out and becoming stale and hard. That is because they now come in quarter-pound pack-ettes, each holding sixteen marshmallows, each sealed separately in waxed paper, and the four contained in a triple-sealed pound carton. This recipe, as you see, contains just sixteen marshmallows, or a quarter of a pound, so you need open only one of the four pack-ettes, and the others will remain moist and tender indefinitely.

MAPLE NUT MARLOW

- 16 marshmallows
- 1/4 cup maple syrup
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/2 cup pecans, chopped fine
- Pinch of salt
- 1/2 pint whipping cream

Put marshmallows, syrup and water in top of double boiler and steam until marshmallows are melted and blended with liquid. Remove from stove, add lemon juice, pecans and salt, and set aside to cool. When quite cold and slightly stiffened, combine carefully with the stiffly beaten cream. Pour into containers and freeze without stirring.

The death of Senator BRON-SOM CUTTING of New Mexico in a transport plane crash last week was a great loss to the Nation and to the progressives in the Senate. The nation has reed of men of Senator Cutting's type in the halls of Congress—men who ignore party labels to act as a high sense of responsibility directs. Unfortunately, there are few such men in Congress to day. A liberal Republican, Cutting supported the Roosevelt recovery program in 1933 and 1934.

The death of Senator Cutting means another addition to the top-heavy Democratic majority in the Senate. New Mexico's Democratic Governor, Clyde Tingley, appointed former U. S. Representative Dennis Chavez, who was Cutting's Democratic opponent in the November election, to fill the vacant Senate chair until 1936. Chavez, an ardent champion of Roosevelt policies, ran against Senator Cutting on an administration-backed ticket and was defeated by a 1,200 majority. He was contesting the election at the time of Senator Cutting's death. Chavez said he will be a candidate in 1936 to fill the remainder of Cutting's term, which expires in 1940.

OIL PROSPECTS GROW STRONGER

A big flurry of excitement and a healthful interest was created at the Doyle-Pugh-Pace oil test well near Ireland this week by a stronger-than-ever showing of oil.

Crowds go out daily from Hamilton to make personal investigations, and some, encouraged by the showing, do a little lease trading, though nothing has developed on a big scale in so far as has been reported.

Experienced oil operators, successful investors and scouts from many of the big Texan and Oklahoma oil fields are coming in to get first-hand information on the numerous encouraging reports being circulated over the country.

From an authoritative source the Herald-Record learns that the well is now drilling at around 3,300 feet, and each bailing shows stronger indications of the presence of paying oil.

The extremely hard formation through which the drills have been going during the past month, making only a few feet per day, is growing alternately much softer and better progress is being made with more encouraging indications as the drill goes down.

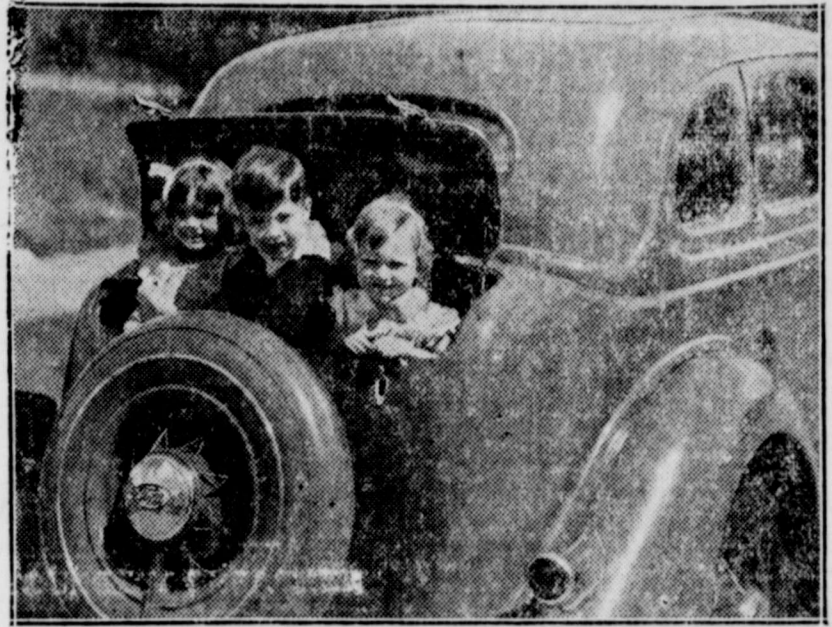

Experts who have made personal investigation of the present showing of oil at the test well declare the prospects for the success of the operations to be the most encouraging they ever witnessed under similar circumstances, even in proven fields. Since the first wildcat tests in Hamilton county it has been conceded by the well informed geologists and oil experts that there is a field in this territory, and evidence of gas in great volume is unmistakable.

Gas from the Riewe well, drilled several years ago for water in the Pottsville country, is reported to be growing noticeably stronger. — Hamilton-Herald-Record.

THREE smiling young stowaways demonstrate the ample space available for luggage, golf clubs or trophies of a shopping expedition, found in the trunk compartment of the new Ford V-8 Touring Sedans, two of the new de luxe types recently announced by the Ford Motor Company. The trunk compartment—with 13 cubic feet of space—is an inherent part of the design of the Tudor and Fordor Touring Sedan body types. All the space is used for luggage, the spare tire being carried conventionally at the rear, while an inner compartment under the floor provides space for tools. The trunk compartments may be locked with the same key that fits the tire lock. The new touring sedans were designed to provide ample luggage carrying facilities for families doing extensive traveling who wish to utilize the car interior for passengers. They have proved thus far to be among the most popular Ford body types.

"MELODY CRUISE" BY LOCAL DANCE IMPRESSARIO TO BE SHOWN MAY 28

"Melody Cruise" a musical revue by the dance pupils of Miss Raye Virginia Rayford is on the feature attractions of the coming season. Being one of the most cleverly planned revues every staged by a dancing class, the entire program taking place on board ship—every moment of the entertainment filled with merriment, peppy songs and beautiful novel dance numbers, this promises to be one of the four star entertainments of the local season.

Costumes are both elaborate and clever, with new and different ones for almost every scene and number. Included in this ship's adventure, the completeness is accentuated by the appearance of even stowaways, inspiring melody and dance, even the chained together.

"Came the twilight" (as the old "movie" title read), and Miss Rayford appears in one of her very own specialties under the title "Moonlight Madonna," a very charming ballet number. "Melody Cruise" as the name implies, is a cruise thru the land of melody, rhythm, dance and certainly a worth while evening's entertainment, and with dancing students who are really going to surprise you.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Kit Carson attended a birthday celebration of Mr. Gene Grant at Pancake Sunday.

prominent persons present were taken.

Following Allred's address, the crowd went across the road from the pavilion and Allred wielded the shovel that broke ground for the clubhouse to be built at the park. As he broke the sod with the shovel, working with his coat and hat off, Mrs. A. H. Gregory of Gatesville, 88 years old, held his hat. She was given the honor of holding the governor's hat by virtue of being the oldest woman present at the celebration.

As Allred was about to take the shovel to break the ground for the house, Neff made a short introductory speech. "By virtue of the authority vested in me, which is the same authority which Balboa had when he discovered the Pacific ocean, I delegate to Gov. James V. Allred of Texas the honor of breaking ground for a clubhouse to be built on this spot," he said.

The program started before two-thirds of the people arrived at the pavilion. After Allred spoke, Neff presented Mr. and Mrs. Renna Allred of Bowie, parents of the governor, and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Phares of Austin. The Keys quadruplets of Hollis, Okla., sang a song, after which they presented President Neff with a basket of flowers in memory of his mother. The flowers were given by them on behalf of students of Baylor. Mrs. F. M. Keys, mother of the quadruplets, also was introduced.
