Relief Canning Plant Is Forced to Double Number of Employees

Mrs. Frank Kelso, who is managing the local Relief Canning Plant, says that owing to the abundant production of vegetables and berries the force of operating employees has been doubled, increasing from 20 to 40 in number.

The plant has been in operation only two weeks and ten thousand cans or containers have been finished and delivered or ready for delivery. Products are coming in so fast that the room at their disposal will not accommodate a sufficient number of helpers to prepare the vegetables fast enough for canning. Mrs. Kelso states that the cooker and canning capacity is sufficient to handle all vegetables offered but they are limited on room for workers to prepare the products as stated above. And because of this condition it has been decided to require that certain kinds of products be prepared for canning at homes before bringing them to the cannery. In this way the cannery will be better able to take care of all products without neglecting any families.

Mrs. Kelso states that the new rules that will govern the canning of products in the Gatesville Relief Canning Plant are as follows:

Green beans, Blackeyed peas and Lima beans must be snapped and shelled by the producer. Relief clients and Rural Rehabilitation clients will not be required to prepare the products unless the client has an extra large family; Corn, Beets, Carrots, Greens, Squash, Tomatoes, Okra, Pears, Peaches, Apples, Figs, Berries, Plums and other similar products will be accepted as they come from the garden. Products will be canned on a 60-40 per cent basis with the canning plant furnishing equipment, cans and labor.

APPLICATIONS MAY NOW BE RECEIVED FOR CCC

Information received here from John Frank Post, in charge of receiving applications for CCC camps is that applications will be taken from June 1 to 10.

Rules are heretofore, except the age bracket is 18 to 28. Mr. Post stated he could not say where the men would be sent or to what camps.

Typhoid Inoculation Campaign to Be Opened In Coryell by Red Cross

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Coryell County Chapter of the Red Cross here Wednesday afternoon it was decided that that organization will sponsor a county wide typhoid inoculation campaign this summer.

Plans are being formulated to care for 15,000 immunizations. The plan will be substantially the same as employed in the two former immunization campaigns conducted in this county. A nurse will probably be employed to work with local physicians in the administration of the injections.

There were about fifty cases of typhoid fever in this county last year about ten of which resulted in death. It is hoped that such a condition will not be permitted in the future.

The immunization will be administered in three shots at a very nominal cost which is designed to pay for the medicine used.

BUILDING BOOM SEEMS APPARENT HERE

Whether or not the F. H. A. has had anything to do with an unprecedented building boom here or not, remains to be seen, but at this time in the city limits, we find not less than fifteen new building projects in some state of completion.

First, of course is the construction started on the First Baptist Church, entailing an expenditure of approximately $45,000.00. A telephone exchange, being next in importance, is just starting and of the total outlay for this new addition to Gatesville's business section we have not been informed.

As an addition to one of the local wholesale grocery concerns, an equal amount of space is being added in the rear to take care of their anticipated business during the coming prosperous years.

One cleaning and pressing establishment has just added a wash room in conjunction with their business, and a complete new garage has been built by an enterprising young mechanic.

Some of the features of this building boom are double garages for a number of citizens, since prosperity is again around the corner and it is possible for some of the fortunate ones to own two automobiles.

Other things we notice, are gin repairs, new porches, houses being repainted, improvements on the City Hall, and in general all kinds of improvements and new work every where until we see no construction men of any kind idle here at this time.

For civic benefits, one of the utility companies is even extending several blocks of high line, so their service may be furnished to new customers.

Mr. H. H. Powell and Mrs. Wm. Powell were among the visitors to Waco Thursday.

Elbert Slone made a business trip to Waco Thursday.

Murray Kendrick, NBC CBS Star, in Concert At H. S. Gym Tonite

Tonight at 8:15, music lovers of the county are privileged to hear a star in the field of vocal attainments when Murray Kendrick, Lyric Tenor, presents a varied program of operatic and other music of lighter vein, including popular music. It will not be necessary to appreciate the technical operatic music to enjoy Mr. Kendrick, since in selecting his program, he has covered all the many varieties of music, including operatic, spirituals, melodies and popular music.

During his visit to Texas, Mr. Kendrick has appeared in concerts in Sherman, Dallas, Waxahachie, San Marcos, Austin and San Antonio. Mr. Kendrick returned just this week from the last three named cities where he has been making preliminary arrangements for bookings for the fall concert season.

He has been chosen as an artist for Ed Wynn's Texaco (Continued on last page)

Rev. Ward, Formerly Methodist Pastor, Given An Honorary Degree

Reverend W. W. Ward, former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Gatesville, received an honorary degree given by Southwestern University, Georgetown, at the graduation exercises there this week. Bro. Ward is now pastor of a Waco Methodist Church. He has long been prominent in Southern Methodist circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Leake Ayres attended the exercises at Southwestern and the ceremony in which Brother Ward received the degree.

MINK MIGRATES ON MILL MIMICING MILADY'S MODES

Rather out of season, but spry nevertheless, was the small animal closely resembling a weasel, rat or gopher, except for his fur with its fine texture, and of midnight blue, which Guthrie Campbell was showing on the streets yesterday morning.

This little beast was one of the kind women like to wear around their necks, and of which, it takes a number to make a very expensive fur coat—a mink.

He was roaming at large on Mill Branch when Mr. Campbell ran across him, and according to Mr. Campbell, reports are that several more were seen around some of the barns in that region during the recent high water.

His diet seems to consist of raw meat, something akin to breakfast bacon and believe it or not, this little cold weather animal drinks his water hard, believing in ice.

Soil Erosion Camp has been finally approved for Coryell County and local business men are planning to carry a large delegation of Coryell County farmers to Demonstration Area at Lindale on Friday, June 7. The delegation will leave at six o'clock A. M. and inspect the Demonstration Area and return that night. Farmers desiring to make the trip will please turn their name in to their local Cotton Committeemen or County Agent.

Mr. E. T. Nagle, State Administrator for the Soil Erosion Camps of Texas, has approved the Fair Ground

Deadline on Bankhead Applications June 5 To Be Sent to Bryan

All applications for Tax-Exemption Certificates must be completed by June 5th.

It is hoped that no one will fail to get their application in and properly signed and thereby fail to get Tax-Exemption Certificates. It is thought that by sending the Bankhead Applications to College Station by Wednesday, June 5th, that Tax-Exemption certificates will be received before the time of ginning this year.

All producers who have been notified to give additional information or to come in correct and sign the Bankhead application or the new 1935 Cotton Reduction Contract are urged to attend to this very important matter immediately so that the checks for the new cotton contracts will not be held up and so that all the new contracts and the Bankhead Applications for Tax-Exemption Tags may be completed and checks received without delay.

1934 Surplus Certificates Producers who have 1934 Tax-Exemption Certificates on hand should bring them to the county agent's office and apply for replacement with 1935 Tax-Exemption Certificates. This should be attended to at once.

We'll have to congratulate Elsworth Hinesley and Mary Ayres as they are now voyaging the sea of matrimony. Messrs. Osborne Apple and Dr. John A. Phillips, two of the men here inspecting cattle, seem to be very pleasant. Johnnie Bradford looked right well steppin' out in the morning sunshine yesterday. Mrs. Jim Martin drops in to see us, and states she is well pleased with her new location. We've also heard of a new first edition by four people entitled "Out All Night." The authors names may be had on request at this office. Wm. Wiegand has found a good place to hoard gold. From what we can gather, he has a $25 tooth in his "tummy," and has been trying to locate it by xray. Mrs. K. Kimbell of Fort Worth was a pleasant Gatesville visitor this week.

C. W. Ford was a business visitor to Waco Thursday.

site for the location of a Soil Erosion Camp for Coryell County. Mr. Nagle met with the local committee yesterday morning and outlined to the local committee the work that this camp proposed to do in Coryell County.

This work includes a 5 year program of crop production together with soil conservation which will be outlined by Crop Production and Soil Erosion Experts.

This service offered the farmers of this county includes a complete map or outline of his farm and pastures, classification of soil, location, and rotation of crops, terracing of the farms, the construction of spill ways and drainage ditches which the farmer agrees to cooperate.

The Commissioners Court will cooperate with the farmers and Soil Erosion Camp in furnishing machinery for the construction of terraces at the lowest possible cost to the farmer.

Mr. Nagle is very anxious for a large delegation of farmers to visit the Demonstration Area located at Lindale, Texas, which was constructed some months ago and which now has growing crops as evidence of the practicability of the service offered. A local committee has designated Friday, June 7 at the day for Coryell County farmers to visit this Demonstration Area so they may have first hand information of the work contemplated in this county. A large delegation of farmers and business men will leave Gatesville at 6 o'clock on the morning of Friday, June 7, and will be shown this Demonstration Area and brought back to Gatesville that night. The local business men of Gatesville are co-operating in this and will furnish necessary cars for the delegation.

It is hoped that a hundred or more farmers will make this trip and see for themselves the practical benefits to be derived from the Soil Erosion Camp, which will be located in Coryell County.

The local Cotton Committeemen of Coryell County will meet Saturday, June 1st, and through Mr. Sherrill will arrange to sign farmers from their respective communities to make this trip and at the same time the local committee will be making arrangements for necessary cars or buses for their transportation.

Mr. Nagle reports delegations from 100 to 150 farmers and business men have come from various communities over Texas to inspect the Demonstration Area located at Lindale and reports that in all communities where the people have seen

WHAT WILL BE THE OUTCOME?

The Supreme Court's decision last Monday killed certain phases, the key points, of the N. R. A. which in effect makes necessary a revision of many plans if the intents of the New Deal are to be carried further.

The dominating principles underlying the court's decision are that the Union has limited powers, that the States have certain powers not delegated to the Federal Government, and that it is unconstitutional for the Federal Government to try to regulate hours and wages that affect business strictly within the boundary of the several states.

An editorial in Wednesday's Dallas News states the situation as clearly as anything we have seen on the subject. It follows:

"Doubtless the court has rather completely upset many of the aims of the new deal policy of the President and for the time confusion will prevail in Federal circles. Yet in the long run, it will be seen that the court is right. If the United States has a Constitution, it is the law of the land until altered by definite legal action. Action contrary to law is revolutionary, justifiable only when the safety of the Nation is seriously endangered.

"The decisions of the court are not the personal opinions of nine aged jurists. They are the matured judgment of the Nation itself, which desires to hold to a federative form of government in which the States have constitutional rights that the Federal Government may not usurp.

"But the States now have placed on them the responsibility of seeing to it that the aims and ideals of the new deal, in intrastate matters, are maintained. Essentially, President Roosevelt's plans call for a national life of higher social standards. These must now be advanced by the States themselves. If they prove to be backward, and incompetent to perform their obligations, then radical changes in the Constitution will become inevitable. But the Constitution, if changed, should preferably be changed in accordance with law, not through a revolution of a fascist or socialist sort, or through interpretations that too widely stretch the limited police powers of the Federal Government."

As to what may happen and what will be the immediate effect on the nation by abolishing the code section of the N. R. A. are questions most anxiously discussed at present. The general trend of industry and big business is to sit steady, continue to observe their codes and fair competition until some workable substitute can be adopted. Whatever changes take place it should be done in a gradually slow manner, is the opinion in most sections of the country.

CAN'T ALWAYS BAIL OUT

A story which recently appeared in a popular weekly magazine contains a between-the-lines moral.

The hero of the story is a test pilot for an airplane company, who attempts a power dive from ten thousand feet. Half way to earth, the plane begins to go to pieces. At that instant, with death literally grinning at him, the pilot remembers that his life insurance is to expire in a few hours and that he has forgotten to mail in his premium. He is one of the fortunate pilots who obtained a policy before taking up flying. The author saves the situation, however, by making his hero "bail out," land safely and have his premium in the mail, postmarked before the dead line.

The moral to the story is, Don't run the risk of leaving personal affairs that have to do with the welfare or protection of your family, in disorder or unattended to. There is no "author" to protect the everyday man in real life. And seldom is there time, in case of accident, to "bail out" and run for the mail box.

WAR COSTS AIR PROGRESS NRA DECISION

November 11, 1918, the Armistice was signed. The twentieth birthday of the Armistice will be celebrated in 1938. By 1938, according to present indications, the government will have paid to the veterans a sum greater than its entire share of the World War.

Those who count on Father Time to lighten the burden will be somewhat shaken by the following facts: Every month six checks go out to the dependents of those who fought in 1812, 325 checks go out to the dependents of soldiers in the Mexican War, 8,948 checks to the veterans and dependents of the Indian Wars, 125,264 to the dependents of the Civil War (on the seventieth anniversary of its armistice), and 226,463 to veterans and dependents of the Spanish-American War.

So that our own descendants (or dependents) are not likely to put the last of the World War checks in the mail box until the year 2058.

AMERICA has made more progress in the air since 1920 than any other world power although we entered the World War—that started the forward march of travel by air—almost four years later than did the European powers. Although numerically third in air strength in the world, the air fleet of Uncle Sam is powerful enough to drive off any attacks from a foreign power.

But it is in commercial flying that the great advance has been made. Air lines flew 24,135,055 passenger-miles in March to reach the highest level ever recorded by the Bureau of Air Commerce. In that single month planes carried 51,694 passengers a total of 4,007,592 miles—and with few fatalities. Last year air lines flew 1,859,031 passengers over the 27,988 miles of air routes in the United States, with a daily average of 138,746 scheduled flying miles.

Speed, too, is increasing; records are tumbling almost daily. In the first test load flights last month, a new Douglas air line broke or set eight world's records and nine American records, averaging more than 190 miles per hour in most tests. The regular scheduled flying time from New York to Los Angeles has shrunk in six years from forty-eight to sixteen and one-half hours. Recently a standard transport plane flew the distance (2,612 miles) in eleven hours, and forward-looking air line managers are already planning seven-hour service.

Only the lack of bad-weather landing equipment keeps air transport from being as dependable as other forms of travel. With the new blind-approach equipment, consisting of radio and chains of lights, which will be in use next Fall, that last serious handicap should be minimized. Then America's air transport will roar to even greater heights of speed, safety and comfort.

Monday the United States Supreme Court delivered one of the most important decisions in its history when it held that the law creating the NRA was unconstitutional. The high court, voting unanimously, canceled the 557 code agreements for two specific reasons. First, it held that Congress had given too much authority to the President. Congress created the law, but, in the opinion of the court, granted the President too wide discretionary powers in enforcing it. Second, the court held that code provisions went too far in regulating transactions not directly affecting interstate commerce. Congress has no authority to regulate intrastate transactions. Justice Charles E. Hughes, who delivered the decision, declared, and therefore was exceeding the limits of its authority when it granted the NRA the right to limit intrastate trade.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House was prepared to put a bill before that body extending the life of the NRA for two years in much its old form but immediately adjourned when the Supreme Court delivered its decision.

Hansford county has gone in for concrete subirrigation tile in a big way this spring. Through an agreement with relief agencies labor has been furnished from the relief rolls for making and installing the tile while the farmers have furnished the cement and sand and have agreed to pay one-fourth of the produce from the subirrigated garden for the year 1935. In this way 30,000 feet of tile have been put down.

Twenty other gardens using 12,000 feet of tile, have been subirrigated by farmers in this county working independently, making a total of 32,000 feet of tile which will subirrigate Hansford county gardens, according to G. Lester Boykin, agricultural agent for the county.

Hemphill county tried out lath subirrigated gardens a few years ago finding them satisfactory but not very durable. Last year County Agricultural Agent H. M. Cantrell supervised the installation of tiled relief gardens which proved very successful. This year 16,000 feet of concrete tile have already been made and laid in the county.

Nearly five miles of concrete tile have been made and laid by relief workers in Ochiltree county this spring, according to the report of J. T. Stovall, county agricultural agent. The exact amount are 25,957 feet. The tile has been furnished in such quantities as actual material plus a fourth toll of the garden crops which are produced on the subirrigated land. The material cost has been approximately one and one-fourth cents per foot.

CLARKSVILLE—from four and one-half to six tons of alfalfa per acre have been harvested by Martin Stiles of Annona in Red River county who has twenty-one acres in alfalfa, according to C. M. Knight, county agricultural agent. The lowest price paid for alfalfa hay according to the county agent, is $20 per ton.

"This new feed crop almost eliminates the need of corn and other grain crops that are selling at such high prices. It permits to sell a few bushels of corn that I would otherwise have to feed to my livestock in order to finish spring farming operations," Stiles says.

CALDWELL—A net profit of $31.15 for the month of April from her flock of 183 hens is reported by Mrs. Walter Duewall of Burleson county, according to G. G. King, county agricultural agent. Mrs. Duewall says that her hens laid 3756 eggs, or 313 dozen, which sold for $58.70. In addition, she sold three chickens for $1.50, bringing her total receipts to $60.20. She bought 1100 pounds of mash which cost $20.45, and 400 pounds of grain which cost $8.60, making a total expense of $29.05.

MARSHALL—One hundred acres seeded with bermuda and lespedeza in March 1934 on the farm of Web Rogers of Harrison county is furnishing excellent grazing for 75 dairy cows, according to G. M. Morris, county agricultural agent. Mr. Rogers thought that the dry weather in the summer of 1934 would cause the grass and clover to die out, but it is up to a good stand.

Fifteen acres of pasture land contoured in March 1935 by U. C. Lowry of Harrison county is also coming along fine. Lowry thinks the contours will help his upland pastures a great deal according to the county agent. The 1100 acre pasture of the Peterson brothers which was cleared and brushed during 1933, with 5 acres seeded to white Dutch clover, black medic, Dallis grass, carpet grass, Bermuda grass and lespedeza, is also furnishing excellent pasture.

KERRVILLE—$48 dollars was made recently by the Kerrville Home Demonstration Club at a sales day at which aprons, children's clothing, quilts and pillow protectors, home made bread, cakes, pies, jelly, native ferns and cacti were among the articles sold. All home demonstration clubs in the county contributed and co-operated in the sales and proceeds were turned over to the county home demonstration council to help fill the budget of $162.25 for the year.

Another sales day will be held June 22, in connection with the wardrobe achievement day, according to Miss Frances Wilrey, Kerr county home demonstration agent. Each club will sponsor one event until the full amount called for in the budget has been raised.

PLAINVIEW—"It's easy to make rugs from the threads of burlap sacks," says Mrs. O. E. Faver of the Stoneback Home Demonstration Club, according to Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Hale agent you pull three threads, twist them, and thread your needle. That's much quicker than cutting one-fourth inch strips of material to use. Good burlap sacks are plentiful and easy to dye. They do not drink the dye as woolen materials do, so this makes them cheaper."

Mrs. Faver has sent some of her burlap hooked rugs to the extension specialist in home industries for standardization.

NACOGDOCHES—A Mattress cover of heavy material which will fasten at one end with snaps so that it may be removed and washed is being made by Zela Mae Johnson, Nacogdoches county bedroom improvement demonstrator, for her new 50 pound home made mattress, according to Miss Norma Stokes, home demonstration agent. The mattress was made at a demonstration at Zela Mae's home supervised by Miss Stokes.

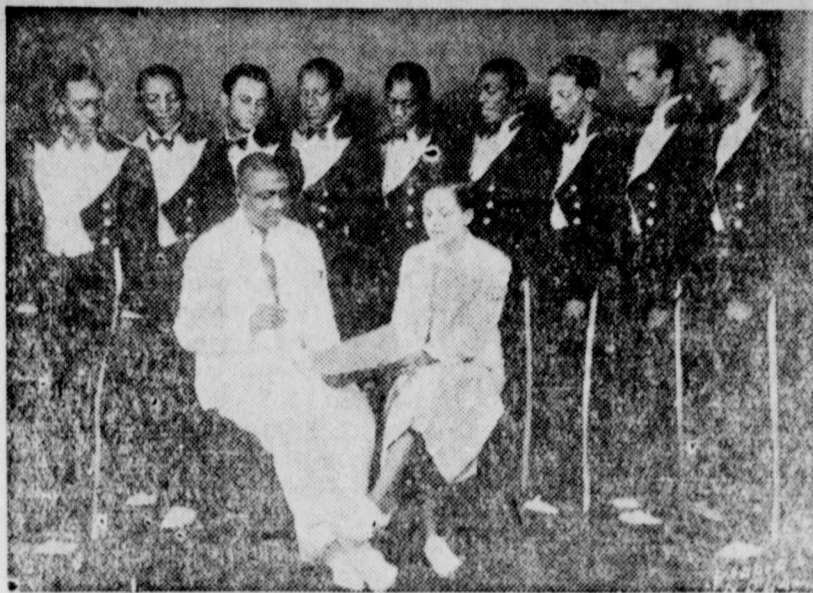

In taking care of the mattress Zela Mae expects to sun and beat it every sunny day for three weeks. After she begins using the mattress she will turn it each day when she makes her bed and sun and beat it every week when possible.

People in England had never seen or heard of umbrellas until after 1700. A much traveled man named Jonas Hanway came home from the East with a large gay-colored umbrella. Caring not for what the people thought of him, on rainy days he walked about the streets of London with his big umbrella. At first crowds followed him, hooting and jeering and thinking him a great crank. But they couldn't help seeing that he kept dry while they got wet. Others followed his example and the umbrella became popular.

AWAITED 2 YEARS 1935 GOLD DIGGERS BOOKED BY REGAL

It has been two years in the making, but if advance reports prove true the First National picture "Gold Diggers of 1935," which Manager Brown has booked for the Regal Theatre on Saturday night at 10:30, also showing Sunday and Monday, was well worth waiting for.

First National, always famed for magnificent musical spectacles, has outdone itself in this picture, which marks the advent of Busby Berkeley as the director of a complete production.

Berkeley, it is claimed, has taken a funny, clever story, gathered together a cast of film favorites that includes ten of Warner Bros.' outstanding stars, and, with the assistance of more than 300 of the prettiest dancing girls in Hollywood, has assembled the whole into a tuneful comedy in which his talent for spectacular screen innovations has been given full sway.

The director was the musical comedy genius responsible for the spectacles in "42nd Street," "Wonder Bar," "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Footlight Parade" and other musicals.

In "Gold Diggers of 1935" he is said to have created the most gorgeous and unique dance numbers of his career. There are three outstanding specialties including a dance in which 90 snow white grand pianos actually cavort on the stage. The dance team of Ramon and Rosita is also featured.

In the cast are Dick Powell, Adolphe Menjou, Gloria Stuart, Alice Brady, Glenda Farrell, Frank McHugh, Hugh Herbert, Joseph Cawthorn, Grant Mitchell, Dorothy Dare and Winifred Shaw.

The story is by Robert Lord and Peter Milne. It is a catchy romance with a fashionable summer hotel as the setting. A wealthy widow, who is essentially penurious, is the target of the gold digging propensities of a trio of schemers.

Softball players and fans as well are showing considerable interest in the league. From what we can gather, the Bachelors are having a hard time finding a Manager, and some are threatening to withdraw from the team. You've heard it being a shame that a certain thing had to happen, but if this team disbands, are withdrawn from the league, it will be a shame indeed. The Round Table club opened the season with more and better material than any team in the league with the exception of the Firemen, and they were about evenly matched. Manager Franks has done his part in trying to keep the team together, but hasn't obtained the necessary co-operation from the organization the team represents. The Executive Committee, Managers, and everyone to whom the team is of interest are requested to do what they can in keeping the team in the league.

Tuesday the Firemen downed the Oilers 12-2. We'll have to hand it to the Oilers; they can take a defeat, and they continue to be out for every game.

In the second game the Bachelors forfeited to the Independent crew, and lost 9-0.

Wednesday night the Oilers lost to the Firemen 10-3. Carter Ray managed to get two home runs off of Blanton to put himself near the top in knocking home runs. Wiggins, Oiler first baseman, is in the lead on home runs, making approximately seven this season. Blanton was off Wednesday night, and the Firemen took advantage of him to knock the pill over the lot. The Oilers didn't have much trouble hitting Carter Ray, but when they did connect with one, a Firemen managed to wake up with the ball in his hands.

In the second game the Bachelors forfeited to the Independent team, which made four forfeited games.

The County Baseball League is also creating more interest, we hear remarks commending the "big shots" in the organization every day.

Saturday we find the State pitted against the strong Turnersville team. The game is to be played at Turnersville. Ireland vs. Jonesboro at Jonesboro. Pidcock takes on the Plainview aggregation at Plainview.

Sunday there are three good games slated. Liberty vs. Purmela at Purmela, which could prove to be either teams game. Levita is to play Mound at Mound. It looks as if Levita will come home with the little end of the score. Hubbard is to play Osage at Osage. This might prove to be either teams game, with Hubbard our choice.

---Are Ancient History!

It's a fact—and it's high time we men faced it.

Taken by-and-large, there isn't a more generally intelligent, wholesomely interested,* ACCURATELY INFORMED group of people in the world than the modern American housewives.

Even there, we do them an injustice. They've made "housewives" as antique as an antimacassar (whatever THAT was!) and we have to admit "homemakers" expresses what they REALLY are a lot better.

Men who understand women of today (commercially, at any rate) will tell you this: "feminine intuition" went by the boards with the rest of the old-fangled ideas.

Today, the woman with a top-ranking as Homemaker is a clever budgeteer. She reads the Coryell County News and believes what she finds there—and, what's more, follows its information when she sets out to buy!

Hop, skip and jump!
Let's see who will beat.
For mother has promised
A marshmallow treat.

ECONOMY BUYING

I WISH I had kept count of the exact number of times homemakers have protested, in response to my enthusiasm for marshmallows in cookery. "But you have to waste so many! You can't possibly use more than half a package at a time, and the rest are all dried up before you want to use them again. It's too much of an extravagance for me!" Now campfire marshmallows have furnished the perfect retort to that remark: the triple sealed economy package.

When you buy a pound package of marshmallows nowadays, you really buy four separate pack-ettes of a quarter-pound each. Each one has its own sealed waxed-paper overcoat to keep its contents fresh and tender until you are ready to open and use it; and each contains just sixteen plump, luscious marshmallows. If your recipe calls for less than the whole sixteen in any pack-ette, it is highly improbable that the children and men in your family will allow the remainder to go to waste!

When considering the cost of marshmallows, don't forget that their use need not be confined to one dish, or even to half a dozen. If you have used them in your favorite pudding today, you need not wait to use them again until you are ready to repeat the same pudding. Salads, sweet potatoes, candies, cakes, hot beverages, and above all home-made ice creams, all cry out for marshmallows, whether to add new flavor and texture, to extend the quantity, or to substitute for sugar.

And if you have children coming home hungry from school every afternoon, remember that a marshmallow or two is a light, wholesome, quickly digested source of the quick energy they need. Keep a supply always on your pantry shelf.

IRATE SUBSCRIBER AIRS HIS IRRITATION

(Editors Note: The feeling of this subscriber on realizing that his subscription had expired and his reaction after recovering from the shock is probably a common human characteristic and for that reason we are publishing his letter.)

Say, what the heck do you mean by stopping my paper? Of course I don't care a damned thing about it myself, but I hate for a darned editor to go and stop my paper just because I got a few years behind on my subscription.

What the heck does an editor think he is any way; does he think he is as good as other folks, and a right to be paid just for setting around writing a few new items, such as telling who is sick, who has died and who got married since the last issue, and who is visiting who, who had a party, who has a new boy or girl, and a few other such items of local interest, and just writing a few items about what is happening in other places. Of course I know he sometimes gets in a tight and has to work at night to get his paper out on time.

By golly, you can just let it stay stopped; it aint worth reading any how. And another thing it was causing a whole lot of trouble between me and my wife, because every time the paper came, she would manage to get hold of it first, and no matter how anxious I was to see what the news was, she hung to it until she read the whole blamed thing through. She would start in on the society, then turn to the general news, then she wanted to see what was happening everywhere else in the state and nation. Then she would turn to the advertisements and always read everyone of them, and finally I would give up all hopes of getting to read it before night and go on to work, and then at night when I would settle down for an hour or so of enjoyment reading my home town paper, I would find she had cut something out just where I was extremely interested in reading, and the only satisfaction I would get out of her would be "Why I just found the best recipe in there and I knew you spent an hour reading that paper this morning while I was cooking breakfast and I supposed you were through with it." Now women aint got any more reason than editors. Of course I really enjoyed reading the news in the paper very much, and like my wife (when I get a chance to do so) I generally read the whole thing through, and found it both interesting and helpful to me.

Well I guess you had better just send that paper on, because it is a pretty good paper after all and I do get a great deal of pleasure reading it, and another thing, I don't want to have any more trouble with my wife, and I just know if I let the paper stop I will.

DUSTING COVERS — OF — TEXAS HISTORY

A feverish Secretary of State left his office with cheeks hot and a heavy head. Stephen F. Austin was ill. The December norther seemed to cut through his entire body. He pulled his coat about him tighter and tried to steady his shaking legs. When he reached his two-room clapboard shack, he threw himself down on the pallet, only to have delirious dreams in chills and fever. Incidents of former years ran through his head, over and over again he could hear the accusations made against him at the last election.

Austin's already weak body could not throw off the disease and on Dec. 27, 1836, he died. His last words were for Texas: "Texas recognized," he said "Archer told me. Did you see it in the papers?" After a lifetime of thinking and living for his State, he was interested to the very last in its affairs.

Silent, respectful crowds watched the steamer "Yellowstone" carry the body of their beloved master and friend down to Peach Point on the Brazos, where his sister, Mrs. James Perry, lived. There he was buried with military honors, with Houston and his cabinet, and all officers of the army and navy paying respects to him. From all over the Republic people came, saddened that Stephen F. Austin was to be with them no longer.

Only forty-three years old, Austin had lived his life to the fullest. He had never married, and was rather a lonely man. It is said that he had a site selected on the Colorado where some day he would build a beautiful home for a wife, and live in contentment and peace the rest of his days, watching the development of a State through other hands. He gave every minute of his time for fifteen years to Texas, however, and he died before he had time to live for himself.

The father of Texas has been repaid a thousand times with love and honor from citizens of his State. In memory of his untiring efforts, the Centennial celebrations will be held in 1936. Austin's name has come to mean more and more each year and in praise of the Republic which he so nobly began, one hundred years of progress will be dedicated to him in 1936.

Farm Population of U. S. Shows Increase

Continuing the steady increase of the last five years, the farm population of the United States showed a net gain of 270,000 during 1934 to reach an all-time high of 32,779,000 persons on Jan. 1, 1935 according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Texas farm population figures are not reported but West South Central States (including Texas) show a 1 per cent gain, one of the largest for any region. This State's rural population very probably has increased appreciably since 1930, unless the cityward movement of recent months has offset increases during the previous three or four year period.

The 2,610,000 net increase in the American farm population since Jan. 1, 1930, is a depression phenomenon of significance to a Nation apparently pledged to a program of acreage and agricultural curtailment. Migration to farms during the last two years has ceased to exceed the movement to the city, but the farm population with its high birth rate, continues to set new records while farm productivity reaches the lowest levels in recent years.

FARMER TREK IS DEFENDED BY WALLACE

Washington, May 24.—A defense of the farmers' trek to Washington was made today by Secretary Wallace, simultaneous with a tossing on both sides of the senate chamber of new charges that both the farmer and merchant "marches" were staged in an attempt to coerce congress into passing AAA and NRA legislation.

Denying assertions by Senator Hastings (R., Del.) that the agriculture department or the AAA encouraged or financed the recent farmers' capital invasion, Wallace declared that other groups had descended previously on Washington to influence legislation and that "surely the farmers have the same right."

CAMERA PERCHED 168 FEET HIGH ON FAMOUS BEACON

The highest camera set-up ever attempted for a motion picture of aerial maneuvers provides startling thrills in "West Point of the Air," drama or army aviation which comes Saturday night at 10:30, also Sunday and Monday at the Palace Theatre. The new picture was filmed at Randolph Field, Texas, by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Perched 168 feet in the air on top of Randolph tower, famous 4,000,000 candlepower beacon that can be seen by planes for thirty miles, a Hollywood camera crew pointed their lenses to the sky.

Among the many startling aerial formations photographed from the precarious "set-up" were a training formation of one hundred ships in the letters "U. S. A." Dozens of V. or "chevrons" formations and other air achievements roared past the dizzy camera height.

Bombers in flight, squadrons of student planes "taking off" for training flights, and other phases of flying instruction were captured by the cameras in thrilling closeups.

The camera staff was headed by Clyde De Vinna, MGM's famous "globe-trotter" who has made pictures in Africa, the Arctic, the South Seas and 5:30 o'clock other distant locales.
