G. J. MORRIS PASSES AWAY

Gilford J. Morris, a well known resident of Gatesville, died suddenly of a heart attack on Thursday, August 8, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon, August 9, at five o'clock at the First Baptist Church in Oglesby with Rev. W. D. Boswell, pastor of the North Waco Baptist Church, conducting the services. Rev. Boswell, who has been a friend of the family for a number of years, married Mr. and Mrs. Morris and also conducted the funeral rites at the funeral of both Mr. Morris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Morris. He was assisted by Rev. V. F. Lemons, pastor at the State Training School and Rev. C. A. Morton, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Gatesville. Mr. Morris has been a faithful and loyal member of the Baptist Church since 1924.

Mr. Morris was born in Milam county July 29, 1872. At the age of sixteen he left his home and drove cattle up the Old Chism trail to the north where he remained for several years. After returning to Texas he was married to Miss Minnie Anderson in August of 1908. Shortly after their marriage they moved to North Dakota where they made their home for seventeen years. In 1925 they returned to Texas and lived with his mother, who was in poor health. After her death in 1927, they moved to Gatesville where Mr. Morris has been connected with the State Training School for the past eight years.

Mr. Morris was a man who rightly maintained that there is a fundamental difference between right and wrong. Right, with him, was eternal and wrong might flourish for a season, but it soon withered and died. Right had the ages while wrong had the minutes. He was a man who placed honor, loyalty, fidelity, love and friendship above price. He was honorable in his dealings, loyal to his friends, faithful in his devotion to his God, constant in his love of friends and family and generous to the faults of humanity in general.

In his passing Coryell County has lost a good citizen, Texas has lost a devoted son and his family and friends a staunch comrade and companion.

He is survived by four brothers, H. W. of Hamilton, E. B. of Waxahachie, A. E. of McGregor and F. A. of Oglesby, and by three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Alexander of Temple, Mrs. Fayte Allison of Oglesby, and Mrs. Julia Burleson of Los Angeles.

Active pall bearers were W. R. Hazlewood, Arthur McMordie, Dave Culbertson, R. C. Edwards, George King, W. A. Graham and Honorary pall bearers were W. T. Graves, C. H. McGilray, N. E. Foster, Dr. T. M. Hall, Dr. O. G. Gilder, John B. Reasing, M. B. Martin, Roy Roach, Rufus Burleson, Lewis King, J. H. McClellan, Raby Richardson, Charlie Coleman, E. B. McMordie and E. H. Nesbitt.

JOHNSON CASE JUST OPEN IN DISTRICT COURT HERE

Starting Monday morning, one of the most important cases this session of District Court is the Johnson Case, and at the time of going to press, the jury was still in process of being selected; six of them having been sworn in.

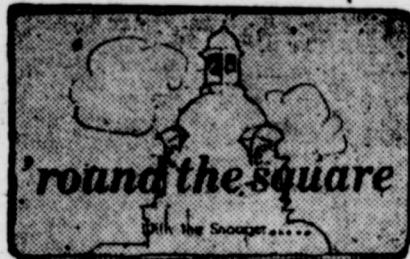

Considerable state interest has been manifested since the different press services have been inquiring regularly as to the progress being made. Another feature of the case is the fact that Maury Hughes, prominent attorney of Dallas, and candidate for Governor in the last gubernatorial campaign is the main counsel for the defense. Assisting Mr. Hughes is Tom Mears and Harry Flentge of Gatesville.

BEWLEY'S CHUCK WAGON GANG HERE THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Bewley's Chuck Wagon Gang, representatives of Bewley Mill & Elevator Company, made personal appearances in Gatesville Thursday and Friday of last week, at McClellan Brother's Grocery.

Kernel Wheat and the gang made merry, singing and playing request after request for the "customers," who requested and requested.

This "Gang" is one of the feature attractions over WBAP, KRPC and WOAL, and is well known by everyone here.

Being the time of year when so many fish are caught, and so many stories are told, one hardly knows what to believe until he sees, however, Dillard Ramsey tells us he has caught a 12 lb. as well as a 15 lb. yellow cat out of the Cow House; also W. G. Walley tells us about eating fish, however, a friend caught them for him. We were in a "group discussion" Sunday which included Herschel Sadler; he was extremely interesting to talk with. On these hot days local folk may be seen most anywhere looking for a place around "40 below," but we noticed "Uncle" Billy Sadler, Price Graves, Frank Mayhew and Harvey Sadler in a "game" in Raby Park, a "42" game of course. Harold Cunyus inquires as to what went with this column, and we inquire as to a coming attraction. Spectators looked on with much interest as Mason Crawford and Oley Beard participated in a friendly scuffle the other evening; we'll wager the boys were a little "sore" the next morning after their first work-out in several years.

Strangers and old friends were glad to renew acquaintance with W. J. Thompson, G. W. Boriack, Curtis Ritchie, Leonard Meeks, B. C. Patton, Mrs. W. F. Gilmore, Luther Hayes, S. D. McSch, T. Robinson, Tom Yows, and W. J. Campbell, all of them having something interesting to tell us.

PRISON BOARD PLAN

The Texas Prison Board approves a comprehensive plan for segregating inmates of the system according to opportunity for reform. If successful, it will be cheap at the price of $165,000, which the Texas Legislature will be asked to provide.

High points in the proposal involve trained psychiatry, prisoner classification on reception, a probation school at the central prison at Huntsville, use of the Eastham farm in Houston County for incorrigibles only and of another unit for prisoners showing a demeanor justifying return to society. The Texas prison system has already made long strides in health classification and treatment and continuous employment.

A large part of the appropriation sought is to go to industrial equipment. Probably the need for up-to-date structures less attractive as escape centers than the present farm buildings will remain a problem of the ordinary budget.

The proposed plan deserves encouragement. It must not be expected to work wonders. A single trained psychiatrist and one psychologist will have difficulty solving the mental and psychological problems of 6,000 prisoners. The best of probationary and parole plans proving orderly return to prisoners to society are hampered by the attitude of society itself. The important thing is that Texas is planning constructively to deal with a problem unsolved through the centuries but capable of solution when society puts its mind to it.—Dallas News.

GERMANY PUTS ON SCREWS

European observers who can spare time from the Italian-Ethiopian trouble, are casting cynical glances on Germany these days.

Another Hitler "purge" is underway—bloodless as yet, though many fear blood-letting will soon start.

Objects of persecution are, of course, the Jews. And along with them are the Catholics, clergymen of all denominations, and members of the Stahlheim—the German equivalent of the American Legion. Reason for the attack on the veterans is that they contain "reactionaries"—in other words, men who are opposed to the Hitler dictatorship.

Stricter censorship prevails in Germany. Individual liberties are further proscribed. Concentration camps are jammed. Hitler's sword again hangs above those Germans who think him less than divine.

McDONALD EXONERATED. FLY TO CHINA. RHODE ISLAND MUSINGS. ROOSEVELT TO THE SOUTH.
J. E. McDONALD, State Commissioner of Agriculture, has been exonerated of all charges of graft and corruption in office by a special legislative investigating committee. The vote was 4 to 1 that the House of Representatives has nothing to justify impeachment charges.

McDonald is serving his third term as Agriculture Commissioner and has the respect and confidence of all Texans. It is indeed good news that all charges against him have been dropped.

PAN-AMERICAN'S giant clipper plane is now on its way to Wake Island in the mid-Pacific. Wake is 1,191 miles from Midway Island and 5,000 miles from the Clipper's home base at Alameda, Cal. This is the third trip Pan-American's ship has made to its new bases. The first was made from California to Hawaii, first stop; second to Midway from Alameda with a stop at Hawaii and now the third base will be reached.

By December regular air mail and passenger traffic with the Orient will be established. Several more huge seaplanes are in the course of construction and will be ready for service. Stops en route to China will be made at Hawaii, Midway, Wake, Guam, the Philippines, and thence to Canton or Shanghai.

The Clippers have every aeronautical safety device for flying blind, fleeing in case of accident, extinguishing fires, radio control with the land, and other instruments that should make crew and passengers confident while cruising over the waters of the Pacific.

DEMOCRATIC leaders are not as discouraged as some might think by the Republican victory in a Rhode Island Congressional election last week, Washington reports. It is true that the Republican candidate beat his Democratic opponent by 13,000 votes and that there was a turnover of over 35,000 votes from 1934 when a Democrat won by 21,000. Democratic National Hdqs. say, but there is no indication that R. I. is voicing the opinion of the Nation in repudiating a New Deal Democrat for Republican.

Behind it all are the much-debated processing taxes. Rhode Island, like all New England, feels the pinch of the processing tax compelling manufacturers to pay for the privilege of changing cotton into cloth. Also, New England feels the pinch of cotton importations from Japan, with more than 30,000,000 square yards of cotton cloth, which means idle spindles and idle men and women in New England. The Rhode Islanders vent their wrath against the Administration by voting down its candidate while farther west farmers cheer the processing taxes.

Despite the "reason" for the G. O. P. victory in Rhode Island, the election suggests that the New Deal must bind the agricultural south and west securely next year to withstand possible trouble in the north and east. Ex-Gov. Ely of Massachusetts says that state is lost to the Democrats, and he doubts that any New England state will vote for the President. Sen. Copeland insists that New York will fall into the Republican column. Pennsylvania seems to be drifting over to the Republicans again despite Mr. Farley's wooing. Sen. Tydings in talks with Democratic leaders offers no hope of saving Maryland next year and Sen. Neely says the same of West Virginia. Sen. Moore doesn't give the President a chance in New Jersey, and Delaware went for Herbert Hoover in the 1932 landslide.

This Democratic estimate exceeds the expectations of the most enthusiastic Republicans. It is not as authentic as you might surmise for most of these Democrats are anti-Roosevelt at heart. Other Democrats laugh off their prophecies but Democratic headquarters do not laugh off this bad news.

To five Republican senators from eastern states the G. O. P. victory in Rhode Island was cheery indeed. The five are: Barbour, New Jersey; Hastings, Delaware; Keyes, New Hampshire; Metcalfe, Rhode Island, and White, Maine. Last year New Jersey's Democratic Governor, Harry Moore, walked off with the political scalp of G. O. P. Senator Hamilton Keon. Democrats will be out on another raid in 1936, gunning for Barbour, Delaware re-elected Republican Sen. John Townsend in 1934 but Farley means to "get" Hastings next year. Veteran Senator Moses was defeated in 1932 by a Democrat and Keyes is next on the list for the Dems. Felix Hebert, Republican, was not returned to the Senate last year from Rhode Island, being replaced by a former Democratic Senator. In Maine last year, Farley went scalp-netting again and missed by 1,200 votes of bringing home as a trophy G. O. P. Senator Frederick Hale. Not Denton—Four thousand four hundred pounds of Irish potatoes were raised on one-fourth acre of land by R. R. Goode of Corinth in Denton county this year, according to Mrs. Edna W. Trigg, home demonstration agent. The quarter acre was used as a garden in 1934 and was fertilized with barnyard manure. This year the barnyard fertilizer was applied early and the land was listed before the potatoes were planted.

The land was too dry to plow the potatoes, so they were harrowed. After it began raining, it was too wet to plow until the plants were too large to plow. The only cultivation the potatoes received after they were harrowed was with a hoe. They were hoed twice.

A new and important development in the Italian-Ethiopian dispute that may lead to a peaceful settlement is Emperor Haile Selassie's willingness to cede part of his domain to Italy in exchange for an outlet to the sea and financial assistance. The Ethiopian Emperor, in an interview with a French correspondent, emphasized that he did not wish the independence of his country to be touched. "Our Government always has wanted to obtain loans for development of the country and for speeding up works of civilization," he said, and added, "but another means of aiding the economic development of the country is to obtain a part for Ethiopia."

A short time ago Great Britain offered to cede territory and a port in British Somaliland to Ethiopia if Haile Selassie would grant Italy territorial concessions bordering its two African colonies. Selassie refused at first but continued Italian war preparations have convinced him that it is the only course open to prevent Mussolini taking the entire country.

Chapter 5

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

(Mafolaba and the white traders having aroused the natives to warlike frenzy during Sanders' absence, Ferguson, deputy commissioner, enters The Old King's Country and is murdered for denying the rumors of Sandi's death. Reassured by the whites, Mafolaba prepares to attack the Ochori. Sanders, learning of these disastrous affairs, returns by plane to find Bosambo, ex-convict and now chief of the Ochori, his only loyal supporter).

THE JUNGLE ALARM

Once again the lokali drums were throbbing through the jungle, but now their voice was couched in no tone of exultation. Alarm was the keynote of their strange, weird rhythm.

"Sandi is not dead. The law is back on the River."

Thus spoke the drums, and much more they had to tell—startling news that reached the ears of King Mafolaba as he sat in conference with certain of his chief advisors.

"Sandi—is not dead! The law—is back—on the River! Sandi—and his soldiers—with the warriors of the Ochori—have smashed the army of Mafolaba!"

Dismay seized the Old King as he learned of the annihilation of the fighting regiments whom he had dispatched against Bosambo's people. Then he turned an ugly glance towards the hut which had been placed at the disposal of Farini and Smith.

Farini was loitering in the entrance of the dwelling, and Mafolaba beckoned him viciously. As the white man approached, the Old King barked a question at him.

"Do you hear what the drums are saying?" he bit out.

Farini spread forth his hands in a deprecating gesture.

"How can I tell what they're saying?" he rejoined.

"Sandi is not dead!" Mafolaba roared. "Sandi is back on the River. Sandi has wiped out my army!"

Farini had turned pale. He saw the Old King rising up before him with wrathful countenance, and with a quick gesture he made a grab for his revolver, only to be seized by half a dozen of the negro monarch's retainers before he could draw it—only to be struck down by dagger and club.

From the hut Smith had witnessed the fate of his accomplice, and with a gun in his fist he made a dash for the river bank near by. A native tried to stop him, but went down with a shriek as the renegade's revolver belched death. A moment later the white man was blundering into a canoe.

He snatched up a paddle and thrust the craft through the water. Behind him there was a furious uproar, and numbers of Mafolaba's people were running towards the river's edge, armed with spears and bows.

A shower of arrows sped towards the panic-stricken fugitive, and two of the shafts pierced him through the back. Uttering a scream that echoed across the river, he plunged lifelessly into the water, and the current swept his body downstream.

Back in the village Mafolaba was holding a hurried conference with his advisors.

"If Sandi comes here, it was the white men Farini and Smith who chopped Ferguson," he said. "Everybody remember that."

"We shall remember, Lord," one of his councillors rejoined. "But Sandi will not dare to come through the mountains with soldiers until after the rains."

"That is true," the Old King mused. "Listen, this delay will give me time to trap a leopard known as Bosambo. How would you trap such a leopard?"

"I would first get the right bait," another of his councillors replied.

The Old King's eyes narrowed cunningly.

"The right bait," he said. "The woman Lilongo, eh? Yes, he sets great store by her, and it would be an easy matter to take her now—while he and all his warriors are out on the warpath with Sandi."

He summoned three or four of his underlings who were squatting near by.

"Go get me the bait that will bring the leopard into my trap," he ordered harshly. "Go get me the woman Lilongo!"

In Mafolaba's Power

Peace had been restored to the River again. Chastened and humbled by Sandi's Hausas and their Ochori allies, the tribes of the jungle had learned a lesson which they were not likely to forget in a hurry.

A momentous palaver was held on board the Zaire. It was attended by all the chiefs of the River excepting the Old King, with whom Sanders intended to deal in the spring. And for the benefit of the assembled penitents, the Commissioner delivered a lecture that fairly burned their ears.

Late that afternoon, Bosambo and his followers beached their canoes in front of their village and marched towards the huts. But if they expected a clamorous welcome from the families whom they had left behind them, they were sorely disappointed, for the shadow of gloom was heavy on the kraal, and the women and the children and the old men sat in silent groups.

It was Malibu who broke the news to Bosambo—Malibu, the aged negro who acted as major-domo to the chief's household. With trembling voice he told of a surprise raid by a party of the old king's men, told how they had slain the few guards left at the village and how they had carried off Lilongo.

Lilongo Kidnapped

As he listened to the grim story, Bosambo's face was that of a man stricken by grief and rage. Then all at once he wheeled and strode into his hut, where he wrote a note for Lord Sandi. This he gave to Malibu.

"Go," he commanded, "and take my little sons with you. Sandi will care for them. Tell him I have left for the country of the old king."

Malibu gave him a look of fear. "But lord," he said, "an army could not pass the mountains at this season!"

"An army, no—but one man, yes," Bosambo answered slowly. "That is why I go alone."

That evening he was following the jungle trails that led to the mountains, his spear grasped in one hand and his shield in the other; and before a new day had dawned the throb of lokali drums was rising from certain villages that he had passed—telegraphing the news that Bosambo, chief of the Ochori, was hastening northward alone.

About that same time, old Malibu was standing on the deck of the Zaire with the chieftain's two small sons, and the note that Bosambo had written was being delivered to Sanders by Tibbets.

The commissioner opened Bosambo's message and scanned it swiftly. It read as follows:

"Even you could not go to the old king's country until the spring. Lord Sandi, I give my little sons into your charge—that they may be schooled on the money which the Government has paid me and brought up as the children of the Government."

Sanders jerked himself to his feet. "Tibbets," he said, "I'm taking the Hausas north. I want you to escort Malibu and Bosambo's boys to the Residency, with a party of picked men—"

"No, sir," the younger man interposed quietly.

"I beg your pardon," Sanders snapped.

"I said 'No sir,' I'm going with you, sir."

The Commissioner glared at him for a moment; then his face relaxed and he laid a hand on the lieutenant's shoulder.

"Oh, all right, Tibbets," he said. "Give the order to turn the ship upstream, will you? We're pushing our way through to Mafolaba's village."

His assistant looked startled.

"I suppose you know, sir, that no ship ever got so far up the river as that?" he mentioned.

"This one will be the first to do it," Sanders retorted. "I know all about the shallows, Tibbets, but the floods may help us."

College Station—Cotton crops of Texas are threatened with destruction, unless immediate measures are taken against leaf worm infestation and other parasites, according to R. R. Reppert, Extension entomologist at College Station.

"Frequent showers for the past couple of weeks have been favorable to leaf worm infestation multiplication and spread," he stated. Reppert claims the pest is easily controlled by using calcium arsenate, otherwise known as arsenate of lime. He explained that this chemical is the same as is ordinarily used for control of boll weevil.

"Under ordinary conditions and where dusting machinery is available, this chemical should be applied in dry form," he stated. "Five pounds per acre applied in an even dust cloud should be sufficient except where there is an exceptionally large growth of cotton, then apply 10 pounds per acre. It should be applied early in the morning while there is dew on the plants, although it is effective when applied in midday provided there is no wind."

He continued by saying that those who are equipped with some kind of spraying machinery, where the chemical is applied with water as a spray, should mix the poison with the water in the proportion of 3 pounds to 50 gallons of water. "If the application is not constantly stirred while applying," he said, "the poison will settle out of the mixture. It should be applied in sufficient quantity to get a reasonably even covering of the mixture on the foliage."

The Extension entomologist suggested that in case there is a shortage of calcium arsenate, Paris green may be used.

"For dusting," he said, "this Paris green should be thoroughly mixed with some 3 to 5 parts of hydrated lime or cheap flour to one part of the poison and applied in the same quantity as the calcium arsenate or possibly a little more heavily. If it is sprayed, use 3 parts of lime to one part of Paris green and mix so there will be one and one-half pounds of Paris green in 50 gallons of water.

Reppert added that mixtures of white arsenic and sal soda or lye are apt to injure the foliage.

Big Spring—The problem of wardrobe storage for the entire family has been solved by Mrs. D. W. Rogers, clothing demonstrator for the Soash Home Demonstration Club in Howard county, according to Miss Mayme Lou Parr, home demonstration agent. One large closet 2 1/2 by 8 feet has been grafted to the ceiling opening into adjoining bedrooms with doors into each room. Several 2 1/2 foot shelves and an eight foot shelf provide adequate space for the quilts and most of the linens. Hats and folded clothes are also stored there. Three rods give convenient hanging space. The 7 year old daughter has her individual closet and storage space.

SALMON

This Good Fish is Good Form, Nutritious and Inexpensive

SALMON is being served more often than ever before, not only because it is smart but because it compares favorably in nutritious qualities with meat. You can safely serve salmon as the main dish of a meal, as it provides an adequate protein. In fact, canned salmon contains more protein than round beef, roast veal or roast lamb. It can also be counted upon as a fuel or energy producing food, as it contains a high percentage of fat.

Calcium, that indispensable bone and teeth builder, is also found in significant quantities in canned salmon. In fact, it contains much more calcium than whole milk. It is also an excellent source of phosphorus which is likewise needed for building bones and teeth. Finally it contains a generous amount of iodine and some Vitamin A, and is an unusually good source of vitamin D and of the pellagra-preventive vitamin G.

Salmon Secrets

But, with all these good nutritious qualities, salmon would not be smart if housewives had not learned how to make party dishes with it. Here is one of their secrets which they are willing to share with you:

Salmon Ramekins: Mix gently the contents of a 15 1/2-ounce can salmon with one and a half cups white sauce. Slice two hard-cooked eggs and use them to line individual buttered molds. Pour salmon mixture into the middle. Cover with three-fourths of a cup of chopped, salted peanuts, and set in a pan of hot water. Bake until hot and the nuts are crisp. Serve right from the ramekins. Serves six.

RURAL TEACHERS RECEIVE FEDERAL CHECKS

Austin, Aug. 7.—Approximately $1,000,000 (million) worth of checks paying rural teachers of Texas under the federal aid program which enabled nearly 1500 schools this year to complete a normal term have been mailed from Texas Relief Commission headquarters, State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson has announced.

The checks are being sent to the superintendents of the various schools, who will distribute them to the teachers.

Schools in 161 counties received such aid, H. A. Ziegler, engineer in charge, reported.

By supplying schools unable to complete a full term under their own finances with funds, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration enabled thousands of rural youths of Texas to obtain a normal term's schooling the past year. More than 1500 school districts applied, and 1493 projects were approved. A total of 8764 persons will receive the checks.

---AND SUDDEN DEATH

Something to bring home to you—YES YOU—the danger of "vicious" driving. Here are a few excerpts from Reader's Digest, printed with their permission, giving you untold scenes from told accidents, such as the headlines are proclaiming. Statistics won't get the job done, but let's hope these are gruesome enough to have some effect—THE EDITORS.

Glass in Motor Mishaps

Flying glass—safety glass is by no means universal yet—contributes much more than its share to the spectacular side of accidents. It doesn't merely cut—the fragments are driven in as if a cannon loaded with broken bottles had been fired in your face, and a sliver in the eye, traveling with such force, means certain blindness. A leg on arm stuck through the windshield will cut clean to the bone through vein, artery and muscle like a piece of beef under the butcher's knife, and it takes little time to lose a fatal amount of blood under such circumstances. Even safety glass may not be wholly safe when the car crashes something at high speed. You hear picturesque tales of how a flying human body will make a neat hole in the stuff with its head—the shoulders stick—the glass holds—and the raw, keen edge of the hole decapitates the body as neatly as a guillotine.

The automobile is treacherous, just as a cat is. It is tragically difficult to realize that it can become the deadliest missile. As enthusiasts tell you, it makes 65 feel like nothing at all. But 65 an hour is 100 feet a second, a speed which puts a viciously unjustified responsibility on brakes and human reflexes, and can instantly turn this docile luxury into a mad bull elephant.

If you customarily pass without clear vision a long way ahead, make sure that every member of the party carries identification papers. For it's difficult to identify a body with its whole face mashed in or torn off. The driver is death's favorite target. If the steering wheel holds together it ruptures his liver or spleen so he bleeds to death internally. Or, if the steering wheel breaks off, the the steering column's plunging matter is settled instantly by through his abdomen.

Ware-Hooten

The wedding of Miss Oleta Hooten, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hooten to Anver Ware, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Ware, was performed in a quiet ring ceremony at the home of Rev. H. G. Derrick, pastor of the Belton Church of Christ, at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon August 3.

The bride wore a navy blue dress of sheer crepe trimmed in white with white accessories. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ware left for Jarrell where they will visit in the home of the bride's brother, R. I. Hooten.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ware have a host of friends here who wish them much success on the sea of matrimony.

Sublett Reunion

The Sublett family held their annual reunion on the Lampaas river south of Kemper, July 27.

The crowd began arriving at the reunion grounds the afternoon of the 26th, and by 8 p. m. a sufficient crowd was on hand, and a delicious picnic supper was enjoyed by all.

After the picnic supper, the remainder of the evening was spent singing songs and playing old games. The charming daughters of Mrs. B. T. Sublett entertained with a few dance steps.

After enjoying a very quiet and short night's sleep, the crowd awoke on the reunion day to enjoy the scenic beauties of the picnic spot. At high noon, a picnic dinner was spread consisting of barbecue, sandwiches, salads, cakes, pies, etc., and enjoyed by all.

Due to a rain, the crowd was forced to leave the river, and continue with the picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sublett.

As the rain caused the hurried departure of some of the guests, no plans were made for the next reunion.

It Don't Work

The noted alphabetic system of dolo pushed out by the government, better known as CW A. PWA, etc., is a thing that never helped so many in this town.

That is, not in a moral way. In most of the towns this size, and with so small population, not one in a hundred is forced to be in the government's care.

In other words, Copperas Cove has some 400 citizens, out of these 25 are letting the government feed them. Some of those the government is feeding, can now afford—after living on the government a year or so—to run automobiles.

It must be a profitable business.

History Southwestern University

Southwestern University, the oldest college in the South west, will open its ninety-sixth session on September 16. Its foundations were laid in faith and prayer and courage and sacrifice. In it, by order of the annual conferences, and by special acts of the legislature of the state, were consolidated the chartered rights of four other Methodist colleges; namely, Ruterville College, founded in 1840; Wesleyan College, founded in 1844; McKensie College, founded in 1848; and Soule University, founded in 1856. The history of the institution, therefore, begins in the early days of Texas, two of the colleges represented having been founded during the days of the Republic.

The Reverend Francis Asbury Mood, D. D., was the leader of the movement which united the five Texas conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the purpose to establish a first class institution of higher learning for the whole state. He began his activities in connection with this movement in the year 1869, but it was until 1873 that the merged institution was opened. Dr. Mood was the first president (at that time called regent) and continued in this position until his death in November 1884.

Dr. Mood set a high standard for the school when he said that: "It is the function of the University as an institution of the church to use all proper means to refine the manners, protect the morals, improve the hearts of the young people, and lead them to Christ." To those ideals the school has adhered during its entire history. Its conception of its task is definite; it has no ambition to become a graduate university or a professional school. It wants to be the college of liberal arts to be found anywhere.

The extent to which Southwestern has succeeded in the high purposes announced by its founder is evidenced by the character and service of its former students. In any representative gathering of men and women in Texas today, where matters are considered that affect the religious, political, or economic life of the state, the former students of Southwestern are found as influential factors. They are to be found in the bishopric of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; as presidents, deans, and professors of colleges; public school administrators and teachers; as ministers in the most prominent pulpits; as missionaries in every mission field; in the state legislature; as supreme court and district judges; eminent physicians and successful business men and women. A prominent educator recently remarked that "Southwestern University has rendered as large a service in this great southwest as any institution, regardless of size."

While Southwestern University has no desire to bask in its past achievements, it cannot be denied that the real worth of any institution is measured largely by the fruits of its service.

vice. "That institution alone has a great tomorrow which has back of it a multitude of great yesterdays."

But there is more to the story of Southwestern University than this. Today, it is successfully operating as an A-grade college of the first rank, holding membership in the Association of Texas Colleges, the Association of American Colleges, and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It maintains a chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, a national fraternity for professional writers; a chapter of the National Collegiate Players; a charter chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, honor society in the social sciences; an organization for the distinguished students majoring in science; and is the Mother Chapter of Alpha Chi, national scholarship society. Its graduates receive full credit for their work when they transfer to leading graduate and professional schools of the country.

The various departments of the University, the School of Music, in which are given courses for the training of choir leaders, and the course for band and orchestra directors; the department of Speech, giving courses in the methods of directing dramatics in high schools and colleges; the course for the training of directors of Physical Education; the strong departments of Bible and Religious Education, English, Natural and Biological Sciences, Languages, Education, and the Social Sciences, courses which constitute the chief content of college work, and represent a large portion of the average student's time and effort, are under the direction of men and women who have been chosen, not merely attainments in science, literature, and the arts, but for their positive Christian character. The staff looks constantly to that purity, discipline, punctuality, thoroughness, and solid advancement of the students that would establish the character of the institution for honest and successful work. It is the aim of the institution to see to it that every student who leaves, whether at the end of his first year, or his fourth, will go into the world proportionately equipped for life's battles, and bettered physically, morally, and spiritually.

With the marked improvement in economic conditions throughout the State, and the renewed interest in the work of the small college of liberal arts, Southwestern University has every reason to expect an increase in enrollment this fall. Advance registration exceeds the enrollment at the same time last year.

Jonesboro and Mound Play Baseball Finals At State This Week

Led by Liljedahl in the box and Walker behind the plate for Jonesboro and Joe Whigham pitching, with Lowery behind the plate for Mound, these two teams will play a three-game baseball series to decide the County Champion, starting this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The other two dates set for playing are tomorrow (Wednesday) and Friday. These games will be played at the State Training School, and the team winning two out of the three game series will be awarded the County Championship.

Mound, the team winning the Sunday division of the County organization, seemingly, in the opinion of the writer, has a little edge on Jonesboro, having more competition in the Sunday division. Jonesboro has a team composed of level-headed ball players, and with a little luck, could defeat the Mound aggregation.

Troy Jones has been selected as one umpire, the other we do not know or he hasn't been announced.

Coach Earle Worley Returns From School Of Coaches, Dallas

Coach Earle Worley, Gatesville's Athletic Director and football coach, returned Monday of last week from Dallas where he had been in attendance at the State High School Coaches Association. Mrs. Worley accompanied him to Van Alstyne, where she spent the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Cabeen.

The school proved to be successful in every manner with 174 high school coaches from over the state registering. The mornings were devoted to lectures by such instructors as Walker of Mississippi, on wing back formations; Tex Cox of Tulane, on single wing back; and Tad Weiman, line coach at Princeton. In the afternoon Cox and Weiman demonstrated with and worked out their two respective clubs.

Saturday night, August 3, the school reached its climax with a football game between the teams coached by Weiman and Cox. Weiman's club won the game 3-0, when Audish, Brenham hefty fullback, kicked a field goal. Worley stated the two teams looked and played as if they were in mid-season shape, and the game proved to be such a success, that it was hoped to make it an annual affair.
