"DAILY VIEWS FROM THE DAY'S NEWS" ON OUR FRONT WINDOWS

"Daily Views from the Day's News," another feature of the News for those who do not take dailies or three or four of them. Of course, it is impossible to publish these, but they are clipped from the daily papers, and the yesterday was the first day we tried this, a number of people stopped to look at the pictures. This is practiced (with photographs) of course by the Dallas Morning News, the New York Times, and other papers in other cities. We hope you'll watch the pictures.

Tyler Rose, Not Tiger Flowers Official Bud For Texas Centennial

Tyler, Oct. 9—A beautiful new rose, named in honor of the Texas Centennial year, held the center of interest last week at the annual Rose festival here. The Centennial rose was one of more than 500 varieties which furnished the thousands of blooms for the four day festival which ended Sunday, October 6.

Tyler is in the heart of the great East Texas nursery area which produces approximately one-half of the nation's supply of roses. Roses from the Tyler area's 140 nurseries have won many prizes in show competition and the more than 1-500 acres of blooming plants attract thousands of interested visitors each year. The "Rose Garden" section is expected to be a popular point of interest for many visitors to the state during the Centennial celebration period which was opened October 2nd at Gonzales and which will be continued through a number of historical celebrations at various points in the state, culminating in the state-wide exposition at Dallas next June.

MR. J. W. TIMMONS

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, October 8, at the Methodist church at Levita at two o'clock for J. W. Timmons, who died Monday afternoon at 4:05 resulting from injuries received in a wagon accident Wednesday morning, October 2, near Plum Creek while enroute to the Gin. He passed away at his home in Levita.

Rev. Ben Reynolds of Pearl and Rev. M. M. Chunn, pastor of the First Methodist church, conducted the services. Interment was made in the Levita Cemetery.

Mr. Timmons was born in Bell county. At the age of 3 he moved with his parents to Coryell county and settled at Levita where he has been a resident the past fifty-two years. In 1903 he was married to Miss Lee Colman of Levita. He has been a member of the Methodist church since he was nineteen years of age.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Bailey, one grandchild, his mother, Mrs. J. B. Timmons of Levita, three sisters, Mrs. S. W. Waddill of Plainview, Mrs. Jim Mitchell of Levita and Mrs. S. B. Waddill of Levita.

An Indian picture on an earthenware bowl found in Arizona is thought possibly a prehistoric record of a great meteorite fall, observed by Indians.

SAILING THRU LIFE

With M. LEDNAR

Ever since man began recording events and ideas, historians have dribbled barrels of ink over bales of parchment made from hides, telling us all about the stone age, the iron age, the brass age, the golden age, the dark ages and the dangerous age, but never a splash did they make concerning the leather age. Yet the manufacture of leather is as old as history itself—even older. The history of man can be told in one skin game after another. Fig leaves went out of fashion with the first frost, and from time immemorial man has depended upon the skin of some other animal to protect his own.

The making of leather is probably the oldest manufacturing industry of mankind. In China the manufacture and use of leather was known thousands of years ago. In Egypt leather has been found in the mausoleums of the ancients, who were practiced in the art of tanning and depicted the process in hieroglyphics in their tombs. Even the mummies are examples of good tanning methods. In semi-mythological times the leather of Persia and Babylon was celebrated in the annals of contemporary civilization. The Persians and Babylonians passed the art over to the Greeks and Romans, and so on down through the different mediaeval nations to us.

As interesting as is the history of the use of leather is the history of the development of its manufacture. It has taken brains to make leather. The Indians did it literally, and used the brains of the slain animal to tan the hide. Today, with all the modern machinery and chemical solutions in use, it still takes brains to make leather. While it is a simple process to make leather from hides and tan bark, it is probably one of the most critical of manufacturing operations to make the most and best leather that can be made from a given quantity of hide.

By converting an animal skin into leather its nature is entirely changed and it is rendered practically imperishable. The enduring life of good leather is due to the fact that it does not corrode or oxidize or disintegrate and will retain its flexibility and life for centuries.

New York has put an end to balm suits, which was a cruel blow to gals whose hearts break easily, and a terrible tragedy to tabloid papers.

Now that the United States Supreme Court has nullified NRA, some of our very nicest people will be forced to find something else to kick around. It is surprising how many times

SAND-LOT WORLD SERIES

If you see sand rising from over Eurafica way, it's the sand-lot world series. Il Duce, alias Mussolini, captaining the Italians and Selasse directing the Ethiopians.

As usual, in any sand-lot team, there is always a weak boy that can't take care of himself, and a mighty bruising bully that thinks he's the cock of the walk and tries, of course, to take it out on the timid and retiring boy. This seems to be the case at the present sand-lot set to.

Looks like now there's going to be some one to call "Ill Duce's" hand, since the League of Nations, supported by England, France and others are boycotting Italy with an economic boycott. England has a very effective weapon in our humble opinion, since she controls, or at least has something to do with the frozen beef shipments from the Argentine, and now, we learn, she is cutting off this supply as far as Italy is concerned. Since the well known saying is true, "An army travels on it's stomach," it looks like Italy won't travel far. Besides, Britain can control all entrances to the Mediterranean and thereby cut Italy off from the entire world, with the exception of a few countries bordering on this sea. However, these countries do not produce much meat and they get hungry in Italy before they find another source.

Austria and Hungary seem to be siding with Italy, more than likely for personal gain and other reasons of like nature. This is an interesting situation, if nothing else, and after the sand lot brawl is started by "the big bully," it looks like there's going to be a fight before it's over.

In the far East, with all eyes turned on the Eurafican situation, Russia and Japan are flinging darts, with their eyes, if nothing else, and Japan figures everybody is going to have business of their own on the European front and can't be bothered with what the bully on the adjoining sand lot does. Watch it! Looks like it is going to be general, but our hope is that it can be localized to Europe, Africa and Asia, and that the Americas will attend to their own business and build up more friendly relations with each other, including trade etc. It's our opportunity to organize a sand lot aggregation of our own, and, as long as we don't try to be the "bully," we'll make lots of friends here in the Americas, and may be the best player on the home team. We should try.

High School Annual

Irrespective of the fact that the drive for an annual in '35 failed miserably, the senior class of '36 is planning another attempt. Last year the campaign for advance sales petered out sixty copies short of the goal of 150. As there were approximately 360 students in school last year, only 25 per cent demonstrated their loyalty to their Alma Mater by subscribing to an annual. This meager group did not even include all the seniors who were sponsoring the movement. The quota for advance sales has not been set thus far, but it will probably be about that of last year. Neither has the price been determined but it will not be extortionate. Herebefore Gatesville has been the only school in the district without a good football team or an annual. This year there is what appears to be a football team that will win at least half the games if not more, so an annual is in order to put Gatesville on a par with the other schools. Incidentally, Gatesville is the second largest school in the district which is all the more reason for an annual. The way to have a successful annual is to start talking it up now and putting aside the pennies so that there will be more than ninety students willing for G. H. S. to have a 1935 annual. There should be 350 clamoring at the publisher's door for one.

Enrollment in Local Schools

The high school has 365 pupils enrolled, the senior class totaling 110, the junior class 84, the sophomore class has 71 while the freshman class has 100.

The elementary school has enrolled 415 students and the colored school has enrolled 63. This makes a total of 843 students attending school in Gatesville. Due to the fact that so many students are not dropping out we have up to the present date about 26 more pupils in school this year than last.

Miss Bertha Lillian Stewart entertained a group of the younger set with a weiner roast at Coryell Creek Saturday night.

Campus Lowdown

Well we're back again this year dirt digging as usual. Dorothy Dillashaw, blonde, has started spelling her name Dorothy. Madelyne Gosset says it sounds more Frenchy. Gatesville High School has always been proud of its beauties but the ranks have been swelled since a Freshmen brunette arrived. We don't know how true it is but she is reported to have an upperclassman in a daze. Plane Geometry has proved to be the Waterloo for many Junior this year. John Rufus Colgin the flashy half-back of G. H. S. is planning an orchestral career. Flash! Belva McCoy breaks into print again as her name is linked with that of Baba Hblt. The notorious three of Gatesville High School, Buster Cummings, Grady Dickie, and Joe Satterfield. It is rumored that Doc Hamilton is getting the well-known run-around from Grady Dickie. Bert Stewart threw a swellagant affair Saturday night. Shirley Temple wants Bryan Jones to be her leading man in her next picture. Someone tells us that Jane is nicknamed Jewel because she is the shining light of the Thomson clan. Orchids to Erle Powell who has certainly been honored by his classmates and fellow students in electing him President of the Senior Class and Dramatic Club. Donald Weaver, former Big Moment of Tug-Bost Witcher is acquiring Cookie Cok these days (You've got to be a football hero).

Cracks From the Campus

By the "Jester"
 Landlady: A professor formerly occupied this room, sir. He invented an explosive.

Charlie Meyers: Ah! I suppose those spots on the ceiling are the explosives.

Landlady: No, they're the professor.

Teacher: (Checking student's papers) How many mistakes did you have, Patsy?

Patsy: One.

Teacher: But I thought you told me you hadn't prepared your lesson.

Patsy: I didn't prepare it. That was my mistake.

Erle Powell: Do you know the difference between a taxi and a bus?

Bertha Lillian Stewart: No.

Erle: Fine, we'll take a bus. Danny McClellan: (Unable to see) What's the first question on the board?

Mr. Thompson: Number one.

Mr. Ewing: (In the middle of a joke) Have I ever told this one before?

Class: (in chorus) Yes.

Mr. Ewing: Good! Probably you will understand it this time.

Miss Lawrence: Really Mayo, your handwriting is terrible. You must learn to write better.

Mayo: Well, if I did, you'd be finding-fault with my spelling.

Fred Byrom: How are you getting along with your automobile lessons?

Frances McCoy: Fine, today I learned how to aim the thing.

For Me 'n U

By Aunt Em

FOR EARLY AUTUMN

NOW that summer's heat is on the wane and nights grow crisper it's safe to serve a dinner that's a bit more substantial and "heartier" than has been suitable in the immediate past.

Such a dinner is suggested below—introduced with a piquant soup and finished with a satisfying dessert.

- Cream of Green Pea Soup
- Roast Duck Orange Sauce
- Boiled Wild Rice
- Pumpkin Souffle
- Stuffed Prune Salad
- Gems and Currant Jelly
- Amber Pie
- Coffee

CREAM OF GREEN PEA SOUP

Boil fresh green peas in salted water and pass through a fine sieve. Put this puree in a saucepan with the water in which the peas were boiled, and at the moment before serving add to it the yellows of eggs, fresh cream and fresh butter. Serve with croutons.

ROAST DUCK

Half apple cut in quarters, 1 medium size duck, 1 onion, sliced; half cup celery chopped, 1 carrot sliced, 2 cups stock or bouillon, half teaspoon pepper.

Place the carrot, onion and celery in the bottom of a roaster. On the top of these vegetables place the duck, stuffed with the apple and sprinkled with salt and pepper. Add the stock or bouillon. Cover and cook for about 20 minutes to the pound of duck. For the first 20 minutes have the temperature of the oven high, reduce the heat to moderate until the duck is tender.

Remove the duck from the roaster and strain the gravy into a saucepan. Skim off the fat and add the orange and lemon juices and currant jelly, made as follows:

ORANGE SAUCE

One teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons flour, juice of 1 orange, and 1 orange sliced, rind of three oranges, 2 teaspoons lemon juice and one tablespoon currant jelly.

Then bring to a boil and thicken with the flour moistened with cold water. Cut the rind of the orange and lemon into small pieces. Cover with water, about 1 cup, and cook 5 minutes. Strain and add this liquid to the sauce. Cook the sauce for a few minutes longer. Place the duck on a platter and garnish with orange slices.

PUMPKIN SOUFFLE

Two tablespoons fat, 1 1/2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup pumpkin, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon of sugar, 3 egg yolks, 3 whites.

Heat fat, add flour and mix to a smooth paste. Add milk and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from fire, add pumpkin, salt, spices, sugar, beaten egg yolks. Stir. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake

Aluminum Diesel Engine Cuts Fuel Costs

AMERICANS are not easily startled but even they were left rather breathless by the amazing implications inherent in the record made by an Auburn automobile recently. This car, equipped with a Cummins Diesel engine, covered the 3,774 miles separating New York City from Los Angeles for the incredible sum of only $7.63—the cost of the fuel oil used to run this motor.

Such a record is of vital interest not only to the engineers who have made it possible but, even more so, to every owner—or potential owner—of a car. Only 109 gallons of fuel oil (at the trifling cost of seven cents per gallon) were required to drive the car 3,774 miles. It seems unbelievable yet—it has been done. And the expectation is almost a certainty that very soon it will be within the reach of every car owner to duplicate this performance.

This revolutionary change in transportation costs has been made possible by the ever increasing use of aluminum. Though the Diesel engine has long been used as a heavy engine, practicable for marine engines, tractors and other heavy duty units, it is only recently that the more extensive use of aluminum has given it the chance to break into more and wider fields.

Charles B. Bohn, President of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corporation, whose organization furnished the Bohnalite aluminum alloy parts for the epoch-making cross country trip, is an ardent believer in the limitless possibilities of lighter Diesel engines using aluminum parts. A Bohnalite aluminum alloy block was used by this engine instead of the customary cast-iron cylinder block. Other aluminum parts used were the cylinder head, timing gear case and the clutch and flywheel housing. The mass weight was further materially reduced by making the crankshaft hollow.

$7.63 worth of fuel oil, plus a Diesel engine with various aluminum parts, sufficient to carry one 3,774 miles! well, that ought to be a mighty tough record to equal—much less beat!

in moderate oven 50 to 60 minutes.

PRUNE SALAD

Stuff halved cooked prunes with cream cheese which has been blended with 1 tablespoon of minced candied ginger. Serve with French dressing on lettuce nests.

GEM

Two teaspoons sugar, 4 teaspoons melted butter, 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 1 heaping teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt.

Put sugar and melted butter together, then add eggs and milk. Put salt and baking powder in flour and make a batter. Bake in greased gem pans for 15 minutes in a hot oven.

MERINGUE

Three egg whites, six tablespoons of sugar.

AMBER PIE

Bake a pie shell. Make following filling:
1 pint gingerale, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 3 beaten egg yolks

2 teaspoons butter.
Heat the gingerale to scalding in a double boiler. Blend the sugar, flour and salt and add to the hot liquid, beating until very smooth. Cook 10 minutes, add a portion of the hot mixture to the beaten egg yolks, mixing well, then return to the double boiler and cook, stirring for 3 minutes. Remove from the heat, add the butter and cool slightly. Pour into a baked pie shell and top with the meringue and brown lightly in a slow oven.

SYNOPSIS

Captured by Kurdish irregulars while fighting on the Eastern Front, Captain Michael Andrews is rescued by the supposed leader of the Kurds, who turns out to be a British secret service officer. The latter refuses to give his correct name, so Andrews calls him Smith. As they flee northward, Smith says they must warn the Balkari, an Armenian tribe against which the Kurds are advancing, to move to a place of safety on the other side of the mountains. Arriving at the village, they meet Cullen, who says he is a British political officer. Cullen doesn't like the idea of moving but Smith is insistent.

CHAPTER III

At the river bank it seemed that Cullen's forebodings were well-founded. The waters were at flood and many of the cattle and several of the Armenians were swept away and drowned in the yellow current. In spite of the danger they kept on under the harsh commands of Haidar, swimming, and using improvised rafts and inflated goatskins. "Women and children can't live in that stream, you madman!" groaned Cullen as he stared at the scene of indescribable confusion. "He sike yartan (Don't let them go,)" he pleaded with the chief. "If a few die, it's a better way than Kurdish swords," interrupted Smith. Then he dashed away to direct the work. Under his almost super-human compulsion the ford at servant, who was leading the procession, tried again and again to creep around a curve in the ledge but each time he drew back, shivering with terror.

Behind him the Armenians were crowding in. The animals became frantic in the crush and it seemed only a matter of moments until a stampede would occur which would sweep hundreds to their death.

Smith quickly grasped the situation. Seizing a heavy herders whip, he forced his way through the mob to the point where Amrak was clinging to the cliff face in paralyzed terror.

"Get up there," shouted the secret agent in fury.

Amrak merely clung the tighter as he glanced shudderingly downward at the sheer descent of hundreds of feet.

Smith climbed precariously up beside him.

"Go on. Go on," he shouted. Then, as Amrak continued to cling to the cliff, he made up his mind. Raising the heavy butt of the whip above his head, he brought it down with full force on the head of the coward.

Amrak released his hold and fell screaming into the abyss. Immediately the Armenians, seeing the path open, pushed bravely forward

"But think what he's doing. If he does kill a thousand Balkari he's saving the other nine thousand."

"What's going to happen when he gets them up in the snows," persisted Cullen. With that parting shot he got up and stamped away.

Andrews didn't sleep the rest of the night. Cullen's words had revived his suspicions. Was Smith only a spy after all?

His doubts were confirmed the next morning when he caught sight of the secret agent crawling through the grass as though to escape from the camp. He followed and reached the edge of a cliff just in time to see Smith, knife in hand, preparing to stab Cullen in the back in a little valley twenty feet below him.

"Look out!" he shouted wildly as Smith's knife flashed in the morning sunlight.

Cullen whirled too late. Smith's knife sank into his back.

At the same moment Andrews leaped from the cliff, hoping to land on Smith's back and avert the blow. He missed and gave a cry of agony as his leg crumpled under him. In spite of his pain he grabbed Smith, managed to bear him to the ground and gripped his throat.

"And now, Mister Smith," he gritted between clenched teeth.

"Fool!... Let go!" gasped the other. "Spy... going to signal... hurry advance... catch us before... we get over."

"More lies!" snarled Andrews, but his grip relaxed as he caught sight of Cullen's broken heliograph lying on the grass.

"Look! He was signaling to North," panted Smith, struggling to free himself. "He lied about his name and he lied about his uniform. He was anything but British. Look at the helio-mirror if you want more proof."

Slowly Andrews released him and stared at the mirror. On its back was printing in Arabic characters!

Andrews had broken his leg in that fall. The Armenians carried him in a litter across the rest of the mountain. Then, when safety had been reached, Smith arranged for him to be taken to a Medical Corps Clearing Station.

"Eventually you'll be shipped round the gulf to Cairo," the secret agent explained one morning when he visited Andrews in his tent. "But until you get to the doctors, dress that leg five times a day."

"Are you on strike then?" Andrews was puzzled.

"I'm leaving now. You go down with Haidar. I go back across the mountain."

"When shall we see each other again?" Andrews' emotions were mixed. He half-liked, half-hated this strange and ruthless individual.

"Some time. Somewhere. After some war perhaps," answered Smith lightly. "Goodbye." Without a handshake he stalked out of the tent, leaped on his horse and turned his face toward the frowning mountains.

In spite of his pain, Andrews grabbed Smith, managed to bear him to the ground and gripped his throat.

last was negotiated and the journey toward the looming mountains began.

But when they reached the almost perpendicular rock face new dangers beset them. Even Haidar doubted that his people could make the ascent, but again Smith came forward and drove them on up the unbelievable ascent of a sheer cliff. Up they crawled, tribesman, animals, women and children.

Halfway up, however, they came to a ledge so narrow that it seemed impossible that anything but a fly could negotiate it. Amrak, Cullen's around the turn. The panic had been averted.

"You swine," gritted Cullen as he came up to Smith. "That was my servant you murdered."

The other did not answer, but merely motioned upward with his whip.

That night, high up in the mountains, the little army huddled around campfires to avoid the piercing cold.

"That's ever twenty lives lost that we know of," Cullen was complaining to Andrews. "On the first day! I tell you the man's a devil!"

Locals Lose 13-2 to Clifton in the First Conf. Tilt

APPROXIMATELY THREE HUNDRED FANS MAKE TRIP TO CLIFTON AND SEE THE HORNETS UPSET DOPE BUCKET.

Some 300 local football fans took to the highways and country roads late last Friday afternoon and journeyed to witness what proved to be a most thrilling game between the Clifton Cubs and the local Hornets. Although the Clifton club won 13-to-2, the Hornets fought desperately to upset this writers dope can, and won what we would call a moral victory.

Receiving the pigskin as the game opened, the Worley men made a first down which put local fans in hysterics as they continued to fight throughout the contest. Never letting up the Hornets out-played the Clifton team the first half, although Clifton led 6-to-2. The Cubs touchdown resulted from a pass by H. Bronstad to Spangle which occurred deep in the Hornets territory. The locals blocked a Clifton punt in the end-zone after their power play had been working but fumbled near the Clifton goal line to receive their two markers.

In the second half, tired, and out-weighted greatly, the Hornet backfield as well as the line continued their desperate fight. Culberson showed more drive in the game than any time this year. "Snaky" hips Hair weaved his way on several occasions through the Clifton men for long gains that would make any coach take note. Colgin played his best game of the year, participating mostly in the blocking position, but when called to deliver the mail, proved his ability to lug the leather as Hornets of years ago. Dickie, the lad that a brick wall could not stop, was at his best also. The diminutive Hornet team made a showing that astonished local football followers.

The Clifton second touchdown came late in the fourth period which resulted from consistent power plays.

In summing up the entire game we find the locals made eight first downs and Clifton marked up nine. All but two of Clifton's came from passes, while the Hornets marked up only one from a pass, the only pass they completed during the game out of nineteen attempts.

The Hornet line also did exceptionally good playing. Clark and McDonald, local ends, demonstrated their ability of tackling, and completely smashed the Cubs wide-sweeping end runs. Myers and Adams managed to stop the Cubs line plays on several occasions with the assistance of Lowrey and Chapman. Culberson was in on most every play, backing up the Hornet line, while Davis caused many unhappy moments for the husky Cliftonites at his position.

FOOTBALL CHATTER

By TEDDY

Local Hornets should know by now that fans are behind them. Three hundred strokes, they crowded in the stadium at Clifton last Friday night to prove their interest in the team.

Several fans have expressed themselves to me in a manner which I have been wanting to hear a long time. They have stated they were for the locals as long as they showed fight, and boy they had plenty last Friday night if you ask me.

It did me good to see my dope bucket go up in the Cub stadium and turn a couple of flips Friday night. Running the side line with Ben Johnson, Bird Hair's right hand shine boy, and the only colored boy at the game, we had more fun than we've had since the last time Ben shined my shoes. Filling the position as my good luck piece, Ben would on some occasions, forget himself, and would yell as if a grizzly bear was after him in a lone forest.

In a percentage column the Hornets would still rank high, only losing one out of three games. This coming Friday they play West here, another conference game. West has a fair club, but the Hornets will not have much trouble marking up another win providing they display the fight they did against Clifton.

PRESIDENT'S FAMILIES

Some facts regarding the family relations of our presidents may be of interest, as they are probably little known to the average reader. How many, for example, could tell off-hand how many presidents never married? The answer is, only one, Buchanan.

All the rest were married, and five of them married twice, Tyler, Fillmore, Benjamin Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt and Wilson. Seven married widows, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Fillmore, B. Harrison and Wilson, the last three taking widows as their second wives.

The wives of Jefferson, Jackson, Van Buren and Arther died before their husbands became president. Cleveland went into office as a bachelor, but was married during his first term.

Washington, Madison, Jackson, Polk and Harding were childless. Tyler was the father of 14 children, seven by each of his wives. W. H. Harrison was the father of 10. Hayes was the father of eight, Jefferson, Taylor and Theodore Roosevelt were the father of six each.

Two widows of presidents remarried. Mrs. Cleveland married T. J. Preston, Jr., a professor of archeology, in 1913, about five years after her husband's death. Mrs. Benjamin Harrison married James Blaine Walker, Jr., her third husband, in 1921, when she was 64 years of age.

The most unusual circumstances connected with the marital relations of any president concerned Andrew Jackson. Believing that Mrs. Lewis Robards had been divorced from her husband, he married her in 1791, only to discover that the decreed of divorce had not been granted. Later the decree was issued and Jackson remarried Mrs. Robards in 1794.

ALERT SAILORS SAVE SEVEN FROM DROWNING

Long Beach, Cal., Oct. 6.—Seven persons owed their lives today to the alertness of sailors on the battleship California. M. L. Hon. Pat M. Neff Speaks to Local CCC Boys and Presents Certificates

An unusual ceremony was held at the mess hall of the local CCC camp yesterday when C. R. Byran, project superintendent for Company 817 at Mother Neff Park, drove over to present certificates of merit to fourteen former members of the Park Company.

Former Governor Pat M. Neff, president of Baylor University, and a member of the state park board, D. E. Colp, chairman of the board, Lt. M. B. Kennedy, commanding Company 817, and Jeff Ritchie, a resident of the Mother Neff Park community, were present for the ceremony, together with Lt. H. B. Lyon of the local camp, presided, Former Gov. Neff spoke briefly.

The fourteen men receiving certificates of merit are now all "rated" men, that is leaders or sub-leaders, in the Gatesville camp, but served for a year or more with the company now at Neff Park, having been transferred from there on August 21 to help organize the local unit. One of these fourteen, "Top Sarg" Everett L. Ritchie, has had more service in the Three-C than nearly anybody in the country, having enrolled May 8, 1933, before Company 817 was organized.

The certificates were not available when the men were transferred away from the latter company. When they arrived, from Washington recently Superintendent Byran personally hand lettered each one as a token of regard for the men who served under him so long.

In his address, Gov. Neff told the Gatesville enrollees, most of whom are "rookies," that the Civilian Conservation Corps was primarily an educational institution, teaching young men how to work and how to live; and he urged them to distinguish between "a life and a living." "Anybody can earn a living," he said, "but comparatively few people ever learn how to live."

The certificates may someday be of historic interest since they betray unmistakably sentiments of the present administration. They read: "By this all will know — served his country well as a member of the Civilian Conservation Corps, that magnificent Army of Youth and Peace that put into action the Awakening of the People of the facts of Conservation and Recreation; and that with all honors he completed his tour of Duty at Mother Neff State Park, on August 21, 1935."

Those receiving certificates were: Woodrow Lawson, Stephenville; J. P. Pate, Coleman; Everett L. Ritchie, Llano; Kenneth Molthan, Edinburg; S. J. Laney, Eastland; John V. Bell, Cameron; Ralph Kennon, Itasca; Rodney Bertrand, Cross Plains; William Wallace, Gordon; Thomas Elisberry, Cross Plains; Ray Cox, Thurber; Leo Domstead; M. Allen; Richard Farris, Gatesville; Leon Anderson, Donna.

J. K. Brazzil, Who for 17 Years Was in Public Service, Passes Away

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Flint Creek, for J. K. (Uncle Knox) Brazzil, who died Saturday afternoon at five o'clock at his home in Gatesville. He had been ill only a few hours, suffering from an attack of the heart.

Rev. George Siler of Moody conducted the services, assisted by Hon. R. B. Cross, Rev. O. F. Williams of The Grove and Rev. E. G. Harper of Flat. The Masonic Lodge, of which order Mr. Brazzil had been a member for the past thirty years, was in charge of the services at the cemetery. He was laid to rest by the side of his wife, who preceded him in death only twenty-five days.

J. K. Brazzil was born December 25, 1861, at Pittsburg, Texas. He moved with his family to Coryell County at the age of twelve years, and settled near The Grove.

In 1883 he was married to Miss Martha Elner Burford of The Grove. For a few years they made their home there. Later they moved to Pendleton, where he was manager of a lumber yard for nine years. In 1900 they returned to this county, settling at Flat.

For eight years he served as County Commissioner from Beat 2. He and family moved to Gatesville in 1926. For the past eight years he has served the County as treasurer, which made seventeen years that he was in public service.

He is survived by Mrs. J. T. Puckett of Flat, J. E. Brazzil, Flat, C. W. Brazzil, Flat, Mrs. Henry Hamilton, Flat, and O. L. Brazzil of Gatesville.

RELIEF ROLLS ARE GROWING SMALLER DAILY

San Antonio, Oct. 14.—Relief rolls in Texas slumped again this week as Works Progress Administration projects absorbed approximately 2,700 more former relief clients on work projects scattered through the twenty WPA districts.

With 52 projects underway in various parts of the state, WPA has removed 6,838 Texans from the dole, Dr. E. E. Hale, state director of labor management, announced today.

Works authorizations for 108 additional projects have been released by state officials and an estimated 6,000 more persons now subsisting on the dole are expected to be added to the active working list of WPA within a few days, Hale asserted. Practically all of the authorizations are accompanied by advice to start work at once, state WPA officials said.

In addition to the more than six thousand former relief clients who are now engaged in work on WPA projects, there are 120 non-relief employes working in various capacities on WPA jobs.

WPA also has been instrumental in placing 7,310 former relief clients to work on non-WPA jobs. Hale's records reveal. Non-WPA jobs have also been provided for 1,251 non-relief employes, according to Hale. Included among those who have used men supplied through WPA facilities are such organizations as: CCC camps, PWA, Bureau of Internal Revenue, United States Treasury Department, Alcohol Tax Unit, Rural Resettlement Administration, FERA, Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, veterans' camps, soil conservation, U. S. Department of Labor, and various army agencies.

Allotments aggregating $3,868,650 for work to be started in Texas have been received from Washington and, in each instance, federal allotments have been speedily followed by work authorizations to the various Texas WPA districts, state officials declared.

District officials have declared themselves ready to handle projects as rapidly as federal allotments are received, Deputy Administrator Robert J. Smith reported, and all work authorizations which have been sent to districts in the state have resulted in rapid starting of projects.

Coryell County Teachers' Institute will meet at the Gatesville high school auditorium Saturday morning, October 26, at 9:30 to 11:30. Full program will be published in local newspapers in a short time, according to J. M. Witcher, County Superintendent.

Ercell W. Brooks, State Supervisor, will be present and will speak to teachers and trustees present. Mrs. James S. Maxwell of Waco will be present, representing the Texas Centennial Commission.

Supt. Frank L. Williams, also is listed to speak on pertinent matters of interest to both teachers and trustees.

Local teachers and principals will discuss bus lines, standard tests, state aid and standardization of schools.

Plans for the annual County Meet will be outlined, as well as many other important matters in the interest of the schools of the counties.

REGIMENTING THE SPUD

The humble spud has become the latest target for the bureaucrat.

Under a law passed by the late Congress, the Irish potato is to have its turn in so-called crop control. Growers who produce more than five bushels a year must submit to a stringent licensing system—and if they produce more than their quota, a heavy fine may be set against them. Opposition arguments, based on the fact that the spud is an eccentric sort of animal, whose productivity is almost impossible to control, have had no avail.

The new law did not have Administration support, and seems to be regarded coldly by Secretary Wallace. It was put through by zealots who feel that nature should be regimented as thoroughly as possible.

However, it is encouraging to report that various groups, led by well-known men, have announced defiance to such a liberty-destroying law—and have challenged its enforcement. The pioneer spirit, which detests any kind of dictatorship, is not yet dead and demands the right to eat spuds without political supervision.

AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRY INTERDEPENDENT

In a recent address, Governor Lehman of New York, said: "We have been accustomed to think of agriculture and of industry as distinct fields or commercial effort—as things widely apart—having very little if any relationship to each other. We talk of agriculture alone, of industry alone, of commerce alone. That has always seemed to me the wrong point of view. The time is long past when any part of the producing or consuming groups of our economic structure can fail to affect all other groups. The consumption of farm products . . . is influenced almost exclusively by the needs of a consuming population, and these needs are obviously inevitably controlled by earning and spending power of the public.

"Out of this there must come to all of us, it seems to me, whether interested in city business or in farm business, an appreciation of the need for a balanced development between business and agriculture."

Agriculture is now doing a fine work in achieving that development through farmer-owned and controlled cooperative associations. These associations are improving farm production methods—they are scientifically adjusting supply to demand—and they are helping bring about a sounder relation between the wholesale and retail prices of farm produce.

* * * *

August business reports, coupled with some for the first half of September, are encouraging. Industrial operations, on the average, have made more than usual seasonal gains.

Substantial advances have been made in the number of replacement and improvement programs inaugurated by large industries. Biggest item in this field is the $50,000,000 General Motors is to spend during the next eighteen months.

World Comment
By JOE BURNS

News on the war situation bears the date line "Geneva," not "Africa." Last week, at the Swiss city, the League of Nations made the most momentous decision of its history, voting to punish Fascist Italy for warring against Ethiopia. After the council, by unanimous vote, declared that Premier Mussolini resorted to war in violation of his covenants as a member of the league, it invoked for the first time the famous Article XVI, providing for economic or military sanctions. Forty-nine nations pledged themselves to penalties and a sanctions committee was appointed to carry out the mandate of the League.

The commission first ordered league members to lift embargoes on arms to Ethiopia if they had imposed them. Some nations, including England, had placed embargoes on arms shipments to both Ethiopia and Italy several months ago. Second, the commission ordered the members to place embargoes on arms shipment to Italy. Thirdly, all loan and bank credits to Italy will be withheld. A boycott against Italian goods may be declared this week.

Will these penalties cripple Italy to the extent that the war in Africa will have to be abandoned and the troops returned home. Italian government officials scoff at the idea while repeating Premier Mussolini's frequent phrase: "Live dangerously!"

At home, Italian authorities are relying upon three things: First, the smooth functioning of the Fascist organization of the country's whole life. Second, patriotism, which Fascists claim Il Duce has brought to one of the highest points in history. Third, Italians' known ability to live comfortably on extremely little.

Important deflections also appear in the League setup to starve Mussolini into submission. Austria, Hungary, and Albania opposed the penalties voted by the league and Switzerland voted with reservations. This is why Mussolini snapped his fingers when the League voted the economic and financial boycott.

A financial boycott already has been in force against Italy as far as London and New York money markets are concerned. To offset this, Mussolini has a hoarded war chest of $500,000,000 in gold and about the same amount in foreign securities. He figures this will be enough and it will be if the war is short enough.

The economic boycott is even less worrisome—for the simple reason that nations always are ready to sell but not buy. Mussolini knew this when he snapped his fingers at the league. Switzerland told the league authorities that it could not enforce a trade boycott against Italy. Italy is its best market. A boycott would mean cutting off about 75 per cent of Swiss exports and financial ruin to many industries. The Ethiopians don't mean that much to the Swiss.

Austria, Hungary and even Yugoslavia are in the same fix. The latter country—long a bitter enemy—now is finding Italy a lucrative market. In need of war supplies, Mussolini has reduced tariff barriers to Yugoslavia and is buying large quantities of wheat, pork, lumber. Yugoslavia has accepted the economic boycott in theory but will likely ignore it in fact.

So you see that the embargo on imports cannot be effective, although it will pinch the Italians considerably. Germany, not being a member of the league, did not join in the sanctions movement. This means Italy will have access to a great storehouse of raw and finished products. This is, of course, based on the assumption that the war in Africa will not be prolonged indefinitely. Already $160,000,000 have been spent out of the Duce's war chest and should the war last longer than a year, serious financial difficulties would be encountered by Mussolini.

"Time" Magazine, Oct. 14 issue, reports that a deal is being consummated by the Italians, French, and British whereby the League would win a public victory in making peace, and Ethiopia would be apportioned among the Great Powers. The deal in particular, quoting Time: 1) Italy to hold her conquest of Ethiopia within moderate limits and in no case to attack the region of Lake Tana where the British Empire has vital interests; 2; Italy to endure without armed retort economic and financial sanctions which the League of Nations must impose or utterly lose face; 3) France and Britain to block the League from voting military or naval sanctions; 4) mutual understanding that there will be cheating all round on the economic sanctions."

Such a deal is both plausible and possible. But whatever the outcome of the present conflict, Britain will come off with Lake Tana. This lake, in northwestern Ethiopia, is the source of the Blue Nile, one of the principal tributaries of the Nile River, which waters both Egypt and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. An adequate water supply for irrigation in the Sudan and in Egypt is of vital importance to Britain. Should Italy seize Ethiopia, she would be in a position to divert the waters of the Blue Nile and reduce Egypt and the Sudan to desert wastes. It is because of this threat that Britain has concentrated 140 naval vessels in the Mediterranean and Red Seas and has taken the leadership in imposing sanctions against Italy.

To the field of action, the status of the three fronts—the north Eritrean, the south Eritrean, and that along the Somaliland border, showed comparatively little change during the week. Italian field headquarters have been established at Aduwa, captured just a week ago by 110,000 Italian and Askaris troops, and the city annexed in the name of Italy. Italian casualties so far do not exceed 50 killed and wounded, including friendly natives. About 200 square miles of Ethiopian territory bordering Eritrea are in the possession of the Italians and at present (Continued on following page.)

WORLD COMMENT—

no immediate advance toward Addis Ababa is contemplated. One wonders where Emperor Haile Selassie's 1,000,000 troops are hiding, an airplane reconnaissance on the part of the Italians reports only scattered groups with 150 miles of the Italian front lines. But Ethiopian commanders reply that they are in the "mountains," where they will undoubtedly pursue guerilla tactics, sniping troops and interfering with Italian lines of communication.

A development of some importance was the surrender of Ras Guga, governor of Tigre Province, with 12,000 Ethiopian soldiers. This desertion of the Ethiopian cause gives the Italian northern army the opportunity, when the time comes, of effecting a junction with the armies advancing from Italian

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

FIRST AID

Among the teacher's many duties is that of first aid. For this he should have had a full course of training at normal school or college. In addition, there should be definite rules laid down by the administrator to guide the teacher in emergencies.

If you feel panicky or excited when an accident has occurred, don't try to do much. Don't let your excitement work itself off in action. Under such conditions you are not yourself, and you may do actual harm. Simply make the patient comfortable and ask someone to send for the school physician, nurse, principal, or another teacher.

When a child has had a bad fall, severe enough to cause a bone fracture, it is better to leave the child where he is. Lifting and carrying is usually clumsily done. As a result a simple fracture may be made worse, even to the extent of becoming compound. Place the child in a comfortable position by adjusting the head, arms and legs. Talk to him quietly and confidently, while waiting for a physician.

For scratches and cuts, wash with green soap or alcohol. Allow to dry and apply iodine. For nosebleed, allow the child to sit up with head inclined slightly backward. Place a cold compress to the back of the neck and a gauze or cotton pack under the upper lip. Press the nostrils, but do not permit blowing or cleaning. The blood hastens clot formation.

Rev. James Trammel to Go to Missouri

Sunday, October 6, Rev. Trammel will preach his final sermon before going to Chillicothe, Missouri, where he has been called to take charge of the Methodist church there. The Bishop from that conference asked that Rev. Trammel be transferred.

Rev. and Mrs. Trammel have been in Copperas Cove less than a year, having moved here last November. While they have made many friends and it is with regret that we see them go, Rev. Trammel has been doing a very worthwhile work in the Copperas Cove church and it has been a privilege to know these good people.

On Monday, Rev. and Mrs. Trammel will leave for their new home and the Crony joins with the people of Copperas Cove in wishing them much success.

There will be regular services at the church next Sunday with the Presiding Elder, Rev. Bergen, delivering the morning sermon, and Rev. Trammel at the evening hour.

It is our understanding that this church will be without a pastor until annual conference which takes place in November.

John L. Herzog Installed At Mart

John L. Herzog, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Herzog, of Copperas Cove, was ordained and installed in the Mart Lutheran Church as minister in the Sunday morning service, September 29. The Rev. E. H. Heckman officiated. Rev. Herzog has been an interne in that church for almost a year.

John was born near Copperas Cove and has lived here all his life having attended the Lutheran Christian day school, later attending Antelope School. He then attended St. John's College where he graduated with high honors. He studied theology at Concordia Seminary at St. Louis, Mo., where he graduated in 1934.

Rev. Herzog will also have charge of the Battle church, but will continue to make his home in Mart.

Those attending the service from here were John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Herzog and children and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kriegel.

Revival Meeting Begins Next Sunday

A revival meeting will begin next Sunday, October 6, at the M. E. church, where Rev. O. C. Raeke is pastor. Rev. W. L. Horning of Perry will be the evangelist. He will arrive Monday afternoon.

All night services will be in the English language. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings services will be in the German language.

Night services begin at 7:30. A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend the meeting.

P. T. A. Holds First Meeting of Year

The P-T. A. met at the school house Tuesday afternoon in a business meeting. The association will meet the first and third Tuesday of each month in the school house.

This year the P-T. A. plans two worthwhile projects in their year's program. First, to purchase a curtain for the new stage, and if possible, scenery. Second, to beautify the school grounds.

On October 26, the P-T. A. will hold their annual school carnival. This has been a success each year, and plans are being made for a bigger carnival than ever, this year.

The school auditorium will be formally opened with a play sponsored by the P-T. A. Mrs. J. C. Culwell, president, will direct the play. From past experience we know that it will be good entertainment if left in her capable hands.

This year the P-T. A. plans to do more than in the past and we can look back on last year's work with pride.

If you are not already a member come to the next meeting and join. The dues will continue to be 25c a year.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, October 16. Be there.

A comet approaching the sun from the depths of space has no tail and cannot be distinguished from a planet. When nearer the sun, the tail begins to grow and may reach a million miles in length. The tail does not stream out behind, but, because of repulsive forces, the tail always points away from the sun.

BREAKING EGGS FOR BREAKFAST

HAS it ever occurred to you that the French word déjeuner is a combination of the words "journer"—to fast—and "de" which means as a prefix "un", so, whether you "break-fast" or "un-fast" you're doing pretty much the same thing? But a French omelet is quite a different thing from a puffy omelet, although you have to break eggs to make both. Here's the Method for Making French Omelet: Beat four eggs slightly, just enough to mix the yellow and white. Add one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper and four tablespoons milk, water or cream. Put a small amount of butter in a hot skillet and shake around till it's well greased on bottom and sides. Pour in egg mixture, reduce heat and cook very slowly until creamy, constantly lifting the cooked portion at the sides with a knife or spatula to allow the uncooked mixture to run out and cook. When creamy all through, roll or fold over like a half-moon and serve at once.

Another Way

And here's the way to make a puffy omelet with exactly the same ingredients:

Beat four egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper and four tablespoons milk, water or cream. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into the yolks. Put a small amount of butter in a hot skillet and shake around till it's well greased on bottom and sides. Pour in egg mixture, reduce heat and cook very slowly until a golden brown on the bottom and the mixture is well puffed up. Then set skillet in the oven for a minute or two to dry off the top. Fold over like a half moon and serve at once.

But these two methods are not the only way of varying omelets by a long shot. You can make vegetable omelets, omelets with macaroni and tomato sauce, asparagus omelets, cheese omelets, fish omelets, jelly omelets, mushroom omelets and many more. Here are a couple made by the methods described above.

Try These Omelets

Asparagus Omelet: Make a French omelet of four eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper and four tablespoons cream, adding two tablespoons grated cheese just before pouring into skillet. Cut the all-green asparagus from a 10½-ounce can in half-inch pieces, heat, drain off any liquid, add one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon lemon juice and one teaspoon chopped parsley, and reheat. Spread over omelet just before folding. Serves four liberally.

Cheese and Spinach Omelet: Make a puffy omelet of four eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper, four tablespoons cream and one-third cup grated cheese, folding in the grated cheese with the beaten egg whites. Heat one cup canned spinach, drain, season to taste with butter, salt and pepper and spread on the omelet just before folding. Serves five.

NO RATTLE PROVIDED FOR BABY RATTLESNAKES

Strange as it may seem, the baby rattlesnakes has no rattle. Biologists of the United States Department of Agriculture say the young rattler has a button on the end of its tail at birth. Within a few days it sheds its skin; in 2 months it sheds its skin again, and then the first ring of the rattle appears. Shortly after these snakes are born the last 7 or 8 vertebrae fuse into a solid bone, the "shaker," around which the rings of the rattle form.

When a rattler sheds, all the skin comes off entire, wrong side out—all except the part that covers the cap on the tail, which cannot come off because of the shape. This part of the skin, however, is dislodged and moves backward to become an additional ring on the rattle. The rattling noise is made by these rings of dry skin jiggling around when the snake vibrates his shaker. The biologists say a snake seldom has more than 10 rings because the vibration at the tip is so great that the terminal rings wear out or are broken off.

Biologists do not believe a lot of the notions about snakes. They say a rattler's years are not the same as the number of rings he has accumulated on his shaker. Normally one ring is added every time the skin is shed, and this is usually three times a year. But not all these snakes are alike in shedding. Some shed twice a year and some as many as four times.

Another thing, the biologists don't believe nature gave the rattlesnake his rattler as a warning device. They believe it is a call of use to them particular in the breeding season. Anyway, it is an effective warning and saves the rattlers a lot of bother.
