PIED PIPER WAS HERE WITH "KIDS" BUT NO "RATS"

Long about 10 ante meridian, Saturday, the playful notes of about a jillion "little bits" of the surrounding country side and town sounded like an equal number of Pied Piper's as they literally stormed a local movie palace to see "Pop-eye" and other features including the team, Todd and Kelly in "Slightly Static." The hook-up was a Palace-Painter & Lee setup, the whistles from P & L and the show at the Palace, in Gatesville, not Hamlin.

Funeral Rites Held For Mrs. Jap N. Adams' At Carlton Sunday

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Carlton Baptist Church for Mrs. Jap N. Adams, Sr., mother of Mrs. C. A. Morton, wife of Pastor C. A. Morton of the First Baptist church of Gatesville.

Mrs. Ola Mae Parks of Gatesville played softly an old hymn while Jack Moore of Hamilton led the family to their seats. The choir composed of singers from Carlton, Hico, Hamilton and Gatesville sang "What A Friend We Have In Jesus," and "The Great Physician" while a male quartet from Gatesville sang "In The Land Where We Never Grow Old."

Rev. C. T. Aly, pastor of the Carlton Baptist church presided. Rev. E. H. Gibson of Carlton offered a prayer, Rev. John D. West read the 14th chapter of John and Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Stephenville, delivered the tribute to the life and works of this devoted wife, faithful mother and Christian woman.

Pall bearers were Herbert B. Gordon, H. W. Henderson of Hamilton, Fred Gordon, Olin J. B. Pool and L. N. Lane of Hico and S. B. Everett of Carlton. Interment followed in the Carlton Cemetery the benediction being pronounced by Rev. Buford Nichols, pastor of the First Baptist church of Hamilton.

Mrs. Adams whose maiden name was Sally Perdue, was born near Corsicana, Texas, May 23 1866. She came with her parents in 1875 to Hamilton county where they settled at Old Hico and later on Honey Creek.

May 9, 1883 Miss Perdue was married at her home near Olin to Jap N. Adams, who survives along with four of her children, Jap Adams, Jr., Cross Plains; Tull V. Adams, Mrs. A. L. Weiser, Houston, and Mrs. Clarence A. Morton, Gatesville. Two brothers also survive, Jim Perdue, Plainview and Baylor Perdue, Haskell.

In 1933 Mr. and Mrs. Adams celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary at the Carlton Baptist Church. With the exception of some twenty years spent in Runnells county, the greater part of their lives were spent in Hamilton county, over fifty years. And for some fifty-two years, they were members of the Baptist church. They were among the early settlers of Hamilton county, pushing back the Indians and helping to lay the foundations for the civic, educational and religious life of Central Texas.

A large number of friends attended from Hamilton, Coryell, Comanche and Erath counties. Those from Gatesville were Miss Ruth Martin and party, Dan E. Graves, Gus Barsch, Mr. and Mrs. Troy H. Jones, Curtis Rogers, Jeff Bates, Frank Wilson, Mrs. M. W. Lowrey, Mr. J. M. Prewitt, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ramsey, Edgar Franks, Garner Stockburger, John G. Morse, J. O. Brown and Mary Brown, J. D. Farmers to Poll on Hog Program for 1936 All Parts of County 26th

Nine polling places, where Coryell County farmers can cast their votes in the nationwide corn-hog referendum on Saturday, October 26, have been set up in the county, it is announced by Guy Powell, County Agricultural Agent.

Only one question will be on the ballot: Are you in favor of a corn-hog adjustment program to follow the 1935 program which expires Nov. 30, 1935? All operators and owners, or their official representatives, of farms which produced corn or hogs in 1935 may vote whether they signed 1934 or 1935 corn-hog contracts or not. Each eligible person is entitled only to one vote.

The schedule of the polling places, which will be open from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m., together with the corn-hog committeemen who will be in charge, is as follows:

- Turnersville School House,—Purlmela School House with J. H. Hudson, Committeeman in charge.
- Pearl School House with John Waddill, Committeeman in charge.
- Flat School House with E. F. Miller, Committeeman in charge.
- Antelope School House with C. C. Hubbard and C. B. Powell, Committeemen in charge.
- Osage School House with G. J. Wolf, Committeeman in charge.
- Pidcoke School House with Hugo Haage and P. D. Littlefield, Committeemen in charge.
- Oglesby School House with Otto Martin and J. T. Davidson Committeemen in charge.
- Gatesville, County Agent's Office with W. E. Hayes, Committeeman in charge.

County results of the referendum will be wired to state headquarters at College Station by Monday noon, and the state results, in turn, will be sent to Washington by Tuesday.

Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program point out that unless a sufficient number of farmers vote favorably, there will be no program. The administration must be assured that a sufficient number of farmers will participate to make a program operative and successful.

Facts upon which farmers can base their judgment have been presented at a series of community meetings. Evidence was presented to show and livestock members are far out of line with feed supplies as a result of the drought. With plentiful supplies of cheap feed in prospect and with rapid rebuilding of swine numbers possible, farmers and consumers face the prospect that the next three years may bring the greatest increase in hog production that the country has ever seen in a similar period and consequent disastrous hog prices.

During the past 45 years there have been ten such violent ups and downs or cycles.

BARBECUED BULLY BEEF THROWN TO LIONS, LIONESSES & GUESTS

Lions, Lionesses and their guests feasted on barbecued beef, coffee, potato chips, salad, ice cream and other delicacies in Raby Park Friday evening of last week.

Features of the program which followed in the gym, for this Ladies Night, were vocal numbers by Miss Robbie D. Simpson, Beverly Chamlee, well rendered recitations by Mrs. Claude Wallace, allegedly descriptive as the head of that family, the one and only Claude—a wee bit 'o Scotch, mind ye.

"The Wanderers," Dallas Synchopation tribe were personified by three visitors from Hamilton including Dalton Cathey, Buddy Smith and Sam Harlick, who twanged and picked their way into the evening's entertainment, thanks being due Jack W. Walker, big Lion Prexy from the nearby Hamilton Den, and Mrs. Walker.

Coach Worley, proved without a shadow of a doubt that he develops other items besides "Phantom half-backs and elusive ends" by putting on a "flat time extravaganza" including, mostly, the "flat tires of the WC division of the local hibernatorium (those that were there.) His act, was an imitation automobile, with tires, engine, spare, lights, tail light, and the whole conglomeration had considerable trouble getting over county highways until it struck Hwy 7 (Park Avenue) when lion Hedgpath was uncerimoniously dumped over the hill busting into the "sewed up end" of this wonderful achievement.

All in all, everyone had their fill, so full, in fact that when a game of "blow football" was started, the RE came out at the low end of the score, some alledging the referee, Mrs. Frank L. Williams, to be partial to the WC's, account, friend husband.

World Comment

By JOE BURNS

Further measures designed to strangle Italy economically and force it to abandon the war against Ethiopia were invoked last week by the League of Nations. In the greatest collective action of nations against a war-maker in history, fifty-two nations representing every member of the League bound themselves to a complete boycott of all Italian exports and an embargo on the export to Italy of products which should be used in the prosecution of the war. Austria and Hungary, bound to Italy with strong economic ties, refused to vote for the resolutions in their entirety and Switzerland voted with reservations.

That any nation but Great Britain will abide by these resolutions you must not believe. While France concurred with the wishes of John Bull and supported the sanctions movement, French banks loaned Italy $50,000,000 and in Paris the fact leaked out that Suez Canal tolls on Italian troop ships and war boats have thus far been paid entirely by French banks. When the Swiss delegate in Geneva announced that "no matter what engagements Switzerland assumes or has assumed as a League member, it will preserve as paramount to her safety the historic principle of Swiss neutrality," members realized that it was just a high flung way of saying that Switzerland will let Italy buy from or across her whatever Mussolini needs. And Sweden, while voting to restrict Italian imports, tabled the subject of restricting Swedish exports to Italy. And, while Brazil's National Assembly was passing a resolution condemning the African war, Brazilian businessmen offered meat and coffee to Italy in exchange for cash. And Il Duce can still buy from the U. S., you must remember.

As pointed out last week in this column, a boycott against Italy can not be effective because nations are always ready to sell but not buy. Mussolini can continue to fight in Africa for at least a year, regardless of the League's action. This is based on the assumption that his cash will hold out for that period and that French banks will continue to extend credits.

On the front, General de Bono's 110,000 troops in the north are still working to consolidate their position. In the south, the Somaliland army under General Graziani, "Italy's ablest colonial fighter," is creeping north, fighting hard and making more progress than did the northern armies in their advance. In this region of rolling desert country, roads mean nothing and the advance is from water hole to water hole.

The next objective of the northern army will be the town of Makale, 100 miles south of Aduwa, the new Italian base. Here Haile Selassie's troops are expected to put up their first stiff resistance to the advancing Fascists and here the Italians troubles are expected to begin. For, as they advance and lengthen their lines of communication, the Italians will be constantly threatened, by raids from the Lake Tana region. Italy dares not invade this territory because Great Britain jealously guards the water surface, to decide whether to reserves in the Lake for Egypt and the Sudan. Reports say huge sums of money are being offered chieftains of this region by the Italians to desert, as did Haile Selassie's son-in-law, Ras Gugsa. Those wisest in the ways of war also point out that when Mussolini's troops reach Addis Ababa, their lines of communication will be stretched out more than 500 miles! And then the guerrillas can really go to work! This is the chief problem of the Italians as they advance. General de Bono can advance only as fast as his engineers can build roads. Each mile he progresses means that he must drop off troops to cover these communications. Thus, the more territory he absorbs, the more vulnerable he becomes.

If the southern army succeeds in taking Harar and cutting the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railroad, Mussolini may be content with the strip of territory that will then be in the possession of his three armies. His two colonies, Eritrea and Somaliland, could be connected and the chief object of the campaign accomplished. Many believe that de Bono will advance no farther than Makale and that Graziani will stop at Harar. Secret peace negotiations now being carried on by Italy, France and Britain indicate that Mussolini would be content with only a part of Ethiopia.

Haile Selassie, on the other hand, has repeatedly stated that not one square mile of Ethiopian territory would be ceded to Italy.

The navy, general staff and President Roosevelt are not worried about the Ethiopian situation but are watching closely events in the Pacific. Japanese army leaders continue to talk about establishing a new independent state out of the North China provinces. Military and naval intelligence reports indicate that Japan has plans for taking not merely North China but eastern Siberia, Hongkong and South China, and even the Dutch East Indies at some early date. This is what has furrowed the brows of naval and military strategists and even of the president himself. They are not particularly concerned about Japan biting off a piece of Siberia. But for that nation to march down the China coast, develop the tremendous resources of the Yangtze valley, the rich markets of south China and corner the oil wells of the Dutch East Indies, would make her not only invincible in the Pacific but one of the most powerful nations in the world.

This is why the state, war and navy departments are watching so intently the next move of Great Britain and the use of its powerful fleet. For it is axiomatic that once the British fleet becomes definitely involved in the Mediterranean, the Japanese cut loose in the Orient. It is also why the British are doing a lot more thinking than appears on the

TOOK OFF 17 LBS. OF UGLY FAT

HEEDED DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Mrs. Robert Hickey, Roseville, Calif., writes: "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in 6 weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to gossipers who said there was no safe way to reduce. She wisely followed her doctor's advice. Why don't YOU?

Get a jar of Kruschen to-day (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle). Simply take half teaspoonful in cup of hot water every morning. All druggists.

Confidential reports indicate that the British admiralty is not seriously worried about the Italian fleet. British warships could wipe the Italian navy off the Mediterranean, the admiralty figures. But in doing so the British would lose at least two or three battleships and three or four cruisers and such a loss would mean a British navy inferior to Japan's. It would also mean a free hand for Japan in the Far East—where the British have $300,000,000 invested and a valuable trade.

Mussolini knows this. The last thing he wants is war with the British, but he figures Britain will back down. Russia can not be of assistance to Britain in the Far East because the minute Moscow is engrossed with Japan, Poland and Germany will bite off the Ukraine.

Therefore, the only country which can be of material assistance to the British is France. Hence the constant dickerings between London and Paris. French support for the British has been reported, denied, reported. No matter what the final official decision may be, the real fact is that the French people and the government are anything but enthusiastic about backing the British. If the French help Britain against Italy, they want one concrete pledge in return saying that Britain will go down the line for France against Germany.

THE NEW RELIEF POLICY

Instructions to remove from the relief rolls the names of any able bodied persons who refuse WPA jobs strikes at the core of a widespread criticism and dissatisfaction against the federal recovery plan, and should work justice to all persons concerned.

The specific provision is made that those unable to work will remain on the rolls and that those with temporary private employment report to the WPA office and seek leave to continue with the temporary vocation.

The charge is often made unfairly that persons on relief would not work and do not want to engage in labor. As to the rank and file of unfortunates out of employment, the charge is an unjust one.

But as always there exists a class, however small, which either feels the world owes them a living or else is content merely to eke out an existence without any toil and at the cost of the taxpayer. These few chiselers no longer will be Government charges, and dwindling relief funds will be distributed more equitably among those who need it.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

FEDERAL COTTON CONTROL

In a masterly analysis of the Federal AAA cotton control program, and the disappointing results it has obtained when measured in terms of failure to appreciably effect world price levels, Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas, arraigns the acreage reduction and curtailed production schemes, the Bankhead law and price-pegging and other forms of meddling with the free movement of the South's chief agricultural commodity, in a series of articles just concluded on The News' Business-Agriculture Page.

Most challenging of his statements is that which shows that the net result of all these efforts is of special benefit to foreign competitors instead of to our own people. This is borne out by statistics showing an increased foreign production of some 3,500,000 bales since 1933, as well as a 3,000,000-bale increase in consumption of foreign cotton over American during the last season. In many other ways, Dr. Cox shows that the whole American cotton industry has been the loser as a result of interference by Government agencies.

Those interested in the fine points of world prices in terms of gold will find a compelling array of data in Dr. Cox's arraignment of claims that restrictive measures in force are responsible for the increase in the price of cotton. On the contrary he shows that it was devaluation of the dollar which is responsible for practically all of the rise. The Texas economist shows that in terms of gold there has been an insignificant increase, as evidenced by comparing the market price of 6.88c a pound in April, 1933, with that of 11.70c in April, 1935, apparently a gain of almost 100 per cent, but actually of only .02c, equivalent to 15c a bale.

The farm problem has not been solved, Dr. Cox avers, and he does not believe it can be solved by present restrictive methods. After all AAA's control efforts, the prospective world supply of cotton, due largely to foreigners increasing their production as fast as the South reduces its own, stands at some 39,000,000 bales, only 2,857,000 below the all-time high of 41,857,000 in 1933.—Dallas Morning News.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. WILLIE MAE SWIFT OWENS

It is with a sad heart and a feeling of unworthiness, to try to write of this dear girl's life and death.

Willie Mae was born July 13, 1914 at Osage, and has lived the 19 years of her life in and near Osage.

She was married to Hardy Owens January 27, 1931. Two children were born to this union, Gladys Mae, 3 years old and Marnell, 2 months.

She leaves besides her husband and children, her mother, father, sisters and brothers, and a number of other relatives. She joined the Baptist church at Osage when she was twelve years old. She said many times she wasn't afraid to die; at other times she would say she didn't mind dying. She was sick but a few days. Everything was done that could be done for her.

Willie Mae was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Swift. She has 6 brothers and 4 sisters living. Elmer, Dee, Calvin and Euell of Osage; Robert and Crosly of Abilene, Mrs. Ollie Weeks of Waco; Mrs. Alford McAdams of Osage; Mrs. U. L. Rhodes and Mrs. W. H. Coleman of Oglesby.

Services were held at Osage by Rev. Brooks Sasse and Rev. G. L. Derrick. Interment was made in the Cemetery there.

Pall bearers were the six brothers who carried her so lovingly and tenderly to her last resting place, just as the sun was shining. Her grave was covered with beautiful flowers from loved ones and friends.

There her precious body will lie until her Saviour calls her with a host of others on the resurrection morn. Her spirit is now singing praises around the Throne of God.

Willie Mae died October 11 in a Waco hospital. We know her father, mother and sisters miss her so; they were always trying to help her in some way, and the young husband, who

SYNOPSIS
 Captain Michael Andrews, attached to a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is captured by Kurdish irregulars but rescued when the supposed leader of the Kurds turns out to be a mysterious British secret service agent who calls himself "Smith." While steering the Balkan, an Armenian tribe, to a place of safety across the mountains and away from the Kurds, Andrews battles with Smith when he sees the latter kill Cullen, an enemy spy, in cold blood. Andrews' leg is broken and he is sent to a British hospital in Cairo, where he falls in love with his nurse, Rosemary. When he asks her to marry him, she tells him that she is already married.

CHAPTER V
 As Rosemary turned and started to run blindly from the balcony, he stopped her once more.

"Sit here," he commanded, forcing her down on a bench. "I want to know all about this before I let you go. Where's your husband?"

"I don't know," she sobbed.

"Does that mean you've left him?"

"No."

"Did he leave you?" The girl shook her head.

"Are you mad or am I? What is this nonsense?"

"I was married just before the war," she answered huskily.

"When it broke out, John was sent away on intelligence work. Since then I've had no word from him in three years. If I hadn't turned to nursing, I think I'd have gone mad. Then I got... sort of numb... about everything. But now... but now..." She looked at Andrews and bit her lip to stop it trembling.

"You poor child." All his harshness gone, he looked at her tenderly.

"Do you love him?"

"I don't know," she answered, putting her hand to her head.

"Did you love him?"

"I don't know that either. I mean... I wonder if I can explain? I mean that John was so completely in love with me that my own feelings were sort of swamped in his. He's... a very strange person. I... oh, do you understand?"

"I think so," he answered slowly.

"Now, do you love me?"

"Yes." Her voice was calm with assurance.

"Has it struck you," he continued still more slowly, "that perhaps you're... well, worrying yourself when there isn't any need?"

"You mean that John may be... may not be alive?"

"That's the first thing we must find out."

"But didn't I tell you that I've tried and tried?"

"Let me try. Maybe I can pull some wires." Then, seeing that she had begun to cry, he interrupted with gentle firmness. "Stop that. We're going back to the hospital now..."

But the next morning, just after Andrews had telephoned to assure her of his love and make an appointment for the evening, Rosemary received an important call from the matron.

"Tell me you're better," he pleaded as he sat beside the divan on which she was resting.

She hurried to the office to find not the matron, but a man standing there with his back toward her. He turned as she entered and she looked into the glowing eyes of her husband—John Stevenson.

Although he was clean shaven, except for a small mustache, and was dressed in the British uniform, he was the same man whom Michael Andrews had known as Smith in the Armenian desert.

"Rosemary," he said softly, an almost fanatical gleam in his eyes as he stepped forward to greet her.

All the blood drained from the girl's face. She opened her mouth as if to speak, but no sound came forth. She put a hand to her forehead, swayed and would have fallen had not Stevenson leaped forward and caught her in his arms.

When Rosemary recovered she discovered that her husband had arranged for her to take leave at the hospital and had taken her to an apartment which he had rented.

"Tell me you're better," he pleaded as he sat beside the divan on which she was resting. "Then I can stop reproaching myself for frightening you so."

"I'm sorry." She looked about her dully. "Where have you brought me?"

"This is our house that I got for you before I'd let myself see you; the house where we're going to forget we've been apart. I've got leave, my darling! Leave! Six whole ecstatic months of it, for both of us."

"But... but..." cried the girl, stirred from her apathy.

"Do you know what Hell is?" her husband rushed on. "Do you? It isn't a place where you sit on red fire while devils torture you. It isn't being cold or starving or dying from want of water. It isn't watching death creep up a mountain side. It isn't any of those things!... It's just being with-out you."

Rosemary did not answer. She was staring straight ahead. Then her eyes closed and she sank back onto the divan. Stevenson picked up her hands and carried them to his lips.

In the meantime Andrews had become worried when Rosemary did not keep her appointment with him. He hurried to the hospital and talked to one of the nurses who had been her best friend.

"It's awfully odd, Captain Andrews," Nurse Rowlands told him. "I can't make head nor tail of it. Rosemary's got special leave! Six months! And she's gone without saying good-bye to anyone."

"Gone?" Andrews was aghast and bewildered.

"Yes. And even Matron's orderly doesn't know anything."

"I see." His shoulders sagged.

"Well... thanks awfully, nurse."

"She's sure to be writing to you," Nurse Rowlands assured him brightly as he turned and limped from the ward.

TO BE CONTINUED

"Tell me you're better," he pleaded as he sat beside the divan on which she was resting.

FOOTBALL SPORTLITE

As Presented by Ted Harris, News' Sports Editor, giving his views on Sports in Coryell County and Surrounding Territory.

Hornets Luck-Out to Defeat West 15-6 Friday

Last Friday afternoon in the poorest game the locals have played this season, a band of fighting West Trojans led by their backfield ace, Dvoracek, were defeated 15-6. The Hornets because of three previous West defeats by large scores, seemed to think the Trojans would fold up before them, but were sadly and near disastrolously mistaken.

The game started with Gatesville receiving and making a first down, but then having to punt, Dvoracek for the Trojans reeled off a nice run around the Hornet right end and later repeated but a penalty set West back. The rest of the quarter was spent in mid field with a few nice gains by both teams but with locals playing very listless football.

The second period was largely a repetition of the first with the Hornets half-heartedly playing but with clearly the best team. About midway of the period with the Trojans always carrying the fight, a pass was good to Dvoracek in the clear behind the secondary, and he raced untouched for a touchdown. The attempt at conversion was missed. The half ended without further scoring.

At the start of the third quarter the Hornets began to show signs of awakening but the offense was still only good in midfield. The Trojans, to show that their first half attack was not just a flash in the pan, started a drive and carried the pigskin to the three yard stripe where on fourth down a high pass from center enabled the Hornets to take the ball on about their own fifteen yard line. The quarter ended shortly after with the score West 6, Gatesville 0. The Hornets offense clicked off as many first downs as did West this period but nothing like a score resulted.

Dvoracek, completely exhausted by his heroic efforts, was replaced and the Gatesville cause was greatly helped. "Tooter" Hall, who has great possibilities but had failed so far this year to get started, replaced Byrom in the Hornet backfield and the fireworks started. Two passes, Hair to Hall, the second one a sensational catch by the latter, with line plunges, carried the leather to the three yard line where West took the ball on downs. In attempting to punt out the West kicker was rushed and the kicked blocked, rolling over the end zone for a safety. Taking the place kick by West, following the safety, the Hornets started another drive and the badly worn visitors saw Culberson take a lateral and race over for a touchdown. The extra point was missed leaving the score Gatesville 8, West 6. Taking the next kick off and missing the offensive services of Dvoracek, the Trojans had to punt and Culberson broke thru to block it, followed by McDonald, who took the ball in the air and raced for a touchdown. A pass Hair to McDonald, made good the extra point. A few minutes later the game ended with Gatesville playng quite a few reserves and in possession of the ball deep in West territory. The final score being Gatesville 15, West 6.

Gatesville rolled up 21 first downs to nine by West, but so inconsistent was the play of the Hornets for three periods that 11 of the first downs were absolutely wasted. In the matter of first downs, Gatesville had the edge in every period, but not until the last quarter when they made 10, did they take advantage of them.

In the first half the Hornets had three men who seemed to realize they had a football game to play. Clark at left end, Myers at left tackle and Dickie in the backfield. They played great football the first half and continued to do so the second half joined by McDonald and Davis in the line and Hair and Hall in the backfield. The play of the usually consistent Culberson was not up to par until the last quarter when he finally hit his stride to play a big part in the victory. Davis played his best game of the season in the second half and hats off to "Tooter" Hall whose inspired play for one quarter turned the tide of the game.

West presented a scrapping bunch of youngsters and in Dvoracek they have an all district back. Had he remained in the game the outcome might have been different.

As poor as was the play of the Hornets for three periods, the attendance was even poorer. The largest crowd of the year remained at home. The fighting spirited play of the team this year is deserving of better support, and the Hornet Club, the school officials and coaches who are striving to give Gatesville a winning team should have the help of every citizen in their efforts to do so.

FOOTBALL CHATTER

By TEDDY

The Hornets learned in their game with West, in what liked to have been a costly lesson, that no matter how good a team thinks it is the opposition does not always hold the same good opinion. So cookey and so sure were the locals of a victory over West that a far inferior team outplayed them for three-fourths of the game, and lost only in the last quarter after the visitors' had lost the services of their ace performer.

In Dvoracek, West presented a strong candidate for all-district honors. He calls the signals, is a devastating runner and good blocker. He displayed more in Friday's game in all around ability than Amelunke, McGregor great backfield performer and standout for district honors.

And speaking of all district selections, Myers of the locals, if he keeps up his present pace, will be mightly hard to beat out for a place as will one or two others with a little improvement.

The attendance last Friday was disgusting and to show their appreciation for the efforts put forth by the Hornet Club and the coaches, the local fans should each act as a committee of one to see that an overflowing crowd is present at the game with Moody Nov. 1

Coaches Harry Chambless of Mart and T. H. Jenkins of McGregor were in attendance at the game here Friday and were bemoaning the fact that Gatesville had their elevens badly out classed in the matter of material. As for McGregor this is a bunch of "hooley." The number of men reporting for places may be quite a few more, but the man power lies in favor of McGregor. I imagine the same can be said for Mart.

Now the fistic fans get another break, at least, those of us who can't go, when the gong sounds for a real bang up fight such as the Louis-Baer set-to.

This week at one of the local movie palaces fans will be privileged to see the "Brown Bomber" put the "baer" on Broadway's Maxie, which will be slowed down so that we can see exactly "how he done it."

Due to Slump in Interest Locals To Play Mart There Friday Nite

By TRUMAN BLANTON
Staff Sports Writer

Because of the lack of interest shown by local fans and a depleted treasury, the Gatesville-Mart football game originally scheduled to be played on the local gridiron, has been transferred to Mart to be played Friday evening starting at 7:15. It is to be regretted that lack of interest on the part of local fandom is such that this game must be played elsewhere. It works a hardship on both the team, which still has a chance at district honors, and on the local faithful fans who will be unable to attend the game at Mart. It is a "black eye" to civic pride and although the move is also destined to improve the at-home schedule next year, the real cause is as I have stated, the poor attendance as was shown at the West game last Friday. Since the transfer, Hornet stock has taken a drop. The chances of victory in Mart are rather slim whereas the outcome before was a 50-50 proposition. Mart has beaten Teague 13-0, Itasca 12-0, and lost to Hillsboro 25-6 and to Groesbeck 2-0.

SAILING THRU LIFE

With M. LEDNAR

No good sensible working bee listens to the advice of a bed-bug on the subject of business. Apparently business has shifted gears—from reverse to low—and on the verge of shifting to intermediate. Perhaps it will be back in high again in a reasonable length of time. We have learned a great lesson. The lean days should have developed initiative in the average individual.

When we complain about our minor physical ailments, we should remember that Renoir did much of his great painting after he was paralyzed, holding his brush between his teeth.

It is estimated that about one hundred and forty-three billions of human beings have lived on earth in the six thousand years since Adam's creation. What has become of this vast multitude? What is, and is to be, their condition? Did God make no provision for these, whose condition and circumstances he must have foreseen? Or did he, from the foundation of the world make a wretched and merciless provision for their hopeless, eternal torment as many christian people claim? Or has he yet in store for them, in the heights and depths and lengths and breadths of his plan, an opportunity for all to become obedient to the conditions, to enjoy everlasting life.

To these questions, which every man asks himself, and yearns to see answered truthfully, comes a variety of answers:

Atheism answers: They are eternally dead. There is no hereafter; they will never live again.

Calvinism answers: They were not elected to be saved. God foreordained and predestined them to be lost—to go to hell—and they are there now, writhing in agony, where they will ever remain, without hope.

Arminianism answers: We believe that God excuses many of them on account of ignorance. Those who did the best they knew how will be sure of being a part of the Church of the first-born, even though they never heard of Jesus.

To this last view the majority of Christians of all denominations assent (notwithstanding the creeds of some of the contrary). The Scriptures do not teach that ignorance is a ground of salvation. The only ground of Salvation mentioned in the Scriptures is faith in Christ as our Redeemer and Lord. Justification by faith is the underlying principle of the whole system of Christianity.

There is nothing new about beauty culture—it is really an ancient art, revived.

When a few daring girls in World War days bobbed their hair they started a boom in the beauty shop business which even the depression hasn't been able to dent.

America leads the world in beauty shops. A vast industry has grown up employing over a million girls. Other millions are employed in the manufacture of cosmetics and perfumes.

Every cross-road section and hick town has a beauty shop or beauty parlor. With the industry constantly expanding the wonder of it is that American women were so slow to become beauty shop concious.

Beauty culture had become a fine art in China long before Marco Polo was bitten with wanderlust. Even then, Chinese maidens were as familiar with hair pomades, nail stains and lip salves as the girl of today.

Beauties of ancient Egypt thought well of mud packs for the good of their complexions. The siren of the ages, Cleopatra, is reputed to have favored milk baths to keep her skin smooth and supple. So beauty culture is not new; It is an old Art gone commercial.

A large group of patrons cooperated Saturday in cleaning off the school ground. We appreciate their interest very much.

3rd. and 4th. Grade News
The third and fourth grades are entering their work with a spirit to learn. We have a nice size class of 15 to each class, and extra good attendance.

The third grade is particularly interested in making posters of the farm home, which is the project being studied in geography. The fourth grade has decorated the room with good health posters.

We were very glad to have our visitors last week. They were Miss Louise Smith, Minnie Ray McGee, and little Miss Nova Clawson.

Longer Lines in Ford V-8 for 1936

THE LONGER and more graceful lines of the Ford V-8 for 1936 are well illustrated in this view of the popular De Luxe Tudor Sedan. The new longer hood extends gracefully over the attractive new radiator grille. Wide streamlined front fenders, with an imposing flare, shroud the tires and house the horns behind chromium grilles. New design steel wheels with 12½-inch hub caps are handsome and easy to clean. Bucket-type front seats are exceptionally comfortable. This body type, of welded steel like all Ford V-8 bodies, is also available without de luxe appointments at lower cost.

5th. and 6th. Grades

We are a wide awake group of boys and girls who have begun our work with much interest. We have done lots of work on our room making it a desirable place for work. We appreciate the work that was done on the school grounds by the community last Saturday.

Lester Whaley had the misfortune of breaking both arms while climbing a tree. We envy him when time for writing comes.

We are proud of our new geography books. They are attractive as well as interesting.

...but, after all is said and done, it's the cigarette itself that counts
... the question is, does it suit you?

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you . . . you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident . . .

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobaccos to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

Outstanding
.. for mildness
.. for better taste
